We should ban censorship. The irony is that the exact mentality behind this banwave - not too many years ago - would have prevented feminism, civil rights, LGBT etc.

Shame on them. There can be no progress without dialogue, criticism and engaging with views you dislike.

L_ysk • 28 points • 13 September, 2018 05:38 AM

Shame on them. There can be no progress without dialogue, criticism and engaging with views you dislike.

Absolutely. Here's a good watch on that topic:

Brendan O'Neill's speech at Oxford about the right to offend.

[deleted] • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 05:57 AM

If we were to have a dialogue everyone would become right wing and they know can't have that so they'll call us hateful, racist, and Nazis. But I feel like it's all ready too late.

TheRealBabyCave • -36 points • 13 September, 2018 02:58 AM*

Let's stop pretending that someone who genuinely believes in ethnic cleansing needs to be engaged through discourse.

We fought a war against certain ideas. Not all ideas are equal. Calling certain dangerous and toxic beliefs "views you don't like" is the intellectual equivalent of calling Cyanide a "flavor you don't like."

Your high horse is down in a ravine.

Edit:

A lot of repeat questions missing the point of my comment, either purposefully or not.

My comment was not singling out a user or claiming someone is pushing violence.

My comment is only that the notion that ideas can or should only be combatted through discourse is heavily flawed thinking. There are numerous beliefs and ideas that are impervious to discourse, or shout or act over discourse rendering it moot.

Ethnic cleansing was an example of one such belief I provided, but I was not claiming someone was pushing ethnic cleansing. I was only pointing out that it's of little use trying to explain to someone that your life holds value when they're in the middle of trying to kill you.

If you'd like a less extreme example, try explaining to someone intent on robbing your home that they should reconsider. Some ideas, typically those which come along with violent or hateful acts, can be immune to discourse, especially when the person who holds the belief employs a defense mechanism of calling all information, be they facts or opinions, that contest his/her ideas fake news.

BuddhistSC • 21 points • 13 September, 2018 04:28 AM

You're using the very popular but very ineffective strategy of labeling everyone who disagrees with you a "Nazi".

It works on people who already want to hate and disregard all contrary viewpoints, but anyone with a shred of objectivity won't buy it.

TheRealBabyCave • 0 points • 13 September, 2018 12:46 PM

I'm not labelling anyone a Nazi.

I'm pointing out that discourse doesn't work against certain ideas, and used ethnic cleansing as an example.

grandmasbroach • 1 point • 17 September, 2018 06:08 AM

Ethnic cleansing... Like, how the nazis did?

MAGAsquad • 17 points • 13 September, 2018 03:14 AM

What exactly are you talking about?

TheRealBabyCave • -5 points • 13 September, 2018 12:07 PM

Not all progress comes from dialogue and allowing people a platform to spread their sickness.

People are easily manipulated and controlled. When people with evil motives or lust for power find ways to warp the truth and push lies into the public psyche for their own betterment or to enslave or harm others, that kind of movement cannot always be stopped with "dialogue," especially when a vast majority of the believers have been indoctrinated into calling everything, even facts, that don't align with their beliefs "fake news."

When you rile up a base of people who begin harassing and sending death threats to others, there is no time to try and battle it with dialogue.

[deleted] • 3 points • 13 September, 2018 04:34 PM

People are easily manipulated and controlled.

Unless you're not a person this may as well happens to you but you're not aware of it.

WeAreWatchingAPlay • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 04:41 PM

Not all progress comes from dialogue and allowing people a platform to spread their sickness.

Your kind pushes the degenerate filth and platform to everything from child abusers to cannibals to pedophiles to people so insane they don't believe in gender and say it's in the name of "understanding" and "love". You are disgusting beyond belief.

TheRealBabyCave • 0 points • 13 September, 2018 04:50 PM

Uhh..

I definitely do not condone pedophilia, child abuse, or cannibalism.

Have you heard of Roy Moore?

WeAreWatchingAPlay • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 08:00 PM

I replied to the wrong thread

TheRedPike[M] • 14 points • 13 September, 2018 04:05 AM

Be specific. Is there someone advocating violence? Because if there is, I'm going to ban them.

