You've been walking for two hours and you need some water, but there's no water in sight.

You keep walking and three hours later, you still don't have any water.

Your mouth is dry, your throat is dry and you just need some water.

Then, off in the distance, you see a table and on that table is a glass of chilled, pure, clean water.

How are you going to feel about that water?

Are you going to feel like, “Meh, I don't need that. It's just water. I don't care. I'll just keep walking and I don't have any desire or need for water,” or are you going to be feeling a bit needy for that water?

Are you going to feel that desperation to get over there and make sure that you get that water, drink it and rehydrate yourself?

You most likely are going to get over there, drink the water and rehydrate yourself.

[image: How to stop being needy with women]

After drinking the water, is that going to get rid of your need and desire to have more water throughout the rest of your journey, if you still have a long way to go?

No.

The need and the desire for water is always going to be there.

So, if you don't have any more water, you're still going to have that needy feeling when it comes to water.

Yet, imagine this...

As you finish drinking the glass of water, you put it down, look up and 100 meters in the distance, you can see another table.

Except this time, there are 100 glasses of water on the table.

How are you going to feel about those 100 glasses of water?

Are you going to feel needy to drink all of those glasses of water, or are you going to feel like, “Okay, I'm going to have a few of those glasses of water and then I'm going to continue on with my journey.”

Well, initially, if you’re really thirsty, you might think that you’re going to stick around there and drink as much water as you can, so you can go as far as you can with your journey of where you’re heading to, but if you go over there and you drink three glasses of water, you’re probably going to be full at that point.

Additionally, if you still have a long way to go, you’ll probably be thinking about how you can bring some of that water with you.

Yet, imagine this...

As you put down the third glass of water that you drank, you look up and in the distance, you see another table with 100 glasses of water.

Additionally, every 100 meters behind that is another table with 100 glasses of water, for as far as the eye can see.

Now, how you’re going to feel?

Are you going to feel needy to drink all of that water, or are you actually going to start to feel a bit more freedom?

Are you going to feel like, “Hey, I can just walk along and anytime I feel like it, I can have a glass of water and I can continue on my journey and go to where I want to go.”

[image: Get a new woman whenever you feel like it]

You’re most likely going to feel a bit more relaxed and you’re going to have that freedom, that feeling where you can just walk along and continue on your journey and have a glass of water whenever you want.

Well, as it turns out, the same fundamental rule applies to your life with women.

When a guy goes through life and he doesn’t understand how to make a woman feel attracted to him as he talks to her, he will end up feeling like a man who is walking through the desert without any water.

He might come across the occasional glass of water every couple of kilometers or miles, but he’s never going to have that consistent supply of women.

He’s never going to have that feeling of freedom where he can just walk through his life, go along his journey and whenever he feels like it, he can attract a woman, have sex with her and have a relationship with her if he wants to.

If he doesn’t want to have a relationship, he’s not worried.

He’s not needy for that girl.

[image: Knowing that you don't have to stay with her if you don't want to]

He’s not thinking, “I have to stay here at this table and drink this glass of water because this is the only glass of water I can ever find.”

He doesn’t think like that.

He can see table, after table, after table of glasses of water.

In other words, for him, because he knows how to attract women as he talks to them, he doesn’t have that needy feeling.

He doesn't feel like if he meets an attractive woman, he has to make it work with her because he's not going to be able to get another attractive woman interested in him.

He knows that for him, as he interacts with women throughout his life, he is able to make them feel attracted to him.

If a guy doesn't have that skill, he will almost certainly end up being needy when it comes to dating women, or he might actually get lucky, get into a relationship and end up being needy with his girlfriend or wife.

Secretly, he will know that he got lucky with his girlfriend or wife and if she is being a pain in the butt, being difficult in the relationship and making him do lots of things for her (e.g. chores around the house, run errands for her, buy her things), he will probably want to do them because he'll be afraid of losing her.

On the other hand, a guy who isn't needy, isn't going to panic if a woman starts being a pain in the butt or threatening him with a breakup, because he knows that he can attract women at will, by choice, on purpose.

He can do it whenever he wants to.

If he breaks up with her and goes out to a bar, or a party, or some sort of social event, he's going to be able to attract women.

He's going to be able to get to a phone number, or a kiss, sex that night, or set up a date and start having a sexual relationship with the woman that he's met.

The reason why is that he's able to make women feel attracted to him.

He's able to interact with women and create a spark of attraction inside of them and then build on that attraction to the point where the woman wants to give her phone number to him, kiss him, have sex with him, go on a date with him and start a relationship with him.

So how do you do it?

How do you create a spark of attraction inside of a woman as you talk to her?

What I'm going to do now is give you an example of me answering the question, "So what have you been up to lately?" and displaying different personality traits and behaviors that are either going to turn the woman off or attract her.

The examples are neutral, nervous, nice, ballsy, funny and charismatic.

I'll also display words on the screen that basically explain what type of person I'm coming across as, as I talked to the woman in that way.

So, the first example, let's start with neutral.

She asks you the question, "So what have you been up to lately?" and you reply, "I've been busy with work and catching up with friends. How about yourself?" in a neutral manner.

Nervous: "I've been busy with working, catching up with friends. How about yourself?" in a nervous, self-doubting manner.

Nice: "Oh, I've been busy with work and catching up with friends. How about yourself?" in an extra nice, polite manner.

Ballsy: "Why are you asking me questions like that for, huh? What do you want to know? Are you working with the FBI or something? Are you undercover? Look, I'm not selling drugs anymore. I'm clean. I'm a good guy now. Hah, now, just kidding. I've been busy with work and catching up with friends. How about yourself? What have you been up to?"

Funny: "What have I been up to lately? I don't know if I can tell you actually. You seem a little bit innocent. I don't know if you can handle it. Hahaha, I'm just kidding. I've been busy with work and catching up with friends. How about yourself? What have you been up to?"

Charismatic: "Well, lately, I've been busy with work and catching up with friends. How about yourself? What have you been up to?" in a confident, friendly, charming, loving, cool guy kind of manner.

So, with those examples there, the first three examples are not going to create a spark of attraction inside of a woman.

There's nothing wrong with being neutral at times when you talk to a woman, but you have to understand that just being neutral as you talk to a woman doesn't create a spark of sexual attraction inside of her.

Additionally, being nervous or too nice when you're interacting with an attractive woman signals to her that you don't feel good enough for her.

It signals to her that you lack confidence and that you're actually insecure in terms of your value to her.

In terms of being ballsy, being funny and being charismatic, those are three examples of how you can create a spark of attraction inside of a woman.

You don't have to always be ballsy when you're interacting with a woman, you don't always have to be funny and you don't always have to be charismatic.

You can add that stuff into your interactions with women to create a spark of attraction inside of them.

Some guys don't actually want to go down the ballsy route and that's okay.

You can still make women feel attracted to you by being charismatic, being charming and being funny.

So, the way that it works in terms of not being needy when it comes to attractive women, not having that desperation and instead exuding the type of confidence that women are magnetically attracted to, is that you need to experience what it's like to be attractive to women.

It's only when you experience what it's like to be attractive to women and then you repeat that experience again and again that you can then honestly, sincerely and deeply exude that type of confidence that women are magnetically attracted to.

You can be interacting with an attractive woman and be looking at her with absolutely relaxed self-belief and confidence.

When she senses that type of confidence in you, she will naturally feel attracted to you and if you keep that type of confidence going into the bedroom, she will naturally want to get down on her knees, open that pretty little mouth of hers and be a good girl.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

When you read the eBook or listen to the audiobook version, you will learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel attracted to as you talk to them.

You will also learn how to create unforgettable connections between you and a woman.

You will learn how to get a phone number, how to get to a kiss, how to get to sex on the first night, how to get to a date, how to get to sex on a date, what to text a woman when you get her phone number and so on.

You will have everything that you need to know to go from hello to sex with a woman that you find attractive.

By the way, The Flow is for guys who want to attract women for sex or a relationship.

If you're already in a relationship with a woman and you become needy, the program for you is Better Than a Bad Boy.

Better Than a Bad Boy will teach you how to be what women refer to as a real man.

It's about having purpose in life and not making a woman be the most important thing in your life.

She can be the most important person, but not the most important thing.

The Better Than a Bad Boy approach to a woman makes her start to feel needy for your attention and affection.

It gives you the power in the relationship.

So, when it comes to women, don't make the mistake that so many guys make.

They interact with women, get rejected and then they think that they're not good enough for women when they actually are.

So many guys who get rejected by women because they don't actually know how to make women feel attracted to them as they talk to them and are just be neutral or nice, end up feeling like they're not good enough and they need to build up their career and build up their muscles to be good enough for women.

They ignore the fact that they see guys who don't even have an established career, or don't even have the perfect gym body with a beautiful woman.

They ignore that.

Additionally, some guys say, "Well, look, if I've been rejected by women and they can't see that I'm a good guy, then they can go and get stuffed. I'm just going to do my own thing and if women aren't interested, I don't care," but that approach doesn't work either.

If a guy uses that approach, he will almost certainly experience months or years passing in his life where he doesn't have his choice with women or he doesn't have any women at all.

Then if he meets an attractive woman that he kind of has a chance with, he probably won't be able to stop himself from being a bit needy or desperate if she isn't making it easy for him.

He will see her as the only glass of water in the desert for him when in reality, there is table, after table, after table of glasses of water for him, if he can just master the skill of being able to attract women as he talks to them.

If he does that, he will then see time and time again that he's able to attract women on purpose, at will, by choice.

It's not about getting lucky for him; it's not about him getting a woman by fluke.

It's him attracting women whenever he wants to.

In other words, he can have a glass of water whenever he feels like it, as he continues on his journey throughout life.

He's not that desperate man in the desert hoping to find one glass of water.

For him, there's an endless supply of women and as a result, he doesn't ever have to feel needy or desperate for just one woman.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

3 Examples of How to Flirt With a Coworker and Make Her Want You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Flirting with a coworker creates a private world between you and her.

There is a private understanding that both you and her find each other sexually attractive and that there is sexual tension building up between you and her.

You can flirt with women based on what you say, how you behave and how you use your body language.

In this video, I'm going to give you examples of each of those.

So, let's start with example number 1.

1. Create a private world between you and her

[image: Flirting creates a private world between you and her]

Back when I didn't understand how to attract women, I was working in an office.

A new girl started working there.

She was of Latvian descent, so the country next to Russia.

In other words, she was a pretty girl.

She was tall, she had a fairly good handful there and had a nice rear set up as well.

She was a nice package and I was lucky enough that she sat next to me.

Yet, I didn't understand how to attract women.

Back then, I thought that a woman will like you if you're good looking enough and if you're not good looking enough for her, she's not going to like you.

So, when she sat down and we started to talk, I talked to her in a neutral, professional manner.

I had no idea back then that you can actually make women feel attracted to you as you talk to them.

So, when she sat down and we're introduced, I was just like, "Hey, how are you doing? Welcome. Where are you from? What's your name? Blah, blah, blah."

Nothing that I was talking about was creating a sexual spark with her.

However, my friend, who sat across from me, an Indian guy, he had a different understanding of how attraction works.

Essentially, we were sitting in cubicles, the cubicles separated our desks and were above eye level in terms of height.

So, if you wanted to talk to each other, you had to stand up and say something and then sit back down.

When sitting next to each other, there was the lean back and have a conversation sort of thing.

Now, my friend, who I'll change his name for the sake of this story and privacy, was Danesh.

Now, Danesh understood how to attract women.

So, instead of talking to this new girl in a neutral way, he started flirting with her right away.

Then, he created a private world between him and her that eventually led to them going out on a Friday night, two weeks after meeting each other and then hooking up, having sex and starting a relationship.

So, what Danesh did is that he stood up and introduced himself to the new girl, but did it in a flirtatious way.

Rather than just being professional and saying, "Oh hi, I'm Danesh. How are you doing? What's your name? Oh, nice to meet you," he said something like this (in a confident, but playful manner) instead.

"Hey, how are you doing? I'm Danesh. What's your name? Nice to meet you. You'll enjoy it around here. It's a good place to work at. You seem to be a bit of a troublemaker though. You're not going to start causing trouble around here, are you? You seem like a bit of a mischievous one. No? Alright, okay. Well, good to meet you. I'm going to get back to work. Talk to you later."

Then, about an hour later, he stood up from his desk and looked at her and said, "You causing any trouble over there?" and then she had a laugh.

There was a private world beginning to form between him and her that wasn't just about being professional and talking to each other in a neutral way that had no flirting involved.

In addition to being professional and getting on with doing his work, what Danesh did, is that he continued the playful banter with the new girl at times.

He would add some things in.

For example: A couple of days later, she walked in wearing a new jacket and it looked really cool. She looked like a stylish, hot girl.

What Danesh did, rather than just saying, "Oh, nice jacket. Wow, that looks nice. How are you today?" is that he sat there at his desk, smiled at her and watched her walk in.

Then, a couple of minutes later, a crunched-up piece of paper flew over his desk and landed on her desk.

What he had done, is that he'd wrote a note on a piece of paper that said, "Hey...nice jacket. Really suits you. How are you today?"

She then flirted back with him by saying, "Thanks. I don't like your shirt, though. It doesn't suit you :P"

They continued the note throwing back and forth and made sure that no manager saw them doing it. Eventually, it led to this...

Danesh said something along the lines of, "I'm hungry. I wouldn't mind eating a burger right now."

She then said, "No, I'd prefer to eat some chocolate fudge. That's my favorite."

So, what did Danesh do then?

Two days later, when she walked into work and sat down, he walked over to her desk, didn't say a word and just placed chocolate fudge on her desk.

It was wrapped in a nice plastic wrapper.

I looked at her at that point and she was smiling from ear to ear and blushing.

That happened to be on a Friday.

That Friday night, they went out for drinks after work, hooked up and then they stayed together the whole weekend.

Now, for me, back then, I had no idea how my friend had pulled that off.

I actually started to think, “Oh well, she must like Indian guys. That must be her thing.”

Yet, later, I found out that he was the first Indian guy she ever hooked up with.

Additionally, when I asked him to show me what they were writing back and forth, when she went to the toilet one time, it really didn't make sense to me how they would be talking to each other like that in a professional environment.

I didn't understand how they could actually have that sort of banter and where it was coming from.

I was thinking, “Well, they must have a natural chemistry. This must be their style.”

Yet, what I didn't realize back then is that my friend had created that dynamic with her.

He had created the private world between him and her by immediately talking to her in a way that included some subtle flirting based on his body language and his behavior.

An important thing to point out here, is that you don't need to throw notes back and forth between you and a woman to be flirting with her.

Flirting can be very discreet and it can be based on your body language, which I'm going to give you examples of right now.

2. Use your body language to keep the flirting discreet and professional

[image: Use your body language to keep the flirting discreet and professional]

Flirting doesn't have to be obvious.

Flirting can happen on a very subtle, discreet level via body language.

So, what you need to do is be confident around her.

When you can see that she is feeling attracted, give her subtle, discreet looks that show your interest in here.

For example: Let's say that a guy is working in an office environment and there's a girl there that he wants to attract and flirt with.

How can he do it?

What he needs to do is make sure that he continues to use professional body language, so he still maintains his professional identity in the workplace, but when he's interacting with her, he also needs to add in some flirtatious body language to make her feel attracted and let her see that he is able to create that private, discreet world between him and her.

When the woman that you're flirting with flirts back at you, what you can do is level it up by using what I call the Tongue on Tooth body language expression.

This might seem a bit weird to do on camera, but when you do it with a woman that you're flirting with, it makes total sense and she knows what it means.

So, the Tongue on Tooth body language expression is where you place the tip of your tongue on the second last back tooth on the right hand side or the left hand side on your mouth.

It doesn't really matter which side you choose.

That type of body language expression is a little bit cheeky and it signals to the woman that you are aware of the sexual attraction between you and her and you are also aware that there is a private world developing between you and her.

In some cases, the woman will smile, laugh and then ask, "What? What does that face mean?"

You can then say, "Nothing. We're just smiling. Now let's get back to work."

What happens then, is she realizes that you're able to maintain a private world where nothing needs to be spoken.

You don't actually have to say, "Hey, I like you. Do you like me? Do you want to go out sometime? Are you interested in a relationship? Are you looking for a boyfriend at the moment?"

You don't need to ask her any of those things.

Instead, you're using the discrete language of flirting, which women know how to do.

Pretty much every woman knows what flirting is and how to do it and they love it when a guy has the ability to flirt with them and create that sexual tension based on the subtleties of how they interact with each other.

3. Step up the flirting when you're not in the workplace

When you flirt with a woman and make her feel sexually attracted to you, it builds up sexual tension between you and her.

[image: Get to sex with a coworker and enjoy]

At some point, the sexual tension needs to be released via kissing and sex.

So, don't leave it for too long.

In some cases, a man and woman can flirt with each other for many years and end up hooking up.

However, in most cases, if a guy waits too long, she finds another guy.

She hooks up with another guy, gets into a relationship and potentially, he finds another girl and gets into a relationship.

So, if you're flirting with a woman, there is sexual tension between you and her and you're not worried about hooking up in the workplace and the consequences of that in terms of your job, then go ahead and meet her outside of the workplace.

That might be at Friday night drinks with coworkers, it might be at a work function that is a bit more relaxed, it might be your friend having a birthday and you invite her along to that because she doesn't really have much to do on the weekend, or it might be you and her going to a sports game that you both have a mutual interest in.

For example: You and her might be interested in football, ice hockey, basketball, or whatever. Maybe tennis or something like that.

You talk about the tennis match that is coming up, or the football match and then you ask her if she ever goes.

You then say that you are interested in going and invite her out to that as well.

So, you might be talking about the football game coming up and you might say, “Hey, it’s going to be a really good game this weekend. You interested in going or what? We should go. We should go check it out. Go Hawks or Go Tigers” (or whatever team you barrack for or root for).

Then, when she comes to meet you wherever you are meeting her, give her a compliment that includes some flirting, rather than just being neutral and talking to her like a friend.

So, if you met up with her at a football game, rather than her arriving and you saying, “Oh, hi. How are you doing?” or “Oh, hi. You look nice today. I’m looking forward to the game,” and just being a neutral friend, you can give her a compliment that includes some flirting.

“Wow, someone looks pretty today. How are you doing? It’s going to be a good game. High five” and immediately get the physical touch barrier broken between you and her.

Alternatively, if you’re meeting her at after-work drinks, you might need to be a bit careful about openly flirting with her in front of other coworkers, depending on what type of environment you work in.

In some work environments, it’s totally cool for coworkers to hook up with each other, get into relationships and even just casually date each other, whereas in other work environments, it’s a big no-no.

So, you need to assess that for yourself and adapt your approach.

For example: Imagine that you work in a work environment that is kind of okay with coworkers hooking up, but doesn’t want to see it happening in front of them.

In that case, you would subtly flirt with the girl that you like and then, at some point, you would say to her, “Hey, let’s go to the bar and get a drink,” so you can have alone time.

Then, after about 5-10 minutes, you would say, “Hey, let’s go out and get some fresh air,” if there’s a balcony or outside area.

[image: Step up the flirting when you're not in the workplace]

You and her can then go and stand out there, kiss or at least get a little bit physical.

Back when I first started to figure out how to attract women, I actually did that myself.

There was a girl that I was flirting with at work and we went to Friday night drinks with coworkers.

Her and I were flirting back and forth and there was that flirtatious banter.

Then, I said, “Hey, let’s go and grab a drink at the bar,” and we stood there and had a chat and it was just the two of us for about 5 minutes.

Then, I said, “Hey, let’s go outside and get some fresh air.”

Then, pretty much right away, when we were out in the balcony, I stood in front of her, looked her in the eyes, put my arm around her lower back where the small of her back is and she then put her arms over my shoulders and it was on.

We started kissing.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook The Flow or listen to the audiobook version The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend.

It's a step-by-step approach that you use when you meet a woman to make her feel attracted to you, connect with her and then get to the next level with her.

Alternatively, if you just want to learn about conversation and you want to go deep into the topic of conversation, I have another program called The Ultimate Guide to Conversation.

This program features Ben and Stu as well.

They are the other coaches here at The Modern Man.

We give over 70 examples of how to start a conversation, we give loads of examples of how to keep a conversation going and keep it interesting and we also explain how to attract a woman during a conversation, make her want you, make her love you and so on.

Flirting really is the shortcut to attracting women and making them want you in a sexual way.

Once you understand how to flirt with women and you start doing it, you will realize that most of the women you meet feel attracted to you.

As a result, you then start to feel confident and begin to enjoy your choice of woman because you're able to attract the kinds of women that you previously couldn't attract.

What you then realize, as you begin to attract and sleep with higher quality women, is that you have been good enough all along.

It's just that the approach you were using with women wasn't actually making them feel sexually attracted and turned on during a conversation.

Yet, when you use flirting and other techniques to make a woman feel attracted to you during a conversation, then sparks start to fly.

You are able to make her feel attracted to you, connect with her and then get to a kiss, sex, date and into a relationship, if you want that as well.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

4 Quick Dating Tips For Men

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Attracting and dating women doesn't have to be difficult.

Once you understand how the dynamic needs to play out between a man and a woman in order for sex to happen and a relationship to happen, you do that and pretty much every time, you get the girl.

It's pretty straightforward.

So, to help you with that, let's start with tip number 1...

1. Women don't select guys based on how nice they are

[image: Women don't choose men based on how nice they are]

If the woman that you want to have sex with is attractive, then pretty much every guy who meets her does what?

He is nice towards her, he is friendly towards her.

He tries to get her to like him for being a good guy.

He wants to show her that he's a good guy and has good intentions with her.

He hopes that if he just keeps talking to her, she's going to like him for that and then give him a chance to be with her.

However, that is not the way that it works.

Women don't select guys based on how nice they are to them.

Imagine if women did select men for that reason.

Women would say, "Oh, well, this guy has given me four compliments, this guy has given me three, this guy has giving me none, asshole, you're not getting a chance with me. Mr. Four Compliments, you get to stick it in, come over here. Good boy."

Additionally, if men got rewarded for how nice they were to women and that's how they got sex or a relationship, men would compete to be nicer and nicer to women.

Women will be walking along the street and men would be bowing down saying, "Almighty woman, what can I do for you?" and throwing gifts at her feet.

Obviously, that is not the way that women select men.

[image: Women don't choose men based on how nice they are]

However, many men do try to get selected by being nice to the woman (and they think that they are the only ones doing it).

They don't realize that pretty much every other guy is doing the same thing when they meet an attractive woman.

The way that women select men is based on who makes them feel sexually attracted and turned on as they interact with her and who actually has the courage to make a move and get something to happen.

For example: Some guys do know how to make a woman feel sexually attracted to them, but then they chicken out and they don't ask for a number, or they don't make a move and try to kiss her.

Alternatively, some guys do know how to make a woman feel attracted, but then when it comes to making a move, they start getting nervous and they turn the woman off.

So, if you want to enjoy easy consistent and natural success with women, what you need to focus on when you interact with women is making them feel sexually attracted and turned on by you as you talk to them.

You need to then have the courage to make a move and know what you're doing to actually make that move without stuffing it up.

By the way...

With women not selecting guys based on how nice they are to her, that doesn't mean you need to be bad to her, or treat her badly.

If you want an attractive woman to have a sexual interest in you, you need to be able to make her feel sexually attracted to you as you talk to her.

You can still be a good guy and women definitely do want good guys, but they select guys based on how much attraction they feel as they talk to a guy.

Then, the guys who actually get laid and get a girlfriend are the ones who have the courage to make a move and actually know what they're doing to make a move without stuffing it up.

2. If the sexual spark isn't there you can create it

[image: If the sexual spark isn't there, you can create it]

Have you ever noticed that on rare occasions, you will meet a woman and there'll be a spark between you and her automatically, even though you didn't do anything?

That's called getting lucky.

You and the woman have an automatic chemistry and you get along instantly and there are sparks flying between you and her based on your personality type, where you're both out in life and so on.

However, what about the women that you want to attract that don't initially feel a spark for you?

What about the pretty women that you see that you want to approach and meet, or the girl at work, or the girl at university, or the girl that you know through friends, or if you go out to a bar, the hot women standing there waiting to be approached by men so they can meet a man?

What do you do if those women don't initially feel a spark with you?

Well, what you need to understand is that as a man, you can CREATE a spark with a woman.

You can create a spark based on the way that you talk to her, the way that you behave and the way that you get her to behave around you.

So, when you're talking to her, you're displaying confidence, you're being charismatic, you're using some humor and so on.

Once you create a sexual spark with a woman, you can build on it and make her really want you to the point where you can get her phone number, you can kiss her and have sex with her or set up a date and then get into a relationship.

As a man, what you need to understand is that you can actually create a spark with a woman.

You don't have to go through life for many years hoping that one day you might meet a girl that automatically feels a spark for you and it just so happens that she's also pretty and single and wants to be with you.

Instead, you can have your choice with women by creating a sexual spark as you talk to them.

3. Don't talk about your romantic feelings for her before you've had sex with her

So many guys mess up their chance with a woman that is attracted to them and is interested in a relationship, but the guy then stuffs it up by telling her how much he feels for her, how he's falling in love with her, how serious he is about her, how special she is to him, how different she is than all the other girls and so on.

What you need to understand is that if the woman that you want to have sex with or have a relationship with is attractive, then pretty much every guy that gets a chance to meet her and talk to her and get to know her falls in love with her.

Most guys instantly want to have sex with her because of her looks and then start to fall in love with her because of her personality.

They start giving her relationship vibes and they essentially give her the impression that they are hoping to get a chance with her.

[image: Let her enjoy the thrill of the chase]

What an attractive woman wants to experience is the feeling where she feels as though she needs to impress you.

She needs to be on her best behavior in order to not lose her chance with you.

She needs to make you want her more, fall for her more and make you want a relationship.

It's her challenge.

It's her chase.

She is the one who's trying to lock you into a relationship.

Now, after you've had sex with a woman, there's nothing wrong with telling her that you like her, showing interest in a relationship and things like that.

However, if the woman that you've had sex with is very attractive, don't turn into Mr. Sensitive or Mr. Feelings and start being Mr. Romantic all of a sudden.

[image: Allow her to feel the need to impress you]

Let her enjoy the thrill of the chase.

Let her feel as though she needs to keep impressing you and being on her best behavior and using her charms on you to hopefully make you fall totally in love with her.

4. Don't panic when women test you

If you're talking to an attractive woman or you're dating an attractive woman, then you're going to experience tests.

She's going to pretend that she doesn't like you at times.

She's going to pretend that she's losing interest.

She's going to try to make you lose confidence in yourself.

She will test to see if you're the sort of man who can easily attract women, or if you're a desperate guy who is hoping to get chance with her.

She doesn't want to have sex or a relationship with a desperate guy who wants to get a chance with her, if she is attractive.

If she's unattractive, then great, she'll love that, but if you're talking to an attractive woman, or you're dating an attractive the woman, she's going to test you.

She's going to take time to reply to texts, or if you're talking to her in person, she'll temporarily start acting like she's losing interest to see how you react.

Do you panic? Do you start getting desperate? Do you start trying to suck up to her and really impress her and make her like you, or do you remain calm?

Do you know that you are good enough for her? Are you the sort of guy who feels worthy of an attractive woman or are you the sort of guy who is secretly panicking and is desperate and is hoping and hoping to get a chance with her?

So, if a woman tests you while you're talking to her, texting her or dating her, just remain calm.

Be confident in yourself and continue to build on her feelings of attraction for you.

Before you know it, you'll be having sex with her and if you want, you can enjoy a relationship with her as well.

Learn More

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook The Flow or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend.

When you use The Flow approach on women, they will feel attracted to you, they'll want to keep talking to you, they'll want to give you their phone number, kiss you, have sex with you and get into a relationship with you.

It really is an easy, straightforward thing to do.

Automatic, Consistent Success With Women

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that once you master the art of attracting women, it becomes something that you do on autopilot.

Initially, when you're learning how to attract women, you have to think about it a bit.

When you're interacting with a woman or dating her, you have to think, "Okay, what should I do here?" or, "Okay, I'll say that to her, I'll use this type of body language and I'll behave in this way."

However, once you use the techniques and see that it works, you then start to feel confident in yourself.

You know that you are in control now.

You can make women feel attracted to you.

You can handle situations that they throw at you to test you.

It's all easy for you now.

Before you know it, you're doing it on autopilot it's just another thing that you have learned and mastered in your life.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

An Unusual Way to Stop Feeling So Nervous Around Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

An unusual way to stop feeling so nervous around women is to realize that they are not more attractive than you.

It's just a trick that your male brain is playing on you.

We men are designed to naturally and instantly feel attracted to a woman's physical appearance and in many cases, it will be an instant intense attraction for her.

What happens for a lot of guys, is that they go through life feeling that intense attraction for women that they see throughout their everyday life or women that they meet.

They instantly feel attracted to her and wants something to happen, but they notice that women aren't responding to them in the same way.

[image: Feeling nervous because women don't react with intense feelings of attraction for his physical appearance]

This is where a lot of guys go wrong.

They start thinking that women are more attractive than them and women are more valuable than them because they feel so attracted to women and want something to happen with women so much, but women don't seem to want anything to do with them.

[image: Don't let your attraction for her make you feel nervous. You can make her feel attracted to you too]

The reason why that happens all over the world is that while it is true that women can feel attracted to a man's physical appearance, in most cases, most women don't look at most guys and feel an intense physical attraction.

[image: Don't let your attraction for her confuse you into thinking that she is more attractive than you]

It does happen in rare cases where a man is really good-looking, where they say, "Wow, that guy is really good-looking," but for the most part, women see most guys as just guys.

It's a sea of men who would happily have sex with her if she said yes to it.

That's the reality.

[image: Stop thinking that women are more attractive than you]

You can imagine what would happen if women felt attracted to men in the same way that we feel attracted to women.

Most men feel that instant attraction and if women felt the same instant attraction and wanted sex to happen as instantly and as easily, then people would just be getting it on in the streets.

Yes, that would be quite cool if you could just see a hot woman, she looks at you, you turn around, you bend her over and start having sex with her.

Great. Would be nice.

Yet, that's just not the way that it works.

In most cases, if you want to get some action with a woman, you want to make her your girlfriend, you want to get her phone number, you want to get on a date, you want to have sex with her and so on, you need to interact with her and make her feel attracted to you.

If the majority of women felt the same type of instant intense attraction to a man's physical appearance, then you would see women behave in a completely different way.

Obviously, they don't behave like that.

In some cases, some women do react to a very good-looking man and stop and look at him and so on. However, the majority of women don't feel enough attraction based on physical attraction to want to stop and meet a man and try to hook up with him in some way.

As you may have noticed, most women wait for a man to interact with them and if a man interacts with a woman and makes her feel attracted to his personality traits and behaviors during the interaction, she can feel just as much attraction to him as he feels to her.

So, he can make her feel an intense attraction for him.

It doesn't have to be based on his physical appearance.

It can be if the guy is really good-looking (i.e. he can walk up to a woman and he can make her feel an intense attraction to his extraordinarily good looks).

Yet, if a guy doesn't have that (i.e. 95% of guys), it doesn't mean that he can't make women feel intense attraction.

He can.

Women can feel attracted to men for reasons other than looks.

It is true.

Now, don't get me wrong though.

There are some women who will only accept a tall, good-looking guy with muscles, money and fame and a great car and all that sort of stuff.

We all know that.

We all know that those types of women exist.

However, the majority of women have what I call an Open Type, which means that they are open to being with all different types of guys as long as the guy is able to make her feel attracted as he interacts with her.

The thing is, if you go through life as a man and don't ever understand and accept the reality of attraction, you will no doubt feel nervous around women that you find attractive.

You might be able to feel confident around women that you don't find attractive, but if you see or interact with a woman that you find very attractive, it's just going to be the same thing again.

You're going to be looking at her, she's going to be making you feel intense attraction and your mindsets are going to start kicking in and making you think she is more attractive than you, she's more valuable than you and you're not good enough for her.

No.

You CAN make her feel attracted.

When you interact with her, you can make her feel the same amount of attraction that you're feeling for her.

When you're able to attract women during an interaction and you see that it works, THEN you start being confident.

You start realizing that you are in control.

A woman doesn't have to be automatically attracted to your looks and want something to happen to you based on your looks, in order for you to get a chance with her.

You can make women feel attracted to you.

Of course, as I said earlier, some women will only ever want a tall guy with muscles and really, really good looks, we all know that, but the majority of women that you will meet in your life, will have what I call an Open Type.

You can literally make them feel attracted to you as you talk to them.

When you're able to do that, there's no reason to be nervous.

Instead, you just start enjoying your choice of women.

You feel confident, you feel excited and you want to meet more women, so you can either continue having sex with lots of women, or find yourself a perfect girl to settle down with.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

When you read The Flow or listen to The Flow on Audio, you will learn my best techniques for being confident around women.

You will learn how to start conversations, keep conversations going and keep them interesting.

You will learn how to create a spark with a woman and quickly build on her feelings of attraction for you, so she wants something to happen between you and her.

You will learn what to say to get her phone number, how to get to a kiss, how to get to sex, how to get a date, what to text her after getting her phone number and so on.

The Power of Having the Right Mindset

One final point that I want to make for you in this video, is to point out the importance of having the right mindset.

If you feel an instant attraction for women that you find attractive and then you add on an ineffective mindset to that, you're going to feel nervous.

For example: If you add on a mindset of, "I'm not good enough for her. She is more attractive than me. I couldn't get a girl like her," then you're going to feel nervous.

You're going to doubt yourself.

However, if you add on an effective mindset and say to yourself, "I can make her feel attracted. I can make her feel as much attraction for me as I feel for her. I am in control. I can make her feel attracted,” then, you’re going to feel more confident.

You’re going to feel more willing to interact with her and if you know how to make her feel attracted while you’re talking to her, then you’re going to make her feel attracted.

By the way...

If you’re wondering how to make a woman feel attracted, here is an example.

Women feel naturally attracted to a man when he is confident, so display confidence while you’re interacting with her by knowing that she is NOT more attractive than you.

You are just feeling a default automatic attraction for her based on her physical appearance.

Don’t let your attraction for her confuse you and make you think that she is more attractive than you. She’s not.

You’re just feeling an instant attraction and you can make her feel attracted to you in many different ways as you interact with her.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

The Attraction Scale: Control How Much Attraction a Woman Feels For You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

A woman's attraction for a man is something that is scalable.

A woman can literally go from feeling no attraction for a man to feeling a 7, 8, 9, or even 10 out of 10 level of attraction for him based on how he talks to her, behaves around her and gets her to behave around him.

This rule of attraction applies to picking up women and to relationships.

So, if you're a guy who is looking to pick up women or if you're in a relationship, what you need to know is that you can control how much attraction a woman feels for you.

You can literally scale it up based on how you talk to her, how you behave around her and how you get her to behave around you.

I'm going to give you an example of how attraction works when picking up women and how it works when in a relationship.

For now, let's look at the attraction scale.

I've broken this down into four levels: 0 to 3, 4 to 6, 7 to 8 and 9 to 10.

[image: The Attraction Scale: Control how much or little attraction a woman feels for you]

In a pickup scenario, if a woman feels a 0 to 3 level of attraction for a guy, then she won't be interested in anything sexual or romantic.

Depending on the woman, she might be friendly towards the guy and have a friendly conversation with him, or she will reject him to end the interaction.

In a relationship, if a woman feels a 0 to 3 level of attraction for her man, she will lose interest in sex. She will no longer want to be affectionate.

She will voice her unhappiness with the relationship to hopefully get her man to change, or she will get ready to break up with him and then she will leave the relationship when she is ready to do it.

If a woman feels a level of attraction between 4 and 6 for a man, in a pickup situation, she will be somewhat interested in him.

She will usually be interested in talking further to see if something develops.

She may give her phone number, but will usually say no at this level of attraction.

In a relationship with a 4 to 6 level of attraction, a woman will be fairly happy with the relationship, but she won't be in love.

She won't look at her man as being sexy, but she may have a friendly nonsexual love for him.

Sex will happen, but in most cases, she won't want to initiate and won't really care if they don't have it often.

If she's the sort of woman who really wants a lot of sex, she may begin to complain that she's feeling bored in the relationship and doesn't know if she wants to be together anymore.

With a 7 to 8 level of attraction, in a pickup situation, a woman will be attracted and interested in the guy.

She'll be interested in talking further, exchanging contact information and setting up a date.

Depending on the woman, she will also be keen to kiss and/or have sex with the man right away, or on the first or second date.

In a relationship, if a woman is at a 7 to 8 level of attraction, she will be attracted to her man, she'll be happy and in love, but she won't be madly in love if the attraction never reaches a 9 or a 10 level regularly.

Sex will happen, she will initiate sometimes and she will want it more often than if she were at a 4 to 6 level of attraction.

At this level of attraction, a woman won't want to cheat on her man or leave him.

Finally, at a 9 to 10 level of attraction, in a pickup situation, a woman will be very attracted and interested.

She will either be trying to pick him up and ensure that they exchange details, kiss or have sex, or she will make it very easy for him to get to that point with her.

She will be very keen to meet up with him for a date.

She will try to impress him and she will try to make him happy.

She will want to ensure that she locks him into a relationship before another girl takes him.

In a relationship, if a woman is at a 9 to 10 level of attraction, she will be very attracted, very happy and madly in love with her man.

Sex will happen often and it will be spontaneous and full of feelings of love, passion and mutual enjoyment.

She will initiate sex because she won't be able to stop herself from wanting to release the built-up sexual tension that keeps happening between her and her man based on their day-to-day interactions in the relationship.

At this level of attraction, a woman never wants to leave her man or cheat on him.

In almost all cases, if other guys hit on her, she just isn't interested because she knows that they almost certainly won't be able to make her feel the way that he does.

So, when it comes to the ability to attract women, men tend to fall into one of three categories.

The first type of man is a natural at attracting women.

The second type of man is learning how to be a natural at attracting women and the third type of man doesn't know how to attract women properly and in many cases, doesn't even think that it's possible for him to improve his ability to attract women.

What you may have noticed is that guys who are naturally good with women or guys who have learned to become naturally good with women are able to easily and effortlessly attract women.

They're able to keep a woman at a 7 to 10 out of 10 level of attraction easily and effortlessly.

Next, guys who are learning how to attract women will find it a bit challenging at the start.

They will still be able to make a woman feel a 7 out of 10 and sometimes up to a 10 out of 10 level of attraction, but they will have to try to do it. It won't be effortless for them yet.

However, it's sort of like learning how to drive a car.

If you think about how you felt when you first learned how to drive a car, you may have gotten in there and thought, “Well, how am I going to do this? I have to look at the mirror, I have to check this mirror, I have to change the gear, I have to focus on the road, I have got to think about the road rules. There’s too much to think of. I can’t do this.”

Alternatively, did you think, “Hang on, everyone else can do it, so, I can do it too. I just have to learn how to do it and eventually it’s going to be easy and effortless for me.”

Initially it might’ve been a bit intimidating and you might have been a bit unsure of yourself, but you were able to get through that to the point where you are now a naturally good driver.

So, just know that it is also possible and completely normal for a man to learn and improve his ability to attract women.

When a man does that, he is then able to enjoy his choice of women when picking up women and when in a relationship, he is able to maintain and build on his woman’s feelings of respect, attraction and love for him.

Now, the third type of guy is the guy who doesn’t know how to attract women and in many cases, doesn’t even think that it’s possible for him to improve his ability to attract women.

Men like that will often spend their life trying to please women and it will never be enough.

They’ll try to live up to women’s expectations and women will just keep asking for more and more and more.

Additionally, guys like that will usually get dumped, cheated on, or they will end up accepting whatever they can get with women.

As a result, a guy like that might end up feeling annoyed at women and even hating women and blaming them for the results that he has experienced.

What I want you to know is that it doesn’t have to be that way, where you have to put in loads of effort to hopefully get a woman to like you, or, if you’re in a relationship, hopefully get your woman to love you and be affectionate towards you by living up to all of her expectations, doing lots of things for her and so on.

It doesn’t have to be like that.

Attracting women is very simple and straightforward.

So, in terms of putting the attraction scale to work, in a pickup situation, you need to get a woman’s attraction level to a 9 or a 10 to make sure that you are successful at picking her up.

You can pick up women at a lower level of attraction, but you will get inconsistent results and you usually won’t be able to attract high-quality women.

If you want to get consistent results and you want to attract high-quality women, you need to make sure that you make them feel a 9 or a 10 out of 10 level of attraction while you’re interacting with them.

In a relationship, you need to keep the attraction between a 7 and a 10.

It doesn’t have to be 9 out of 10, 10 out of 10, all the time.

It’s a bit more relaxed when it comes to relationship because the woman is already with you.

She’s in love with you. You have history together. You are happy together. You’re doing things together and so on.

However, if you want to have an amazing relationship with her, where she is a really good woman to you and initiates sex, loves you, shows affection, does good things for you all the time, then, you need to be able to make her experience 9 to 10 levels of attraction on a fairly regular basis.

So, how do you do that?

In a pickup situation, an example of what will make a woman feel a 7 to 8 level of attraction for a guy is if he is talking to her and being confident and he then maintains his confidence even when she pretends to lose interest in talking to him.

Most attractive women test a guy's confidence by doing that and what most guys do, is that they suddenly start to appear nervous and start trying harder to impress her and please her in the conversation because they think that she is losing interest.

The guy is thinking, "Damn it, I'm losing my chance with her! What am I going to say? How am I going to get her to continue talking to me?"

And as a result, his body language, behavior and conversation style changes.

It starts to appear nervous and a bit desperate and the woman feels turned off.

So, if a guy is interacting with a woman and is talking to her in a confident way and she then tests him by pretending to lose interest, by changing her body language and not contributing a lot to the conversation, but he remains confident, she will then feel a 7 to 8 level of attraction for him.

Where a lot of guys go wrong is that they're talking to an attractive woman, things seem to be going well and then she starts testing his confidence and he starts losing confidence.

His body language starts appearing nervous and unsure.

What a guy needs to do is to maintain his confidence and not appear rejected in any way.

He needs to let her see that he has independent confidence and doesn't need her to be contributing to the conversation all the time and being nice to him in order for him to feel confident.

He has independent confidence and is going to be confident no matter what she says or does.

So, a relationship example of how to make a woman feel a 7 to 8 level of attraction is where a guy has made the mistake of giving his woman too much power in the relationship.

She doesn't feel feminine in comparison to him anymore and as a result, she doesn't really feel the motivation to be affectionate with him.

She feels more like a friend around him.

Additionally, he has also made the mistake of becoming the type of boyfriend or husband that keeps doing more and more and more for his woman in order to hopefully get some affection from her.

He buys her more things, he does more things around the house, he gets out of her way, he's nicer to her, he listens, he understands, he's always there for her and so on.

Yet, no matter how much he does for her, she still doesn't give him that affection and love and respect.

So, something that he can do when they're at home together is either stop her and get her to give him a hug, or ask her for a hug and then make her feel attracted to the fact that he is being dominant while hugging her.

If they're passing each other in the house, he can stand in front of her and just bring her in for a hug and get her to hug him.

If she hasn't been feeling much attraction for him, she might push away a little bit, but he needs to hold her in the hug and tell her just to relax.

If he is taller than her, then after about five seconds or so, he can lift up her chin and get her to give him a kiss.

If they are the same height, he can grab her face (i.e open his hand, place his thumb on the cheek of one side of her face and the other fingers on the other cheek on the other side of her face) and give her a bit of kiss to show her that he is being dominant.

He can make her feel a spark of attraction for that type of masculine dominance.

If he wants to put the icing on the cake after that, as she walks away, he can give her a spank on the butt and have a laugh with her about that.

Now, compare that to a man who isn't getting love and affection from his woman and he sulks and complains about it.

He is sulking to her, complaining and saying, "Why aren't you being affectionate? I'm doing all these things for you. Why are you being like this?" "I wasn't initially attracted to him, but once I met him and talked to him, I felt a spark and we fell in love," and so on.

What happened is that the guy made her feel attracted, she then opened up to the pickup and he was able to get her number or kiss her or have sex with her or set up a date.

Additionally, in a relationship situation, if a woman has fallen out of love with a man because she hasn't been feeling attracted to him for quite a while, it doesn't mean that he can't make her feel attracted again and make her fall back in love with him.

He can.

He can literally change the way that he is talking to her, behaving around her and getting her to behave around him.

As a result, she'll start to feel that 7 to 8 level of attraction for him and at times, will then start to feel that 9 to 10 level of attraction for him and will fall back in love with him.

If he hasn't really been able to make her feel a 9 out of 10 or a 10 out of 10 level of attraction before, then when he starts doing that on a fairly regular basis, they will literally be happier together than they ever have been before.

In terms of a pickup situation, just because a guy has been rejected by women in the past and hasn't been able to create a spark with the types of women that he finds attractive, it doesn't mean that that is his destiny and that is his fate and that he is doomed for life when it comes to women.

He can literally change the way that he talks to women, the way that he behaves around them and the way that he makes them behave around him.

As a result, they will feel high levels of attraction for him.

He will begin to attract women that he finds really attractive.

They will be interested in him and he will then have his choice of women.

Learn More

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I have two recommendations for you.

If you're interested in being able to easily and effortlessly attract and pick up women, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

If you're in a relationship and your woman has fallen out of love with you, is no longer attracted to you or being affectionate and the relationship is starting to fall apart, I recommend that you watch my program, Make Her Love You For Life, which is also available on audio.

One of the really cool things about being a man is that we men can literally make women feel more attracted to us by the way that we talk to them, how we behave around them and how we get them to behave around us.

When you've mastered the art of attracting women, you can enjoy your choice of women when it comes to pickup and as a result, you don't have to settle for whatever you can get, which is usually less than you want in terms of the attractiveness of the woman.

When it comes to relationships, mastering the art of attraction is essential if you want to have a woman who looks at you with respect, attraction and love, who treats you with respect, who is affectionate towards you and is in love with you.

Guys who don't understand how to attract women, end up feeling very miserable and lonely and unhappy in their relationship because no matter what they try to do to be nice to their woman, be good to her, do things for her and live up to her expectations and so on, it's never enough.

What these guys don't understand is that they can make their woman feel attracted to them by changing how they talk to her, how they behave around her and how they get her to behave around them.

When it comes to pickup and relationships, you don't have to suck up to women, be really nice to them and try to live up to all of their expectations, which just keep going on and on and on and on.

What you've got to do is make women feel sexually attracted to you.

When you master the art of attracting women, it all becomes quite funny.

You literally laugh at how easy women are to pick up and how easy it is to make a woman feel attracted to you when in a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

A Bad Boy Attraction Secret That Good Guys Can Use

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Have you ever noticed how very beautiful, cute, easy going, down to Earth and often intelligent women end up lusting after bad boys?

What's going on there?

[image: Bad boy attraction secrets to attract women]

Why would a woman like that want a bad boy when there are so many good men who will treat her well?

Well that (i.e. the fact that most guys treat her well, try to show her that they have good intentions and hope to get a chance with her because of it) is actually one of the main reasons why women like that end up lusting after bad boys.

The thing isn't if a woman is beautiful and she is a bit cute and friendly, down to Earth and even intelligent, what happens is that most guys who have a chance to meet her will have a sexual and/or romantic interest in her.

As a result, they will be pretty tame around her.

[image: Most guys are tame around attractive women and only show their good guy side]

Most guys are either going to be on their best behavior, trying to be really nice to her and suck up to her or they are going to be on good behavior and they're just going to be a neutral, straightforward guy,.

Guys want to show her that they are a good guy and they also don't want to say or do anything that might annoy her or turn her off in any way.

So, they are all tame around her...and no one really stands out.

What happens for a lot of guys is that while they see many women that they find attractive, they don't actually get to properly meet many women that they find attractive and have a chance to talk to her and maybe get something to happen.

So, for a lot of guys, when they meet an attractive woman who has those type of qualities that many guys are looking for such as being down to Earth, easygoing and intelligent, the guy can't stop himself from showing a lot of interest or giving her relationship vibes.

For example: Asking her, "Do you have a boyfriend?" or just showing that he really likes her and is hoping that something happens by the way that he is talking to her (i.e. by being really keen when he is talking to her) and things like that.

So, when a woman comes across a bad boy or a good guy, who is using the technique that I am going to share with you now, it piques her interest.

He stands out.

She wants to impress him.

She wants to get him to like her.

So, the bad boy attraction secret that good guys can use is to essentially give a woman an impression that says, "You can't tame me."

Most guys that she meets are tame around her.

They want to say and do the right things to hopefully get a chance with her.

Additionally, some guys actually feel privileged to be interacting with the attractive woman, so they treat her well and with respect.

This is often referred to as the Halo Effect, where it is being scientifically proven that attractive people are automatically seen as being smarter, nicer people and more trustworthy and so on.

So, how a bad boy stands out (or a good guy who uses this technique) is that he comes across in a way, that makes her see that she couldn't easily tame him and get him to want a relationship with her. She couldn't easily hold him down.

She couldn't easily get him to be domesticated, so to speak and be a boyfriend or a husband.

She would need to really continue to impress him and make him feel attracted and not screw up her chance with him.

Now, there are many ways that you can convey that to an attractive woman.

In this video, I will give you 2 examples.

The first example, when you are talking to her and the second example, after you have had sex with her.

So, with the first example, when you are talking to her, when a woman asks the classic question of "What you do for a living?" most guys are going to be tame about it.

Most guys are going to want to have a straightforward conversation with her.

They don't want her to lose interest in talking to them, so they give their answers right away and try to give her good answers.

Yet, what a bad boy or what a good guy who uses this technique will do, is he won't always answer her questions in a straightforward manner.

For example: If a woman asks a typical tame guy what he does for a living, he might say, "I work in I.T, how about you?" and try to have a conversation with her about work, whereas a bad boy who uses this technique will answer in a different way.

"I work in I.T. Why? You like computer code? You want to come home and write a computer code with me? Is that what you are getting it? You don't look like the sort of girl who can write a computer code. For you, it seems like computers are about checking Facebook and Instagram and things like that, right?" and then have a laugh with her about that.

Alternatively, he might say something like, "I work in I.T. I am an I.T nerd. You like nerds, don't you? You are into nerdy guys, aren't you?" and then have a laugh with her about that.

Alternatively, he might say something like, "What do I do for a living? Why are you asking me silly questions like that? Is that all you've got? Where did you get that line from, the internet or something? Come on, give me a better line than that. What do you do for a living? What are you going to ask me next, do you have any brothers and sisters? Where are you from? Jeez, you're a boring girl, aren't you?" and then have a laugh with her about that.

If she is an attractive woman who has that type of personality that most guys want to lock into a relationship or at least have sex with, then she is not going to be expecting a response like that.

Pretty much every time she meets a guy, the guy instantly falls in love with her or the guy is on his best behavior or on good behavior or is treating her with extra respect because she is an attractive person.

Yet, a bad boy or a good guy using this technique doesn't give her that privilege.

He doesn't think that he needs to bow down and be really nice because she is attractive.

Additionally, what's really important here is that he is giving her the impression that she couldn't easily tame him.

He is not instantly smitten by her and giving her relationship vibes.

He is not trying to get anything from her.

Instead, what he's doing is making her feel attracted to him by displaying personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women, such as being confident, being masculine, making her laugh and so on.

Now, the guy doesn't actually have to be a bad person to say that to a woman, as you can tell.

There are some real bad boys out there, who are bad people and are thugs and kill people and all that sort of stuff, but most bad boys aren't actually bad people.

They just have a lot of confidence in themselves and women really like that.

A contrast example to give you is about women.

If you think about a woman who always dresses very conservatively and she doesn't show any cleavage and she then sees a woman who is showing some cleavage and maybe wearing a short skirt, she might look at that woman as being a bad girl.

Yet, just because the woman is showing a bit of cleavage or has a short skirt on, it doesn't mean that she is a bad person.

She might be a bit more of a bad girl than the woman who dresses in a conservative way, but she is not actually a bad person.

The same goes for interacting with women.

When a guy has the courage to occasionally talk to a woman in the way that I was giving you examples of earlier, it doesn't actually mean that he is a bad person.

A woman might see him as a bit of a bad boy and really nice guys might see him as a bad boy or a jerk, but he is not actually a bad person.

He is just being a bit more confident and being a bit more masculine in the way that he talks to women, compared to how a really tame guy is being when he talks to women.

The next example to give you is after you have had sex with a really attractive woman.

Most guys who get to have sex with an attractive woman will immediately go into relationship mode and many of those guys will start saying "I love you" very quickly.

Many of the attractive women that I've slept with, have confessed to me that guys instantly fall in love with them and they say "I love you" on the first date, leading up to sex or after sex and there's no challenge for the woman.

The guy is instantly smitten and wants her for life in many cases.

Now, if a guy wants to instantly fall in love with an attractive woman and show that to her, he can do that if he wants to.

There is no one stopping him doing that.

However, what he needs to understand is that, if she is an attractive woman, then she has almost certainly experienced that again and again throughout her life.

She wants a guy who is a bit more of a challenge for her.

What attractive women really appreciate, is when a guy is a good guy and treats her well, but also makes her feel like she needs to impress him.

She needs to keep being attractive for him.

She needs to be on her best behavior around him otherwise he is going to lose interest.

Unfortunately, though, most guys don't have the courage to do that, because they don't want to screw up their chances with the attractive woman who likes them.

They want to make sure that they treat her well and show her that they are willing to do whatever she wants as long as she likes them.

However, what she really wants is to be in a position where she feels like she needs to impress the guy as well.

She doesn't want to be in a position where he is not completely sold on her and she now doesn't have to do anything else for the rest of her life other than just be with him.

She doesn't want that.

She wants a guy who makes her feel like she needs to continually impress him as well.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you have enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you would like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook The Flow or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

When you read The Flow or listen to The Flow on Audio, you will learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel attracted to you right away, to keep conversations going and keep them interesting, to get to a phone number, kiss, sex, date and into a relationship if you want that as well.

Women Do Like and Want Good Guys

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that women do like and want good guys.

The answer to success with women is not to be a bad guy.

You don't have to treat women badly in order for them to want you.

However, what you need to keep in mind is that if a woman is attractive, then pretty much every guy that she meets gives her special treatment.

They treat her nicer than they treat less attractive women, in most cases and they are usually on their best behavior or at least good behavior around her.

So, what stands out to a woman like that is a guy who isn't instantly smitten by her and isn't giving her special privileges just because she looks the way that she does.

You can still be a good man and be good to her and have nice conversations, but you need to make sure that you have the courage to also add in the types of things that I was talking about in this video where you're showing her that you are not easily tamed.

She hasn't instantly won you over and if she does want to win you over, she has to turn on her charm and start showing you more interest and treat you better, impress you more and then you might really like her.

It's going to feel a lot more special to an attractive woman that she was able to use her charm and seduce a guy into a relationship and get him to love her, compared to going through the usual experience of pretty much every single guy that she meets has a sexual or romantic interest in her, is immediately tamed and is completely in love with her or just wants her for sex.

When a woman comes across a guy who isn't as easily tamed, she then feels more excited when she gets to hold his hand, or when she gets to meet his family and friends, compared to a guy who is hoping to hold her hand and he's going to feel really special about that or he is excited to introduce her to his family and friends because he is so proud that he's got an attractive woman.

What is more exciting to her, is when she gets to hold the guy's hand and she is finally good enough in his eyes to be introduced to his family and friends.

Now, that is not to say that you have to delay the introduction to meeting your family and friends or you have to delay holding her hand, those are just two examples of how things can play out when you are not easily tamed.

If she happens to meet your friends right away, it doesn't matter.

If you happen to hold her hand after an hour of meeting her, it doesn't matter.

What is important though, is that if she is an attractive woman, the overall impression that she should be getting from you is that you are not easily tamed.

She is going to have to continue impressing you, being attractive to you and treating you well in order to ensure that you don't lose interest in her.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Is Being Aloof Attractive to Women?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

So, does being aloof attract women?

Is that what a guy needs to do?

Does a guy need to show a woman that he's not interested in her, for her to then have an interest in him?

Do women want what they can't have?

Does the old saying of "What is scarce, is valuable" apply to attracting women?

First, let's make sure that you and I are on the same page here by having a look at the dictionary definition of aloof.

Aloof (adjective): Not friendly or forthcoming; cool and distant. Conspicuously uninvolved and uninterested, typically through distaste.

So, is that what a guy needs to do to make a woman feel attracted to him? Does that work?

[image: Does being aloof make women feel attracted to you?]

The answer is that it depends on whether or not the woman has felt a spark of attraction for the guy yet or not.

For example: If a woman is in a work environment and there are 20 guys there that could be a potential match for her, or if she's at university and there are hundreds of guys who could be a potential match for her, or if she's at a bar and there are 50 or so guys that could be a potential match for her, she doesn't look around and feel attracted to all of those guys because they're being aloof and not showing interest in her.

The way that it works is that you have to interact with the woman, so you can create a spark of attraction inside of her first.

You need to flirt with her a little bit and then start being aloof.

She will then begin to wonder why you're not pursuing her because there was clearly a spark between you and her.

[image: Being aloof after attracting her can make her feel insecure around you, or it can make her want to pursue you to make herself feel like she has seduced you.]

She might then assume that the reason why you're not pursuing her is that she's not attractive enough, or she hasn't shown you enough interest.

So, what a woman will usually do then is try to make herself look prettier or more beautiful, or she will interact with you and show you more interest to hopefully get you to see that she does like you.

Now, here's where it gets really interesting.

Since she is trying to get you to like her and feel attracted to her and she is trying to show you that she does like you, what happens is that during the process of doing that she falls for you.

She starts really want you to like her and really want something to happen between you and her.

Then, essentially what you're doing is giving her a chance to be with you.

So, you first have to interact with the woman and create a spark of attraction inside of her and flirt with her and then start being aloof.

[image: There are many ways that you can create a spark of attraction inside of a woman]

There are many ways that you can create a spark of attraction inside of a woman, such as being very confident around her, being emotionally masculine, displaying charisma, social intelligence, making her laugh and so on.

However, one of the quickest and easiest ways to do it is to playfully mess with her during a conversation.

For example: If a man meets a woman, is getting along with her and she then asks him the classic question of, “So, do you have a girlfriend?” he can use that to playfully mess with her and create a spark of attraction inside of her.

She asks the question, “So, do you have a girlfriend?” and he smiles, laughs a little and says, “Why? Do you want to take me out on a date? Look, if you want to take me out on a date, just ask me. If you want to take me out to dinner and wine and dine me, be direct about it. Ask me. Don’t be so shy.”

Pretty much every woman that you say that to will laugh, say that she wasn’t trying to say that and add on that if you and her were going to go out on a date, it would be you who needs to take her out on a date.

By talking to her in that way, you’re playfully messing with her.

You’re creating a spark.

You’re playfully misinterpreting her question as meaning that she’s trying to hit on you (i.e. she’s trying to find out if she can take you out on a date or not).

As a result, you are the prize.

You are the one who is going to be allowing her to get a chance with you.

So, if you’re interacting with a woman, being confident, creating a spark inside of her and you and her clearly seem to be getting along, but then you start being aloof, she is going to start to wonder why you’re not pursuing her.

Of course, being aloof is not a guaranteed method that is going to cause a woman to pursue you and want to be with you.

Sometimes women have too much self-pride to pursue a guy.

Sometimes women are too shy and insecure and too self-doubting to pursue a guy.

Sometimes women don’t want to experience rejection and will assume that the guy was simply flirting with them, is a very confident guy who could have his choice with women and therefore isn’t interested in her because she’s not pretty enough.

She then thinks, “Well, if I try to pursue him further, he might reject me and then I’m going to feel worse about myself.”

So, while being aloof can make a woman pursue you and can be attractive, I don’t recommend that you use it as your main approach to attracting and picking up women.

What I recommend that you do is attract a woman, connect with her and get to a phone number, kiss, sex, date and enter a relationship if you want that as well.

[image: Attract her, get to a kiss and then sex]

When you have the ability to make women feel attracted during a conversation and you also have confidence in yourself knowing that the woman is attracted and you are going to be able to handle each step of the process to get to a phone number, kiss, sex, date and into a relationship, then you don't hesitate.

You see women that you find attractive, you interact with them, you make them feel attracted and then you get to the next level with them.

You don't waste time playing mind games and hoping that if you just stay out of a woman's way she's going to pursue you.

Of course, if you just want to mess with a woman's mind just for fun and attract her and then be aloof to get her to pursue you, then go ahead and do that.

It's a great confidence boost when you do that and then see that a woman is pursuing you, is trying to be really nice to you and is trying to make herself look prettier and more attractive, so you will then have more of an interest in her.

You can do that if you want to.

However, if you want to get consistent results with women, I recommend that you attract women and then go through the rest of the process to get to kissing, sex and get to a relationship if you want that as well.

So, in summary, a woman will usually only care that you're being aloof if she is already attracted to you.

Here's how it works...

If she is attracted to you, she might care and might pursue you.

If she isn't attracted to you yet, she almost certainly won't care and possibly won't even notice.

Not because you're not good enough for her, but you haven't yet flicked on her feelings of attraction to you.

If you want a woman to care that you're being aloof and aren't pursuing her, you first have to make her feel a spark of sexual attraction for you during an interaction.

When she feels that spark, she will then have a sexual and possibly romantic interest in you and may pursue you, or try to get you to feel more attracted to her so you pursue her.

That's how being aloof will help you attract a woman.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook The Flow, or listen to the audiobook version The Flow on Audio.

When you read The Flow or listen to the audiobook version, you will learn my step by step process for attracting and picking up women in a natural way.

It's a very simple and easy thing to do and once you've used The Flow on a woman once or twice, you will see that you can enjoy your choice of women.

You don't need to play lots of mind games with women or try hard to get them to like you.

You simply make them feel attracted to you, build on that attraction, connect with them and then get to a kiss, sex, date and into a relationship.

It's a very, very easy thing to do.

Women Can Tell if a Guy is Being Aloof Because He is Shy or Lacks Confidence

One final point that I want to make for you, is that sometimes a guy ends up being aloof because he's shy and he doubts himself.

Women can sense that very easily.

Women already know that a lot of the guys who keep to themselves and don't show any active interest in a woman, or avoid interacting with her to create a spark do that because they doubt themselves, are shy and don't have the confidence to interact with her and make something happen.

So, what women find attractive is a confident guy who has created a spark of attraction inside of her, but is not pursuing her.

He's getting on with his life, he's interacting with other people and he's not trying hard to get a chance with her.

As a result, in some cases, that can cause a woman to want to make him like her more.

So, she will start flirting with him, she'll start showing him lots of interest and she will hope that she can get him to behave like other guys typically do when they meet her, which is to immediately start showing interest.

Yet, when he's interacting with her, if he continues to make her feel attracted by being confident, displaying charisma, being socially intelligent and making her laugh, but isn't pursuing her and is being a little bit disinterested, then it can cause a woman to look at him as being a guy who is a real challenge for her.

However, what you need to understand, as I said earlier, is sometimes a woman will stop at that point.

She won't want to get rejected any further.

She will assume that the guy doesn't see her as being pretty enough and attractive enough and that's why he's not interested.

So, if you are going to be a bit aloof when you're interacting with women, I recommend that you don't go too far with it.

Unless of course, you just want to mess with a woman's mind.

If you want to do that for fun, then go ahead and use it as a confidence boost.

However, if you want to get consistent results with women, then just go from one step to the next until you're kissing her, having sex with her and, if you want, enjoying a relationship with her as well.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

4 Dating Struggles of Highly Intelligent Men

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

For a highly intelligent man, most things in life are pretty straightforward.

The man is able to look at the situation, understand what is going on and then apply a solution.

However, when it comes to women, dating and relationships, a lot of highly intelligent men end up feeling very confused and can't work out what women really want and what they should be doing to get the results that they want with women.

So, in this video, I'm going to explain 4 dating struggles of highly intelligent men and explain where men go wrong and what they should be doing instead to enjoy easy success with women.

Let's start with number 1. The first dating struggle of a highly intelligent man is that...

1. He's so used to being right about everything in life that he can't see how it could be possible for him to be wrong about women in any way

[image: What the heck is wrong with women these days?]

His intelligent mind gives him an advantage over others in life.

The advantage is that he's usually right about pretty much everything.

As a result, he naturally sees himself as smarter than the average guy.

He knows that he is a little bit different than other guys and in most cases, he felt that way back in school and even to this day.

In fact, now that he's grown up, he knows for sure that he really does see things differently than other people.

He knows so many things that other people just don't understand, or can't understand because they're not as intelligent or as aware as he is.

Yet, when it comes to women he keeps failing and he doesn't know why.

For example: He has tried being nice to women, but that didn't work for him.

Women just saw him as a nice friendly guy and had no sexual interest in him.

He then tried being very nice, but that resulted in women seeing him as being desperate and too keen and making the woman feel as though she is probably better than him.

Even though she wasn't better than him, he made her feel that way by being extra nice to her.

He then tried being neutral around women.

So, not being nice, too nice or anything unusual.

Instead, just being a normal, straightforward guy.

Yet, when he did that, there was no spark between him and women.

So, he then started to think, "Okay, maybe I'll try being rude to women. I've heard that women like bad boys so maybe if I'm rude and show women that I don't care about them, they'll like me for that.”

Yet, women just ended up seeing him as an arrogant jerk and they weren't interested in him.

He then thought, “Okay, I’m going to be aloof and uninterested. I’m not going to show any interest in women and I’m just going to do my own thing.”

Yet, when he got on with his life and did his own thing, months and years passed and women weren't chasing him.

He then thought, “Okay, maybe women like guys who are very positive and happy.”

So, he tried to be in a positive and happy mood and that resulted in women enjoying being around him and having a good time talking to him, but there was still no sexual spark.

He then thought, “Okay, I’ll just try to be friendly and try to get along with a woman and hope that something develops,” but there was still no spark between him and the kinds of women that he actually wanted.

As a result, an intelligent guy might then come to the conclusion that women must be crazy.

Either that or it must be impossible to attract women these days because they're way too choosy.

Alternatively, an intelligent man might think, “Well, since I haven't yet been able to crack the code and understand what women want, it must mean that it's an uncrackable code and there's no hope for me. I'm just going to have to accept that I'm never going to have my choice with women and that women are always going to be a complete mystery to me.”

