

College student Nikki Yovino, 19, sentenced to 3 years for falsely claiming sexual encounter was rape

August 24, 2018 | 1726 upvotes | by MentORPHEUS

In 2016, Nikki Yovino had consensual sex with two football players in a bathroom at a party. The next day, she claimed she was raped, allegedly to impress a prospective boyfriend. The two students were suspended, lost their scholarships, and faced ostracism. It later came to light that she fabricated the claims, and has now been tried and convicted of making a false report. She was sentenced to 3 years, and will probably serve 6 months-1 year in jail then probation.

From the news story:

Nikki Yovino just doesn't seem to get it.

The 19-year-old Long Island woman — who claimed she was raped by two Sacred Heart University football players, then admitted months later to police that she lied to impress a prospective boyfriend, then claimed on the witness stand she was forced to have sex without her consent. Until finally she pleaded guilty to criminal charges, admitting her deceit to a judge — stood handcuffed Thursday morning, rolling her eyes as one of the now former players poured out his heart in court. “I just hope you spend the time reflecting on what you did,” Superior Court Judge William Holden told Yovino, sentencing her to three years, suspended after she serves one year in prison and followed by probation.

Yovino agreed to plead guilty to two counts of second-degree falsely reporting an incident and one count of interfering with police, all misdemeanors, as the case was about to go to trial. She has already served three months in prison and likely faces another three months before she is eligible for release.

“This was not an easy charging decision for the state,” Senior Assistant State’s Attorney Tatiana Messina told the judge. “But with the evidence we had against Miss Yovino, we do believe this disposition is both fair and appropriate. Many true victims of sexual assault are often disbelieved, but that is because of cases like this and the impact they have on public perceptions. Miss Yovino’s actions are a disservice to those true victims, in addition to the two young men whose lives were greatly affected, and that was not something that could have been ignored.”

Yovino’s mother, the only member of her family there to support her, was kicked out of the courtroom after her cellphone went off.

Excerpted from Connecticut Post article

Takeaway lessons

- Hookups at a party are risky behavior, for questionable reward
- An accusation of rape is easy to make and difficult to defend
- The tide is turning; women are being held accountable for false claims more and more
- The wheels of justice turn slowly. The young mens' lives have been turned upside down for the last two years
- The justice system can work, but it takes proaction and determination by the accused. If you don't do your due diligence, fail to follow up with prosecutors and lawyers, drop your efforts because of all the hassle, or accept a bullshit plea deal just to try to end it, then its not going to go as well for you or for other men in similar circumstances

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

p3n1x • 575 points • 24 August, 2018 06:54 PM

Yovino's mother, the only member of her family there to support her, was kicked out of the courtroom after her cellphone went off.

lol

lorum_ipsum_dolor • 208 points • 24 August, 2018 07:54 PM

I'm glad someone else found this little detail amusing.

SigmaBusiness • 108 points • 25 August, 2018 01:08 AM

Not surprised.

A girl like her would have a mother like that.

p3n1x • 48 points • 25 August, 2018 02:13 PM

Apples don't fall far from the tree.

J3diMind • 4 points • 25 August, 2018 06:49 AM my thoughts exactly prankster999 • 15 points • 25 August, 2018 04:16 AM

Thots gonna thot.

HardPiano 1 points 24 August, 2018 09:44 PM [recovered]

It was probably Tinder. Her mother is probably getting cocks slammed into her from all angles as well.

[deleted] • 7 points • 25 August, 2018 01:43 PM

Literally every angle imaginable. Like, probably 170 degrees.

WarViper1337 • 413 points • 24 August, 2018 08:16 PM

Time for them to sue the college.

[deleted] • 279 points • 24 August, 2018 09:39 PM

And her. And media. Bois might at least get some sweet cash pouring in.

halfback910 • 16 points • 26 August, 2018 08:18 PM

Well he auto-wins the law suit because she was convicted on criminal charges.

wonderdog8888 • 84 points • 25 August, 2018 01:17 PM

I'll bet the college scholarship will have conditions that the college can withdraw the scholarship based on an accusation. They will argue that the guys shouldn't been in a position to get accused. It's all loaded against the guys.

Dmva100 1 points 25 August, 2018 02:15 AM* [recovered]

All white knightng liberal colleges must be defunded and cut off from the globl lists for pandering to the HPV ridden vaginas of their state-dependent soon-to-be lying single Marmies students afkb39sdfb • 17 points • 25 August, 2018 02:43 AM

Hey! You're that guy from the YouTube comment section!

Gobravess44 • 15 points • 25 August, 2018 03:19 PM

What he say? Deleted and downvoted universalabundance1 • 1100 points • 24 August, 2018 06:43 PM

The sentence for false rape allegations should equal the sentence for rape.

ArdAtak 1 points 24 August, 2018 08:16 PM* [recovered]

i've been saying this for years.

therealpkg • 201 points • 24 August, 2018 10:12 PM

And you've been right for years.

econquest • -3 points • 25 August, 2018 11:23 PM*

no, that's absurd. How absurd?

All right, let's say I claim to the judge that ArdAtak murdered me. I am called to the stand to testify:

Prosecution: And what did ArdAtak do next?

Me: He murdered me.

Prosecution: And how did he do it?

Me: I don't remember. I just remember that I stopped living.

Prosecution: Did you ever recover?

Me: No.

Prosecution: So you never left the scene of the alleged crime?

Me: No.

Prosecution: No more questions.

Defense: We would now like to introduce Exhibit A, taken moments after that alleged murder, which clearly shows econquest leaving the scene of the crime unharmed, and, I emphasize, unmurdered.

Prosecution: Objection!

Judge: On what grounds?

Prosecution: Uh. Questioning the witness.

Judge: This is cross-examination.

Prosecution: Well don't let them ask questions like this. You have clearly heard my witness say he was murdered.

Defense: Actually you know what withdrawn. I would just like to jump to my last exhibit, exhibit #182. I won't introduce any more.

Prosecution, under his breath: Yes!

Defense: I would now like to introduce Exhibit #182. Actually he is there on the stand. econquest, the alleged victim of the murder.

Prosecution: Fuck!

Judge: Mind your language!

Prosecution: I would like to throw out this witness.

Judge: The witness will stay.

Prosecution: Can we throw him out after?

Defense: As you can see, econquest is here, alive and well.

Witness: Well-murdered that is! That son of a bitch murdered me, he killed me.

Defense: Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, does this witness seem to you like someone who is dead?

Jury member, quietly: No, but I wish he was.

Judge: Case dismissed. econquest, stop wasting the court's time with these ridiculous claims. And for the false claim of being murdered I sentence you to....

Now what? You want the judge to sentence this schmuck to life in prison? (The maximum time possible for an actual murder.)

[deleted] • 7 points • 26 August, 2018 05:27 AM

this makes not a shred of sense econquest • 4 points • 26 August, 2018 07:40 AM* exactly. You know what else doesn't make sense?

A false rape accusation where the accused didn't even ever once see the woman in his life!

Giving that woman the maximum sentence for an accusation is about the same as giving me life in prison for claiming you murdered me.

It's not a basis for a policy.