Time limit here. I'm not a huge fan of hyperbole and platitudes.

(Inside protip: Jews are significantly over-represented in the TRP EC and mod staff.)

TheRealBabyCave • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 12:34 PM

My comment was not about a single user.

My comment was about the flawed conception that all ideas are equal, and I used ethnic cleansing as an example.

Not all ideas, especially violent ones, can be combatted through dialogue alone. That is the point.

Galbert123 • 3 points • 13 September, 2018 04:04 PM*

I'm surprised so many people here are missing your point. Not all ideas should be given a platform, such as pro ethnic cleansing. I get what youre saying.

However, I would argue that its a slippery slope once you start limiting discussion based on an "obviously bad idea" criteria. If theyre just talking, let the stupid arguement fail on its own merit. If the idea turns to acting violently, then yes, its time to act as well.

[deleted] • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 04:36 PM

Yes, it's like "not all ideas deserve a platform to be talked about" but then who decides which ideas deserve a platform? Him? Me? The Reddit CEO?

TheRedPike[M] • 3 points • 13 September, 2018 04:30 PM

It's not like people walk around with signs pinned to them that say things like "I Gas Jews," "Humans Are Tasty" or "Children Give The Best Handjobs." Evil must be allowed to expose itself so it can be managed.

Specific acts of violence are actionable. They will always be immediately removed and the user sanctioned.

As a reminder to everyone, this is The Red Pill. We are not a venue to talk about everything. Anything that is not on topic will be censored. That doesn't mean that speech should be censored everywhere.

TheRealBabyCave • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 04:40 PM

Anything that is not on topic will be censored. That doesn't mean that speech should be censored everywhere.

The juxtaposition in these statements is astounding:

"Anything we decide is not relevant to a discussion will be censored."

"Stop silencing us, even though we silence whatever we like."

TheRedPike[M] • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 05:14 PM

Need some more straw there?

You know who silences my speech here? Me. I don't talk about things that are off topic.

I'm not going to kick in the doors to other subs and tell them to stop their speech because it doesn't follow the rules of TRP.

Yet it would appear plenty of people have no problem behaving like that.

TheRealBabyCave • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 05:20 PM

Need some more straw there?

Your initial response to my original comment was clearly a strawman because you tried to distract from my initial point by inserting your own meaning into my comment, but you're going to suggest I'm employing strawman by pointing out the hypocrisy in your statements.

Cool. Glad I visited this sub.

redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 05:31 PM

You're in a forum that has a topic.

Without moderation, there is no topic.

You are conflating our removal of off-topic items from a topic-based forum with the idea that some topics don't deserve forums.

It's disingenuous.

TheRealBabyCave • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 06:04 PM

Disingenuity would be suggesting that all ideas should be free to be pushed and given a platform and complaining about a subreddit being banned, while simultaneously censoring ideas based on whatever convenient, subjective line of "relevancy" one decides the drafting of from one moment to the next.

The notion that censored comments are removed due to "relevancy" is a very obvious thin veil.

TheRedPike • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 08:19 PM

tried to distract from my initial point by inserting your own meaning

Weasel words.

Specifically what meaning was I inserting? My original comment was trying to find out what banned behavior was occurring that needed to be removed. That's my job. I couldn't quite get that from your vague and platitude filled comment.

TheRealBabyCave • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 08:40 PM

Weasel words

Nah, perfect English. Cut the insults, you're a mod. Behave like one.

My original comment was trying to find out what banned behavior was occurring that needed to be removed tried to distract from my initial point by inserting ~~your own meaning~~ the notion that I was calling out banned behavior.

Yep, you:

I couldn't quite get that from your vague and platitude filled comment.

My comment was neither vague nor platitudinous. I expressed very clearly that not all bad actors can be stopped through discourse, and allowing them a platform is not always a good idea, using genocide as an example of one of those ideas that could not be stopped through discourse alone.

Are we done here, or?

PmWhatUWantOutOfLife • 3 points • 13 September, 2018 05:24 AM

How else will you ever get them to broaden their view?

Relevant video <https://youtu.be/ORp3q1Oaezw>

It is only through discourse that we can obtain understanding.