So, what's the verdict on that?

Is the intelligent man right or wrong?

Well, in this case, he is partially right, in that some women are crazy.

We all know that.

However, the majority of women are not crazy, just like the majority of men are not crazy.

Most women are good women and most guys are good guys.

The reason why the intelligent man is failing with women isn't because women are all crazy.

In terms of women being too choosy these days, the reality is that some women are choosy, but the majority of women have what I call an Open Type.

That means that they're open to being with all different types of guys, as long as they meet a guy who can make them feel attracted, connect with them and get to a phone number, kiss, sex and into a relationship.

Finally, in terms of women being an uncrackable code the intelligent man, in this case, is wrong because the code has been cracked.

I cracked the code a long, long time ago and I've been teaching men ever since.

The fact is that most women, including beautiful and pretty women, are way easier to attract and pickup than they make themselves out to be.

It's actually a very simple straightforward thing to do.

So, if you are one of the highly intelligent men who are struggling to get results with women, what I recommend that you do is use your intelligence to quickly learn the skills that are required to succeed with women.

What you'll find when you use some of the techniques that I teach (and I'm going to give you some examples now) is that it's actually very easy.

Additionally, for you, it should actually be easier than it is for the average guy because you are more intelligent than the average guy.

So, the example that I want to give you now is where a guy is talking to a woman and asking her straightforward questions such as, "What do you do for a living? Where are you from? Do you have any brothers and sisters? What did you study?" if she went to university and so on.

There's nothing wrong with asking a woman those questions.

However, when a man asks those questions to a woman and has a logical conversation about it, it doesn't make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

It just makes her feel neutral.

So, what you need to understand, is that when you ask a woman straightforward questions like that, you have an opportunity to make her feel sexually and romantically attracted to you, based on either how you ask the question or how you respond and react to her answers.

If you ask a woman what she does for a living and she says, "A receptionist," a neutral way to respond that isn't going to make her feel attracted is to say something like, "Oh, how long you been doing that?" or "What company do you work for?" and then have a logical conversation about it.

On the other hand, if you respond by playfully making fun of her answers or playfully messing with her, then you're going to make her feel attracted.

Why? You're going to be displaying confidence, social intelligence, the ability to make her laugh and masculinity. You're going to be making her feel feminine in comparison to how masculine you are being in the interaction.

So, if you ask her what she does for a living and she says that she works as a receptionist, you can look at her and then say something like, "You look like you'd be a mean receptionist" and have a laugh with her about that.

In most cases, a woman is naturally then going to ask you why?

You can then say, "Well, before I came over and talked to you, I noticed you from across the bar (or from across the party) and you had a bit of a scowl on your face. You have a really mean look about you."

Of course, you're only saying that to mess with her.

You're only playfully messing with her.

What you'll find is that pretty much every woman that you say that to has an insecurity about that and doesn't actually want to come across as being unapproachable or unfriendly.

You can then put her mind at ease by saying something like, "Just kidding, you look like a friendly, nice receptionist. So, how long you been working as a receptionist?" and then she'll tell you how long she's been working.

You can then have a conversation with her about that and transition into talking about other things.

Now, if you don't understand why that would have attracted a woman, then you're going to need to watch the rest of this video as I give more examples and explain in more detail how a woman's attraction works.

Before I explain more about how attraction works, I'll give you another example...

Say, for example you are talking to a woman and she mentions that she goes to university, or said that she did go to university.

A natural question that you might want to ask is, "So, what did you study?"

Now, what you need to be aware of is that when she answers that question, you have an opportunity to say something that is going to make her feel attracted to you.

So, if you ask a woman, "What did you study?" and she says, "Medicine," and you then say, "Oh, wow, that's really difficult. How long did you do that for? Are you working as a doctor now?" then you're going to be having a neutral, logical conversation with her nothing about it is going to be making her feel sexually attracted to you.

However, if you ask a woman "What did you study?" and she then says, "Medicine," and then you say something like, "Medicine, ah, that's easy. Anyone can pass that," she is then going to be able to feel attracted to you because you are being confident and are making her laugh.

You're turning an otherwise boring, logical, straightforward conversation that she's probably had with many, many people before into something that's enjoyable; into something that's making her feel excited and happy and awake in the moment.

Unfortunately, a lot of highly intelligent men either aren't aware of how easy it is to attract a woman during a conversation and that's why they don't do it, or the man is unwilling to do anything other than have a nice logical straightforward conversation with a woman.

One of the reasons why is that many highly intelligent men just want to stick to what is comfortable for them.

They are comfortable with logical, straightforward, serious, intellectual and possibly philosophical conversations.

They don't want to get into conversations that aren't straightforward, serious, sensible and rational.

Yet, the thing is, attracting a woman during a conversation really is an easy straightforward thing to do.

Once you understand how it works, start doing it and see that it works, you then continue doing it because it's fun for you, it's fun for the woman and it ends up with you kissing her, having sex with her and having a relationship with her.

The second dating struggle of a highly intelligent man is that...

2. He usually takes what women say literally when it comes to the subject of attraction

[image: He takes what women say about attraction too literally]

An intelligent man is used to things making sense in this world.

$2 + 2 = 4$.

Gravity ensures that if you throw a ball up into the air, it's going to come down.

If you eat too much food all the time, you're going to gain weight.

If you don't eat enough food, you're going to be skinny.

Many things in life makes sense and if a man accepts what he has been taught at school and then gets on with life, he's usually not going to experience many problems as a result of that.

Yet, here's where the problem is...

When an intelligent man accepts what women say about attraction, he runs into a lot of problems.

If he accepts what women say verbatim and doesn't actually question what is going on, he will run into problems.

For example: Some intelligent men will think "If a woman says that she wants a nice guy, then she will like me if I am nice and will really like me if I'm really, really nice to her."

He might also think something like, "If a woman says that she wants to get to know a guy before kissing him or having sex with him, then I need to take things very slow and show her that I'm only interested in getting to know her."

Yet, what a lot of intelligent men don't realize is that straightforward logic doesn't work if you base it off what women SAY, because what women SAY and what they DO when it comes to men are usually two completely different things altogether.

One of the reasons why is that women can't tell guys what they really find attractive in a guy, because if they do, many guys will offer an exaggerated version of that.

For example: When a woman says that she likes a nice guy, many guys end up being really, really nice to her and hoping to get a chance with her.

If a woman were to admit what she likes a guy who is a challenge, a guy who playfully messes with her and teases her in a playful way, puts her back in her place in a dominant, but loving way, doesn't take her tantrums seriously and makes her feel like she needs to impress him to get a chance with him, then you can imagine the exaggerated versions of that that guys will begin to offer her.

Additionally, if a woman were to admit that she likes guys who treat her in that way, many people are going to look down on her such as co-workers, friends, family and so on.

So, what women do is that they just go for guys who understand how to attract them properly.

This often leaves very highly intelligent men, good-looking men, successful men, men with a great gym body and so on on the sidelines.

They see guys who aren't as intelligent as them, aren't as good-looking as them, aren't as successful as them, aren't as built as them with a beautiful woman and they wonder, "What the heck is going on?"

It's very simple.

When you know how to attract a woman during a conversation, you are actually a very rare guy.

Most guys who an attractive woman meets are either going to be too nice to her or too neutral.

The guy is going to be sucking up to her, or he's just going to be talking to her in a straightforward manner.

There's nothing there for her to feel sexually attracted to and turned on by.

So, when she meets a guy who does know how to push her buttons and make her feel sexually attracted and turned on during a conversation, she is locked on.

He can then connect with her, get to a phone number, get to a kiss or get to sex that night or get her phone number, set up a date and get into a relationship with her.

So, if you are a highly intelligent man, one of the things that you need to do is to understand that there is a difference between what women say they want in a guy and what they actually feel attracted to.

Many women will go around SAYING that they just want a nice guy who is patient, takes time to get to know them, takes them out on lots of dates, is very intelligent and can show them that, has a good career and so on.

Yet, what actually happens in real life, is that if a woman meets a guy who makes her feel sexually attracted and turned on during an interaction, that guy can pick her up, even if he doesn't have all the things that she was SAYING are essential for attracting or dating her.

Based on the attraction he is making her feel as he talks to her, that guy can get to a phone number, kiss, sex, date and into a relationship.

So, if you have been taking what women say too literally when it comes to men, one of the things you need to do is use your superior intelligence to understand that there is a difference between what women say they want in a guy and what they actually react to with feelings of attraction.

The third dating struggle of a highly intelligent man is that...

3. He often thinks that small talk is for stupid people

[image: Small talk is for stupid people]

An intelligent man has so many brilliant ideas and perspectives about life and wants to be able to talk about those things rather than wasting time with small talk.

What he doesn't realize though is that there is a time and place for everything.

For example: After a woman feels attracted to a man, she'll then become interested in how intelligent he is.

After she has kissed him, her interest will rise even further and after having sex with him, she'll be open to hearing about his ideas about life and plans for his future.

Yet, prior to then, she just wants to make sure that she feels attracted to him because a woman's attraction for a man works differently to a man's attraction for a woman.

To help you understand that, I'll reference the movie A Beautiful Mind starring Russell Crowe.

Russell Crowe plays a mathematical genius who is highly intelligent in many areas of life.

He's at a bar and sees a woman that he finds attractive.

He walks over to her, sits there and doesn't say anything.

The woman is feeling uncomfortable.

It's an awkward situation and she eventually says something like, "Well, maybe you should buy me a drink," to hopefully help him along and get him started with talking to her and making something happen.

Yet, he doesn't want to engage in any small talk.

He then says, "I don't know what I am required to say in order for you to have intercourse with me, but could we assume that I said all that. Essentially we're talking about fluid exchange right? So, could we just go straight to the sex?"

She then rejects him because he didn't do anything to attract her.

In the awkward example of Russell Crowe sitting there, not saying anything and then her saying, "Well, maybe you should buy me a drink," he could have actually used that, her comment there, to make her feel attracted.

For example: If he was sitting there, not saying anything and just looking at her and she eventually felt so uncomfortable that she had to say, "Well, maybe you should buy me a drink," he could have then smiled and playfully said, "No, that's what I was waiting for you to do actually. I was sitting here waiting for you to buy me a drink. I've come over to talk to you. Where are your manners? Buy me a drink girl."

Of course, he'd only be joking and she will be able to tell that.

He can then be charming and say, "Just kidding, I'll get the first round and you get the second. How about that?"

When a woman feels attracted to a man, she will pretty much always agree to do that, where the man buys the first round of drinks and she buys the second round.

Now, many guys don't feel comfortable saying things like that because they fear that it might make the woman angry, or they fear that it might make them look rude or not as intelligent and straightforward as they usually are.

However, if you say something like that to a woman, what happens is that she feels attracted to your confidence, to your ability to make her laugh, to your social intelligence for being able to pull off a moment like that and to your masculinity for making her feel feminine in comparison to how masculine you are being.

What you need to understand is that you don't need to say those type of things to a woman all the time.

You just need to add it into conversations and you'll find that sparks fly between you and a woman.

What a woman is essentially waiting to experience is whether or not your personality and behavior sparks feelings of sexual and romantic attraction inside of her.

Additionally, what you'll find is that it's very easy and straightforward to do if you have the courage to playfully mess with a woman in a confident way, to playfully tease her and to not take everything so seriously all the time.

When you do, you will realize that there is a logical purpose to small talk and flirtatious banter between men and women.

[image: Small talk and flirtatious banter is for attracting women]

The purpose is for a woman to be able to feel attracted to your personality traits and behaviors because a woman's attraction for a man does work differently to a man's attraction for a woman.

The reality is that most men experience what I call Insta Attraction.

They instantly feel attracted to a woman if she looks good, is healthy and of breeding age.

Additionally, if a woman is friendly, easygoing, down to Earth and intelligent, then most men are actually going to have a relationship interest in her, not just a sexual interest.

However, when it comes to a woman's attraction for a man, things do work differently.

You have to interact with her and make her feel attracted.

You have to create a spark between you and her by displaying personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women such as confidence, charisma, charm, the ability to make her laugh and social intelligence.

These are personality traits and behaviors that you can display during small talk and flirtatious banter.

You don't always have to engage in small talk and flirtatious banter, but you need to be able to have that skill so you can create a spark between you and a woman.

If you just talk to a woman in a logical straightforward manner, then it's going to be neutral.

There's going to be no spark there.

The thing is, you might actually be perfect for the next attractive woman you meet.

If you create a spark with her, you and her could have sex, get into a relationship and happily stay together for life.

However, if you don't know how to make her feel a spark for you when you're talking to her, then she's not going to be interested, even though you could have been perfect for her.

What happens for most women is that they struggle to find a guy who can create a spark with them because most guys are just too nice or too neutral, or they're too keen and desperate and they turn the woman off.

Most women are just looking for a good guy who can be normal around them and can create a spark and then get to a phone number, kiss, sex and into a relationship.

Finally, the fourth dating struggle of a highly intelligent man is that...

4. He usually doesn't like to be seen as a beginner at anything

[image: I don't want people to think that I don't understand women, attraction and dating]

An intelligent man usually has a self-image of being smarter than pretty much everyone else around him and he's usually right.

He usually is smarter than pretty much everyone else around him.

The self-image that he has feels good to him.

He likes being smarter than other people.

He likes being seen as the smart guy.

He likes how people look at him and think of him as being intelligent.

Yet, maintaining a self-image of being smarter than everyone else and having it all figured out can actually turn out to be a disadvantage to him, especially when it comes to women.

So, if you are a highly intelligent man who is pretty much right about everything in life, but you're struggling with women, what you need to understand is that it's okay to be a beginner at something.

You also need to understand that your above average intelligence will allow you to learn and then succeed quicker than a guy who isn't as smart as you.

What you'll find is that most things about attracting women make logical sense once you understand them.

For example: when you understand that you can create a spark with a woman, then you'll also be able to piece two and two together and understand that a woman doesn't have to already feel attracted to you for you to have a chance with her.

Instead, you can make her feel attracted.

You can create the attraction based on how are you talking to her.

So, using the examples I talked about earlier about the woman being a receptionist or having studied medicine, you can say other things as well.

If you ask her what she does for a living and she says that she works as a receptionist, you can playfully mess with her about that by saying something like, "No, you're not a receptionist. You're too nerdy looking to be a receptionist. Come on, what do you really do for a living?" and then have a laugh with her about that.

She is almost certainly then going to laugh and say that she does work as a receptionist.

You can then tell her that you're just kidding, ask her how long she's been doing that for and also ask her if she accidentally hangs up on rude customers sometimes.

Alternatively, if you asked her what she studied at university, or if she's currently studying, what she is studying and she said that she's studying medicine, you can then playfully say, "Ohhh, you'd be a mean doctor. I wouldn't want to get you as a doctor," and have a laugh with her about that.

So, as an intelligent man, you can understand that when you talk to a woman in a particular way, it displays certain personality traits and behaviors that naturally trigger her feelings of attraction.

She feels attracted to the fact that you're being confident, that you can make her laugh, that you're being masculine and making her feel feminine in comparison to you and that you have the social intelligence to pull off a moment like that, or to create a joke like that on the fly.

It makes a woman feel attracted.

Some guys don't understand why a woman would find that attractive because they mistakenly assume that a woman's attraction for a man works the same as a man's attraction for a woman (i.e. it's all based on looks initially and if you're not good looking enough, you don't stand a chance).

What you need to understand and accept as a man is that a woman's attraction for a man works differently than a man's attraction for a woman.

Women can feel attracted to a man's looks and if a man is really good-looking, a woman can say, "I like him. I want to have sex with him. He's sexy."

However, in pretty much every situation where a man meets a woman, he has to CREATE a spark of attraction to make her feel sexually and romantically interested in him.

Creating a spark of attraction is something that you can do.

You can literally create a spark between you and a woman based on how you're talking to her and behaving during the interaction.

Additionally, what you'll find when you start doing it, is that most guys don't understand how it works.

Most guys are trying to get lucky with a woman, or trying to grow on a woman or hoping that they get a chance with a woman by being nice or being neutral, seeming very intelligent, bragging about their career, bragging about their achievements or what they want to achieve and so on.

Yet, the guys that experience easy, simple, straightforward and consistent success with women are the ones who know how to create a spark during an interaction with a woman.

It's actually a very easy thing to do.

Once you start doing it, you will realize that many of the women who weren't interested in you in the past would have been interested in you, if you just created a spark with them and didn't approach the conversation in such a neutral way.

The thing is, there's nothing wrong with having a neutral conversation with a woman or talking about things that are intellectual, logical or straightforward.

There's nothing wrong with that and you can do it.

You can have a normal conversation with a woman.

However, if you want to create a spark and make her want you in a sexual and romantic way, you have to add some other things in.

It can't just be about being neutral, straightforward, logical and intellectual all the time.

When you add in displays of personality traits and behaviors that naturally make a woman feel attracted, it creates a spark between you and her.

She feels attracted to you and you can then connect with her and get to a phone number, kiss, sex and into a relationship.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook The Flow or listen to the audio version The Flow on Audio.

When you read The Flow or listen to the audiobook version, you will learn exactly what to say and do to make a woman feel sexually attracted to you and romantically interested in you.

One of the things that I do in the book, is detail the 8 personality traits and behaviors that are the most naturally attractive to women and what to say and do to display those personality traits and behaviors during interactions.

I also explain exactly what to say and do to get to a phone number, kiss, sex, date and into a relationship.

Get the Girl and Be Highly Intelligent at the Same Time

[image: Get the girl and be highly intelligent at the same time]

One final point that I want to make for you in this video, is that you can be a highly intelligent man and also experience extraordinary success with women.

You don't have to change who you are and stop being so intelligent, intellectual, philosophical, analytical and so on.

You can still be the intelligent man that you are.

However, the secret is to understand that when you're talking to a woman that you want to get into a sexual relationship with, you need to create a spark because her attraction works differently to yours. At times during the interaction, you need to talk to her in a way that will create an emotional reaction inside of her rather than a logical reaction.

Rather than always talking in a logical, sensible, straightforward manner, you need to add in things that are going to make her feel attracted to you such as being confident, making her laugh, making her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity and making her feel charmed and attracted to your charisma and social intelligence.

These are things that you can easily add into a conversation with a woman and when you do it, you will realize that many of the guys who are watching your interaction or are around in the group and so on won't understand what is going on between you and her.

They will see that there is a spark between you and the woman that you like, but they won't understand what is happening.

For most guys looking on, they will look at you and her interacting and see sparks flying and assume that's because you and her have a natural chemistry.

They will assume that she is right for you and you are right for her and they don't have a chance.

What you'll find is that other guys don't understand that you are creating the spark between you and her.

You are making it happen.

As a result, you can attract her, pick her up and get into a relationship with her or attract her, have sex with her for a while and continue to enjoy your choice of women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

The Science of Attraction: 5 Facts Every Man Needs to Know

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In this video, I'm going to explain the science of attraction between men and women by using the results of 5 different scientific studies.

I'm also going to help you understand how you can use the results of the studies to your advantage, so you can attract women more easily.

This video is mostly for the single guys who want to get laid or get a girlfriend, but I'm also going to be including some tips for guys who have a girlfriend or a wife and they want to attract her more to get some more action in their relationship.

So, let's start with number 1...

1. Women are more willing to instantly accept an offer for a date, whereas men are more willing to instantly accept an offer for sex

[image: Science of attraction: Gender differences in receptivity to sexual offers]

Researchers Clark and Hartfield, both professors of psychology, led a study at the Florida State University where 5 women and 4 men approached 48 students from the opposite sex.

The physical attractiveness of both the male and female approachers ranged from slightly unattractive to moderately attractive. They were also college students.

Here's what the approacher said whether they were a man or a woman, "I've been noticing your around campus. I find you to be very attractive."

[image: Scientific study into attraction at The Florida State University]

Then, the approacher asked one of the following questions:

1. Would you go out with me tonight?
2. Would you come over to my apartment tonight?
3. Would you go to bed with me tonight?

To the first question, "Would you go out with me tonight?" (that is considered a date), 56% percent of women said, "Yes," and 50% of men said, "Yes."

So, women actually agreed to that more.

When it came to the question of, "Would you come over to my apartment tonight?" 6% of women said, "Yes," and 69% percent of men said, "Yes."

With the final question, "Would you go to bed with me tonight?" 0% of women said, "Yes," to that question whereas 75% of men agreed to sleep with a woman without actually knowing anything about her.

So, how can you use the results of that study to your advantage?

What you need to understand is that women do have sex, women enjoy sex and women want sex. However, they go about getting to sex in a different way than men do. Most women want to find out a little bit more about a guy before they open up to have sex with him. One of the main reasons why is that for 99.9% of human history, there were no condoms and no contraceptive pill. So, if a woman had sex with a man, she could get pregnant. A man could then walk away and leave her to deal with raising the child on her own. Only in recent times, which is less than 0.1% of human history, have men and women been able to have casual sex without worrying about a potential pregnancy. Even though things have changed in recent times and men can wear a condom and a woman can take the pill, a woman's attraction instincts haven't changed. She still feels an instinctive need to want to find out more about a guy before she opens up to kissing him or having sex with him. This is why women are more inclined to instantly say, "Yes," to an offer for a date and, "No," to an upfront offer for sex. Of course, that doesn't mean a man can't get to sex the first night he meets a woman or on the first date. For example:

- Data scientists from the UK surveyed 1,000 European and American men and women and found that 66% admitted to having a one night stand before.
- The Student Beans Sex Survey in the UK found that 60% of students reported that they had a one night stand before.
- A global survey by Durex condoms found that an average of 40% of women admitted to having had a one night stand compared to 47% of men. The number was higher or lower depending on the country. For example: Overall 50% for the USA, overall 64% for Sweden, overall 60% for Australia, 13% for India, 52% percent for Canada and 33% for Japan.
- The Irish Times survey of 12,000 men and women found that 73% of men admitted to having had a one night stand compared to 66% percent of women.
- Statistics gathering company, Statista, found that 58.1% of Americans admitted to having had a one night stand.

So, sex can and does happen quickly between men and women. Women enjoy sex and they definitely do want to have sex. However, they don't want to have sex simply based on a random guy asking them for it. In almost all cases, a woman needs to first interact with a guy, to feel attracted to who he is as a man. She will then open up to kissing him, having sex with him or going on a date with him and eventually getting to sex. Due to the difference between how men and women pursue sex, many men often end up feeling insecure about their attractiveness to women. Many men go through life feeling instantly attracted to women and thinking of having sex with them, but they notice that women really aren't reacting to them in that way.

What the guy doesn't understand is that if he wants to get to the act of sex with a woman, he needs to be able to interact with her and make her feel attracted to his personality traits and behaviors.

For example: He's being confident while he's talking to her and she feels attracted to that.

He's being charismatic, charming and making her laugh.

She can then feel attracted to who he is as a man and feel good about the idea of opening up to either giving him her phone number, or getting to a kiss, going on a date or getting to sex.

2. Women who take a contraceptive pill are more attracted to men with less masculine features

[image: Women who take the contraceptive pill are more attracted to men with less masculine faces]

In a study that was detailed in the Journal of Psychoneuroendocrinology, it was found that women who take the pill are more attracted to men who aren't very manly looking.

In other words, men who don't have a square jawline and who have a more of a rounded face.

[image:]

[image:]

[image:]

Women who weren't on the pill were attracted to more masculine faces and women who were on the pill were attracted to less masculine faces.

The researchers also looked at 85 couples who met when the woman wasn't on the pill, compared to 85 couples who met when the woman was on the pill.

The women who were on the pill chose less masculine looking guys.

So, how can you use the results of that study to your advantage?

One way to use the results is to feel confident about yourself and know that regardless of how you look in terms of your masculine appearance, you can still attract women.

It's pretty obvious that women are attracted to very masculine looking men.

However, what you need to understand is that women can feel attracted to guys who don't look very masculine as well.

Additionally, before the pill was invented, guys with less masculine features were still able to get laid, get a girlfriend and get married.

So, if a guy doesn't look like Dwayne Johnson or some other very masculine looking guy, it doesn't mean that he can't get laid, get a girlfriend or get a wife if he wants that as well.

I'm a classic example of that.

[image: Dan Bacon with and without a beard]

If you look at me without the beard, you can see that I have a pretty weak jaw.

[image: Dan Bacon - dating coach]

[image: Dan Bacon - dating coach]

[image: Dan Bacon - dating coach]

[image: Dan Bacon - dating coach]

[image: Dan Bacon - dating coach]

[image: Dan Bacon - dating coach]

I don't have the square jawline that very masculine looking guys have, but I was still able to easily enjoy my choice of women for 10 years and live a playboy-style lifestyle where I enjoyed women for many, many years.

Then, I met my girl and we settled down and we've been together ever since.

One thing I'll point out is that when I met my girl, I didn't have a beard and she wasn't on the pill.

Even though I don't have a square jawline and I didn't have big muscles or anything like that, I was still able to attract her and she's still attracted to me to this day.

So, what I want you to know is that even though women who are on the pill are more inclined to choose a more masculine looking guy, based on my personal experience, a guy who doesn't look very masculine can still attract women who aren't on the pill.

I'd estimate that about 60% of the women that I've picked up were not on the pill.

The reason why I was able to pick them up is that I made them feel attracted to what I was saying and doing during the interaction.

I didn't rely on women hopefully feeling attracted to how I looked.

Instead, I actively made them feel attracted and turned on during a conversation and as a result, got to a kiss, sex and into a relationship with women of my choosing.

So, regardless of how masculine you look, the moral of the story is that you shouldn't sit around waiting and hoping that a woman might find you attractive.

If you do that, you won't enjoy your choice of women.

If you really want to have your choice of women, you have to have the courage to interact with them and make them feel attracted to what you were saying and doing during an interaction.

3. Hugging a woman releases oxytocin, which makes her trust you more and it also reduces cortisol which makes her relax and open up to you more

[image: Hugging a woman makes her like you and trust you more]

A team from the University of North Carolina led by psychologist Dr. Karen Grewen studied the effects of hugging and found that it increased oxytocin and reduced a woman's level of cortisol and her blood pressure.

In the book The Female Brain by Louann Brizendine, who is a professor at the University of California, San Francisco, she writes, "The act of hugging or cuddling releases oxytocin in the brain, especially in females and produces a tendency to trust the hugger."

So, how can you use the results of that study to your advantage?

In this example, I'll give some tips for single guys and for guys who are in a relationship or a marriage.

So, for the single guys, when you're interacting with a woman, just know that when you get to the act of a hug, it's going to make her like you more and trust you more.

It's going to make the process of picking her up and getting a phone number or getting to a kiss and sex much, much easier.

So, if you're interacting with a woman and she says something about how hard her life has been recently at work, or if she's been studying too much and she's really tired, use that as an opportunity to initiate a hug.

You can playfully say something like, "Awww...come here. Bring it in for a hug, you poor thing. Come here," and give her a hug.

Make sure that it's a warm hug and it lasts for at least 5 to 10 seconds.

Don't give her one of those 1 to 2-second hugs where you basically hug and immediately let go because that is not going to have the desired effect.

You want to hug a woman for at least 5 to 10 seconds and if you can, 15 seconds would be even better.

Another way to initiate a hug is when it's a woman's birthday.

[image: Attracting a woman by giving her a birthday hug]

So, if you're interacting with a woman and she says that it's her birthday that day, you can say, "Birthday hug. Come here. Bring it in for a birthday hug. Happy birthday!" and have a hug with her.

Now, for the men who are in a relationship or marriage with a woman, how can you use the results of that study to your advantage?

Well, if you hug your girlfriend or wife, you know that it does bring about some good feelings between you and her.

However, if your girlfriend or wife hasn't been very affectionate lately, or hasn't been feeling much attraction for you, then she's most likely going to want to pull away from the hug.

She's not going to want to keep the hug going and make herself feel turned on or attracted or anything like that.

So, what you need to do is add something else into the hug.

When you bring her in for a hug, you hug her for about 5 seconds or so and then you start kissing her on the neck.

[image: Using the science of attraction on your girlfriend or wife]

You also rub your jaw line around the back of her ear as you breathe softly into her ear as well.

What that does is that it makes her feel attracted because you are being dominant, you are leading the interaction, you are holding her in an embrace and you are dominating her.

Doing that helps to make her feel feminine in comparison to your masculinity.

She feels as though you are the more dominant one and you're leading the interaction and as a result, she's naturally going to feel attracted to you.

Of course, if she hasn't been very affectionate lately and she has been feeling turned off, she might want to push you away and not go through with the act of getting turned on.

So, if that happens, you just need to tell her to relax and you need to smile and be good about it.

Don't be annoyed about it or angry at her.

Just relax, remain confident and keep going until you're kissing her on the lips and she wants something more than just a kiss.

4. Makeup tricks both men and women into thinking that a woman is more physically attractive than she actually is

[image: Richard Russell, make up study on attractiveness of women]

In a study conducted by Richard Russell, an associate professor of psychology at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania, it was found that men perceived women who wore makeup as being more prestigious or of higher status.

Both men and women saw the woman with makeup as being more attractive.

So, how can you use the results of that study to your advantage?

Well, a lot of guys end up feeling inferior of women who wear makeup because it makes the woman look way more attractive than he is.

[image: Make up tricks men into thinking that women are more attractive than they are]

He looks at her and thinks that she is way more attractive than him and he wouldn't be good enough for a woman like her.

However, when she actually takes off her makeup, she's either going to be on the same looks scale as him or he might actually see himself as being better looking than her.

Essentially, what you need to do as a man is maintain confidence in yourself and know that you are good enough for the majority of women that you see and meet.

[image: Make up tricks men into thinking that women are more attractive than they are]

If you get tricked by a woman's makeup into thinking that she is way more attractive than you and that you are not good enough for her, then she's actually going to feel turned off by you.

Women are attracted to men who are confident in themselves.

So, make sure that you believe in yourself.

Make sure that you don't doubt yourself based on a woman's physical appearance, especially if she's wearing makeup and making herself look more physically attractive than she actually is.

5. Women are more attracted to your status than your looks

In the book The Evolution of Desire, the writer, David Buss, a professor of psychology at the University of Texas at Austin, references a study that included 186 different societies from around the world.

When referencing that study, he says, "Women desire men who command a high position in society because along with status comes better food, more abundant territory and superior health care. Greater social status bestows on children social opportunities missed by the children of lower ranked males."

He goes on to say, "Women judge the likelihood of success in a profession and the possession of a promising career to be highly desirable in a spouse. Significantly, these cues to a future status as seen by women as more desirable in spouses than in casual sex partners."

Finally, he also says, "Men rate physical attractiveness and good looks as more important and desirable in a potential mate than do women. Men tend to see physical attractiveness as important whereas women tend to see it as desirable, but not very important. The sex difference in the importance of attractiveness remains consistent from one generation to the next. Men's greater preference for physically attractive mates is among the most consistently documented psychological sex differences."

Many guys worry when they hear that status is important because they assume that status is all about money.

Money definitely is a sign of high status, but it's not the only way to convey status or attract women. You can also convey high status based on how you talk to a woman and how you talk to other people in general.

If being rich was the only way to convey status and the only thing that women would accept, then most guys wouldn't be able to get laid, get a girlfriend or get a wife.

For example: If a man had to be a big shot success and be a millionaire to be able to attract women so he can get laid, get a girlfriend or get a wife, then only 4.63% of the men in New York would be able to get any action.

4.63% is the amount of millionaires in New York, which also includes female millionaires.

So, the actual amount of male millionaires is probably around 3%.

In Sydney, Australia the amount of millionaires is 1.3%. In Melbourne, Australia, 0.9% which is less than 1%.

In California, in the USA, the number of millionaires is 5.9% and in Florida, 4.89%.

Percentages are slightly higher and lower around the world depending on the city, but the percentage of millionaires are usually less than 5% of the population.

So, it's important that as a man, you don't assume that you have to be rich and successful to be able to attract women.

As David Buss said, "Women desire men who command a high position in society."

Yet, what women desire and what they happily accept are two different things all together.

It's just like how many men desire a Victoria's Secret models, but then happily accept a girl next door type of woman and stay with her for life.

Additionally, David Buss also points out that women are attracted to the likelihood of success and potential future status of a guy, which means that you don't already have to be successful to be able to attract a woman.

Her attraction instincts are simply looking for cues that suggest you could possibly be a high status male who could then help ensure the survival of any children that you may have with her.

So, how can you use the results of all that scientific study to your advantage?

Well, as a man, what you need to understand, whether you are single or in a relationship, is that having high social status is not just about being successful and being the most powerful guy in your city and having the best car and having loads of money.

Those things (e.g. being powerful in society, having a great job, having a great car, having loads of money, being the leader of men and so on) do signal high social status.

However, what a lot of guys don't understand is that you can convey high social status during a conversation with a woman and it will make her feel attracted.

I'll give you an example to show you what I mean...

Note: You may need to watch the video at the top of this page to see and understand the subtle differences in tonality and body language that allow you to convey high status.

Imagine that a guy is starting a conversation with a couple of women that he finds attractive.

Here is a low status version, "Hi. Excuse me. Yeah. Hi. I thought I'd come here and say hi. I'm Dan. What's your names?"

Here is an equal status version, "Hi. I thought I'd come here and say hi. I'm Dan. What's your names?"

Here is a high status version, "Hi. How are you doing? I thought I'd come here and say hi. I'm Dan. What's your names?"

Here's another example: A guy is asking a woman what she does for a living. Low status, "What do you do for a living? That's interesting. Yeah. Right. How long you've been doing that?"

Equal status, "What do you do for a living? That's interesting. How long have you been doing that?"

High status, "So, what do you do for a living? Interesting. How long you've been doing that?"

Note: You may need to watch the video at the top of this page to see and understand the subtle differences in tonality and body language that allow you to convey high status.

When talking to a woman, what you want to do is at least convey equal status.

However, at times, it's good to add in displays of high status.

This may make you come across as being a bit judgmental of her and at times, it might make you seem a little bit arrogant to some people, but not to everyone.

If you convey low status to hopefully get people to like you, it will cause most high status people (including attractive women) to not like you.

Only conveying equal status will make you friendly and likeable, but you will miss out on making women feel attracted to you based on status.

The way that women feel attracted to status is something that single guys can take advantage of and guys who are in a relationship with a woman can take advantage of as well.

For single guys, you want to at least come across as conveying equal status and you want to convey high status at times.

Essentially, to convey high status, you need to come across in a way that conveys that you don't feel unworthy of her. Some people might see that as being arrogant, but women find it attractive.

In a relationship or a marriage, a man can make his woman feel attracted to him by conveying higher status than her in the relationship.

It doesn't mean that he should put her down and make her feel bad about herself.

Instead, it simply means that he should convey that he is the more dominant one in the relationship.

There are many ways that a man can do that, but one of the ways he can do it is based on his body language when he's talking to her.

For example: If a man says to his woman that it's time to go out and eat, he might say, "Let's go out and eat and go to a restaurant."

If he's conveying lower status, he might say, "Do you want to go out and eat now? Are you hungry? Do you want to go? We should go to get something to eat."

If he's conveying equal status, he might say, "Are you hungry? You want to go and get something to eat? Let's go and do it."

If he's playfully conveying higher status, he might say, "Hey you, I'm hungry. Get off your butt. Let's go get something to eat. Come on. Let's go."

Now, a man doesn't have to talk to his girlfriend or wife like that all the time.

As I said, that's a bit of a playful example as well (i.e. telling her to get off her butt).

When in a relationship with a woman, some guys fear talking to their woman like that, whereas other guys are totally comfortable with it.

The guys who are comfortable with doing that at times, notice that their woman feels attracted to it.

She likes the fact that the man is being dominant, but he's also being a good guy at the same time.

He's not being an asshole about it saying, "Hey, get off your ass. Let's go. We're going to eat now. I'm the boss. I'm the man around here."

He's not being crazy about it like that.

He's just being playful with it and saying, "Alright. Come on, let's go. I'm hungry. We're going to get something to eat. Get off your butt."

So, a key takeaway here is that if you are a single guy, you don't have to be a big shot in your city or country to be able to attract women by conveying high social status.

You can convey high status while you're talking to a woman based on your body language, tonality and behavior.

If you're in a relationship, you don't have to be amazingly successful and at the peak of your career or have already achieved everything that you want to achieve to be able to attract your woman with high social status.

You can display high status based on the way that you interact with your woman and how she sees you interact with other people as well.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I have two recommendations for you.

The first recommendation is my eBook The Flow.

This is for the single guys.

If you want to learn exactly what to say and do to be able to get laid and get a girlfriend easily, then The Flow is for you.

It's a simple, straightforward process that works.

My methods for attracting women are based on science and are also based on my years of personal experience attracting and picking up women.

When you use The Flow approach on women, you will enjoy your choice of women.

The second recommendation is for guys who are in a relationship or a marriage with a woman.

For that, I recommend my program, Make Her Love You For Life.

When you watch or listen to Make Her Love You For Life, you will learn exactly what to say and do to make your woman feel a renewed sense of respect, attraction and love for you.

If you are not in the power position in the relationship, you will gain the position of power.

If your woman is disappointed with how you've been treating her, you will now know what to say and do to get her to forgive you and fall back in love with you again.

You Can Control How Much Attraction Women Feel For You

[image: You can control how much attraction women feel for you]

One final point that I want to make for you in this video, is to remind you of the fact that women can feel attracted to things other than a man's looks, money or height.

It's true that women can feel attracted to a man's looks.

It's true that women can feel attracted to a man if he has money, if he's famous, if he's tall and so on.

However, it's also true that a man can attract a woman during a conversation, during an interaction with her.

A man can display personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women such as confidence, charisma, charm, using humor, being a bit of a challenge and conveying high status based on how he talks to her and behaves around her.

So, if you are a single guy who is looking to get laid or get a girlfriend, just know that you can take control of the process.

You can start actively attracting a woman as you talk to her.

She doesn't have to be attracted to your looks or how successful you are and so on.

You can make her feel attracted as you talk to her.

The same goes for men who are in a relationship with a woman.

If your woman isn't that attracted to you anymore, you have to understand that you can make her feel attracted.

You can start displaying different behaviors around her and it will trigger her feelings of attraction for you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

3 Tips on How to Talk to Women and Make Them Want You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

How can you talk to a woman in a way that makes her want you in a sexual and romantic way?

Pretty much every guy knows how to talk to a woman in a neutral way or in a nice way, but talking to a woman in a way that creates sexual feelings inside of her is a different thing altogether.

So, in this video, I'm going to give you 3 tips on what to say and do to make a woman want you in a sexual and romantic way.

1. Don't be too neutral or too nice. Be just right

[image: Don't be too neutral or too nice. Be just right]

Being too neutral is essentially about being friendly, straightforward, serious, intellectual and logical pretty much all the time when a guy is talking to a woman.

Being too nice is when a guy is sucking up to her, being on his best behavior and trying to get her to like him because he's such a nice person.

Being just right is about being a good guy who also makes her feel sexually attracted and is a bit of a challenge for her to acquire.

Now, there's nothing wrong with talking to a woman in a straightforward manner.

There's nothing wrong with being serious and intellectual.

There's nothing wrong with being nice.

However, if you want a woman to want you in a sexual and romantic way, then you need to add in displays of personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women, such as being very confident around her, using humor, being charming, being charismatic and so on.

When I talk about being very confident, I'm not talking about being loud and being a show-off or anything like that.

I'm talking about relaxed confidence.

I'm also talking about the type of confidence that allows you to challenge her during a conversation, to put some pressure on her, to make her feel like she needs to impress you and to see yourself as being the prize rather than looking at her as the prize and trying to be on your best behavior and say all the right things so you can get a chance to be with her.

As you may have noticed, when guys use a nice guy approach with women, where they're trying to say all the right things and be on their best behavior, all it takes for them to be replaced is another guy to come along and make her feel sexually attracted during the conversation.

So, how can you make her feel sexually attracted during a conversation?

Let's move to tip number 2 and I'll give you some examples on how to do it.

2. Ask questions and occasionally make fun of her answers

[image: Ask questions and occasionally make fun of her answers]

Most guys don't have the balls to make fun of a woman because they are on their best behavior around her, hoping to get a chance with her by being nice.

Alternatively, many guys are neutral around a woman.

They just talk to her in a straightforward manner and not being a Mr. Nice Guy, but they're being Mr. Plain.

They're just having a straightforward conversation with their logical, friendly and there's no spark between himself and a woman.

What you need to understand is that when you're interacting with a woman, you can make her feel attracted to you.

You can create a spark of attraction based on what you're saying and doing.

You can display confidence and use humor and be charming, charismatic, be a bit of a challenge and a woman is going to feel a lot of attraction for you.

Other guys looking on won't know what's going on between you and her because it's not obvious.

Most guys don't understand how it works, so, they will look at you interacting with a woman and think, "Oh, well, they might just be perfect for each other. They might be a match. It might be natural chemistry."

So, what you need to understand is that you can CREATE that chemistry.

You can MAKE a woman feel a spark with you.

One of the ways that you can do that is by asking her questions and occasionally making fun of her answers.

For example: If you ask her the question, "So, what have you been up to lately?" and she says that she's been going to the gym and working.

You can then playfully make fun of her answer by saying, "Going to the gym? How much can you lift? Show me your biceps."

Then get her to show you her biceps/get her to flex her biceps and have a bit of a squeeze.

You can then playfully make fun of her again and say, "Oh, you don't even have any muscles. You're a little weakling, aren't you?"

Another example is where you ask a woman what she likes to do for fun or what she likes to do in her spare time.

If you ask her, "So, what do you like to do in your spare time? What sort of things do you do for fun?" and she says, "I'm a painter. I like painting," you can make fun of her answer.

You don't have to be serious about everything you say to a woman.

You can be a challenge, at times.

You can be confident.

You can make her laugh by putting some pressure on her in a playful way.

So, she says that she paints and that she likes painting.

You can then pause for a moment, look her up and down and playfully say, “You don’t look like a painter. You’re not a painter. Come on...you don’t paint.”

How is she going to respond to that?

Many guys fear she will get angry that he is accusing her of lying, or that the conversation will become awkward and she won’t want to talk to him anymore.

Yet, what actually happens is that the woman laughs.

She finds it funny and she feels like she is being put under pressure.

She is being questioned.

You don’t actually believe her for some reason.

In almost all cases, what a woman will do then is that she will laugh and tell you that she is a painter and loves painting.

You can then say, “Just kidding. Alright, show me some of your paintings.”

When she shows you her paintings, which are most likely going to be on her phone as photos or on a social media site or maybe she even has a website, you can then give her a compliment about that if you want to.

Once again, guys looking on won’t really understand what is happening between that man and woman.

Many guys will look on and think, “Oh, well, they’ve just got a natural chemistry or that guy is lucky, she likes him for some reason or she must like him because he’s good looking,” or something like that.

Most guys don’t know that they can actually CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman and the secret to doing that is not about being nice or neutral when talking to a woman.

There’s nothing wrong with being a good guy and talking to a woman in a straightforward manner, but if you want to create a spark of attraction inside of her, you have to display personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women.

In this case, the guy is being confident.

He’s using humor and he’s being a bit of a challenge.

What happens when you occasionally use that approach in a conversation with a woman, is that she feels as though she needs to impress you a bit.

She also senses that you’re not like other guys.

You’re not sucking up to her by being on your best behavior and trying to get a chance with her.

You’re not the sort of guy who is going to continue talking to her, trying to be friendly, trying to be neutral or trying to be nice and say all the right things in the hope of getting a chance with her.

Now, that doesn’t mean that you can’t talk to a woman in a neutral way, a friendly way or even be nice to her during a conversation.

You can.

You can be a good guy.

You can have a friendly, easy-going conversation with a woman.

However, if you want her to feel a sexual spark with you, then you need to be willing to say and do things that create that spark.

3. Show some interest in her, but also make her sense that you could lose interest

[image: Show some interest in her, but also let her see that you could lose interest]

For example: You're talking to a woman, making her feel attracted to you by being confident, using some humor, being charismatic and being a bit of a challenge.

Then, she starts telling you a story about something that you find boring.

You're not interested in it.

Don't be like other guys who are going to fake interest in whatever she is saying and doing.

Don't be that guy who talks to a woman and it's just like, "Oh, yeah, really, okay, yeah. What else happened? Alright, well, that's interesting," when you don't actually find it interesting.

What you need to understand is that women do like guys who are a bit of a challenge to acquire.

Women do like to be in the position where they feel the need to impress a guy, they feel the need to be on their best behavior so they don't screw up their chances with him.

So, when you're talking to a woman and she starts talking about something that you find boring, you should let her sense that via your body language.

An interesting thing to point out is that if you have ever interacted with a really hot woman, a really attractive woman, then what you may remember is that when you were talking to her, if what you were saying wasn't that interesting, then she most likely did that to you.

She most likely started to show you that she was losing interest in the conversation by changing her body language or losing interest in the conversation.

Try to think back to how you responded to that.

Most guys respond to that type of body language from a hot woman by trying harder to impress her, by putting in more effort to hopefully make her interested in the conversation.

Then, when she notices that the guy is trying harder to impress her, she is in the power position.

She becomes the selector.

She becomes the one who is going to decide whether or not something happens.

What a lot of guys don't realize is that they can make a woman feel like the guy is the selector.

They can make a woman feel like she needs to impress him in order to get a chance with him.

One thing I'll point out though is that this only works if you're making the woman feel attracted to you.

If a guy is talking to a woman in a neutral way and isn't doing anything to create a spark with her and then he starts appearing uninterested in the conversation, then she is going to lose interest.

She is going to want to get our conversation.

So, what you need to understand is that this works when you're actively making a woman feel attracted to you by displaying personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women during a conversation, such as being confident, using humor, being charming, being charismatic, being a bit of a challenge and so on.

Another example of showing her that you can lose interest in her is where she says that she doesn't like something that you like.

For example: A guy is talking to a woman and she says, "I don't like the UFC," when he loves the UFC and watches it all the time.

He can then shake his head in disappointment, smile and say, "I thought you were cool up until that point" and then have a laugh with her about that.

He can also then add in, "So, what do you like to watch instead? Drama, TV shows, romantic movies? Boring" and have a laugh with her about that.

Now, he doesn't actually have to say that he thinks drama, TV shows and romantic movies are seriously boring.

He doesn't have to seriously hate on her for that.

He can playfully mess with her for being such a girl that she likes drama and romantic movies and so on.

What a lot of guys don't understand is that it's good to be different than a woman.

You don't have to have everything in common with her, especially when it comes to traditionally masculine and feminine things.

So, if you like something that is traditionally seen as a masculine thing, such as MMA fighting and you like to watch that and she doesn't, make sure that you stick to what you like and allow her to like what she likes if it's a feminine thing.

Where some guys go wrong is that they say that they like they like the UFC, for example and a woman says that she doesn't like it, it's too violent and society is going the wrong way and then the guy starts to change his opinion on the fly to hopefully impress her.

He starts to say, "Yeah, well, you know, I don't watch it that much. It's alright. I like football more. That's better. You know, it's the best sport in the world," sort of thing and he changes his opinion on the fly to hopefully impress her.

The woman then sees that the guy doesn't have a strong sense of identity as a man.

He thinks that being manly is a bad thing and he should listen to women and be nicer and sweeter and get into things that women are into because women are the smartest gender of the species.

They are the better ones.

We need to follow them.

No.

Women are smart.

Women are great, but they're not better than men.

We men don't need to be like women.

If you want to make a woman feel attracted to you in a sexual way, then be manly. D on't be afraid of manly things that you like and don't be afraid of behaving and talking in a manly way.

Another example of this is where a guy is talking to a woman and she asks him what he does and he says that he works in I.T.

She then cheekily says to him, “Ah, so you’re an I.T nerd then,” to see if he’s going to lose confidence in himself, to see if he has a weak sense of identity about who he is as a man and to see if he is ashamed of what he does for a living.

What a guy needs to do is stand his ground, but be a good guy while doing it.

So, if she says to him, “Ah, so you’re an I.T nerd then,” he can then smile and say, “No...I’m a smart man who understands computer code. You’re just jealous because it’s too difficult for you. You’re not smart enough” and then have a laugh with her about that.

She can then see that he has a strong sense of identity as a man. He doesn’t feel embarrassed or ashamed of his profession. He embraces it and is proud of it and therefore she feels attracted to his confidence.

She also sees that he’s not the sort of guy that she can easily pick on.

He’s a confident man who believes in himself and therefore a woman will assume that he can have his choice of women.

As a result, she will be nicer to him. She will show him more respect and she will more easily feel attracted to him and fall for him.

What you’ll notice when you use this approach to conversation with women is that you’re putting way less effort and you get way better results.

You’re not trying hard to get to know a woman over time.

You’re not wasting time and energy sucking up to her and hoping that she likes you.

Instead, you’re shortcutting the process by making her feel sexually attracted to you.

You’re creating a spark and as a result, she wants something to happen between you and her.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you’d like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend.

When you use The Flow approach on women, you will notice that most women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

You can literally talk to a woman and after a couple of minutes, she can feel so attracted to you that she wants something to happen between you and her.

You can then connect with her during the conversation and to a phone number so you can set up a date, or you get to a kiss and have sex with her that day or night.

Use The Flow approach and you will have your choice of women.

Women Don't Want You to Be in the One Down Position Around Them

[image: Women don't want you to be in the one down position around them]

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that when you're talking to a woman that you find attractive, you can be in the position of power (i.e. the one up position).

You don't have to be like other guys and hand over your power to her, be on your best behavior and hope to get a chance with her.

You can shortcut the process by making her feel sexually attracted to you and being a bit of a challenge to acquire.

She feels attracted and she feels excited about the fact that you're not completely sold on her.

She has to impress you more to get a chance with you.

When a woman feels like that and she starts trying to impress you as a result, it makes her fall for you.

She starts seeing you as the prize.

She starts seeing you as the man that she wants to get.

She starts feeling like she would be lucky to get you.

As a result, you don't have to put in as much effort.

You are essentially allowing her to have a chance with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

5 Reasons Why Women Test Men

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

So, why do women test men?

Is it because they want to be annoying?

Is it because they're a pain in the butt?

Do we men need to say to women, "Sit down, shut up and look pretty, that's all you're good for. Stop testing, stop being difficult."

Look, I'm sure that some guys would like it if they could just tell women to stop testing and then women would stop testing.

However as you'll find out in this video, women have legitimate reasons for testing men and you can actually use their tests to your advantage.

The first reason why women test is...

1. To see if you truly feel worthy of her

[image: Testing to see if he feels worthy of her]

If a guy needs a woman to be nice, gentle, straightforward, supportive and be good to him during an interaction at all times in order to feel confident around her, then she knows that he is almost certainly going to become insecure, clingy, jealous and potentially controlling in a relationship.

This is why women test men by saying things to make them feel uncomfortable.

A woman wants to check and make sure that you truly feel worthy of her and you're not just feeling confident around her because she's being nice and easygoing.

So, you might be having a great conversation with a woman and after something you say, she then says, "You're weird," to see if you base your confidence on what she is saying to you, or if you have independent confidence (i.e. if you truly feel worthy of her and you're not basing your confidence on what she is saying or doing in any given moment).

Another example is where you're talking to a woman and you seem to be getting along and everything seems to be going fine and then she says, "Why are you wearing that shirt? That doesn't match you...the color doesn't suit you," to see whether or not you are going to lose confidence in yourself and to see whether or not you are basing your confidence on what she is saying and doing around you.

So, the way that you can use that to your advantage is that rather than getting annoyed at her for testing you or rather than losing confidence in yourself and feeling unworthy of the woman, know that when you maintain your confidence when she says things like that, she is going to feel attracted to you.

She is going to see that you don't fail her confidence tests, you don't become insecure and nervous based on what she is saying.

[image: She doesn't want to get into a relationship with a guy who will become needy and controlling]

This is especially important for women who have had experiences getting into relationships with guys who don't feel worthy of them.

They know that the guy will become insecure, jealous and potentially controlling.

A woman wants to avoid that.

She wants to find herself a guy who does truly feel worthy of her and doesn't only feel confident around her if she is nice to him and straightforward about things all the time.

[image: Passes her confidence test and she then drops her guard and opens up to him further]

So, if a man passes a woman's confidence test, she will then drop her guard and open up to him further.

Another reason why women test men is...

2. To feel attracted to you

[image: To feel attracted to you]

The fact is that women feel sexually attracted to a man's confidence.

It turns them on.

It literally makes a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on when you're being very confident around her.

I'm not talking about the type of confidence where you have to be loud and make a big scene or anything like that.

I'm talking about relaxed confidence, where no matter what she says or does around you, you maintain your confidence.

So, what you need to remember is that when women test you by trying to make you feel uncomfortable and unsure of yourself and you are confident and don't doubt yourself, it's actually attractive to them, it's enjoyable to them.

Some guys don't like the idea of being tested and they just want a woman to be straightforward, nice, gentle and sweet all the time.

However that's kind of like wanting the Earth to stop spinning.

It's going to keep spinning.

There are certain laws of nature that are in place and they happen for a reason.

There's no point getting angry at women for testing your confidence.

Instead you should embrace it and use it to your advantage.

Another reason why a woman will test a man is...

3. To make herself feel confident about your attraction for her

[image: To make herself feel confident about your attraction to her]

Sometimes, it's about testing your actual interest in her.

This is especially true for unattractive women or for pretty women who are insecure and don't actually think that they are attractive.

So, what a woman will do is that she will stop being so friendly and easy-going during the interaction.

She will stop showing interest in a guy to see how he reacts.

What a guy needs to do is just relax and remain calm.

He needs to believe in himself and continue to interact with her and not be thrown off by her test, where she stops showing him as much interest as she did at the start.

He just needs to continue to believe in himself and continue to have an interesting, fun conversation with her and build up her attraction.

She will then see that he really is interested in her and isn't just interested if she is interested.

Another reason why a woman might test you is...

4. To see if you are emotionally stronger than her

[image: To see if you are emotionally stronger than her]

When you're talking to a woman, she might be friendly and easygoing at times, but other times, she will be cold, mean or even rude to test how you're going to react.

Are you going to be able to maintain your confidence?

Are you emotionally strong enough to handle that kind of pressure in a social situation?

If she is a very emotionally strong woman and is very confident, but the guy that she's talking to isn't emotionally strong, then she fears that she's going to have to take care of him and protect him in social situations.

For example: If he were to be introduced to her family, she fears that he won't be able to handle their tests.

He'll become insecure.

He will doubt himself and she'll have to stand up for him and protect him.

She doesn't want to have that type of situation happen.

So, you just need to remain calm and be unaffected by her tests to show her that you are emotionally strong enough for a girl like her and you are socially capable.

You are able to handle pressure in social situations.

Women find it very sexy when you are so manly that nothing she says or does makes you feel insecure or unsure of yourself.

When it comes to attracting new women, it takes a bit of practice to be able to get used to handling their tests.

Additionally, when in a relationship, it takes a bit of practice to be able to handle the tests of your girlfriend or wife.

However once you get used to it, the old tests that she used to put you through are so easy now.

It's like water off a duck's back.

You don't get affected by it because you are so much more confident now.
You're so much more emotionally strong.
You're not basing how you feel on what she is saying or doing.
You have independent confidence.
You are in control of your emotions as a man.
Finally, another reason why a woman will test a man is...

5. To see how you handle challenges in life

[image: To see how you handle challenges in life]

When a woman is interacting with a guy and he is attempting to get to the point where he gets her phone number, kisses her, has sex with her or arranges a date and then is able to get her into a relationship, she needs to find out what type of guy he is first.

So, while they're talking, she will test his confidence.

She will say and do certain things to see how he reacts.

If he gets angry and annoyed at her tests, then it signals to her that he might actually become a bit of an angry or aggressive boyfriend in a relationship.

If he goes into his shell and becomes quiet all of a sudden and doesn't really know what to say, then she assumes that he's probably going to be like that in a work environment and in social situations in general.

If people aren't being nice to him and supportive, then he doesn't really know how to handle it.

As a result, she can see for herself how he would potentially handle challenges in life.

Now, there's no guarantee that her test is giving her an accurate answer.

Sometimes a guy is just so nervous around women that he fails those type of tests.

However in a work environment, he's very confident and in social situations in general, he's confident and can handle himself.

Yet, in most situations, an attractive woman isn't going to give a man the benefit of the doubt like that and just say, "Oh, well, he's nervous around me and he doesn't know how to handle the pressure that I'm putting on him, but he's probably really confident at work and he would probably be really confident in other situations."

So, as you can see, women do test men for legitimate reasons and you can also use it to your advantage.

The reality is that when it comes to attracting new women, most women are way easier to attract and pick up than they make themselves out to be.

Many women act as though they are hard to get.

They test men and they do things to put a man on the spot to see how he handles it.

If a man is able to maintain his confidence and not be affected by the tests that women are throwing at him, then they calm down.

They open up and then the interaction progresses towards a phone number, or a kiss, sex, or a date.

By the way, with the example I shared earlier in the video where a woman will say something like, “I don’t like your shirt, that’s a weird shirt, why are you wearing that shirt, that color doesn’t suit you” and so on, there are different ways to respond to that to pass her test.

For example: you can smile and say, “Oh, really? I thought this was a really cool shirt” and playfully pretend to be worried by saying, “It’s not cool? What should I be wearing instead?”

Then, smile and have a laugh with her to show her that you’re not taking it seriously.

You might even add in, “Please give me some tips on what I should be wearing instead!” to further pretend that you are worried about your shirt. Then, have a laugh with her about that as well.

Alternatively, you can turn it back on her by smiling and saying, “You’re giving me fashion advice? Have you seen what you’re wearing? What is with that dress? That isn’t cool anymore. Don’t you check out the latest fashions? You’re out of style, girl. You really need to keep up. This type of shirt, now this is what’s cool.”

As a result, she can see that not only can you handle pressure, but you can also recognize that you don’t actually have to take what a woman says seriously every time she says it.

Many times, women say things that they don’t even mean, just to test your confidence; just to see if you’ll crumble under their pressure.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you’d like to learn more, I have two recommendations for you.

If you want to attract and pick up new women, I recommend that you read or listen to The Flow.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend.

You will learn what to say and do around women to make them feel attracted to you, respect you and want to get to the point where they give you their phone number, kiss you, have sex with you and get into a relationship with you.

Once you start using The Flow, you will realize that most women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

Alternatively, if you’re already in a relationship or a marriage and want to learn how to get more respect from your woman, be able to pass her tests and be the sort of man that she looks up to and feels attracted to and is completely in love with, then I recommend that you watch my video program, which is also available on audio, called Make Her Love You For Life.

When you watch or listen to the program, you will learn exactly how to make your woman respect you, feel attracted to you and be totally in love with you for life.

Women Make Men Stronger

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that one of the most important roles that a woman plays in a man’s life is to help him become stronger.

If you don’t get annoyed and try to fight against the tests that women put you through and instead you embrace them, then what happens is that you become stronger and everyone benefits from it.

You, her, your career and in general, the entire human race.

You become a much stronger, more capable man who is able to handle pressure that makes other guys crumble and go into their shell or get angry and lose control of their emotions.

We men are meant to be strong, so embrace the tests that women put you through, rather than trying to fight against it or trying to tell a woman to stop testing and be more like a man by being more straightforward.

You've got to understand that there are legitimate reasons why women test men and you can use those tests to your advantage.

You can make a woman feel attracted by passing her tests and you can also become stronger as a man.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

3 Tips on How to Attract Women as an Introvert

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

So, do you have to be loud, outgoing and be Mr. Sociable to be able to attract women so you can get laid and get a girlfriend?

Thankfully, the answer to that is no.

You don't have to go around putting on a show, entertaining people when you talk to them and being the center of attention to be able to get laid or get a girlfriend.

Attracting women is a lot more simple and straightforward than that.

So, in this video, I'm going to give you 3 tips on how to attract women as an introvert.

1. Change how you describe yourself

If you constantly think of yourself as being an introvert and see that as a bad thing, that belief will make you feel uncomfortable in social situations.

You won't feel good enough compared to others who are more outgoing and loud.

On the other hand, if you see yourself as being a confident introvert who decides to be social at times, then you are in control of the situation.

It's not about you being an introvert all the time where you've got no control over it, you're not as social and outgoing as others and therefore you're not as cool as others.

You don't fit in.

You're not right.

There's something wrong with you.

No.

There's nothing wrong with you.

The fact is, there's nothing wrong with being an extrovert and there's nothing wrong with being an introvert.

Both are simply two different ways of being.

Neither person is correct.

Neither person is doing it the right way.

They're just two different ways to go about living life.

There's no correct way that you have to be.

However, if you are naturally more of an introvert, you need to embrace that rather than trying to force yourself to become Mr. Social and always trying to be the center of attention when you don't actually want to be that way.

Instead, what you need to do is to be confident about the fact that you are an introvert and take control of the situation by deciding when and where you want to be a bit more extroverted, when and where you want to be a bit more social.

So, if you're out in a social situation and you don't feel like socializing with other people, don't beat yourself up over that.

Don't think of yourself as not being good enough for other people, or as other people being better than you.

No.

In that moment, you simply do not want to socialize.

If you are in a social situation on another day and you want to socialize, then you decide that you want to socialize and you go ahead and do that.

Don't go home and say to yourself, "Oh, I'm a loser because I can only socialize on some days."

No.

Change how you describe yourself.

Say to yourself, "I am a confident introvert. I am in control of my life. If I want to socialize, I socialize. If I don't want to socialize, I don't socialize."

So, how does that attract women?

Well, when you have that type of confidence in yourself, women notice.

They see it as mysterious.

They can't quite work out why you feel confident, you feel worthy, you feel good enough, but you're not going around putting on a song and dance for everyone.

You're not trying to entertain everyone and be the center of attention all the time.

Sometimes, you joke around and talk with people and you become the center of attention temporarily, but you're not always trying to seek it; you're not trying to entertain people and hope to be liked.

As a result, you have a mysterious interesting type of confidence and personality that women naturally find attractive.

2. Stop focusing on yourself and focus on others

One of the advantages that introverts have over extroverts is that generally speaking, they spend more time analyzing and being introspective than extroverts do.

Some extroverts spend a lot of time talking, being in the moment and not really thinking too much about what they're saying or doing, they just want to enjoy life and be in the moment, so to speak.

Once again, there's nothing wrong with being like that and an introvert can be like that at times if he wants to.

Remember, you are in control of your life.

You are allowed to be whoever you want in any particular moment.

Now, that said...

While introverts have an advantage of being so introspective and analyzing things, sometimes that can get in an introverts way of succeeding with women.

Sometimes an introvert can get so caught up in his own head that he starts becoming insecure, anxious and unsure of himself when talking to women.

As you would know, women are turned off by that.

Women are attracted to confidence.

You need to be able to display confidence and maintain your confidence around a woman in order to make her feel attracted and to maintain her attraction for you.

So, one of the ways that you can do that is to stop focusing on yourself in the interactions.

Stop thinking about yourself and how the other person would be perceiving you.

Stop worrying about what you said and if it's cool enough and so on.

Just get lost in the details of the other person.

Focus on who she is, what she is saying, what she is wearing or doing.

Don't even pay attention to yourself.

When a woman sees that you're not in your head worrying about what others think of you, she feels attracted to the fact that you can be present in the moment and not be caught up in your head worrying about whether or not you're good enough, or are saying the right thing when talking to her.

As a result of talking to a woman in that way, you stand out from pretty much every other guy.

Most guys that she interacts with, if she's attractive, have a subtle or very obvious look of fear on their face as they talk to her.

The guy is hoping that she likes him.

He is on his best behavior and he's trying really hard to get a chance with her.

What you'll notice when you focus on other people when you're talking to them and stop focusing on yourself, is that it actually makes you temporarily more of an extrovert.

It doesn't make you an extrovert all the time and you can still continue being the introvert that you are and there's no problem with that at all.

Don't ever feel bad about yourself for wanting to be introverted at times.

However, when you use the approach of focusing on the other person and getting lost in the details of what they're talking about, it temporarily makes you more extroverted.

The focus of your energy and attention is outside of your body.

It's not inside of your head where you're getting nervous, over-analyzing things and worrying about how you are coming across.

Instead, you are looking at the other person.

You are present in the moment and they can feel it.

3. Understand that less is often more when it comes to attracting women

There's nothing wrong with a guy having a great time during a conversation with a woman, having fun, making her laugh and even entertaining her if he wants to during a conversation.

There's nothing wrong with that.

However, where guys go wrong is that they try really hard to entertain a woman, make her laugh all the time and hopefully give her a good enough of the experience that she then selects him and decides to be with him.

Yet, the problem is when a woman can sense that a guy is trying really hard to be liked by her and is trying really hard to get a chance with her, she actually sees him as lower value.

She senses that he doesn't feel good enough for her and as a result, she starts to feel like she's better than him.

Even though she is not better than him, he has made her think that way by trying really hard to get her approval, trying really hard to make her say, "Well, you're a really fun guy. I like you."

So, this is where you can use being an introvert to your advantage.

Be confident, have a fun and interesting conversation with her, but don't feel the need to try very hard and put on a show for her to hopefully like you.

What you'll find when you use that approach with women is that it's more than good enough.

You don't have to go out of your way to be super entertaining and crack jokes every second, keep a high paced interaction, be the center of attention in a group and make everyone laugh in order to get a woman to like you.

Of course, there's nothing wrong with being the center of attention, commanding a group and making everyone laugh.

You can build that skill as well if you want to.

However, what you need to understand as an introvert, is that you don't actually need to go to those lengths to be able to get laid and get a girlfriend.

It's actually a lot more simple than that.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video, and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my ebook, The Flow, or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow On Audio.

When you read The Flow or listen to The Flow On Audio, you will learn exactly what to say and do to attract women and make them want you in a sexual and romantic way.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend.

It's a natural, straightforward process that works.

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that there is a difference between being a confident introvert and an insecure introvert.

Each of those guys will live a completely different life when it comes to women.

A confident introvert will confidently talk to women that he finds attractive, he will remain confident while he's talking to them and he will have the confidence to get a phone number, or move in for a kiss, get sex that night, or set up a date and get into a relationship with a woman.

On the other hand, an insecure introvert will doubt himself.

He will feel fear and anxiety when it comes to the moment where he wants to approach women.

When he's talking to a woman, he won't be able to maintain his confidence and it will turn her off.