Idontsharemytacos • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 05:58 PM

You can prove, in that same moment, that you are not dead. Also, you ain't taking on account the consequences of your accusation. The consequences are the main point of the charges against this girl.

econquest • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 06:55 PM

the consequences of the accusation is that someone could serve a life in prison sentence for murder. It's an extremely serious crime, maybe the most serious crime in most societies.

you are saying that "you can prove that you are not dead" but many falsely accused men can absolutely prove nothing like that took place, so it's a close analogy.

jasonfunk • 1 point • 31 August, 2018 10:23 AM if someone goes on social media/to the press and says "/u/econquest murdered me", they'll ignore a crazy person. if a woman goes on social media and says "/u/econquest raped me here's their full name and picture", and then repeats it tearfully on the news...

your life is ruined by the court of public opinion BEFORE you can even BEGIN TO GATHER EVIDENCE THAT YOU DIDN'T DO ANYTHING.

that's the difference you willingly are playing ignorant to in some attempt to defend your objectively absurd comparison. it's also why the fake victim's life needs to be destroyed worse than yours, and turned into a completely irreparable mess. it'll dissuade future attempts by other liars, knowing the severe consequences.

Lkeacentipede • 29 points • 25 August, 2018 12:56 AM

That

She should also be forced to pay a good amount of money to the victims, to make up for the damages she caused to their career

sapientia-maxima • 90 points • 24 August, 2018 10:51 PM

More than that. It should also include what was lost by those who are falsely accused (which is, of course, immeasurable). Their lives were ruined as well. Hopefully with everything coming to light they can get their lives back, but I doubt they'll ever play football like they did before. If either one of them were pro-level, it could have literally cost them millions...we'll never know.

hopelesstuna 1 points 24 August, 2018 11:37 PM [recovered]

Awwwwwwe they don't get to make millions of dollars playing a fucken child's game!Boo hoo ☐

Ray_pinasses1210 • 24 points • 24 August, 2018 11:41 PM

That's not the point You're reputation as simply an accused rapists can ruin you.

Nobody hires accused rapists, nobody wants to hangout with an accused rapist hopelesstuna 1 points 25 August, 2018 12:07 AM* [recovered]

50 % of NFL players are rapists/abusers: it doesn't seem to affect them!

GainzdalfTheWhey • 14 points • 25 August, 2018 03:50 AM

They both can ruin a life, and very difficult to recover, but one is convincing yourself that you can get over the horrible thing, the other is convincing the entire world world you were innocent.

Pearlbuck • 19 points • 25 August, 2018 07:48 AM

I hate even saying this, but if you make the sentence too appropriate, you'll get fewer of these stupid sluts to admit their lies.

millo69 • 23 points • 24 August, 2018 11:29 PM

But wouldn't that just give the person a reason to stick to their lie since they know that if they come clear they'll be the ones in big trouble? Dont get me wrong though I completely agree.

jeffwingersballs • 17 points • 25 August, 2018 03:12 AM and it would also scare people from making false accusations. unless they are a psychopath

ThrowFader • 19 points • 25 August, 2018 04:53 AM*

deleted

magx01 • 5 points • 26 August, 2018 01:03 AM

and it would also scare people from making false accusations

Stiffer penalties, contrary to 'common sense' don't actually decrease the levels of crime.

OneRedSock • 1 point • 28 August, 2018 05:07 PM

Is there a source on this?

Wouldn't Singapore be a great example of how stiffer penalties certainly decrease levels of crime. Additionally, the Singaporean hard line stance on criminality is one of the reasons it was able to become one of the most successful southeast Asian countries.

francisco_DANKonia • 0 points • 26 August, 2018 02:36 AM

This is certainly not always true. It is likely to be true for crimes of passion. It is certainly not true for things that have less emotional cause like drunk driving or even better, tax avoidance crimes that have nothing to do with an illegal business you are trying to hide.

steveslim • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 06:09 AM

Yeah and lying under oath on top of it, but if that were the case here and she knew that she would have never admitted to lying about it and we'd be hearing about "two convicted rapists and this young feminist survivors strength to overcome it." It's scary out there.

riggedved • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 11:15 AM

Actually, logically is should be more than rape.

Max_Mountain • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 03:39 PM

I kept repeating that to myself while reading this thro_way • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 12:34 AM

I'd much rather be raped again than go to prison for 3 years. One's kind of gross, the other is years of your life/youth you'll never get back.

Superman19986 • 28 points • 25 August, 2018 03:28 AM

Bruh. Rape isn't a one and done thing for the victims. It's potentially years of trauma, depression, and a whole bunch of other issues. I can't speak from experience, but it's like having your house broken into and robbed but much, much worse. Security, comfort, and peace of mind all go out the window when either happen.

dysfunctional_vet • 7 points • 25 August, 2018 08:39 AM

I may well be misreading his post, but from his use of "again", I'd gather he knows first hand about being raped.

Superman19986 • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 02:53 PM

Yeah I don't know. There's a couple ways his comment could be interpreted. Everyone is different and can have different reactions to being raped, but his comment just doesn't sound like it fully understands or has lived through the consequences. In his words, rape is... Gross? The wording is odd for sure.

Not_Another_Inch • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 11:24 PM

I've known a few female rape victims and all handled it differently, with one in particular choosing to downplay the whole thing in her own mind and convince herself that "it's just sex, no big deal". Needless to say this carried over into her "normal" sex life and she turned into a super slut of epic proportions. I've read elsewhere that this is actually a fairly common way of dealing with rape, but have only my own personal experience with this girl to go on so I dunno.

Oliverott • 6 points • 26 August, 2018 07:32 PM

> Bruh. Rape isn't a one and done thing for the victims. It's potentially years of trauma, depression, and a whole bunch of other issues.

Hogshit, feminist hogshit.

You really think that a regretted-sex (females changing ideas every five seconds, that is what real modern rape is in the Western world is) or date rape (that is sex with a person you decided you might have sex but once again changed idea because you are a dumb spoiled bitch) are worse than being beaten and gangraped in every hole by a bunch of disease infected Australopithecus Africanus in prison for 3 fucking years?

MaliciousMack • -2 points • 25 August, 2018 01:09 AM

Only problem is that will likely reduce the number of people who would come forward and tell the truth afterward.

ThrowFader • 5 points • 25 August, 2018 04:56 AM*

deleted

Pestilence1911 • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 06:24 PM

If you think truth is a legitimate defense,

Try defending yourself against an accuser and one of her friends that backs her up and reads from a script.

ThrowFader • 1 point • 4 September, 2018 11:05 PM*

deleted

choomguy • 0 points • 25 August, 2018 11:30 AM

They should have that cow service horny silverbacks at the zoo.

[deleted] • -3 points • 25 August, 2018 12:36 AM*

Anyone with common sense would agree. As for me, I'd say a fair sentence is to be locked in a cage with a group of angry chimps. On live TV. But I guess I was born in the wrong time.

Pestilence1911 • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 06:25 PM

I take it you've seen "postal" (2007)

Mini mi gets raped by "a thousand monkeys" and that kickstarts the apocalypse.

Good lord, could the states attorney make it any more obvious she cares more about women then men?

“This was not an easy charging decision for the state,”

Uhhh, someone was guilty of a crime and admitted it. What is so difficult about it?

Many true victims of sexual assault are often disbelieved

Miss Yovino’s actions are a disservice to those true victims

Ah, I see why she was punished. Because something she did affected "true victims"...i.e. other women who make rape claims.

in addition to the two young men whose lives were greatly affected

Well, at the end of my statement, I'll pay lip service to this minor side consequence of her lying having a negative impact on ~~other women~~ true victims.