[deleted] • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 11:59 AM

Where the fuck did you read the red pill is about ethnic cleansing?

poohead3 • 5 points • 13 September, 2018 07:32 AM

So the elite jews and politicians who are ethnically cleansing white countries shouldn't be argued with, and we ought to stop them with force? Sounds good to me.

RightWingDeathChad • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 01:19 PM

Who is even talking about ethnic cleansing?

WeAreWatchingAPlay • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 04:46 PM

If you bring up that South Africa is being ethnically cleansed, people ignore you. If you take note of patterns that are happening to "white" countries and call out that a literal invasion is occurring they call your racist. They are trying to end the white race and they think we need to encourage and push for this. It makes me sick. We don't advocate for ANY races to be cleansed - but by saying your race is in danger you're somehow the one advocating for it??

[deleted] • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 04:30 PM

If you'd like a less extreme example, try explaining to someone intent on robbing your home that they should reconsider. Some ideas, typically those which come along with violent or hateful acts

So you're saying that all I need to do is correlate hateful action with the person who poses an argument or claim in order to render all discussions with that person or group as futile and unworthy of consideration? Then the problem becomes "who decides what is hateful"? The person who gets offended? And who decides what is "hateful enough to not deserve debate"?

Is your horse so fucking high or are you high?

pm_me_tangibles • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 08:47 PM

uh, the vast majority of the left are just ignorant of the inevitable end-result of their ideology. by invoking ethnic cleansing you are using the exception to the rule to prove the rule.

theherosmyth • 1 point • 18 September, 2018 09:04 AM

What you're saying works in theory, but in reality we'd end up right back in the spot we find ourselves now. Not providing certain ideas a platform to be discussed sounds fair. If you want to talk about ethnically cleansing your country, maybe you shouldn't get to speak.

The problem is who gets to decide what topics are, or are not permitted to be discussed. Having the ability to not allow certain ideas a platform to be discussed is a powerful mechanism that will want to deploy for their own subjective notion of what is or isn't good.

Surely, we can all agree about certain topics that should be off limits, but soon enough we find ourselves on a slippery slope. Should people be allowed to discuss differences in intelligence between certain ethnic groups? Or about temperamental differences between the sexes? Or whether or not we should eat meat? For each topic, there'll be people who think those ideas are so preposterous that they should not be allowed to be discussed.

Look at this sub. What do we talk about here? The truth about intersexual dynamics, informed by evolutionary psychology and biology. I'm sure that doesn't fully cover the scope of what this sub is about, but it's besides the point. The fact of the matter is that these ideas, based on reality, can't be discussed openly without people wanting to shut it down.

The issue is about risk management. There are risks that come with letting such ideas be discussed. But there is also risks associated with disallowing certain topics to be discussed. At least if people are allowed to advocate stupid ideas in the open, these ideas can be refuted. Disallowing the discussion doesn't make it go away. It just goes into hiding.

Surely, we can all agree about certain topics that should be off limits, but soon enough we find ourselves on a slippery slope.

That's intellectually dishonest. There's very distinct line between mentioning the Holocaust in passing to someone or making an offer on color joke and actually passing out material on why we should be starting another one.

We can teach about the history of an idea and educate people on the dangers of an idea without allowing people a platform to actually push that idea. That is not an idea that deserves a platform to be shouted from, in fact, it's expressly dangerous to society.

What I'm talking about here is already in effect. People get arrested for all sorts of things that they say in public. Disorderly Conduct, Disturbing the Peace, even Conspiracy to Commit a Crime. I'm not saying anything new. I'm just telling it like it already is.

theherosmyth • 1 point • 18 September, 2018 06:03 PM

I think you missed my point. I agree with you on paper, and it strikes me as very common sense which topics shouldn't be allowed to be discussed (from one's subjective point of view).

What I was getting at is the fact that we share the planet with people that legitimately think not buying their radically progressive crap makes you worse than Hitler, looking at a woman for a second too long is equal to raping her, and saying or doing anything for the betterment of men makes you a patriarchal misogynist devil.

What I'm asking is, what if those people get to decide what is and isn't appropriate discussion material? Do you trust them to not abuse that power? The fact that people want to ban this sub perfectly illustrates my concern when regarding what some think should be censored.