So, what you need to understand is that there is nothing wrong with being an introvert, but just make sure that you get your confidence sorted out.

You don't have to become an outgoing extrovert and be the center of attention to be able to get laid or get a girlfriend.

You just need to make sure that you're confident enough to talk to women that you find attractive, you're able to maintain your confidence while talking to the woman and you have the confidence to make a move when there's a great opportunity in front of you, so you can get a phone number, get a kiss, or get to sex, or set up a date and start a relationship.

If you are a confident introvert, then go ahead and start interacting with women and know that you are good enough as you are.

If you're not confident, doubt yourself, feel insecure and fear talking to women, or if you don't think that you're good enough for women that you find attractive, then continue learning from me.

I will continue to improve your confidence and get you to the point where you are confident enough to talk to women that you find attractive.

I will also teach you how to maintain your confidence around an attractive woman so you can get to a kiss, sex and into a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

4 Tips on How to Attract Beautiful Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

So, how can you attract beautiful women?

How can you attract the sort of women that you see and think, “Wow, look at her. I’d love to have sex with her or be her boyfriend. I want some of that. How do I get her?”

I’m going to give you four tips on how to do it. Let’s begin with number one...

1. Understand that beauty really is in the eye of the beholder

When you see a woman and think that she’s beautiful, it doesn’t necessarily mean that every other guy thinks she is beautiful and it also doesn’t necessarily mean that she thinks she is beautiful.

For example, according to an international study done by Dove Cosmetics, 96% of women don’t consider themselves as beautiful.

For the guys watching this video who have hooked up with beautiful women, one of the things that you will know and that other guys might be surprised to find out, is that most beautiful women are actually very insecure.

They appear as though they’re confident and as though they really think that they’re beautiful and are the best, most attractive woman in the world.

They put on a good act and many guys get tricked by that act, as I’ll talk about later in the video with certain tricks that women use.

For now, though, have a look at this photo of four women.

[image: Which of these women is the most beautiful, in your opinion?]

Out of these four women, who do you think is the most attractive?

Number one, two, three, or four?

Which of those women are most attractive to you?

As I said, beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

You might think that one of those particular women are more attractive than the other, but I’ve been running a poll on my site asking guys this very question with this very photo.

I’ve got 2,636 votes in the poll and look at the results.

If you look at the three women on the right, they’re pretty much all 28%. It’s an equal 28%.

After more than 2,000 votes, men are divided as to who is the most beautiful woman of the four.

[image: The woman on the left is the least beautiful of the bunch]

Yet, one thing is for certain, the poor girl on the left is deemed the least attractive of the bunch.

Poll

"Which Model is the Most Attractive?" (From left to right)

- ☐ 1
- ☐ 2
- ☐ 3
- ☐ 4

Vote

View Results

[image: Loading ...]

Loading ...

What's interesting, though, is that if you were to ask the guys who participated in this poll who is the most attractive and they chose girl number two, for example, the guy would most likely say that she's the most beautiful because....and then he would give his reasons.

He's looking at her as a beautiful woman.

He's looking at the other women as being not as beautiful as her.

Whereas another guy who participated in the poll will say that girl number four is the most attractive and he'll give his reasons for that.

So, in terms of helping you attract beautiful women, the reality is that with those four women in the photo, most guys will have sex with them at least once, each of them.

However, most guys don't actually approach women, especially very beautiful women because they're afraid to get rejected.

They're afraid that they're not good enough for the woman.

Yet, as you'll discover when I talk about tip three in this video, most beautiful that you see aren't actually as beautiful as you think they are.

You are on their level.

You can attract them.

They will see you as being good enough for them.

1. Be aware of the reality that she lives in

If a woman is beautiful, then what she will have experienced for most of her life since she became a woman, is that guys who get to meet her, pretty much fall in love with her right away and want to be with her, or at least want to have sex with her because of how she looks.

As a result, most beautiful have to put on an act of not being interested in guys.

Why?

If a beautiful woman walks around and is friendly and open, then she's going to make guys feel more confident to hit on her and try to get a chance with her.

The thing is, if you ask most guys what they want in a woman and you ask them to sum it up, most guys are going say something like, "Beautiful, down to earth, easy going, intelligent."

If a guy is going make it even more concise than that, he might say, "Pretty and friendly" and that's it.

A guy doesn't really need much more than that.

So, if a woman is pretty and friendly, most guys are going to be interested in her.

That's why beautiful women have to put on an act of being colder, meaner and more distant than they actually are because if a beautiful woman is friendly and open, she will be pursued by pretty much every guy that she meets.

So, in terms of helping you understand how to attract beautiful women, it's important that you realize the reality that she lives in.

All she has to do is look good and be friendly and most guys are going to want to get a chance with her.

So, what you need to remember is that the next time you're interacting with a beautiful woman, don't confuse her distance and her lack of active interest in you as meaning that she wouldn't actually hook up with you, or get into a relationship with you.

The way that it works with beautiful women, is that you need to be able to interact with them for one or two minutes to let her see that you are confident around her.

She needs to be able to see that you're not panicking, feeling nervous or feeling unworthy of her.

You are the sort of guy who is confident enough for a woman like her.

Most beautiful women don't want to get with a guy who doesn't feel good enough for her.

If a beautiful woman has had some experience with relationships, she knows that if she gets into a relationship with a guy who doesn't feel good enough for her, he is most likely going to become needy, jealous and controlling.

He will start checking her phone.

He will try to prevent her from hanging out with her girlfriends, in case another guy is there and he will need her reassurance that she loves him and isn't going to leave him.

So, with beautiful women, you need to be able to withstand the first couple of minutes of conversation with her and not doubt yourself if she isn't showing you open and active interest.

The basic rule to remember is that if a beautiful woman is continuing to talk to you after a couple of minutes, it means that she is open and interested.

It doesn't mean that you've picked her up, but she is open and interested.

Most beautiful women aren't actually difficult to pick up.

The reason why they seem difficult to pick up is that they're a bit more selective than unattractive women.

Most beautiful women know that they can have their choice of men, so if a guy interacts with a beautiful woman and is trying hard to impress her and he's doubting himself around her, then she's not going to be excited and turned on by that.

She has experienced that reaction from guys pretty much her whole life since she became a woman.

She wants a guy who is confident around her, feels worthy of her and also knows how to make her feel attracted during the interaction.

For example, a guy is talking to a woman and he asks her what she does for a living.

She says that she works as an accountant and he then says, "Oh, alright...okay, so you're a very smart girl then? You didn't seem smart when I first saw you. You look like a bit of a ditzy hot girl...maybe a bit of bimbo or something” and then he has a laugh with her about that.

She knows that he’s only joking and she’s not going to be offended and get angry at him for joking around with her like that.

Instead, she’s going to feel attracted to the fact that he has the confidence to joke around with her and not be a Mr. Nice Guy who is on his best behavior all the time, hoping to get a chance with her.

Another example is where a guy is talking to an attractive woman and she asks him if he’s going to buy her a drink.

She asks, “So, are you gonna buy me a drink?” and he says, “Well, since I’m such a gentleman, I’ll allow you to buy me one first. Ladies first, as they say” and then has a laugh with her about that.

Alternatively, when she asks, “So are you going to get me a drink?” he says, “Sure. I’ll get you a glass of water. No problem” and then has a laugh with her about that.

She can then feel attracted to the fact that he’s being confident, he’s being a bit of challenge, he’s making her laugh and they’re having a good interaction together.

He’s not one of those guys who are on his best behavior and is going say, “Sure. I’ll buy you a drink. What do you want?” and do whatever she wants in the hope of getting a chance with her.

Instead, he has the confidence to joke around with her and show her that he’s not sucking up to her and hoping to get a chance with her.

3. Realize that she’s probably using the makeup trick

[image: Woman using the make up trick]

Some women have a natural beauty and it doesn’t matter what she wears, it doesn’t matter if she’s just woken up or if she’s had a long day – she’s still going to look beautiful and guys are going to consider her to be beautiful.

However, the reality of modern life is that many of the women you see and consider to be beautiful are using the makeup trick.

They’re making themselves look more beautiful than they actually are.

A guy will often look at a woman with makeup and think, “Wow, she’s beautiful.”

He will then think about his physical appearance in comparison to hers and think, “Well, I’m not as good looking as her. She wouldn’t be interested in a guy like me. She’s way better looking than me. I’d have to be rich or famous or super-good looking to be able to get a girl like that.”

Yet, as you can see from these photos, the women aren’t actually better looking than you or pretty much every other guy out there.

Women who use makeup know that they do not look like that once the makeup comes off and as a result, they actually feel a bit insecure when they see other women who are quite naturally beautiful and don’t need to wear a lot of makeup.

Now, a guy might not notice it, though, if he’s out and he’s looking to meet women and he sees a beautiful woman wearing makeup.

He might not realize that she is actually quite insecure.

She might look beautiful to him and he might think of her as being the most beautiful woman in the world, but she might not agree.

She might be a bit insecure about her looks and she might be like most beautiful women in this world and be actually quite easy to pick up.

Now, the thing is, there are some beautiful women other there that are very difficult to pick up.

All they want is a guy who is rich and famous, has lots of money and an amazing lifestyle, can buy them everything that they want, is tall and muscular and looks like a model.

We all know that.

We all know that those women exist.

However, the majority of beautiful women are more than happy with a normal guy who is confident and can make them laugh, can make them feel attracted during a conversation and can get them to the point where they have a kiss, go on a date or go home and have sex and get into a relationship.

So, in terms of the makeup trick, the next time you see a beautiful woman wearing makeup, you probably won't be able to take off her makeup with your eyes and imagine her without it.

It's actually very difficult to do that and imagine her without makeup.

However, what you can do is remember the photos that you have seen.

Just remember that women really do look different when they take off their makeup and in most cases, you are going to be on their level in terms of looks.

They aren't going to be way better looking than you.

So, what you need to do is have the confidence to walk over and start a conversation, make her feel attracted during the conversation and then get to a phone number or a kiss, or sex that night, or get the phone number and arrange a date and then get into a relationship.

That's how it's done.

4. Focus on turning her on, rather than just having a nice conversation with her

There's nothing wrong with being good when you're talking to a woman.

Be the good guy that you are, but also make sure that you're turning her on during the conversation.

Some guys are very good looking and make a woman feel attracted to their looks without really having to do much at the start.

However, for other guys, including myself, what needs to happen is that you need to make a woman feel attracted to you by displaying personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women.

For example you display confidence, charisma, you use humor, you display emotional masculinity and you're charming.

When you do that, you'll find that beautiful women feel attracted to you and are interested to you.

By the way, I know this personally because I used to struggle with women myself.

I was a typical, friendly, nice guy.

I had a fairly good job, but beautiful women simply weren't interested in me.

Back then, I had no idea why I was getting rejected.

It just didn't make sense.

I was trying to talk to women and the conversations would become boring very quickly and the women would lose interest.

So, I decided to get out there and approach women every weekend until I worked it out.

I went out with a friend of mine and initially, I was getting rejected as per normal because I still didn't know what I was doing, but once I figured it out, everything changed.

When I actually figured out how to attract a woman during a conversation, that is when I started to have my choice of women.

It really is very easy to do.

Once you understand that women can be attracted during a conversation, the choice is yours.

You can literally walk up to beautiful women of your choosing, make them feel attracted and most of the time, they are going to feel attracted and you are going to be able to get a result.

It's not possible to pick up every woman in the world, but you can attract and pick up most of the women that you meet, including beautiful women.

If you'd like to learn more about how to do that in addition to what you've learned in this video, I have an eBook that is also available on audio.

It's called The Flow and when you use The Flow approach on women, you will have your choice with women.

You will understand exactly what to say and do to make a woman feel attracted to you during a conversation.

You will realize how damn easy it is.

When you talk to beautiful women, you'll make them feel attracted to you.

They will open up to you and they will be interested in you in a sexual and romantic way.

You will know how to get their phone number, how to get to a kiss, how to get to sex, how to get a date and how to get into a relationship.

It's actually very easy to do.

How to Be the Man She Has Been Looking For

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that many beautiful women struggle to get a boyfriend because most guys are either way too keen and are hoping to get a chance with her, or they're terrified of her.

They're scared.

They interact with her and are nervous, trying too hard to impress her and are coming across as insecure insecure.

These men don't know what to say and end up making awkward conversation and turning the woman off.

As a result, she remains single and alone, even though most guys want to have sex with her and many of those guys wish they could be her boyfriend or even husband.

What you need to understand is that mMost beautiful women just want to be able to find a guy who can be normal around them.

A guy who can be confident and can flirt with them, make them laugh and get the interaction to a phone number, kiss, sex, and into a relationship.

Some beautiful women only want a rich guy who is very powerful in society, or a tall muscular guy who looks like a model.

We all know that.

Yet, what a lot of guys don't know or struggle to accept is that when they look around them, the majority of guys who have beautiful women are not in that position.

Most guys in this world aren't rich.

Most guys in this world aren't massively powerful in society.

Most guys in this world don't look like male models with the perfect body.

Yet, what you'll find is that they are still able to get laid with beautiful women and get themselves a beautiful girlfriend.

You can get the same type of result.

You can attract beautiful women.

Some beautiful women are very difficult and hard to pick up because they have super-high standards, but the majority of beautiful women are actually very easy to pick when you know how to attract them during a conversation.

That is something that you can do and is something that you should do, so can have your choice of women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

5 Tips on How to Get a Girl to Like You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

How can you get to like you in the same way that you like her?

In other words, get her to like you in a sexual and romantic way.

In this video, I'm going to give you examples of what to say and do to get a girl to like you.

First, let's start with tip number one...

1. Be a good guy, but don't be too nice to her

There's nothing wrong with being a good guy or even being nice to woman.

Problems emerge when a guy is being way too nice to a woman.

If he's being too nice to her and laughing at all of her jokes, being very polite and essentially being on his best behavior, she starts to become suspicious.

[image: Be a good guy, but don't be too nice to her]

She's wondering, "Why is this guy being so nice to me?"

She may then assume that he is being that nice because he's a really sweet, nice guy and if she got into a relationship, he would be really sweet and nice all the time and it would end up being quite boring because it would be too one dimensional.

He'd just be nice, sweet and gentle with her all the time.

He wouldn't have that edge to him.

He wouldn't have the balls, the confidence or the masculinity to make her feel attracted in that type of way as well.

Alternatively, she might assume that he's being that nice to her because he doesn't feel worthy of her.

He feels as though she is way more valuable than him and he needs to be really, really nice and be on his best behavior, not say anything wrong or do anything and hopefully get a chance with her as a result.

He doesn't want to put a foot wrong.

He wants to make sure that she sees him as being a really nice guy and see that there's nothing wrong with him.

He's just really nice.

He has good intentions with her and is just innocently trying to get to know her.

Now, there's nothing with being a good a guy when you're talking to a woman or being nice to her, but you have to add in something else into the interaction to make her want you.

So, if you want to get a girl to like you, it can't just be about you being nice to her.

You also have to actively make her feel sexually attracted to you.

The way that it works is that if a guy is interacting with a woman and he's making her feel sexually attracted, plus being good to her or being nice to her, she sees him as being charming.

A lot of guys mess this up and assume that being charming is just about being nice to the woman. However, you also have to make her feel attracted if you want her to be charmed by you and want you in a sexual and romantic way.

How can you make her feel attracted?

Well, what you need to do is display personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

What are some examples of how to display attractive traits to get a girl to like you?

I will teach you now in tip number two...

2. Tease her in a playful way

If you have the guts to tease a girl in a playful way when talking to her, you will immediately stand out from pretty much every other guy that she interacts with.

Most guys are on their best behavior around a girl that they like and they don't want to say anything wrong.

They don't want to say anything that might offend her or shock her, or make her think that he isn't such a nice guy after all.

However, if you take that approach with a girl that you like, she's going to see you as boring.

There won't be a spark between you and her.

She might think of you as being a good guy and she might care about you in a friendly way, but she's not going to have strong, sexual feelings.

She's not going to want to get to a kiss with you.

She's not going to want to have a relationship with you.

So, if you want to stand out from other guys and make her want you in a sexual and romantic way, one of the best ways and the fastest ways to do that is to tease her in a playful way when you're talking to her.

The first example is where you're talking with her and you notice that she keeps checking her phone.

Now, a nice guy who is on his best behavior and doesn't want to say or do anything that might offend her, will just let her check her phone all the time while he sits there like a good, little boy.

He'll wait until she's finished playing with her phone and he'll then try to start talking to her again.

On the other hand, a guy who makes her feel attracted will have the balls to playfully tease her about checking her phone all the time.

So, he's talking with her and he notices that she checks her phone.

He doesn't say anything about it the first time.

Then, they continue talking, having a chat and she checks her phone again.

This time, he looks across to her and says, "No...no one sent you a message. No one cares about you" and then has a laugh with her about that.

Now, what you need to understand is that if he has been a good guy while talking to her, she's not suddenly going to see him as being a bad guy, a jerk or an asshole because he playfully teased her in that way.

Instead, she's going to think, "Wow, this guy has the balls to say something funny like that and tease me and he's not even worried about me potentially getting angry or losing interest in him. Therefore he must confident and believe in himself around me."

Most guys don't believe in themselves around an attractive girl, so they don't dare to say anything like that around her.

Most guys are hoping to get a chance with her and are on their best behavior around her.

They don't feel like they deserve her, but they're hoping to get a chance with her.

So, when a girl comes across a guy who has the balls to playfully tease her in that way, then she starts thinking, "Wow, this is actually different. It's not happening in the way that it usually happens where a guy is on his best behavior hoping to get a chance with me. This guy is being good to me and we're having a good chat, but I don't know whether he is 100% interested in me or not."

As a result, the guy becomes a bit of challenge for her to acquire, which is exciting for her.

The example is where you're talking to a girl on a hot day and all of a sudden she says, "I'm so hot."

At that point, most guys who are trying to be nice and are on their best behavior are going to say what?

They're going to say something like, "Yeah, it's really hot today, isn't it? Oh, I can't wait for the cool weather to come along or maybe we should go inside where there's air conditioning."

Now, there's nothing wrong with being normal like that, talking about the weather and talking about going inside where there's air conditioning if it's hot.

There's nothing wrong with that.

However, if you want to get a girl to like you, what you need to be aware of is that there are many opportunities in a conversation to make her feel attracted to you.

When you make her feel attracted to you in a sexual way, then she has a sexual and romantic interest in you.

So, make sure that you pay attention to things that she says and then use that to playfully tease her at times.

You don't want to playfully tease her all the time.

You simply add in playful teasing about 20% of the time and that's enough.

So, the example is where you're sitting with her and she says, "I'm so hot" and you then look at her and say, "Well, you're hot, but come on...you're not that hot" and then have a laugh with her about that.

If you want to put her mind at ease, you can then say, "No, no, just kidding, you're sexy, even on a hot day."

What you need to understand is that many girls are insecure about how they look.

If the girl that you're talking to happens to be wearing makeup, she can be insecure about the heat and how that would be affecting her makeup.

Some girls are insecure about their makeup smudging, or their mascara running and things like that.

So, telling her that you're just kidding and that she looks sexy even on a hot day, will put her mind at ease.

She feel happy than you're doing that, but she'll also feel attracted to the fact that you had the balls to joke around with her and say that she's "Hot, but come on...you're not that hot."

You're not being in your best behavior all the time, hoping to get a chance with her by being a good boy.

You're being a little bit cheeky sometimes.

You're being a little bit playful.

You're making things fun between you and her.

The next example is where you're talking to a girl and she says the classic line of, "You're a really nice guy," or, "You're a nice guy."

Don't go ahead and say, "Thanks" to that, take it as a compliment and not do anything with it.

You've got to understand that if she's saying that you're a nice guy, it can be because she's trying to say, "Hey, I'm just seeing you as a nice guy. I'm not feeling any sexual attraction with you. I can be friendly with you, but I'm not interested in anything sexual or romantic."

So, make sure that you use a line or a comment like that from her, to make her feel attracted and turn things around so she actually likes you in a sexual and romantic way.

For example, if she says, "You're a really nice guy," assume she's saying that because she's hitting on you and is trying to flirt with you.

Rather than saying, "Thanks," you say, "Flattery will get you nowhere girl, but go ahead...keep going with the compliments. What else do you like about me?" and then have a laugh with her about that.

She's almost certainly going to say, "No, no, I wasn't saying that. I was just saying that you're nice."

You can then say, "Yeah, right. I've seen the way that you've been looking at me. You've been undressing me with your eyes. You're actually very forward, you know? Just settle down a little bit okay? Not so fast" and then have a laugh with her about that.

Here's the thing...

If you're being a good guy when you're talking to a girl that you like and also making her feel attracted by playfully teasing her and being confident, she's going to feel attracted to you.

[image: Be charming and a girl will like you]

She's going to see you as charming.

Other guys who are looking on who don't understand how a woman's attraction works, will be thinking, "What does she see in that guy? Why does she like him? I'm nicer to her than he is. He doesn't even seem like he's trying that hard. He's teasing her at times. He's saying some things that I think are rude. Why does she like him?"

Why?

She is feeling attracted to his confidence.

She's feeling attracted to the fact that he has the balls to say things that other guys are afraid to say around her.

She also understands the fact that he's only joking.

He's not being serious about those things.

He's not turning to her when she's checking her phone and angrily saying, "No. No one cares about you. No one is sending you a message. Why do you check your phone so much? Put your phone down sometimes, jeez. People are so addicted to their phone these days."

He's not being a jerk like that.

He's not being an asshole.

He's not being a crazy weirdo.

He's just playfully talking to her and saying, "No. No one sent you a message. No one cares about you. Sorry," and then having a laugh with her about that.

In addition, he's also being good to her.

Generally speaking, when he's talking to her, he's being a good guy and getting along with her, having fun and having a chat, but 20% of the time, he's adding in some playful humor to tease her and make her feel attracted.

3. Avoid qualifying yourself

Qualifying yourself is essentially about telling a girl things about yourself to hopefully make her decide that you're good enough for her and to then give you a chance to be with her.

An example is where a guy is talking to a girl and she's complaining about how other guys treat her, how guys are just interested in sex and how they don't treat women well.

A guy who qualifies himself will then start saying, "Well, I'm not like that. I would never treat a woman like that. I think it's disgusting. I think that a man and a woman should get to know each other for a couple of months before having sex. I think that men should be more polite and more considerate of women's feelings."

Now, there's nothing wrong with a guy having a viewpoint like that if he wants to have that kind of viewpoint.

However, if a guy is saying those sorts of things to hopefully get a girl to see that he is not like other guys, so she will then decide to give him a chance, then he's doing it in the wrong way.

Additionally, if a girl gets a sense that a guy is lying in the hopes of impressing, her guard will go up. She won't be able to trust him.

She will feel as though he's putting on an act to hopefully get a chance with her.

Another example of qualifying is where a guy is talking to a girl that he likes and he wants to get her to like him.

He notices that he's not showing much signs of sexual or romantic interest.

She's a little bit indifferent about him, so he feels like he needs to raise his value in her eyes.

He then starts talking about his achievements.

He starts talking about his car if he has one, if he has an apartment or a house, he talks about that, or if he wants to become successful, he talks about that.

If he wants to make lots of money, he talks about that.

If he has money, he talks about that and he hopes that by saying those things, a girl will then decide, "Okay, this guy is good enough for me."

Yet, the way that it works is that, if a woman gets the sense that a guy is trying to build himself up in her eyes by talking about his positions or achievements or his desire to succeed, she will actually see him as lower value.

She will see that he doesn't feel good enough for her as he is.

Therefore she starts to think, "Well, maybe I'm too good for him."

Even though she's not too good for him, he has created that perception in her mind.

He has made himself look lower value by trying to make himself look higher value.

So, if you want to make a girl like you, don't make the mistake of qualifying yourself and thinking that you need to raise your value in her eyes by bragging about things or talking about how successful you want to be and so on.

There's nothing wrong with talking about success or talking about what you've achieved, as long as you're not saying it in a way to hopefully raise your value in a girl's eyes so she then decides to give you a chance.

4. Talk to her like a potential lover, not a potential friend

When a guy wants to get a girl to like him, one of the biggest mistakes he makes is talking to her in a neutral way like a friend.

He focuses on having a neutral, everyday chat and hopes that if he keeps talking to her, she will gradually start to like him.

Yet, if a girl is attractive, she will have experienced that type of approach from guys many times before in her life and it's not exciting.

What you may have noticed in your life is that some guys can start talking to a girl and hit it off immediately.

Sparks begin to fly between him and the girl right away, without him having to get to know her for a long time beforehand.

She's immediately happy, she's smiling from ear to ear, she's touching him, she's flirting with him and she's really happy and excited to be talking to him.

The reason why sparks flies so easily is that the guy is using an approach that makes the women feel sexually attracted and turned on.

He's not using an approach where he's trying to become a friend and slowly grow on her over time in a neutral way.

Some guys can get laid and get a girlfriend by doing that (i.e. growing on a woman over time), but what you may have noticed is that if a guy is using that approach and talking to a girl for weeks or months, all that it takes for him to be pushed to the side is another guy to come along and make her feel sexually attracted.

Sparks start to fly immediately between the two of them and she leaves the other guy behind.

What you'll notice is that it's not necessarily because the guy is better looking, or because he's rich or powerful in society or anything like that.

It's simply because he's using a different approach to the other guy.

The guy who gets the girl is not trying to become her friend and slowly grow on her over time.

He's immediately making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by the way that he's interacting with her.

5. Be a challenge, but don't play too hard to get

The reason why girls prefer guys who are a challenge is that if she is attractive, then pretty much every guy that she meets wants to have sex with her or be her boyfriend.

It's very easy for her to get some sex or get a boyfriend because there are usually many guys in her life (e.g. at work, university, through friends) that want to have sex with her or be her boyfriend.

Alternatively, she just has to go out to a bar or club and there are going to be loads of guys who are hoping to get a chance with her simply based on her looking pretty.

This is why girls prefer guys who are a bit of a challenge.

However, where guys go wrong is that they become too much of a challenge.

A guy will act as though he's not interested in the girl that he likes and as a result he will make the whole process of getting her to like him more difficult than it actually is.

Getting girls to like you is a very simple and straightforward process.

You don't have to put on an act of not liking her, or anything like that.

It's much easier and more straightforward than that.

What you'll find is that when you are a good guy and focus on making a girl feel sexually attracted to you during an interaction, but aren't being desperate about trying to get a relationship with her or trying to get a chance with her, she will like you.

It's as simple as that.

Additionally, it's actually very easy to get girls to like you because most guys do it wrong.

Most guys are on their best behavior and are being really nice in the hope of getting a chance with the girl.

The girl knows that most of those guys are hoping to have sex with her or be her boyfriend.

It's very obvious and it's not exciting to her.

What is exciting for her is when she meets a guy who makes her feel sexually attracted right away when he starts talking to her and he isn't being desperate about trying to get a chance with her.

That peaks her interest.

That makes her want to pursue him.

That makes her like him.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my e-book The Flow, or listen to the audio book version The Flow on Audio.

When you read The Flow or listen to The Flow on Audio, you will learn exactly what to say and do to make a girl like you in a sexual and romantic way.

Once you start using the techniques from The Flow, you will see that it's actually very easy to get most girls to like you in a sexual and romantic way.

When you've used The Flow on one or two girls and gotten to a kiss or sex, you'll realize that you have your choice with girls.

It's not about you hoping to get a chance with 1 out of 100 girls that you meet.

What you will find is that most of the girls that you meet feel sexually and romantically attracted to you and you have your choice of them.

Most Girls Are Easy to Attract and Pick Up

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that most girls are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be, or than they appear to be.

The reason why is sometimes it appears that girls are hard to attract and pick up is that most guys are using an approach where they're trying to be liked in a friendly way by the girl.

They're on their best behavior and being nice, friendly and neutral and hoping that something happens.

Yet, what works and what cuts through all the games and gets the result, is where you interact with a girl that you like and you make her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you during an interaction.

You still continue to be the good guy that you are, but with one important addition to what you're doing.

You are now making girls feel sexually attracted and turned on by you in subtle ways when you interact with them.

The funny thing, is that other guys looking on can't work out what you're doing because it's not obvious.

You're not being sleazy or anything like that.

Instead, you're being what women refer to as charming.

You're being a good guy who also makes them feel sexually attracted.

If you really want to get girls to like you and chase you, then you're also being a bit of a challenge to acquire as well.

When you take that approach with girls, you will realize that they've always been way easier to pick up than they've made themselves out to be.

You may have gotten rejected by some girls in the past, but the fact is that you were good enough for most of those girls.

It was just the approach that you were using that got you rejected.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

4 Tips on How to Attract Shy Girls

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

There are a lot of shy girls out there who are very cute, sexy and pretty.

In fact, there are actually more shy girls than there are shy guys.

According to the Anxiety and Depression Association of America, women are twice as likely to suffer from an anxiety disorder compared to men.

A woman's anxiety in social situations can cause her to feel shy and to behave in shy ways.

A woman may behave as though she is fine and feeling confident, but on the inside and she'll be feeling anxious.

She'll be doubting herself and she'll be wondering why she feels so down on herself in social situations, why she is so worried about trying to fit in, why she is so worried about whether or not she looks pretty enough, or why she is so worried about what people are thinking of her.

Just like a shy man is deserving of love and companionship, a shy woman is also deserving of love and companionship.

However, her shyness can actually get in the way of her dating life.

She may come across in ways where a guy feels like he's being rejected by her, but in actual fact, she's just being shy and she doesn't know how else to handle the situation.

So, if you're interested in attracting shy girls so you can have sex with them or have a relationship, here are four tips for you...

1. Understand that if she doesn't say much during a conversation, it might be because she is feeling very shy around you and can't think of something to say

[image: Sometimes, she just doesn't know what to say]

If a guy is talking to a woman that he finds attractive and she's not contributing much to the conversation, it can mean that she's not interested.

It can mean that she doesn't want to talk to him.

However, in many cases when it comes to shy girls, the number one reason why she's not saying much during the conversation is that she doesn't know what to say.

She finds herself overthinking things and overanalyzing the situation.

She's thinking of asking a guy what he does for a living, but then she says to herself, "Oh, that's not a really cool thing to ask. What else can I say?"

She might then want to compliment him on something and then she starts thinking, "Well, maybe that's not cool. Maybe I'm going to be coming across as too keen, or too interested."

She thinks about telling him something that happened to her recently, but then she worries that it might make her look uncool.

It might make her look desperate.

It might make her look needy.

It might make her look silly or whatever.

She thinks way too much and as a result, she stops herself from being able to have free-flowing conversations.

So, if you're talking to a shy girl and she's not saying a lot, don't assume it's because she's rejecting you or because she is losing interest in you.

Many times, it's because she doesn't know what to say or she's worried about saying the wrong thing.

2. Help her feel confident but don't give her too much power in the interaction

[image: Help her feel confident, but don't give her too much power in the interaction]

When talking to a shy girl, it's important to help her feel confident and feel comfortable around you.

You want her to stop worrying about things in her head and just start being more in her body and being with you and enjoying the moment.

One of the ways that you can do that is to occasionally give her a compliment.

However, you must ensure that you're not being too nice about things.

[image: If you give her too much power, she will feel as though she's too good for you]

If you're giving her compliment after compliment after compliment, she then starts to think, "Okay, this guy's trying to suck up to me. He is really keen. I must be a lot more attractive than him. I must be better than him. Right...well, I need to play hard to get. This guy really wants to get a chance with me."

You don't want to put yourself in that situation.

However, you also don't want to make her feel uncomfortable and doubt herself around you.

So, it's important to give her some compliments, but also followed up with a bit of a challenging question or a challenging statement or a challenging bit of behavior.

So, the basic equation is Compliment + Challenge.

For example, if the shy girl that you're talking to is very stylish and dresses herself well, you can give her a compliment about that.

You can be talking to her and say, "You know what? I really like your style. You know how to dress. What's with this outfit? You're matched up so beautifully."

She might then say, "Thank you" or talk about how she likes fashion and so on.

To add in a challenge, you can then say to her, "Well, hang on a second though. You're really stylish, but are you always this stylish...like, do you wear stylish pajamas and things like that? Are you one of those girls that has to wear Victoria's Secret pajamas, or some other fashion brand like that...or are you a little bit more relaxed when you're wearing pajamas?"

She's almost certainly going to laugh at that and she might then tell you that she doesn't wear stylish pajamas or that she does.

If she doesn't wear stylish pajamas, you can then say, "Oh, right. So you're not that stylish. I thought you're a full on fashionista, but it turns out that you're a bit more relaxed about things, especially in the bedroom" and then have a laugh with her about that.

[image: Compliment her, but challenge her as well to keep things interesting]

By talking to her in that way, she's going to feel challenged by you, but she's also going to feel like you are noticing some good things about her.

You can put her mind at ease if you want to, by saying something like, "No, no, just kidding. I like your style...and hey, anyway, there are no rules when it comes to pajamas, right? At the end of the day, everyone looks better naked."

At that point, she's almost certainly going to be laughing.

By the way...

If she said that she does wear stylish pajamas, you can still challenge her in a playful way.

You might say, "Well, so okay, you are a fully stylish girl. So, you're pretty, you're smart, you're stylish. Hang on, there's got to be something that you can't do. Can you arm wrestle? Come here, let's have an arm wrestle."

At that point, she's most likely going to laugh and you don't actually have to arm wrestle her, or you can arm wrestle her in a playful way and let her beat you or you can beat her. It doesn't really matter.

The whole point of talking to a woman in that way, is to get her out of her head and into her body, so she's feeling and experiencing the moment and enjoying talking to you, rather than worrying so much.

3. Don't suppress your masculinity

[image: Don't suppress your masculinity]

One of the biggest mistakes that guys make when talking to shy girls is thinking that they need to be really soft, gentle, sweet, nice and friendly around her.

It's totally fine to be friendly and good to a woman, but make sure that no matter what woman you're talking to, whether she's shy, confident or whatever, you always maintain your masculinity.

You don't suppress your masculinity and start acting neutral, soft, or even feminine around a woman to hopefully get her to like you in a nice way.

You don't want to get her to like you in a nice way.

You want to get her to like you in a sexual way and women feel sexually attracted to masculinity.

So, even though the woman that you're talking to is shy, don't suppress your masculinity and start being really soft, sweet and nice to hopefully get her to like you in a nice way.

What you have to remember is that, even though she is shy, she still has a wild side.

She has a sexual wild side that she wants to express and share with you.

Yet, she can't share that with a guy if he is suppressing his masculinity and being too soft, nice and gentle with her.

She's only going to be able to truly let go and express her wild side sexually when she's with the guy who is comfortable with his masculinity.

He doesn't suppress it because he thinks it's wrong to be the man.

He maintains his masculinity and as a result, she can feel truly feminine around him.

So, an example of this, is a guy talking to a shy girl and changing his tonality, changing his body language and being softer and nicer than he normally he.

He uses a really nice, polite tonality and comes across as being a softer, nicer, supportive, sweet, helpful, generous type of guy.

That doesn't create a spark of sexual attraction inside of her.

What's going to turn her on is a guy who is a good guy, but also has some masculinity.

He talks to her and he's being good to her but, he doesn't start changing his facial expressions or tonality to become softer, sweeter or nicer than he actually is.

For example, a guy is talking to her and she says that she doesn't like football.

A guy who's being soft might say to her, "Oh, really? Oh, what don't you like about football? I mean, why don't you like it?" in a soft, friendly, nice manner.

On the other hand, a guy who maintains his masculinity will respond in a different way.

For example, he might say, "You don't like football. What's wrong with you girl? How can you not like football? Football is the best sport in the world. What is wrong with you?"

Now, he's only joking and she's going to sense that, but what she's also going to sense is that he actually has the ability to maintain a masculine frame when interacting with her.

She then assumes that he's probably going to be able to maintain a masculine frame when he's having sex with her.

So, when she imagines having sex with him, it's going to be a lot more exciting to imagine that, compared to a guy who's being really soft and nice and sweet all the time.

4. Understand that she will probably doubt that you would like a girl like her

As weird as it might seem to you because you do see her as being sexy, cute, pretty and beautiful, a shy girl will often doubt that she is good enough for you.

Now, she won't actually say that.

In most cases, she will do a great job of hiding that and might even pretend that she doesn't like you to hopefully gain some power in the situation.

So, for example, you might be interacting with her and being confident, being cool, being charismatic and she realizes that she's feeling attracted to you.

She then tries to gain some power in the interaction by giving you weird looks when you say things, rolling her eyes, looking away, saying, "Huh? What are you talking about?" and things like that.

She will try to make you feel uncomfortable and make you think that she's losing interest, in the hope that it allows her to gain some power in the interaction.

That way, she can feel a bit more confident about herself around you.

Additionally, one of the common fears of shy girls is that they don't want to appear too keen or desperate, or to be seen as too easy.

So, they will often behave as though they're not even interested in anything past a conversation.

However, she really is.

She's hoping that the guy has the confidence to continue the interaction, get her number or get to a kiss so she can then get to have sex with him or go on a date with him and get into a relationship with him.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my e-book, The Flow, or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

When you read the e-book or listen to the audiobook version, you will learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel attracted to you, want to kiss you, want to have sex with you and want to have a relationship with you.

The Flow is about naturally and easily flowing from one step to the next with a woman.

Once you've used The Flow on one or two women, you will realize that most women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

You will enjoy your choice of women.

It won't be about you trying to hopefully get lucky with the girl every now and again.

It will be about you choosing which of the many women that feel attracted to you are going to get a chance with you.

That is the power of The Flow.

Remember: There Are More Shy Girls Out There Than Shy Guys

[image: More shy girls than shy guys]

One final point that I want to make for you in this video, is to remind you that women experience anxiety and shyness at twice the rate of men.

So, the next time you are out in a social situation such as a bar, a party, a social event or you're trying to meet women in other situations, just remember that if you're feeling a bit shy and unsure of yourself, loads of women there are going to be feeling that as well.

They might look like they are confident and they might look like they don't care if they get a guy or not, but if a woman is shy or suffers from anxiety and that tends to get in the way of her hooking up with a guy and getting into a relationship, she is secretly going to be hoping that she can secure herself a guy, whether that is for sex that night or for a date or for a relationship.

Women don't go around admitting that though.

They like to behave as though they don't really care and they don't need a man, but women have feelings and they have desires just like men do.

Women want to be having sex or want to be in a relationship.

It's standard, human nature.

So, don't let the behavior of women in social situations throw you off.

Sometimes a woman is acting like she isn't really interested or she doesn't really care, because she's trying to deal with her anxiety and shyness.

She's trying to appear more confident and indifferent than she actually is.

So, if you want to attract a shy girl so you can have sex with her or have a relationship with her, don't doubt yourself.

Walk over and start a conversation with her.

In most cases, she will be secretly hoping that she can find herself a new guy.

She will be secretly hoping that some guy has the confidence to come over and talk to her and be able to deal with her awkward shy behavior during the interaction, so she can then get to a kiss, get to sex and have a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

An Easy Way to Attract Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

An easy way to attract women is to be unpredictable.

Now, to be clear here, being unpredictable is not about being silly or crazy around women, or anything like that.

The dictionary definition of unpredictable is...

Unpredictable (adjective): Behaving in a way that is not easily predicted.

The reason why being unpredictable is important, is that it immediately makes you stand out from the crowd of guys who are hoping to get a chance to stick it in her or to be her boyfriend.

[image: Can I stick it in, or be your boyfriend please?]

The fact is that, if a woman is attractive and available, then pretty much every guy will try to get a chance with her in the same kind of ways.

For example, a guy will either be really nice to her, be neutral and act like just a friend to hopefully grow on her over time, or he will try hard to suck up to her and hopefully get her to really like him as a person.

He doesn't realize that pretty much every other guy she has met in her life has done the same thing, with the hope of getting to have sex with her or to be her boyfriend.

It's not a guy's fault though, because men are naturally wired in the brain to actively pursue sex with women.

For example, according to Louann Brizendine, a professor at the University of California, San Francisco, "The biggest difference between the male and female brain, is that men have a sexual pursuit area that is 2.5 times larger than the one in the female brain."

On the topic of men having more testosterone than women, she also says that, "All that testosterone drives the man trance; that glazed look a man gets when he sees breasts. I wish I could say that men can stop themselves from entering this trance, but the truth is they can't. Their visual brain circuits are always on the lookout for fertile mates. Whether or not they intend to pursue a visual enticement, they have to check out the goods."

Essentially, what she is saying is that men and women are wired differently when it comes to the pursuit of sex.

If a man is single, looking for a woman and happens to see an attractive one, he will be overcome with a feeling of attraction and he will want something to happen.

I refer to this as Insta-Attraction, meaning that it's the instant response of attraction that a man feels when he sees a physically attractive woman who is healthy and of breeding age.

[image: Insta Attraction]

It's not something that men can turn off or need to turn off.

It's an instant natural reaction.

Feeling attracted to women is nothing to be ashamed of.

However, if a man wants to be able to get an attractive woman to have sex with him or be his girlfriend, he should avoid acting like pretty much every other guy that she has met in her life so far. For example, a predictable guy meets a woman, instantly feels attracted to her and wants her. He is then very nice to her, tries hard to impress her and hopes to get a chance with her. She has experienced that hundreds of times before in her life.

On the other hand, an unpredictable guy meets a woman, instantly feels attracted to her and wants her, but doesn't try hard to impress her.

He is good to her, but he gets her trying to impress him.

She notices that he's not behaving like pretty much every other guy that she has met in her life. He is not instantly smitten with her and hoping to get a chance with her. She's intrigued and wants to know why he isn't fawning all over her like every other guy. So, she then starts flirting with him and showing interest to hopefully get him to like her. In the process of behaving that way around him, she falls for him. She likes the fact that he is a bit of a challenge to acquire. It excites her and makes her want him.

As a result of her sexual interest in him, he can then either get her phone number, kiss her, have sex with her, or begin a relationship.

Now, when some guys see a guy behaving in that way with a woman, they might think to themselves, "What does she in him? I talked to her...I was so nice to her...we were getting along...I was complimenting her and we we're having a good time, but she wasn't interested in me in a sexual way. Yet, that guy talked to her, he wasn't really even doing much and she was fawning all over him. She was touching him, she was trying to impress him, she was laughing at all of his jokes that weren't even that funny and he ended up getting her phone number, kissing her, or taking her home for sex."

The thing is, most attractive women are actually very easy to pick up, but if a guy uses a predictable approach on her and makes her feel like she is the prize and that he would be so lucky to get a chance with her, she believes that too.

She starts acting like she is way better than him and she plays hard to get. He then has to jump through all of our hoops to hopefully get a chance with her. Unfortunately, most guys make it difficult for themselves by looking at the woman as being so much more attractive than themselves.

The guy gets tricked by his feelings of attraction into thinking that she is sexier than him and that he would be lucky to get a chance with her because he is feeling what I call Insta-Attraction for her. Simply based on her physical appearance and potentially her friendly personality, he is feeling sexually attracted to her, he wants her and he wants something to happen between them.

Now, if she is also using the makeup trick and making herself appear more physically attractive than she actually is without makeup, then a guy might doubt himself even more.

He might look at her as being so attractive, compare her physical appearance to himself and think, "She's way hotter than me. I couldn't get a girl like her."

So, what does he do?

He uses a predictable approach.

He interacts with her, tries very hard to impress her and hopes to get a chance with her.

Yet, she doesn't want that.

She doesn't want one of the hundreds or thousands of guys who are happy to stick it in her to be her next guy.

She wants a guy that she feels attracted to; a guy that she feels the need to impress.

One of the ways to make a woman feel that way is to be unpredictable around her.

For example, you meet her, you feel attracted to her and you like her, but you don't try hard to impress her.

You let her see that you're not like pretty much every other guy that she's met in her life, who does the same thing when he meets her.

For example, a predictable guy feels attracted to her and if he sees that they're getting along, he gets excited and is hoping that he's found himself a new girlfriend.

As a result, he is very nice to her, he laughs at all of her jokes, he takes a really keen interest in who she is and he hopes that something happens between them.

Now, some guys might be thinking, "What's wrong with that?"

Well, there's nothing wrong with that.

However, if the woman that you want to attract and pick up is very attractive, very sexy or very hot, then pretty much every guy does that with her when they meet her.

Pretty much every guy that she meets wants to stick it in her or wants to be her boyfriend, without her having to do ANYTHING to impress him other than look pretty and be friendly.

She gets that predictable, "Please give me a chance to be your boyfriend" approach from guys ALL the time.

To be interested, all she's asking for is a bit of a challenge.

She wants to have that feeling where she has to impress you as well, rather than you feeling like she has done enough and doesn't need to do anything to impress you.

She wants to see that you're not immediately sold on her and willing to do whatever it takes to get a chance with her, so you can stick it in or be her boyfriend.

[image: Attract her by being a bit of a challenge and making her feel as though she needs to impress you]

Now, as I said earlier in the video, being unpredictable isn't about being crazy and doing silly things all the time.

However, you do need to add in a bit of silliness and playfulness at times, rather than being so straightforward and serious all the time.

Attractive women appreciate it when they are with a guy who has the balls to say or do something out of the norm that could potentially turn her off.

An unpredictable guy isn't worried about potentially turning her off.

He is willing to risk it and say something a bit silly or a bit funny to have a laugh, because he's not trying so hard to impress her.

So, an example of a dating situation is where a man and a woman are on a first date and are eating some food at a restaurant.

The predictable guy's food arrives, he looks at the plate and says, "Oh, that looks nice," and he then cuts his steak.

He has a bite and says, "Oh, that's tasty...tastes good. How about you? How's your food?"

Now, there's nothing wrong with a guy saying that.

There's nothing wrong with being normal.

However, if you want to create a spark inside of a woman, if you want to make her feel attracted, one of the ways you can do that (a very easy way to do it), is to be unpredictable at times.

Note that I said, "At times."

It's not about being silly and unpredictable all the time.

So, the unpredictable guy's plate arrives, he looks at it and has a bit of a puzzled and look on his face.

He cuts his steak, takes a bite and appears to not like the food as he begins to chew.

His facial expression is essentially saying, "What the? This is gross" and he allows her to feel shocked by that for 2-3 seconds.

He then changes his facial expression to one of being impressed by the food and says, "This is very good, very tasty! I love this! How about you?" and then has a laugh with her.

In the few seconds where he was pretending that the food wasn't tasty, the woman is going to feel shocked.

It's not going to be a predictable situation that she is experiencing.

Pretty much every other guy who has taken her on a date has been on his best behavior and didn't ever want to say or do anything out of the ordinary, in case she felt shocked, offended, annoyed or turned off.

On the other hand, the unpredictable guy is giving her something different.

He has the balls to say and do something that other guys fear would turn the woman off.

The unpredictable guy knows that it's not going to turn her off because he's only joking and she is going to realize that, laugh about it and find it funny.

As a result, she will feel attracted to him for having the confidence to joke around her with her and for being a bit of a challenge, rather than acting like Mr. Perfect and secretly hoping that he doesn't say or do anything to screw up the date.

She can relax and enjoy herself with him, rather than feeling suspicious like she does when with predictable guys because she can sense that they are putting on an act of being nicer, more polite and more formal than they actually are or want to be.

By the way...

An important thing to point out here, is that being unpredictable in situations like that takes much less effort than being predictable.

When a guy is being predictable with a woman and is trying to do everything right and be on his best behavior, he actually has to put in a lot more effort because he is stressing out and trying really hard to say and do all the right things.

As a result of his desperate, "Please like me!" approach, the woman feels like she is better than him and starts playing hard to get.

When she starts playing hard to get, he then has to try harder to impress her and say and do all the right things to hopefully not screw things up before he gets to a kiss, sex or into a relationship.

On the other hand, the unpredictable guy gets action quickly and easily.

He makes the woman feel attracted to him and as a result, she wants to be close with him, she wants to hug him, she wants to kiss him and she wants to have sex with him.

For example, they finish eating and walk out of the restaurant and the woman is walking close to him.

[image: Okay, I'll let you hold my hand]

An unpredictable guy will say something like, “Okay, well, look...we can hold hands, but no kissing, alright? I don't move that fast. You're going have to wine and dine me a little bit more before I let you kiss me” and then have a laugh with her about that.

Approaching the interaction in that way is very exciting for her because the guy isn't acting in a predictable manner.

Most guys will walk outside the restaurant and be predictable about their approach to hopefully getting another date, or getting her back to their place.

A predictable guy will be a bit awkward and eventually try to hold her hand as they walk along, or he will put his arm around her and nervously say, “So, yeah...do you want to go back to my place for a coffee?” and be very self-doubting about the whole process.

On the other hand, an unpredictable guy will make it out as though she is trying to seduce him and that he is the one who is in the position of power.

He will talk to her as though she is hitting on him, or that she is hoping to get to hold his hand, kiss him and have sex with him.

[image: Relax girl, you will get to kiss me eventually]

As a result of turning the tables on her in that way, she gets the sense that he is the one who is going to decide when they kiss and have sex.

She will have to keep being attractive and impressing him if she wants to be able to get to kiss him, have sex with him and get to be his girlfriend.

That is exciting, especially for an attractive woman who has experience the same thing over and over and over again with other guys (i.e. guys on their best behavior, trying really hard to impress her, putting in loads of effort and hoping...hoping to get a chance to stick it in).

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my eBook The Flow or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

When you read the eBook or listen to the audiobook version, you will learn exactly what to say and do to woman feel attracted to you, want to kiss you, have sex with you and have a relationship with you.

[image: Attract women, get to sex and enjoy a relationship]

You will learn how to make women stop playing games and just get to the point where you and her getting it on, having a good time and enjoying each other.

One other thing that I want to point out for you about being unpredictable, is to remind you that you don't need to do it all the time.

You can follow the old 80/20 rule when it comes to this sort of stuff.

80% of the time, you just go about things in a normal way where you're being confident and talking to the woman, but 20% of the time, you add in unpredictability.

You do that to keep things interesting between yourself.

You also do it to make her feel as though you could change your mind about her if she doesn't treat you well enough, make an effort to look attractive or behave in an attractive way.

You don't tell her that directly because she is going to play hard to get if you say it.

Instead, you let her feel that based on how you interact with her (i.e. she gets the sense that you're not like other guys who are completely sold on her and don't require her to do anything to impress them, other than be female).

When a woman gets that sense about you, it makes her appreciate you so much more.

For example, you walk up to the door of a cafe or a restaurant that you're going to go into with her and you do something unpredictable.

A predictable guy will just open the door for her and let her go in.

An unpredictable guy (who creates a bit of fun and makes her feel as though she needs to impress him and be a good girl for him), will stop at the door, look at her and say, "Well, are you going to open the door for me or what?"

After a brief pause where she gets to feel shocked and wonder, "Is he for real? Should I open the door for him? Is that what I should be doing? Do women do that these days?" he will then have a laugh with her and say, "Alright, in you go, I'm a gentleman" and then smack her on the butt as she walks in the door.

As a result of his approach to her, she is getting a much more unpredictable, exciting experience.

She can see that he isn't on his best behavior and putting on a fake Mr. Perfect Nice Guy act to hopefully win her over.

As a result, she gets the sense that he isn't afraid to lose her.

He could easily attract a new woman, so if she wants to keep him, she'd better treat him well.

By the way...

A guy who's being predictable has to put in way more effort than the guy who's being unpredictable.

A guy who's being predictable is going to open the door for her, try to be a gentleman, maybe pull out her chair for her and be really nice and trying to impress her over dinner and so forth, whereas an unpredictable guy is going to be good to her, but he's also going to mess with her a little bit as well.

He's going to let her see that he's not on his best behavior and trying to hopefully get to stick it in, or hopefully get to continue being her boyfriend if they have started dating already.

As a result, she feels intrigued by him, excited to be around him and hopeful that she can continue to be his girlfriend.

So, if you want to enjoy easy success with women from now on, make sure that you use an approach that causes a woman to want to impress you and be good to you.

The best part of all, is that women actually prefer it to be that way.

Women don't want to be in a situation where a guy is essentially bowing down to them and sucking up to them all the time.

That's boring, predictable and doesn't make a woman feel like she is lucky to have the guy.

A woman wants to be in a position where she looks up to her man and respects him and wants to be good to him.

You can achieve that with women simply by changing your approach with them.

What you'll find when you do use the approach I'm talking about here, is that you were good enough for women all along.

You were more than good enough for most of the women that you have met, except you were using an approach that made them feel as though they were better than you, or that you needed to impress them a lot to get a chance with them.

No.

You can make a woman want to impress you...and she actually prefers it to be that way.

You can be in the position of power.

It's much easier when you approach it that way.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do You Want My Number?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Have you ever been in the situation where you're talking to a hot girl and everything seems to be going well, but then it falls apart?

You're talking to her, getting along and you seem to be making a connection with her.

Yet, when you ask her for her number, she asks you something like, "Why do you want my number?" or, "Why are you asking me for my number?" or, "Why should I give you my number?"

Why do women ask those questions and how can you ensure that you do get her number, or get to a kiss or sex that night, rather than walking away with nothing?

The number one reason why she will ask, "Why do you want my number?" is...

1. To test your confidence

She wants to see whether or not you start doubting yourself.

If you start doubting yourself because she has challenged you with that question, then she assumes that you're not emotionally strong enough for a girl like her.

A girl like her usually has had a fair bit of experience with dating and relationships and she doesn't want to get into a relationship with a guy who doesn't feel completely worthy of her.

She's had the experience of being with a guy who doubts himself and lacks confidence and she knows what that turns into 2, 3, 4, 5, or 6 months into the relationship.

The guy starts to get protective of her and become very jealous. He doesn't feel good enough for her and begins to become a bit of a needy guy.

She doesn't want to get herself into another situation like that, so is trying to find out if you truly, honestly feel worthy of her or not.

The second reason why a woman will ask you, "Why do you want my number?" is...

2. To create a bit more time for herself to make a decision

[image: To create a bit more time for herself to make a decision]

In cases like that, she's not quite sure yet.

You seem like a good guy and there seems to be a connection between you and her, but she's not fully feeling a sexual spark with you.

She wants to make sure that if she gives you her number and ends up dating you, that there's going to be more than just a friendly connection between you and her.

She wants to make sure that she's not going to end up feeling as though you are way more attracted to her than she is attracted to you.

So, when she puts you on the spot by asking you, "Why do you want my number?" or "Why should I give you my number?" she wants to see how you're going to react.

If you react in a confident way and use humor to get her feeling attracted to you, then she knows that the attraction between you and her is going to be fairly mutual, if not mutual.

You're not just a friendly guy who is hoping to get lucky with her.

You are confident enough for a girl like her.

So, in that moment, she will be feeling attracted to your confidence and your ability to handle a challenging situation like that, where she has put you on the spot.

Another reason why a woman will ask the question, is that...

3. She's not sure why you are asking for her number because you seem to be just having a friendly conversation with her

[image: She's not sure why you want her number because you seem to just be having a friendly conversation]

This usually happens to guys who are afraid to make a woman feel sexually turned on during a conversation.

Rather than putting their balls on the line and risking making her feel turned on by saying a few things that are a bit risky, a guy will play it safe and be friendly.

He'll be talking to her, being nice and friendly, using humor and they'll be getting along very well.

However, he won't be making her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

He will be playing it safe.

He just wants to keep talking to her and he hopes that eventually, she's going to warm up to him, she's going to like him and she's going to want to give him her phone number, kiss him or have sex with him that night or on the first day.

Yet, if she's an attractive woman, she has experienced that approach from many guys, possibly hundreds of times before in her life.

The fact is that most guys are afraid to take the risk to make an attractive woman feel sexually turned on during a conversation.

For example, a guy will be talking to the woman and he'll come across in a friendly, easy-going way.

There's nothing wrong with that and a guy should come across in a friendly easy-going way.

However, he also needs to add in some sexual body language, some sexual tonality and some sexual jokes and innuendos, at times.

For example, with sexual body language, rather than always looking at her and just being that innocent friendly type of guy, he needs to sometimes slow down his body language and look her up and down in a subtly, sexual way.

While she's talking, he is looking at her in the eyes and then slowly, but briefly gives her a look up and down and continues talking to her.

She then knows that he's not afraid of being sexual.

He's not just a friendly, innocent type of guy who's just going to be really nice around her and take her on nice dates and hopefully get a chance to have sex with her or be her boyfriend.

He is the sort of guy who can make her feel turned on and isn't afraid to do it, in a subtle way.

When a guy has the balls to be subtly sexual during a conversation, she knows that she's going to have a much more exciting experience with him than a typical friendly, nice guy who plays a Mr. Innocent role and hopes to eventually grow on her over time.

A guy who has the confidence to be subtly sexual is going to be making her feel turned on as well. He is feeling turned on by her and how she looks and she is feeling turned on by his behavior.

As a result, she's going to be feeling like, "Oh, I'm talking to a man who has the balls to look at me in that way when we're talking. Imagine how he would look at me in the bedroom. Imagine how he would touch me."

She then starts imagining what sex would be like with him, which is actually very important to a woman.

It's not something that women go around admitting, but it's what really goes on in their mind as they talk to a guy.

If you want to get a woman to have sex with you, you have to get her imagining having sex with you and feeling good about it.

If a guy is just being friendly around a woman or worse, if he's being nervous around her, then when she imagines having sex with him, she's not going to feel good about it.

She's going to be thinking, "Well, it's going to be awkward with the nervous guy and it's just going to be nice with the friendly guy."

It's not very exciting at all.

However, when she's talking to a guy who has the balls to make her feel turned on during a conversation, then she starts to imagine something completely different altogether.

So, when he asks for her phone number, she has the motivation to want to give it to him.

She too wants to be able to get to the point where him and her have sex.

Finally, another reason why a woman will ask, "Why do you want my number?" is that...

4. She's trying to find herself a real boyfriend and assumes that you're just another guy who is attracted to her now, but will lose interest in her after having sex with her for a while

[image: She's looking for a real boyfriend, not just sex]

Some women are okay with that when they're in their late teens or early 20s, but when a woman is between 25 and 35 years old, she starts to feel the pressure to settle down and have a real relationship.

This can be because her biological clock is ticking, or it can be because her girlfriends are settling down and they have moved in with their boyfriend, gotten married, had children and so on.

So, rather than waste more time on a relationship that might only last 6 months, 1 year, 2 years, or 3 years, she is looking for something that is going to last for life.

What to Say and Do When She Asks, “Why Do You Want Number?”

[image: What to say if a girl asks, "Why should I give you my number?"]

Okay, so what should you say if a woman asks you, “Why do you want my number?” or asks you, “Why should I give you my number?”

The best way to approach it is to remain confident and relaxed and don't appear as though you are being rejected.

In some cases, you can turn the situation around simply by cracking a joke and maintaining your confidence and then the woman will give you her phone number.

[image: Why should I give you my number?]

In other cases, you need to maintain your confidence and continue interacting with her for a while, without trying to get her number for 10 to 30 minutes.

Just focus on building up her feelings of sexual attraction and then go for her number.

Where guys go wrong is that they answer the woman's question in a logical manner.

She asks, “Why do you want my phone number?” and the guy replies, “Because I like you,” or “So we can talk again,” or “I thought you and I were getting along, I want to give you a call and maybe take you out for a date,” and the guy will then appear confused or rejected by her question.

If a woman is looking for a very confident guy and he appears nervous or flustered by her question, then she knows that he's not actually a very confident guy.

He was only feeling confident because she was being nice and friendly towards him.

Yet, when she put him on the spot, he panicked, began to doubt her attraction for him and showed it.

As a result, she will not want to give him her number because will want to avoid getting into a relationship with a guy who doesn't truly think that he is good enough for her.

So, here are a couple of examples of how to reply by using humor and being confident.

She asks, “Why should I give you my number?” and you then laugh and say, “So you can take me out to dinner.”

Alternatively, you laugh and say, “So I can call you 100 times every day, of course.”

You might then add on to that by saying, “Look, I'll start by calling you at 8 a.m. in the morning and ask how you slept, ‘Is everything okay?’ Then I'll call you again at 8:30 and ask, ‘How was breakfast? Was it tasty? Was it okay?’ Then I'll call you at 9 a.m. and say, ‘Hey, I hope the traffic wasn't too bad. Have a good day at work.’”

At that point, she's most likely going to be laughing.

She's going to see that you're not actually a needy type of guy.

You're only joking about that.

You're actually subtly making fun of guys who are that needy and contact women all the time.

So, when you maintain your confidence and don't appear rejected, most women will then relax and want to give you their number.

However, some women do test men much more than others.

Some women are much more confident and want to have a guy who has a level of confidence that is equal to hers, or preferably is more confident than her.

It really depends on the woman.

In some cases, the woman will give you her number after doing that (i.e. not appearing rejected, making a joke in response to her question to show her that you're not being needy about trying to get her number and have the confidence to remain calm and not appear rejected).

However, in some cases you need to relax, maintain your confidence, keep talking to her, joke around and build up sexual tension between you and her for 10-30 minutes (or even up to an hour) before she will be happy to give you her number.

Essentially, you need to show her that you're not appearing rejected and one of the ways to do that is to confidently reach out and touch her while you are talking to her.

When you and her are talking, you can touch her on the back of her arm when you're making a point about something.

So, when she's talking about something you might say, "Well, that's actually really interesting. It reminds me of something want to tell you" and touch her arm while you say that and then calmly, gently let go after 2-3 seconds and continue talking.

Alternatively, you might say something like, "Actually that's really interesting," and you hold your hand gently on the back of her upper arm for a few seconds as you maintain eye contact with her.

She then sees that you really are confident around her.

You're not feeling rejected after she challenged you by asking you, "Why do you want my number?"

You are confident, you're not losing control of your emotions and you're continuing to subtly show interest in her.

You're also not being needy about it, which is attractive to her as well.

You're not rushing to get a phone number and you're not feeling like you hopefully need to suck up to her to get a phone number.

Instead, you are maintaining your confidence, maintaining your self-pride and are interacting with her in a positive, confident manner.

In almost all cases, that will result in you getting her phone number and you can then say something like, "Okay, good to meet you. I will call you 20 times tomorrow, okay?" and have a laugh with her about that.

In other situations, the attraction between you and her will really start to build up.

She'll begin to see that you can handle a woman like her.

You don't become rattled when you're tested by being asked the question, "Why do you want my phone number?"

You maintain your confidence.

[image: Keep attracting her and get to a kiss]

The attraction between you and her can then build up to the point where you and her kiss and go home and have sex that night.

[image: "Looks like I didn't need your number in the end anyway"]

Then, later on when you're having sex with her, you can say, "Hey, well, it looks like I didn't need your phone number in the end anyway," and have a laugh with her about that.

Learn More?

Okay, I hope you've enjoyed this video and learned something from it.

If you'd like to learn more, I recommend that you read my e-book, The Flow, or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

When you use The Flow approach on women, they won't ask you, "Why do you want my number?"

Instead, a woman will either give you her number or you will get to a kiss and sex that night.

In many cases, you don't actually have to go for a number.

You can get to a kiss and have sex that night and it's a lot easier.

If you don't want to do that, you can of course get her phone number and the techniques in The Flow make sure that she won't ask you annoying questions like, "Why do you want my phone number?" or "Why should I give you my phone number?"

By the way, I know this because I used to really struggle with women and when I talked to them, they weren't interested in me in a sexual or romantic way.

However, when I figured out what I teach in The Flow, everything changed.

I began instantly attracting women and having my choice of women.

I enjoyed my choice of women for 10 years and had loads of fun and then met my girl, who I'm still with to this day.

What you'll find when you use The Flow approach on women, is that most women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

You just need to know what you're doing and avoid common mistakes, so you don't turn the woman off and lose your chance with her.

It's actually a very easy thing to do and you will laugh at how easy it is once you start using The Flow approach.

You Must Believe in Yourself

One final point that I want to make for you in this video is that a lot of the problems that you will experience when attracting and attempting to pick up women, stem from a lack of belief in yourself.

Women can pick up when guys lack belief in themselves (i.e. when they lack confidence).

So, it's very important if you want to be successful at attracting and picking up women, that you get your confidence sorted out.

When you have total confidence in yourself around women that you find attractive, you will find that things tend to flow from one stage to the next very easily.

Of course, it's not possible to pick up every woman that you meet.

However, what you'll find is that, when you are totally confident in yourself and are not trying hard to hopefully impress women to get a chance with them, you'll be able to attract most of the women that you meet.

When you also know what to say and do to go from one step to the next with a woman that you find attractive, you will find that you have your choice of women.

It will no longer be about you hoping to get lucky, hoping to get a chance with a woman that you find attractive.

What you'll find is that your interactions flow from one step to the next with most of the attractive single women that you meet.

Most women are actually quite easy to pick up, but when you come across as though you're lacking belief in yourself or are trying hard to pick them up and hopefully get a chance with them, they play hard to get even though they're not really hard to get.

On the other hand, when you believe in yourself and are not trying hard to hopefully get a chance with a woman, she relaxes, opens up to you and is much easier to attract and pick up.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Don't Listen to What Women SAY. Watch What They DO.

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Don't listen to what women say, watch what they do.

This is one of the most important principles of success with women.

For example: If you ask a woman what she wants in a guy, she'll say, "I want a nice guy who's sweet and attentive and treats me well and takes me on nice, sweet dates."

Yet, if a guy tries to use that approach to attract her and get her to go out on a date with him, she'll reject him.

She'll then hook up with a guy who doesn't even treat her that well, doesn't even really care about her and just wants to have sex with her.

What she is saying is she wants a nice guy who's sweet and treats her really well and is attentive and patient with her and things like that, but then she actually goes for a guy who doesn't even really care about her that much and just wants to have sex with her and he has sex with her on the first night or first date that they go on.

So, what she's says and what she does are two completely different things.

The same applies with relationships.

For example: If you ask a woman what she wants from a relationship with a man, she'll start saying things like, "Well, he should help with the housework. He should cook for me. He should give me foot rubs. He should listen to all of my problems and be there for me all the time. He should buy me expensive jewelry, take me on lots of holidays and vacations and essentially treat me like a princess."

Yet, in reality, what most women are embarrassed to admit is that they are at their happiest when they are in a relationship with a man who flicks what I call the good girl switch on in her mind.

[image: Women say that men should do everything for them (cook, clean, buy them things all the time), but it's not what they really want or even need to be happy with a man]

Flicking on her Good Girl Switch makes a woman gain pleasure and happiness out of being a good woman to her man.