[deleted] • 37 points • 25 August, 2018 03:35 AM

This exact line of thought pissed me off as well

Please though, tell me more about the supposed Patriarchy we reside in. Smh

[deleted] • 8 points • 25 August, 2018 01:47 PM

They're begging for a patriarchy, and to be raped. That's why they talk about it so much. It's one of the only things they want in life. Women who talk about rape, want to be raped (by a powerful and strong man, ie alpha fucks. Not by a weak beta fuck). So next time you hear a woman bitching about rape and the patriarchy, smile inside knowing that if you've been lifting and have huge muscles, she's gonna be an easy one. But also be wary because she will easily accuse you of rape, if she feels she can get something out of you from it. So hold frame and never let her feel that she can sneak something up on you like a fucking rape charge.

[deleted] • 5 points • 25 August, 2018 06:17 PM

Mind blown

After meditating and realising how a lot of life and the things we say are projections of our desires and beliefs in the world I can see how your rationale would follow and be true

MoDuReddit • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 06:51 PM

things we say are projections of our desires and beliefs

Bingo. It's good starting point when analysing what anyone is saying. Want another pill? Try finding this pattern in yourself in real time.

[deleted] • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 07:52 PM

Bingo to you too, granted I don't think one can actually actively "look" for these patterns and projections, because the "I" attaches itself onto them and has as "buy" into the story

Rather in random moments of introspective awareness that coincide with that type of thought do we see it for what it is.

If that makes sense

Zanford • 108 points • 24 August, 2018 09:14 PM

Reminds me of the H Clinton quote about the 'true victims of war' being women.

'The true victims of FRAs are other women...'

magx01 • 2 points • 26 August, 2018 01:04 AM

Primary, not true. Still fucked up but gotta be accurate.

CaptZ • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 05:12 PM

And yet they want equal rights. True victims are male or female of any bad situation. But no, it's always the women because even they consider themselves the weaker sex when it's convenient to them.

TangoZulu • 10 points • 24 August, 2018 10:25 PM

Well, judges/ prosecutors are elected so I understand that she had to save some face in light of #metoo and the pressure to believe all victims claims. Also, she did pay service to the men accused as well. At the end of the day, they did the right thing and should be commended for standing up for the true victims (the men accused).

ThrowFader • 4 points • 25 August, 2018 04:59 AM*

deleted

[deleted] • 6 points • 25 August, 2018 01:08 AM

It's disgusting. We live in a gynocracy. No issues matters unless you can frame it in a way that affects women.

Repeal the 19th. Return women to their appropriate place of servitude.

Smigg_e 1 points 25 August, 2018 09:17 AM [recovered]

You don't have to go that far. I've met some great woman who would be on our side through something like that. Don't fuck with dumb girls. Dumb girls do not think they only feel in the moment. Dumb girls will cheat, like, and ruin your life before they even realize what they've done. Don't fuck with dumb girls.

[deleted] • -1 points • 26 August, 2018 01:31 AM*

It's not "dumb girls." It's all girls. Does AWALT mean nothing to you? Red pill is getting so watered down. Women are emotional teenagers. They live wholly within the moment and whatever they feel at that moment is reality. Some are highly intelligent, but even these have very little capacity for independent thought.

Women's biology drives them to seek and enforce consensus above all else. Women's biology drives them to extract resources rather than produce. Women's biology makes them more welcoming of outsiders and less concerned with protecting the civilization they are a part of, because every civilization from small hunter gatherer tribe to conquering Japanese fascist army will happily absorb the fertile young females of its enemies.

These are red pill planks. If you believe in the red pill, you believe these things. If you believe these things, how can you believe that women make good voters?

You don't have to go that far

Also this is borderline concern trolling.

Smigg_e 1 points 26 August, 2018 02:07 AM [recovered]

Nah man you sound psychotic.

[deleted] • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 02:21 AM

Enjoy your banning. Literally no counterargument.

B_Campbell • 68 points • 25 August, 2018 01:28 AM

Any girl that's gonna let you and your buddy double team her in a basement at some party is probably batshit crazy. Don't put yourself in that situation guys. We tell the ladies the same thing.

AlmightyPerun 1 points 25 August, 2018 08:51 AM* [recovered]

"Batshit crazy" is the new normal... She's not the exception, she's the norm.

saucierlol • -1 points • 26 August, 2018 11:59 AM

The issue is that we want them to be batshit crazy when it comes to sex. Sex with a huge slut who does anything you want is the best. Problem is that the craxy doesn't stop at the bedroom.. cant have your cake and eat it too.

AlmightyPerun 1 points 26 August, 2018 12:53 PM* [recovered]

Most women are "crazy" in the sheets provided you initiate, so i wouldn't say it's an issue. They enjoy masculine traits as much as men enjoy feminine traits.

In other words, they like being "manhandled". To what degree, it varies from woman to woman, but that's besides the point. Everybody is secretly a horny pervert, both men and women.

Crazy in bed doesn't necessarily mean crazy out of bed.

saucierlol • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 01:08 PM

I know my experience is anecdotal and may not reflect the reality at all but my best sex by far was with my BPD ex girlfriend. She didn't do anything special too she was just really good with making me feel like I am the man and I have power over her.

My other girlfriends were much more tame.

[deleted] • 209 points • 24 August, 2018 08:56 PM*

Woman takes cocks of two Chads, says she was "raped" to keep her primary beta orbiter in line. AWALT

[deleted] • 55 points • 24 August, 2018 09:42 PM

This is exactly how I read this situation.

[deleted] • 31 points • 25 August, 2018 01:09 AM

Crazy how TRP gives you a new lens in which to view the world wtfeverrrr • 42 points • 25 August, 2018 01:49 AM

Seems like going gay would be the next logical step.

Max_Mountain • 23 points • 25 August, 2018 03:41 PM

As a straight married man.....wanna go out sometime?

187oddfuture • 263 points • 24 August, 2018 06:50 PM

This doesn't prove anything. She wasn't sentenced to 3 years in prison, only 1. And even then, the article said she could be released having only served 6 months. Those 2 guys lost their scholarships, their educations, and their reputations. They will never have good jobs, because their name will be always tied to an accusation. It doesn't matter that they were acquitted, and that she lied. They're fucked. And she gets the lightest slap on the wrist. Show me 20 years to life and maybe you could convince me the tide is changing. If you falsely accuse someone of a crime, your punishment should be the same as the crime you claimed they committed.

masterofmydomain_1 points 24 August, 2018 06:57 PM* [recovered]

It's not any consolation but they can now sue her for damages in civil court. Either way they're still fucked for life.

187oddfuture • 62 points • 24 August, 2018 06:59 PM

Sue her for damages?? Lmao, what are they gonna get? She doesn't have money, definitely doesn't have a house, and probably drives some beat up old car. What are they gonna do, sue her for 200 bucks? Get real dude.

masterofmydomain_1 points 24 August, 2018 07:07 PM* [recovered]

You're not wrong but her future wages can be garnished. The school can be sued as well.

MentORPHEUS[S] • 75 points • 24 August, 2018 07:17 PM

her future wages can be garnished

Cynics will say that holding a judgement against someone without assets is worthless. It will still dog her in ways you might not expect. Any man who considers marrying her will have to reckon taking on this debt as his own as part of the bargain. Hopefully the reality of THAT consequence finds its way to young women before they make false accusations.