ChummerLicious • -1 points • 13 September, 2018 03:09 PM

Tolerance of marxist ideologies is what allowed them to destroy essentially every great Western civilization in history.

Phaeer 1 points 14 September, 2018 08:17 AM [recovered]

Or have western civilization just failed at raising their youth to carry on their success? Censoring people because of a difference of opinion is not the answer regardless.

Feliponius • 1 point • 17 September, 2018 07:57 AM

Western civilizations have allowed subversive ideas to gain access to their facilities of education at every level. From preschool straight to college, where it's hold is strongest.

IkWhatUDidLastSummer • 3 points • 13 September, 2018 08:42 AM

Thats not group think, its common sense think. Everyone can see that the ideas that stems from the left are contradictory, eg. tolerance for islam yet being the ones who advocate the hardest for homosexual rights etc.

This entirely. Can't say I agree with everything that gets posted here, but that's no reason to ban a subreddit. Moreover, there are a lot of extremely salient issues that aren't discussed anywhere else.

There's no effective difference between this sub being banned and allowing it to be neutered by censure. I hope it stays up.

RedPilledRoaster • 3 points • 14 September, 2018 02:32 AM

Law 22: Use the surrender tactic: Transform weakness into power.

When you are weak, never fight for honor's sake; instead choose surrender instead. Surrender gives you time to recover, time to wait for his power to wane. Do not give him the satisfaction of fighting and defeating you-surrender first. By turning the other cheek, you infuriate and unsettle him. Make surrender a tool of power.

It isn't, they've already managed to ban the vast majority of subreddits that they wanted to. Including quite a few subreddits that clearly had no hate in them, other than thinking Trump was actually not going to fuck over the world.

I personally really don't like Trump, and I think he has screwed up a lot in many ways. However, just like I'm allowed to think and express that I don't like Trump, people should be allowed to think and express that they do like Trump.

(That being said, I also don't think Trump is the antichrist either. He's not a good president, but that could be said about virtually any of them)

I personally think there is a game being played by the world's most powerful to keep humanity's collective mind in a fear-state. So they are systematically shutting down any form of group conversation that doesn't invoke fear or terror in the subjects. 9/11, I think, was controlled and was done as a means of causing mass-trauma in our country/world. When you are traumatized, you can be programmed, basically, because of the fear that consumes the mind. When we are afraid, we make our worst decisions and consume more than we need. We distort reality when we are afraid, and we continue handing power over to those who act confident and those who tell us what is happening.

This is the truth. They want a single track narrative for EVERYTHING - they do NOT want discourse. They want us fearful and divided, as we're weak and controllable in that state. They want sheep that listen to authority and never question it. Someone has a lab coat on? Trust every single word that leaves their mouth. They - and I hope you know who I'm talking about - are really ramping it up and it's getting insane.

Fulp_Piction • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 08:42 AM

There's nothing wrong with leftist ideas/ideals, the problem is the self righteous bigotry and the manner in which the ideas are put a across.

In Ireland we're still sort of safe, but if you say you're conservative or right leaning in certain places then you're ostracised - a second class citizen almost.

ChummerLicious • -1 points • 13 September, 2018 03:08 PM

You know this isn't the town square, right? The owners of this site are free to choose what discourse they want published on thier site. Surely as a red blooded American you understand that?

Fulp_Piction • 3 points • 14 September, 2018 11:39 AM

Yep, absolutely, I'm all for a free market and control over what you own. As long as they can say 'hey we're stopping you guys discussing shit because we just don't like it, and would rather exist in our own bubble'. Fair enough.

I can only speak for myself and say the sidebar, the EC's and big writers in the manosphere generally hit the nail on the head. There are definitely people who don't like the message, and don't have to, free country etc. but for a lot of the people subbed here it's a net positive. It's just harsh truth. Yeah people take it too seriously, troll the page or give shitty advice when they're bitter - then get cherrypicked to support a narrative of 'neckbeard rapists hurr durr' but that's a weak and surface deep argument. TRP, with critical thinking and common sense, is way more beneficial to practically everyone than the bullshit alternatives. But who cares, give the hard left a haven and reap in the ad revenue.