She likes to cook for him.

She likes to clean.

She likes to do nice things for him.

She likes to pleasure him sexually.

She loves being a good woman for him.

So, while most women don't go around saying that they want to be a good woman to a man, it's actually what makes them the happiest.

When a woman is in a relationship with a man who flicks on the good girl switch in her mind, she actually gets pleasure and happiness out of doing good things for him.

She loves to cook for him. She loves to clean. She loves to give him oral sex. She loves to be a good woman for him.

Yet, that is not what you'll hear most women going around saying.

They will say that men need to basically bow at women's feet.

Men need to do everything. They need to buy women everything. They need to suck up to them and then maybe if they suck up for long enough, they might get some action and she might be nice to them.

So, just remember that there's usually a very big difference between what women say and what they actually do when it comes to men.

Of course, there's nothing wrong with a man cooking.

There's nothing wrong with a man doing a bit of housework.

There's nothing wrong with a man doing nice things for his woman, but what a lot of women don't even realize themselves is that women are at their happiest in a relationship when they're with a man who flicks what I call the good girl switch on in her mind.

She actually gets pleasure and happiness out of being a good woman for him.

Another example is where women say, "I don't like to be approached by men. Men should just leave me alone. No one talk to me," and then a confident guy walks over to her and says, "Hey, how are you doing?" and she responds in a friendly way.

She says, "Hi, how are you going?" and then they have a conversation.

Then, about one to two minutes later or five minutes later, he asks for her phone number and she gives it to him.

Yet, she'll go around saying, "I don't give my phone number out. Guys shouldn't talk to women," and all that sort of stuff.

The thing is some women are completely honest and they'll share the secrets that women don't like to tell men.

Yet, the majority of women say pretty much the opposite of what they want.

So, when a woman is giving you dating and relationship advice, there's usually just one translation and that is, "Blah, blah, blah, blah, blah, blah, blah, blah, blah, blah, blah, blah."

It's useless.

For example: If a guy asks some women, "How do I get this girl to like me? There's a girl that I've got a crush on and she doesn't seem to want anything other than just a friendship," the women will say things like, "Just be nicer to her. Get to know her some more. Be patient with her. Buy her something. Be helpful towards her," and all that sort of garbage.

So, the guy then goes and does that and he's really nice to her, being a friend, being patient and he's in the friend zone.

She doesn't want anything to do with him sexually.

She likes him as a person, she appreciates him as a friend and she might even be very nice to him.

Yet, she doesn't want anything to do with him sexually.

Then, another guy comes along, makes her feel attracted immediately and she kisses him right away or has sex with him on the first date or first night that they meet.

Another example is where a man is in a marriage and his wife isn't being affectionate anymore.

He might ask some women, "How can I get her to be affectionate?"

Women will usually say things like, "Do the housework. Give her a foot rub. Buy her some jewelry."

Take her out to dinner. Have date nights."

So, the guy goes and does that and what does he get?

In most cases, he gets the same result and the wife is even more turned off because she sees that her husband is trying to do all these things to hopefully get laid.

She doesn't want to have that type of dynamic in her marriage where her husband feels like he needs to basically do everything for her and buy her things to get her to put out.

She wants to have a natural feeling where she naturally feels respect and attraction for him and it just happens naturally.

Her desire for him is not as a result of him having to wine and dine her, buy her things, do the dishes and housework and suck up to her.

It's just a natural desire based on how he interacts with her (i.e. he is being confident, charismatic, masculine, funny).

Yet, if you ask most women how to get a wife or a girlfriend to be more affectionate, they won't tell you that secret.

Instead, they will tell you to buy her things, do the housework and suck up to her.

So, when it comes to dating and relationship advice from women, here's what you need to remember...

In most cases, if you listen to what women say, they will lead you astray.

[image: Most women have had sex on the first night they've met a man, or on the first date with him. Yet, almost all women will never admit that.]

For example: A study in America found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date.

Another study in Europe found that 70% of women admitted to having had a one-night stand before.

Yet, women will go around and say that they don't have sex on the first night, first date, or second date.

They will usually say that a guy needs to become her friend first and be patient and be really nice and not expect anything to happen for weeks or months. Yet, in reality, what women do is a completely different thing altogether.

Even though a woman might be embarrassed to admit it and actually say that she's never done it, statistically speaking, most women have had sex on the first date and on the first night that they met a guy.

So, when it comes to dating and relationships with women, just remember that most women usually say one thing and do a completely different thing altogether.

By the way, there's most likely going to be a whole bunch of angry women clicking dislike on this video.

So, if you're enjoying this video and you like it, please don't forget to show your support by clicking like on Youtube.

I don't care if some women get offended by what I'm saying.

My job here isn't to make women say, "Isn't that nice? He's such a nice guy. He's telling other guys to be nice and to buy us jewelry and take us on nice dinner dates. Isn't that sweet?"

I don't care about that sort of reaction.

My job here is to help men be successful with women.

What I want you to remember is to focus on what women do rather than listening to what they say because when you listen to what women say, when it comes to dating and relationships, they will usually lead you astray.

Most women do not give out the secrets of what actually makes them feel attracted and happy with a man.

They give out a politically correct version, a censored version, a version that they're not embarrassed to admit.

If guys don't know the truth themselves and they fall for the crap that women spin, then they get caught in the friend zone or they get caught up in a sexless relationship or marriage.

They get cheated on. They get dumped. They get divorced.

By the way, I'm not saying that a man should treat a woman badly and not be nice, not be good, blah, blah, blah.

What this video is about is the fact that women usually say something completely different to what they actually want and do when it comes to men.

That's either because a woman is too embarrassed to admit what she really wants, or she doesn't actually want to teach a guy the secret to attracting her and making her happy.

She wants a guy who understands it on his own and doesn't need her to tell him what to do.

For example: With being embarrassed, most women will be embarrassed to say, "Hey, I actually like a guy who doesn't chase after me so much. He makes me feel attracted to him and, you know, I've got to work hard to impress him and maintain his interest. I actually like that. I like it when I need to, you know, cook and clean for him and be a good girl and give him oral sex to make sure that I keep him happy."

Most women aren't going to go around saying that because they worry that people are going to take it the wrong way.

With the other example of her not wanting to teach a man what she needs, she doesn't want to have to say to a man.

For example: "In a relationship, if I throw a tantrum and I start treating you badly, here's how I want you to respond. Don't put up with my BS. Don't get dragged into the drama."

She doesn't want to have to teach him that because she doesn't want to get herself a guy who doesn't even know how to be a strong man in a relationship with a woman and she has to teach him for the rest of their life together.

Any time that something comes up, she has to take on that mother, big sister, or teacher role and say, "Okay, come here. I'll teach you how to do it. Here's how to be a strong man for me."

She doesn't want to have to actually teach him that stuff.

So, just remember, when it comes to dating and relationship advice, if you listen to what women say, they'll lead you astray.

Most women cannot be honest with what they really want, so don't listen to the garbage that you hear women say about, "The guy's got to be tall and handsome and have six pack abs and in a relationship, he's got to do all the housework. He's got to, you know, massage my feet. He's got to take me on expensive dinner dates and then maybe he's going to get some action."

No, that's BS.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

8 Personality Traits That Naturally Attract Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Every guy knows that women can feel attracted to a man if he's rich, if he's a celebrity, if he's tall and handsome, if he's got a luxury yacht or a sports car and things like that.

However, what a lot of guys don't know or accept is that women CAN feel attracted and turned on by a normal guy if he displays attractive personality traits while he interacts with her.

For example: Women from all over the world are attracted to guys who are:

1. Confident.
2. Masculine.
3. Funny.
4. Unpredictable.
5. Charming.
6. Sexual.
7. Charismatic.
8. Socially intelligent.

When some guys see that list above, they think women are only attracted to men with those personality traits if the man is also rich or if he's got a big dick or if he's got a sports car, but that is incorrect.

Average looking and below average looking guys ARE able to get attractive women.

[image: Average or below average looking guy with pretty wife]

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

Guys all over the world are able to attract and pick up women and even get married to those women if they're overweight, bald, have big ears, have a funny looking nose, are from a race where others say they can't pick up women from another particular race (e.g. Asian guy with white woman, white guy with black woman, black guy with white woman, white guy with hot white woman) or if they're generally just not very good-looking.

The reason why these sort of guys can attract and pick up women is that it is true that a normal guy can make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on during an interaction.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

When a guy is talking to a woman, he can MAKE HER feel attracted by displaying traits like confidence, humor, charm, charisma, social intelligence, masculinity, etc.

The majority of guys out there who can't get laid or get a girlfriend believe that it's because they're not good-looking enough or rich enough.

Yet, the truth is that the majority of these guys don't actually make women feel sexually attracted and turned on during an interaction.

[image: Guys who get rejected don't actively make women feel attracted. They just talk to women in a nice, friendly way and hope that something happens]

Instead, they just talk to women and display traits that don't create sexual attraction. For example: The guy will display personality traits like niceness, kindness, politeness, and academic intelligence. A guy will try to show a woman that he's a nice guy, he's a good guy and that he's trustworthy and has good intentions, but women don't care about those things before they feel sexually attracted and turned on by a guy.

[image: Trying to pick up by being a friend to her first]

Women do appreciate when a guy is nice and women do appreciate when a guy is intelligent, but that is only important to a woman AFTER she feels sexually attracted to a guy.

If a guy tries to pick her up by showing her that he's a nice guy and has good intentions, then he's just like every other guy who wants to bang her.

Every other guy comes up to her and is like, "Hey, how are you doing? What's your name? Have you got a boyfriend? What do you do for a living? Can I take you out sometime?"

He's feeling attracted to her because we men feel sexually attracted to a woman's physical appearance instantly, but she's not feeling sexually attracted to him because he's just being nice to her.

He's just being a good guy to her and having an innocent, friendly conversation with her, but that approach doesn't make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on unless a guy is really good looking, a celebrity or obviously very rich and powerful in society.

If a guy is just a normal, everyday guy, he has to CREATE a spark of sexual attraction inside of a woman by displaying personality traits that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, emotional masculinity, charm).

He can't just be nice and have a friendly conversation and then expect to get laid or get a girlfriend because of that.

This doesn't mean that a guy has to be a bad boy or treat women badly. Instead, it means that he has to display traits that make women feel sexually attracted and turned on when he's interacting with her.

[image: Without attraction you can expect rejection]

He has to do that, otherwise most women will just experience neutral or friendly type of feelings for him.

The really cool thing about this is that the majority of guys out there don't know it.

The majority of guys think that they have to be rich or good-looking or tall to be able to attract a beautiful woman, but it's not actually true.

It is true that beautiful women do feel attracted to guys with money or to guys who are really good-looking, tall or famous.

That's true, but what is also true is that the majority of women, including beautiful women, can feel sexually attracted and turned on by a normal guy.

Beautiful women can feel attracted to a normal guy who doesn't have all the trappings of success.

For example: He doesn't have the luxury yacht, he doesn't have the sports car and he's not rich. He's just got a normal body, he doesn't necessarily workout in the gym and he doesn't look like a male model.

He's just a normal everyday guy, and yet he's got a beautiful girlfriend.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

The truth is that the more attractive personality traits that you display when you're talking to a woman, the stronger the attraction that she will feel, and then the higher quality of woman that you can have access to.

When a guy can only make women feel a little bit of attraction, he can't get the hotties, but when a guy can interact with hot women, and he can actively make them feel sexually attracted and turned on by what he's saying and doing, he gets the hotties.

However, I want to point something important out here....

In my eBook, The Flow, which is also available on audio now as an audiobook (The Flow on Audio), I teach 8 personality traits that naturally attract women.

The 8 personality traits that naturally attract women are when a guy is confident, masculine, funny, unpredictable, charming, sexual, charismatic, and socially intelligent.

Yet, here's the thing...

A guy can pick up a lot of women just by displaying 1 to 3 of those traits.

You don't have to talk to a woman and display all 8 traits to be able to pick her up.

The way that it works is that the stronger attraction that you can make women feel during a conversation, during an interaction by displaying attractive traits, the higher-quality woman that you'll have access to.

[image: Attracting women is easy]

You can still pick up a lot of women by displaying a few traits, but if you want to get the hotties, you've just got to be able to give her the attraction experience that she wants.

She's hot, she's physically attractive and you want to bang her.

[image: Can one of us be with you? Please?]

You're feeling sexually attracted to her based on her appearance and are ready and willing to have kiss her, go on a date with her or have sex with her.

However, if you want her to want to have sex with you or be your girlfriend, you've got to make her feel attracted to you too.

You need to actively create a spark of sexual attraction inside of her to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you, otherwise you're just one of hundreds, if not thousands, of guys who are lining up to want to stick it in.

So, what you need to understand is that if you want to get laid or get a girlfriend, what you've got to do is make the woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by the way that you're talking to her, rather than just making her feel neutral or friendly type of feelings when you're displaying traits like niceness, politeness, friendliness, and things like that.

There's nothing wrong with being nice or polite or friendly, but if you're not actively making her feel sexually attracted and turned on, then you're just another guy to her.

She's not going to feel motivated enough to want to have sex with you or give you her phone number or do anything else with you.

Of course, an exception to the rule is when a guy is rich or famous or he's really good-looking.

We all know that.

We all know that those guys can get attention from women, but the really cool thing about being a man is that we can actively make women feel sexually attracted and turned on by us by what we say and do when we're talking to them.

For example: Have you ever had a woman say about her boyfriend or husband, "I wasn't initially attracted to him looks wise, but when we began to talk I found that I really liked him, and that there was a spark between us. Now, I think he's the sexiest man alive," or another woman saying, "When I first saw him, I didn't find him attractive, but when we talked I felt a spark with him and we started dating, quickly fell in love and are now married."

That's how it works.

There are some women out there who will not accept anything less than a rich guy who's got a luxury yacht, and he's famous, and he can take her around the world, etc.

That is true, but what is also true is that the majority of women, including beautiful women, can feel sexually attracted and turned on by a normal guy if he can display attractive personality traits and behaviors during an interaction with her.

So, if you're not getting the results that you want with women, and you want to be able to easily get laid or get a girlfriend, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the brand-new audio version, The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend, and the best thing of all is that the majority of guys do not know about this or they don't accept the fact that you can actually turn a woman on during an interaction.

Most guys look at beautiful women and think, "I can't get that because I'm not good-looking enough, I'm not rich enough," but they're wrong. Not only is it possible to create a spark of attraction inside of a beautiful woman when you talk to her, but it's also EASY.

This is a huge opportunity for you.

When you are the guy who can actively attract and turn women on during an interaction, you'll see how damn easy it is to attract and pick up women.

Once you begin using The Flow on women, you'll laugh at how easy it is and you might look back at the way that you used to try to get laid or get a girlfriend and shake your head and think, "What was I thinking? What was I doing? This is so damn easy,"

The best part of all is that most guys don't know about it or they don't accept it because they think it's all about looks and money.

They look at examples where they see guys who are rich or good-looking and they've got a beautiful girlfriend, and think, "See, that's what beautiful women want."

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

Yet, they don't look at the rest of the world and see loads of beautiful and pretty women with normal looking guys and sometimes below average looking guys.

We are very lucky as men because we can actively turn women on during an interaction. It's very easy to do.

If you want to learn how to do actively attract and turn a woman on as you talk to her so you can easily get laid or get a girlfriend, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the brand-new audio-book version, The Flow on Audio.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Overcome Your Fear of Approaching Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you see a woman that you consider to be beautiful and you find her very attractive, do you have the confidence and know how to walk over and talk to her and pick her up?

If you answered no, don't worry.

Most guys don't have the confidence to walk over and talk to beautiful women and then pick them up.

[image: What if she rejects me?]

For most guys, the very thought of approaching a woman makes them feel nervous, unsure and anxious, especially if they don't know the woman or if she's pretty.

The possibility of getting rejected is just too painful for most guys, so they usually end up avoiding it altogether.

When a guy doesn't have the confidence to approach the types of women that he finds attractive, he'll often start to feel a bit left out.

[image: What is wrong with me? Why am I so afraid of women?]

He'll notice that his friends or coworkers have a beautiful girlfriend or at least a pretty girlfriend and they're enjoying sex, love and relationships.

However, for him, he can't even work up the courage to walk over and talk to the types of women that he finds attractive.

Yet, why do guys avoid approaching women that they find attractive? What's really going on inside a guy's mind when he feels fear before trying to approach a woman? More importantly, how can he overcome that fear so he can approach at will?

Common Reasons Why Guys Say They Don't Approach

[image: Why guys don't approach women]

Whenever I ask guys why they're afraid of approaching women, here are some of the reasons they come up with:

- What if she doesn't want to talk to me?
- She might reject me and tell me to leave her alone.
- She might not be interested in a guy like me.
- I'm not good looking enough for her.
- She probably has a boyfriend.
- She might think I'm a weirdo and run away or something.
- People might think that I'm a stalker who is approaching her against her will.
- People might think that I'm desperate or lonely and assume that I'm going around approaching a lot of women.
- She might laugh at me in front of everyone and they might also begin to laugh at me.

- I don't want her to think that I'm sleazy or only interested in sex.
- She probably likes guys who are taller than me.
- I'm not dressed well enough.
- She's probably busy and will get frustrated because I'll be wasting her time.
- I don't know what to say to her.
- What if I say something and she makes a weird face at me?
- If I get rejected, I'm going to have to leave here and never come back because everyone is going to look at me and know that I've been rejected.
- I probably won't be able to keep the conversation going or keep it interesting if I approach, so what's the point of approaching?

Can you relate to any of those reasons as to why you don't approach women?

Most guys can.

Most guys have a lot of reasons why they don't approach women, but it all comes back to one thing and this is the secret to overcoming your fear of approaching women.

When you know how to actively make a woman feel sexually attracted to you as you talk to her, you suddenly stop fearing approaching women.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

The fear goes away because you know that if you go over and talk to a woman, she's going to feel some or a lot of attraction for you.

You are going to actively create a spark with her.

That is one of the main differences between the attraction that women feel for men and the attraction that men feel for women.

For us men, we can feel instantly attracted to a woman based on her physical appearance.

[image: Insta Attraction]

We can have the motivation to want to talk to her, get to know her, have sex with her and begin a relationship with her simply based on her looking physically attractive.

Some guys have higher standards than others and will reject a woman if she's also not a cool person, she's not intelligent enough, she's not this or that, but the majority of guys feel enough attraction for a woman simply based on her physical appearance to be motivated to go all the way to sex and into a relationship.

That is how it works.

However, for women, they don't feel the same type of motivation about a man's physical appearance.

Although women can feel attracted to a man's physical appearance, it isn't the main motivation that they need to want to have sex and begin dating and start a relationship. Some women will choose a guy simply based on his looks, but those women are the minority.

The majority of women need to be able to feel sexually attracted to you while they talk to you.

[image: Normal, every day guys can attract women]

What you are saying and doing, how you're talking to her, how you're behaving, how you're responding to what she's saying and what sort of personality traits that you're displaying will determine how much attraction she feels for you.

So, if you're talking to a woman and you're being nervous and doubting yourself, she's not going to be able to feel much attraction for you because women are turned off by the emotional weakness of men.

However, if you're talking to a woman and you're displaying confidence, you're getting her laughing, you're being charismatic, you're being charming, she's going to be feeling sexually attracted to you.

When a guy knows how to actively attract a woman during a conversation, he doesn't fear approaching women.

He knows that he can't attract all the women in the world. No guy can attract every single woman in the world and have every woman, but what a guy can do is attract most of the women that he meets.

You can actively attract most of the women that you meet while you talk to them.

When you have that ability, there's no fear.

You know that you can walk up to a woman and she's most likely going to feel some or a lot of attraction for you.

She's only going to be a little bit motivated to give you her phone number and kiss you and have sex with you or go home with you that night, or go on a date with you, or she's going to be very motivated.

She's going to be feeling very attracted and she's going to want something to happen between you and her.

Do You Have the Skill That Gets Rid of the Fear?

So, two important questions that I have for you now are:

Do you know how to actively attract women during a conversation or do you talk to women and basically make them feel neutral or friendly feelings?

[image: Using a boring, nice guy approach]

Do you try to get to know women and show them that you're a friendly guy and show them how intelligent you are, or are you actually doing it the smart and easy way and making women feel sexually attracted and turned on by you during a conversation?

If you have the skill of being able to actively attract a woman during an interaction, the fear of approaching goes away.

I don't mean that you kind of know how to attract women, or know a little bit about attraction, but can't actually attract beautiful women and turn them on.

I mean that you really do know how to attract women and you can also trigger a beautiful woman's feelings of sexual attraction for you as you talk to her.

If a guy can only make women that he's not interested in feel attracted to him, then he's still going to have a fear of approaching attractive women.

He knows that he just can't get them to feel attracted, so the thought of approaching them makes him fear that he will be rejected...and he's right. Beautiful women aren't going to settle for guy who can't even trigger their feelings of attraction.

They make the guy feel attracted, but he doesn't even know what to say or do to make them feel attracted. That's unfair to the women, so they reject him.

On the other hand, when you are one of the rare guys who can actively attract beautiful women during a conversation, there's no need to feel fear any more.

Instead, you just feel excited and motivated to approach and when you approach, you attract and pick up women.

That's how it works.

What you may have noticed is that some guys are able to walk up to a woman, start a conversation and sparks start flying back and forth between him and the woman immediately.

[image: Making women feel attracted is easy]

She starts to smile, giggle, touch him and she's loving it. That's because he's making her feel sexual attraction.

On the other hand, if a guy walks up to a woman and he feels attracted to her physical appearance, but he's just being neutral and friendly and just trying to get along with her and be nice and show her that he's a good guy and he's got good intentions.

The woman might like him as a person and she might think that he's a great guy, but she's not going to feel motivated to want to give him her phone number, have sex with him, kiss him, go out on a date with him because there's no spark there.

If you think about some of the reasons why guys don't approach women, you'll realize that the core reason why is that he doesn't actually know how to make her feel sexually attracted to him.

He feels sexually attracted to her, but he doesn't know how to make her feel the same way.

For example: The reason of "What if she doesn't want to talk to me?"

That reason immediately goes away because when a guy is able to actively make a woman feel sexually attracted and he starts an interaction with her, she does want to talk to him. She's feeling sexually attracted.

Attraction gets her attention.

It opens her up.

It makes her interested.

It makes her want to talk to a guy.

If she's a single woman, she's going to want to find a boyfriend or a lover just as much as he wants to find a girlfriend or a lover.

She simply wants to be able to find a guy that makes her feel sexually attracted and that she can also get along with. Getting along with women is fairly easy after you make them feel sexually attracted.

However, what most guys do is they walk up to a woman and they try to get along with her in a friendly, easygoing, nice way and they hope that they can grow on her or somehow impress her by being really nice and showing her how intelligent they are, or by talking about their ambitions at work and talking about their car or the car that they want to get and hopefully trying to impress her that way.

What these guys don't realize is that it's very simple and instant if you can just start making the woman feel sexually attracted while you talk to her, if you can trigger those feelings by displaying traits that naturally attract women.

Let's have a look at one of the other reasons why guys say they don't approach women...

"I'm not good looking enough for her."

Most guys these days have that insecurity.

They see a beautiful woman and they think, "I'm not good looking enough for her" and simply give up and don't even try.

What happens is that we feel so much attraction to a woman's physical appearance that we think that she's way more attractive than us. We feel an intense rush of attraction when we see a woman that we find physically attractive.

However, women don't feel an intense rush of attraction for our physical appearance unless a guy is a really good looking guy.

The majority of guys are just average or below average looking.

I probably fit into the below average looking category. So for me, my physical appearance has never been striking enough to make women go, "Wow, look at him. Whoa, he's hot. He's sexy. I want to be with him."

It just doesn't happen.

However, I've managed to have sex with more than 250 women without having male model looks and without having to go to the gym and without having to wear expensive designer clothes.

I've done it by making women feel attracted to me as I interact with them.

For example: I'm displaying traits like being confident, funny, charismatic, charming, unpredictable, masculine, socially intelligent. These are traits that when you bring them into a conversation and interaction, they trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of a woman.

Most guys don't know that they can actively attract a woman during a conversation or they don't believe it because it seems so simple.

Most guys want to believe that it's all about being good looking and having loads of money because they see examples of that in the media and they hear women talking about, "Oh, I want a rich guy. I want to guy who looks like a male model. I want a celebrity or a guy that's got a sports car and a luxury yacht."

What most guys don't realize though is that the majority of women have fake standards.

The majority of women just talk and talk and talk about what they want, but what they will actually happily accept is a completely different story altogether.

For example: A woman might say, "I don't like bald guys. I like a guy with a full head of hair and a guy with six-pack abs."

Yet, if a confident, masculine, bald guy without six-pack abs walks up, talks to her and makes her feel sexually attracted and turned on because he's being confident, charming, charismatic, masculine and making her laugh, suddenly, she feels attracted to him and she starts thinking to herself, "What is it about this guy? I like this guy. There's something about him."

Then, she tells her friends, "He's bald, but I like him. He's sexy. I actually like that he's bald."

Suddenly she has a thing for bald guys.

The reason why is that the majority of women have fake standards and they usually try to talk about what's going on in superficial modern culture.

You've got to have six-pack abs, a tan, big biceps, great shoes and you've got to have that haircut that's cool now too.

Yeah, right, whatever.

The majority of women, including beautiful and pretty women, have fake standards and they are more interested in how a guy makes them feel during an interaction than what he looks like.

I'm not saying that an ugly guy can pick up every woman in the world, but what I am saying is that the majority of women will feel attracted to a normal average and even below average looking guy during an interaction if he makes them feel attracted in other ways by displaying personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

So, if you do have a fear of approaching women and you want to overcome that right now, the secret is to begin making women feel sexually attracted to you while you talk to them.

Once you do that once or twice and you talk to a woman and you actively make her feel sexual feelings for you by the way that you're talking to her and responding to her and behaving, your fear of approaching women will wither away.

There's no point being afraid of something that you're good at.

If you look up confidence in the dictionary, it's about having belief in yourself and your abilities.

When you're confident about approaching women, you're not afraid of approaching women.

You know that you can walk over to a woman and make her feel attracted to you.

If you want to learn how to do that and you want to know exactly what to say and do when you approach a woman to instantly make her feel attracted to you and open and interested in talking to you, I recommend that you read my ebook, The Flow, or listen to the audio version, The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid and get a girlfriend and when you either read or listen to The Flow on Audio, you'll learn exactly:

- What to say and do to make women feel attracted to you when you start talking to them.
- How to keep the conversation going and keep it interesting, how to build on her attraction.
- How to make her want you more than you actually want to her.
- How to make her touch you.
- What to say to get her to kiss you.
- What to say to get her to go home with you.
- What to say when you call her up on the phone.
- What to text her.
- How to get her out on a date.
- How to have sex on the first date or on the second date.

It's the complete flow, the start to finish process and what you find is that it's very easy as long as you start with sexual attraction.

[image: Attracting women is easy]

When you start your interactions with women with sexual attraction and you build on her sexual desire for you, everything just flows from one step to the next.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

9 Signs of Male Insecurity That Turn Women Off

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If a beautiful woman is insecure or shy, it doesn't really matter to the majority of men.

Most men will still find her attractive and want to be with her even though she is a bit insecure or shy.

[image: Attracted to a shy woman]

In fact, some guys will find it a bit of a turn on that the beautiful woman is shy and he can be more confident around her.

However, the same doesn't apply for a woman's attraction to a man.

Women are attracted to the emotional strengths of men such as confidence, high self-esteem and self-assuredness and turned off by emotional weaknesses such as insecurity, self-doubt and shyness.

What you may have noticed is that confident guys can easily attract women to get laid or get a girlfriend, whereas shy guys have a difficult time getting anywhere past the friend zone.

Some shy guys can get laid or get a girlfriend, but they don't really have their choice of women because their emotional weakness turns most women off.

The 9 Signs

So, what are some of the signs of insecurity that turn women off and how can you avoid doing it?

1. Unable to maintain eye contact

[image: Woman assessing a man's confidence]

If a guy is talking to a woman, he doesn't need to stare at her in the eyes the entire time to maintain eye contact, but he does need to be able to maintain casual eye contact and keep that going for 5 seconds at a time or 10 seconds at a time.

If a guy is talking to a woman and he's looking away and looking around and looking down and looking uncomfortable, she's not going to be able to feel attracted to him. Women aren't attracted to emotional weakness.

2. Being lost for words and then appearing nervous or unsure of himself

[image: Being lost for words around a woman]

One of the main reasons why guys struggle to get laid or get a girlfriend is that they don't really know what to say to a woman to keep a conversation going and keep it interesting.

A girl will start off a conversation and because he's feeling so attracted to the woman and feeling insecure about his value and worthiness to her, he'll start to think too much and get lost for words. Suddenly, he'll begin to appear nervous and unsure of himself and a woman will start to feel turned off.

If a guy is confident and he is able to be present in the conversation as he talks to a woman, he's not going to be worrying about things in his head.

His brain isn't going to have to work hard to come up with conversation. It's just going to flow naturally and effortlessly as though he's talking to just any other person.

3. Doubting that she could ever like a guy like him

[image: I am unworthy of you]

If a guy is talking to a woman and he doubts that she could ever like a guy like him, it'll come across in the way that he's talking to her, his body language, how he reacts in response to her and his general approach to the interaction.

For example: If a guy is being over-complimentary and giving her the impression that he would be so lucky if he ever got a chance with her, that is going to turn her off.

A woman definitely does want to be appreciated and treated well, but she doesn't want a guy who feels like he needs to suck up to her and kiss her ass and hope to get a chance with her if he's on his very best behavior around her.

4. Communication that lacks confidence

For example: Hesitating to speak, lowering the volume of his voice, nervously giving his opinion.

A lot of this comes back to a guy not having confidence in himself.

If a guy is insecure and doubts his ability to attract women, he will often hesitate when he's speaking. He might lower the volume of his voice because he's not quite sure that what he's saying is cool enough or good enough. Women pick up on these subtle queues and it turns them off because women are not attracted to the emotional weakness of men.

5. Being afraid to express his true personality out of a fear of being judged by her

[image: Nervous, insecure guy hesitates and turns woman off]

What a lot of guys do is they put on an act of being nicer than they actually are or want to be in the hope that it will impress a woman.

If a woman notices that a guy is putting on an act and he's not really presenting his real personality, then her guard goes up because she feels like she's not interacting with the real version of him. She can't trust him because he's not being honest with her.

He's trying to win her over with a fake version of his personality.

6. Giving his power to her

For example:

He goes along with whatever she wants to do.

He lowers his social status to hopefully gain her pity.

Feels like she needs to say "yes" or "no" to give him a chance to be with her, so he'd better be in his best behavior otherwise she's going to say "no."

He doesn't realize that all he needs to do is actively make her feel sexually attracted to him during a conversation and the games will begin to stop. Her guard will come down, she will open up, she will feel a spark with him and she'll be interested to see where it goes.

7. Trying to impress her by talking about his achievements or possessions

[image: Trying to impress a woman by talking about his achievements]

If the subject of a guy's achievements or material possessions comes up in a conversation, there's nothing wrong with him talking about that in a relaxed, easy-going way.

However, if a guy is talking to a woman and starts boasting or bragging, or talking about what he wants to achieve, or what he has achieved, a woman can tell if the real reason why he's saying it is due to insecurity.

If the woman feels like the guy doesn't think that he's good enough for her and thinks that he needs to put on an act and really impress her to get a chance with her, it usually causes her to start playing hard to get.

Suddenly, she starts to feel like, "Hang on...maybe I am way better than him. Maybe he doesn't deserve me. Going out with him kind of feels like I'd be doing a favor to him."

If she starts to feel that way about him, she won't really be able to respect him or feel attracted to him.

8. Displaying tense or nervous body language

For example: Appearing concerned or worried that she could lose interest at any moment, having a tense look on his face or maintaining concerned eye contact.

9. Being unable to pass her simple confidence tests

[image: Being unable to pass her simple confidence tests]

Some women are a lot easier to interact with and pick up than others, but pretty much all women put men through confidence tests.

A woman wants to test a guy's confidence to see if he's emotionally strong or not.

If she tests him by playing hard to get or not contributing much to the conversation and notices that he suddenly starts doubting himself, looking nervous and feeling insecure, her primal instinct of attraction goes off because women are not attracted to emotional weakness in men.

What a lot of guys don't know is that being confident around women and attracting women is very easy to do.

The Confidence Solution You've Been Looking For [image: The confidence solution you've been looking for]

If you don't know how to be confident around women and you don't know what to say or do to make them feel attracted to you, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the audio version, The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend. When you read The Flow or listen to the audio version (The Flow on Audio), you will instantly become more confident and you will also know how to maintain that confidence when you interact with women.

When you interact with a woman and you display confidence, she is going to naturally feel attracted to you. She doesn't have to think about it, she doesn't have to analyze it, it just happens automatically.

You will notice that she feels attracted to you and that will boost your confidence even further.

It's a positive confidence building cycle that just gets stronger and stronger every day of your life, until you are so confident that you don't ever have to think about it again.

You are confident all the time around women, no matter how beautiful or challenging they are...and they like it.

You Control the Attraction

[image: Making women feel attracted is easy]

Most guys don't know that they have a lot of direct control over how much or little attraction a woman feels for them.

A lot of guys woke up to women and then hope that something happens magically. "I hope that she likes me. I hope that there's something between us," but the guy doesn't actually know how to create that spark.

He's just hoping that it happens.

What guys don't realize is that you can CREATE the spark.

[image: Attracting and picking up women is easy]

You can actively create a spark of attraction between you and a woman.

One of the easiest ways to do that is to be confident when you're talking to a woman as well as displaying other personality traits that naturally make women feel sexually attracted.

For example: Charisma, charm, humor and social intelligence.

It's very easy to display those traits when you're talking to a woman, to create a spark and then build on that spark.

If you don't know how to do that, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the audiobook version, The Flow on Audio.

When you read The Flow or listen to the audio version, you'll learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel naturally attracted to you.

You'll feel so much more confident and you'll know how to maintain and build on that confidence from now on.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Have Your Choice of Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

One of the worst things that a guy can ever do to himself and his life is to accept a woman that he's not even attracted to.

So many guys out there accept women that they're not really attracted to, but they get into a relationship because they can't really find anything else.

[image: Accepting a woman that you don't even find attractive]

One of the main reasons why is that most guys simply don't know how to actively attract women during an interaction, so they feel like they don't deserve attractive women.

A guy will go through life thinking that he's just not good-looking enough for pretty women, he's not rich enough, he's not successful enough, he's not tall enough, he doesn't have a big dick, he doesn't have big enough muscles.

[image: Believing that he's not good looking enough to have his choice of women]

Yet, he's wrong.

The truth is women can feel attracted to those things, but guys can also attract women in other ways.

So how do you have your choice with women, so you can find your ideal woman, and you can have exactly what you want with women?

How can you have the type of woman that you find truly attractive? The sort of woman that not only turns you on sexually, but makes you feel amazing as a man, makes you feel great emotionally around her.

[image: Attracting and picking up women is easy]

You and her click and you get along without even having to try.

She supports you, she looks up to you as a man. You are the man that she wants to be with. She doesn't want to be with any other man, she doesn't want to leave you, she wants to be with you.

4 Things to Remember if You Want Your Choice of Women

I'm now going to teach you four things that you must remember if you want to have your choice of women so you can select the ideal woman for you, or so you can have sex with lots of women that you truly find attractive, rather than accepting women that you're not even that attracted to, and you just want to have sex with for a while.

1. No attraction equals no motivation to be with you.

If you've been finding that the majority of attractive women that you're interested in and want to be with aren't interested in you and are not excited to talk to you and get to know you and hopefully hook up with you, it means that your approach to the interaction has not been about making the women feel sexually attracted and turned on by you.

Your approach to women has most-likely been about getting them to like you as a person, rather than actually making them feel sexually attracted and turned on.

The way that men feel attracted to women and women feel attracted to men is DIFFERENT.

For example: If a woman is physically attractive or even just a bit pretty, most guys will be willing to have sex with her without knowing anything else about her.

Most guys have an instant motivation to have sex with a woman simply based on her appearance.

[image: Insta Attraction]

I call it Insta-attraction and it's the reason why a guy will turn his head and look at a woman and instantly be interested and willing to have sex with her.

[image: Yep, I'd tap that]

It's also why if a couple of guys are sitting together they'll look at women and say, "Yeah, I'd bang that. Oh, girlfriend material. Oh, I'd marry that. Nice. Check out that butt...look at those legs."

We men feel an instant motivation to have sex with a woman simply based on her appearance because we don't really need anything else from her, apart from her to look good and be healthy.

That's where our instinct of attraction comes from.

The initial attraction that we feel for women is not based on all the other stuff like getting to know her, what she does for a living, what brand of clothes she wears, where she went to University or if she didn't go to university.

All that stuff really does not matter when it comes to the instinct of initial attraction.

[image: When sexual attraction is triggered in a man]

Our initial instinct of attraction is simply based on whether the woman is physically attractive and healthy, and of a breeding age. If she is a fully developed woman and she's healthy and looks attractive, our instinct of attraction will immediately switch on.

The reason why is that the main thing that attraction is driving us to do is plant our seed inside of the woman. We don't actually need anything else from her apart from to get pregnant and be around long enough to ensure that the offspring survive.

Attraction is a primal instinct and is different to our desire for love, relationships and the modern idea of marriage. Attraction is designed to make us want to ejaculate inside of a physically attractive woman who is healthy and has a fully developed body of breeding age.

However, if a man is a fully developed man, is healthy and looks attractive, most women won't be motivated enough to approach him, try to pick him up and hopefully get to have sex with him.

It's just not how it works.

Really good looking guys can get some attention from women, and they often get hit on by unattractive women, and sometimes they get lucky with attractive women.

However, for almost all guys on this planet, what we need to do is start an interaction with a woman and then actively make her feel sexually attracted and turned on as we talk to her.

[image: Interact with her and create a spark]

We have to be saying and doing things that trigger the woman's feelings of sexual attraction.

We can literally CREATE a spark of attraction and MAKE the woman feel attracted to us as we talk to her.

Unlike women, a guy simply can't rely on a woman looking at his legs, or looking at his chest, or looking at his arms and saying, "Wow, look at that. I want to have sex with him," and going over and trying to pick him up.

As you may have noticed, when a guy is walking along the street, women aren't turning their heads to check him out.

Of course, sometimes you will see women do that if they're drunk or if they're hanging around with their girlfriends, and they're just trying to show off to each other or have a bit of a laugh.

[image: Insta Attraction]

Generally speaking though, it's us men who feel the Insta-attraction, where we are instantly motivated to want to have sex with a woman if she's physically attractive, healthy looking, and is a fully developed woman of breeding age.

So, if you want to have your choice of women so you can get laid whenever you want, or so you can choose the right woman for you, you must understand that you need to start an interaction with a woman, and actively make her feel sexually attracted and turned on during the interaction.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

You've got to be saying and doing things that trigger those feelings inside of her, otherwise she will likely see you as yet another guy who wants to bang her, but which she feels no spark of attraction for.

When you actively CREATE a spark of sexual attraction inside of a woman when you talk to her, you will see that most of the women that you interact with feel attracted to you.

You will then realize that most guys on this planet have no clue what you've just done and how it works.

Most guys stand around trying to look good or look cool, or they try to build up their career, make some money in the hope that women will come flocking to them.

We men know that women can feel attracted to guys with money, that's pretty simple.

However, a guy doesn't need to go to all that trouble just to get laid or get a girlfriend.

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

As you would have seen, normal everyday guys who aren't rich can get laid and get a girlfriend without having male model looks or without being super rich and powerful in society.

Most guys don't know this, but the truth is you can CREATE feelings of sexual attraction inside of a woman when you talk to her.

You can really do that.

[image: Enjoy your choice of women]

When you do that, you will see that most women feel attracted to you, and as a result, you will begin to enjoy your choice of women.

2. Most women have fake standards about men.

If you ask a woman what her ideal type of guy is, she'll usually start to list of all sorts of big, fancy traits.

[image: Most women have fake standards about men]

She'll say things like, "Oh, he's got to be good looking, tall and rich...and he's got to have a luxury yacht, a luxury car and be able to take me on holidays around the world. He's got to buy me a big ring, have a big dick, have six-pack abs and a perfect body. He's got to wear nice shoes, he's got to wear designer clothes, he's got to have the perfect haircut."

She'll go on and on and on.

Yet, the reality is all it usually takes is 1 to 2 minutes of actively making a woman feel sexually attracted to you, and she'll start to open up and be interested to see where it goes.

All of a sudden, those high standards that she apparently had about men go right out the window and she forgets all about it because she's feeling sexually attracted and turned on while she talks to you.

Now, some guys might hear that and think, "Well, what will happen if we start dating and we get into a relationship, and she realizes that she's with a guy who doesn't have all those things that she was listing off on her list of high standards?"

The thing is most of the standards that women say they have are fake.

In other words, she doesn't really care about all the things she says she wants in a guy and she knows that she is overstating what she would actually be happy with.

The same goes for guys.

A lot of guys have fake standards in women. They say, "Oh, I only want a blonde," and then they get a girlfriend who's a brunette, marry her and stay with her for life.

Other guys will say, "I only want a nice girl who's intelligent and is conservative," but he then goes to a strip club, feels turned on by the stripper and hopes that he can get her to quit her job and be his girlfriend because he feels so attracted to her.

[image: Falling for a stripper]

Another guy might say, "I only like white women," and then he sleeps with a black woman, and realizes that they're beautiful and sexy and amazing.

Another guy might say, "I only want a woman who's tall, and has a good job, and is good with her money, and likes to go to sports on weekends." He then meets a girl who is hot, and she doesn't like sports, she spends her money like crazy, and he just feels so attracted to her, and he wants to be with her.

Here's the thing though, when you do have the power to actively make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by you during an interaction, you can actually stick to your standards.

You might want to have sex with a hot girl who is a bit difficult and spends all their money on shoes and make up, but you'll only be with her for a while because you want to be with another hot girl who is conservative, and takes care of her money, and is a great girl that you can introduce to your family and friends.

That's the real benefit of having a choice with women.

You don't have to only go with attraction, where you're feeling so overwhelmed by the sexual attraction that you feel for a certain girl so you get into a relationship with her, but know in your gut that she's not the right girl.

Yet, you keep going anyway and try to keep the relationship together.

She then makes all these difficult demands and wants you to buy her a ring that's really expensive and will cost you your whole years salary. You then get married to her and two years later, she cheats on you.

The thing is, you knew that you couldn't trust her all along, but you just went along with it anyway because you were feeling attracted.

You accepted her because you didn't have your choice of women.

You didn't know how to actively attract other women who are just as beautiful as her, so you married her and she eventually cheated on you and then divorced you.

That sucks.

It's not how you should approach your dating and relationship life. You don't need to accept a woman who is not good enough for you, or who you know is untrustworthy.

If you are going to get into a serious relationship, you need to have a woman that you're truly attracted to, but who also has great character, whatever you define as being great character.

For example: Maybe you might say she has to be hot, but she also has to be very intelligent, loyal, caring, down to earth, easy going, things like that.

You then don't ever get into a serious relationship with a woman who doesn't have those qualities. If you suspect that she is untrustworthy or is going to cause you trouble in the long run (e.g. she's reckless, lazy, messed up) then just dump her and get a new woman.

When you have the skill of being able to actively turn a woman on during an interaction, you will see that most of the women that you interact with feel attracted to you, which then allows you to stick to your standards.

You can say, "This hot girl wants to have sex with me, but so does that hot girl. This girl is a pain in the ass...she's difficult and she's untrustworthy. Yet, this girl is a little bit feisty, but she's loyal and trustworthy, I get along with her easily and I really feel attracted to her."

Which woman are you going to go choose in that case? Obviously woman #2 if you want a serious relationship.

If you only want sex and a bit of fun for a while, you can have sex with both of them and then dump the untrustworthy woman.

3. Nothing will happen until you start an interaction and make her feel sexually attracted to you.

[image: Hopefully she notices me or approaches me]

Most guys are afraid to approach and interact with women that they find attractive because the guy doesn't actually know how to get the woman to feel attracted to him.

He looks at her and feels instantly attracted, but he knows that if he goes over and talks to her, he doesn't really know what to say or do to make her feel sexually attracted and interested in him.

He might be able to go over and say things like, "Oh, hi. What's your name? What do you do for a living? Where are you from? Where did you get that dress? Are you having a good night?" but after that, he doesn't really know what to say.

He might be able to go over and ask her basic questions, but he doesn't really know how to create that spark and as a result, he usually avoids interacting with women altogether.

That there is a huge opportunity for you, because when you are one of the rare guys who are able to actively make a woman feel sexually attracted to you during an interaction, you don't fear approaching women.

You know that if you go over and talk to a woman, you're going to be able to make her feel some, or a lot of sexual attraction for you. So, it's not scary any more.

You know that if you go and talk to her, there's going to be a spark between you and her, and it's going to be highly likely that she's either going to give you her phone number or if you meet her at night, kiss you or have sex with you that night.

[image: Sex on the first night or first date]

If you don't kiss her or have sex with her on the first night or the first day that you meet her, you just get her phone number, call her up, set up a date and the next thing you know, you're having sex with her and then you're deciding whether or not you want to stay with her in a relationship.

You're not just going to accept one random woman and then try to make it work with her even though she's not a match for you.

If she is a match for you, great. Get one woman, settle down, and you don't have to pick up women anymore. You've got your woman.

However, if she's not the right woman for you, all you've got to do is talk to one or a few other women and you're going to be able to pick one of those up as well.

4. The better you get at attracting women during a conversation, the more choice you have with women.

[image: Create a spark and then pick her up]

Have you ever seen a guy walk over and start interacting with one or two women, and sparks start flying immediately?

The women start laughing at what he's saying, they're giggling and enjoying themselves, and they're feeling attracted to him.

Additionally, have you ever seen a guy walk over to some women and no sparks start to fly.

He begins to ask questions like, "Oh...so, hey, how are you doing? Having a good night? So what do you do for a living? What's your name? What are you drinking there? That's a nice dress. Where did you get the dress from?" and it's just boring.

There's no sexual spark, there's no excitement, there's nothing to smile or laugh about. It's just plain, polite, guided, boring conversation.

The thing is it's not because the guy isn't good looking enough, or isn't rich enough, or doesn't have a big enough dick, or his muscles aren't big enough.

The problem is that he's not actively making the woman feel sexually attracted and turned on when he talks to her.

The way that it works is that you can either make the women feel sexually attracted by the conversation starter that you use, or you can start to make them feel sexually attracted during the first 10 to 30 seconds by displaying personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

If you don't know what to say or do to get women to feel attracted to you when you start a conversation or when the conversation starts to get going, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the brand-new audio version, The Flow on Audio.

When you can actively make a woman feel sexually attracted to you at the start of an interaction, most of the women that you meet will be interested in you.

All you need to do then is guide them through the simple steps of The Flow, and you'll be kissing, having sex, and enjoying relationships with women of your choosing.

Women Are Very Open and Willing to Sex These Days

[image: Getting to sex]

One of the best things about being a man in today's day and age is that women are open and willing to having sex.

They're open to dating, taking you for a test drive, having some sex and seeing where it leads.

Better still, the majority of guys have no idea how to actively attract women when they start an interaction.

Most guys stand around trying to look good. They go and get a new shirt, and a new pair of shoes, and a new pair of jeans and they style their hair nicely and then stand around hoping that women will notice them.

Yes, women may notice them, but unless the guy is a male model, a celebrity, is obviously rich or something like that, women aren't going to come over and approach him because there's nothing to make them feel sexually attracted and turned on.

There's nothing to get their attention and make them feel motivated to want to try to talk to him or to want to try to get to sex and start a relationship.

Making a woman feel that motivation is very simple.

All you've got to do is start an interaction with her, and begin actively making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you, by displaying personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women.

It's so damn easy to do, but most guys don't know how to do it because they either don't get taught when they're growing up, they don't have any good role models, or they grow up and they start to believe the media mentality about women.

The media mentality is that women are better than men, women are the prize, women are so amazing we've got to suck up to them to try to get a chance with them.

We've got to buy them lots of gifts, and take them on expensive dates, and wear the best clothes, and be on our very best behavior, and then we maybe get a chance with one of these women.

That is not how it works in the real world.

Most women have fake standards, and are very easy to pick up as long as you can actively make them feel sexually attracted to you.

The majority of women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be, and all it usually takes is one to two minutes of actively making her feel sexually attracted, and all of the crazy, fake, high standards that she has about men, having to have six-pack abs and a sports car and a private jet suddenly go out the window.

She's feeling turned on. She wants to be with you, and all you've got to do is guide her through The Flow.

Imagine This

The next hot woman that you speak to feels attracted to you, as soon as you begin talking to her because you immediately display personality traits and behaviors that women naturally find attractive and arousing.

As she talks to you during the first 30 seconds, her eyes light up, and she feels a rush of sexual attraction and desire for you.

All you need to do then is connect with her for a little bit, and then begin taking the interaction to the next level, where you either begin touching her, you get her to hug you, you start kissing her, you get her phone number or you add her to social media like Facebook, or you take her home for sex that night.

[image: Dating your choice of women]

If you met her during the day, you might go and have a coffee with her, you might go get something to eat with her or you might just get her number and then call her a couple of days later, and get her to meet up with you for a date that she really wants to go on.

So, if you want to have your choice of women and you're looking for an easy way to get it done, what I recommend you do is read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the audio version, The Flow on Audio.

You'll learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel attracted to you right away.

When you begin talking to women, they're going to feel attracted to you, they're going to be interested, they're going to open up.

All you need to do is to begin to connect with them, and then guide them through the simple flow process.

Before you know it, you will have your choice of women. It won't be about you looking at women thinking, "I can't go and talk to her. I don't know what to say. I don't know what to do. I don't know how to make her feel attracted."

If you happen to meet a girl and she likes you, it's not about giving up and accepting less than you deserve, "Well, I've got to accept this woman because I can't get anything else. I don't want to be lonely any more. I want a girlfriend. This is all I can get."

No.

You don't have to accept her if she's not attractive enough for you or if she's not the right girl for you.

You might want to have a bit of fun with her for a while, but you don't have to settle down with her out of desperation.

You know that you can easily attract most of the women that you meet.

It's not possible for a man to attract all the women that he meets, but you can attract most of the women that you meet.

It's actually very simple to attract women during a conversation and when you begin doing it, what you'll find is that most women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

The Easiest Way to Pick Up Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Which of the following is the easiest way to pick up women?

1. Start off by developing a connection with her and then try to get somewhere.
2. Be sleazy and go straight for the kill.
3. Get to know her over a long period of time and hope that something develops between you and her.
4. Immediately make her feel sexually attracted and turned on as you begin to talk to her and then develop a connection with her so she feels sexually attracted to you and romantically interested in you.

So, which of those seems like the easiest way to pick up women?

Most guys try 1 and 3, which is why they get rejected.

The majority of guys out there try to use The Friends First Approach, or try to get to know a woman in a friendly way and show her that they're not a threat, they don't want anything sexual and they just want to get to know her and be a friend.

[image: Trying to get laid with a sleazy or drunken approach]

Some guys use the approach of being sleazy and going straight for the kill because they're sick and tired of trying to develop a connection with a woman and be friendly with her and hope to get somewhere over time.

So, they walk up to women and say, "Hey, can I get your phone number?" or "Hey, can I buy you a drink?" or "Hey, you got a boyfriend?" and go straight for the kill.

However, the guys who get laid and get a girlfriend very easily and consistently are the ones who start off an interaction by making a woman feel sexually attracted by what he's saying and doing.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

He doesn't try to pick her up immediately and he doesn't try to get anywhere immediately, but he starts making her experience sexual feelings for him.

He does that by displaying traits and behaviors that naturally attract women. For example: A guy will be confident, funny, charming, charismatic, unpredictable, masculine and socially intelligent.

Those traits will come across as he talks to her and she'll naturally start to feel attracted to him.

Now, some guys who hear that might think, "Hang on, how's the woman going to like him unless he's good looking? Isn't it all about looks? Doesn't a guy have to be tall and good looking if a woman's going to feel sexually attracted to him?"

That's not how it works.

It's true that women can feel attracted to a man if he's handsome and he's tall.

That is true, but it's also true that women can feel attracted to a normal looking guy, an average looking guy, a below average looking guy if he actively makes that woman feel sexually attracted by the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that he displays as he talks to her.

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

To help you understand how it works, let's have a look at what sexual attraction actually is.

Sexual attraction is a feeling that a woman gets that makes her want to have sex with a man.

Her feelings of sexual attraction can be triggered in many different ways.

Obvious triggers that most guys know about are looks, status, money, big dick and being tall.

Yet, what most guys don't know is that they can make a woman feel sexually attracted by displaying certain personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities during an interaction with her. Traits like confidence, charisma, charm, masculinity, humor, social intelligence and unpredictability.

Most guys try to get laid or get a girlfriend by displaying traits that don't even turn a woman on such as politeness, academic intelligence, niceness and kindness.

Now, that's not to say that women don't care about niceness and kindness and academic intelligence, but those are not the traits that initially make a woman feel sexually attracted to a guy.

Those are traits that a woman will appreciate and even love AFTER she feels sexually attracted to a guy.

[image: Trying to pick up by being a friend to her first]

However, most guys don't know that so a guy will walk over and try to pick a woman up and he'll be friendly and nice to her and he'll try to have an easy-going chat with her, but she won't be showing any interest.

She'll be closed up and she won't contribute much to the conversation and she might even give him looks like that or tell him to leave her alone.

He'll then go back and talk to his friends and say, "What a bitch. I was going over and talking to her. I was being nice. I was being friendly. What's her problem? What's wrong with women these days? Stuck up bitches. It's like why are they so difficult?"

[image: I want her. Why doesn't she want me?]

Yet, what he doesn't understand is that a man's attraction for a woman is different to a woman's attraction for a man. A man can feel instantly motivated to want to be with a woman simply based on her physical appearance.

However, the majority of women don't feel motivated enough simply based on a guy's appearance.

It's true that some women can feel motivated enough to want to be with a guy if he's handsome.

However, the majority of women place way more important on how a guy makes her feel as he talks to her.

[image: Why isn't she attracted to me?]

For example:

- Is he turning her on or is he making her feel neutral?
- Is he able to get her laughing and smiling or is he kind of boring and asking her questions like, "So what do you for a living? What's your name? Where are you from?"
- Is he able to pass her confidence tests as she plays hard-to-get to test his confidence or does he look awkward and unsure of himself when she starts testing him by playing hard to get?

The Simple Change That Changed My Life

One of the reasons I work so hard here at The Modern Man is that I used to be one of the guys who got rejected and then I turned my life around by simply knowing how to attract women while I talk to them.

[image: Dan Bacon picking up women]

Once I was able to attract women during a conversation, I was able to begin enjoying my choice of women.

[image: Dan Bacon picking up women]

[image: Dan Bacon picking up women]

[image: Dan Bacon picking up women]

I was able to walk up and talk to women and pull them back for sex, get their phone number, have sex on the first date, have sex on the second date, have multiple women in my life at once.

[image: Dan Bacon picking up women]

Then recently, I found this girl and she's my woman now.

Personally, I feel sorry for the majority of guys out there who do not understand this simple thing about women and attraction.

Most guys go through life wasting so much time putting in effort to build up muscle, build up their career, buy better shoes, invest in a car and hopefully impress women.

Here's the thing...

There's nothing wrong with a guy going to the gym if he wants to. There's nothing wrong with a guy being strong and building up his muscles if he likes that. There's nothing wrong with a guy having a nice car or building up his career.

However, a guy doesn't actually need to do that to get laid or get a girlfriend. Some women are picky, yes and they want a tall guy with muscles.

Great, that's fantastic and some women want a guy with an amazing car.

Good for them, but the majority of women including beautiful and pretty women don't even have high standards.

Fact: Most Women Have Fake Standards About Men

What guys don't realize about most women is that their standards are fake and all it usually takes is one to two minutes of conversation where you're making her feel attracted and all her BS fake standards about men go right out the window.

[image: Most women have fake standards about men]

If someone asks a woman what her dream guy is, she might say tall, handsome, rich, big dick, six-pack abs, blah, blah, blah.

However, if a normal average or even below average looking guy walks up to her and makes her feel sexually attracted and turned on during a conversation, she's going to be interested in him and if he's able to charm her as he talks to her and move towards kissing and sex, she's going to be his girlfriend and maybe even his wife.

It's so damn simple, but the majority of guys don't know it.

When you are one of the rare guys who are able to make women feel attracted to you during a conversation, you have so much choice with women.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

It's so damn easy.

If you want to learn exactly what to say and do to instantly start getting results with women, I recommend that you read my ebook, The Flow, or listen to the audio version, The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is about starting with sexual attraction.

It's about starting out by making her feel sexually attracted to you, by triggering those feelings in her because once you do that, everything else naturally flows on from one step to the next.

There's no need for her to play hard-to-get or play games or say that she only wants to be friends or she doesn't give out her number or she's not looking for a relationship right now.

[image: Making women feel attracted is easy]

She's feeling sexually attracted to you and if you can just connect with her for a little bit, which is super easy, she's going to feel more than motivated to want to give you her phone number or kiss you, have sex with you, go on a date with you and start with a relationship with you.

It's so damn easy.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Make a Woman Want You Sexually

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Making a woman want you sexually is a very easy thing to do.

We humans all have primal instincts that trigger automatically without us having to think about it.

For example: With the primal instinct of needing to eat food, if you see high calorie foods your mouth will start to produce extra saliva in preparation to eat the food.

[image: Primal instinctive need to eat high calorie foods]

[image: Primal instinctive need to eat high calorie foods]

You might also start to feel a bit hungry.

That is a primal instinct that triggers automatically when you see high-calorie food.

Another primal instinct is the need to have sex so a man and a woman can create offspring and pass on their genes.

Triggering Her Primal, Instinctive Need to Have Sex

[image: Getting to sex]

So, how does a man actually trigger a woman's primal instinct and her feel sexually attracted to him? How does he trigger that desire in her?

First, you need to understand that a man's attraction for a woman works differently to a woman's attraction for a man.

For a man, we can look at a woman and feel what I call Insta-attraction.

[image: Insta Attraction]

We can easily feel attracted to the woman and be motivated enough to want to talk to her, have sex with her and even get into a relationship with her simply based on her physical appearance.

The reason why is that a man's primal instinct of attraction (which is still present even though we're in a modern civilized society) is about wanting to plant his seed inside of a physically attractive woman who has a fully developed body, of breeding age and is also healthy.

[image: When sexual attraction is triggered in a man]

That's what the attraction is based on.

Even though we might want to get to know the woman and have a great relationship with her and go on dates and go watch a movie together and go on a holiday together, etc., all that stuff is after the fact.

What is driving the attraction is the primal instinct for a man to want to plant his seed so he can then pass his genes on to the next generation.

[image: The primal, instinctive need to blow inside of a physically attractive, healthy woman to plant our seed]

It's an instant attraction based on the woman looking physically attractive, having a fully developed body, of breeding age and being healthy.

Our initial attraction to women and motivation to want to have sex with them isn't any more complicated than that.

However, a woman's attraction for a man doesn't work the same way.

A woman's primal instinct of attraction is not driven purely based on a guy looking good, being of a breeding age and being healthy.

[image: Using a boring, nice guy approach]

What's more important to a woman is what sort of guy he is.

- Does he get along well with others or does he get picked on or left out?
- Is he a confident man or is he insecure?
- Does he have the potential to succeed in life one day or is he the sort of guy that's going to get looked over for promotions at work?
- Is he an emotionally strong man that she can rely on during challenging times or is he an emotionally weak man that she's gonna have to keep propping up, patting on the back and encouraging along as they go through challenging times in life?

All of these assessments that a woman needs to make about a guy happen during a conversation.

When a guy is talking to a woman, he's either going to be triggering her primal instinct of attraction or he's not.

[image: Woman assessing a man's confidence]

For example: If a guy is talking to a woman and he's self-doubting and insecure and he's a bit hesitant while he talks to her, he's not going to be triggering her primal instinct of sexual attraction. She's going to get the feeling that he's going to be more of a burden than a benefit to her.

He might be a great guy and he might be confident in other areas of his life, but her instincts don't care about that. Her primal instinct of attraction is going to be triggered if she talks to a guy and he has the sort of traits that she finds sexually attractive.

She doesn't have to think about it because it happens automatically for her, just like our attraction is automatic when we see what we need in a woman (i.e. healthy, physically attractive, fully developed body of breeding age).

Women feel the MOST amount of attraction when they INTERACT with a guy and notice that he has certain personality traits and behaviors.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

For example: Women all over the world are attracted to men who are confident, funny, charming, sexual, charismatic, masculine, unpredictable and socially intelligent.

These are traits that can be displayed during a conversation, which is why men will look at a woman and say, "Yep, I'd have sex with her. I want to be her," but a woman will say, "Well, who is he? What sort of guy is he? I need to talk to him first."

Of course, some women will say, "Oh, he's handsome. I want to have sex with him," and the woman will be motivated enough to want to be with him simply based on his appearance. However, those women are the minority.

The majority of women need to be able to talk to a guy and have their primal instinct of attraction triggered based on what's he saying and doing during the interaction.

[image: Interact with her and create a spark]

For example:

- Is he a confident guy or is he an insecure guy?
 - Does he make her laugh and feel good or does he make her feel bored and turned off?
 - Does he feel like an emotionally strong guy that she can look up to or does she feel more powerful than him?
- Does she feel like she's emotionally stronger than him?

You can make a woman want you sexually simply by displaying the right traits.

Using the primal instinct of food and the need to eat food, what you'll notice is that when you look at high-calorie foods, your mouth will start to produce extra saliva in preparation to eat the food and you might even feel a bit hungry.

When it comes to the primal instinctive need for sex, so a man or a woman can procreate and pass on their genes, certain chemicals are released in the brain when traits are displayed that trigger attraction.

For example: If a woman is interacting with a guy who is confident, he's funny, he's charming and charismatic, her brain will start to release the chemical called dopamine which makes her feel sexual desire for the guy.

[image: The basic brain chemical reaction to mutual attraction]

Then as the guy begins to connect with her, her brain also releases another chemical called oxytocin which makes her feel comfortable around him and close to him.

For women, making men feel sexual attraction is as easy as looking good.

[image: Insta Attraction]

If a woman looks physically attractive, is of breeding age with a fully developed body and she's healthy, most guys are going to look at her and say, "Yep, I'd tap that. I'd bang that. I want to have sex with her. Girlfriend material. Marriage material. I'll buy anything she wants if she'll be my girlfriend. Oh, I definitely want to have sex with her."

For us men, it's as easy as TALKING to a woman and displaying traits that make women feel sexually attracted.

If you interact with a woman and you display traits that make women feel sexually attracted, she can't turn that off. It's a primal instinct that gets triggered automatically without her control.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

She doesn't have to think about whether or not she feels attracted to you because it happens automatically for her when you display personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

It's as simple as this...

You're talking to her and displaying traits that make women feel sexually attracted and she then AUTOMATICALLY feels sexually attracted to you.

Her brain starts to release the chemical called dopamine and as you begin to connect with her, it also releases the chemical called oxytocin which makes her feel closer and connected with you.

So, if you're a guy who's looking to get laid or get a girlfriend, the really cool thing about this fact of attraction is that most guys don't know it.

Most guys out there use what I call The Friends First Approach.

[image: Trying to attract women with niceness and kindness]

A guy will talk to a woman and try to get to know her in a friendly way, show her that he's a good guy, he only wants to talk to her, he's not interested in anything sexual.

He's interested in who she is. He thinks she's fascinating, he wants to talk to her and he wants to talk about what she does for a living, "Oh, really? That's interesting" and he just wants to have a nice, neutral friendly conversation with her.

Unless the guy is really good looking, super rich and powerful in society or he's a celebrity, the woman is just going to see the guy as just another guy.

She's not going to feel any spark with him because he's just making her feel friendly emotions. He's making her feel neutral.

It's more like a friendship or a brother-sister type of relationship or feeling.

[image: Why can't I get a girlfriend or at least get laid?]

The guys who get laid and get a girlfriend easily don't use the friends first approach.

What they do is start by triggering the woman's feelings of sexual attraction, which is what I call The Attraction First Approach.

A guy starts by triggering a woman's feelings of sexual attraction and as the interaction continues, he starts to make her feel turned on.

He then he begins to connect with her and then he either gets her phone number, kisses her, has sex with her, calls her up to take her out for a date and start a relationship with her.

That's the easy way to get laid and get a girlfriend and it's what I teach in my eBook, The Flow, which you can also listen to on audio.

If you read The Flow or listen to the audio version called The Flow on Audio, you will learn exactly what to say and do while you're interacting with a woman to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you.

A lot of guys don't know about this though and they go through their life thinking that making a woman feel sexually attracted is so complicated or difficult.

Some guys will spend years in the gym building up their muscle, trying to look more physically attractive to women.

Other guys will spend years or even decades trying to build up their career or business to hopefully one day be appealing to women.

Other guys will get new shoes and new clothes and get a new hairstyle and hope that it's going to be appealing to women.

Yet, all along the guy will get pretty much the same results with women that he always has.

The thing is there's nothing wrong with a guy going to the gym and working out. If a guy likes doing that because it keeps him fit and healthy and he likes to feel strong, then great. He can go and do that.

If a guy wants to build up his career or get into a business and work towards a passion of his, great. Go ahead and do that. If a guy wants to go and buy nice clothes and nice shoes, great. Go ahead and do that.

However, what guys need to understand is that you don't actually need any of that to get laid or get a girlfriend.

Some women do require a guy to have a perfect body or a guy to be rich and famous or a guy to have the perfect fashion sense. Those women do exist. However, they are the minority.

For most women, all it usually takes is one to two minutes of conversation where you're actively making her feel sexually attracted to you and she drops her guard, opens up to you and becomes interested in talking to you and seeing where it goes.

Most guys don't get to experience that though because they walk over to a woman that they feel attracted to because she's physically attractive, but they don't really do anything to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

A guy's thinking, "Well, I've spent all this time in the gym. Shouldn't she be attracted to me because I've got muscles?" Well, muscles aren't that important to most women. Muscles aren't going to provide for offspring or even guarantee that she's going to be kept safe.