Atheist_Utopia • 39 points • 24 August, 2018 07:40 PM

Any man who considers marrying her will have to reckon taking on this debt as his own as part of the bargain.

Unfortunately, you and I both know that there are plenty of white knights who will still consider the marriage.

Hopefully the reality of THAT consequence finds its way to young women before they make false accusations.

You also know that women are too focused on feeling the moment to realize that reality.

SoaringRocket • 27 points • 24 August, 2018 08:25 PM

Yeah the school position is interesting. I know we see it all the time at the moment, but it still staggers me that institutions take action with permanent consequences on unproven allegations. Innocent until proven guilty seems so obvious to me

SuperCrazy07 • 3 points • 24 August, 2018 11:49 PM

I don't know this area of the law well, but at some point one of these kids has to have a cause of action against the school.

It'll only take one or two big payouts and maybe we can arrive at a system that can listen, but verify.

MaliciousMack • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 01:13 AM

Its due to parents also jumping to conclusions for their little angels, not always believing they could do wrong. That means anyone who doesn't immediately jump on it, "doesn't care about rape" and they'll have a pr shitstorm to wade through.

halfback910 • 3 points • 26 August, 2018 08:20 PM

Garnishing wages is nigh on fucking impossible. It is tough as nails to get a garnishment order.

KyfhoMyoba • 0 points • 30 August, 2018 04:17 AM

You are mistaken. Unless you live in Texas, then you'd be correct.

SumBuddyPlays • 2 points • 30 August, 2018 01:34 PM

It's very difficult in California as well. Most are a waste of money as often times they are dead beats and/or get paid under the table.

[deleted] • 22 points • 24 August, 2018 10:08 PM*

They can sue the school who does have money. These university kangaroo courts have gone on long enough. Take them for everything.

[deleted] • 11 points • 25 August, 2018 01:10 AM

Yep. Lawyers know where the deep pockets are. Hit the schools and hit them hard. The people who run these places are first and foremost cowards. They don't have any actual moral principals. They will turn coat as soon as the tides shift.

Oliverott • 0 points • 26 August, 2018 07:36 PM

sue her for damages in civil court

Sue a 19 years old female, isn't this considered "rape" itself in our cucked society?

Of course you are gonna win the lawsuit and get millions of dollars from this 19 yo little whore.

askmrcia • 6 points • 25 August, 2018 03:33 PM

This same story literally happened to my cousin.

He was playing football girl accused him of rape. Later court found out girl was lying because she had multiple semen samples in her panties on that night and her story kept changing.

My cousin lost his scholarship and got kicked out of school. That happened nearly 6 years ago and all he does is cut hair for his job because that shit still sticks and shows on his record (not that he was guilty but he did actually get arrested for it).

The girl actually got off Scott free though.

CensorThis111 • 6 points • 24 August, 2018 07:06 PM

Perception is everything bro, and yours is jaded.

If you can't see how this is a change in a positive direction then you simply lack objectivity, or experience.

187oddfuture • 8 points • 25 August, 2018 12:55 AM lmao, and you're WAY too optimistic. One case. It's ONE CASE. It's a fluke. Show me 100, then we can talk. These Title 9 kangaroo courts expelling numerous college men on baseless allegations, all of the men rotting in prison RIGHT NOW on bullshit false rape convictions, of which the state deliberately prosecutes to artificially inflate the national rape statistics... this is less than a drop in the bucket dude. Get real.

ThrowFader • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 05:02 AM*

deleted

NomBok • 3 points • 24 August, 2018 06:56 PM

There can also be a civil trial

KV-n • 1 point • 24 August, 2018 10:46 PM

They will never have good jobs, because their name will be always tied to an accusation.

in the light of recent FRA craze, do employers still gaf about this? I know i wouldnt

Smigg_e • 0 points • 25 August, 2018 09:18 AM

It should be the same sentence wed get for rape. That's justice.

SuperCrazy07 • -2 points • 24 August, 2018 11:52 PM

They will never have good jobs, because their name will be always tied to an accusation. It doesn't matter that they were acquitted, and that she lied.

I'm not sure that this is true in THIS particular case where the woman admitted lying and went to jail for it. I wouldn't hesitate to hire someone who was falsely accused and had proof they were innocent.

187oddfuture • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 03:44 PM

SJW's control the hiring process of nearly all major companies. The companies have to put women into HR because they do the least damage initially, but ultimately ruin the company by hiring more and more sjw cancer. Companies can't hire men over women in large numbers because of employment laws. Where have you been?

enkae7317 • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 05:08 PM

The hiring management crew at my company is 80% women. My entire HR team for my loc is 100% ALL women.

187oddfuture • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 06:39 PM

And you wonder why company CEOs get metoo'd and their companies get run into the ground. Feminists get enough of their ilk into the company to stage a coup for muh diversity and the rest is history. Put 2 and 2 together and the picture is crystal clear.

coldestmichigan • 38 points • 25 August, 2018 04:22 AM

Imagine losing everything you have worked for, scholarships, respect from friends and family, future career etc because somebody wanted to "impress a prospective boyfriend". Hell she even rolled her eyes in court for extra measure.

saucierlol • 9 points • 26 August, 2018 12:08 PM

Impress in what sense? That's what is bullshit. What is impressive about being raped? The truth very probably - as someone else said in this thread: her main beta orbiter found out about the two dudes double teaming her in a shitty bathroom stall and she wanted to keep her innocent girl persona intact so she doesn't lose her primary source of attention and validation.

[deleted] • 65 points • 24 August, 2018 09:06 PM

Looking at this girl makes my blood boil. "Her rolling her eyes while the football players pour their hearts out." I'm glad she's going to jail. 6 months of 20 years, people now know she's a fucking liar & her life is actually fucked. I'm still picturing and trying to digest how women do this kind of shit. I've been fucked over by my ex and I picture her rolling her eyes not giving two shits while I picture myself in the football players shoes. AWALT I hope this story gets more attention

Max_Mountain • 14 points • 25 August, 2018 03:42 PM

If you ask me she got off lightly

[deleted] • 4 points • 26 August, 2018 01:15 AM

TBH she went to jail, that's enough for me bc most girls would not lie if they faced jail time even for a second

Max_Mountain • 3 points • 26 August, 2018 03:37 AM

She will only serve 6 months to 1 year. The guys would have had to serve a far harsher punishment than 6 months to 1 year. Hopefully this at least impacts her sex life

saucierlol • 5 points • 26 August, 2018 12:02 PM

Pretty sure if one of her future partner finds this shit out she will keep denying it and say she was actually raped for real and that the police coerced her into admitting to lying even though it wasn't a lie two football players had a super good attorney who also managed to fuck her mind up and she was so lost and blabla bla and blablabla

Max_Mountain • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 01:12 PM

Damn it. Yeah there's a good chance of that

[deleted] • 0 points • 26 August, 2018 10:37 PM

Retard white knight would believe it so no worries here ☐☐

baldginger69 • 25 points • 25 August, 2018 07:28 AM

How would being raped impress a boyfriend?

johnpayne10 • 20 points • 25 August, 2018 04:25 PM

She tried to portray herself as a victim, a damsel in distress instead of a party slut. Guess what is more appealing to men...

askmrcia • 8 points • 25 August, 2018 03:38 PM

Yea she is obviously not telling the entire truth. I'm guessing she wanted to hook up with those two guys, but instead of having the guts to admit it, she instead lied that she was raped hoping the potential boyfriend would believe that crabpipe • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 01:35 PM

white knight effect

kejflk34jlkd • 15 points • 25 August, 2018 02:39 AM

lol, and she's fucking ugly too

MrJ429 • 30 points • 24 August, 2018 07:39 PM

I would believe the two guys could sue her for libel? She pretty much destroyed their lives. Am I wrong here? Any lawyers in the house?