If you want to explore and understand what happens when you protect people from harsh truth check out 1984, or Huxley's Brave New World. Huxley's in particular does a better job of explaining the point I'm trying to make than I can.

I know I went off on one there, but I think it's a good point so I'll leave it in.

Nah just seemed like a pretty low effort way to make yourself sound smart by spouting off well known dystopian fiction. Made me chuckle. As for TRP stuff, I'm of the opinion this sub is trash.

Fulp_Piction • 2 points • 15 September, 2018 01:51 PM

Here's some non-fiction!

ChummerLicious • -1 points • 15 September, 2018 02:30 PM

Thanks, but I'll still be keeping the opinion that TRP is mysoginistic trash.

chad9k • -2 points • 13 September, 2018 02:47 AM

I'm all for free speech but weren't they banned for brigading and targeting different people? Surely if that's what they're promoting, that's reasonable grounds for being banned?

Typ_calTr_cks • 6 points • 13 September, 2018 03:28 AM

Pick one.

humanoid12345 • 11 points • 13 September, 2018 12:29 AM

You are the problem.

Ill_mumble_that • 4 points • 13 September, 2018 05:55 AM

All speech is legitimate discourse (outside of violent threats). Just like you're legitimately reading this voluntarily. If it was all nonsense and untrue, you would simply ignore it and call it the ravings of a crazy person.

No, you want to ban it because what is said here is truth, and it bothers you. The truth bothers you so much that you can't stand it. You hate us here, yet you can't stop thinking about us.

The flat earth theory is complete and total bullshit, but people talk about it all day. You don't care, because they are lunatics. We aren't, and you know it. That is why you want to censor us instead of someone else.

BangkokPadang • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 07:34 AM

Impolite difficult speech is what must be protected.

Your qualifier that any given political affiliation's speech isn't really speech is itself anti free-speech.

I think this is the answer, ideally hosted in Russia with a proxy domain service to prevent take downs should it ever come to that. The only other option would be TOR but that would make it a lot harder to interact.

Darkone06 • 16 points • 13 September, 2018 02:11 AM

Russia?

Out of all the countries with more liberal internet laws you choose Russia?

Sweden and the pirate party would probably be a way safer bet.

platoonpluto • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 07:39 AM

I was taking the view of where would TRP views be least likely to be purged/banned. Couldn't see Russia banning TRP, could definitely see Sweden doing so.

Phaeer 1 points 13 September, 2018 01:23 PM [recovered]

Sweden must be one of the worst countries in this regard. They are a whole country full of SJW's, minus the 17% who just voted SD.

Darkone06 • 0 points • 13 September, 2018 02:35 PM

The pirate party takes internet freedom seriously. They haven't been able to take down the pirate Bay I think they could do more to help than Russia who would use this information for political gain.

Feminism is the logical progression of capitalism. Double the workers, double the tax base, lower the wages, etc. Not surprising at all chogbonna • 4 points • 12 September, 2018 10:49 PM

I don't understand the correlation here..

The_RedWolf • 20 points • 13 September, 2018 01:24 AM

The quick and dirty meaning is that when both parents are working you can charge double for rent, you'll buy double the things etc. and that becomes the new normal

[deleted] • 3 points • 13 September, 2018 01:57 AM

Except this happened as a direct result of World War II. Not feminism. Feminism is cancer. Not Capitalism.

Darkone06 • 9 points • 13 September, 2018 02:13 AM

It happen cause of capitalism, if I can find someone cheaper to exploit why wouldn't I.

[deleted] • 0 points • 13 September, 2018 02:13 AM

Who's cheaper? Men and women are paid the same

Darkone06 • 17 points • 13 September, 2018 02:25 AM

Yeah there paid the same, half of what a men used to make.

It's a rat race to the bottom.

[deleted] • -4 points • 13 September, 2018 02:27 AM

I'm not sure what that means. People are doing better then they ever have. Look at what even the poorest of people have now.

What is happening is that women are taking jobs and then quitting their career at 35 to have kids. A career that someone else could of had and continued. But to each their own.