A woman feels much safer with a confident guy who's emotionally strong compared to a guy who has muscles, but is insecure and self-doubting.

Some women are very superficial and are completely focused on looks, but they are the minority.

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

The majority of women are open to being with all different types of guys as long as the guy can make her feel sexually attracted when he interacts with her.

If he's a confident guy and he makes her laugh and she feels charmed by him, then she's gonna feel attracted to him.

However, if he's a nervous guy and self-doubting and he doesn't really know what to say or do to get her attracted and make her feel turned on, then she's not going to be interested in him because there's going to be no spark there.

[image: Attracting women for sex is easy]

To create a spark of attraction, you need to display traits that make women feel sexually attracted and turned on such as confidence, charisma, charm and humor.

If you want to learn the easy way to get laid and get a girlfriend, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the audio version, The Flow on Audio. You'll learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel sexually attracted to you and you'll realize how easy it is.

Once you have the ability to attract a woman during a conversation, most of the women that you interact with will feel attracted to you.

Some will feel a little bit attracted, others will feel very attracted and others will feel intense attraction.

When you have the ability to attract women during conversation, you're not afraid to go and talk to them.

You know that you can walk over to a woman and you're going to be able to make her feel attracted so she's going to be interested.

[image: Attracting and picking up women is easy]

The better you get at displaying the traits that naturally attract women, the higher quality of woman that you can have access to.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

5 Pick Up Mistakes That Lead to Rejection

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Have you ever noticed how some guys can pick up women very easily, whereas other guys can't even get past 30 seconds to a minute of conversation with women?

Some guys find it very easy to get laid and get a girlfriend, and when they start talking to a woman, sparks begin to fly immediately.

[image: Why can't I get a girlfriend or at least get laid?]

Whereas, other guys try to talk to women and they're trying to show the woman that they're a good guy, they've got good intentions and they're just trying to have a friendly chat with her, but she's just not interested.

She's not feeling the spark.

The thing is picking up women is actually a very easy thing to do. However, when a guy makes some or all of the following mistakes while talking to a woman, she'll often reject him.

1. Trying to win her over with traits that don't make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

[image: Trying to attract women with niceness and kindness]

This is one of the most common reasons why guys get rejected by women.

A guy will start talking to a woman and try to win her over by being really nice, friendly, polite.

He'll ask her questions like, "Hey, so what you do for a living? Where are from? How old are you? Where did you get that dress?" and he'll ask a girl all these sorts of questions because he's trying to show her that he's a good guy and he's got good intentions.

He just wants to get to know her in a friendly and see where things go.

Yet, the problem with that approach is that it doesn't make the woman feel sexually attracted. He feels attracted to her because of her appearance, but he's not actively doing anything to create a spark of attraction inside of her.

For us men, we can instantly feel sexually attracted to a woman simply based on her appearance and be motivated enough to want to talk to her, kiss her, have sex with her and even start a relationship with her because of it.

A guy can be at a bar or at an event, a party or out in a public place, and can look around at women and say, "Yep, I'd bang that. I'd tap that. No. Yes. No. Yes."

Most guys can look at a woman and pretty much instantly decide "Yes" or "No" about whether they'd be interested in having sex with her.

However, for women, it does work differently.

If it didn't work differently, guys wouldn't have to worry about trying to learn how to attract women.

It would be very simple. You'd walk up to a woman, she'd feel attracted to you physically (just like you feel attracted to her physically) and you would then just hook up based on that.

Yet, that's not the way that women work.

It's true that women can feel attracted to a man's physical appearance and refer to him as being handsome or sexy.

However, the majority of women don't make their final decision on whether they want to have sex with a guy simply based on his appearance.

Some women do place a lot of importance on a man's looks, but the majority of women in this world place more importance on who he is as a guy.

When a woman is interacting with a guy she will be assessing who is as a person.

Is he confident or nervous? Is he able to get along with her and others, or is he a bit socially awkward? Is he a masculine guy in the way that he talks and thinks and behaves, or is he a bit neutral, or worse, is he a bit feminine?

Does she feel like he's an emotionally strong guy that she can feel safe with in this world, or does she feel like she'd probably need to protect and take care of him?

Even though most women won't necessarily think about those things consciously, her instincts of attraction are based on the analysis of that while she's interacting with a guy.

The way that he's talking and the way that he's behaving is either going to trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of her or it's not.

When it comes to pick up, the majority of guys try to win women over with traits that don't even make women feel sexually attracted and turned on (e.g. niceness, politeness).

Women do appreciate it if a guy is a nice guy, has good intentions, is academically intelligent and has a good job. That's all great stuff, but it doesn't matter to a woman unless she feels sexually attracted to the guy.

For women, making men feel attracted is as easy as looking good, and for men, making women feel attracted is as easy as displaying attractive personality traits during an interaction.

For example: Some of the personality traits that women find sexually attractive in a man are confidence, masculinity, charisma, charm, humor, unpredictability and social intelligence.

Yet, what most guys do when they meet a woman and are trying to pick her up is display traits like kindness, politeness, niceness, and academic intelligence.

A guy wants to show that he's a good guy, he's trustworthy, he's reliable.

He's essentially trying to communicate things like: You can count on me. I'm a good guy. I've got good intentions. I don't just want to have sex with you, I want to be your boyfriend. I'll take care of you. I'll treat you nicely.

He's trying to win her over with traits that don't even make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on.

The thing is, women do appreciate those other nice traits after they feel attracted to a guy. If you want pick-up to be very easy for you, you've got to start out by making women feel sexually attracted to you.

2. Concentrating too much on her reactions rather than on what he needs to do.

[image: Concentrating too much on what she is doing, rather than focussing on what he needs to do to get to kissing and sex]

Another common pick-up mistake that guys make which leads to rejection is where the guy concentrates too much on what the woman is saying and doing, and how she's reacting.

He'll be talking to a woman and she might make a bit of a face to show her disapproval, or she might not contribute much to the conversation or she might play hard to get.

The guy is focusing on that and thinking about it too much. He's thinking, "Why did she do that? Why did she say that? Why has her body language changed all of a sudden? Am I losing her? Have I stuffed this up? Look how she's turning away from me now. She's drinking her drink, what does that mean?"

He's thinking way too much about what the woman is doing and it's making him appearance nervous, unsure of himself and not fully present in the moment, which is unattractive to women.

What he needs to do to be successful is focus on what he needs to do.

What does he need to do?

He needs to actively make her feel sexually attracted to him.

Unless a guy is actively making a woman feel sexually attracted during a pick-up, most of the women that he tries to pick up aren't going to be interested.

If he tries to make a move, most of the women that he tries to make a move on are going to reject him.

What guys need to understand is that it's very easy for us to feel attracted to women.

I call it Insta-attraction.

You can just see a woman and say yes or no, whether you'd bang her, whether you'd have sex with her, but it's not the same for women.

It's true that some women can look at a guy and say, "Yes, I want to have sex with him. He's sexy, he's handsome." However, the majority of women need to interact with you and see if there's a spark there.

The best thing of all for us guys is that we can create the spark.

For example: We can display traits that naturally attract women, such as confidence, emotional masculinity, charisma and charm.

We actually have it a lot easier than women because we don't have to focus so much on how we look. We can walk over and talk to a woman and make her feel attracted and turned on during the interaction.

This is why you'll see guys who you might think average or below average looking with a beautiful woman.

You might wonder how these other guys are able to get a girlfriend when you're not.

You might look at a guy walking along with his girlfriend and think, "What's she doing with him?"

You might go to a party and see a guy with a hot girl and think, “What is she doing with him? Why can’t I get a girl like that?”

You might see another guy with a funny-looking nose with a hot girlfriend and think, “Why isn’t she turned off by his nose? How did he get her? I think I’m better looking than him. What’s going on here?”

What’s going on is the fact that guys can make women feel sexually attracted to them while they interact with them.

Guys can actively create a spark with a woman, and the woman will then start to look at the guy’s physical appearance in a more positive light.

She might not like how he looks initially, but once she starts interacting with him and feeling a spark for him, she might think, “I like the fact that he’s bald. He’s kind of cute like that. Look at his belly. I want to rub it. Oh, look at his hairy chest. I want to run my fingers through it. This guy doesn’t work out, doesn’t seem like he has big muscles, but I’m attracted to him. I’m turned on. I want this guy.”

That’s how a woman’s attraction works, and it’s the reason why so many guys all over the world are confused when they see a guy walking along the street or at a party or at a bar, and he is not as good looking as the woman.

He doesn’t seem like he deserves her, but what’s going on is that that guy created a spark with her, and he was able to pick her up.

3. Making her feel like she’s too good for him.

[image: Making her feel like she's too good for him]

A woman may actually have fairly low standards and be willing to hook up with most type of guys, but if a guy walks up to her and starts talking to her and makes her feel like she’s way more valuable than him, she will often get the feeling that she might be trading down if she hooked up with him.

It might feel like an unfair value exchange to her where she’s bringing more attractive value to the table than he is.

That’s a problem that a lot of guys create for themselves when they’re trying to pick up women.

A guy will walk up to a woman and give her the impression that he would be lucky to get a chance with her.

It will come through in his body language and how he’s talking and responding to her. She’ll be able to pick up the fact that he doesn’t feel like he’s good enough for her, and as a result, she will start to question whether or not he is good enough for her.

4. Showing romantic interest before making her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

[image: Rejected when expressing feelings to a woman]

A classic pick-up mistake that leads to rejection is where a guy gets overwhelmed by his feelings of attraction for a woman while he’s talking to her.

A guy will start talking to a woman and be feeling a lot of attraction for her appearance, and if she's being friendly to him, he'll start to feel like he's got a chance with her and that she might be the one for him.

He will begin to feel excited that she might be his new girlfriend, they're going to fall in love and are going to have sex.

However, she's only being friendly with him and he's feeling attracted to her.

From her perspective, he's just yet another friendly guy who'd like to bang her, but she doesn't feel a spark with him.

Feeling excited about the fact that an attractive woman is being nice to him and confusing it to mean that she is attracted, he starts asking her questions like, "So do you have a boyfriend? Can I take you out sometime? Are you seeing anyone at the moment? Can I get your phone number?"

She then rejects him because she doesn't even feel attracted to him.

Here's the thing though...

That guy and that woman might have been an ideal couple. They may have been a great match, and if he approached her properly, they may have kissed, had sex, started a relationship, and eventually even gotten married and stayed together for life.

Yet, the problem is that he's attracted to her and she's not attracted to him. He's not doing anything to actively make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

If a guy is just a normal everyday guy, then he needs to actively make women feel sexually attracted to him during an interaction rather than expecting something magical to happen on it's own.

Many guys waste most of their life hoping for a spark to magically happen between themselves and a beautiful woman, because they don't even know that it's possible to CREATE a spark.

Normal, average, everyday kind of guys (like me) need to CREATE a spark with women, rather than hoping for something to happen on its own.

A guy who is a celebrity, very rich and powerful in society, a male model or a sports star doesn't really need to do a lot to make women feel initially attracted to him because there's already something attractive about him.

However, the majority of guys in this world just need to understand and accept that to get laid and get a girlfriend very easily, they need to actively make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on during an interaction.

They can't expect a woman to be excited about wanting to get to know them, and have sex with them, and get into a relationship with them simply based on being friendly towards her, and getting along in nice and polite way.

So, the mistake that a lot of guys make is they get overwhelmed by their feelings of attraction for a woman, and if she's being nice and friendly towards them, the guy then thinks, "Okay, this girl is for me. There's something between us. I'm feeling it. She's being nice to me. I've got to try to close the deal here!!"

He then asks her, "Do you have a boyfriend? Can I take you out? What's your number?" and she's thinking, "Woah, you've jumped the gun there. I don't even feel anything for you yet."

She doesn't explain what's going on. She just says something like, "No, I've already got a boyfriend" or "No, sorry...I'm not interested" or "No, I don't give out my phone number at bars."

The final mistake is...

5. Not being prepared.

[image: Unprepared to approach and attract women]

The majority of guys who want to get laid and get a girlfriend make this classic mistake when trying to pick up women.

A guy will have nothing to talk about beyond asking her name, occupation and age. He'll have no idea how to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

He will have no idea how to pass her confidence tests so she will then drop her guard, and show him the friendly, easygoing side of herself that she doesn't show to other guys.

Here's the thing...

Pick-up is very easy if you know what you're doing. However, when a guy makes classic pick-up mistakes, it doesn't matter that he's a good guy, or that he has a good job, or that he's dressed well; women are still going to reject him.

The reason why is that the way that women feel attracted to men, and the way that men feel attracted to women is different.

Men can instantly decide, "Yes, I want to have sex with her. No, I don't want to have sex with her" simply based on a woman's appearance.

If a man starts talking to a woman that he wants to have sex with because he finds her attractive, he doesn't care what she does for a living. He doesn't care what brand of shoes she's wearing or what dress she's got on.

He wants to have sex with her regardless of the extra details about her. He might feel turned off if he talks to her and she's a bitch towards him, but if she suddenly started being nice and open, he would go back to wanting to have sex with her again.

A man's initial attraction to a woman to a woman is very simple. If she is physically attractive, has a fully developed body of breeding age and is healthy, a man's attraction will automatically switch on.

Yet, it doesn't work that way with women because women are looking for something else from a man other than just looks.

Women want to be able to interact with you and feel sexually attracted and turned on while they talk to you. They want to be able to experience who you are and feel sexually attracted and turned on by that.

No More Rejection

[image: Attracting and picking up women is easy]

If you don't want to get rejected anymore when you pick up women, and you want to experience easy success from now on, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the brand new audio book version, The Flow on Audio.

When you either read The Flow or listen to The Flow on Audio, you'll learn exactly what to say and do to effortlessly go from one step to the next with a woman.

You'll know what to say to start a conversation, how to get her attracted immediately, how to keep the conversation going and keep it interesting, how to connect with her in an attractive way, how to get her to touch you and hug you, how to kiss her, how to get her to go home and have sex with you, or if you want to have sex on the first date, how to get her to go on a first date with you and have sex with you on the first date.

The way that The Flow works is that everything just flows from one step to the next.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend, so if you've been struggling to get laid or get a girlfriend and have been getting rejected when you've been trying to pick up women, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to The Flow on Audio.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Do You Make This Mistake With Women?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The most common mistake that guys make when they're trying to pick up women to get laid or get a girlfriend, is what I call The Friends First Approach.

A guy will meet a woman that he finds attractive and rather than making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by him as he starts to interact with her, he'll try to get to know her first and show her that he's just a friendly, non-threatening guy.

[image: Using the friends first approach on a woman]

All he wants to do is talk to her and be friendly.

He wants to show her that he's not after anything sexual and he just wants to get to know her. He finds her interesting.

He might say things like, "Wow, you work there? Oh, really? That's interesting. Oh, you're studying that? Oh, wow" so she can show her that he's interested in her and what she's about as a person.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is that the friends first approach that he's using leads to rejection in most cases.

[image: Rejected after using the friends first approach]

Some guys can transition from having a friendship with a woman to eventually getting to have sex with her and getting to have a relationship with her, but you don't need to waste all that time.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

Sexual attraction and a woman's sexual interest in you can happen immediately.

Some guys might say, "Well, it's not all about sex. I want to have her as a girlfriend, too. I want to love her. I want to have intimacy and I want to have experiences together."

Yes, that's great, but all of those things happen after sexual attraction.

[image: Trying to pick up by being a friend to her first]

If a guy is using a friends first approach with a woman and he's trying to get to know her, he might be talking to her for two weeks, three weeks, two months, three months and they might get along really well.

He might go home at night thinking, "Ohh, I want this girl to be my girlfriend. I can't wait to get to have sex with her. I love her so much. My feelings for her are so strong. She must be the one."

As he's falling asleep at night, he might imagine him and her being in an amazing relationship and remember all the times when she said something nice to him, or that day when she touched his leg.

He hopes that is might mean that she has strong feelings for him too.

Then two days later, another guy comes along and doesn't use the friends first approach. Instead, he uses what I call The Attraction First Approach.

He starts out by actively making that woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by him.

Sparks start to fly between them and there's obviously an attraction there.

Then they start to get to know each other and go out on a date, hook up, have sex and get into a relationship.

[image: Rejected after using the friends first approach]

Meanwhile, the friends first approach guy is looking on thinking, "What happened there? How could she betray me like that? I thought she really liked me. That time I did all those errands for her and I helped her out with her work," or "I helped her with her studies," or "I helped her paint her house," or whatever he helped her do as the good friend that he was.

What he doesn't realize is that all along, he was feeling sexually attracted to her, but she wasn't sexually attracted to him.

[image: I am attracted to you. Why don't feel attracted to me too?]

She was emotionally attracted as a friend, but he wasn't doing anything to turn her on.

He wasn't doing anything to trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of her.

[image: Expecting her to want a relationship because he is a good friend]

He is expecting her to want a relationship because he is a good friend, but that's just not how it works unless she somehow feels attracted to him on her own.

In almost all cases, a man needs to actively CREATE a spark of sexual attraction inside of the woman to make her feel that way about him. If he doesn't do that, most women will just see him as a friend or a random guy that they have no sexual interest in.

The same principle applies to picking up women when you first meet them.

If a guy goes out to pick up women at a bar, for example and walks over and tries to get to know the woman in a friendly way, but doesn't do anything to turn her on or trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, then he's just another guy to her.

[image: Insta Attraction]

For us men, we can look at a woman, and simply based on her physical appearance, we can say yes or no whether we'd have sex with her.

So, we look at a woman and we're like, "Yep, I'd bang that. I'd tap that. That's sexy, I'd do her. Look at her tits, look at her legs, look at that butt, look at her face, I'd do it."

Yet, a woman's attraction works in a different way. (If it didn't guys would have to learn how to attract women).

Women can feel attracted to a man's physical appearance, but they don't make instant decisions to have sex simply based on a guy's looks.

Some women do make an instant decision and say, "Well, that guy is really good looking. I want to have sex with him," but the majority of women need to interact with a guy and experience his personality to feel turned on.

This is why you will see guys that you may say are average or below average looking with a beautiful woman.

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

[image: Normal, average and below average looking guys with pretty women]

[image: Nerdy guy with a pretty girlfriend]

You might see guys who are overweight, who have a beautiful woman, or a slim woman that you find attractive.

You might see a guy with big ears with a beautiful woman.

You might see a guy with a funny looking nose with a beautiful woman.

You might see guys who are from a race that other's say can't pick up women from a particular race, yet they have a beautiful woman from that particular race.

You might see guys who don't look very cool and might look a bit nerdy, but they've got a beautiful girlfriend.

To some guys, it doesn't seem like it matches, so he wonders, "Why is she with him? Why isn't she with a tall, good looking guy? Why has she chosen to be with him?"

The answer is simple: A guy can make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on as he talks to her.

It's not just about looks.

Guys who are good looking, rich and super-powerful in society can attract women based on those traits. We all know that.

It is true that women can find looks and money and status in society attractive, but it's also true that normal, everyday guys can start talking to a woman and begin to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

Most guys either don't know that, or they think that the best way to try to get a girlfriend or get laid is to use the friends first approach.

[image: Maybe she will like me if I show her how intelligent I am]

"I know what I'll do! I'm going to get to know her. I'm going to show her that I'm a good guy. I'm going to show her that I'm trustworthy. I'm going to show her how intelligent I am. I'm going to talk about my dreams with my career and my ambitions. I'm going to talk about my achievements. Hopefully, I'll impress her and hopefully, over time I'll start to grow on her...and then she'll like me and want to be with me."

Yes, that approach can work in some cases and some guys can eventually transition a friendship into a relationship.

However, in most cases, it usually results in rejection because she just doesn't feel the same way he does.

Alternatively, a friends first guy will waste a lot of time trying to grow on a girl and then one day, another guy will come along and start with sexual attraction by using the attraction first approach.

The new guy will pick her up, they'll have sex and then begin a relationship and the friends first guy will be standing there going, "What just happened?"

[image: Why isn't she attracted to me?]

What just happened is that she needs to feel sexual attraction.

...and in most cases, a guy needs to actively CREATE that attraction by interacting with the woman and displaying attractive personality traits (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, charm).

So, always remember this: If you want to be successful with women, you need to start with sexual attraction and everything else flows on naturally after that.

By the way, if you don't know how to make women feel sexually attracted and turned on by you when you begin interacting with them, I recommend that you read by eBook, The Flow, or listen to the brand new audio version, The Flow on Audio.

You'll learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel sexually attracted to you and want to be with you sexually and romantically.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend.

It's the quick way.

It's about getting it done now rather than trying to grow on a woman over time.

You can walk up and talk to a woman and immediately use The Flow on her.

You can use The Flow on a woman that you've made a bad impression on, or you can use The Flow on a woman that you're friends with.

It doesn't matter where you meet her (e.g. at a bar, nightclub, at work, through friends, while ordering food from her as she serves your table at a cafe or restaurant) or how long you've known her.

All you need to do is guide women through The Flow and you will quickly begin having sex and then begin a relationship (if you want that too).

[image: Attracting and picking up women is easy]

It's very easy to do, so if you're not getting the results that you want with women, try The Flow today and see for yourself how easy it really is to attract and pick up women for sex and relationships.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Get a Woman to Like You Instantly

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

So, how do you get a woman to like you instantly?

It's very easy for women to get us to like them instantly because our attraction to them is mostly based on their physical appearance.

[image: Check her out. I'd tap that for sure]

As you may have noticed, men turn their head to look at hot women, and instantly feel attracted to them based on their looks.

[image: Most men feel instant motivation to want to have sex with a woman, simply based on how she looks]

I call it Insta-attraction.

A man can look at a woman and instantly say, "Yep, I'd tap that. Yep, I'd have sex with her. Oh, that's girlfriend material, or marriage material. I'd marry that."

[image: Insta Attraction]

We men instantly feel a lot of attraction for a woman based on her looks.

[image: Insta Attraction]

It doesn't matter what her name is, what she does for a living, what shoes she's wearing.

That stuff doesn't matter.

We look at her physical appearance, and instantly can decide yes or no whether we'd have sex with her.

[image: When sexual attraction is triggered in a man]

If a woman is physically attractive, has a fully developed body, and is of breeding age, almost all men will like her instantly and be willing to have sex with her and possibly even a relationship too.

She doesn't really have to do anything other than be of breeding age, be physically attractive, and have a fully developed body.

Pretty much every guy that sees her will feel sexually attracted to her. He'll instantly feel attracted, and feel motivated to want to have sex with her.

He might say, "I want to have a relationship with her. I want her to be my girlfriend" or, "I would love to marry her and stay with her for life" simply based on her appearance and nothing else about her.

Why do men feel attracted to women so easily?

What's going on at a fundamental level is the primary purpose of sexual attraction, which for men is to plant their seed into a physically attractive woman, who is healthy and of a breeding age.

If a relationship or marriage happens after the sex, then that's great, but that is not the primary purpose of sexual attraction.

The primary purpose of sexual attraction is to get the man to be attracted to the woman, so he then plants his seed and does his part in creating offspring.

Here's an example...

Here are four women lying on the beach in their bikinis.

[image: 4 women in bikinis that you like instantly]

Pretty much every guy on the planet would have sex with all four of these women without even knowing anything else about them other than that they have a fully developed body, they are of breeding age, and they're physically attractive.

[image: 4 women in bikinis that you like instantly]

These four women don't have to do anything other than look the way that they look, and guys will instantly be interested in them.

Pretty much every guy all over the world would be interested in having sex with these women.

All they've got to do is look like that, and guys will instantly feel sexually attracted.

[image: 4 women in bikinis that you like instantly]

Why? Even if a man is a good man and he's thinking of having a relationship with a woman, the sexual attraction that he feels for her is based on planting his seed in her.

[image: The traditional consequences of sex for men vs. women]

Anything else that happens after the sex like a relationship, or a marriage, or happy family is secondary. The primary purpose of sexual attraction is to get him to plant his seed. That's it.

Men are happy to stick it in, blow and whatever happens after that doesn't really matter so much. Due to this, the traditional consequences of sex for men versus women have always been different.

In the past, a man could have sex with a woman and then just leave her without having to worry about paying child support or having to go to court and things like that.

He could go off and plant his seed in other women.

Yet, for women, there's a completely different consequence of sex.

She has to carry the baby for nine months, give birth to the baby, then feed the baby, and then she's going to hope that the man that she has chosen is going to be able to stick around, and support her, and protect her, and make her have a happy life, and love her for life, rather than ending up as a single mother who now has to raise the children on her own.

Raising the children on her own may not seem like a big deal to men, but there's something else that happens to a woman as a result of getting pregnant.

Here are a couple of examples of how a woman's body might look after getting pregnant.

[image: Stretch marks after giving birth]

So she may not be as attractive to men as she was before.

She may have stretch marks, sagging breasts, and her body may not look as good as it used to.

Now, just because there's a risk of pregnancy, it doesn't mean that women don't have sex these days.

In fact, these days, getting to sex is easier than ever.

A study in the UK found that the average amount of men that a woman had sex with before marriage has almost doubled in the last 10 years from an average of 3.7 men to now 7.7 men.

Likewise, an American study found that 55% of couples had sex on the first date, so it's not as if women need to wait a long time before taking the risk to have sex.

A European study found that 70% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand before, which highlights the fact that if the sexual attraction is strong enough, it will lead to instant sex regardless of the potential long-term consequences.

If you want women to like you instantly, you simply need to trigger their feelings of sexual attraction, and then guide them towards kissing and sex.

If you are displaying personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, humor, emotional masculinity), then women are going to feel attracted to you.

That is how it works.

It's not possible for a guy to pick up and attract every woman in the world, but it is possible for a guy to attract a high percentage of the women that he interacts with.

Hoping to Be Noticed

This is where a lot of guys go wrong when it comes to making women like them instantly.

A lot of guys don't understand that most women don't make a decision on who they're going to have sex with simply based on a man's physical appearance.

Some women will have sex with a guy simply based on him being good looking, but the majority of women need to interact with the guy first to find out what type of guy he is.

So, when guys are sitting around thinking, "Why don't women like me? I like them instantly, and I want to have sex with them, but they're not interested in me," they are simply wasting their time.

The reason why women aren't approaching him and trying to pick him up is that most women need to interact with a guy and feel attracted to his personality.

She needs to find out what sort of guy he is.

- Is he a confident guy that can make her feel safe in this world, or is he a nervous guy?
- Does he make her laugh and feel happy, or does he make her feel bored?
- Do people like him or do a lot of people not like him?
- Who is she potentially going to get impregnated by? Will he turn out to be more of a burden than a benefit to her?

The majority of guys just don't understand the different way that men and women feel attracted to each other.

These three guys in the background would happily have sex with her, but she's not going to let all three of these guys blow in her.

[image: Can one of us be with you? Please?]

"Can one of us be with you? Please?"

They'd all happily stick it in her and possibly even get into a relationship with her and marry her, simply because she looks like that.

Yet, she needs to be able to interact with each guy and see if there is a spark there based on how he makes her feel. Is he confident or nervous? Does she feel turned on by his conversation style or does she feel bored and awkward?

She's going to find the right guy for her because even though we have the contraceptive pill and the condom these days, a woman's sexual attraction instinct is based on finding the right mate for her. For example, if the guy on the right is nervous and insecure, the guys on the left are going to be more attractive than him.

If the guy in the middle can't keep a conversation going and keep it interesting because he's nervous around her and he doubts himself, the guy on the left guy is going to be more attractive.

However, if she liked him, then the rejected guys will usually think, "Oh, she must think that he's good-looking" and conclude that they need to improve their physical appearance.

Yet, the truth is that most women make their decision on who they're going to have sex with based on the guy's personality, behavior, and inner qualities.

Is he a confident guy or a nervous guy? Does he make her laugh and smile and feel good, or does he make her feel bored and awkward? Would she feel safe and protected with him in this world, or would she actually need to take care of him because he's a bit of a wuss, and a bit insecure, and doesn't feel confident in social situations?

That is what really matters to most women because of the potential consequences of having sex with a guy (i.e. getting pregnant, having to be in a relationship with him).

Women like this don't really need to do much other than look the way that they look.

A guy will already be interested in her and be willing to have sex with her simply based on how she looks.

She is a physically attractive woman with a fully developed body of breeding age, and as a result, a man's attraction for her is automatically triggered.

Just by looking at her, he feels motivated to want to talk to her and guide her towards sex.

If anything else happens after sex, like a relationship or potentially a marriage, that is a bonus.

However, what is driving the guy to want to talk to the woman is his natural instinct to want to plant his seed inside of an attractive woman who is healthy and has a fully developed body of breeding age. Have a look at these four women frolicking along the beach here.

[image: Women in bikinis frolicking along the beach]

Most guys would have sex with all of those women or most of those women and if we turned three of those women around and had a look at their butt, pretty much every guy would stick it in each of those women happily.

[image: Thigh gap bikini]

It doesn't matter if she doesn't want a relationship afterwards. It doesn't matter what she does for a living. It doesn't matter how good she is at keeping a conversation going.

A guy just wants to stick it in there.

Even if a guy wants to have a relationship with her afterwards or wants to get married to her, the attraction that he's feeling is based on planting his seed inside of one of those holes.

If you have a look at these women here, you don't know anything about them, but you'd mostly have sex with that one on the left there, maybe the blonde one in the middle, and maybe even the one on the right even though you can't fully see her.

[image: More women that you like instantly]

How about these four women?

[image: More women that you like instantly]

Again, most guys will stick it in each of those.

It doesn't matter if she doesn't want a relationship afterwards, doesn't matter if she's good at keeping conversations going, doesn't matter what she does for a living.

She is a physically attractive woman with a fully developed body of breeding age, so a man's attraction is triggered instantly.

Guys can feel that Insta-attraction for women because we don't need her to take care of us, and make us feel protected and safe in this world.

We essentially don't need her to do anything other than take our sperm and produce some children. Everything else in addition to that, such as dating, hanging out and laughing and having a good time is all bonus stuff. It's the cherry on top.

However, what's going on at a fundamental level when a guy feels that Insta-attraction for a woman is, "Oh, I'd like to plant my seed in that" because that's what it's really all about.

He might say to his friend, "Oooh, I'd like to have sex with her. I'd bang her. I'd tap that," but what's really going on is he instantly feels attracted to her based on her physical appearance, her being physically attractive, having a fully developed body, and being of breeding age and his body says, "Plant your seed in that."

He might then say, "I want to have a relationship with her too. I might even want to get married to her. I'd love to take her on holidays."

Great.

All that stuff is fantastic.

However, the attraction that he's feeling instantly, and the motivation that he has to want to be with her is simply based on how she looks. She doesn't have to do anything else, but look like that.

This is the main difference between how men and women feel attracted to each other.

[image: Men checking out a woman's butt]

Men can stand around dressed up in suits, and they can have a great job, but unless they actually go over and interact with a woman, and make her feel attracted and turned on during a conversation, she's most likely not going to do anything about it.

In most cases, a woman is not going to come over to him and say, "I like you. I want to have sex with you," and try to hit on him, pick him up and take him home.

Some women do that if the guy is very good looking, or he's rich, or he's famous or whatever, but the majority of women do not do that, because they don't want to mistakenly approach a guy who's only confident because she approached him.

[image: Can one of us bang you?]

This happens all over the world where guys feel Insta-attraction for women, and they wonder, "Why don't women like me the way that I like them? I like her instantly. How can I get her to like me instantly? I've got to try to wear a better shirt or something. Maybe I should go to the gym. Maybe I should get a better job, then she's going to like me."

No.

The secret is to actually interact with the woman and make her feel attracted and turned on during a conversation.

Guys can sit around and look at women walking past and feel Insta-attraction for them, but nothing is going to happen unless one of these guys talks to her, makes her feel attracted, and then guides her towards sex.

She's not going to turn around and say, "Ohh, hello, you two handsome men. Can either of you bang me? Are either of you single? Can I take you out sometime?"

She's just going to walk along and wait for a confident guy to interact with her, make her feel attracted, and then guide her towards sex.

If the guy triggers her feelings of attraction when he interacts with her by being confident, funny, charming and charismatic, then she's going to have sex with him on the first night that she meets him or on the first date, second date or third date.

She's then going to hope that one day she doesn't end up as a single mother or in a relationship with an guy who has becoming increasingly insecure, needy, controlling and jealous over time.

However, regardless of the possible negative consequences of having sex with a new man, a woman can't stop herself from feeling attracted when a guy interacts with her and displays traits that make her feel sexually attracted.

Guys can make women feel instantly attracted to them if they interact with women and display trait such as confidence, charisma, charm, humor, emotional masculinity, social intelligence and so on.

All a guy has to do is to interact with a woman, and let her experience his attractive personality traits, behaviors, and inner qualities.

If a guy does that, a woman will feel attracted to him instantly.

The reason why a lot of guys fail when they try to get a woman to like them instantly is that they present traits that don't make the woman feel sexually attracted and turned on.

For the guy, he's able to look at a woman and say, "Yep, I like her. I like the way she looks. I'm interested. Let's see what we can do with this."

However, for the woman, she needs to be able to feel sexually attracted and turned on by the guy based on how he talks to her, and reacts to her, how he responds to her.

When she tests his confidence by playing hard-to-get, how does he react? Does he become nervous and doubt himself, or does he remain confident?

Is he an emotionally strong man that she could rely on if she hooked up with him, or is he a nervous, insecure guy that she would need to take care of?

Here's an example to put it in perspective for you.

Have a look at these two male identical twins.

[image: Which twin is more attractive to women?]

Which one of these twins is going to turn women on more?

Twin number one is friendly, but a little bit shy. He doubts that the woman will like him, and holds back on using humor and being his real self around her because he's afraid of being judged or rejected by her.

In other words, he puts on an act of being someone that he's not, and hopes to be chosen for being a nice guy.

On the other hand, twin number two is confident, charismatic, charming, and funny. He expresses himself in a confident masculine way during conversation, and lets his real unfiltered personality come through.

Both of them essentially look the same, but they have different personality traits and behaviors. One is a little bit shy and insecure, and the other guy is confident and charismatic because he lets his real personality come through. Which of the identical twins is going to be more sexually attractive to women? Obviously, it's twin number two.

[image: Which twin is more attractive to women?]

Twin number two will be more sexually attractive because women are attracted to the emotional strengths of men such as confidence and high self-esteem, and turned off by emotional weaknesses such as shyness, insecurity, and self-doubt.

So, why are women sexually attracted and turned on by a guy's emotional strength while they interact with him?

The way that a woman's attraction works is that she instinctively tries to find a guy who is emotionally strong and can handle the challenges of life, rather than hooking up with a guy who she will need to protect and take care of.

She wants a man that she can rely on rather than having to be the emotionally strong one, and take care of her guy the way that a mother would take care of her son or that a big sister would take care of her little brother.

Even though women can feel attracted to a man's looks, the majority of women make their decision on who they're going to have sex with based on how the guy makes her feel during an interaction.

As you may have noticed, a woman might be talking to a guy and getting along well with him, but as he begins to display some insecurity during the conversation, she loses interest and then becomes interested in another guy.

[image: Rejected due to a lack of confidence]

The other guy doesn't even have to be the most confident guy in the world, but he is making her feel attracted by being more confident than the guy she was speaking to.

He can then also make her feel more attracted to him by making her laugh, being charming, being charismatic and so on.

This is a fact about attraction that most guys simply don't understand or accept.

Most guys go through life thinking that women feel attracted to men in the same way that men feel attracted to women.

In other words, we feel attracted to women instantly and when women don't like us back instantly, we assume that it must be because we're not good looking enough, but that isn't how it works.

To make a woman like you instantly, you need to interact with her and display traits that make women feel sexually attracted and turned on (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, emotional masculinity).

That's not to say that a guy can pick every woman in the world if he simply displays attractive traits during a conversation.

What it means is that a guy can attract most, many, or at least a high percentage of the women that he meets, including beautiful women, by displaying personality traits, behaviors, and inner qualities that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, being funny, being emotionally masculine, having social intelligence, being charming and charismatic).

Planting Our Seed is the Real Purpose of Sexual Attraction

Even if a guy doesn't want to impregnate a woman or have a family or anything like that, his attraction is still based on a simple question, "Would I plant my seed in that? Do I want to plant my seed in her? Is she good enough to have my seed?" It's basically a yes or no answer.

"Is she healthy looking? Is she going to be able to carry a child, and give birth to that child, and then be around long enough to take care of that child?"

All of that analysis is done by our body and our instincts instantly, even if a guy doesn't want to have babies or start a family.

Basically, our attraction is based on the simple question of, "Would I plant my seed in that?"

However, for women, it's based on a different question.

When she's presented with a guy, she has to ask the question, "Would I let him plant his seed in me?"

She needs to interact with him and find out what sort of guy he is.

- Is he going to be the sort of guy that she can rely on?
- Is she going to feel safe with him?
- Is he an emotionally strong man who can get along with other people, or is he an emotionally weak man who is going to need her to keep pushing him along and encouraging him, and basically taking on the role of a mother with her son or a big sister with her little brother?
- Is he a man that she can look up to and rely on, or is he the sort of guy that she's going to have to take care of?

The majority of guys use the wrong approach when they try to get a woman to like them instantly.

A guy will start interacting with a woman and will try to show her that he's a nice guy, a good guy and that he's got good intentions.

He'll try to show a woman that he's intelligent and he just wants to do the right thing with her. He will treat her right, respect her and be completely honest and sincere with her.

He's essentially trying to communicate to her, "Hey, look – I'm a good guy, I'm friendly. You can rely on me. You can trust me. I like you. Let's try to get something happening here," but what is missing is the most important step of all, which is to make the woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by him, which is not based on him only being nice to her.

Being a nice, good guy is great, but women only care about that if you first make them feel sexually attracted and turned on. If she doesn't feel a sexual spark with you, she doesn't care that you're nice.

If you want to get laid or get a girlfriend, you've got to make sure that she feels sexual attracted to you, so her instincts are saying, “Yes, this is a guy that you can breed with.”

Even if she doesn’t want to have babies, or start a family or anything like that, her attraction is based on her instincts saying, “Yes, this is a good potential mate.”

What a lot of guys don’t understand is that women really do appreciate it if a guy is nice, has good intentions and is intelligent. However, those things don’t matter to a woman prior to her feeling that instinctive sexual attraction for him.

When nice guys don’t understand that simple fact, they assume that women must want bad boys who treat them badly.

Yet, that is just not true.

You do not need to be a bad boy to attract women.

If you want to make a woman like you instantly, you simply need to display personality traits that actually attract women, rather than trying to be liked for being nice.

For example: Women from all over the world are sexually attracted to guys who are confident, masculine, funny, unpredictable, charming, sexual, charismatic, and socially intelligent.

So, if you want to get a woman to like you instantly, you just need to display some or all of those traits during a conversation.

If you don’t know what to say or do to display those traits when you’re interacting with women, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the brand new audio book version, The Flow on Audio.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend, and the best thing of all is that most guys do not know about this.

Most guys think that they either have to be really nice to a woman, be very polite, try to show her that they’ve got good intentions and THEN they might be able to get a chance with her.

Alternatively, other guys assume that they have to be really good looking, really rich and famous, have a perfect body, have a huge dick, drive a sports car, have a luxury yacht and THEN maybe women will like them.

No.

It’s much more simple than that.

All you have to do to get a woman to like you instantly is start an interaction with her and display traits that make her feel sexual attraction.

The best way to do that is not to stand around or sit around hoping that women notice you because of your unique look, or hoping that you’re wearing the right shirt or have finally got the right haircut now.

[image: Why don't women like me instantly?]

The best way to get a woman to like you instantly and then want to be your girlfriend or at least have sex with you is to talk to her and make her feel attracted during the conversation.

You can do that by displaying traits that naturally make women feel attracted and turned on by a guy. You can actually do that.

The amount of attraction that a woman feels for you is pretty much within your control.

A guy can’t pick up every woman in the world by making women feel attracted to his personality behavior and inner qualities.

However, he can pick up most, many, or at least a high percentage of the women that he meets, if he's able to actively make women feel attracted to him by displaying traits that make women feel attracted and turned on.

The better a guy is at displaying confidence and getting women laughing, and being charismatic and charming, the higher quality of woman that he's going to be able to attract and keep.

If you want to make women like you instantly, you must focus on making them feel attracted while you talk to them.

You've got to display traits that make women feel attracted and turned on.

As soon as you start doing that with one or two or three women, you'll realize that most women are way easier to attract and pick up than they make themselves out to be.

A lot of women act like they're really hard to get and that no guy could ever have sex with her.

Women act like a guy will have to jump through all sorts of hoops before he gets a chance with her.

However, all it usually takes is a spark of attraction and then the guy simply needs to build on that attraction and guide the woman towards kissing, sex and into a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Do Men Want Sex More Than Women?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

On the surface, it seems like men want sex way more than women do.

Most women go through life in off mode and don't really chase sex like men do.

[image: Do men want sex more than women?]

The way that it works is that women need to be activated or switched on when you interact with them.

On the other hand, we men can be immediately activated and switched on simply based on a woman's physical appearance.

[image: Yep, I'd tap that]

We can see a woman walking along and say, "Yep, I'd tap that. Oh, look at that butt. Look at those legs. I'd definitely have sex with her."

Some guys may even say "marriage material" or "girlfriend material" without knowing anything about her other than how she looks.

[image: Check her out. I'd tap that for sure]

We men can be instantly activated because what we're looking for from a woman is a place to plant our seed.

We need a physically attractive woman with a fully developed body, who's of breeding age, and we need her to be healthy.

[image: Insta Attraction]

When we see that, our attraction triggers.

It may sound superficial, but attraction is a primal instinct.

We instantly feel attracted when we see those features in a woman.

However, a woman doesn't react to men in the same way.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

It's only when a guy interacts with a woman and displays personality traits, behaviors, and inner qualities that attract her that she then opens up and is interested.

[image: Men on the lookout for a place to plant their seed]

As a woman walks through life, most guys are just guys to her.

Nothing about them makes her feel turned on enough to want to approach the guy and have sex with him.

Some women can feel that motivation when they see a very handsome guy and say, "Wow, I've got to go and talk to him." However, those women are the minority.

The majority of women do not feel enough motivation simply based on the man's physical appearance.

[image: Most men feel instant motivation to want to have sex with a woman, simply based on how she looks]

Most men go through life in on mode and will turn their head to look at a woman's butt or just walk through life checking out women left, right and center.

On the surface, it may seem like men are way more interested in sex than women are.

However, that is not the case at all.

[image: The desire for sex is equal, but the path to sex is different]

The desire for sex is equal, but the path to sex is different for men and women.

Most men feel ready and willing to have sex with a woman immediately, whereas women need to interact with a guy to find out what kind of guy he is first.

So, don't ever think that women don't want sex as much as you do.

[image: Women want sex just as much as men]

The reason why there is so many humans on the planet is that men want women and women want men.

Men and women have been breeding for a long time and have created all these humans on the planet.

Women are having just as much sex as men.

What guys need to understand is that most women are passive when it comes to dating.

[image: Most women are passive when it comes to dating]

Most women are happy to stay back, wait and hope that they get approached by a confident guy who's going to create a spark of attraction and then guide her from a conversation to kissing, sex and enter a relationship.

Most women aren't active.

Most women don't go out actively approaching men and trying to get laid or get a boyfriend.

One of the fundamental reasons why is that the main attraction motivation for women is not a guy's physical appearance.

It's true that women can appreciate a guy's physical appearance and they can even feel attracted to a handsome man.

However, for the majority of women, that is not the most important thing to them.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

The majority of women place way more importance on how a guy makes her feel attracted as he interacts with her.

Some guys know how to make women feel that way and some guys don't.

You might have noticed that some guys are able to walk over to a woman and immediately create a spark of attraction with her.

The guy starts flirting with her and the woman is laughing and she then starts touching him or is open to hugging and kissing.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

They might then exchange phone numbers or have sex that night or have sex on the first or second date and then begin a relationship.

On the other hand, you might have also noticed that other guys walk over to women and don't create a spark at all.

[image: Using a boring, nice guy approach]

They start talking to her and just being neutral and friendly and having a polite conversation and there's no spark there.

The guy feels attracted to her because he's experiencing what I call Insta Attraction.

It's that instant motivation that we feel attracted enough to a woman to want to talk to her, get her phone number, kiss her, have sex with her and maybe even start a relationship simply based on her looking physically attractive.

If a guy is able to create a spark with women that he meets, he's going to have higher standards than a guy who doesn't know how to create a spark.

[image: Create a spark of attraction, connect and then escalate to sex]

For a guy who knows how to interact with women and create feelings of sexual attraction, he's usually going to be a lot more picky.

He's not going to just accept a woman because she looks good.

She's also going to need to be nice and friendly and maybe he might also say intelligent and interesting and funny and whatever other standard he might want to put in place.

However, the majority of guys in this world are absolutely motivated and will go all the way to having sex with a woman simply based on her appearance.

They don't care what she does for a living. They don't care if she likes a certain sport or has a certain hobby.

That stuff simply doesn't matter to the majority of guys.

The majority of guys will happily put up with whatever type of conversation she wants to talk about as long as he gets to stick it in at the end of the night, on the first date or on the second date.

As a result, it may look like men want sex more than women, but what's really going on is that most men don't know how to make women feel sexually attracted when they talk to them.

You see, for women, it's as easy as looking good and most guys are going to want to have sex with her.

[image: Attracting women for sex is easy]

Whereas, for men, it's as easy as displaying the type of personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women and the woman will be attracted and interested.

For example: Women all over the world are attracted to men who are confident, masculine, funny, charming, charismatic and socially intelligent.

Those traits naturally attract women, but most guys don't actively try to display that when they interact with a woman.

[image: Trying to attract women with niceness and kindness]

The majority of guys interact with a woman and they display traits like niceness, politeness, academic intelligence and friendliness.

A guy tries to show a woman that he's a good guy and he's friendly and he's nice and he doesn't want anything sexual. He just wants to talk to her and get to know her.

He feels attracted to her, but he's not making her feel attracted to him.

He's making her feel neutral or friendly around him. Therefore, there's no sexual spark and there's no motivation for her to want to give him her phone number, kiss him, have sex with him, go on a date with him or start a relationship with him.

Some guys interact with women and try to get laid or get a girlfriend, but don't get much of a response from women.

[image: Trying to get laid with a sleazy or drunken approach]

A guy will start talking to a woman and she might be a bit closed up, might not contribute a lot to the conversation and might even tell him to go away.

He might then walk away thinking, What's wrong with women? Do women actually want to have sex? Do they want to have a boyfriend? Am I not good-looking enough? Am I not rich enough? Am I not tall enough? What do I have to do to get these girls interested?

[image: I want her. Why doesn't she want me?]

However, when the guy talks to the woman, he's not actually doing anything to create a spark of sexual attraction.

He's just hoping and expecting that the woman is going to feel a spark with him magically, that there's going to be something between them without him having to do anything.

Sometimes that can happen, but it's very rare.

Sometimes it can happen for a very handsome man if a woman is really interested in looks. However, with most women what a guy needs to do is actively create the spark based on how he's talking to her, how he behaves and the overall vibe that he creates in the interaction.

[image: 1 to 2 minutes of actively making her feel attracted and you're in]

With most women, all it usually takes is 1 to 2 minutes of actively making her feel a sexual spark and her guard will completely come down, she'll open up to you and she'll be interested in seeing where it goes.

Even though women don't admit it, most women have experienced a one-night stand before and most women usually have sex on the first date or the second date.

For example: There was a study in America which found that 55% of couples had sex on the first date.

[image: Getting to sex]

Another study in Europe found that 70% of women had experienced a one-night stand.

A study in the U.K. found that the average amount of men that a woman had sex with before marriage has almost doubled in the last 10 years from an average of 3.7 men to now 7.7 men.

In other words, sex happens a lot these days and it happens very quickly even if women don't go around acting like they want sex or talking about sex or actively chasing sex.

Sex does happen, but it requires a guy to actively create a spark with a woman. When you can actively create a sexual spark with a woman, she is going to be interested in you in a sexual way.

All you've got to do then is guide her through what I call The Flow.

The Flow is the easiest way to get laid and get a girlfriend. If you don't know what to say or do to make women feel sexually attracted to you and romantically interested in you, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the audio version, The Flow on Audio.

A lot of guys go through life thinking that women don't want sex and that it's going to be really difficult to get a woman to have sex.

However, it's actually very easy. These days, sex happens on the first night, first date or second date for most couples.

[image: Attracting and picking up women is easy]

All you've got to do is actively create a spark with a woman and then guide her towards sex or towards a relationship as well if that's what you and her want.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Beating Women at Their Own Game

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Most women have got their dating game sorted out.

They've got their makeup tricks where a woman can go from looking like a 5 out of 10 to a 7 out of 10, an 8 out of 10 or even a 9 out of 10, by putting on some makeup.

Women can show a little bit of cleavage and guys heads are going to start turning.

[image: Instant attraction for her tits]

We're going to look and say, "Oh, look at those tits." They're going to get our attention.

For a woman, it's as easy as looking good and most guys are going to want to have sex with her.

[image: Look good and most guys will want to bang her]

For us men, it's as easy as making women feel attracted when we're interacting with them and most women will be sexually interested.

We men can actively make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by what we're saying and doing during an interaction.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

When a guy is able to do that, he will then begin to enjoy his choice of women because most of the women that he talks to are going to feel attracted and interested in him.

[image: Normal, everyday guys can attract women by creating a spark during an interaction]

It's not possible for one man to attract all the women in the world and be able to pick up any woman that he sees, but for a guy who knows how to make women feel sexually attracted and turned on during a conversation, he can attract most of the women that he interacts with.

So, when it comes to the dating game, women know what they need to do.

It's pretty simple.

Look good and act friendly and most guys are going to be interested in having sex with her and seeing where it goes.

However, how does a man beat a woman at a game that she's so good at? How can a normal everyday guy be in the position of power where he is able to have his choice of women?

How can a normal, everyday guy have most of the women that he meets feel sexually attracted to him and interested in being with him?

It's very easy to beat women at their own game, but the three main mistakes that prevent men from doing it are:

1. A lack of preparation.
2. Building desperation.
3. Hope based on fiction.

So let's begin with number one...

1. A lack of preparation.

When a woman is walking around with makeup on and has made herself look physically attractive, she's prepared for success.

[image: Women prepared for attraction success due to make up]

She's making herself look attractive to the opposite sex by focussing on what will make men want to have sex with her; her looks.

However, if a guy feels attracted to her, walks up and talks to her in a friendly way and tries to have a polite conversation, she's not going to feel the same way that he does.

Women do appreciate it if a guy is friendly and polite, but that isn't what makes her have sexual feelings for him. He's got to display personality traits that women actually find sexually attractive (e.g. confidence, charisma, emotional masculinity, the ability to get her laughing, charm).

Unless a guy is a celebrity, a male model or is super rich and powerful in society, he will usually need to actively CREATE a spark of attraction inside of the woman to make her feel motivated to want to be with him.

A guy simply can't just be nice and expect a woman to say, "Wow, you're nice...like every other guy! You want to bang me just like every other guy, but hey – I'll let you have a go."

He's got to actively make her feel a spark of sexual attraction as he talks to her, rather than just trying to show her that he's a nice, friendly, trustworthy guy.

Additionally, in most cases, a woman isn't going to simply want a guy because he looks good or is wearing nice clothes.

A woman may notice those things about him, but it will rarely make her feel motivated enough to want to approach him and pick him up.

Most guys don't know that women place less importance on looks than men do.

It's true that women can feel attracted to a handsome guy, a rich guy, a guy with lots of status in the society, but it's also true that women can feel attracted and turned on when a guy displays certain personality traits and behaviors during an interaction.

For example: If a guy starts interacting with a woman and is being nervous, doubting himself, trying to engage her in polite conversation and just being friendly, nothing about that is going to turn her on.

[image: Nervous, insecure guy hesitates and turns woman off]

She's going to be turned off by his emotional weakness (i.e. nervous, doubting himself).

Women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength in men such as confidence and high self-esteem, and turned off by emotional weakness such as insecurity and self-doubt.

Here's the thing...

The nervous guy might interact with her, get a bad reaction and then walk away thinking that he's not good looking enough.

However, if he had just talked to her and displayed personality traits that make women feel sexually attracted, he would have got a completely different reaction.

For example: If he was confident, funny, charming and charismatic, the woman would have felt attracted. She would have opened up to him and he could then connect with her and pick her up. The majority of guys out there are unprepared for interactions that they have with women that they find attractive.

[image: Unprepared to approach and attract women]

For a guy, he can look at a woman and find her attractive simply based on her appearance.

It doesn't matter what she says, what she does for a living, what her hobbies are, what brand of shoes she's wearing or where she got her dress. All that doesn't matter.

He's feeling attracted to her physical appearance, and regardless of what she says, he's attracted to her and he wants something to happen.

Some guys have much higher standards than others, but the majority of guys will be interested in a woman sexually simply based on their physical appearance.

[image: Young, hot women at the beach]

If he talks to her and she's being friendly towards him, he'll want something to happen.

It's pretty much as simple as that for a woman to get laid. Look good, be nice and most men will want to bang her and have a relationship with her.

[image: Check her out. I'd tap that for sure]

That's why you will see women walking through the world and men will look at her and immediately say, "Yep. I'd tap that. I'd marry that. Oh, girlfriend material. Marriage material. Oh, I'd do anything to be with her. I'd buy her whatever she wants if just gives me a chance with her."

Yet women don't have the same reaction to men.

It's true that you can see some women looking at very handsome men and saying, "He's handsome. He's sexy," but if that guy talks to women and is nervous, self-doubting and doesn't really make them feel reacted to his personality, most women will feel turned off by him and won't want to be with him.

[image: Good looking guy rejected. Average guy gets the girl]

The great thing about how a woman's attraction works is that it's not purely based on looks.

Some women are very picky and focus a lot on looks, but they are the minority.

The majority of women place much more importance on how a guy makes her feel while he interacts with her.

In other words, does his personality and behavior turn her on, make her feel happy, make her feel connected with him, make her feel excited, make her feel like she wants to be with him sexually and romantically, or does his personality turn her off?

[image: Guys being rejected because they're not actively making the woman feel attracted]

Does he bore her? Does he make her only feel friendly or neutral feelings?

That is what really matters.

It's about how you make the woman feel as you talk to her.

The majority of guys have no idea how to actively attract a woman when they interact with her.

They're completely unprepared, and that is a huge opportunity for you.

When you are one of the rare guys who know how to actively make a woman feel sexually attracted while you talk to her, you have your choice of women.

You can beat women at their own game.

It doesn't matter if she's wearing makeup and she looks two or three points hotter than she actually is. You are making her feel intense sexual attraction and she wants to be with you.

She's looking at you as being an attractive man who she'd feel lucky to be with.

For the guys reading this post who have ever picked up a hottie from a club who's wearing makeup, and you then get her back home and she jumps in the shower and her makeup comes off, you'd know that women with makeup look completely different when their makeup comes off.

[image: Women before and after make up]

What they do when they paint that stuff on their face, tricks our instinct of attraction.

[image: Women before and after make up]

We usually feel so much more attracted to a woman with make up on because her face looks clean, perfect and radiant, which attracts us because it looks healthy and youthful.

We feel attracted to a more youthful, healthy appearance in a woman because it means she may produce healthier children and be around long enough to raise them and take care of them.

So, when a woman paints her face with make up, we our attraction instinct tells us that she is physically good looking, healthy, of a good age and ready for breeding.

However, that's just superficial game, and the majority of women know that they aren't as attractive as they make themselves up to be when they put on makeup and they do their hair and things like that.

These women are still hot and attractive, but if you want to beat them at their own game, you need to remember that women know what they REALLY look when they roll out of bed in the morning.

Because of that, a lot of women are actually insecure about their physical appearance.

[image: Modern women insecure about their appearance]

Some guys might enjoy to hear that women are insecure and say, "Yeah...suck that women...you stuck up bitches. You've been rejecting me all my life...you deserve to be insecure!"

However, a better approach to take is to actually feel sorry for women who feel insecure about their appearance, because they don't need to be insecure.

They are beautiful, they are attractive, but it's just this superficial stuff that goes on in modern culture where guys are expected to have six pack abs, and women are expected to have booty, and fake tits and all that sort of stuff.

[image: Pressure placed on modern women to have exaggerated features]

The majority of women that you meet will be insecure about their looks in some way or another.

They usually don't show that when they're interacting with guys because the woman will try to play hard-to-get to make the guy really work hard to pick her up.

Yet, when she notices that he's working really hard to impress her and that he's desperate to get a chance with her, she'll start to lose attraction and respect for him because he seems a little bit desperate.

[image: Guy placing a woman way above himself in terms of attractive value]

Women do want a guy that wants them, likes them and treats them well, but they are only interested if the guy is confident in himself and his attractiveness and value to her.

Based on a lot of superficial trends that go on in modern society, both men and women feel insecure about their attractiveness these days.

Men feel like they need to be 6ft tall with muscles and six pack abs. They need to have a sports car or luxury yacht, a high flying career or business, a massive dick and a full head of hair, and THEN they will be attractive to women.

Women go through life and they look at advertising billboards, advertising on TV, advertising in magazines and see these perfectly airbrushed women who look amazing because they've been Photoshopped.

[image: Airbrushed and photoshopped woman]

A woman then wakes up in the morning and looks at herself in the mirror.

She's got a scar on her face somewhere, she's got pimples, she's got freckles, she's got lines and wrinkles, and her face isn't as perfect as the women that are supposedly the most beautiful women in the world who've been airbrushed.

[image: Fake make up beauty that tricks our mind]

When women put on their makeup and make themselves look even more physically attractive, a lot of guys get intimidated, because they look at the woman's physical appearance and then say, "Wow. She's so beautiful, she's so attractive and look at me. I'm nothing. I'm just an average or below average looking guy. I don't have a special amazing appearance like her."

Yet, what these guys don't realize is that a guy can make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by him during an interaction, even if she looks amazing with her make up on or sexy with her cleavage out on displaying.

However, if a guy isn't prepared to actively attract a woman during a conversation, he is most likely only going to make women feel friendly or neutral feelings, and there's going to be no spark between them.

2. Building desperation.

Most guys have no trouble attracting the interest of women that they're not actually interacted to and interested in (e.g. an unattractive woman or woman who's already taken and just wants to flirt with him for a bit of fun, a female friend, a coworker, etc).

However, when it comes to the women that a guy really finds attractive and wants to be with, he doesn't really know what to do to make those women feel attracted to him as well.

If a guy goes through many months or years of his life and isn't able to get laid or get a girlfriend with the types of women that he really wants to be with, it can start to lead to feelings of desperation.

[image: Why can't I get a girlfriend or at least get laid?]

He may then begin to think about lowering his standards in women just so he can get laid or get a girlfriend.

He might start to look at women who aren't that attractive and think, "Well, maybe that's all I can get. Maybe I need to accept that."

Sometimes a guy will then get into a relationship with a woman that he's not even that attracted to, and he'll waste two, three, four years of his life, and he might even accidentally get her pregnant and then regret it.

He will then need to pay child support to her for life just because he wanted to get laid or get a girlfriend and desperately accepted a woman that he didn't even want to be with anyway.

A guy like that wants to be able to beat women at their own game and have his choice of women, but he just doesn't have the ability to attract women when he interacts with them.

Women can easily make him feel attracted by looking physically attractive, but he doesn't know how to create a spark inside of a woman when he talks to her.

[image: Insta Attraction]

He will look women and think, "Yep, I'd bang her. I'd tap that. She's got a nice ass. Ohh, she's got a nice face and nice legs...nice tits. Beautiful. I want her."

It's just so easy for him to feel attracted to women because man's attraction to women is initially just based on the woman's looks.

If she looks attractive, has a fully developed body of breeding age and is healthy, men will automatically want to have sex with her.

A guy will walk through life feeling attracted to women all day long, but he will have no idea how to make them feel attracted to him.

If he talks to women, he will just be nice and friendly and hope that the woman likes him, but because he's not actively making her feel sexually attracted and turned on during the conversation, she will most likely just see him as yet another guy who would like to bang her.

So, if a guy wants to avoid feeling desperate and accepting a woman that he doesn't even really want to be with, he needs to make sure that he's prepared to succeed.

Women are prepared to succeed with their makeup tricks and by showing a bit of cleavage or wearing a short skirt. They've got their game sorted out and under control.

However, what a man needs to do is not wear makeup or wear a short skirt and try to attract women in that way.

[image: Interact with her and create a spark]

What a man needs to do is interact with a woman, and display personality traits that naturally attract women.

For example: Confidence, charisma, charm, being funny, being socially intelligent.

If a guy interacts with a woman and only shows her personality traits like niceness, politeness, academic intelligence and generosity, the woman isn't going to feel turned on.

Women do appreciate those traits in a guy, but only after the guy triggers her feelings of sexual attraction by displaying personality traits that actually make women feel attracted and turned on.

[image: Attract her while you talk to her]

What guys need to understand is that a woman's attraction for a man is mostly based on how he makes her feel when he interacts with her.

Some women do place a lot of importance on looks and some women will only accept the rich guy. Yeah, we all know that.

However, the majority of women in this world place way more importance on how a guy makes her feel when he interacts with her.

If a guy doesn't know how to attract women during an interaction, he will find that most of the women that he interacts with don't feel attracted to him and are not motivated to want to be with him.

If he remains single and alone for a long time, he may get to the point where he thinks that he needs to lower his standards and accept an unattractive woman.

Yet, he is wrong.

He does not have to accept an unattractive woman.

Normal, everyday guys can naturally attract women by interacting with them, and making them feel attracted during the interaction.

A guy can display traits like confidence, charisma, charm, and social intelligence and naturally attract the woman.

If a guy doesn't know how to do that during an interaction, he's not going to be able to beat women at their own game.

Most of the women that he interacts with won't feel a spark for him, and he will get rejected or placed in the friend zone.

3. Hope based on fiction.

[image: Hope based on fiction]

We've all seen those Hollywood movies where the guy who doesn't know how to attract women gets a beautiful woman by the end of the movie.

He saves the day or he saves her from a bad, evil boyfriend or he saves the world and then he gets the hot girl in the end.

We've also seen those romantic movies where the guy is just friends with the woman, she eventually starts to like him and then they get into a relationship, fall in love and live happily ever after.

If a guy sees enough of that on TV and in the movies, he may begin to hope for his own type of magical success.

"Maybe one day I'll meet the right girl. She will be beautiful, she'll be intelligent, she'll be down to earth, and she'll love me for who I am. She'll love me because I'm intelligent. She'll love me because I have good intentions with her, and everything will just work out so beautifully and easily."

Here's the thing though...

People who are successful in this life don't hope for success and then sit around doing nothing about it.

The most successful people in this world either naturally understand the right things to do, or they learn the right things to do, and then do those things so they can get the result that they want.

[image: Attract her while you talk to her]

For example: Guys who can effortlessly pick out women wherever they go, they know how to start a conversation. They know how to keep the conversation going. They know how to make women feel instantly attracted when they start talking to them.

They know how to make her feel more sexually attracted and turned on as the interaction continues. They know how to move in for a kiss.

They know how to get her home for sex or get her phone number. They know what to do. And they just do the right thing and then get the results.

However, guys who struggle to get laid or to get a girlfriend, don't really know what to do.

Some guys know how to start a conversation, but don't really know what to say after asking typical, boring questions like, "What do you do for a living? What's your name? Where are you from? What shoes are you wearing? Where did you get that dress? Oh, your hair is nice. Where did you get that done?"

They don't really know what to say past that.

The guy is simply hoping that the woman is going to feel attracted to him because he's a nice, friendly guy, but what he doesn't understand is that being nice and friendly to a woman isn't the thing that makes a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on.

Women do want a good guy, but they only really care if a guy is a good guy AFTER he makes her feel sexually attracted.

If a guy is just being a friendly, good guy and isn't creating any type of sexual spark between him and the woman, then she's just going to look at him as yet another guy who wants to bang her.

He's one of the thousands, millions, hundreds of millions of guys who would happily stick it in her.

She doesn't feel any spark for him, but he feels it for her, because our attraction to woman is initially based on their physical appearance.

We can feel more attracted to a woman as we interact with her and get to know her personality, and we like certain things about her (e.g. maybe she's cute and giggly, and funny, and intelligent, and interesting and down to earth, etc).

However, what attracts us to women initially is their physical appearance, and for most guys, a woman's physical appearance is enough for the guy to want to have sex with her and start a relationship.

On the other hand, for a woman, it's not enough for a guy to just look good.

This is why if you go out to a bar or a night club, you'll see guys standing around alone not being approached by women.

[image: Guys in suits hoping to get some action, but not actually approaching]

These guys will have done their best to build up their muscles in the gym and will be wearing great clothes, have styled their hair to match the latest trends and have expensive shoes on.

Then, they will just stand around try to look good in the hope that they will somehow get some results with women.

Women may look at those guys and say, "Hey, look at that guy. He's handsome. Oh, that guy looks sexy. That guy is tall. That guy has got nice muscles," but the women will rarely, if ever, walk over and try to pick the guy up.

If a woman does that, she's usually very drunk or she's unattractive, or she's just showing off to her friends for a bit of fun.

For the most part though, women will stand around and they'll look good, and they'll wait for a guy to walk over and make them feel attracted.

Create a spark either at the very start of the conversation or within the first 10 to 30 seconds, the women will be looking to see if there's a spark.

If there is a spark, their eyes light up, they open up, they become interested in the conversation, and then the guy just needs to build on their feelings of sexual attraction, and he can then have his choice of those women or focus on one or two of them, or just one of them, and pick them up.

So let me ask you a question...

If you went out tomorrow and you saw a beautiful woman, would you know what to say and do to get her to feel attracted to you if you approached her, or are you just going to walk over and have a friendly conversation with her that doesn't create any spark?

If you don't know how to make her feel a spark, don't worry.

The majority of guys don't know how to that, and that is a huge opportunity for you.

Most guys who approach and talk to a woman don't actually make her feel a spark at all. They just make her feel friendly emotions or neutral emotions or the guy uses a drunken approach or a sleazy approach and doesn't get anywhere.

Women are sick and tired of experiencing that over and over and over again.