MentORPHEUS[S] • 39 points • 24 August, 2018 08:37 PM

IANAL but I've heard that libel is difficult to prove actual loss to assess monetary damages.

Their lost scholarships and school tuition are very tangible thus easy to establish a valuation to the court.

This puts her well into 5 figures already. Lost income potential might be another avenue from there.

[deleted] • 26 points • 24 August, 2018 09:41 PM

This type of shit should be 7 figure at the very least

Adam1394 • 25 points • 24 August, 2018 10:14 PM

Half her income for 45y would do. Fuck those lyin' bitches.

[deleted] • -7 points • 25 August, 2018 01:13 AM

Sell her into sex slavery. I'm dead serious. Put her on a plane to some southeast Asian shithole.

Find someone who deals in this sort of thing. Sell her. Give the money to the victims. This would be justice.

She'll spend the rest of her life "working" off her debt. You'd probably have to put her on a diet for a few months before the sale though. Want to get the best possible price.

Adam1394 • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 08:52 AM

I might sounds rough, but imagine being guy in prison with "rapist" tag, for 3-4-xxx years.

I must be hell.

[deleted] • 6 points • 24 August, 2018 09:53 PM

Yeah school situations are very easy to tally up as far as damages are concerned. Start from there and then calculate potential income loss from no job placement, etc etc

i_like_herr • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 10:12 PM

You are right, am lawyer. Other factors to include is that there is no reason in suing for libel, she probably has no money.

Zanford • 30 points • 24 August, 2018 09:13 PM

Still pussy pass. Way less than the guys would've gotten, in fact arguably their career trajectories have already been fucked up / delayed by 3+ years. Plus she will face less social stigma than they would (and already did) and she wouldn't get put on a special crimes list/registry for the rest of her life.

615bachelor • 37 points • 25 August, 2018 01:58 AM

I am black and this is why I rarely mess with white women . White western women aren't worth the risk. I mainly get with black and Hispanic women. We live in a country where a white woman can say she was raped and you are guilty no matter what. No pussy is worth going to jail over. I even read a story where a could've been first round pick in he nfl was falsely accused of raped and lost out on millions. Red pill black men should avoid white women . The American white woman is the most spoiled and entitled woman on this planet. Plenty of other races to mess with. This comment might make a few people butthurt but the red pill is hard to swallow.

askmrcia • 11 points • 25 August, 2018 03:44 PM

I'm black and I respect where you are coming from, but completely disagree.

My cousin played college football who is also black. Freshman year he got kicked off campus and lost his scholarship because some whore falsely accused him.

Court found out she was lying as her story kept changing and her panties had multiple semen samples in them (meaning she banged other dudes on the night of).

She lied so bad and it was so obvious that none of our family members were worried he was going to be found guilty.

The kicker? She was black.

It doesn't matter what race these women are, they are all the same to a degree. Yes white women can get away with more shit, no doubt. But don't think for a second you're safe sticking with a black, Asian, Eskimo, alien or whatever chick.

I seen a case like this first hand and my cousin is still fucked from that because of the reputation.

Yes white women set black guys up (also seen this happened to my college teammate), but they are all the same.

615bachelor • 8 points • 25 August, 2018 04:53 PM

I never said that you will be safe for fucking other women but the chances are way better of not being accused of rape. We all know that the police will side with the white women every time .

You said that none of your family members were worried about him being guilty but if the woman was white then you would be shitting your pants. White woman are the most spoiled woman on this earth. Why do you thing the mgtow, men right, and red pill movements were started ? It's because the white men were getting tired of the way the western white woman was acting. You can keep fucking white women but I'm good. I live in a mostly Hispanic area and the women here are way more feminine than most white woman that I met.

Canedude08 • 1 point • 27 August, 2018 06:28 PM

Also remember, black women are also more likely to trap a guy they think has a "future" compared to their white counterpart. Just work from the following assumption ALL WOMEN ARE LIKE THAT.

It doesn't matter what race they are, as long as they've been raised in this dysfunctional society, they are batshit crazy ,and have no problem with ruining your life, if it suits their selfish needs.

magx01 • 5 points • 26 August, 2018 01:07 AM

She was black.

Not after the guys were done with her ;)

CainPrice • 46 points • 24 August, 2018 06:53 PM

The fact that this woman was found guilty and sentenced doesn't undo the suffering of her victims, but maybe it marks the beginning of a precedent.

Nobody gives a shit about the two football players. They have penises and play college football, so they're probably rapists anyway.

But raise the issue that women like this, who can demonstratively be proven to have falsely claimed rape, harm other women, and maybe a case will get a little attention.

BewareTheOldMan • 22 points • 24 August, 2018 09:17 PM

The damage this false accusation has done to these young men's reputation is immeasurable. They'll both recover to some extent, but will likely never achieve the level of professional success and achievements they would have had they never met this woman.

Another main issue is that ACTUAL VICTIMS of rape and physical abuse will have problems of credibility and be held in doubt based on this woman's selfish behavior.

So much for women helping and looking out for other women's interests...

saucierlol • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 12:15 PM

It won't because these people are hypocrites, they don't give a shit about other women being raped, they just use "the toxic masculinity" and "the rape culture" as scapegoats to forego with their agenda, which is a patriarchy men kneel down to women's grandeur.

ifhking 1 points 25 August, 2018 02:50 AM [recovered]

Oh that's why in Islam two women are required for testimony. Now I got it

Pestilence1911 • 4 points • 25 August, 2018 06:34 PM

Islamophobia is when you agree with 95% of it, but refuse to bend the knee.

perdipp • 11 points • 25 August, 2018 02:40 AM rolling her eyes as one of the now former players poured out his heart in court. "I just hope you spend the time reflecting on what you did,"

Could it be a psychopath or sth, the kind that has no emotions? That's very fucked up tho, still shows no remorse and looks like she'd do it again after she comes out

TheTrenTrannyTrain • 39 points • 24 August, 2018 06:36 PM

Just watch, some mangina politician will petition to change the law so women won't be held accountable for filing false rape report, all because "it will make true victims not wanting to come forward."

Just look at Canada and its cuck PM after the Ghomeshi case.

MentORPHEUS[S] • 24 points • 24 August, 2018 06:42 PM

The best defense to this is to rally against such things when they arise in your own local community.

In my area, there was a judge who gave an absurdly light sentence to an actual (rapist or child molestor can't remember) who was rich and well connected; the community outcry culminated in the judge losing his seat.

TheStoicCrane • 7 points • 24 August, 2018 07:07 PM

That's not surprising. The materially rich run the system. With it the laws don't apply to them. It only applies to the proles, the working class slave horses of the country whether white or blue collar. To keep "those animals" controlled.

TheTrenTrannyTrain • 2 points • 24 August, 2018 07:10 PM

On the opposite end, we had a judge asked an alleged rape victim if she tried to close her legs during the rape. The judge ended up suspended because he offended the sensibility of some snowflakes.