Darkone06 • 10 points • 13 September, 2018 02:34 AM

Half of Americans can't afford basic necessities and are one pay check away from being homeless.

Almost a quarter of students in America live in a household below the poverty line.

Things aren't good for the average American. Wages have been stagnant for the last twenty years while all cost of living has increased.

<https://www.marketwatch.com/story/50-million-american-households-cant-afford-basic-living-expenses-2018-05-18>

BrackOBoyO • 5 points • 13 September, 2018 03:38 AM if you double the labour pool without doubling the available jobs, average wages will tend towards 50%.

When working class women entered the workforce, they effectively gave their husband's boss a lot more power over them both and therefore over the entire fabric of that part of society.

MarinTaranu • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 07:54 AM

The idea is that if you have a larger labor pool, you can drive down wages, the chance that you will find a hungrier potential employee than your current one is higher.

Feminism is cultural Marxism. So not really a progression of capitalism. It pushes for equality of outcome not opportunity.

[deleted] • 0 points • 17 September, 2018 04:52 PM

Feminism is funded by the establishment elites. The same elites that Marxists want to behead.

wrekd • 1 point • 17 September, 2018 05:32 PM

It's funded by a few zealots but mostly beta people that would rather pay them to go away than cause them any issues by taking a stand. Whether it's burning Nike on the right, or boycotting Chick-fil-A on the left, if you piss off your base it will cost you. It's a PC extortion tax.

Akslepios 1 points 13 September, 2018 06:42 AM [recovered]

If only conservative Americans understood that. Check MGTOW and people think feminism is socialism and they blame all blame Marx for it. WTF?

lingonn • 5 points • 13 September, 2018 09:22 AM

Feminist ideas are not socialist, but radical feminism and radical left ideas have a strong correlation.

[deleted] • 2 points • 13 September, 2018 11:59 AM

Don't mix radical feminists with liberal feminists. Radical feminists are not inherently liberal. For example, radfems are heavy against trans, pedophilia, porn and prostitution which are all (except pedo?) virtually accepted and promoted by libfems.

[deleted] • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 12:49 PM

Feminism is endorsed and funded by big business. The same bourgeois elites that Marxists literally want to behead.

wrekd • 1 point • 17 September, 2018 03:24 PM

Because women spend more money. They don't care about the cause. They care about who spends. Just see the NFL and pink shoes. It's fucking marketing to those who spend more.

AlexDr0ps • 49 points • 12 September, 2018 09:55 PM

It is truly mindblowing how people are not only okay with, but actually encourage reddit silencing opposing viewpoints.

Like I'm sure most people here disagree with leftist ideals but I can not fathom the amount of brainwashing it takes to be so set-in-stone with your beliefs you refuse to even have others discuss alternatives in the same domain. It is so blatantly obvious that they fear us and what could become if enough men realized what is going on

WanderingTaurus 1 points 12 September, 2018 10:16 PM* [recovered]

Some people have a huge problem expanding their mind and actually learning. They rather be stuck in their hive mind like mentality and just repeat what has been force fed to them rather than actually taking time to look in to what they have been told and see if it all really is true.

uebermacht • 3 points • 13 September, 2018 08:29 AM

This event is interesting:

Admins and mods from various subreddits already reacted to this BanOut.

If you want to visit the subreddit „ValueSelect“ for example, you will find a message with "Not a hate sub. Leave us alone.". The whole sub has been set on private due to this events.

A lot of subs on the "Phase" list are private due to this.

If you haven't read, pretty interesting thread here: <https://archive.fo/ywbcm>

Either it's a gigantic bluff or they really are successful with banning subs.

Edit:

It seems like the reddit admins are using the BanOut as scapegoat for banning subs.

[deleted] • 16 points • 12 September, 2018 10:44 PM

If you just search banouts2018 on reddit you'll figure it out, but I'll give you a layman's tldr.

Very sensitive people (I think reddit admins/mods as well) have decided to group up and ban, or rather try and ban, any subreddit that goes against their opinions. Not only subreddits but also certain users associated with the subs. Now whether users got permabanned or "shadowbanned" is unclear to me, and that's pretty much it. It's the most sjw thing reddit has done yet imo

SgtBrutalisk • 9 points • 13 September, 2018 01:40 AM

A certain black female tennis player married to a Reddit owner recently had a meltdown that cost her the match; any subreddit mocking that moment got banned.