When you are one of the rare guys who can walk up to an attractive, beautiful woman and actively make her sexually attracted while you're talking to her, you stand out from other guys.

She is excited to be talking to you.

She is amazed that a guy has had the confidence to walk up to her, be a normal guy, not put an act of being a super nice guy or try to pick her up with a sleazy approach.

You're just being a normal, confident guy, and you're making her sexually attracted.

She feels a spark with you.

She feels excited to be talking to you.

That is a rare experience for a beautiful woman.

Most guys that a beautiful woman meets are intimidated by her, and they'll try to suck up to her by putting on a nice guy act where they act nicer than they actually are or want to be, or they'll try a sleazy approach on her or they'll try to go straight for the kill and they'll say, "So do you have a boyfriend? Can I get your number? Can I take you out sometime?" even though she's not feeling a spark for them.

The guy is feeling attracted to her because of her physical appearance, but she's not feeling anything for him. He's not actively making her feel a spark.

She doesn't care about looks as much as he thinks she does.

It is true that some women do care about looks, but the majority of women place much less importance on a guy's looks, and they're more interested in how a guy's personality and behavior makes them feel.

This is why as you walk through the world, you will see guys with beautiful women that you might think don't deserve that woman.

You might think that, "The guy is out of shape. How can he have a woman like that? The guy is from a certain race. How can he have a woman like that? Why is that woman with him? That doesn't seem to make sense. That guy looks a bit of a nerd. Why is she with him? That guy has big ears. Why is she with him? That guy has a funny looking nose. Why is she with him? That guy is overweight. Why is she with him?"

The reason why she is with him is that it is possible to make a woman feel sexually attracted to you while you talk to her.

Some women are very picky about looks and they will only accept a handsome guy. Some women will only accept a super-rich guy. Some women will only accept a celebrity or a guy who's super powerful in society, but the majority of women aren't that picky.

The majority of women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

If you ask a woman what she wants in a guy, she'll start listing off things like, "He's got to be tall, and handsome, and rich, and have a big dick, have six pack abs, have a full head of hair, wear great shoes, have a luxury car, have a luxury yacht."

She'll go on and on about superficial traits that seem to be cool in modern society.

However, if a confident guy walks up and he's just normal looking, he's average to below average looking, and he's able to make her feel sexually attracted by being confident, funny, charismatic, and charming, she's going to feel attracted to him.

If she's like most women, all of her fake standards and all these superficial things that she's been saying go right out the window, and she doesn't care.

She falls in love with that guy.

She says, "I didn't really like the way he looked when I first met him, but then there was a spark between us and I really liked him. Now, we're in a relationship, and we're going to get married."

Or, "I didn't really like the way he looked at the start, but when I started to talk to him, I actually found him handsome. I actually like the way that he's got a belly. I actually like the fact that he's bald. It's sexy."

The reason why women do that is because their attraction is not based on looks as much as our attraction to women is based on looks.

For us men, our instinct of attraction is urging us to find a physically good looking woman who is healthy.

That's where we want to plant our seed.

Yet, women don't necessarily need to be looking for a physically good looking man who is healthy.

What they need is a man who is going to be able to protect her, he's going to be able to survive, he's going to be able to thrive, and he's going to be able to provide for any offspring that they may have.

Even if a woman doesn't want any kids and she's not thinking about kids, her instinct of attraction is telling her to find a guy who's going to make her feel safe in this world, a guy that's going to be able to protect her, and may be able to provide for her if they have any offspring.

A woman's attractions for you happens automatically as you display personality traits and behaviors that women find naturally attractive.

If you don't know what to say or do during a conversation to display personality traits and behaviors that make women feel sexually attracted to you, I recommend that you read my eBook, The Flow, or listen to the brand new audio version, The Flow on Audio.

You'll learn exactly what to say and do to make women feel attracted and interested in you immediately.

When you begin to talk to a woman, she will feel a spark with you.

You will stand out from other guys.

You won't have to try hard to suck up to her and try to get to know her and hope that you're going to grow on her.

She's going to feel sexually attracted to you as you begin talking to her.

The more that you talk to her, the more attracted she feels.

All you need to do then is guide her through the simple steps of The Flow and you'll be kissing her, having sex with her, and enjoying your relationship with her.

Don't Play the Looks Game

[image: Guys assessing their attractiveness in the mirror]

If you want to beat women at their own game, don't try to win based on your looks.

There are always going to be other guys that you think look better than you. Likewise, if a woman wears make up, you might think that she is way too attractive for you.

Yet, you've got to remember that she doesn't look like that when her make up comes up.

In terms of other guys potentially looking better than you, just don't focus on them. The truth is that women can feel attracted to a guy's looks, but most women don't feel motivated enough to want to approach and pick up a guy simply based on how he looks.

This is why you'll often see good-looking guys with unattractive girlfriends or good-looking guys remaining single and alone for years.

The easiest way to get laid or get a girlfriend is to attract women during a conversation by displaying personality traits that naturally attract women. For example: Confidence, charisma, and charm.

Guys all over the world do it every day when they meet beautiful women and you can do it too.

[image: Attracting and picking up women is easy]

Attracting and picking up women is easy when you make them feel attracted to you during an interaction.

However, if you try to compete with women based on looks, you'll most likely find it difficult to feel worthy enough, because women are usually very skilled at improving their physical appearance with makeup and by wearing revealing clothing.

If you want to beat women at their own game, just focus on attracting them during a conversation, and you will see that the majority of women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

You can learn how to do that by reading The Flow or listening to The Flow on Audio.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

3 Reasons Why a Woman's Thigh Gap is So Attractive to Men

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Why are men attracted to a woman's thigh gap?

Here are the three main reasons:

1. Traditionally, a woman's thigh gap has only ever been shown to a man behind closed doors.
2. It shows that she is a female because there are no hanging balls.
3. It looks good when coupled with another one of her feminine features; her hips.

1. Traditionally, a woman's thigh gap has only ever been shown to a man behind closed doors

Traditionally, women haven't shown that area of themselves before.

It has always been covered up by a big dress in most cultures around the world.

[image: 1500s to 1600s women's fashion]

If you look at 1500s fashion, you'll see that it's covered up.

[image: 1700s to 1800s women's fashion]

If you look to the 1600s, you'll see that it's covered up, the 1700s, it's still covered up the, 1800s, etc.

[image: 1900s women's fashion]

Women haven't been showing that area of themselves and it's only an area that a man usually gets to see when the woman is naked in his bedroom.

[image: When a man normally sees a woman's thigh gap]

In other words, when the man is about to have sex with her, or he is having sex with her.

So, when a man sees a thigh gap, it's like he is almost there to getting to have sex with a woman.

Even in some tribal cultures that still exist today, you'll notice that women cover up that area of themselves with a long dress and some cultures cover it up with a short dress.

[image: Tribal women usually cover their thigh gap]

Some tribal women may have their breasts on display, but they usually make sure not to show their thigh gap because showing that part of themselves, showing the vagina area gets the attention of men and makes them want to have sex.

[image: A woman's thigh gap can make a man want to have sex]

Just looking at a woman's thigh gap can make a man want to have sex.

2. It shows that she is a female because there are no hanging balls

The male and female body is actually very similar apart from obvious feminine features from the woman and obvious masculine features from a man.

[image: Male and female bodies are very similar]

For a woman, some obvious feminine features are her hips, her breasts and if she has a thigh gap, her thigh gap.

A subtle feminine feature can also be her face if she has a very feminine looking face.

To be clear, the attractiveness of a woman's thigh gap has more to do with what is going on above her knees.

[image: The pussy gap is what really attracts men to a woman's thigh gap]

It doesn't matter if her knees touch or even if her thighs are slightly touching because the most attractive feature of a thigh gap is the pussy gap.

What attracts men to a woman's thigh gap the most is that flat line in between her legs or the subtle mound.

[image: Thigh gap - pussy gap]

Since there are no hanging balls, no bulge from a dick and it's just flat or a slight mound, a man's primal instinct of attraction is triggered because she's obviously a female.

[image: Men feel attracted to feminine features in women]

The way that a man's attraction to a woman works is that men are attracted to feminine features about a woman, things about a woman that make her look different from a man (e.g. her breasts, her hips, the shape of her butt, her face and if she has a thigh gap, that as well).

3. It looks good when coupled with another one of her feminine features; her hips

[image: Thigh gap - hips]

The angle of a woman's hips is an obvious feminine feature which automatically attracts men in a subtle way.

If she also has a thigh gap that showcases the fact that she doesn't have balls and a dick in between her legs, it's a double attraction hit.

To be clear here, there are men out there who prefer a woman without a thigh gap.

[image: Women of different body sizes]

There are men out there who prefer women with thick legs and there are men out there who prefer very skinny women.

Men prefer all different types of women and a woman doesn't have to have a perfectly shaped body and a thigh gap to be attractive.

The truth is that all types of women will have men that find them attractive.

However, the thigh gap is something that attracts men to women because it's an obvious feminine feature.

It shows a part of her that a guy doesn't normally get to see.

Traditionally speaking, a man has only ever seen that part of a woman when he's in bed with her or having sex with her.

[image: Thigh gaps are on display in modern culture]

However, in modern society, thigh gaps are often on display.

It's sort of like when women started wearing dresses that showed a little bit of her ankle.

[image: Women showing their ankles - shocking!]

In the past, that was seen as shocking and some people thought that the world was going downhill because women were showing their ankles.

[image: Mini skirt protests]

Eventually, when the mini skirt came along, that was seen as shocking as well, but it was very attractive to men because men didn't usually get to see those parts of a woman's legs unless they were in bed with her or in a relationship with her.

[image: Thigh gaps]

These days, when a woman has a thigh gap and she walks around in tight pants or in a tight skirt or in a bikini, men cannot help but feel attracted to that.

It doesn't mean that a woman has to have a thigh gap to be attractive, but it's simply one of the things that a woman can have that will attract men.

The Thigh Gap Trend is Not the Cause of Anorexia

One of the reasons I've made this video is that I've noticed there's a fair bit of controversy around the thigh gap topic and people tend to get confused about it and post up photos of women who are taking selfies and they've obviously got very skinny, even anorexic, legs and they're saying, "Look at what the thigh gap trend is causing!"

[image: Anorexic gap vs thigh gap]

Having a thigh gap is not about being anorexic.

It's not about women starving themselves and trying to have super skinny legs that look anorexic.

A woman's thigh gap is also something that men shouldn't feel ashamed of feeling attracted to.

Sometimes women and the media tend to try to shame men into feeling attracted to a woman's thigh gap.

However, a man's attraction to a woman's thigh gap is just as natural as a man's attraction to her breasts.

Men are attracted to things about women that mark them out as being different from men.

A woman can still be beautiful and attractive to men without a thigh gap.

If a woman has a thigh gap, she's going to be able to use that to attract more men to her and if she doesn't have a thigh gap, she can attract men in many other ways.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

3 Reasons Why Men Are Attracted to a Woman's Breasts

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

So what is it with a woman's boobs, tits, jugs or breasts?

Why are we men so attracted to the extra bits of flesh on a woman's chest?

What is it about a woman's breasts that makes us feel attracted and turned on?

[image: Why men like breasts]

The three main reasons why men are so attracted to a woman's breasts are:

1. It's an obvious feminine feature.
2. It signals that she's ready for breeding.
3. It's something that we can show obvious attraction for her about.

Let's start with number 1....

1. It's an obvious feminine feature

[image: Male and female bodies are very similar]

Men are attracted to features about a woman that make her look different from a man.

The male and female bodies are very similar, with the main differences being a woman's obvious feminine features and the differences between our genitals.

[image: Some feminine features of women]

Obvious feminine features include her hips, her breasts, some facial features and her genitals.

When a heterosexual man sees another man, no attraction is triggered because there's nothing to feel attracted to.

It's just a male body that is of no use to him.

However, when a heterosexual man sees a woman with obvious feminine features, his sexual attraction is immediately triggered because she's obviously a female.

[image: Insta Attraction]

She is a potential mate for him to implant his seed and make copies of his genes.

2. It signals that she's ready for breeding

[image: Breasts signal that she is ready for breeding]

Breasts signal that a woman is ready for breeding.

It may sound superficial just to be talking about breeding, but that's where the instinct of attraction comes from.

[image: The real purpose of attraction]

We have a primal instinctive need to get to the point where we can breed, so we can pass on our genes.

A man's attraction for a woman is automatically triggered when he sees a healthy, physically attractive woman who has a fully developed body of breeding age.

[image: When sexual attraction is triggered in a man]

Attraction is much more simple than love and relationships and marriage and all the other things that happen when a man and a woman get together.

[image: Check her out. I'd tap that for sure]

Attraction is based on the primal instinctive need to plant our seed and create offspring.

3. It's something that we can show obvious attraction for her about

When a man and a woman show genuine mutual attraction for one another, it helps to release the brain chemicals of dopamine and oxytocin which create sexual desire and brings the couple closer together.

[image: The basic brain chemical reaction to mutual attraction]

A woman's breasts is something obviously feminine about her that we can focus on and get turned on by which then makes her feel turned on and excited if the attraction is mutual.

[image: A woman's breasts are an obvious feminine feature that a man can show attraction for]

If a woman doesn't feel attracted to a guy, she's not going to be excited that he's looking at her breasts and he wants to touch them and kiss them and suck them.

However, if a woman is attracted to a guy and she's kissing him and then having sex with him and notices that he really loves her breasts, it's going to excite her and turn her on.

[image: If attraction is mutual, a woman will enjoy how much that her man likes her breasts]

Humans have a lot of face to face sex, so a woman's breasts gives a man something to be excited and turned on about.

It also gives the woman something extra to feel turned on about as she observes her man feeling genuinely attracted to and aroused by her.

Since men are mostly attracted to a woman's physical appearance and show obvious attraction to women, men are often pointed out as being horny and desperate and wanting sex more than women.

However, a man's attraction to a woman's breasts is completely normal and natural and it should be expected.

It's nothing for a man to be ashamed of.

[image: A man feeling attracted to a woman's breasts is normal and healthy]

Men are hardwired to naturally feel attracted to feminine features in women.

[image: Men are hard wired to feel attracted to feminine features]

Of course, I'm not saying that guys should be whistling at women on the street and saying, "Hey, nice tits. Let me grab them. Get them out."

What I'm talking about here is the way that a man's attraction to a woman works.

[image: A man's instincts want him to plant his seed in a physically attractive, healthy woman of breeding age. He doesn't need to know anything else about her other than that to experience sexual attraction and desire to plant his seed in her.]

It's completely normal and natural that we men instantly feel attracted to a woman's physical appearance because what our primal instinct of attraction is driving us to do, is to find a physically attractive woman who is healthy and has a fully developed body of breeding age to implant our seed in.

[image: Men on the lookout for a place to plant their seed]

Unlike women who have a primal instinct of attraction to find a guy who is going to be able to protect them and keep them safe and provide for any potential offspring that they may have, we don't need woman to protect us and make us feel safe.

A man's primal instinct of attraction isn't looking for a woman to provide for him and keep him safe and protect him and make him feel like he can look up to her and she's going to take care of him.

That's what a woman is looking for in a man, but what a man is looking for in a woman is a place to plant his seed.

It's Only Natural

So, for all the men watching this who've ever felt a little bit embarrassed that you feel so attracted to a woman's breasts, just know that it's completely natural and normal.

It's not your fault that you feel naturally and instantly attracted to a woman's physical appearance.

It's just how the nature of attraction works.

So, go ahead and enjoy the boobies...

[image: Enjoy the boobies]

[image: Enjoy the boobies]

[image: Enjoy the boobies]

[image: Enjoy the boobies]

[image: Enjoy the boobies]

[image: Enjoy the boobies]

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do Women Act Like Men?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Most women (especially in the West) are now more independent and confident than ever before because they can survive, thrive and prosper without the help of a man.

The changes in women have brought a lot of benefits to society (e.g. tolerance of others, a more loving approach to running a society), but it has also messed up the dynamic of women playing a more traditional role in society and in relationships.

The consequence of women having power and independence in the modern world is that many confused women are beginning to behave more like men than women.

[image: Men intimidated by strong modern women]

So, why do women act like men?

Some of the main reasons are:

1. Women are no longer completely dependent on a man to take care of her and provide for her. Today's woman is more empowered, educated and independent and can make her own money and take care of herself without the protection of a man.
2. Women are now in the workplace doing jobs that used to be done mainly by men (e.g. doctor, lawyer, politician, truck driver, professional fighter, oil rig worker), and they have to keep up, and appear to be doing the job as well (if not even better) than their male colleagues.
3. The divorce rate is still very high so many women have to approach life more like a man and ensure that they are financially independent or at least capable of surviving on their own.
4. Many women have to raise any children by themselves and play the part of both the mother (by being gentle and nurturing) and the father (by being the strong disciplinarian).
5. While women are getting stronger emotionally, many guys are suppressing their masculinity and are becoming confused about how manly they should behave around these strong, masculine women.

Here's the thing...

[image: She still wants you to be a man]

Just because a lot of modern women act like men in the workplace, or out of necessity to survive in our modern culture, it doesn't mean they actually want to be men.

The majority of women still want a man to be able to take the lead and be the more dominant one when he first meets her, takes her out on a date, takes into the bedroom and gets her into a relationship.

With the man being the more dominant one, it allows her to then relax into being a feminine woman for him. As a result of the clear masculine and feminine difference between them, a natural sexual attraction will occur between the man and woman.

If a man is unable to be more dominant than her, she might put up with the lack of deep attraction for a while, but she will eventually get bored and dump him.

According to most statistics, women initiate divorce between 65-70% of the time, meaning that men only ask for divorce in 30-35% of cases.

Based on all of my experience helping men to get a girlfriend, fiancée or wife back, I've found that the number one reason for break ups is that the guy simply wasn't enough of a man for her.

He might have been man enough in the beginning, but he eventually became insecure and ruined her respect, attraction and love for him.

If you want a woman to feel attracted to you when you meet her and remain attracted to you in a relationship, you have to be an emotionally strong, emotionally masculine man.

Women Have Changed Over Time, But Their Natural Instincts Have Stayed the Same

[image: She is still a woman]

Back in the early 1900s, the relationship dynamic between men and women was very different.

Generally speaking, most women had no money, couldn't get a job and had no property of their own, so taking care of themselves financially was almost impossible.

For this reason, most women got married to whatever man they could get; as long as he could provide for her (and their children) financially.

Love was something that a woman hoped for, but she often had to miss out on love and just accept a guy who could provide for her.

Since divorce was virtually unheard of back in the early 1900s, a woman had to stay in a marriage whether she was happy or not.

Even if her husband was cruel or abusive, or emotionally weak and unattractive to her, she was stuck with him for life.

That's just how it was back then.

In today's world however, most women won't settle for being stuck with a man if he isn't man enough for her.

So, even though a woman might be dominant and act like a man in her professional life, in her personal life she needs to know that the guy she is with is man enough to handle her strength, so she can relax and be feminine and girly in contrast to his masculinity.

By masculinity, I mean how he thinks, talks, feels, behaves and takes action.

I'm not talking about muscles.

Most guys automatically think that to be masculine, you need to be tall, have big muscles and be aggressive.

Yes, those things are considered to be masculine traits, but you don't need to have them to be considered a masculine man.

The most important type of masculinity comes from within and is expressed in how you talk, think, feel, behave and take action in life, around a woman and around people in general.

Pretty much any guy can go to the gym and build up muscles, but that doesn't mean he still isn't a pussy on the inside.

We've all seen the guy with big muscles who is afraid to talk to women or nervous in social situations.

This is why muscles aren't the most important type of masculinity to women.

Women are naturally attracted to guys who have can remain confident and relaxed no matter what situation he is in.

It takes real balls to remain confident and relaxed under pressure, but pretty much any guy can build muscles in a gym.

Of course, there's nothing wrong with building muscles in a gym, but it's not the solution to attract confident, modern women who are looking for a guy who is more confident than them.

This is why women will play hard to get when you interact with them and attempt to pick them up.

Women don't do that because they are mean, cold hearted bitches. They do it because they want your balls.

If you don't have the balls to remain confident and relaxed under her pressure, then she automatically assumes that you won't be able to handle other challenging situations in life.

So, if a guy feels intimidated by a confident modern woman, gives in to her bossiness and behaves in nervous and insecure ways around her, she will not feel respect for him as a man, and she will be turned off by him at a deep, instinctive level.

As actress Salma Hayek put it, â€œI keep waiting to meet a man who has more balls than I do.â€œ

That sums it up exactly.

Personally speaking, I look at Salma Hayek as just another girl and would never feel intimidated by her or any other girl.

That's why I have been able to attract women so easily. They're all girls to me.

I don't look up to them as being above me in terms of dominance and because of that, they automatically feel attracted to my masculine mindset, even though I don't work out in a gym, I'm not tall and I don't have a humungous penis or anything else that guys think women use to choose a guy when they meet him for the first time.

What you need to understand is that no matter how strong or dominating a woman is, her instincts still cause her to feel drawn to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, masculinity, determination, a sense of purpose) and repelled by the weakness (e.g. insecurity, self-doubt, being able to push him around).

If you have more balls than her, she will want to suck your balls. It's pretty much as simple as that.

Most Modern Women Feel Too Embarrassed to Admit They Don't Want Equality After All

[image: 98% of women want traditional roles restored]

As far back as the 19th century, women have been fighting for equality with men.

During World War II, millions of men were sent off to war and the women left at home were forced to take on the role of the man, by giving up their roles as housewives, secretaries, or domestic workers.

All of a sudden, they took on traditionally masculine roles such as munitions workers, heavy construction machinery operators, taxi and streetcar drivers, lumber and steel mill workers, etc.

When the war was over, many women refused to go back to being housewives and secretaries because they were enjoying doing a “man’s work,” so the traditional male/female roles began to blur and many women began to act like men.

Back in 1986, when women were surveyed by the Centre for Policy Studies in the UK and asked if they agreed whether men and women should no longer have traditional roles (i.e. the man as the main breadwinner and the woman to stay at home), 40% of women said yes.

However, by 1990 that percentage was down to 13%, and by 2002 it was down to 2%.

What does all that mean?

Even though it is still considered politically correct for women to act like men and say they want high-powered careers, deep down, the majority of women are too embarrassed to admit that they would rather stay at home and take on the traditional role of the woman (e.g. clean house, cook, raise the children).

[image: 98% of women want traditional roles restored]

Naturally, not all women want to take on a traditional feminine role, but many women do, even when they act like men and say that women should do a man’s work.

2 Simple Ways That a Guy Can Bring Out a Woman’s Feminine Side

Most women are longing for a guy who will come along and not feel intimidated by her because of what she does (e.g. is a professional fighter, a police officer, a lawyer, an office manager), what she looks like (e.g. has big muscles, is tall), or how much money she earns.

Women yearn to find a man who doesn’t feel so intimidated by her feminine strength that he hands over power to her and lets her be in charge of the relationship.

Women want a man who will remain being the man (i.e. taking the lead, being in charge, being the emotionally stronger one) no matter how tough she seems as a girl.

So, rather than making the mistake of suppressing your masculinity around a woman (and then getting rejected or dumped by her), here are 2 simple ways you can bring out a woman’s feminine side when you interact with her so she feels attracted and turned on by you.

1. Don’t be fooled by her act of masculinity.

For example: A guy might notice an attractive woman in his apartment building who is carrying some heavy boxes up the stairs, and he might offer to help her.

Instead of accepting his offer, she might say, “I can manage by myself, thank you. I don’t need a man’s help.”

At this point, most guys will walk away feeling annoyed and asking, “Why do women act like men these days? Why doesn’t she just accept a man’s help and be a softer, more gentle woman?”

Here’s the thing!

A woman like her will be soft, gentle and feminine if she meets a guy who has a more masculine energy than her and is able to see through her superficial act of being masculine.

For example: When she says that she doesn't need a man's help, rather than walk away, a good way to bring out her true feminine side is to use humor in a way that shows her you're not intimidated by her.

For example:

Her: I can manage by myself, thank you. I don't need a man's help.

You: [Smiling] Oh, a tough girl hey? Look at your muscles how much do you bench press?
I'm tougher than you.

Of course you are joking when you say that. Say it in a joking manner with a smile.

Her: [Most-likely laughing because she knows that you're joking]

You: [Approach and get closer to her. Smile and say] Hey, I get it that you're a tough, independent woman, but those boxes do look pretty heavy. I'll help you carry one of them up.

Her: Oh, okay. Here, you can carry this one.

By having the balls to joke around with her like that, you are making it clear to her that you are not intimidated by her, which is going to make her feel attracted to your emotional strength.

You are also confident enough to stand your ground, even though she told you to get lost, which will make you stand out from all the other guys who give up too quickly when she behaves in the same way towards them.

When a typical guy comes across a woman who acts like a man, he will immediately feel intimidated if she says no to something or acts uninterested.

This results in her having a really difficult time finding a guy, because most guys are scared of her. So, when you are the masculine man who has more balls than her, she will sucking your balls in no time at all.

2. Trigger her feelings of sexual attraction.

Regardless of how masculine a woman behaves around guys, if a man comes along and triggers her feelings of sexual attraction by the way he behaves and interacts with her (e.g. is confident and charismatic, makes her laugh, is interesting to talk to, makes her feel feminine in comparison to his masculine way of being), she will naturally drop her defenses.

[image: Battle of the sexes - tug of war]

No matter how confident, independent and successful a woman is, she still wants a guy to be a confident, masculine man around her.

It doesn't matter if she is a boss at work or an alpha female amongst friends and family, she wants you to have more balls than her.

If you do, she will feel sexually attracted to you and will be excited to have finally met a guy who actually makes her feel feminine.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do Women Act Hot and Cold?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

A woman acting hot and cold means that she shows interest one minute and then appears to lose interest the next.

A woman will usually act hot and cold because:

1. She wants to test to see if he is truly confident (e.g. will he become nervous and insecure when she stops giving him her attention, or will he relax, smile or remain confident in his attractiveness to her?).
2. She wants to see how far she can push him (e.g. how much of her hot and cold behavior will he put up with before he loses interest in her? If he puts up with bad or rude behavior and keeps trying to get her to like him, she will lose respect for him for being such a wimp).
3. He hasn't fully triggered her feelings of sexual attraction for him yet, so she's still undecided about whether she should give him a chance or reject him and wait to meet a guy who can make her feel turned on.
4. She becomes interested because he displays attractive traits (e.g. confidence, charisma, emotional masculinity) and then loses interest because he displays unattractive traits (e.g. insecurity, fake nice guy persona, emotional weakness).
5. She wants to see how interested you really are in her, before she fully opens herself up to you.

As you can see, there are different reasons for a woman acting hot and cold around a man, but really â€œ you shouldn't worry too much about it.

One of the most important principles of success with women is to not worry about their changing behavior and just remain confident in your attractiveness and value to them the whole time.

If you pay too much attention to the changing mood and behavior of a woman from moment to moment, she will lead down all sorts of crazy, ridiculous paths and when she notices that you are trying hard to understand her feminine behavior that doesn't need to be understood, she will lose interest in you.

As Oscar Wilde once said, "Women are meant to be loved, not understood."

What he meant by that is this: Love her and let her be a woman. Don't try to understand all the ins and outs of her ever changing mood and ways of thinking and behaving.

Just relax, be a man and love her. Don't pay too much attention to the random thoughts and emotions she has from moment to moment. Just believe in yourself and your attractiveness to her and love her for who she is, even if she goes hot and cold at times.

If you can do that, women feel excited to be around you because pretty much every other guy tries to get her to stop thinking, talking, feeling and behaving like a woman so she can be more sensible like he is a man.

Guys who do that get rejected by women and dumped out of a relationship or marriage.

The woman will say, "I don't feel like myself anymore" or "I need time to find myself," which essentially means, "I want to be a woman again. You make me feel like a male friend of yours and I don't like it."

So, if you want to know what to do the next time you're around a woman who is acting hot and cold, here are 3 things that you need to remember whether you've just met her for the first time, are on a first or second date, or are in a relationship with her.

1. Your Level of Confidence Really Does Matter to Her

[image: Your level of confidence really does matter to her]

Most women act hot and cold with a guy to see if he is a confident, alpha male, or if he's an emotionally weak man who lacks the balls to handle challenging people or situations.

Women are instinctively attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, masculinity, drive and determination) and turned off by emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, self doubt, lack of direction in life).

Here's how a woman finds out if a guy is emotionally strong or not!

- When she first meets him.

If a guy approaches a woman and she shows him a little interest at the start and then begins to play hard to get (e.g. by not contributing much to the conversation, acting like she isn't interested anymore, pretending to be interested in other things like her phone or whatever else is going on around her), it's the quickest way for her to test whether he is man enough for her or not.

She will simply wait to see if he becomes nervous and begins to doubt himself, or if he remains confident and relaxed and believes in himself no matter what she says or does.

By doing this one simple test, she is saving herself from wasting time with him in a relationship only to find out later on that he is an emotionally weak, insecure man.

If she wastes her time with him, she will potentially miss out on the opportunity to hook up with a guy who is emotionally strong enough for her woman like her.

- On a first or second date.

Just because a woman agrees to go on a date with a guy, it doesn't mean she is fully committed to the idea of having sex or being in a committed relationship with him.

If a guy makes a woman feel enough attraction when he first meets her, she will almost always be open to the idea of going on a date with him as a way of checking if he is really the confident, charismatic, interesting guy she hopes he is.

Some women will test a guy's confidence by seeming to be excited to be going out with him one minute and then seeming to lose interest in the idea and be about to change her mind.

If he fails to pass her confidence test and becomes flustered, or appears nervous and intimidated, she will automatically lose interest in him.

Of course, some needy, lonely or unattractive women might enjoy hanging on to a guy who is insecure, but the majority of attractive women won't put up with a guy who can't maintain her respect and attraction for him throughout the dating process.

If a woman is attractive, she knows that getting another date is as easy as saying "Yes" to the many guys who would love to stick it inside of her.

Yet, that's not what she wants.

She doesn't just want any guy who is hoping to get a chance to bang her.

She wants a confident guy who will maintain belief in himself and his attractiveness to her no matter how hot or cold she is when she meets him, goes on a date with him, gets into bed with him or gets into a relationship with him.

- In a relationship.

Even when a woman is in a happy relationship, she will never stop testing to make sure her guy is still man enough for her.

For example: She will pretend to be losing interest in her guy to see how he reacts.

If he reacts by becoming emotionally needy (e.g. clingy, jealous, angry), she will begin to see real character flaws that could become a problem later on (i.e. he might become even more insecure and turn into a controlling boyfriend or husband).

[image: Your level of confidence really does matter to her]

The reaction that a woman is looking for when she tests her man by acting hot and cold, is for him to show her that he loves her, but doesn't need her to constantly remind him of her love (e.g. because he has his own friends, interests and hobbies, a great life purpose that he's busy with).

She just wants to see that he remains confident in his attractiveness and value to him no matter what she says or does.

Ultimately, whether you are meeting a woman for the first time, or have been with her for many years, her instinct to test your confidence will always remain the same.

She will always check to see that you are still the kind of man that she can look up to and respect; and if she can, her attraction and desire for you will deepen.

2. She Needs a Man, Not a Mouse

[image: She needs a man, not a mouse]

No matter what you might have heard some women saying (e.g. on TV, through female friends, online, in magazines) about wanting a nice, sweet guy who does whatever she wants, most women want to feel that the man they are with is emotionally stronger than them.

For example: You might have heard women saying things like, "Anything a man can do, a woman can do better" or "A woman needs a man, like a fish needs a bicycle" or "Men are useless these days" or "Who needs men when we have dildos?" and other crazy stuff.

You might also have heard women saying they like the idea of approaching a guy first and asking him on a date, or insisting that men take on more of the woman's traditional role in the home (e.g. cook, clean, change diapers).

Essentially, what women have been trying to convince men (and themselves) of, is that they actually prefer being the dominant one in the relationship.

Yet, that's just not true.

For example: According to a study conducted in Norway, it seems that men who do most of the housework for their woman, are 50% more likely to get themselves divorced.

In another study conducted by psychologists on 6000 people in New Zealand, it was found that the couples who were the happiest and were having the most sex, were the ones who stuck to the traditional man/woman roles within the home.

So, contrary to what all the feminists have been trying to get clueless guys to believe, women do not want to be the ones wearing the pants in the relationship; they actually prefer it when their man does that.

They love to be bent over and banged from behind, even if they go around saying, "I only like to be on top and ride a guy so I am in control."

What you will find is that 95% of women say one thing and do something completely different (e.g. they say that they want a nice, sweet guy and then lust after a guy who is only interested in having sex with them and doesn't want a relationship).

So, when a woman tests you (e.g. by acting hot and cold when you first meet her, on a date, or throws a tantrum in a relationship) it is simply her way of determining who is the more dominant one in the relationship.

It's her way of testing to see if you are man enough to handle her, or whether she will have power over you and be able to push you around (i.e. if she decides to have sex or get into a relationship with you), or wear the pants (if she is already in a relationship with you).

Of course, some women enjoy dominating a man (e.g. insecure women, women with a masculine spirit, unattractive women), but the more feminine and girly a woman is, the less she will want to be stuck with an insecure, needy, clingy guy.

3. Use Her Tests to Spark Her Feelings of Sexual Attraction

Fact: If a woman doesn't feel sexually attracted to you, she won't want to have sex with you or be in a boyfriend/girlfriend relationship with you.

She might enjoy talking to you, and she may even want to be your friend, but without sexual attraction she won't have much (or any) desire to be your girlfriend or lover.

If you want her to have sex with you and want to be your girlfriend, you have to make sure that you focus on sparking her feelings of sexual attraction first.

No matter how hot or cold she acts around you, if you keep triggering her feelings of sexual attraction by maintaining your confidence and behaving in some of the ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, charismatic, funny, interesting to talk to), she will not be able to stop herself from feeling excited to have finally found a man who can pass her tests and turn her on at the same time.

Remember this: There is absolutely nothing wrong with being nice to a woman and being a good guy, but trying to get her to like you as a person is not the same as her feeling uncontrollable, sexual desire for you.

Most modern women (unlike in the past), don't need to get to know a guy for a long time, like him and be his friend first, before they will be willing to have sex with him or be his girlfriend.

If a guy can trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction for him, she will be willing to have sex and be his girlfriend right away.

That's just the way it is these days.

So, rather than waste a lot of time trying to get a woman to like you as a person and cause her to keep testing you (e.g. acting hot and cold, making it difficult for you to talk to her), simply focus on making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by.

The more attracted a woman feels to you, the less reasons she will have to keep testing your confidence.

Pass Her Tests and Then Take Off Her Dress

[image: Pass her tests and then take off her dress]

When a woman is attractive, chances are high that she will have already experienced one or more relationships with guys who were emotionally weaker than her, so she will be even more careful to avoid making the same mistake again.

She will act hold and cold and pretend not to be interested to make sure that she weeds out the emotionally weak guys and only accepts the strong ones.

So, rather than get annoyed or upset about a woman being hot or cold, just use her tests as an opportunity to make her feel so much desire for you (e.g. by being confident, making her laugh, making her feel girly in contrast to your masculine vibe), that she becomes the one who is trying to get you to kiss her and become her boyfriend.

You can have that power over women.

It's actually a lot easier than you might think.

Most guys don't get it, so they go through life feeling frustrated by women and asking, "Why are women so hard to understand?!"

Yet, it's pretty simple.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do Women Act Like They Don't Like You?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Here are 6 possible reasons why women act like they don't like you.

1. She's Testing You to See How Confident You Are

[image: She is testing your confidence]

Have you ever approached a woman and she acted in any of the following ways towards you?

She:

- Acted cold and aloof towards you.
- Made it difficult for you to talk to her by either, only giving you â€œYesâ€œ or â€œNoâ€œ or “I don't know” answers to the questions you asked her.
- Acted bored or rolled her eyes at you while you tried to talk to her.
- Was sarcastic or mocked you during conversation.

If you've ever experienced that kind of reaction from a woman, it's only natural that you might wonder, â€œWhy do women act like they don't like you? Life would be so much simpler and easier if women would just be more open and friendly when a guy tries to talk to them. Why do they have to play games?â€œ

Yet, here's the thing|.

Women have a very good reason why they act that way.

In almost all cases, the reason why a woman will act like she doesn't like you and will behave cold, aloof and unfriendly towards you when you try to talk to her is because she is testing to see if you're a confident man.

She wants to see whether you are going to feel insecure, begin to doubt and second-guess yourself, and give up on her as soon as she shows some resistance.

Why does she do this?

It is a woman's instinctive way of finding a man who will be emotionally strong enough to handle the challenges of life, and who will be able to protect her and take care of her when life gets tough.

This is important to her, because even though we now live in a world where women can earn their own money and take care of themselves, on a deep, instinctive level she still knows that her life will most likely be safer, better off and more enjoyable if she chooses a confident guy.

If she chooses an emotionally weak guy who is insecure and cannot even handle her simple tests, then how will he be able to handle the challenging situations and people in his life?

Will he get picked on at work? Will he be the butt of jokes around her friends and family? Will he be able to stand up for himself if him and her are being treated unfairly in a situation?

If a guy is too emotionally weak to handle a woman's confidence tests at the very beginning of their interaction together, her instincts tell her that she will most likely have to mother him or baby him through life, and she definitely doesn't want to do that.

So, rather than making the mistake of pairing up with an insecure, emotionally weak guy, she would rather just act like she doesn't like him and see how he reacts.

If the guy remains confident and relaxed no matter how she behaves, she will accept that he is man enough for her and will open up to him and show him her gentler, more loving side.

On the other hand, if she notices that he's insecure, wimpy and crumbles at the first sign of resistance from her, she will save herself the trouble of investing her time and energy, only to find out later on that he's too emotionally weak for her.

Her instincts are trying to protect her from getting impregnated by a guy who won't be able to keep her safe and look after her, so even if the guy is well dressed and looks good, she's not going to be interested.

She would rather accept a more scruffy, average looking guy who can pass her confidence tests than accept a well-dressed, insecure guy who will need her to support him emotionally throughout life.

It's just how the nature of a woman's attraction for a man works.

Some guys hate it that women test men and wish that women would just accept them for who they are, insecurities and all.

Yet, rather than get angry and frustrated about it, all you need to do is use a woman's tests as an opportunity to trigger her deep feelings of sexual attraction for you.

When you can maintain your confidence, and stay calm and relaxed no matter what test she throws at you, it will make her feel deeply attracted to you.

2. She Wants to Make Sure That You Aren't Just Flirting For Fun

[image: She wants to know if you are for real]

Some guys flirt with women to get them interested and chasing after them, but the guy then doesn't actually follow through on kissing her, having sex with her or getting a relationship started.

A guy will do that because he wants to boost his self esteem by having lots of girls interested in him, or he will do it because he's afraid of getting rejected if he makes a move.

So, if you meet a woman who is tired of being tricked by guys like that, she will play hard to get for a while to make sure that you really do like her and are actually going to follow through all the way until she is your girlfriend.

3. You Haven't Triggered Her Feelings of Sexual Attraction Yet

[image: You haven't attracted her yet]

Another reason women act like they don't like you is because they are not feeling sexually attracted to you yet.

For example: A guy might walk up to a woman, start a friendly conversation with her and then immediately try to get her interested in starting a relationship with him.

In his mind, he is thinking, “I’m well dressed, I look good and I’m telling her about my good job, so she should be interested.”

Yet, in her mind, she is thinking, “This guy seems friendly, but I don’t feel any sexual spark” because talking to a woman in a friendly way isn’t what makes her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

Even though he is only making her experience friendly feelings for him with his innocent, friendly approach, he might then say to her, “I think you are very pretty. Do you have a boyfriend?” or “Can I take you out sometime?”

He’s assuming that just because he’s attracted to her, all he has to do is show her that he’s interested in her, and she will automatically respond by also feeling attracted to him.

Yet, that’s not how it works.

If a guy hasn’t said or done anything to make her feel sexually attracted to him, telling her how beautiful or special she is, or asking her out on a date, isn’t going to make her think, “Wow, he likes me! Okay, I want to be with him.”

If you want a woman to desire sex or a sexual relationship with you, then the main thing you need to focus on is making her feel sexually attracted to you during the interaction.

Watch this video for more info!

When you actively trigger a woman’s feelings of sexual attraction by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charm, masculinity, sense of humor), she will automatically like you.

She may act like she doesn’t like you to test your confidence, but if you’ve triggered her attraction, she will like you and she will be open to you guiding her into a relationship by kissing her and having sex with her that night or getting her number and calling her to set up a date a couple of days later.

4. It Was Too Easy For Her to Impress You

[image: You were too easily impressed by her]

Attraction works differently for men and women.

When a woman is beautiful (or even just fairly pretty), she knows that all she has to do to attract a new man for sex and a relationship is make herself look physically appealing (i.e. wear makeup or dress in sexy, tight-fitting or revealing clothes).

She knows that 95% of the guys she meets are going to be fully interested in her right away simply based on her physical appearance.

Even if she is boring during conversation, or has a disloyal or annoying personality, most guys will likely have sex (and maybe even start a relationship) with her anyway just because she looks physically attractive.

A woman knows this is how attraction works for most guys, so she doesn’t get excited when she can instantly impress 95% of the guys she meets just by looking good.

She knows that she can have her pick of the 95% of instantly impressed men, but that’s not exciting to her.

Itâ€™s not whatâ€™s going to make her think, â€œWow, this guy is so different from every other guy who wants to have sex with me. He's nice, he's friendly and he is interested in me. Wow! How different! I've just got to pick him or else I will never find another guy who likes me so easily!â€

Obviously that's not how it works.

What a womanÂ wants is to meet a guy who triggers her feelings of sexual attraction and shows some interest in her, but then makes her work hard to fully impress him and maintain his interest.

Women refer to guys like that as a challengeâ€|

The majority of women are bored by how easily impressed guys are by their looks.

If she is pretty, she will have experience the same thing all of her life and each guy thinks that he is being original when it does it.

He feels attracted to her, feels drawn to her and starts thinking that she's "the one" based on how much attraction he is feeling for her.

Yet, he doesn't do anything to turn her on and expects her to like him and want to be with him because he's being nice and friendly.

What he doesn't realize is that pretty much every guy that has met her throughout her life has reacted in the same way.

Of course, unattractive women do like it when guys react in that way, but hot women don't.

Why? A hot woman knows that pretty much every guy wants to bang her.

If you haven't first triggered her feelings of sexual attraction first by behaving in ways that are attractive to her (e.g. confident, charismatic, making her feel feminine and girly in contrast to your masculine vibe), she will feel as though she has more attractive value than you.

In her eyes, you are the one who is attracted to her and you want something from her (i.e. sex, a relationship), while sheâ€™s not feeling much of anything at all for you.

So, rather than immediately being impressed and won over by her physical attractiveness, you need to initially focus on making her feel attracted to you.

When she feels attracted to you and notices that you're not desperately trying to get her into a relationship like other guys, she will begin trying to impress you and win you over.

5. She Can See That Don't Think You're Good Enough For Her

Many guys go through life believing that beautiful women don't like them because theyâ€™re not good looking enough, rich enough or successful enough.

For example: A guy might approach a beautiful woman and notices that she acts like she doesn't like him by immediately giving him the cold shoulder or by ignoring him.

Then, a little while later, he might see her happily talking and laughing with other guys, and he automatically assumes that itâ€™s because those guys must be better looking than him.

Even though in reality the other guys are just average or below-average looking, he can't understand why he got rejected by her and they didn't, so he thinks something like, â€œI guess itâ€™s because those guys are seen as good looking to women and I am not.

He might then begin to think of all the other things that aren't good enough about him (e.g. he's not rich enough, doesn't have a good enough job, drives a cheap, unimpressive car), until eventually he convinces himself that women act like they don't like him because he simply isn't good enough for attractive women.

Unfortunately, a lot of guys make the same mistake.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

Most guys fall into a pattern of believing that their lack of success with women is based on the fact that they are not good looking enough, or they aren't rich or successful enough. Why?

A guy like that will convince himself that to get a pretty or beautiful girlfriend, he needs to be good looking or rich.

Yet, he fails to see the true reality around him every day, where average and below average looking guys with little money have hot women as a girlfriend or wife.

How does that happen?

When a woman feels attracted to who a man is as a person (e.g. confident, charismatic, ambitious, driven) she will begin to overlook any physical flaws that he might have and love him based on how he makes her feel.

So, instead of trying to get a woman to like you as a person from now on, just focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you (e.g. by making her feel feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe, making her laugh).

You will then find that most women like you, feel attracted to you and are interested in being with you.

Of course, there are some women out there who will only date very good looking, rich and successful guys, but the majority of women are open to hooking up with most types of guys, as long as he can make her feel the way she wants to feel when she's with him.

6. You're Trying Too Hard to Get Her to Like You

What a lot of guys don't realize is that a woman liking him as a person is not the same as her liking him in a romantic, sexual way.

So, when a guy doesn't know how to make women feel attracted to him (i.e. by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that women are instinctively drawn to, e.g. confidence, charm, humor) he'll often make the mistake of thinking that if he gets them to like him as a person (e.g. by paying for everything, being at her beck and call, listening to all of her problems, being a helpful friend), at least some women will give him a chance.

However, that's not how it works.

Some women enjoy using a clueless guy to buy her gifts, take her out to expensive dinners, or have him run errands and be at her beck and call, but most women don't.

If a woman notices that a guy is insecure and self-doubting and will do anything she wants to make her like him enough as a person to give him a chance with her, she will not respect him; and women do not feel attracted to guys they don't respect.

There's nothing wrong with doing nice things for a woman or treating her well, but women really only appreciate those gestures from a man that they feel sexually attracted to.

If a clueless nice guy is on his best behavior in the hopes of impressing a woman and getting a chance with her, she's not going to feel turned on and want to be his girlfriend.

It's just not how it works.

If you want a woman to want you, simply trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, turn her on and then kiss her, have sex with her or get her number and call her to set up a date.

If you try to be Mr. Friendly and slowly "grow on a woman," you will be rejected by most women you try that on.

The simple way to be successful with women is to focus on sexual attraction.

Once a woman feels sexually attracted to you, everything flows naturally and easily from then on.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do Women Reject Me?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you're asking, Why do women reject me? you're probably also wondering, Is it because there is something wrong with me? Am I just not good enough for the women I want?

Fortunately, that's not the case at all.

The main reason why so many good guys get rejected by women is due to their misunderstanding of how a woman's attraction really works.

Once you understand what women want to see from you during an interaction, you will realize that it's actually easier to attract a beautiful woman for sex and a relationship than you think.

So, here are 4 possible reasons why women are rejecting you right now, and how you can change that.

1. You're trying to make women like you as a person, rather than feel sexually attracted and turned on by you

One of the biggest mistakes that a lot of guys make with women, is falling into the trap of believing that if a woman likes him as a person, she will then want to have sex and start a relationship with him.

This is the classic nice guy approach that results in rejection most of the time.

Watch this video to understand why women don't get turned on by a nice guy approach, unless a guy triggers her feelings of sexual attraction first.

Women do like nice guys, but they only want a nice guy who has the ability to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on during an initial interaction.

If a guy is just friendly and nice, a woman isn't going to become wet and want to take off her clothes to have sex with him.

Instead, she's just going to feel nice, friendly feelings and place him in the friend zone.

A lot of guys don't know this, so they mistakenly try to be really nice to a woman first in the hopes that she will like him as a person and say, "Hey, you're a really nice guy. I should give you my phone number" or "Hey, you're so nice. You're not like the other guys. Please have sex with me tonight."

Obviously, that's not how it works.

Yet, most guys think that they will be rewarded for their niceness one day if they just keep trying and hope to get lucky.

Years pass by and the nice guy keeps trying to suck up to women, rather than turning them on.

For example: If he's just met her, a typical nice guy might give a woman loads of compliments, hang on her every word, agree with everything she says, and if they are at a club or bar, he might also pay for all her drinks.

Alternatively, if he already knows her (e.g. they work together, go to the same university, live in the same apartment building), he might try to get her to like him by being there for her emotionally or physically when she needs him (e.g. he lets her cry on his shoulder when she's upset about how another guy is treating her, he's always available to do her a favor, lends her money, runs errands for her).

In his mind, the nice guy is usually thinking, “One day, when she realizes how much I do for her and what a big part of her life I really am, it will dawn on her that she loves me and then she will want to have sex and be my girlfriend. Even if right now she has a boyfriend, if I just stick in there, eventually it will happen. She will eventually realize that I am the one. I treat her so much better than other guys, so it's only a matter of time before she wakes up and realizes that her perfect guy has been right in front of her all along.”

Yet, unless he actually makes her feel sexually attracted and turned on, she's not going to look at him as the perfect guy for her.

If she is a genuinely friendly and affectionate woman, she might say things like, “You're such a great guy. I can't believe how lucky I am to have you in my life. You mean so much to me,” and he will take it as a sign that she likes him and that she possibly wants to be his girlfriend.

Yet, if he then tries to kiss her or ask her out on a date, she will almost always pull away and reject him by saying something like, “Oh, I really like you as a person, but you know that I only see you as a friend, right?” or “You're so sweet, but I don't want to ruin our friendship.”

Why does this happen when all the signs seem to say that she likes him?

Essentially, it's because a woman liking a guy as a person is not the same as her feeling sexually attracted to him.

She might think that he's a great guy, and she might even love him as a friend, but if he doesn't spark her feelings of sexual attraction, she will reject him.

The bottom line is this: Whether you're with a woman you've only just met, or you are hanging out with a woman you know and like, if you want her to be interested in having sex and being your girlfriend, you have to focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you, rather than trying to get her to like you as a person.

Turn her on, get her in the mood, make her feel feminine and girly in comparison to your masculine way of talking, thinking, feeling, behaving and taking action.

Touch her, bring her in for a hug, kiss her, have sex with her.

Don't sit around being a friendly, non-sexual guy and hope that she will suddenly want to bang.

You've got to actively trigger and build on her feelings of sexual attraction for you so sexual tension builds up between you and her.

You then release that sexual tension with kissing and sex.

Making a woman feel sexually attracted to you is simply about behaving in some of the ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, masculine, charming, funny).

If you're doing that, she is going to feel attracted and all you need to do is believe in your attractiveness and then proceed to kissing, sex and a relationship.

2. You mistake a woman testing you as a sign that she is rejecting you

When a guy approaches a woman and she gives him the cold shoulder, ignores him, is difficult to talk to, or behaves in other challenging ways, he usually thinks that she is rejecting him.

He might then begin to ask himself questions like, “Why do women reject me? What is their problem? What am I doing wrong? Is it because I’m not tall enough, good looking enough or rich enough? Is there something wrong with me?”

However, what he doesn’t understand is that when a woman plays hard to get at the start of an interaction, she’s almost always doing that to test his confidence.

Why do women want to test a guy’s confidence?

Essentially, women are attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. his confidence, masculinity, drive and ambition) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, self-doubt, lack of direction in life).

Why?

Women instinctively try to find a man who will make them feel safe in this life, rather than hooking up with a guy who will need her protection because he lacks confidence, gets nervous and can’t handle challenging people or situations.

She wants to be able to relax and be a man’s woman, rather than being a guy’s mother or big sister in life.

So, when a woman first meets a guy, she will often test his confidence by being cold and acting disinterested to check if he is emotionally strong enough for her.

If he can handle her tests confidently (e.g. smiles, stays relaxed, ignores her tests and confidently continues on with the interaction in a relaxed, easy-going manner), she will accept that he is confident and lower her guard.

She will then show him the friendly, easy-going side of her personality that almost every other man never gets to see, because other men simply cannot handle the initial tests of their confidence.

Women like that are very easy to pick up because they have so few guys to choose from.

Pretty much every guy she meets isn’t emotionally strong enough for her, so she actually ends up getting a little desperate.

Yet, don’t ever expect her to admit that or show it to you. Women are great at acting like they aren’t even interested in guys, even when they are completely desperate to find a boyfriend.

So, the next time that you find yourself on the receiving end of a woman’s tests, rather than think that she’s rejecting you, just relax, smile and allow her to experience your confidence.

She will either quickly open up to you within seconds, or if she is a woman who requires a very confident guy, it might take 5-30 minutes for her to fully open up.

When she does open up though, she will then become very easy to pick up as long as you remain confident and move the interaction forward to kissing and sex that night or to getting her phone number and calling her 1-3 days later to arrange a date.

3. You don't think that you're good looking or rich enough, so you doubt yourself around attractive women

Probably one of the biggest excuses guys use for their lack of success with women is, "Women reject me because I'm not good looking enough, and I don't have a lot of money, a fancy car or a great house. I'm just an ordinary guy with an ordinary job and women don't go for guys like me."

Check out this video to see what I mean!

Naturally, not every woman a guy approaches will be open to being with him if he's not very good looking, rich or successful (some women are shallow that way), but the majority of women (90%) are open to being with all different types of guys, as long as the guy can make her feel attracted in other ways.

For example: A woman might notice a really good-looking guy across the room and say, "Wow! Now that's what I'm talking about! I wouldn't mind getting together with him. He's so handsome."

Yet, if he then approaches her and puts on a fake persona (e.g. acts nicer than he is, acts super cool, acts as though he is perfect at everything, pretends to be more confident than he feels, tries to impress her by telling her about his job, car or money), she will begin to feel turned off by him because she will sense his insecurity.

An unattractive woman might still want to hook up with him based on his looks, but an attractive woman will almost always reject him because his personality stinks.

This is one of the main reasons why you will have probably noticed many average or below average looking guys with beautiful women.

This happens because women can and do feel attracted to men for reasons other than looks and money.

4. You think a woman needs to give you a clear sign to let you know that she's interested before you can make a move

Where a lot of guys go wrong with women is in thinking that the right thing to do is wait for her to give him a 100% clear sign that she's interested, before he makes a move.

A guy like this doesn't want to seem too forward or get rejected, so he just waits for her to hopefully show him that it's okay to touch her, hug her, kiss her or get her number.

Of course, some women do give clear, obvious signals, but women aren't all the same, which means that each woman will behave differently when she's interacting with a guy.

For example: If a woman is beautiful and confident about her attractiveness to men, she will usually act uninterested when she's interacting with a guy because she wants to see if he's confident enough to handle her.

On the other hand, a woman who is insecure about her attractiveness, will also act uninterested because she will fear getting rejected by him.

So, if youâre sitting around waiting for a woman to give you an obvious sign that she wants you to kiss her, ask for her phone number or ask her out, you will be wasting your time (and hers) almost 99% of the time.

If a guy takes too long to kiss a woman, ask for her phone number or make a move, she will eventually get frustrated and her interest in him will fade.

By the time he plucks up the courage to make a move, she will either have moved on and heâll see her flirting with another guy if heâs only just met her.

If he knows her as a friend or works with her and eventually works up the courage to ask her out, she will likely tell him, âThatâs so sweet, but I donât want to ruin our friendship,â or âSorry, but itâs too late for you and me, I have a boyfriend now.â

Stop the Rejection Now

As long as you focus on triggering a womanâs feelings of sexual attraction first (e.g. by being confident, making her laugh, making her feel feminine in contrast to your masculinity), women will stop rejecting you and want to be with you.

However, if you continue to interact with women in the ways that you have until today, then you can expect to experience more of the same rejection.

Success with women is simple when you actively make them feel attracted to you.

On the other hand, trying to get laid or get a girlfriend by hoping to be liked for being a nice, intelligent guy is like living a nightmare.

Rejection after rejection after rejection eventually makes you begin to feel bitter and angry towards women.

Yet, it doesn't have to be that way.

You can stop the rejection now and forever by focusing on making women feel attracted and turned on by you from now on.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Are Women So Picky?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you've been asking yourself the question, Why are women so picky? lately, it might be because:

1. You don't believe that you're good enough for the women you want (e.g. not good looking, rich or successful enough) and they sense your lack of confidence and then feel turned off.
2. You don't know that most women put guys through confidence tests by pretending not to be interested. If the guy loses confidence, the woman loses interest.
3. You've been making women like you as a person, rather than triggering their feelings of sexual attraction.
4. You think that being a nice guy should be enough for a woman to like you and choose you.

The truth is, most women are not as picky as most guys think.

Obviously, some women are very selective and only go for very good looking, rich and successful guys, but most women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in a guy; as long as he can make her feel the way she wants to feel when she's with a man.

Essentially, a woman wants to feel feminine or girly in comparison to how masculine you think, talk, feel, behave, react and respond to her.

She wants to be able to look up to you and respect you as a man, rather than feeling like she needs to be gentle with you and take care of you emotionally.

She wants you to be the emotionally stronger one, especially when she is putting you through her confidence tests to see if you will crumble under her pressure.

Don't Fall For the "Hard to Get" Act That Women Put on

[image: Picking up picky women: Realize that they aren't as picky as they make themselves out to be]

When I first started picking up women, I used to think that women had all the power and I had to hopefully get chosen by them.

Eventually though, I realized that most women are way easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

Just have a think about how many times you've seen an average, below-average or even ugly guy with a hot girl and you'll know what I mean.

Most women act like they are really hard to pick up, but as long as you remain confident in your ability to attract her and don't fall for her "hard to get" act, she will eventually drop her guard and open up to you.

[image: Remain confident and she will eventually relax and open up to you]

She will show you the friendly, down to earth, easy-to-pick up and sexual side of her personality that 95% of guys never get to see.

It's only the guys who understand the truth about women that get to pick up the hotties.

The truth is that they are easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

If you don't believe that, you will fall for their act.

If you do believe it, you will smile, remain confident and stick with the interaction until she eventually brings down her defenses and opens up to you.

All you need to do then is either get a phone number, add her to Facebook or kiss her and have sex with her that night.

Everyone is doing it these days, so don't fall for the act that women put on to suggest that they don't even have sex or aren't open to it.

Pretty much every woman you meet these days has either had a one night stand, multiple one night stands or is open to having one if a guy is confident enough to stick with the interaction, kiss her and move it forward to sex that night.

Trying to Pick Up Very Selective Women

Some women are harder to pick up than others.

For example: Some women go to exclusive bars or VIP parties to hopefully meet a celebrity, millionaire or billionaire.

If you're not one of those guys, then don't worry about trying to pick up those women.

You can pick up some of those women if you're skilled at attracting women, but if you're just starting out with pick up, you should stick to picking up normal, beautiful women.

Normal, beautiful women are the pretty women who work in clothing stores, the make up section at a department store, the girl next door, the hot girl at a normal bar or nightclub and the hot girl at yoga or dance class.

Beautiful women are everywhere, but most guys are too afraid to even talk to them because they can't handle the confidence tests that beautiful women use on men.

When you are the rare guy who can remain relaxed and confident and just be normal as you talk to a beautiful woman, you will see that she drops her guard and opens up to giving you her number, kissing you, meeting up for a date or having sex with you that day or night.

The Picking Order

[image: Stick with the interaction. Build up her attraction, create sexual tension and release that tension with kissing and sex]

One of the main reasons why guys accuse women of being so picky when it comes to dating, sex and relationships, is that most guys aren't as selective as women.

For most guys, as long as a woman is beautiful (or even just attractive), they are willing to have sex and possibly even start a relationship with her.

Most guys don't even care what she does for a living, what her hobbies are, where she lives or how good she is with her money.

If she looks good, most guys will bang her simply based on her appearance alone.

All the other details about her will become important after sex, but prior to sex most guys really don't care about the woman and just want to get some sex or feel good about themselves for getting a new girlfriend.

Most women on the other hand, will not choose a guy for sex (and possibly a relationship) solely based on his physical appearance.

Almost all women need to experience a guy's personality first (i.e. Is he confident? Does he get along well with her and others? Does she feel happy while talking to him?), before they will decide to hook up with him.

So, although most men would be happy to put up with a woman who is shy, insecure, not very intelligent, etc., as long as she's attractive, most women don't take the same approach to sex, dating and relationships.

Generally speaking, a woman puts more value on a man's personality, behavior and how he makes her feel, than she does on his looks.

Of course some women will only date a guy who is very good looking or has loads of money and status, but the majority of women will be more open to dating many different types of guys, as long as they can make her feel attracted.

The bottom line is this: Men are attracted to women based on how she looks and women are attracted to men based on how he makes her feel.

When Men Don't Understand How Women Feel Attracted to Men

[image: Things that make women reject men]

If you asked 100 men what they think women want in a man, most of them would tell you things like looks, money, height, social status and a big dick.

While it's true that those things can attract a woman to a man, it's not the only way that a man can attract a woman.

Consider the fact that most people are not rich, most guys have an average sized weiner and are not living a celebrity lifestyle.

Yet, they are getting laid, they have a girlfriend or they have a wife.

So, what is their secret?

Simple.

They have attracted women in OTHER ways.

Watch this video to understand how

Most guys simply complain about women being picky because they are under the assumption that to get a woman, you need to be good looking, tall, rich and have a huge dick.

Yet, it's just not true.

If you believe the insecure, negative worldview of the guys who don't understand attraction, you too will feel insecure and might even feel angry at women for being so picky.

As you go through life, you will focus on examples that support your insecurities (e.g. good looking guys with beautiful women, rich guys with hot women, tall guys with hot women).

When you see an ugly or below average looking guy with a hot woman, you will probably think, “He must have a big dick” or “He must be rich or something.”

Yet, what’s really going on is that he has simply attracted her for reasons other than looks, money or social status.

For example: He has been confident, funny, made her feel feminine and girly in comparison to how masculine he thinks, talks, behaves or takes action in life and around her.

It’s so easy to complain and come up with loads of reasons why women (especially Western women) are so picky these days.

Yet, looking for excuses about why they are rejecting you isn’t going to make them want you.

If you want women to want you, the solution is simple: Start making them feel attracted to you by displaying the kinds of personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that are naturally attractive to women.

3 Things That Will Make a Woman Not Pick a Guy

When a guy get rejected by women and ends up asking, “Why are women so picky?” it’s usually because he’s making one or more of the following mistakes when talking to women he likesâ€¦!

1. Thinking that being nice to a woman will make her choose him.

If a woman meets different guys every day (e.g. at work, through friends, at university, while interacting with customer service staff), pretty much all of them will be nice to her and will do nice things to impress her.

Guys who meet her in a bar, club or party environment will try to be nice by paying for her drinks, opening doors for her and giving her plenty of compliments.

These guys are secretly hoping that she will choose them for sex and a relationship as a result of being nice to her.

However, when a guy is nice to her, nothing about him makes him stand out from all the other guys that have been nice to her.

Niceness doesn’t make a woman think, “Oh, wait â€¦ this guy is so nice. Wow, that turns me on. I want to have sex with him and be his girlfriend.”

If being nice to her were the secret to success with women, every guy would be able to pick her up by simply sucking up to her with a nice guy act.

Yet, obviously the nice guy act doesn’t work on most women.

So, what makes a woman pick a man then?

When a guy can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction by what he is saying and doing when interacting with her, she will become open to being picked up by him.

If she is very pretty, she won’t want to make it easy for him by showing him how much she likes him because she wants to test his confidence.

Women want to find a guy that is confident in life no matter what people say or do around him. She doesn't want to get stuck with an insecure, fearful guy who needs her to constantly reassure him that everything is okay, she loves him and isn't going to leave him. She wants a guy who knows that he is good enough, with or without her reassurance or approval. That's why you will often hear a woman saying, "I like a man who knows what he wants and isn't afraid to go and get it."

2. Thinking that being a woman's friend will make her want to have sex and be his girlfriend.

One of the most common mistakes guys make, is trying to be a woman's friend first and then hoping that she will eventually realize what a great guy he is (because he's not pushing her for sex) and she will want him to be her boyfriend.

However, that's usually only how it works in the movies.

In real life, a woman wants a man to be confident enough to make his intentions clear from the beginning, by actively making her feel attracted, and then moving things forward to kissing, sex and a relationship when the time is right.

Most modern women don't want to spend weeks, months or even years being a guy's friend before he will pluck up the courage to make his move.

In fact, if a guy takes too long to make her feel sexually turned on and open for sex, most women will usually slot him into the friend zone and begin looking for a guy who understands how the modern dating scene works.

These days, most relationships start with sex on the first night, first date or second date.

If you wait for weeks or months and hope to "grow on a woman" over time, she will usually get bored and just sleep with another guy.

That's not because she's slutty, but it's because she knows that after sex, that is when a real relationship begins.

She wants to find herself a boyfriend, not a friend.

So, if you want her to be your girlfriend, have sex with her quickly rather than hoping to grow on her over time by being a great friend.

Be a great boyfriend to her instead.

3. Waiting for a woman to make the first move.

Right now, there are probably millions of beautiful women all across the world that would happily pick you for sex and a relationship.

Yet, you've got to have the balls to make a move on her. You can't expect her to be the man and lead the way to kissing, sex and a relationship.

Most of the guys who are going around complaining that women are too picky, are also the guys who are sitting around waiting to get lucky someday, when a woman makes a move on them.

Falling asleep at night, millions of guys daydream that the perfect woman will miraculously walk up to them and pick them, or that they will bump into each other like in a romantic movie and will immediately start talking, connecting and falling in love.

Awww, how sweet.

In the real world, you need to have the balls to make something happen with a woman.

You can't sit around trying to look good and hope that women come over and guide you to kissing, sex and a relationship.

That only works for really good looking guys who sometimes get hit on by unattractive women who want his genes or to show him off to their girlfriends.

Hot women usually wait to get approached and even when you do approach, they test your confidence by playing hard to get.

If you can't handle that, they don't want you.

Hot women don't want to give an insecure guy access to their pussy because instinctively, she fears getting pregnant to the wrong guy.

She doesn't want to get stuck with an insecure guy that she will have to protect, nurture and take care of emotionally.

She wants a man who has the balls to get this done in this world.

If a woman gets the impression that she is more dominant than the guy and that she has to baby him because he's too insecure to approach her like a real man, she won't be able to respect him, and without respect, she won't be able to feel attraction for him either.

Making Women Want to Be Picked By You

Hopefully, by now, you're no longer wondering, Why are women so picky? because realized that a woman's pickiness is usually just her way of finding a guy who is man enough for her.

As long as you can spark a woman's feelings of sexual attraction by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, sense of humor, drive and determination) she will naturally be drawn to you, and she will be on her best behavior trying to make sure that you pick her.

Of course, don't expect her to make that obvious to you.

If the woman you're interacting with is attractive, she knows that pretty much every guy would bang her if she gave him the chance.