The_ChiselNator • 9 points • 25 August, 2018 02:23 PM

Piece of advice you young 'uns: If ypu are ever accused of rape say nothing without an attorney present. And even then DO NOT under any circumstances say that you had consensual sex.

For her to prove her bullshit false rape allegation she must prove you were together, had sex including penetration and without consent.

If you say "muh consensual" then you excuse her from having to prove the first 2. And the third is he said she said.

You are innocent until ptoven guilty. Silence is your friend. Use it

Acslaterisdead • 16 points • 24 August, 2018 08:46 PM

This bitch should have a more severe punishment especially since she threw these guys lives in turmoil.

DaphneDK42 • 6 points • 25 August, 2018 07:30 AM

The next day, she claimed she was raped, allegedly to impress a prospective boyfriend.

How the hell could she imagine that being the victim of a gang-rape would be impressive to any prospective boyfriend? Being a rape victim is a major red flag.

JacobyAhrar • 7 points • 25 August, 2018 05:31 PM

More like she did not want her boyfriend to know that she got tag teamed @ a bathroom.

SpecialistParticular • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 09:28 PM

Why would he know at all unless she told him?

JacobyAhrar • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 09:30 PM

Rumors, friends telling friends, players bragging about baning others people girlfriends etc. many ways it can get out

magx01 • 2 points • 26 August, 2018 01:08 AM

Impress is the wrong word. What they should have said was "garner more investment/trigger protection instincts."

KeffirLime • 26 points • 24 August, 2018 08:17 PM*

Feminism goals once again become their downfall. #metoo damaging woman more than anything.

What they thought they were doing: Bringing focus onto rape victims, get them to be automatically believed without due process

What they actually did: Turned the term “rape” into a circus, where every Jane or Nikki Yovino that ever got looked at a bit too long claimed sexual assault #metoo

The nett result: It’s become HARDER for ACTUAL rape victims to get their stories believed, drowned out by all the false accusations.

Outstanding job feminism, outstanding

[deleted] • 9 points • 25 August, 2018 01:02 AM

The nett result: It’s become HARDER for ACTUAL rape victims to get their stories believed, drowned out by all the false accusations.

STOP saying this. This is giving in to the left's worldview in which every issues revolves around women. I don't give two shits if this makes it harder for real rape victims. I care about myself and the possibility that I will be accused of a crime that I did not commit. The victim is the man who is falsely accused, not some hypothetical future female rape victim who is not believed.

And she will be believed if she enough of that... what's it called.... oh yea - evidence. If this makes it harder for women to be believed just on their word alone, I say good. I fail to see how a judge can even let a case go to trial when the only evidence is a he said/she said.

KeffirLime • 7 points • 25 August, 2018 06:50 AM

STOP saying this. This is giving in to the left's worldview in which every issues revolves around women

It's a nuetral statement, one that points out the inneffectiveness of the feminism movement in a discussion on feminism (like this thread)

I don't give two shits if this makes it harder for real rape victims

The justice system has done a pretty good job of getting us to the most peaceful period in history(despite what you see on the media). If you want it to operate effectively you should give a shit about real rape victims, the same way you would give a shit about real murder victims. I don't think any of us give a shit about the false accusers.

I care about myself and the possibility that I will be accused of a crime that I did not commit.

The quicker statements like mine point out how innefective the movement is, the quicker it will die, the quicker it dies so does the possibility of you getting accused of a crime you didn't commit.

If this makes it harder for women to be believed just on their word alone, I say good.

The whole point of my statement. They've put more burden on rape victims to supply actual evidence. This is a good thing.

ThrowFader • 6 points • 25 August, 2018 05:08 AM*

deleted

[deleted] • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 01:26 AM

Thanks. This sub is getting seriously watered down of late. I guess that every generation of red pillars probably bitches about the next one watering the place down and making it pussified though.

[deleted] • 10 points • 24 August, 2018 09:49 PM

Ah, the good ol' regret-rape claim.

Shoulda got the same sentence as an actual rape convict.

[deleted] • 7 points • 25 August, 2018 01:08 AM

It wasn't even regret it was "trying to impress" whatever the fuck that means. Damaged goods are not impressive.

quansau1 • 8 points • 25 August, 2018 01:27 AM

So rape charges = what, like 25 year sentence? This girl gets just 3 years for nearly destroying two people's lives and rolls her eyes in court. Such bs, she should be getting a harsher sentence for sure.

i_like_herr • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 10:14 PM

1 year sentence, 3 years probation. She probably will get out in 6 months.

V-Vanguard • 5 points • 25 August, 2018 02:54 AM

She should pay back their scholarship and the prospective boyfriend should also be sentence IF he did nothing to help them.

Also, i find it very light like sentence, maybe 10 years will help her more than 6 months.

Robster25 • 5 points • 25 August, 2018 04:03 AM https://lawandcrime.com/live-trials/live-trials-current/nikki-yovino-sentencing/woman-who-lied-about-rape-rolled-her-eyes-in-court-while-being-sentenced/?utm_source=mostpopular

Watching her in this video makes me angry af... It's an insult to all people who are actually raped and she wilfully destroyed the lives of two innocent men. I don't live in the US (luckily), but I hope she gets ostracized from society like the two alleged rapists did.

knightedbylight • 4 points • 25 August, 2018 05:49 AM id rather know if the dudes scholarships could be reinstated.anyone know if their lives are permanently fucked, will they have any recourse after this?

askmrcia • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 03:51 PM

They are pretty much fucked and yea the scholarships can technically be given back but that's not happening unless they are some generational talent.

Source: literally this story could have been written on my cousin. I thought it was at first to be honest.

My cousin lost his scholarship and got kicked off campus for being falsely accused.

Coach had a no tolerance policy, so he wasn't going to let him back on the team even if he was not guilty.

Jobs? Well he can go to college but he's going to have to pay out of pocket. So my cousin just said fuck it.

Background checks? That shit shows up. As in it shows that he was actually arrested and had to go to court.

This happened like six years ago so now he's just a barber and drives trucks.

Pearlbuck • 4 points • 25 August, 2018 07:47 AM

"Wow, you were at a party and you went into a bathroom with two football players and they raped you? Wow, I'm impressed!"

Dunc0ne • 10 points • 24 August, 2018 07:58 PM

"Superior Court Judge William Holden"

Anyone watch 'The Expanse'?

dysfunctional_vet • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 08:53 AM

Once word gets around that she made a false claim in the clink, she'll get hers.

Female inmates don't take kindly to things like that. Sort of how kiddy diddlers don't last long in male prisons. She won't get shanked or beat, but I'm willing to bet she is going to become intimate with a broomstick at least once.

And this, men, is why we have to cover our asses. Record her consent. Have her open the condom wrapper and save it, with her prints on it. It's not bulletproof, but it's something.

swipedstripes • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 04:46 PM

She'll get some snarky remarks and will be fine. Women don't give a fuck about some man that got fucked by lies. Most of em did the same at some point in their lives.

SpecialSpnk • 3 points • 30 August, 2018 03:54 AM

Those 2 boys giving up their futures for a 5....fucking shame

[deleted] • 6 points • 25 August, 2018 03:37 AM

Wow

I was expecting a looker when I clicked the link, what I saw is disgusting and I'm surprised she looked at herself in the mirror and thought anyone would want to 'rape' that

Imagine if the false-accuser was actually attractive, I guarantee you these two football players would be in prison right now. Absolutely deplorable ganglionate • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 10:08 AM

In no way was this long enough!

dirtymint • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 11:56 AM who claimed she was raped by two Sacred Heart University football players, then admitted months later to police that she lied to impress a prospective boyfriend

What part of that is impressive?