You can silence one's speech by using force, yet it backfires and becomes loud in people's minds and hearts most of the time. All kinds of censorship unless it is extremely sensitive (in fact i do not believe anything is sensitive but that is just me, many people have strong grasp on their beliefs) material or topic which can cause chaos and disorder.

We need to get back to science based decisions and stop running this country on feels.

Elections 2016 were an inside job!

Go outside and play with the other children. Adults are in here speaking.

carpenterio 1 points 13 September, 2018 05:23 AM [recovered]

Where are they? You mean you? did you take your fedora off first?

Darkone06 1 points 13 September, 2018 12:33 PM [recovered]

Shit I wish we had an adult in office, at this fucking point I'll even take W Bush back.

Anyone that isn't this toddler in chief.

duckyhs 1 points 13 September, 2018 01:33 PM [recovered]

We finally get a president that can speak his mind and has channels where he can speak directly to the people without having to go through the media, takes shit 24/7 from the MSM and so far is doing a hell of a job as president. But because some documentaries claimed he some how might be a "narcissist" without any proper medical consultation. Doesnt give a shit what people think about him, very level headed, hes some how the toddler in chief? Give me a fucking break. Apparently people are gullible to every little propaganda piece about him.

Darkone06 1 points 13 September, 2018 02:23 PM [recovered]

It's not the presidents job to be a Twitter troll online. He doesn't speak for himself he speaks for all of us. This whole country is being held hostage every time he tweets.

A president can't just say what's on his mind recklessly, it could start a war or kill the stock market.

duckyhs 1 points 13 September, 2018 02:41 PM [recovered]

But it hasnt been recklessly, if it has then where are all these wars and conflicts? The fact that people are so brainwashed by msm talking points thinking hes unhinged, going to be starting wars, hes the bad scary orange cheeto man in charge of nuke codes just shows how effective the propaganda is. Your reality vs actual reality are 2 completely different things.

funkysoulsearcher 1 points 13 September, 2018 07:23 AM [recovered]

Omg! U need to debrainwash

TheRedPike[M] • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 05:44 PM*

Whine about national politics elsewhere.

RedPilledRoaster • 2 points • 14 September, 2018 02:35 AM

Did you just say WHITE?!?!?!?

HATE SPEECH

TheRedPike • 1 point • 14 September, 2018 02:36 AM

Goddamn it....

Darkone06 • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 08:00 PM

That's what I'm saying. TRP is only going to get ban if we keep sucking in Trumps dick.

If we just stick to male topics and stop taking about Trump like he is the embodiment of TRP principles or the 2nd coming off Jesus we will be fine.

ProvostP • -29 points • 12 September, 2018 07:44 PM

Kind of tired of seeing racism and hate speech on reddit. Fuck em. This is going to do nothing but get the red pill banned next.

7a7p 1 points 12 September, 2018 09:14 PM* [recovered]

Did you see what subs are getting banned? You're kidding, right?

caunteris2 • 16 points • 12 September, 2018 09:56 PM

Its not only reddit. Its everywhere. eu comitet baning memes too. internet is becoming against free will and only elites know why funkysoulsearcher • 7 points • 13 September, 2018 07:25 AM

Mate its a no brainer. The deep state candidate hillary lost because of social media - ie people learning truth. The powers that be are clamping down hard thats why its happening now - 60 days out from the mid terms caunteris2 • 1 point • 13 September, 2018 01:06 PM

Well atleast there is communities like this - most of us are aware of how things work.

StartAnewMan • 2 points • 14 September, 2018 03:50 PM

lol "deep state." This is an amusing thought process. Hillary utilized/leveraged/blackmailed DECADES of political connections. Any one of us would in that position, to become president. She managed to win the popular vote, let's not forget that. Whether or not social media EXPOSED the truth is an entirely different subject matter and requires both context and framing for which "truths" you are referring to. I won't dive into hypotheticals either because that's stupid.