She's almost certainly going to play hard to get so she can test to make sure that you are a man with real confidence that she can rely on.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Say When a Woman Compliments You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a woman compliments you, the way that you respond will depend on whether or not you want to have sex with her.

Assuming that you are sexually attracted to her and want to have sex with her or begin a sexual relationship with her, here is what to say (and do) when she compliments youâ€¦

1. Use it as an Opportunity to Build on Her Feelings of Sexual Attraction For You

What most guys would do when a woman gives them a compliment, is simply say something like, â€œOh, thanks.â€œ

Yet, just saying, “Thanks” is not going to make her feel turned on and interested in talking to him some more.

Sure, it’s the polite way to accept a compliment, but we’re talking about attracting women for sex and/or a relationship here.

If you want a woman to just like you as a person, go ahead and say, “Thanks,” but if you want her to feel even more attracted to you, add in some humor.

For example:

Her: I really love the color of your eyes.

You: (Smile and say in a joking manner) Thanks, but you’re going to have to do better than that if you want me to give you my phone number.

Her: (Most likely laughing) No! I was just giving you a compliment.

You: (Still smiling and joking) Phew, I’m glad that’s all it was, because you know I’m a respectable guy. I just don’t go out with any beautiful woman who gives me compliments, you know?

Her: (Most likely giggling, laughing) Oh, okay.

You: (Smiling) Since you love my eyes so much, maybe we should go grab a cup of coffee together sometime and I’ll let you stare into my beautiful eyes. It will cost you $15 per minute though. I have expensive eyes.

Her: (Most likely laughing).

As you can see, you can take a simple compliment and turn it into the type of conversation that will trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

Women love guys who can make them laugh.

It’s a guy’s ability to turn a boring interaction into something to laugh and feel good about that women instinctively feel drawn to.

Why? Life can get pretty dull and boring at times and it’s great to have someone around who has the ability to lighten up the mood.

Additionally, guys who are confident and able to make people laugh and feel good usually have more friends, get promoted more at work and live a happier, healthier life.

So, a woman instinctively knows that she is most likely (not guaranteed of course) going to live a better life if she gets into a relationship with a confident guy who can make her and others laugh at times.

It's not about constantly cracking jokes, being a comedian or being an entertainer for her or anyone else.

Instead, it's just about being able to make a boring, every day situation funny and light-hearted sometimes.

When a woman compliments you and you say something confident and funny like the example above, she instantly knows that you are a special guy who isn't boring and routine like 99% of other guys she meets.

There's nothing wrong with just saying, "Thanks" and then attracting a woman in other ways (e.g. being confident, having a masculine vibe), but if you want a woman to feel maximum attraction for you, then add in a little bit of humor every now and then.

By displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women, (e.g. confidence, charm, sense of humor) you will always find it easy to attract and hook up with women, even if they start out by teasing you or saying something negative.

For example: If a woman starts off an interaction with you by playing hard to get and not being very friendly, she will instantly begin to feel respect and attraction for you if you can remain confident and relaxed and get her laughing or at least smiling.

When you break her out of the negative or closed up emotional state, she will instantly realize that you are more powerful than her and it will make her feel attracted to you.

2. Avoid Making a Big Deal Out of Her Compliment

Sometimes, when a guy lacks experience with women, he will become so excited when a pretty woman gives him a compliment, that he makes a big deal out of it and ends up looking desperate, lonely and thirsty for some attention.

In his mind, he might immediately begin to imagine her as his girlfriend and feel like it's his lucky day.

He will imagine introducing her to his family and friends and might even go so far as picturing her as his future wife.

In all of that excitement, he might begin to think that she is "the one" for him and will show lots of interest, shower her with gifts or pay for her lunches, offer to run errands for her, and even call her or text her multiple times a day if she's given him her telephone number.

Yet, rather than making her feel more attracted to him, that type of behavior only turns her off because it means that she doesn't need to do anything else to impress him.

In other words, he's not a challenge for her to win over!

When a woman shows interest in a guy, he will almost always be easily impressed by her and be willing to start a relationship with her or have sex with her no matter what she says or does around him from then on.

In his mind, he is about to score and he wants to make sure that she knows that he likes her.

He assumes that if he doesn't show how keen he is, she will be disappointed and give another guy her attention.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is that pretty much every guy that a woman shows interest in will act like a thirsty guy in the desert who is dying for a glass of water.

In other words, pretty much every guy will be willing to have sex with her or start a relationship because most guys struggle to get laid and get a girlfriend.

Why? Watch this video and you will understand the real reason why so many guys fail with womenâ€¦!

So, when a woman compliments you from now on, try to be a bit more of a challenge for her to win over, rather than just being polite and nice all the time.

If you can be a bit of a challenge for her to win over, she will not only feel attracted to you, but she will also feel excited by the challenge.

She will want to try her best to seduce you and get you to want her and while she is doing that, she will naturally begin to fall in love you with you and fantasize about you being "the one" that she's been looking for all along.

What's an example of being a challenge?

First and foremost, you must make her feel attracted to you. If she's not attracted to you, she's not going to care if you lose interest in her.

So, assuming that you have attracted her, here's what you can doâ€¦!

If she compliments you, flirts with you and shows interest in you today, you can respond by being charming and flirty back.

Yet, when tomorrow comes, if she acts like she doesn't even know you and is cold and distant, rather than chase after her and try to get her attention again (which is what most guys would do and is not very challenging to her), just ignore her and make a point of talking to other, attractive women in her presence.

When she sees that other attractive women like you, she will instantly get worried that one of those women will seduce you and take you from her, so she will immediately begin showing interest in you again.

By allowing your interest in a woman to rise and fall depending on how she behaves when she interacts with you, you are making it clear to her that you are not like all the other guys she knows.

You are a challenge to win over because you are not desperate like other guys are.

Women want to be with a man who is a challenge, because for most women, if she is attractive, she knows that all she really has to do is wear a short skirt, show off her cleavage, wear some makeup and do her hair, and most guys will be falling over themselves to be with her.

That's not exciting for her because it's available 24/7, 365 days a year no matter where so goes in the world.

What isn't available is a guy who has the confidence and social intelligence to be the challenge that women desperately want to win over.

You have to make it clear to her that if she wants you, she is going to have to behave herself and work hard to impress you; not the other way around.

Don't say that to her directly. Instead, just show it to her by the way you respond to her behavior.

She will know exactly what is going on and she will strive to be the girl that captures your attention, love and devotion.

3. Avoid Letting Your Insecurities Stop You From Making a Move

When a beautiful woman gives an insecure guy a compliment, he will often be too afraid to take it to the next level.

A confident guy will see the compliment as a sign of interest from her and then build her interest by making her feel attracted to him in additional ways, (e.g. by making her feel girly and feminine in contrast to his masculine vibe, making her laugh, being charismatic, being charming).

He will then either move in for a kiss, get her number, ask her out on a date or take her home for sex.

Yet, an insecure guy will naturally be insecure about it. He'll be thinking, "Does that compliment mean she likes me? What if I ask her out and she rejects me and says that she just wants to be friends? Maybe I should wait for her to make it more obvious."

He will then act nice and pretend to just want to "get to know her" and be a friend, when his real motives are sex, love and a relationship.

When a woman sees that the insecure guy isn't making a move, she will begin to lose interest in him.

He may then think, "See! I knew it. Why would a pretty woman like her be interested in a guy like me? Women like her only go for good-looking guys with big muscles, or guys with lots of money and important jobs. I have big ears and I'm just barely scraping by financially. Her compliment meant nothing. She was just being nice to me. Women don't like me."

Things will then get awkward between them and she will begin to avoid him.

What the insecure guy doesn't know is that all she needs is for him to be confident and take things to the next level, rather than worrying about what she may or may not be thinking.

Here's the thing!

If a woman gives a guy a compliment and she only feels a bit of attraction for him, that doesn't mean that the guy can't make her feel a LOT of attraction for him.

Feelings of attraction can be CREATED.

You can literally make a woman feel intense attraction for you by actively displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, masculine vibe, charisma, charm, humor).

Watch this video to understand how it works!

What most guys don't realize is that, although a woman might initially feel attracted to a guy based on his appearance, her decision to have sex or be in a relationship with him depends on many different things besides his looks.

For example: A guy might be very good looking from a distance, but when he interacts with women he becomes nervous, insecure and self-doubting, which is unattractive to women.

So, even though he might be good looking, most women (not all) will begin to see him as being unattractive because of his emotional weakness.

On the other hand, a guy who is plain, or even what others might perceive as being ugly, can attract women by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women.

For example: If he is confident, charismatic, charming, interesting to talk to, or displays other qualities that are naturally attractive to women, most women (not all, of course) will see him as being more good looking than he seemed at first sight, because his behavior and actions are triggering feelings of attraction.

So, when a woman compliments you, don't waste time worrying about whether you're her physical type or not, or whether her compliment is just friendly or nice.

If you want to have sex with her or begin a sexual relationship wither, simply focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you displaying some of personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, masculinity).

Remember: What to say when a woman compliments you is not as important as behaving in the ways that are attractive to women.

You Snooze You Lose

[image: You snooze you lose]

An opportunity not used, is an opportunity lost.

When a woman compliments you, she is giving you an opening to seduce her into something more.

However, don't expect her to take the lead, do all the work for you or make it obvious that she is giving you a green light to seduce her.

It's up to you to take her compliment as a sign of interest, turn it into attraction, and then guide both her and you to kissing, dating and sex and a relationship if you both want it.

You can look at her compliment as just being friendly if you want, but that's not going to help you get a result with her.

Insecure thinking will get you nowhere with women, whilst confident thinking will get you everywhere.

If a guy doesn't make a move on a woman after she gives him an opening to seduce her, she may eventually begin to wonder, "What's wrong with this guy? Why doesn't he make a move?" and then lose interest.

It's not a woman's role to lead a man into sex and a relationship. Women give hints and it's up to you as a man to build on her attraction and then be confident enough to attempt to move things forward.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Talk About When You Call a Woman

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Talking to a woman on the phone is easy when you focus on the fact that she must already like you if sheâs given you her number.

Women don't give out their real number to guys that they don't ever want to talk to again, so just make sure that you believe in your attractiveness to her when you call her.

What you talk about when you call a woman is less important than how you make her feel when you are talking to her.

For example: If you say, "Hey, so how have you been?" in a nervous, unsure way, she's going to feel turned off by your self-doubt.

However, if you say, "Hey, so how have you been?" in a confident, easy-going manner, she's going to feel attracted to your confidence and social intelligence.

Here's what you need to rememberâ

As long as you focus on making her feel attracted to you, while also just being yourself, the conversation will flow naturally and she will enjoy it.

Using Humor to Make Her Feel Attracted to You on the Call

In addition to being confident and easy-going, you can also make her feel attracted by using humor.

This ensures that the call starts off in a positive way, and if sheâs forgotten how good she felt talking to you the first time, this is a great way to re-spark her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

An Example of Using Humor When You Call a Woman For the First Time

After getting a womanâs number for the first time (e.g. at a bar or club, at a party, at the gym, at work, at university), get her on a phone call as soon as possible, so you can have a laugh together and then arrange to meet up in person.

Most guys feel very nervous about calling a woman, because they feel they donât really know what to talk about when they call her.

Rather than following through on the number they've got, some guys chicken out and just convince themselves that she isn't that interested.

Yet, here's what you need to rememberâ

You can CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman when you talk to her.

If the woman who gave you her number is only kind of interested in you at the moment, you can make her very interested by using humor to build on her attraction for you.

For example: One of the ways to use humor on a call to build on a womanâs feelings of sexual attraction for you, is to use something specific related to only you and her.

So, letâs say that the first time you met her, she was wearing a black cat suit or a tight black outfit, and you jokingly referred to her as looking like a ninja.

[image: Sexy ninja girl]

You then started referring to her as the, “sexy Ninja girl” and jokingly suggested that she’d look good in a James Bond movie as the bad ass girl who outsmarts James Bond.

So, when you call her, you can trigger her feelings of attraction by saying, “Hello sexy Ninja girl. Been on any James Bond missions since we met the other night?”

Several things will happen when you do this:

1. She will know immediately who is calling her without you having to identify yourself and warm her up with pointless small talk (e.g. “How was your day?” or, “Been working hard?”).
2. She will laugh and feel good at the start of the conversation.
3. She will feel attracted to your confidence and sense of humor.
4. She will feel excited to be talking to you again because she will remember how good she felt talking to you when you first met.
5. She will feel flattered because you are giving her a compliment by calling her sexy.

All of that will add up to her see you as a charming, interesting guy who makes her feel good about herself, and she will be open to hooking up with you again to experience your charm in person.

As long as you are sparking a woman’s feelings of attraction for you, it doesn’t really matter what you talk about because she will be interested.

Mistakes to Avoid When You Call a Woman

Here are some mistakes you should avoid making when you call a woman:

1. Don’t wait too long to call her after getting her number.

Even if you and her had a really great time and you felt that there was a special connection between you and her, she probably has many guys who are interested in her right now.

It’s also possible that she has given her phone number to several other guys besides you lately.

So, if you take too long to call her, some other guy might get to her first.

If he has sex with her and she enjoys it, she’ll probably get into a relationship with him even though she really liked you.

Unless you make a woman feel intense attraction for you, she’s usually not going to sit around waiting for your call for too long.

If she doesn’t hear from you within a few days of giving you her number, she may assume that you’re not interested in her or that you’re too shy, nervous or insecure to call her.

She will open herself up to having sex, or falling in love, with another guy and try to forget that she got rejected by you.

So, don’t take too long to make your move.

If she has given you her number, be a man and call her, get her on a date, kiss her, have sex with her and begin a relationship (if you want one).

2. Don’t waste too much time talking to her on the phone before you ask her out.

A guy might be able to get a woman laughing and enjoying talking to him on the phone, but if he doesn't ask her out, she will usually lose interest.

She may be thinking things like, "Why is he calling me and not setting up a date? Why are just chatting all the time and never getting to have sex? Is he too afraid to ask me out, or is he just talking to me because he is lonely and needs some attention?"

Eventually, most women begin to suspect that a guy is either too insecure or self-doubting to hook up with her again and she will lose interest, slot him into the friend zone, or just move on and start dating other guys who are not afraid to meet up with her in person.

Getting a woman's phone number and calling her is only the beginning of the dating process.

Your main focus has to be on getting her to meet you in person so that you can continue building on her feelings of sexual attraction for you, kiss her, have sex and start a relationship with her.

So, if you've attracted her on the call and had a quick chat, you can jokingly ask, "Anyway, so when are you taking me out?" and she will almost certainly say, "No, you need to take me out" and you can then say, "Okay, well I can do that. I think you're a cool chick and we'd have a good laugh together. So, I'm busy tomorrow night, but how about Wednesday or Thursday night?"

Then, just decide on a day together and either tell her where to meet you, or tell her that you'll text her the address of where to meet you after the call.

3. Don't become her new phone buddy.

Some guys make the mistake of talking for way too long with a woman on the phone to the point where she starts to feel exhausted having him in her life.

A guy will feel excited that the first call went so well (e.g. she sounded happy and excited to be talking to him again), so he might then fall into a pattern of calling her again, and again, and again, just to repeat how great it felt talking to her.

In his mind, he is in love and this is how it's supposed to be.

In her mind, she is starting to wonder why he is acting like one of her girlfriends who just wants to talk all the time about anything.

Even though a woman might go along with it and really enjoy the calls because she is feeling attracted to him, she will eventually start to feel like something just isn't right.

She might not be able to explain why she is losing interest, but her instincts will kick in and tell her that something is off. Why?

Women instinctively know that men should be spending their time on achieving their big goals and ambitions in life, rather than sitting around chatting about nothing like girls do.

It's great talking to a woman on the phone from time to time, but you shouldn't take on the role or act like one of her girlfriends who is always interested in gossip and conversations about nothing important.

Women like talking to each other on the phone for hours about random things, but that's not what women want to experience in a relationship with a man.

If you want her to see you as a potential lover and boyfriend in her life, you need to behave like a man that she can look up to and feel girly around, rather than being like a friend.

If you act like a friend, she will see you as a friend, and one day she will call you up to apologize and tell you about her great new boyfriend that she is in love with.

When she gave you her number, it wasn't because she wanted another friend.

She gave it to you because she felt attracted to you and wanted to kiss you, have sex with you and start a relationship with you.

So, don't waste time acting like one of her girlfriends. The main reason you should be calling her is to arrange to meet her in person so you can move forward to a kiss, sex and relationship.

Attraction + Action = A Beautiful Girlfriend

Women today can have their choice of men, so they're not going to wait around for very long for a guy to make his move; whether it's to call her on the phone, ask her out on a date, or kiss her and lead her to sex and a relationship.

When a woman feels enough attraction for a guy that she gives him her phone number, she expects him to call her up, ask her out and lead both of them to the next level (i.e. kissing and sex).

So, the main thing you need to focus on when you call a woman is making her feel attracted to you (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, funny, making her feel feminine and girly in contrast to your masculine vibe) and then get her to meet up with you in person.

You obviously triggered her feelings enough for her to want to give you her phone number in the first place, so you just have to focus on doing it again when you call her.

Then, ask her out, kiss her and have sex and start a relationship if you both want that. It's so much easier than you think.

Make her feel attracted, take action to move things forward and before you know it she will be your sexy, loving girlfriend.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Talk About With Women in Bars

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you're unsure what to talk about with women in bars, just remember this: Talking with women in bars is no different to talking with women anywhere else (e.g. at a party, at a coffee shop, in the mall).

The main thing you have to remember is that no matter where you are, to get a woman to want you, you need to focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction when you interact with her.

Watch this video for some examples!

You can make almost any woman interested when you make her feel attracted to your personality and who you are as a man (e.g. by being confident, charming, funny, masculine).

However, despite how easy it is to attract women in bars, there are some things you should keep in mind:

1. Bars are generally busy and noisy, so it's not an ideal place for having a long, serious conversation (e.g. about work, politics, global warming, sports).
2. Don't make excuses about not approaching women because it's loud. They don't expect to have long, detailed conversations with you. Women are generally in a bar because they want to relax, and have some fun, so add to the fun by being in a good mood, getting her laughing and smiling and just not being so serious about everything.
3. Most women don't want to get caught up in a very serious conversation with a guy they've just met in a bar, so even if she brings up a serious conversation topic, don't stick with it for too long (i.e. more than a couple of minutes).
4. The percentage of single women who are open to hooking up with a guy for a one night stand (or a relationship), is higher in a bar than in other places (e.g. coffee shop, gym, mall), so it's very easy to get laid or get a girlfriend.
5. Women very rarely go to a bar alone; they will usually be with a friend, or in a group, so be prepared to talk to her and her friends.

Bearing the above points in mind, here are some mistakes to avoid making when you talk with women in bars!

1. Don't Wait For a Woman to Make it Completely Obvious That She Wants to Talk to You Before You Approach

Women are instinctively attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem) and they are repelled by emotional weakness (e.g. self-doubt, insecurity, nervousness).

So, when a woman is in a bar, one of the best ways for her to quickly determine a guy's level of self confidence and emotional strength, is to wait and see if he'll make the first move and approach her.

She might look at him a couple of times to show some indirect interest and if he doesn't make a move, she isn't going to raise up her hand and wave him over.

She wants to see if he has the confidence to make a move, even though she's not making it very obvious.

Why? Women instinctively know that they will be much better off with a guy who has the balls to take action when he wants something, compared to a guy who is afraid to make a move.

We live in a challenging world and weakness isn't something that is usually rewarded with respect, financial success and loads of friends.

On the other hand, when a guy has the confidence/balls to go after what he wants with women (e.g. he approaches women he likes, asks a woman out), he will usually be more likely to succeed in life (e.g. he will go for promotions, people will respect him more because of his confidence and alpha male approach to life, etc).

So, when a guy does approach a woman, she will automatically feel some attraction for him because he is displaying the types of behaviors and personality traits that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, masculinity).

On the other hand, if a woman notices that he's too afraid to approach to her, even when she's giving him obvious signals like making frequent eye contact with him or smiling, then she'll usually just assume that he's nervous and unsure of himself, which she will find unattractive.

So, if you're in a bar and a woman catches your eye, it's up to you to make the first move; even if she's not making it obvious that she wants you to.

If you don't usually have the confidence to approach women, watch this video!

As a man, it's your responsibility to approach a woman, rather than hoping that she starts talking to you first.

Why?

Apart from women instinctively trying to find a confident guy, rather than giving an insecure guy a chance, a woman will also wait for a guy to approach so she doesn't look as easy.

Sometimes, a woman will want to avoid looking too easy to a guy (especially if she's with colleagues or in a group) because she might feel embarrassed about being picked up in a bar.

In a case like that, you simply have to approach the group in an easy-going, relaxed way, and engage her and a couple of others in the group in conversation, until eventually you and the woman you like end up talking together one on one (i.e. the group accepts you and talks amongst themselves instead of focusing on you and her).

[image: Talking to a group of women in bar]

You can then get her phone number, go to the bar alone with her to get a drink (e.g. "Hey, let's go grab a drink together and come back"), a kiss or leave the group to have sex with her that night.

Make sure you talk to the group first though, especially if she seems close with them.

A common mistake that guys make is to zone-in on the woman they like in a group, and ignore all the other people she's with.

Even if she's interested in you, most women will feel uncomfortable if a guy only talks to her when she's clearly with other people.

Of course, if she hates the people she is with, she will be glad that you came along and saved her, but in most cases, she will at least like a couple of people in the group and won't appreciate it if you ignore them and just zone in on her.

Make a point of talking to a couple of in the group otherwise you'll come across as being a creepy, lonely, socially awkward pick-up artist who's only trying to score with any woman who will give him a chance.

A simple way to approach a woman in a group is by walking up to them and saying something like, "Hey guys. My name's Dan – I thought I'd come over and say hi. Some friends and I just had a pizza and now we're here to get some drinks and enjoy the vibe. You look like a happy group. Are you guys having fun here tonight?" and let the conversation flow from there.

If you're being a cool, confident guy when you say this, most women will be open and willing to chat with you.

2. Don't Try Too Hard to Impress Her

If a guy approaches a woman in a bar (or anywhere else) and tries to impress her by talking about his money (or goals to make money), status, what car he drives, his job, etc., she will simply assume that he's only trying to impress her with those things because he doesn't feel worthy as is.

A woman wants to be able to feel attracted to your normal personality, rather than feeling as though you're putting on a show or bragging to try and impress her.

If you want to impress a woman without trying hard, just displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, charm, humor).

When you approach your interactions in that way, women will feel attracted to your personality and won't care about what you do for a living, how much money you make, etc.

Yes, some women are gold diggers and only want a super rich guy, but the majority of women just want a normal, confident guy who makes her feel good and has the potential to do well in life one day.

You don't have to be Mr. Successful to attract most hot women.

Instead, you've just got to make her feel some attraction to your personality and let her see that you have potential (e.g. because you're confident, charming, assertive, loving).

3. Don't Be Too Nice

There's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but some guys make the mistake of thinking that he has to make a woman like him as a person first before she will be interested in being with him in a romantic/sexual relationship.

Here's the thing!

Just because a woman likes a guy as a person, it doesn't mean she will also be feeling sexually attracted to him.

Watch this video to understand why!

There is a big difference between making a woman feel friendly affection for you compared to making her feel sexually attracted.

If you want to have sex with women and get laid or get a girlfriend, the number one thing you need to focus on is sexual attraction.

Once a woman feels sexually attracted to you, she will then also appreciate the fact that you're a good guy.

However, prior to feeling sexually attracted to you, almost all women (except unattractive women) don't care how nice you are.

The truth is, most guys in the world are good guys (or fairly good guys), but women don't feel sexually attracted to them just because they're nice.

If you want a woman to want to have sex with you, you have to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction first (e.g. by displaying confidence, making her laugh and feel girly in comparison to your masculinity).

For example: If you are having a conversation with a woman in a bar about what she does for work, the wrong way to do it would be to ask her a lot of boring questions about it as though you really give a crap about her job.

She knows that guys just talk about that stuff because they don't know what else to say, or don't have the balls to joke around and say whatever they want.

The best way to talk about a woman's job is to use humor to spark her feelings of sexual attraction for you. For example:

- You: So, what do you do for work?
- Her: I'm a model.
- You: (Smile and say in a joking manner) Really? You know the first thing I thought when I saw you was, "That woman over there has pretty feet. So, are you a foot model?"
- Her: (Most likely laughing) No, I'm not a foot model.
- You: (Still smiling and joking with her) Oh, okay. Then you must be a hair shampoo mode because you have nice hair too.
- Her: (Most likely laughing)

Another example:

- You: So, what do you do for a living?
- Her: I'm an accountant.
- You: Yeah, I thought you looked smart. I'll have to use big words now to try to impress you.
- Her: (Most-likely laughing).
- You: So, you're smart and you're beautiful. What about some bad things about you? I guess you're a bad cook, right?

Why does this work?

By playfully teasing her, you are showing her that you're not intimidated by how beautiful she is. Most guys she meets are so desperate to impress her that they try to be extra polite, nice and thoughtful when talking to her.

Yet, what these guys don't realize is that women don't get turned on by guys sucking up to them with the nice guy act.

Watch this video for more info! |

If you want women to feel attracted to you during a conversation, don't put on an act of being Mr. Nice or Mr. Perfect.

Just relax and let your real personality come through. If you do that, people will see you as being charismatic and interesting.

4. Don't Give Up When She Tests You

Women will always test you by playing hard to get, acting as though they aren't interested or are losing interest, etc.

Why do women do that?

Women test a man to see how he is going to react.

Is he going to become nervous and self-doubting, or will he remain confident and relaxed?

Will he become defensive or angry, or will he relax, smile and not worry about her confidence tests?

Will he be able to maintain a positive vibe, or will he crumble under her pressure?

If a guy crumbles when a woman ignores him, pulls back her interest in the middle of a conversation, or teases him in some way, she will lose attraction for him.

Why? Most women don't want to align themselves with a weak man who won't have the confidence or strength to face whatever life throws at him.

We live in a challenging world where confidence is much more useful than insecurity.

A woman doesn't want to get stuck with an insecure guy that she will have to carry throughout life.

She wants a man that she can look up to, respect and rely on to be strong no matter how challenging life gets.

So, no matter what you talk about with women in bars, the main thing is to believe in yourself and your attractiveness to them.

Stay relaxed and confident no matter how much they test you.

When a woman notices that you remain confident, relaxed and positive no matter what she tests you with, she will not be able to stop herself from feeling a deep, instinctive and powerful attraction for you.

Attraction Vs. Words

While the words that you say can have an impact on how attracted a woman feels for you, it's more about how you say the words that counts.

Watch this video for examples! |

With the example of "naughty nurse," try to imagine a guy saying that in a nervous, self-doubting way.

The words "naughty nurse" are important, but they are not as important as saying it with confidence and showing her that you're relaxed and not worried about saying things like that.

So, rather than worrying a lot about what to say, I recommend that you focus more on displaying naturally attractive traits (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe) when you say whatever you say.

A lot of guys miss out on the opportunity to hook up with really beautiful, single women in bars because they waste time thinking, â€œI don't know what to talk about with women in bars, so I just don't go there anymore.â€

These guys don't realize how easy it is to talk to women in bars when you just say whatever you want.

When you can relax enough to allow a woman to experience your confidence, charm, masculine vibe, she will naturally open up and want to continue talking to you.

All you need to do then is move the conversation to a kiss, sex that night or get her number and set up a date.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Talk About With Women on the Phone

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Talking to women on the phone is easy if you can just relax, let the call unfold and be yourself.

So, if you're wondering what to talk about with women on the phone, because you tend to get nervous or because you're afraid of running out of things to say, just relax and remember this...

If a woman has given you her phone number, she must have felt at least some attraction for you.

So, when you call her, you simply need to build on her attraction for you and get her on a date as soon as possible.

Here's how!

1. Re-Spark Her Feelings of Attraction By Making Her Laugh

[image: Talking on the phone with a woman]

You've probably heard women saying things like, "I love a guy with a sense of humor," or "I want a guy who can make me laugh."

Women aren't just saying they like funny guys for no reason. They really do mean it.

According to a survey conducted on more than 1,000 American women between the ages of 21 and 55, it was concluded that 77% of women ranked a sense of humor as their #1 must-have in a man.

Most guys will say that looks are the main thing that men want in a man, but the truth is that a woman will often care less about looks if a man can make her feel attracted in other ways (e.g. by making her laugh, being confident and charismatic).

So, when you talk with a woman on the phone, the main thing you need to focus on is making her laugh and smile when she talks to you.

Of course, that doesn't mean you have to be a comedian, or a constant joker to get her to feel attracted to you.

In fact, too much laughter and messing around and you can come across as being goofy, childish or as the type of guy who doesn't know how to be serious.

When talking with a woman on the phone, making her laugh is simply about being confident and upbeat in your conversation with her, while also taking a risk to say something a little daring or bold at times.

For example: Imagine that you call a woman a couple of days after she has given you her number (e.g. at a bar, gym, mall, party).

Rather than just calling her up and saying, "Hi Sandy. This is John. We met the other night at Jason's party. Do you remember me? You gave me your phone number so I thought I'd just call you to see if you'd like to go out on a date with me," which is what every other guy who calls her up will say; it's almost always better to first make her feel excited and happy to be talking to you again.

You can make her feel happy that you called her, by reminding her (in a funny, subtle way) that she really enjoyed talking to you at the party the other night.

You can do that by using something that is specific to only you and her to make her laugh and re-spark her feelings of attraction for you.

For example: When you met her at a mutual friend's party, she bumped into you and spilled some of her drink over your pants, and you joked about it by telling her she's going to have to take you home to give your pants a wash.

You told her that she'd look sexy doing laundry for you and both of you had a laugh about that.

As the interaction continued, you referred to her as Sexy Laundry Lady a couple of times.

So, when you call her up on the phone, you can then use that to re-spark her feelings of attraction.

Here's how:

- You: (In a confident, joking voice) Hey Sexy Laundry Lady, I thought I'd call you up and see what time I can bring my pants over for you to wash.
- Her: (Most-likely laughing).
- You: (Still joking) I only have one pair of pants y'know...I'm standing here in my underwear now at the mall. Everyone is looking at me.
- Her: (Most-likely laughing some more)
- You: Just kidding. Anyway, so how has your day been today?
- Her: (Starts telling you about her day)

By starting off in that manner, you are re-sparking her feelings of sexual attraction for you by reminding her of that special connection the two of you had, (i.e she's your Sexy Laundry Lady)

At the same time, you are making her feel attracted to you by being confident and funny; two qualities that women find irresistible in men.

2. Make Her Feel Some Pressure to Impress You a Little

[image: What to talk about with a woman on the phone]

Once you get her laughing and remembering how good she felt talking to you, you can simply say, "So, what's interesting with you?" or "What's new with you?" or "What have fun, exciting things have you been up to since we last met?" and let her tell you about what she's been up to.

These are the type of questions that puts a woman on the spot and she will often try to come up with an interesting answer to try and impress you.

Making a woman feel like she needs to impress you is a good thing, because most of the guys she meets will want to be with her just because she's attractive, and they will be doing all sorts of goofy things trying to impress her.

That's not exciting for her, which is why she likes it when a guy makes her do the work, where she has to try and impress him for a change.

In other words, a guy who is a challenge.

Watch this video to understand why women prefer guys who are a bit of a challenge to win over:

Being a challenge is about attracting her and showing some interest in her, but not being fully sold on her right away.

Let her get the sense that you're not desperate like other guys and actually have standards about what you like and don't like in a woman.

Don't tell her that you have standards; just let her sense it by you not acting desperate or needy.

For example: Be willing to playfully tease her (e.g. "You use big words all the time. I think you're too smart for me. I'd need to carry around a dictionary to understand what you're talking about.")

So, when you call a woman up on the phone, tease her a little or make her work a little to impress you rather than trying to be the nice guy and having a polite, boring conversation with her.

Women love it.

Women are so sick and tired of guys who just kiss their ass all the time and act super polite and nice in the hope of getting a chance with her.

A woman knows that she can have sex with almost any guy just by saying, "Yes" so it is very boring for her to meet guys who offer no challenge.

3. Take the Lead and Move Things Forward

[image: What to talk about on the phone with a woman]

The main thing you need to remember when you talk with women on the phone, is that the phone call is only a stepping stone to getting her on a date, kissing, having sex and starting an actual relationship.

Getting her phone number doesn't mean that you've scored and now have a new girlfriend.

She will only become your girlfriend if you can get to sex or at least kissing, so don't waste time with over texting, endless phone calls or polite dates.

Get to the point and kiss her, have sex and then begin a relationship.

Where some guys mess up is in thinking that if they can just talk to her for hours on the phone, she will really like him and then be more open to going on a date with him.

Yet, almost all women do not need long phone calls to say, "Yes" to a date. All a woman needs is to feel a bit attracted to you and for you then to have the balls to say, "Hey, we should catch up sometime this week" and then arrange a time to meet up.

2 Common Mistakes That Guys Make on Phone Calls With Women

Some guys are great at getting phone numbers, but it never seems to lead to a date, kiss, sex and relationship.

Why?

Here are 2 common mistakes that I see guys makingâ€¦

1. Acting like just a friend.

When a woman gives a guy her phone number, itâ€™s not because she is looking for another friend.

Something about him triggered her feelings of sexual attraction and she wants to see where things will go (i.e. go on a date, kiss, have sex and see if she wants to have a real relationship with him).

So, when a guy calls a woman up and all he wants to do is chat, gossip and catch up on her day, all heâs managing to do is kill any feelings of attraction she might be feeling for him.

Yes, she might still like him as a person, and yes, she might enjoy talking with him on the phone, but if heâs not actively sparking her feelings of sexual attraction and moving things forward by asking her out on a date, kissing, having sex and starting a relationship with her, she will usuallyÂ just think of him as a nice, friendly guy and then open herself up to hooking up with a guy who wants to be more than just her phone friend.

If you get a womanâs number, my direct advice to you is to get to the point.

Get her to meet up with you, kiss her, have sex with her and then get on with having a relationship.

Donât waste time acting like a friend if what you really want to do is start a sexual, committed relationship with her.

2. Waiting too long to ask her out.

Having a fun conversation with a woman on the phone is fine, but if all a guy does is talk on the phone without ever asking her out, a woman will begin to wonder, âWhatâs wrong with this guy? Why is he always calling me if he doesnât want to ask me out? Is he gay? Is it just leading me on? Does he lack the confidence to ask me out?â

Eventually, she will usually just assume that heâs too nervous and insecure to make a move, lose interest in him and then move on to a guy who has the confidence to take the lead.

Always remember: Talking on the phone with a woman is not as important as getting her on a date where you can then re-connect with her and move things forward to the next level (e.g. kissing, sex and a relationship).

The main reason you should get a woman on a phone call is to re-spark her feelings of sexual attraction for you (e.g. via your confidence, sense of humor, charm), and then get her on a date as soon as possible where you can move things forward to kissing, sex and a relationship.

Donât use phone calls as a way to hopefully get her to like you over time. Get to the point and make something happen with her right now.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Text to a Woman

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The main rule of texting a woman is to keep things pretty short and to the point and then transition to a phone call.

Transitioning to a phone call speeds up the process of then getting her to agree to meet up with you in person, where you can then attract her properly and escalate to a kiss, sex and then relationship.

However, if you waste a lot of time (e.g. days, weeks or months) texting a woman, there's no guarantee that she will wait around for you.

If another guy comes along and gets her to meet up with him and have sex with him, you may be forgotten and left behind regardless of how long you've been texting with her.

Some Dos and Don'ts of Texting

So, how do you keep things short and then move to a phone call, date, sex and relationship?

First offâ€¦!

1. Do text her to let her know youâ€¦re interested in her.

[image: What to text a woman examples]

A lot of guys who get a phone number from a woman are worried about looking too keen or interested.

Yet, here's what you need to remember if you want to be successful with womenâ€¦!

Prior to SEX, you ain't got nothing.

You might have her phone number and she may have liked you when she met you, but prior to actually having sex with her you are just another guy that she's given her number to.

So, don't waste time trying to act cool by not texting her for a long time. Get things moving along by texting her that night or the next day.

Imagine thisâ€¦!

You meet an attractive woman (e.g. at a party, bar or club, through mutual friends) and she gives you her phone number.

Before you walk away, you say, "Okay, great to meet you. I'll send you a text or give you a call soon."

Now what? What should you text her?

[image: What to text a woman examples]

One of the best ways to make contact with her for the first time is to just send her a text message to say hi, and let her know that you are interested in her.

For example:

- 1. The same night: Hi Linda, itâ€¦s Dan here. I just wanted to say hello so you've got my number too. Chat to you soon.

2. The next day: Hey, Dan here. It was great meeting you the other night. I'll call you early this week.
3. The next day: Hey Linda. Dan from the other night (the very handsome guy at the bar). I hope you're having a great day. Chat to you soon â I'll give you a call tomorrow or the next day.

Sending her a text like that serves two purposes:

1. Now she has your number and can text you or call you if she wants to.
2. She is clear about your interest in her and doesn't have to waste a lot of time wondering if you're ever going to contact her or not.

It's great that you've gotten her number and have sent the first text, but just remember that prior to sex, there are no guarantees that she will remain interested.

If you want to be successful at having lovers or getting a girlfriend, you've got to move things forward to sex as soon as possible, rather than wasting a lot of time with sex.

Today's world doesn't work in the same way as it did for your grandparents or their parents.

Back in the old days, a man could court a woman for months and she would remain loyal to him because sex before marriage was forbidden.

Yet, in today's world, people have sex right away, so if you waste a lot of time texting a woman, another guy will simply come along, have sex with her and start a relationship.

The sexual encounter may then lead to a long term relationship or even marriage and you will have then lost your chance with her.

2. Don't text her all the time.

Imagine that you sent her a text message and she replied saying, â Hey Dan. It was nice meeting you too. I look forward to hearing from you.â

What do you do next?

Some guys will take this as a sign that she's interested (which she is) and will then make the mistake of texting her repeatedly as a way to stay on her mind and to keep reminding her how much he likes her.

Bad move.

For example: A guy like might start sending her texts about what he's up to during the day, keep telling her how beautiful she is, how his heart beats faster when he thinks about her, or even how glad he is that he's finally met a girl who seems right for him.

In his mind, he's being romantic and he's hoping that this will make her like him even more and she will then be willing to go out on a date with him.

Yet, if he hasn't even kissed her, a modern woman is usually going to find this type of texting creepy or desperate; not romantic.

Of course, unattractive women or some young girls who are totally inexperienced in dating and relationships might enjoy his attention for a little while, but a real woman won't be charmed by this type of constant, sappy attention.

Most women will take it as a sign that he's desperate and she will also begin to wonder if heâ□□s got anything else going on in his life, because a real man who is actively rising through the levels of life doesnâ□□t have the time to send pointless texts to women.

If she gets that impression of him, an attractive woman will usually begin to think that heâ□□s not the type of guy she wants in her life.

Women are instinctively attracted to strong (emotionally), confident men who know what they want from life and are striving to accomplish their goals.

A woman instinctively knows that a guy like that will be able to take care of her and will be someone she can rely on in difficult times.

On the other hand, a weak, desperate and insecure guy is a turn off, because most women donâ□□t want to feel like they are doing a guy a favor by being with him, or that they are finally giving him a sense of purpose in life.

Women want to be the ones who feel lucky to have snagged a cool guy who has big goals and ambitions other than just women.

So, if you donâ□□t want her to think youâ□□re a desperate, needy guy who hasnâ□□t got other options with women besides her, simply relax and donâ□□t get too carried away texting her several times a day; no matter how tempting it might be, or even if sheâ□□s doing it first.

3. Do text her like a confident, masculine man.

[image: What to text a woman examples]

A common mistake guys make is getting sucked into texting in a girly or childish way.

Women hate that. Why?

Women are attracted to our masculinity, rather than any fake femininity or confused femininity.

A woman doesn't want you to think, act, feel, talk, behave or respond like a girl.

She wants you to embrace your masculinity and be manly, even if she is being really girly.

For example: Some men (even though they are in their 20s, 30s, 40s or 50s) will copy the texting style of young girl or boy by texting things like:

- im l8t c u in 15
- r u bizzee?
- c u l8r
- OMGâ□|u r funny 2 nite
- c u soon â□|xoxoxo

Do you think that a woman will perceive a guy as being a masculine, manly guy if he texts her in that way?

No.

She's going to think of him as being a bit immature and lacking in masculinity.

Compare that to a guy who cleaned up that texting style and wrote like a mature man:

- I'm running late. See you in 15.
- Are you busy right now?
- See you later.

- Hahaâ€¦you're funny tonight.
- See you soon.

See the difference?

The first examples look like texts from a little boy or girl, while the second versions are cleaned up to be more mature, masculine and classy.

So, when you text a woman, make sure that your texting style is that of a confident, masculine man, rather than acting like a girl or boy.

For example:

The wrong way for a guy to text a woman would be, â€¦Hey, i lyke u. u wanna go on a d8t wit me?â€¦ while the right way would be, â€¦Hey Jenny â€¦ great meeting you the other night. I've give you a call soon.â€¦

In the wrong way to text a woman, not only does the guy come across as being girly and childish, which is a turn off for most women, but he is also asking a woman out on a date via text, which is a definite no-no.

In the right way to text a woman, the guy sounds strong, confident and in control; all qualities that are sexually attractive to women.

Women want guys who behave like men, not like little girly boys who want to behave in a cutesie way, hoping to fit in and be liked by acting like her.

4. Donâ€¦t use texting as an excuse not to call her.

Some guys get a womanâ€¦s phone number, but after making the initial effort to text her, they freeze up and stop there, because they lack confidence in their ability to attract her again in person and keep her interested in a relationship begins.

They start to doubt themselves and may begin thinking, â€¦What if I call her up and she doesnâ€¦t like me after all? or “What if I call her and I freeze up? Sheâ€¦ll think Iâ€¦m an idiot. At least texting is safe. I can think about what Iâ€¦m going to say to her first. Besides, she seems okay with me textingâ€¦”

The fact is, no matter how nice and safe it might feel to text a woman, and even if it seems like sheâ€¦s enjoying it, itâ€¦s not going to go anywhere until you pick up the phone and arrange to meet her in person.

You need to get her on a phone call so you can get her laughing and feeling excited to be talking to you again.

On a phone call, she can re-connect with those feelings of attraction she felt when she was interacting with you in person, because she can experience things about you that turned her on (e.g. your confidence, charm, masculine vibe).

Keep Your Eyes on the Prize

As you can see, what to text to a woman is not really that important as getting her on a call, meeting up with her and then having sex with her.

The most important thing you need to remember, is that if you donâ€¦t meet up with her in person and get to kissing and sex so that a real relationship can begin, your “relationship” with her is only a fantasy.

It might feel good to text back and forth, and it might even feel great to talk to her over the phone, but it's nothing compared to the feeling of holding her in your arms, kissing her, having sex and enjoying the pleasure of a loving, committed relationship.

So, when you get a woman's phone number, text her to let her know that you are interested, get her on a phone call, and then get on with the business of starting a relationship with her.

Don't waste time texting and hoping that if you can just send her a magical text message, you won't have to do much to attract her in person.

Texts should only be used as a way to let her know that you're interested, have a bit of a laugh via text and then get her on a call.

If you don't get to the point of having sex with her, another guy can easily come along and do things properly and he will then get into a real relationship with her.

So, if you have a woman's number right now, text her to let her know that you're interested or to make her laugh a little and then get her on a call.

When you're on a call with her, get her laughing a little more and then arrange a time to catch up in person.

When you catch up in person, move the date to kissing and then sex.

When that happens, you will have begun a real relationship, rather than just a temporary text exchange.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Text a Girl You Just Met: 4 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Okay, so, you've got a girl's number and you're getting ready to text her for the first time. What should you text? Here are 4 examples:

1. Right after getting her number: Hi Amy, it's Dan here. Talk to you soon.
2. Right after getting her number (humor): "Here's a text so you have my number too. Try not to call me too much because my wife might get suspicious. Dan" She will then send you an LOL if she knows that you're joking or ask, "Huh, are you married?" and you can then reply, "No, just kidding ð I'll give you a call soon. Great to meet you ;)"
3. The morning after: Hey Amy, it's Dan here – the handsome guy from the party last night. It was great to meet you. I'll give you a call sometime soon.
4. Two days after you met her: Hey, Dan here. Great meeting you the other night. I'll give you a call sometime soon.

As you can see, you're keeping your text message short and sweet, or you're adding in a bit of humor to make her feel more attracted after giving you her number.

[image: What to text a girl to start a conversation]

You're simply letting her know that you're interested in her and you're making sure that now she has your phone number too.

What often happens to women is that many guys will ask for her phone number, but will never actually get to the point of contacting her.

Why? Most guys will chicken out and think that the woman isn't interested enough, so they will just go out approaching and meeting women again and hope to meet a girl who makes it super obvious that she is interested.

Yet, most women don't like to make it too obvious that they are keen because they want to attract a confident guy, rather than making it really easy for an insecure, self-doubting guy to get a chance.

This is why it's a good idea to text a girl when you get her number, rather than trying to act cool by not texting her for a few days.

[image: First text message to a girl examples]

When you text her, you are simply reminding her of the connection you had, and if you managed to make her feel attracted to you when you first met her, she will be excited to see that you are interested in her and are not messing her around like other guys do.

Texting her briefly works because you're:

- You're creating anticipation in her, by making her wonder when you are going to call her.
- You're giving her a quick reminder of why she liked you enough to give you her number (e.g. by being confident, charming).
- You're making sure that she now also has your contact number.

However, even though texting is fine when making contact with a girl for the first time (e.g. if she's a bit shy), the fastest way to get her out on a date is to get her on a phone call as quickly as possible.

When you call her up, she will then be able to laugh, smile and feel good as she listens to how confident, charming and interesting you are as you talk to her.

However, if you just hide behind text, it can often lead to the girl getting bored and losing interest because she isn't getting to experience the real you.

Remember: She's not looking to have sex or a relationship with your texts.

She wants to hear your voice and see you in person, not just read and reply to text messages for the rest of her life.

Text Message Examples: 4 Mistakes to Avoid

The main reason why getting a girl on a phone call as quickly as possible is so important, is because a lot of guys can mess things up with her via a text message and blow their chances before they've even gotten her out on a date.

Here are some examples of where guys mess up:

1. Being too formal about his interest in her.

This will happen when a guy feels really lucky to have gotten a girl's phone number.

He will then text her and say things like, Hi Susan. Thank you for giving me your phone number. It was really nice to meet you last night. I'm looking forward to going on a date with you and hopefully developing a friendship that leads to a relationship.

Why is this an example of what not to text a girl you like?

He's coming across as a lying, fake nice guy who is pretending as though he's not even interested in sex.

He just wants to start with a friendship and then hopefully get into a relationship with her.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is that outdated, early 1900s approach to women is a huge turn off these days.

Watch this video for more info!

Guys who hear women saying, "I just want a nice guy" often misunderstand what women are really saying and then try to act like the nicest guy in the world.

When a woman says, "I just want a nice guy," what she really means is that, "I want a guy to make me feel attracted to him by being confident, charismatic, charming and masculine in his behavior, but I also want him to be nice."

Women can't find guys like that because they are usually taken, so they often have to settle for confident guy who don't treat them very well.

That is why they complain and say that they can't find a nice guy. However, 95% of guys confuse the, "I just want to be a nice guy" statement to mean that a woman is saying, "I want a nice guy who courts me for months, doesn't expect or want sex, just wants to be my friend, takes me to expensive restaurants and essentially sucks up to me."

That is not what she wants.

She wants a good guy who also has some balls, not a scared nice guy who acts like the woman would be doing him a favor by going out with him.

Of course, there are some unattractive or desperate girls who have nothing else going on for them in their lives and will find this type of message exciting, but the majority of attractive girls will find it creepy and off-putting.

The key to success when texting a girl you've just met is to let her know that you're interested in her, without coming across as though you feel super lucky that she's given you her phone number.

2. Texting like a girl.

These days, a lot of guys make the mistake of texting in a cutesie, girly style when chatting with girls because they hope it will help them "get along" with girls better.

It's a mistake because girls are naturally attracted to our masculinity, not fake femininity.

Essentially, if you act like a girl, you are as attractive to her as a masculine woman would be to you.

Do you feel attracted to masculine, manly women who want to be men (e.g. butch lesbians), or do you prefer feminine, girly women?

No doubt you prefer girls who embrace their femininity, rather than women who want to be men.

Likewise, girls like guys who embrace their masculinity, rather than acting like they want to be a girl too.

Here are some examples of a girly texting style:

- hi how r u? im brd
- was gr8 2 meet u.
- I lyke u.
- wat u doin?
- OMG! no he didn't!
- Do u lyke me?
- OMG! I'm soooo bored. Wat u doin?

It's not the end of the world if a guy texts like that, but it definitely doesn't help his chances with a girl because it simply doesn't make her feel attracted.

Girls feel attracted to masculinity, not fake femininity from guys.

Just because girls text that way, it doesn't mean that you should too.

If you want to be attractive to girls, then get into the habit of behaving like a masculine guy at all times; even when you are texting.

Leave the excessive abbreviations (e.g. g8t, wat) and smiley faces to the girls and focus on making her feel attracted to your masculine vibe instead.

3. Overwhelming her with attention.

It's perfectly fine to text a girl once in a while to say hi and see how she's doing, however, some guys go overboard and start to overwhelm the girl with constant texts.

For example: A guy might text a girl in the morning to say hi.

An hour later, he might text to let her know that he's thinking of her, and then a few hours later he will text her to tell her that he saw something that reminds him of her.

The constant attention continues on throughout the day, night, week and month.

Yes, some girls might think heâs being sweet, but the majority of girl will begin to feel annoyed and turned off. Why?

Although girls like to get attention from a guy they like, hearing from him all the time will begin to lose it's charm.

She will take his constant attention as a sign that he is desperate and that heâs got nothing else going on in his life other than annoying her all the time.

Always remember: A girl likes to know that the guy who is interested in her is a catch. That principle applies to pick up and to relationships.

A girl wants to know her guy is the kind of guy that other women would die to have as a boyfriend, but she is the lucky one who has caught him for herself.

Sheâs not going to think that if the guy is always making himself available to her, texting her like crazy and telling her that he's thinking about her 24/7.

4. Acting needy if she doesn't respond right away.

[image: Needy guy texting]

Oftentimes, the same guy who overwhelms a girl with texts will also expect her to respond immediately after she gets a message.

If she doesn't reply right away, he will text her again, this time demanding why sheâs not responding.

For example:

- âI just sent you a message and I didn't hear from you, are you okay?â
- âWhy won't you answer me these days? Don't you like me anymore?â
- âI really miss hearing from you. What's happening?â
- âDid I do something wrong?â
- "Sorry I said something wrong. I really like you. Please tell me what is happening!"

What he doesn't realize is that one of the biggest turn-offs for women is a guy who is insecure.

Women are attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem) and are repelled by emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, self-doubt).

So, whatever you do, avoid coming across as insecure when you text a girl you like.

If You Want Her to Be Your Girlfriend, Just Pick Up the Phone Call Her

[image: Get her on a phone call]

You can look online all this week examples of what to text this girl you've met, but the truth is that if you're only texting her, you're not getting any closer to getting her on a date, kissing, having sex and starting a relationship with her.

As a friend of mine always says, “You ain’t got nothing until you’re humping.”

In other words, this girl isn’t your girlfriend and you won’t have a real relationship with her until you have sex with her.

These days, sex starts a relationship, so don’t waste time avoiding it. Get down to business with her now, before it’s too late.

If you just text with her over the next couple of weeks, another guy can come along, kiss her, have sex with her and begin a relationship and she might then forget about you and get serious with him.

That is why it’s so important to pick up the phone and call her.

On a phone call, it’s easier to make her feel like she did when you met for the first time (e.g. attracted, excited to be talking to you, having a good laugh, emotionally connected).

Remember: A girl cannot hear your voice over a text message, sense what your body language looks like or see your smile.

It’s just words on a screen to her and if you only give her words, they will quickly lose their charm.

Think about it: Have you ever heard a girl say, “He’s got such a sexy texting style?”

No, of course not.

Yet, you’ve most-likely heard a girl say that a guy has a sexy voice or that she gets turned on just by talking to him.

How can you turn a girl on when you talk to her?

You’ve got to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract girls (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, humor).

Watch this video for more info!

So, if you like this girl that you just met, make sure that you don’t waste too much time texting her.

If you text for too long, she may begin to think, “What’s wrong with this guy? Why won’t he call me?” and will assume that you’re probably too nervous and insecure to get her on the phone.

Alternatively, she might get bored and accept a date with another guy who isn’t wasting too much time texting back and forth and is confident enough to call her.

So, get her on a phone call, have a laugh together and then arrange to see her in person. That way, you can get to kissing and sex and a real relationship can begin.

Keep texting to a minimum and having sex to a maximum. More sex, less text.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Makes a Guy Attractive to Women?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you ask most people the question, “What makes a guy attractive to women?” almost all of them will list off things like this:

- Looks.
- Money.
- Social status.
- Height.
- Muscles.
- Big penis.

Yet, although those things can make a guy attractive to women, the fact is that most guys aren’t good looking, very tall, rich or hung like a rhino.

So, how do normal guys (like me) get hot girlfriends?

Watch this video and you will find out...

The real secret to being attractive to women is using your personality (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, humor, masculinity) to trigger a woman’s feelings of attraction for you.

When a guy displays attractive personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities during a conversation with a woman, she can’t stop herself from feeling attracted to him.

It happens naturally and automatically without her having to do anything, just like your attraction to a woman’s physical appearances happens automatically.

So, What Type of Guys Do Women Like?

[image: What women want in a man physically]

If you’re wondering what type of guys women like, the answer is quite simple: Most women like all sorts of guys.

Of course, some women like tall guys and some like guys who are shorter.

Some women like dark guys, and others like blonde guys.

[image: Making a woman melt when you meet her]

Some women like guys with big muscles, or blue eyes, or long hair, or tattoos, and so on and so forth.

Just as guys like different types of women (e.g. blonde, brunette, with big boobs, petite, sporty), each woman has different tastes and preferences.

[image: Making a woman melt]

However, something that the majority of women agree on, is that they all like guys who can make them feel attracted.

When you can trigger a woman’s feelings of sexual attraction by behaving in the ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, charismatic, funny), a woman will usually like you no matter what her preferred type might be.

The Little Secret About Women You Might Not Be Aware Of

Generally speaking, when it comes to feeling attraction for women, most guys know that as long as a woman is attractive, it's pretty certain they will feel attracted to her and will want to have sex with her.

However, what most guys don't realize, is that women are attracted to men for many different reasons besides their appearance.

For example: When a guy sees a beautiful woman, he is instantly attracted to her and is willing to have sex with her regardless of her personality.

Most guys aren't going to think, "I don't know! Yes she has a great body and the face of an angel, and yes, she has the sexiest legs I've ever seen, but I don't think she's very intelligent. Oh, and she's not very funny or interesting to talk to. I just don't think I can bring myself to have sex with her."

For most guys, if a beautiful woman is willing to have sex with him, he will easily overlook the fact that she's not very interesting, intelligent or is really boring during conversation.

On the other hand, most women might initially feel attracted to what a man looks like when she first notices him because she has nothing else to base her opinion on, but, once she is interacting with him, she will base her decision to have sex with him (or be his girlfriend) mainly on how he is making her feel.

If he is triggering her feelings of sexual attraction by being confident, charismatic, funny, masculine, or by displaying any of the other behaviors that women are naturally attracted to, she will want to have sex with him and be with him, even if he is not very good looking.

On the other hand, if he's nervous, insecure, self-doubting and boring during conversation, even if he is exactly her type in appearance, she will lose interest in him because he is not making her feel the way she wants to feel in his presence.

Being a Woman's Type Doesn't Guarantee That She Will Want to Have Sex or Be Your Girlfriend

Asking what type of guys do women like is like saying the winning numbers of a lottery ticket are going to be the same every week.

It's impossible for a lottery ticket to have the same winning numbers every week, and it is impossible for women to only like one type of guy.

If all women only dated one type of guy, most of the guys in the world would be single and lonely. Yet, that isn't the case at all.

If you don't believe this is true, take a look around you the next time you go out to a public place. Notice that there are many different types of guys, many of them with beautiful girlfriends or wives.

Yet, most of them are not typically good looking. Many guys who are average, or below average looking, short, bald, overweight, have big ears or are flawed in other ways, have attractive and even stunning girlfriends.

On the other hand, you will also see really good looking guys who are single and lonely (and not by choice).

Why?

The plain, unattractive guys have mastered the skill of attracting beautiful women with their personality (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, interesting to talk to), while the good looking guys who fail with women rely mostly on their good looks to maintain a woman's attraction, but lack the personality traits that are most attractive to women.

The majority of women are attracted mostly to how a man makes her feel when she's with him.

If he can make her feel attracted by being confident, charming, making her laugh, she will be open to being with him, and over time, the more he makes her feel attracted with his behavior and personality, the more attractive he will become in her eyes.

Even if he's perceived as being ugly by other people, to her he will look attractive because of the way he thinks, behaves and acts when he interact with her.

Naturally, this isn't true for all women. There are women who will only date good looking, rich or successful guys, but the majority of women are open to feeling attracted to all sorts of guys as long as the guy can spark her feelings of sexual attraction for him by behaving in the ways that are naturally attractive to her.

Fortunately, even if a guy doesn't have these personality traits and behaviors, it's something he can develop.

2 Reasons Why a Woman Might Say That a Man is Not Her Type

When a guy is not making a woman feel sexually attracted to him, she will often say, âYou're nice, but you're not my type.â

Where many guys go wrong, is they assume that this means she is saying that they are not good looking enough, rich enough, successful enough or some other similar excuse.

However, when a woman says a guy is not her type, it's usually because he is making some of the following mistakes!

1. He's behaving like the perfect gentleman

Growing up, many guys are told by their well-meaning mother, âIf you want to find a nice girl you have to be a gentleman. You have to be nice and respectful towards her, buy her flowers, open doors for her, pull out her chair and treat her like a princess. Nice girls don't like men who don't have good intentions towards them.â

However, as good as his mother's intentions might be, in reality this type of advice often leads men down the wrong track with women.

Although there is nothing wrong with being a nice guy and treating a woman in a gentlemanly way, if she's not feeling sexually attracted to the guy first, she's not going to care if he's a gentleman or not.

In fact, even the well-meaning mothers will admit that the reason they first fell in love with their husbands is because, "He was a bit of a bad boy," or "He was so determined and had so much purpose."

The reason women are attracted to so-called bad boys is because these guys know how to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction by behaving in ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, charismatic, funny, masculine).

You do NOT have to be a bad boy to get women to feel attracted to you. Instead, you simply need to trigger a woman's feelings of attraction while also being the good guy that you are.

The bottom line is, if you want to be a woman's type, you have to forget about trying to be liked for being nice and focus instead on sparking her feelings of sexual attraction for you first.

The more attraction you can make her feel for you, the more she will see you as being her type, and the more she will appreciate the fact that you're also a gentleman and a good guy.

2. He's pretending to be her friend

If you want to start a sexual relationship with a woman, you have to make her feel attracted to you first.

A common mistake guys make with women they like is pretend they only want to be her friend, even though their desire is to have sex with her and start a relationship with her.

If you pretend to be a woman's friend she will develop nice, friendly feelings towards you. Then, if you suddenly come out and tell her, "I really like you. Do you want to go on a date with me," she will more than likely give you the, "I like you too, but only as a friend," or "You're like a brother to me. I really care for you but you're just not my type," speech.

The fact is: When you interact with a woman you want to have sex with, don't pretend that you don't. You might think that if she likes you first as a friend and as a person you stand a better chance of her wanting to have sex with you, but that's not the case.

A woman will have sex with the guy who is triggering her feelings of sexual attraction and is making her feel the way she wants to feel when she's interacting with him.

So, if you want to get into a sexual relationship with a woman, focus on making her feel attracted by behaving in the ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, charming, masculine, interesting to talk to).

Focus On Making Her Feel Attracted

Instead of wasting time trying to figure out what type of guys women like, you need to focus on making them feel attracted to you.

The more ways you can make a woman feel attracted to you (e.g. by being confident, by making her feel girly and feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe, by making her laugh), the more interested she is going to be in you.

When a woman is attracted to you she will show her interest in you depending on her personality (e.g. some women will play hard to get while others will be easy).

The key is not to give up and think, "I'm just not her type," if a woman is playing hard to get. She is simply testing you to see if you have the confidence and emotional strength to handle her tests.

Just stay confident, focus on making her feel attracted and then confidently move things forward to kissing, sex and a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Type of Men Do Women Like These Days?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The type of man that women like never goes out of style.

He is:

- Confident when he talks to her and other people, confident when takes action in life and confident no matter what challenges come his way.
- Masculine in how he thinks, feels, talks, behaves, takes action and reacts and responds to her.
- Loving and respectful towards her, but also loving and respectful of himself (i.e. he is a good, loving man, but he doesn't allow himself to be disrespected).
- Funny in the way he makes her laugh and feel good around him.

Regardless of what country you live in, how old or young the woman is or what cultural trends are going on in society, women always like those type of men.

It's Not All About Looks

Have you ever heard a woman say anything like this?

“Oh, that guy over there is sooo my type” or “he's so cute” or “He's really sweet, but he's just not my type.”

This can be very confusing to a lot of guys, which is why many guys will ask, “What type of men do women like?” and they will assume that it must all be about looks because they usually just women refer to good looking guys as cute, handsome and sexy.

Yet, the real answer to the question of, “What type of men do women like?” is that most women like all types of men who display naturally attractive personality traits and behaviors.

Watch this video and you will understand why!

The one thing the majority of women can't help themselves from feeling sexually attracted to, is certain personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities in men (e.g. confidence, charisma, a masculine vibe, humor).

Depending on how a guy behaves when he interacts with a woman, he can either make her feel attracted (and he will then be her type), or he can turn her off (and he will then not be her type).

For example: If a guy approaches a woman and displays nervousness, self-doubt and insecurity when interacting with her, she will instinctively feel turned off by him, and she will likely say,

“He's just not my type.”

Saying that he's not her type is her way of explaining why she's feeling turned off by him.

It's not a conscious thing for her (because the guy might even be very good looking), but if he's nervous and insecure and behaving in other ways that are unattractive to women, she will just write it off as him not being the type of guy she prefers.

On the other hand, if the guy approaching her is relaxed, easy going and confident, can get her laughing and can make her feel feminine and girly in contrast to his masculine vibe, she is naturally going to feel very attracted to him, and she will see him as being her type.

The way that women feel attracted to guys isn't what most guys believe it to be.

Most guys go through life thinking that they either have to LOOK like a woman's type or they will have no chance with her.

Yet, that just isn't true.

Do You Understand How Women Choose Men?

Imagine this!

You walk into a room full of beautiful women.

There are tall women, short women, women with long hair, and women with short hair. There are women with big boobs and women with long legs.

There are blondes, brunettes, redheads and everything in between.

The one thing all of these women have in common is they are all beautiful and they are all willing to have sex with you.

They want to have sex with you right now, but you don't even know anything about the women other than them looking beautiful.

Would you?

1. Go ahead and have sex with as many of the beautiful women as you like?
2. Say, "Oh, no thanks. I can't have sex right away. I need to know if a woman has a nice personality first. What if she's not very intelligent or confident? I just can't have sex with a woman unless I know she's a nice person first. She has to be intelligent and have a good job too."

If you picked answer #1, you are like the majority of guys on this planet: A normal, healthy guy who is mostly attracted to the physical appearance of women.

Why?

It's the nature of men to be attracted to women based on their appearance.

If a woman is beautiful (or even just attractive) a guy isn't going to resist having sex with her, simply because she might also be a bit boring, not very intelligent, or even not a very nice person.

Most guys just don't care what a woman thinks, what she cares about, what she does for a living, what her name is, etc.

If she is physically attractive, most guys will want to have sex with her FIRST and then get to know her LATER.

Yet, the same rule doesn't apply to how women feel attracted to, and choose, men.

An attractive woman knows that she can have sex with the majority of men she interacts with on a daily basis, but she isn't interested because most of those guys simply don't know how to spark her feelings of sexual attraction.

Watch this video and you will see what I mean!

Without really understanding what is going on, most men go through life feeling an instant desire and wanting to have sex with random women based on the woman's appearance alone.

Most of these guys (about 95% based on my experience helping men to succeed with women) also make the mistake of assuming that women must be attracted to men for the same reasons that men are attracted to women.

They assume that women are mostly attracted to a man's physical appearance (because that's what men feel mostly attracted to in women), and that everything else is not really that important to her.

Yet, that's not the case at all.

For a man to be a woman's type and to make her feel sexually attracted to him, he needs to also have a lot of other things going on for him that have nothing to do with his appearance.

Are You Making Excuses For Your Lack of Success With Women?

When a guy asks, "What type of men do women like?" he will often be secretly making excuses for his lack of success with women.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

For example: A guy might approach a woman he feels attracted to in a bar and ask her if she would like a drink.

However, because he's not making her feel attracted (e.g. by being confident, charming, charismatic) she loses interest and rejects him.

Rather than realize that it was his behavior (e.g. he was being insecure, self-doubting, too serious) that caused her to reject him, he assumes that it's because he's not good looking, rich, or successful enough for her.

He then goes through life assuming that the type of men women like and choose to have sex with and be in relationships with, are the good looking, rich guys with big muscles and fancy cars.

However, that is clearly not accurate.

You can prove it to yourself the next time you are out in a public place.

Just take a look at all the couples around you, and you will see that most of the guys with attractive (and even beautiful) girlfriends and wives are just average looking guys with average jobs.

So what is their secret?

They have discovered that almost all women don't select guys purely based on looks, money, social status, muscles and penis size.

Yes, some women do select men for superficial reasons, but the majority of women feel attracted to how a guy can make her feel when he interacts with her.

If a guy is triggering her feelings of sexual attraction (e.g. by being confident and charismatic around her, making her feel sexy and desirable in contrast to his masculine vibe, making her laugh and feel excited to be talking to him), a woman will usually feel more than enough attraction for him regardless of his appearance, money or status.