MentORPHEUS[S] • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 07:17 PM

she lied to impress a prospective boyfriend

What part of that is impressive?

That's the word the newspaper used. By "impress," I believe they meant "manage her reputation in the eyes of."

justgotalpha • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 02:07 PM at least the system did something about it!! however its not hooking up at a party that is risky,i noticed women are more likely to claim false acusations if the sexual encounter involves more than one person(3somes,gangbangs etc) their reputation will be ruined if rumors spread(atleast they think!)we seen cases of guys who have got killed by the slut's boyfriend over rumors or before they spread because the bitch dint want the boyfriend to know or rumors to spread . so go bang these drunk bar sluts at your own risk!!

Boeijen666 • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 03:50 PM

This is fantastic news. In Australia women are protected from perjury (lying about rape or domestic violence) - these insidious laws have put hundreds of innocent men behind bars and destroyed their lives and spiralled the male suicide numbers out of control.

Oliverott • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 07:46 PM

In Australia women are protected from perjury

What the motherfuck?

Basically it is the same in all the Feminist West de-facto, but there are actually laws down there that prevent a holy woman to be accused of perjury about a rape? Are they more holy than even children?

Quo210 • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 04:15 PM

Ah yes, this was posted on another men's right subreddit days ago. There's more content on women being held acc for their actions. Shiniest case was the lead of the movement #MeToo, Asia Argento being revealed as just another average liar that had sex with an underage Chad and all of it was on video and pictures. She tried to buy his silence with 350k+$ and her arguments in court were "I didn't have sex" to "Well maybe a little, but he forced himself when I allowed him on top of me, he raped me" to "There wasn't any sex" again. I stopped following the trainwreck as _I've been busy punchyson • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 08:19 PM

"Many true victims of sexual assault are often disbelieved, but that is because of cases like this and the impact they have on public perceptions. Miss Yovino's actions are a disservice to those true victims, in addition to the two young men whose lives were greatly affected, and that was not something that could have been ignored."

This really bugs me. She throws the two young men a bone, but only after stating the primary reason as discrediting other women who accuse men of rape.

I believe rape is real of course. However, I wonder how many men have been or are currently in prison because a slut was being a slut, then threw dudes under the bus to save face.

I can't help but notice that we never hear the mens side of the story. My assumption is that nobody cares. "She wanted to get fucked by two guys in a bathroom at a party - Guy 1 & 2". Court, well that couldn't possibly be true so get fucked by bubba for the next 10.

RedPilledRoaster • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 08:24 PM

You shouldn't give a fuck.

Most of you are stuck in the anger phase. Things have been this way for a while now. Accept and move on.

This isn't me saying "You should let yourself be stepped on."

This is me saying "You can't do anything about it so quit giving a fuck about it."

Law 36: disdain things you can't have. You can't have women being tried for their guilt fairly. Too fucking bad. Can't change it? Don't bitch about it. Can change it? Don't bitch about it.

[deleted] • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 11:41 PM

Other articles said she got 1 year.

Oliverott • 2 points • 26 August, 2018 07:48 PM

She will do less than 6 months, guaranteed.

And she probably will write a book in jail, like Hitler.

MentORPHEUS[S] • 1 point • 27 August, 2018 03:01 PM

It's a complicated, run-on sentence. 3 years suspended to one; 3 months time served and expected to serve at least 3 more months before eligible for parole.

yomo86 • 2 points • 26 August, 2018 03:50 PM

The tide is turning; women are being held accountable for false claims more and more

I think the opposite is true. The parasite, feminized society to be specific, just expresses its concern for the host. She threw two literal Chads under the bus, the highest male things on the SMV, just to get a slap on the wrist.

hulk_hogans_alt • 4 points • 24 August, 2018 09:39 PM

Now think about how many women do this and never get caught. She basically admitted it. We're constantly being bombarded with "statistics" about how infrequently false reports supposedly happen, but how do you even track that?

I'm glad some justice was served in this case but if there's a lesson to learn here, it's PROTECT YOURSELF. Record what you can if/when it's legal. Sign consent.

[deleted] • 3 points • 24 August, 2018 09:49 PM

Judges are probably beginning to read material from the manosphere online, helping them realize they're literally women's puppets.

VillagersUnite • 2 points • 24 August, 2018 08:15 PM

It's a step in the right direction but it's still not enough. Imagine if she never told came out and admitted to her lie. They would be suffering. She should be suffering that fate they would've suffered.

i_bent_my_wookiee • 13 points • 24 August, 2018 10:49 PM

Not only that. Women in the US and Canada are now reporting that they cannot socialize with their male counterparts the way they used to. Men in corporate settings are taking a page from Mike Pence and refusing to be alone with women. And women are reporting that they are not being mentored when previously, they were. Source, Another Source The house of cards you have crafted is now being blown over.

[deleted] • 10 points • 25 August, 2018 12:48 AM

I love how it's only a problem though if it affects women right? So false rape... not a problem UNLESS we frame it as making it harder for real rape victims to be believed. Men scared to socialize with women at work... not a problem UNLESS we frame it as damaging to women's careers. How can anyone deny that we live in a gynocracy? The entire national discourse revolves around the needs, desires, and worldview of women.

NealAMerr • 7 points • 25 August, 2018 12:23 AM

Seriously!! Felt this at my last job. I was working in a predominantly female smaller business. The women automatically disregarded men and socially shunned any man who showed any ideology that shifted from their paradigm, while on the other hand chastising the white knights for virtue signaling hahaha I don't think they realize the hypocrisy

[deleted] • 4 points • 25 August, 2018 12:55 AM

My dream is to work at an all male company free from the tyranny of women, but no such thing exists because it would be sued out of existence. Wouldn't it be great if we had some sort of document that protected our right to freely associate with the people we wish to and to pursue happiness in our own way? Oh wait....

NealAMerr • 4 points • 25 August, 2018 12:57 AM

Yeah equality of outcome has really ruined that dream for me too! Ugh, it's a god damn plague

Hjalmber • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 09:04 AM

OP claims the tide is turning. If it is, it's turning very slowly. This dude got arrested for squeezing someone's butt one year after the alleged incident.....

<http://m.newser.com/story/263777/former-cdc-chief-frieden-accused-of-groping.html>

kbox 1 points 25 August, 2018 11:04 AM* [recovered]

In the UK if you're accused of a sexual crime but never found guilty (either found not guilty, had the charges dropped by the accuser or the investigation not pursued by police) that allegation can still find its way in to a Criminality check and your potential employer will be told, in no uncertain terms, that you were accused of and investigated for a sexual crime even though you may never have even been charged for it, let alone found guilty. How fucked is that?

askmrcia • 2 points • 25 August, 2018 03:55 PM

It's the same here, though it may depend on certain states

Pestilence1911 • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 06:39 PM

Same in Canada. Cant work gov or .mil, and post secondary might be a bit tricky..

pingpongsam • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 11:18 AM

Notice the state attorney rationalized the decision by couching it in preserving true woman victim belief rather than punishing the ruining of lives and reputations of innocent men.

jawiwi • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 03:42 PM

Why was I not surprised when I read that the mother's cell phone rang while at court? Small detail that speaks millions as to why the daughter ended up where she did.

I do not live in the United States but, because of my job, I interact with people -both men and women- from the U.S. on a daily basis, and I always tell the men they need to do something to stop the attack against the male figure in their country. It is blatant and it is everywhere, from television shows to what children are taught at school.

I'm glad this young woman was sentenced for ruining the lives of two people, because even if she was found guilty of lying, they are always going to be the two guys who were involved in a rape case, and that's a very sad thing.

Nickleback4life • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 04:27 PM

She is definite to make the Whore Hall of Fame on her first ballot.

What a disgusting person.

Zanford • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 09:48 PM

Whenever someone says "...but this might scare the real victims out of coming forward"

...they are accidentally admitting that they think the justice system has a lot of false accusations and/or convictions (and why you can't just believe the accuser automatically).

A failed accusation does NOT necessarily mean that the accuser gets punished. She would have to be found guilty beyond a reasonable doubt of deliberately making a false police report, or similar malfeasance.

So anyone worried about this is admitting they don't trust the justice system not to falsely convict someone (or ruin their life via the investigation or trial)....which is precisely the same concern others have about FRAs.

IOW the 'believe every victim' crowd has a self contradictory position that reveals selective outrage and hypocrisy. 'Believe every victim' would also mean believe every guy who accuses the girl of a FRA (or of raping him and then spinning the story around).

sciroccomindrape0087 • 1 point • 26 August, 2018 01:55 AM

He should focus on mind rape.

eccentricrealist • 1 point • 27 August, 2018 01:10 PM

She lied to impress her bf? It's high time women understand that what's attractive for them is not for us (high ncount) and that if there had been some sort of abuse, the guy would be wary because of possible trauma.

MattyAnon • 1 point • 27 August, 2018 02:38 PM

“This was not an easy charging decision for the state,”

Yeah, the state hates going against the female-first narrative. Glad it did though, at least in this one instance.

The tide is turning; women are being held accountable for false claims more and more

Still not as often as it happens, and only when there is overwhelming proof that she lied.

The usual result is still to believe victims.... and by "victims" I mean of course "female victims of male violence", not "male victims of female lies".

datingtransformation • 1 point • 29 August, 2018 01:36 AM

WHY CONSENT IS SEXY

True, hookups CAN be risky. I'm glad that these two young men were vindicated, and that they can get their lives back.

But, as the attorney says in the article, "Many true victims of sexual assault are often disbelieved." This woman's actions are awful for everyone: for these two innocent men, and for women who have legitimate claims of sexual assault.

Let's remember that, according to the New York Times, only between 2 and 9 percent of women's sexual-assault claims are false. So more than 90-percent of the time, women are telling the truth. This Connecticut case is terrible, but it is an outlier.

As a dating coach for men, part of what I teach is how to protect yourself. And yes, one way to do that is to avoid the risky behavior like the party hook-up with someone you don't know at all.

It's interesting: In recent years, I've shifted my teaching away from the "Must get laid" approach that a lot of "pickup" guys preach to a more connection-based approach, where you're crystal clear that you and she are on the same page. And guess what...

Consent is sexy. And dating with integrity helps you get MORE results, while being a better man. It's win-win. It's moral and it shows integrity and respect. But it's also sexy as hell. Even more so now, in our MeToo Era. Treating women with total respect and integrity sends them a powerful message -- that you're a man of value. And that's what women want.

There's a line I want my guys to use when they're about to sleep with a girl for the first time, and the booze has been flowing: "Hey, we've both had a lot to drink. Are you sure this is OK?"

And if it's not OK, it's time to stop.

And if it is OK, all the better. I want a guy to know he has a total green light from the girl.

Not only does this protect you from an accusation, but it also tells her that you care about her as more than just a conquest. It shows you're a true gentleman.

He may or may not have sex that night, but being a guy who empathizes with how a woman feels can make her even MORE attracted. It also just feels better to be that guy.

A client recently told me that he checked in with a girl before their first time, to make sure she was OK with it... and that she said, "That is SO HOT that you asked," and she jumped him... and they're now BF/GF.

So it's win-win, for her and you.

Date with total integrity. Show women you don't just WANT them, but that you LIKE them.

Consent is sexy.

Here's a quick video I did about dating in the MeToo age, which is confusing and a bit scary. It's about how to create attraction with women without being that handsy, grabby guy who can get into trouble. Check it out. Hope you dig it.

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1sWyuJsqufvuQXNMNwsmgI_GWpLhLTW8/view?usp=sharing alvaro10101 • 1 point • 29 August, 2018 11:54 AM

Tide isn't turning. Accusation still fucks up your life. In a nutshell, don't fuck if you have something to lose.

AllahHatesFags • 1 point • 29 August, 2018 02:54 PM

Her sentence was too light, she should have gotten the hard time that her victims would have gotten if they had actually raped her. I hope they sue not only the school but Yovino to the point where she has to spend the rest of her life in crushing poverty for damages resulting from loss of potential income and the cost of school. Maybe she will find a beta simp to pay for her massive legal bills.

The_rarest_CJ • 1 point • 4 September, 2018 01:04 AM

What a disgusting human being she is. I hope this young man can get his life back on-track and succeed.

alex_b98 • 1 point • 24 August, 2018 09:17 PM

At least a step in the right direction. That rag should be punished for that false accusation with the same thing the people accused of rape would have been.

istepedinsjw 1 points 24 August, 2018 11:40 PM [recovered]

This is a good thing and we are seeing justice where typically there is none, but I wonder if this is a fluke occurrence of justice or the beginning of a trend? How many similar cases are currently in the pipeline? Hopefully we see more judgements like this in the coming years.

geo_gan • 1 point • 25 August, 2018 01:11 AM

It was a case of, they had no choice but to charge her since she admitted the crime, and even so, they still have the balls to say "it was a very hard decision" ie we looked at every possible way to let her get away with it but couldn't find one. The opposite of this is when a man says "I'm not guilty" and they say it was an easy guilty charge.

Bc_Land • 0 points • 25 August, 2018 01:04 AM

Wouldn't it be ironic if she would actually be raped while in jail. Who would believe her?

sciroccomindrape0087 • 0 points • 26 August, 2018 02:08 AM

This woman chats shit. I how much it will cost for me take a dump in her mouth and film her talking about her rape with the shit in her mouth. it would be like art mimicking reality Lol ryanisbetter • 0 points • 28 August, 2018 08:46 AM

Ok, we have to make this case go as viral as Brock Turner did.

JustinDell990 • -15 points • 25 August, 2018 04:43 AM

Good that the bitch is being punished. Also good that 2 jock Chads who have had everything handed to them in life got knocked down a few pegs and are now mired in the shit like the rest of the average male population.

MentORPHEUS[S] • 3 points • 25 August, 2018 07:15 PM

Also good that 2 jock Chads who have had everything handed to them in life got knocked down a few pegs

I don't share this crab bucket mentality.

JustinDell990 • -1 points • 25 August, 2018 09:35 PM

They were never in the bucket in the first place.

kurdishpower01 1 points 27 August, 2018 07:17 AM* [recovered]

Those 2 jock chads will still live a more fulfilling life than a incel like you

JustinDell990 • 1 point • 27 August, 2018 11:45 PM

True but at least they got knocked down a peg.