So, if you want to be successful with women, you've got to be able to attract her in more important ways that just by the way you look, or the car you drive, or the balance in your bank account.

Just Because a Woman Tests You, it Doesn't Mean You're Not Her Type

One of the main reasons why many guys assume they are not a woman's type, is because when they approach her and try to hook up with her, she either acts cold and aloof, shows interest one minute and then ignores him the next, or tests him in some other way.

When a woman behaves in this way, it is her way of testing to see how the guy will react.

- Is he going to be nervous and self-doubting, or will he remain confident and relaxed?
- Will he maintain his cool and positive vibe, or will he crumble as soon as he's faced with a challenging situation?

Why do women test guys?

A woman's instinct is to find a guy who will be capable of surviving in today's challenging world.

She needs a guy who will be able to do well in life, protect her and any offspring they might have together, make her feel good, get along with her family and friends, and be able to stand up for himself without crumbling at the first sign of a challenge.

So, rather than hook up with a weak man who will crumble under social pressure, she would rather test him first.

If a guy passes a woman's tests and remains relaxed, confident and self-assured, she will assume that he is her type, because he is triggering her feelings of sexual attraction via his behavior and personality.

Most Women Like All Types of Men

Worrying about what type of men women like is actually a waste of time.

All you need to focus on is making a woman feel attracted to you by displaying the types of behaviors and personality traits that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculinity, humor).

Just like any other guy, you won't be able to pick up every woman in the world (no one can), but you will be able to attract most women and from that, you can select who you want.

When a woman feels the way she wants to feel when she interacts with you (i.e. attracted, emotionally connected), she will rarely stop herself from having sex with you or becoming your girlfriend just because you're not tall enough, or have big enough muscles.

When a woman feels attracted to a man and emotionally connected to him, she will see him as her type regardless of what she might have said before she met him.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

When is the Best Time to Talk to a Girl?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Is there such a thing as the best time to talk to a girl?

Yes and no.

If you are a very confident guy, you can talk to a girl at any time and it will go well.

For example: A girl might be sitting in a restaurant with a group of friends eating and laughing, and although it might seem like a bad time to talk to her, if a guy can approach in a relaxed, confident, easy-going way and strike up a conversation with the group, he can easily find himself sitting next to, and having a great conversation with the girl he likes.

On the other hand, if he approaches the group in a nervous, hesitant, insecure way, the situation will usually play itself out differently (e.g. he will get the cold shoulder from the group, the girl he likes will ignore him), simply because his vibe is out of sync with that of everyone else.

Girls don't want a nervous guy coming over and dragging the positive energy of their group down, so they will just shut him off, rudely reject him or make fun of him to keep themselves feeling good.

However, if a confident guy approaches and is relaxed, the girls will pay attention and they will be happy to talk to him if he can add some good vibes to the group.

When the girls notice that he is being accepted by the group, they all start to feel attracted to him. Why?

Girls feel more attracted to a guy's personality and confidence than looks, so it's often difficult for a girl to work out whether a guy is attractive.

When she sees that the other girls like him, it gives her a green light to feel attracted to him too.

Before she knows it, she is competing with most of the girls in the group for his attention and is trying to be the one that he likes the most.

He then simply needs to remain confident, build on the attraction and select the girl he wants.

Watch this video to understand how a girl's attraction for a guy really works!

So, if you're wondering "When is the best time to talk to a girl?" just know that everything will be fine if you can be confident, relaxed and spark her attraction for you.

20 Examples of Where You Can Approach and Talk to a Girl

[image: Is it okay to just walk up and talk to a girl?]

20 examples of a good time to talk to a girl is when she is:

1. Sitting in a cafeteria on her own.
2. In the line next to you at a coffee shop (e.g. ordering coffee at Starbucks).
3. Shopping in a grocery store.
4. In the library.
5. Sitting next to you, or near you, on public transport (e.g. subway, train, bus, tram).
6. In a bar or club.

7. At the gym (but not while she's working out).
8. On a lunch break (e.g. at work, university).
9. At a party.
10. At a concert.
11. At a wedding.
12. In the park (e.g. walking her dog, sitting on a bench, feeding the ducks).
13. At a hobby club (e.g. cooking class, dance class, hiking club).
14. At a ballgame.
15. In the elevator.
16. At a cultural event.
17. At a festival.
18. At the beach.
19. At the mall.
20. In places where you have to queue or wait for a while (e.g. at the bank, government offices, dentist).

On the other hand, there are some situations where you just have to use your better judgment and decide whether it's a good time to talk to a girl or not.

For example: You should not try to have a long conversation with a girl if she is

- Having a meal with her parents.
- With her boss or lecturer.
- In the middle of a serious conversation with someone.
- Working (e.g. she's a waitress, shop assistant) and she is busy.
- At the funeral of a relative or close friend.
- At the gym while she is busy working out.

Basically, as long as you approach a girl with confidence, and focus on making her feel attracted to you when you do, by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, sense of humor), then any time is the best time to talk to a girl.

What is Stopping You From Talking to Girls Right Now?

When a guy asks, "When is the best time to talk to a girl?" it's usually because he is feeling too nervous and insecure to just walk up to a girl and strike up a conversation.

If that is true for you, watch this video to understand how to build the type of confidence that will allow you to approach and talk to girls whenever you want...

What a guy like this doesn't realize, is that it's not when he talks to a girl that is going to make a difference whether she will be interested in him or not, but his behavior while he's doing it (e.g. is he making her feel attracted via his confidence and charm, is he making her laugh).

For example: If he is nervous, hesitant or insecure, chances are he will be rejected.

On the other hand, if a guy is confident, relaxed and easy-going when he talks to her, regardless of where she is, she will most-likely respond in a positive way.

Women are attracted to the strength in men and like it when a guy knows what he wants and isn't afraid to go after it.

On the other hand, women are turned off by the weakness in men, because a woman knows instinctively that if a guy isn't confident enough to strike up a simple conversation with her, then how will he handle the real challenges in his life?

Do You Know What Girls Really Want From Guys?

Many guys go through life thinking that girls are attracted to guys for the same reasons guys are attracted to girls.

Essentially, guys are mostly attracted to women because of their appearance, so, they assume that women choose men in the same way.

For this reason, when a guy is attracted to a beautiful girl and wants to talk to her, he makes the mistake of thinking that he has to look a certain way for her to want to talk to him too.

For example: A guy might be a student at a university and he might feel attracted to a beautiful girl on campus.

However, rather than just approach her and strike up a conversation with her, he makes excuses as to why he doesn't do it. He might say, "I will talk to her, but I have to find the best time to do it," or, "I can't just talk to her any time I want; it has to be a good time for her."

The truth is, he is not talking to her because it's not a good time for her, but rather because deep down he's probably thinking:

- "Why would a beautiful girl like her want to talk to a guy like me?"
- "What if I'm not her type? She probably only goes out with very good looking guys."
- "What if I talk to her and she rejects me?"
- "What if she's too busy to talk to me?"
- "What if she laughs at me or humiliates me in front of everyone?"
- "What if I freeze up and don't know what to say to her?"
- "What if I make a fool of myself?"

What a guy like this doesn't realize is that the majority of women (not all), judge men on their confidence, personality and character, rather than looks, money or status.

Naturally, before a woman has a chance to experience a man's confidence and personality, she will have to judge him about something, so she will naturally look at the superficial things about him like his looks, popularity, body language, to base her attraction on.

However, once she interacts with him, her attraction will either get stronger, or she will even feel repelled by him (even if he is very good looking), if his behavior is not attractive to her.

For example: If she interacts with a good looking guy and he is arrogant, puts on an act trying to impress her, or behaves in other ways that are unattractive to women, her attraction for him will fade.

On the other hand, if an average looking or even unattractive guy talks to her and is displaying the personality traits and behaviors that women are instinctively drawn to (e.g. confidence, charm, masculinity), her feelings of attraction for him will grow.

Basically, when you can attract women with your confidence and personality, they forget about your looks and begin to fall in love with who you are as a man.

So, consider that, if you are not a very good looking guy and you feel that you can't get women to feel attraction for you from a distance, then it is important for you to walk over to them and let them experience your attractive personality traits.

This is why it is so important for you to not sit around wasting time thinking, "When is the best time to talk to a girl?"

While you're debating when to talk to her, she is not getting the opportunity to interact with you and experience your confidence, charm, sense of humor or other great qualities for herself.

If she can't interact with you and experience your personality, she won't be feeling attraction for you.

Attraction always comes first; then everything else (e.g. kissing, sex, a relationship) will easily follow.

3 Things to Remember When You Talk to a Girl

[image: The best time to talk to a girl you like]

Here are some things to remember when you talk to a girl:

1. She will test you.

Women test men, regardless of whether she's only just met him, or if they have been in a relationship together for a long time. Why?

She wants to see if he is going to be insecure and crumble at the first sign of resistance from her, or will he remain confident and relaxed. Why?

She wants to feel safe with the guy she is with, because we live in a challenging and sometimes dangerous world. Girls don't want to get involved with a guy who crumbles under pressure.

What a lot of guys don't understand is that when a woman tests them, they can use that as an opportunity to make her feel even more attraction.

So, if you talk to a girl and she tests you in some way (e.g. acts bored, shows interest one minute and ignores you the next), if you can maintain your confidence in yourself, stay cool and just continue believing in yourself, she will not be able to help herself from feeling more attracted to you.

2. You have to make her feel attracted.

Some guys make the mistake of being nice and getting a woman to like them as a friend or as a person first.

Liking a guy and feeling attracted to him is not the same thing. A woman can like you as a person or a friend, but that doesn't mean she is going to feel sexually attracted to you and will want to kiss, have sex and be in a relationship with you.

So, when you talk to a girl, you have to focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction via your personality (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, making her feel girly in response to your masculine vibe).

Only when she feels attracted to you will she be eager to start a relationship with you.

One of the best ways to make a girl feel attracted during a conversation is to show her that you're not afraid to be yourself.

Girls hate it when guys put on an act to hopefully impress them. On the other hand, girls respect guys who just be themselves and don't feel like they need to work hard to impress her.

3. Confidence is king.

[image: When do girls like to be approached?]

Confidence is something everyone can have; it's a choice.

You can choose to be confident and believe in yourself and your abilities, or you can choose to be insecure and self-doubting.

The biggest favor you can do for yourself is to make sure that you choose to be confident.

Confidence is the number one thing that women are attracted to in men, so when you talk to a girl, make sure that you believe in yourself. When you do, she will not be able to help herself from feeling attracted to you.

Just Walk Up to Her and Talk to Her

[image: When to talk to a girl you like]

Don't wait around hoping for the best time to talk to a girl, just walk up to her, make her feel attracted to you via your confidence, charm, by making her laugh, and then move things forward to kissing, sex and a relationship.

Nothing is going to happen while you are sitting around wondering, When is the best time to talk to a girl?

In fact, while you are waiting for the perfect moment, you stand the chance of losing her to another guy who has the confidence to make a move.

The best time to talk to a girl is right now, so, strike while the iron is hot.

Talk to her, make her feel attracted and the move forward to a kiss, sex and then relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Where Are All the Single Women? I Can't Seem to Find Any These Days

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you are wondering, “Where are all the single women?” because you haven't been able to find any in your area for a long time, then look no further.

You can find single women everywhere.

For example: Here are 20 places where you can find good, single women:

1. At the mall (walking around, shopping or working in the various department stores).
2. At the gym (working out, or as one of the personal trainers or staff members).
3. In coffee shops (getting coffee, or working there).
4. At work.
5. At universities or colleges.
6. In bars and clubs.
7. In the park (e.g. jogging, walking their dog, taking a yoga class, sitting reading a book).
8. At a house party of a friend or acquaintance.
9. At weddings.
10. At music concerts.
11. At dance classes (e.g. salsa, hip hop, ballroom).
12. At meet up groups in your area.
13. At speed dating events.
14. On online dating sites.
15. At music festivals.
16. At hobby clubs (e.g. painting, cooking, hiking, bike riding)
17. At volunteering or charity groups.
18. On Facebook and other social media sites.
19. At yoga classes.
20. Walking along a shopping street.

As you can see, there are single women everywhere in your area.

However, if you're saying, “Where are all the single women?” then the issue is not that there is shortage of women who are single, but rather that right now, you are having difficulty in approaching women and making them feel attracted.

True?

Has This Been Happening to You?

You're out with some friends and you see a beautiful woman that you feel attracted to. You walk up to her and try to strike up a conversation, only to have her say in a rude way, “Sorry, I have a boyfriend,” and walk away from you.

Alternatively, you're at work (or university) chatting with a pretty co-worker (or co-student).

She seems nice and it looks like the two of you are getting along quite well. She might even say something like, â€œYouâ€™re such a nice guy. I love hanging out with you.â€

You then take that as a sign that she likes you and you either ask her out on a date, or try to kiss her, only for her to pull back and say, â€œSorry if I gave you the wrong impression...I really like you as a person, but not in that way. Weâ€™re just friends, okay? I already have a boyfriend,â€ or, â€œYouâ€™re sweet, but Iâ€™m seeing someone right now.â€

Itâ€™s only natural that if something like this has happened to you, you will be thinking, â€œEvery good, decent woman that I talk to or approach, has a boyfriend. So, where are all the single women then?â€

The truth is, sometimes women will say they have a boyfriend even if they donâ€™t, just to let a guy down easy and not have to get into too much of a discussion about why sheâ€™s not interested in going out with him, kissing him or having sex with him.

Why do women do that?

Women are attracted to men who are confident and emotionally strong and can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction.

So, when a guy approaches her and is nervous or insecure, and shows her that heâ€™s totally impressed by her because sheâ€™s beautiful, she feels turned off because thatâ€™s what she gets from most of the guys she meets.

Attractive Women Like a Guy Who is a Challenge

Many guys who struggle to get laid or find a girlfriend often say, â€œWhy do women have to be so difficult? I donâ€™t understand why they say they have a boyfriend if they donâ€™t.â€

The reason is quite simpleâ€¦

When a woman is beautiful (or even just attractive), she knows that all she has to do is take care of her appearance (e.g. wear sexy clothes, put on make up, do her hair, show off some cleavage or leg), and she can attract a man for sex.

Basically, women know that guys are attracted to women based solely on their appearance. If a woman is attractive, she knows that most guys will be willing to have sex with her; even if sheâ€™s not a very nice person, or if sheâ€™s not very confident or interesting to talk to.

She knows that most of the guys she meets will do the same things, say the same things and try to impress her in the same ways, to get her to have sex with them. To her thatâ€™s like watching the same movie over and over againâ€¦ boring!

Thereâ€™s no challenge there for her.

So, to save herself from hearing the same old pick up lines, and having the same boring conversations, she simply cuts the guy off by saying, â€œI have a boyfriend.â€

Being a challenge is not about pretending that you're not interested in a woman.

Instead, it's about making her feel attracted to you when you interact with her, but letting her see that you are not fully sold on her yet. She still has to impress you some more before she gets a chance with you.

Your Looks Are Not What She is Really Looking For

What most single women want, is to meet a guy who is different from all the guys hitting on her; a guy who can make her feel sexually attracted.

Essentially, unlike men who will have sex with a woman based solely on her looks, a woman needs to experience a man's personality too, before she will open herself to having sex with him and being his girlfriend.

For example: A guy might be very good looking from a distance but if, when he approaches a woman, he behaves in a nervous, insecure way, or if he puts on a fake persona and tries to hit on her using the same old lines, she will feel turned off by him and she will reject him.

On the other hand, when a guy comes along who can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him by behaving, talking and acting in the ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, charismatic, making her laugh, making her feel girly in his presence), she will be drawn to him.

Even if, when she first noticed him, she considered him to be unattractive or not her type, because his behavior and actions are attractive to her, her opinion of him will change, because he is making her feel the way she wants to feel when he interacts with her.

This is the main reason why you will see many guys who you might perceive as being plain or even ugly with attractive girlfriends and wives.

When a guy can make a woman feel attracted to his personality and who he is as a guy, she will overlook any physical flaws (e.g. he's bald, has a big nose or big ears, is overweight) he might have. In fact, she will often even see his physical flaws as something cute or sexy that only her guy has.

What's Stopping You From Finding Single Women?

Are you giving yourself enough opportunities to meet single women, or are you sitting around at home feeling sad and lonely because you might have had some bad experiences with women in the past?

Guys who wonder to themselves, "Where are all the single women?" are often making one of more of the following mistakes.

1. They are too nice.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with being a nice guy to women, but unless you are being a good guy who is also making her feel attracted, she is not going to be interested in having sex with you or being your girlfriend.

Many guys make the mistake of thinking that if they're very nice to a woman and make her like him as a person first, she will then be more interested in him romantically.

However, just because you might have heard women saying, "I just want to find a nice guy," or "I wish a nice guy would hit on me for a change," she's not referring to a polite, nervous, insecure guy who does everything she wants him to do and is always trying to impress her.

The type of nice guy most women are referring to is a decent, good guy who is confident, makes her feel girly and feminine in contrast to his masculine vibe, can make her laugh, is interesting to talk to, etc.

So, if you've been the nice guy who has been striking out, you can change that right now.

Remember: There's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, as long as you also focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you.

When you behave in the ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, charismatic, masculine), not only will she feel sexually attracted to you, she will also love and appreciate the fact that you're also a nice guy.

2. They ignore opportunities to meet single women.

If you read the list at the beginning of this post, you will already know that there are many different places where you can meet single women.

Yet, many guys will go through life saying, "All the good women are taken," or "Where are all the single women?"

The truth is: There are millions of attractive, single women looking to meet a guy just like you for sex and a relationship.

However, if you're not meeting them, could it be because you're ignoring the opportunities all around you?

Quite often a guy will spend most of his time hanging out with other single guys, or home alone watching TV or playing video games, or browsing on Facebook hoping a nice, single girl will approach him, or click like on his page and they can then start a relationship.

That's not how it works.

If you want to meet single women, you have to actively go out and talk to as many women as you can, make them feel sexually attracted, and get their phone number so that you can move things forward to the next level.

No, not all the women you talk to will be single, and not all of them will be compatible with you. However, there are many beautiful, single women who will be compatible with you.

As long as you keep approaching and talking to as many women as possible every day, and focus on making them feel attracted to your confidence, charm, sense of humor, you will not be single for much longer.

3. They immediately try to pick up a woman if she's single.

Some guys are so desperate to hook up with a woman, that when they meet one who is single, they go straight in for the kill.

Unlike men who are ready to have sex with a woman the minute they see her and confirm to themselves that she's attractive, a woman needs experience a guy's personality before she will be excited about hooking up with him.

For example: If a guy tries to pick a woman up and is coming across as desperate, insecure, or pushy, even if he's good looking she won't feel much attraction for him.

On the other hand, if a guy walks over to her in a relaxed, confident way, has a chat with her, flirts a little and allows her to experience his charismatic personality, she will feel attracted to him and she will then be eager to get on with kissing, sex and starting a relationship with him.

Picking Up Single Women is Easier Than You Might Think

You don't have to go around wondering, Where are all the single women? because as you can see, there are single women everywhere just waiting to meet a guy like you.

However, don't expect women to just make it obvious to you that they want to be approached, and in some cases, even to be talking to you.

Yes, some women will make it clear that they like you when you interact with them (e.g. by touching you during conversation, telling you she likes you), but the majority of women don't make it that obvious.

However, the majority of women want to know that the guy they're interacting with is confident and not easily put off when he encounters a bit of resistance.

So, the next time you have the opportunity to talk to a woman; just do it.

Walk up to her in a confident, relaxed way, start a conversation with her and see where things go.

If you focus on making her feel attracted to you by behaving in the ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, charismatic, charming), she will be excited to be talking to you and you can then get her phone number or kiss her and move things forward from there.

If she has a boyfriend, just enjoy the chat with her and either end the conversation by saying, "Okay, well it was good to meet you. Have a great night" or say, "I'm not surprised that you have a boyfriend because you are so pretty, but let me ask you this: Do you have any single girlfriends you can introduce me to?" and she will almost certainly set you up with a date.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Where Can I Find Single Women?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you are asking, “Where can I find single women?” you’d already be aware that you can find single women pretty much anywhere (e.g. at the mall, gym, on the street, at your workplace, at a dog park).

Statistically speaking, if you are in a public place, about 35% of the women will be single and secretly hoping to meet a guy.

All you need to do is be willing to start a conversation, make her feel attracted to you (e.g. by displaying confidence and charisma) and she will either tell you that she is taken or wait for you to make a move and ask for her number or to add you to social media.

Of course, despite single women being everywhere, there are some common places where there are lots of single women...

6 Common Places Where You Can Find Single Women

Some of the common places where you can find a lot of single women who are open to meeting and hooking up with a guy are:

1. Speed dating events

[image: Finding single women at speed dating events]

All the women and men who go to speed dating events are open to meeting someone they can hook up with, either for a one night stand, or for something more meaningful and long-lasting.

As long as you make the women feel attracted (e.g. by displaying confidence, charisma, being charming, making her laugh), you will get a lot of women who tick, “Yes” next to your name and want to exchange contact details with you.

In most speed dating events, you can expect to get a “Yes” match with at least 5 out of 10 of the women you meet.

If you’re really skilled at making women feel attracted to you, that number might reach 8 out of 10.

Your conversation skills will be very important if you go speed dating, so if you need a bit of help in that area, I recommend that you watch this video...

When talking to women at a speed dating event, be the good guy that you are, but be sure to add in some cheeky humor or challenging conversation at times.

For example: If she says that she works as a nurse, don’t just say, “Oh, that’s nice.”

Instead, smile and say, “Oh, a naughty nurse. I thought you looked innocent, but now I’m looking at you in a whole new light” and she will almost certainly laugh, smile and enjoy talking to you.

Being confident enough to joke around like that is attractive to women. Women know that in this challenging world that we live in, it’s usually much better to get into a relationship with a confident guy than an insecure, self-doubting guy who is too afraid to say anything out of the ordinary.

Although an insecure guy can succeed in life, a woman’s instincts tell her that she will have a better chance of surviving and prospering in life if she sticks with a confident guy.

2. Bars or nightclubs

Most of the single women who hang out in bars or nightclubs are open to meeting a single guy if he's confident, easy-going.

Single women hope to find a guy who can make them feel attracted during an interaction and then lead that interaction to a phone number, kiss or sex that night.

3. Singles parties

Singles events are designed for single men and women to meet each other in a relaxed setting, mingle and have fun together with the possibility of hooking up.

If you go to a singles event, don't be shy about approaching and having a chat with women.

Women want to be approached in a setting like that because they are hoping to find a match.

You could be that guy and she doesn't want you to stand off to the side and just look at her.

She wants you to have the confidence to walk up to her, start a conversation, spark her feelings of attraction and then lead her to give you her phone number, kiss you or have sex that night.

4. Dance classes

[image: Finding single women at dance classes]

These are great places to meet single women because the women usually outnumber the men in the class.

It is also the type of environment where you are given the opportunity to physically interact with women in a fun environment, while sharing a common interest.

Although not all the single women in dance classes will be there hoping to meet a guy, many of them will.

If you are getting along well with women at a dance class and none of them are single (highly unlikely, but possible), just ask them, "Hey, so do you have any single girlfriends you could set me up with?"

Women love to set people up and play matchmaker, so don't be surprised if you get a few dates lined up.

5. Online dating sites

Although there are loads of single women on online dating sites and apps (e.g. like Tinder), the problem is that 1,000s of guys are hitting on the same girl as you.

Over the years, we've found that if you want to get laid or get a girlfriend via online dating, you have to be very good-looking or very persistent (often years of trying) before you get a result.

In our opinion, the best way to find single women is to approach them in person.

That way, it's just you and her, not you, her and a 1,000 other guys trying to pick her up while you do.

If you don't have the confidence to approach and talk to women, watch this video Approaching women in person might seem like a scary thing to do, but it really is exciting and has a much higher success rate than online dating.

For example: About 17% of Americans who are married and 20% who are in a committed relationship, say they met online.

In other words, 83% of married couples met in person and 80% of couples in a relationship met in person.

Unless you are really good looking, you will have a much higher success rate at picking up women in person than you will online.

Online, women have 1,000s of guys to choose from, so they become very superficial and choose guys based on looks, money, height and career/job.

In person, most guys are afraid to walk up and talk to single women, so when you do, it's only you and her.

As long as you can make a woman feel attracted to you (e.g. by displaying confidence, being charismatic, making her laugh), most women will let go of their superficial ideas about what they want in a man and like you for who you are.

6. Hobby clubs

Not all the women who go to hobby clubs will be single, and not all the single women will be interested in hooking up, but this is still a great way to meet single women who are interested in the same things as you (e.g. cooking, art, hiking, running).

As you can see from the 6 examples above, finding single women is not the difficult part.

Single women are everywhere.

Yet, if you've already tried to meet single women many times before and have continually been told, "Sorry, I have a boyfriend," or, "You seem really nice, but I'm seeing someone," you're probably wondering why every great woman that you meet is taken.

You could be just having a run of bad luck and meeting women who are taken, but it's also possible that you simply don't know how to attract women properly.

Watch this video for more info!

When a guy is able to actively attract women during interactions, he never has to go out of his way to find a single woman.

The single women he meets feel attracted to him and are open to being with him, so all he has to do is ask a woman out or move in for a kiss and he'll get laid or have himself a new girlfriend.

You can have that power over your dating life too, but you must be able to actively attract women when you interact with them.

Do You Really Understand What Women Want in a Man?

One of the main reasons why so many guys struggle to get laid or find a girlfriend, is not because there are no single women, but because they don't understand what women really want in a man. Since what men want in a woman is for her to be physically attractive, they assume that a woman's attraction for a man works in exactly the same way.

In other words, guys are mostly attracted to women for how they look, so many guys assume that women must be attracted to men for the same reasons.

If a guy believes that women are mostly attracted to men based on their appearance and then tries to hook up with a woman and she tells him she's already taken, he might then make the assumption that:

1. All the good looking guys have girlfriends.
2. He doesn't have a girlfriend because he's not good looking.

However, that's absolutely false.

The truth is, even though most guys would have sex with a woman regardless of whether she's intelligent or even a nice person, simply because she is hot, most women (not all) do not base their decision of whether or not to be with a guy simply based on his looks (or financial or social status).

So, if you've been going around thinking that you're striking out with women because of your looks or financial status, it's only because you haven't fully understood what women are attracted to in men.

Watch this video for more info!

As you will discover from the video above, guys make up all sorts of excuses about why they fail with women.

Yet, the real reason why guys struggle to get laid or get a girlfriend is that they simply don't know how to actively attract a woman during an interaction.

Most guys hope to get a woman to "like" them as person, but what they don't realize is that a woman only cares about how likeable a guy is as a person after he sparks her feelings of sexual attraction.

Women Are More Flexible About What Attracts Them to Men Than You May Realize

The majority of women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in a man than guys realize.

Almost all women are mostly attracted to how a guy makes her feel when he interacts with her, rather than how he looks.

For example: If a good looking guy approaches a beautiful woman and tries to pick her up, but behaves in an unattractive way (e.g. nervous, insecure and self-doubting), she will not remain fully attracted to him simply because of his good looks.

He might be able to get lucky sometimes or he might accept the many unattractive women who like him, but he won't be able to attract the kinds of women he really wants.

Beautiful women get hit on by nervous, self-doubting good looking guys all the time and they simply reject them.

Why? Most beautiful women are more attracted to traits in a man that have nothing to do with his looks (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm).

If a guy behaves in ways that are naturally attractive to women, she usually won't be too concerned if he doesn't look like a male model.

If you don't believe this is true, make a point of checking out all the couples the next time you go out in public.

You will see that most of the guys walking around with attractive and even hot girlfriends are just average guys, or guys that you might even perceive as being ugly.

So, the next time you think of using the fact that you're not good looking enough, rich enough, have big muscles or whatever else you feel insecure about as an excuse why you're not hooking up with hot, single women, remember this!

As long as you can trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charm, sense of humor, masculine vibe), most women will overlook the fact that you're not very good looking, rich or famous.

That doesn't mean every woman will accept a guy who isn't physically perfect, but the majority of women will.

As long as a beautiful woman is feeling attracted to a guy for other reasons (e.g. because he's being confident, charismatic, charming and making them laugh), she will usually be willing to overlook the fact that he's not rich, good looking or famous.

2 Important Things You Should Do When You Meet Single Women

If you want to stop looking for single women and actually start having sex and get a girlfriend, here are two things that you should do the next time you see a woman you feel attracted to.

1. Approach her

Yes, this probably sounds like a no-brainer, but, you might be surprised at how many single guys go out to meet women, only to sit around waiting and hoping for a beautiful woman to make the first move and choose them.

Most women (not all), will avoid making the first move, or even showing too much interest. Why? Most women like the idea of being feminine and girly in response to a man's confidence and masculine vibe.

If she has to make the first move, she may feel as though she is taking on the role of the man.

Acting like the man will strip away her femininity and may make her feel like she is in the dominant position over him, which won't make her feel feminine and girly.

Another reason why a woman won't make the first move is because she wants to see if the guy is confident enough to approach her, start a conversation and make her feel attracted to him.

If a guy isn't confident enough to approach her then she assumes that he probably won't be confident enough to take on challenges in life as well.

Women don't want to reward emotional weakness with sex, love and devotion because they instinctively know that it wouldn't be good in the long run.

We live in a challenging world and her instincts make her feel that it is much more beneficial for her to be with a guy confident guy than a nervous, self doubting guy.

So, the next time you see a woman you feel attracted to, don't wait around hoping she'll approach you, or send you some sign that she's single and interested.

Women are attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, determination to succeed), and repelled by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, nervousness, self-doubt).

You've got to be willing to be the courageous one and approach, rather than waiting for women to be courageous and make something happen with you.

Of course, not every woman that you approach will be single, and not every single woman will be compatible with you, but that's not your fault.

It's how nature works; no man is compatible with every woman he meets and no woman is compatible with every man that she meets.

However, even if a woman isn't single or interested, you can still have a good time talking to her, so that the next time you approach a woman, you will be feeling even more confident in your ability to start a conversation, keep it going and keep it interesting for long enough to see if you and her a match.

When you approach a few single women and spark their feelings of attraction (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, making her feel girly and feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe, having a laugh together), you can be sure you won't be single for long.

Sometimes, you might find the perfect girl the first time you approach. However, if you don't find a match the first time, you might need to talk to a few more women before you meet the right girl for you.

2. Focus on making her feel attracted

Some guys make the mistake of thinking that the way to get a woman interested in kissing, sex and a relationship is to start out by making her like him as a person.

Here's the thing!

Just because a woman likes a guy as a person or as a friend, it does not mean she is going to be interested in him sexually.

There's nothing wrong with being a good guy and being nice to a woman, but that's not will make her feel sexually attracted, aroused and eager to begin a relationship.

Unless you are actively triggering a woman's feelings of sexual attraction for you, if you try to kiss her or ask her out, she is probably going to give you the, Oh, you're sweet, but I have a boyfriend, or I like you, but only as a friend, speech.

Remember: Nothing happens without attraction.

Attraction comes first and then everything else will unfold naturally after that.

Getting Started

There are millions of single women out there who are secretly hoping to meet a guy who will trigger their feelings of sexual attraction and sweep them off their feet.

I say “secretly” because most women act like they don’t even want or need a boyfriend, but you can be sure that many of them cry themselves to sleep at night because they are lonely, while their girlfriends have a boyfriend or husband and are happily enjoying a relationship.

So, don’t think that you’re doing anything wrong by approaching a woman to say hi.

In most cases, she is going to be excited and appreciative that a good, decent man like yourself had the balls to walk up and start a conversation with her.

Don’t waste another day wondering, “Where can I find single women?”

Instead, the next time you see a woman you feel attracted to, simply walk up to her and focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charm, humor).

If you do that, she will feel attracted to you and you can then lead her from a conversation to kiss, to sex and into a relationship with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Say to a Woman You Like

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

One of the best examples of what to say to a woman you like is to tell her that you think she is sexy. However, make sure that you have made her feel sexually attracted to you first before you say that. If you have already triggered her feelings of sexual attraction for you (e.g. by being confident and charismatic), then she will be excited to hear that you think she is sexy too.

So, when you're having a conversation with her and she laughs at something you say, stop for a second, look her up and down and say, "Hey, I just want you to know that I think you're sexy...and I like you more than just a friend."

This cuts right to the core of what is really going on between you and her and gets rid of the need for pointless mind games where she plays hard to get to see how much you like her.

Watch this video for some more examples of what to say to a woman you like!

As you will discover from the video above, you can talk about pretty much anything with this woman you like, as long as you are also making her feel attracted to you.

If you're wondering what to say to a woman you like because:

- You want to show her know that you like her, without actually coming out and saying it.
- You want to see if she likes you too.
- You struggle to think of things to say when you're around her.

then, the most important thing you need to focus on is making her feel attracted to you by displaying some of the types of personality traits and behaviors (e.g. confidence, charm, charisma, humor) that are naturally attractive to women, when you interact with her.

As long as you make her feel sexually attracted to you, she will be less picky about what you say because she will like you and will be hoping that something happens between you and her.

Do You Fully Understand How Attraction Works For Women?

Many guys go through life never really understanding how a woman's attraction for a man works.

If you aren't fully sure about how to attract women, watch this video!

Unlike men who are instantly attracted to a woman based on her appearance, most women (not all) are attracted to men for many different reasons other than what they look like.

Even though a lot of guys are afraid to admit it when asked, they are mostly attracted to how a woman looks.

If a woman is beautiful (or even just attractive), most men will feel sexually attracted to her regardless of whether she is a nice person, has a great sense of humor or is intelligent.

Women on the other hand, feel the most amount of sexual attraction for a guy based on how he makes her feel when he interacts with her (e.g. is he confident or insecure? Is he masculine or does he come across as neutral, or worse, as being feminine? Does he make her laugh or does he bore her with polite, formal conversation?).

Of course, when a woman first notices a guy, she will naturally judge him based on his appearance. She might think, â€œHmmmâ€ that guy is cute, â€œ or â€œOh, heâ€™s definitely not my type because heâ€™s too short.â€

However, when she interacts with the guy, she can easily change her opinion of him if he begins turning her on with his personality and behavior.

On the other hand, if a woman interacts with a guy that she initially thought was cute (e.g. because he is good looking) and he then behaves in a nervous, insecure and self-doubting way around her, her initial attraction for him will fade because his lack of self-confidence is unattractive.

Women are instinctively attracted to confident men because genuine self-confidence is a sign that the guy will go after what he wants in life and will be able to handle the challenges that life throws at him.

She won't have to keep encouraging him emotionally and supporting him through tough times because he is a real man that she can rely on.

When a guy is confident, a woman assumes that she will be able to rely on him to be the man and to take the lead in a relationship.

This is why you will often see good looking guys who are single and can't get a girlfriend, or good looking guys who can only get unattractive women.

If a good looking guy doesn't know how to attract women with his personality and behavior, he will often have to put up with whatever he can get, which usually won't be the type of women he really wants.

Here's the thingâ€¦

If a woman interacts with a guy she perceived as being not her type (e.g. he is bald, a bit overweight or thin) and he happens to display some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, can make her laugh, is interesting to talk to), her feelings of attraction towards him will change.

He will begin to look more attractive to her because of the way he is making her feel when he interacts with her.

So, if you want to get a woman you like to like you back, the main thing you have to focus on is making her feel attracted to who you are as a person (i.e. display confidence and let your true, charismatic personality come through).

Even if this woman already thinks you're cute and is interested, it doesn't mean that she will wait around for you forever.

If you don't build on her attraction (e.g. by making her laugh, making her feel girly and feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe) and then make a move to kiss her or take her out on a date, her interest in you probably won't last.

3 Mistakes to Avoid Making When Talking to a Woman You Like

Knowing exactly what to say to a woman you like is only beneficial when you don't make any of these classic mistakesâ€¦

1. Pretending that you just want to be her friend

A common mistake guys make around a woman they like is to hang around her and pretend they are only interested in being her friend, even though deep down they want to start a sexual relationship with her.

If you want to have a sexual relationship with a woman, you must focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you, and you also need to make it clear to her (by what you say and the way you behave around her) that you find her sexually attractive.

In addition to saying something like, “You’re sexyâ€¦and I like you more than just a friend” you can also refer to her as your sexy little friend, which will make her want to be more than a “friend” if you have been making her feel attracted.

For example: If you and her are leaving a cafÃ© or venue, you can say to her, “Okay, my sexy little friendâ€¦it’s time to goâ€¦let’s get out of here.”

She will love it that you are referring to her as being sexy, because she knows that it means you are open to having sex with her.

All you need to do then is make a move when the time is right (e.g. invite her back to your place to “chill out” or “hang out”).

However, if all you do when you’re around this woman you like is act like a nice, sweet guy who is available to her every beck and call, she will most likely think you’re a sweet guy, but if another guy comes along who can make her feel attracted, she won’t think twice about hooking up with him.

Of course, there is nothing wrong with being a nice guy to a woman, but being a nice guy isn’t going to be enough if you’re not actually triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you every time you interact with her.

Watch this video to find out whyâ€¦

If you want to have a sexual relationship with a woman, don’t pretend that you want to be her friend.

It’s fine to refer to as a friend, but make sure that you add in the word “sexy” and refer to her as your “sexy friend.”

You can also show your sexual interest in her by the way you look at her (e.g. when she arrives to meet you, just stop for a moment and look her up and down and say, “Niceâ€¦you look extra sexy today. How am I going to keep my eyes off of you? You look stunning”).

2. Telling her that you want to have a relationship with her before you’ve even kissed her

Most women put their guard up and feel turned off when a guy comes on too strong about wanting a relationship before he’s even actually had sex, or at least kissed her. Why?

When a woman is beautiful, or even just attractive, she knows that she can get pretty much any guy she wants.

All she has to do is go out in public and guys will stare at her, call out to her or whistle at her.

If a guy does pluck up the courage to talk to her, he assumes that if he pours his heart out to her by telling her how beautiful she is, how much he likes her and how special he thinks she is, she will then be impressed that his intentions towards her are good and she will give him a chance with her.

Yet, what the guy doesn't realize is that pretty much every guy she interacts with say and do the exact same thing.

It's not new to her.

She knows that guys want to have sex with her and would feel lucky to have a relationship with her. Since she is so bored of the endless stream of guys who want to tap her or marry her, what she hopes to meet is a guy who is more of a challenge to win over.

She wants a guy who will make her work a little bit (or a lot depending on the woman) to impress him before she gets a chance with him, rather than him just immediately wanting her because she looks good.

So, when you're interacting with a woman you like, rather than try to convince her to have a relationship with you, just focus on making her feel so attracted to you (e.g. by making her feel girly in contrast to your masculine vibe, by making her laugh), that she wants to kiss you, have sex with you and then start a relationship with you afterwards.

That's what she really wants.

3. Giving up when she tests you during a conversation

Whether you choose to accept it or not, most women will test you during a conversation either by only saying 1-3 words in response to your questions (e.g. Yes, No, I don't know), by talking to you one minute and then ignoring you the next, or even by making fun of you in some way.

It's just how women are.

Testing is a woman's way of seeing whether a guy will become nervous, insecure and tongue-tied, or if he will remain confident and relaxed.

Why does she need to test a man's reactions like that?

When a woman tests a guy, she is instinctively trying to see if he is capable enough and strong enough to protect her and survive in this world if they get into a relationship.

If he crumbles at her tests, then in her mind, he's probably not going to be emotionally strong enough to face any problems that might arise in their life together and she doesn't want to get stuck with a weak guy that she will have to support and guide through life.

What you need to understand going into a conversation with a woman you like, is that she's most likely going to test you in some way.

You simply need to remain confident and relaxed and continue leading the way during a conversation.

Don't let her tests make you feel rejected or unworthy.

Instead, just know that when you pass her tests by remaining confident, she will like you even more.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Where Do Women Like to Be Kissed? 7 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Women like to be kissed all over their body.

It feels good.

However, it's important to remember that each woman is different, so not every woman will like being kissed in exactly the same place.

It's up to you to be confident and explore her body to discover what is most pleasurable for the woman you are with.

For example: One woman you're with might really like it when you kiss her on the forehead because it makes her feel like a little girl again.

Yet, another woman might hate being kissed on the forehead because she wants to be respected and treated as an adult, rather than her man treating her like his girl.

However, here are 7 examples of places that most women like to be kissed.

1. Mouth and lips

Naturally, this is the most obvious place where women like to be kissed.

A woman's lips are generally very sensitive to touch, and the anticipation of a kiss releases a healthy dose of dopamine in her brain (and yours), which then triggers her desire and reward sensors, making her feel excited and turned on.

Gently kissing her on the mouth and lips is definitely a turn on for most women.

Women love it when a guy has the confidence to relax and kiss her at his own pace, without worrying that she might get bored or want him to do something different.

Just do whatever you want while kissing her and she will melt.

2. Neck and shoulders

Nearly every woman likes to be kissed and stroked on her neck and shoulders.

These areas are both very sensitive to touch, so chances are, you won't go wrong by kissing, touching, licking and nibbling a woman there.

Of course, there will be a very small percentage of women who don't like it, but you're not a failure if you try to kiss a woman who doesn't like to be kissed in those areas.

It's not your fault or her fault that she doesn't like to be kissed there.

Just accept that she likes being kissed elsewhere and give her the kinds of kisses that turn her on the most.

Personally speaking, I've only ever come across one woman who didn't like to be kissed on her neck. She wasn't a very touchy-feely woman and had some insecurities about being touched.

Every other woman has loved it though. I always find that confidently, calmly and purposefully kissing a woman on her neck and shoulders turns her on.

3. Breasts and nipples

This is another obvious place where women like to be kissed.

However, some guys make the mistake of focusing entirely on a woman's breasts and nipples, and neglect kissing her in all the other erogenous areas on her body.

Not all women respond in the same way when they are kissed and touched on their breast and nipples.

For example: Some women are very sensitive in this area and can even orgasm simply by being kissed and touched on her breasts and nipples.

I once slept with a woman who enjoyed me twisting her nipples when she rode me on top and it helped her orgasm a lot quicker.

Yet, pretty much all other women don't like the nipple twist! Lol. You have to be willing to experiment with a woman and find out what makes her feel good.

For example: Some women are not sensitive in that area at all, so kissing her on the breasts and nipples for a long time will be doing nothing to get her to feel even more turned on and aroused.

Also, breasts are very sensitive and are often affected by hormonal changes in the woman's body, so being too rough when you kiss her in this area (e.g. sucking to hard, biting) can actually cause her pain and kill the mood.

Don't worry if you make a mistake.

You both have to make mistakes to find out what both of you really like when kissing and having sex.

Just relax and confidently lead the way, knowing that one mistake isn't going to ruin everything.

If she doesn't like something, just smile, have a little laugh and say, "Okay, it looks like you don't like that|what something else that you like instead?" and then do that.

4. Back

A woman's back is one of the most sensitive areas on her body, but it's also one of the areas most neglected by guys.

Kissing a woman on the back is one of the best areas to focus on during foreplay to get her feeling completely turned on and excited.

You can lay on top of her or press against her as you occasionally kiss her back, reach under to grab her breasts and wander downwards to stroke her vagina from the outside.

5. Inner thighs

A woman's inner thighs are another one of those sensitive areas that responds well to being kissed, licked and caressed.

Also when you kiss a woman on her inner thighs, but stop short of going higher, you build up the desire and anticipation in her for greater things to come.

I usually spend about a minute kissing a woman's inner thighs before giving her oral.

It allows for her anticipation to build up to the point where she is thinking, "Lick it! Lick it!" and when you do, she lets out a beautiful moan of pleasure.

6. Behind the knees

This is an area that most guys usually don't even think about kissing.

Yet, the backs of a woman's knees is full of sensitive nerve endings that can send her into throws of ecstasy when you kiss, nibble and lick her here.

However, just be aware that this is a very sensitive area and can be very ticklish, so not all women will like being kissed and touched here.

It's up to you to gauge whether the woman you are kissing is squirming in ecstasy or discomfort, so that you can keep on doing what you're doing, or move on to another area that she prefers being kissed in.

7. Lower stomach and around the outside of her vagina

This is arguably the most sensitive area on a woman's body, and most women like to be kissed here.

By the time you finally kiss her vagina or lick it, your woman should be completely aroused and ready for sex.

However, if you want to have her begging for mercy, continue to kiss, nibble and lick her around the outside of her vagina until she cannot stand it any longer.

Just use her body language and moans as cues as to when the time is right to stop the kissing and foreplay and move on to having sex.

3 Mistakes That Can Kill Her Desire to Be Kissed By a Man

It's highly unusual for a woman not to like being kissed, and most women like to be kissed in most places.

In actual fact, it's not kissing that will turn a woman off, but a guy's behavior.

Here are 3 classic behaviors that turn women off the idea of kissing a guy!

1. Asking her if it's okay to kiss her

In today's world, women are free to have sex with whomever they want and whenever they want, and when a woman is attractive, she can have her pick of men for sex.

So, in most cases, almost any woman that you meet will not be an inexperienced virgin when it comes to being kissed.

She knows what she likes, and if she's happy to be in a guy's arms, then she's also ready and willing to be kissed by him.

A big mistake that a lot of guys make, is to allow his insecurities to kick in at such a crucial time, by asking her, "Is it okay if I kiss you here?"

Most women feel turned off by this because he comes across as being insecure.

A woman wants to know that the man she's with is confident enough to take the lead and lead them both to kissing, sex and if they want it, a relationship.

She doesn't want to feel as though she is letting an insecure guy kiss her or get to have sex with her.

She wants to feel as though she is with a confident guy who knows that she is attracted to him and who could easily attract other women, but he sees her as special and wants to kiss her.

If you have triggered a woman's feelings of sexual attraction and she is up close and personal and looking you in the eyes or hugging you, then you can be sure that she will be thinking, "When is he going to kiss me? I can't wait for him to kiss me."

When the time is right, simply take the lead by kissing her.

Don't ask her if it's okay to kiss her; just be confident enough to take a risk and take the lead.

If she moves away and doesn't want to kiss you, it means that you either haven't made her feel attracted enough yet or she is testing to see if you will remain confident.

2. Becoming nervous if she doesn't seem to be enjoying where he's kissing her

Not all women like to be kissed in every place on their body.

For example: Some women might really enjoy being kissed on the inside of their thighs, but other women might feel self conscious about the size and shape of their thighs, and being kissed there might make her feel uncomfortable and she might become tense and push you away.

Likewise, women who aren't happy with their stomach might feel self conscious about it and not want you to kiss it or touch it.

Whatever happens, just remember that it's up to you, as the man, to lead the way by reassuring her between kisses and saying, "You are so sexy. I just love kissing you here," to make her feel more confident and relaxed with you.

Of course, if she still remains tense and uncomfortable no matter what you say or do, just move away from that area and kiss her in places where she clearly likes to be kissed.

Women are attracted to confident guys, so when you are kissing a woman, maintaining your confidence is the most important part of maintaining her attraction for you.

3. Kissing her in the same places over and over because he fears that she might not like it if he kisses her somewhere new

A mistake that some guys make, is stick to kissing a woman on the lips and mouth because they're too insecure about trying something new in case the woman rejects them.

Although a woman might not openly complain about only being kissed on her mouth, it's not going to be as exciting to her as a guy confidently exploring her different parts of body with his lips and tongue.

If he never takes a chance at arousing her by kissing her in other places, she might become bored with having sex with him and decide to open herself up to meeting a guy who is more confident in the bedroom.

Just Make Feel Attracted and Kiss Her

Rather than worry too much about where women like to be kissed, just focus on making her feel attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attracted to women (e.g. confidence, masculine presence, charisma, humor).

When you have the ability to turn a woman on by the way you behave (e.g. by being confident, charming, making her feel girly and feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe), she will automatically like being kissed and touched by you.

The more attraction you make a woman feel for you, the more intense her sexual desire will be, and the more she will want you to kiss her all over.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Say to a Woman When You First Meet Her

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In this post, I'm going to give you tested examples of what to say to a woman when you first meet her.

Before I begin, I just want to make something very clear...

If a guy uses these conversation examples, but doesn't also focus on making the woman feel attracted to him, she won't be very interested or impressed.

Why? If a woman isn't feeling a spark of sexual attraction for a guy that likes her, she will feel as though he isn't a match for her and her guard will go up. She will lose interest in what he is saying because she knows that he just isn't a good romantic or sexual match for her.

However, if she is feeling a strong spark of attraction for him, she will feel like they are a match and her guard will come down.

She will then become open to seeing where the conversation leads to (e.g. to a phone number, kissing, sex and a relationship).

How can you attract women while you talk to them? Attracting a woman is as easy as displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor).

Even just displaying one trait is attractive and enough to pick up some women because many women aren't as picky as they make themselves out to be.

[image: Conversation ideas for when you first meet a woman]

Of course, if you want to attract high quality women, it is much easier when you can display a few more attractive traits than other guys (e.g. masculine presence, charm, flirting).

When you are making a woman feel attracted you, pretty much anything that you say to her will seem interesting to her because it's coming from you and you are the guy that she is feeling so attracted to.

Once you've sparked her attraction and begun to build on it, she will feel excited about continuing talking to you and seeing where things will lead from there (e.g. phone number, kiss, sex, date, relationship).

Turning a Boring Conversation Topic Into Something That Makes Her Feel Attracted

[image: Turn a boring conversation into an attractive one]

Every conversation with a woman is an opportunity to either spark her feelings of sexual attraction for you, or turn her off.

You can take normal conversation topics and make a woman feel turned on and excited to be talking to you, or you can make her feel bored and unimpressed.

Here are some examples of how the same topic of conversation can feel dull and ordinary to a woman, or can be fun and trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

1. Ask her what she does for a living

[image: Ask her what she does for a living]

Asking a woman what she does for a living is an obvious conversation starter.

Most guys will ask this question, but the key is to use it as an opportunity to learn something about her, share something about yourself (especially if you have something in common), while at the same time sparking her feelings of attraction for you as a man.

For example: Where most guys go wrong when asking a woman what she does for a living isâ€¦|

Him: So, what do you do for a living?

Her: Iâ€™m a student.

Him: What are you studying?

Her: Iâ€™m studying to be a doctor.

Him: Oh, thatâ€™s nice.

Her: Thanks.

Him: Do you enjoy it?

Her: Yes.

Nothing about that style of conversation is going to make the guy stand out and make her think, â€œWow. This guy is different, I like him.â€

Itâ€™s not going to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him and it's not going to turn her on.

A better, more attractive way to ask her what she does for a living isâ€¦|

You: So, what do you do for a living?

Her: Iâ€™m a student.

You: What are you studying?

Her: Iâ€™m studying to be a doctor.

You: Oh right, so youâ€™re not only hot, but youâ€™re also a smarty, huh? Well, donâ€™t think Iâ€™m going to let you play doctor-doctor with me!

Her: (Most likely laughing) Okay.

You: (Smile and say in a joking manner) I've see the way you're looking at me. You're thinking, "What kind of operation could I perform on him? Preferably something where I get to take his shirt off.").

Her: (Most likely laughing some more)

The reason the above conversation is different from the first example is because you are confidently using humor, rather than just having a boring question and answer session with her.

Your confidence will make her feel attracted to you because it is one of the main personality traits that women find naturally attracted to in men.

By also being funny as you talk to her, she will see that you are not intimidated by her or the fact that sheâ€™s studying to be a doctor (like most guys would be), which will make you stand out from the crowd and draw her to you.

You don't always have to cracking jokes and using humor in response to everything she says. Instead, just make sure that you add that kind of thing into conversations.

2. Ask her about her interests

[image: Ask her about her interests]

Asking a woman about her interests is a good way to get her talking about something she's passionate about and really enjoys.

It's also a good way for you to then share your interests with her, which will show her that you are the kind of man who has things going on in his life. This will be attractive to her because she will see you're not a boring guy who doesn't have any goals or interests.

Her attraction and interest in who you are will then really get the conversation rolling.

Here's another example: Where most guys go wrong when asking a woman about her interests is by talking in a boring way like this...

Him: So, what do you like to do for fun when you're not in classes or studying?

Her: I love to cook; it helps me relax.

Him: That's nice. What kind of food do you like cooking?

Her: Anything really, but I really like cooking Indian food.

Him: Cool.

Her: What do you like to do on your time off?

Him: Nothing really, I just like to relax and chill out.

Again this type of conversation is going nowhere. It isn't making her feel excited about talking to this guy because it's just a boring, straight-forward conversation she's probably had with hundreds of other guys before.

Another reason why this conversation isn't making her feel attracted is that it suggests he may be another typical guy who lacks goals and ambitions in life, or who doesn't have many good friends.

This is unattractive to her, because most women like to know that the guy they are with is moving through the levels of life reaching for his true potential as a man.

If he doesn't have big goals and ambitions, she at least wants to know that other people like him (i.e. he has friends) and he isn't just sitting at home alone all the time.

So, how can you spark her feelings of sexual attraction when asking her about her interests? Here's an example...

You: So, what do you like to do for fun when you're not in classes or studying?

Her: I love to cook; it helps me relax.

You: Awesome ðŸŒˆ Not only an aspiring doctor, but a cook too? It sounds too good to be true. You can't possibly be good at both things, so does this mean that you're a good med student or a good cook?

Her: (Most likely laughing) Both. I'm a good med student and a good cook!

You: (Smile and say in a joking manner) Nah! I don't believe you. You seem smart, but I don't know about the cooking. You're going to have to prove it to me. When are you going to cook something for me?

Her: (Most likely laughing some more)

You: Just kidding, I like to cook too. I once made an amazing scrambled eggs.

Her: (Most likely laughing some more)

In this example, you are once again creating attraction by showing her that you are not overwhelmed by how smart and talented she is. You are also making her feel attracted by getting her laughing and enjoying herself when she talks to you.

2 Mistakes That Many Guys Make When Talking to a Woman They've Just Met

When a guy is unsure about what to say to a woman he has just met, he will often make one or more of the following mistakes.

1. Trying really hard to impress her during conversation.

Many guys don't believe they are good enough for the kind of women they really want.

So, if a guy like that happens to be talking to an attractive woman for the first time, rather than being relaxed and natural, he might on a fake persona and try to impress her by being someone he's not (e.g. by being overly nice, acting really cool, bragging, not allowing his real personality to come through).

The fact is, women hate it when guys try to impress them during a conversation, because it shows that they lack confidence and belief in themselves and that is off-putting for most women.

Most women are instinctively attracted to the confidence in a man and turned off by self-doubt and insecurity.

One of the most important things you need to know when you're talking to a woman is you have to get her to try and impress you.

In this way, she will do most of the talking, and she will be eager to please you so that you can make her laugh again and continue making her feel excited and attracted.

Watch this video to understand why women like it when a man makes her feel like she has to impress him...

Being a challenge isn't about pretending that you don't like a woman.

Instead, it's about having real standards and not allowing a woman a chance to kiss you, have sex with you or be your girlfriend unless she impresses you in ways other than her looks.

It's very easy for us men to feel attracted to a woman's looks and be willing to have sex with her based on that. However, if you want to be successful at picking up women, you've got to have standards and only allow some women to get a chance with you.

2. Being extra nice to her in the hope that she likes him enough as a person to give him a chance.

There's nothing wrong with being a nice guy, but if the only thing you're doing while talking to a woman is trying extra hard to be nice, polite and sweet to her, while at the same time avoiding showing any sexual interest in her, it will usually only create friendly, non-sexual feelings inside her.

Watch this video for more info...

If you want to start a sexual relationship with a woman, you need to make her feel sexually attracted to you first.

If you don't do that, most women will lose interest in talking to you, even if you're a really good guy who would be a great match for her.

Only when you have sparked her feelings of sexual attraction will she then be interested in how nice of a guy you are. However, prior to attraction, niceness means nothing to women.

Many guys make the mistake of thinking that for a woman to be interested in them sexually, she first has to like them as a person. Yet, what they really need to focus on is triggering her feelings of sexual attraction.

Attraction comes first and then everything else will follow naturally and easily after that.

The main thing you need to remember when you are talking to a woman you've just met is that although there's nothing wrong with being nice to her and being a good guy, you have to focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you first.

Then, all those other qualities about you that are likeable (e.g. you're a good guy, you're intelligent, you're interesting) will make you even more attractive to her.

Being Yourself in an Attractive Way

All women are attracted to men who are confident enough to simply be themselves.

Of course, by "being yourself" I'm not talking about the guys who believe that their real self is nervous, insecure and shy.

Who they really are on the inside is a confident, intelligent and charismatic guy, but they don't know how to bring that out when talking to attractive women.

Women don't want nervous, insecure, shy guys who feel intimidated by attractive women. Why? Women aren't attracted to emotional weakness.

We live in a challenging world and if women rewarded emotional weakness with sex, love and devotion, the human race wouldn't get stronger. Women instinctively feel attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, determination to succeed) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, self-doubt).

So, when I say "be yourself," I mean, "Be yourself in an attractive way."

If you are a nervous guy around attractive women, that isn't who you really are.

You know that you're much stronger than that and you simply need to fix that nervousness by becoming a more confident guy.

If you need help with that, I will give you quick, proven to work solutions for becoming truly confident with women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Women Look For in a Man Physically

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

What women look for in a man physically differs from woman to woman.

For example: Some women like tall, muscular guys with dark hair, while other women prefer blonde guys who are shorter.

There are women who like bald guys, but there are also women who really like guys with long hair.

Some women like guys with blue eyes while other women prefer guys with dark eyes.

Basically, the list can go on and on.

However, saying that there's something specific that all women look for in a man physically (e.g. that he be tall, that he have a muscular body, that he have long hair), is like saying that the only women that men prefer are short blondes with big boobs.

It just isn't true.

Men are attracted to many different types of women (e.g. blondes, brunettes, black, oriental, sporty, curvaceous), and women are attracted to many different types of men as well.

The Most Important Thing You Need to Know About What Women Look For in a Man Physically

[image: What women want in a man physically]

Other people won't tell you this because they just don't get it, but the truth is that majority of women are a lot more flexible about what they find attractive in a man than most guys realize.

Most women won't admit it when asked, but if you look at the types of men that a woman has been with throughout her life, you will see that they vary physically and are not all the same type of guy.

This is because what a woman looks for in a man physically is usually less important than how a man makes her feel emotionally.

For example: If a woman says, "I like guys who are tall, dark and handsome," is approached by a guy who is short and average looking, it doesn't mean that he won't have a chance with her.

If he can make her feel attracted to him in other ways (e.g. by displaying confidence, being charismatic and charming, having a masculine vibe or making her laugh), she isn't always going to reject him simply because he isn't tall and doesn't have model looks.

Just like other women do, she might let go of her superficial preference for "tall, dark and handsome" if she finds that her attraction to the shorter, average looking guy is strong enough.

This is why you will often see women with guys who really don't seem like a good match to her.

In some cases, the guy will be rich, famous or whatever, but in most cases (i.e. most guys aren't rich), he will have simply attracted her by displaying personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm).

Naturally, not all women will accept a guy who isn't very good looking or who doesn't have big muscles and lots of money, but most women will.

Essentially, when a woman feels attracted to a guy for other reasons (e.g. he's confident, can make her laugh, is interesting to talk to), she will usually be less worried about whether or not he is her type physically.

Attraction Gets Sparked Differently in Women Than it Does in Men

[image: Men feeling attracted to a woman's appearance]

It wouldn't be taking too much of a leap to say that guys are mostly attracted to a woman's appearance.

When you see a physically good looking woman, you don't really care what she does for a living or what her hobbies are right?

You're willing to have sex with her simply based on how she looks.

Don't worry, it's not just you.

For most guys, as long as a woman is physically attractive, they will be open to hooking up with her for sex (and possibly even for a relationship as well), regardless of whether she has a nice personality, is interesting to talk to, or has a great sense of humor.

Why?

The attraction men feel for women is sparked by her appearance.

In other words, if a woman is attractive, most guys will be attracted to her.

It's that simple.

However, a woman's attraction for a man usually doesn't work in the same way.

Before a woman has a chance to experience a man's personality (i.e. Is he confident? Does he get along well with her?), she will naturally have to judge him about something, and his physical appearance is all she's got to go on.

[image: What are women attracted to]

This is why you might have seen women looking at good looking guys and saying, â€œWow, he's soooo hot!â€ or â€œLook at the sexy muscles on that guy. He can take me home any time,â€ yet at the same time are having one night stands, or being in relationships with guys who are just average looking, or even overweight, or what some people would perceive as being ugly.

[image: Attracting women with your personality]

Yes, you will some women with good looking guys or rich guys, but the majority of women aren't as picky as most guys think they are.

Even though a woman will definitely notice a man's physical appearance, and openly comment and feel attracted to him because of it, it isn't always the most important thing to her or other women.

For a woman to feel a strong sexual attraction for a man and want to have sex with him or want to be his girlfriend, she usually has to experience his personality.

For example: The initial attraction a woman feels for a man's physical appearance can easily die, if when he interacts with her, he behaves in ways that are unattractive to her and other women (e.g. he is nervous, self-doubting, arrogant, too easily impressed by her).

On the other hand, a woman might not feel much attraction for an average or below-average looking guy's physical appearance at first sight, but when he interacts with her and behaves in ways that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confident, masculine, can make her feel girly in contrast to his masculine vibe), her feelings of sexual attraction will be triggered.

Here's the really interesting part!

When a woman is feeling attracted to an average or below-average looking guy for other reasons (e.g. his confidence, charisma, charm, humor), she will then begin to see his physical appearance as being more attractive to her.

Watch this video for more info on how it works!

An example of this is when a woman (who claims that bald men are not her type) meets a bald guy who makes her feel attracted in other ways.

He then picks her up, has sex with her and gets her into a relationship. She then begins to say things like, "Oh, I love my boyfriend's bald head. It makes him look so sexy!"

Why?

She is feeling attracted to him for different reasons (e.g. he makes her feel girly in response to his masculine vibe, makes her laugh), and she actually starts to look at his physical appearance in a positive light.

Why?

His physical appearance is part of who he is and he is the guy that she is attracted to and falling in love with.

Most guys go through their entire life never knowing that a woman's attraction actually works in that way.

You are now one of the small percentage of men who know the secret and you will see it happening all around you from now on.

2 Personality Traits That Will Make Any Guy Instantly More Attractive to Women

[image: What women find most attractive]

If you don't fit the stereotypical ideal image of a man portrayed by the media (e.g. tall, movie star good looks, a perfect gym body), you might decide that you just don't have what it takes to get the women you really want.

If you simply focus on displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that women find attractive (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, masculine vibe), you will always be attractive to most women even if you don't have male model looks.

Here are 2 personality traits (there are 100s more) that women always find attractive in men!

1. Being confident

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

Women are naturally attracted to a guy's confidence, so the more confident a guy is when he interacts with her, the more she will want to hook up with him.

Of course, I'm not talking about over the top, loud, bragging, arrogant confidence. That type of "confidence" is usually based on insecurity and a guy is simply going overboard to hopefully conceal his lack of confidence.

He feels the need to show off, be rude or be an asshole to hopefully make people think that he is confident.

Yet, we all know that he is insecure.

The type of confidence that is most attractive to women is relaxed, masculine confidence where a guy doesn't feel the need to show off.

There's nothing wrong with being loud at times if you want to, but only if you want to because you feel like it – not because you hope it will make people think you are confident.

If you have relaxed, masculine confidence, you will spark the initial attraction of most women you meet.

You then simply build on that attraction by displaying other personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women.

Watch this video for more info!

As you can see from the video above, looks aren't everything to women.

If a good looking man is insecure around a woman (e.g. is nervous and self-doubting when he interacts with her), it will usually turn her off and she will either just only want to be friends, or will feel that she doesn't want to waste her time with a guy who she will have to boost up emotionally all the time because he lacks confidence in himself.

Of course, unattractive women will happily take the insecure, good looking guy. However, that isn't what he really wants.

He wants to be able to attract hot women that he is really attracted to, but unless he gets lucky and scores one by accident, he will have to put up with accepting less attractive women who want him because of his looks.

Why is being a confident man so important to women?

We humans live in a challenging world where the strongest and smartest usually find it easier to survive, thrive and prosper compared to weak people.

This is why women aren't attracted to emotional weaknesses like insecurity, nervousness and self-doubt in men.

Women are instinctively attracted the strength in men (e.g. confidence, masculinity) and turned off by the weakness (e.g. nervousness, insecurity, self-doubt), because she knows that if she hooks up with an emotionally strong guy, she will have a better chance for survival during difficult times.

So, if you want a woman to be your girlfriend, you must focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you and one of the easiest ways to do that is by being a confident man around her.

Being confident while interacting with a woman will turn her on in the same way that a man gets turned on when a woman wears a short, sexy dress.

We men feel intense attraction for a woman's looks and women can feel an intense attraction for us when we display attractive personality traits and behaviors.

When you accept how easy it is to attract women, you will realize how much power you really have.

2. Having an attractive style of humor

[image: Attracting women with a sense of humor]

According to a Men's Health survey of more than 1,000 American women aged between 21 and 54, 77% of women stated that being with a guy who has a sense of humor is more important to them than good looks, money, intelligence and even generosity.

Of course, that doesn't mean that those women don't appreciate good looking guys.

Instead, it means that if a guy can make a woman laugh and enjoy interacting with him, she really isn't going to care so much that he doesn't have male model looks.

It really is true.

However, be warned: Not all humor is same.

For example: A guy sitting around telling random jokes that he knows is not necessarily going to make a woman feel sexually attracted to him.

She might have a good laugh, but that's not what is going to turn her on and make her want to have sex with him.

Lots of guys can tell jokes, but having an attractive style of humor is about using the situation you're in to make a woman feel attracted to you.

Here is an example of how it works:

Imagine a guy is standing at a crowded bar getting a drink, when a beautiful woman pushes in next to him.

A typical guy will say, "Oh, go ahead, you can order first."

The woman will most-likely smile, say "thank you," order her drink and go back to her friends, and another perfect opportunity to make a woman feel sexually attracted to him will have gone down the drain.

On the other hand, a guy who is confident and knows how to use humor to make women feel attracted would use this as an opportunity to create attraction.

So, if a beautiful woman pushes in next to him to order a drink, he might approach it this way:

Him: (Smiling and saying in a joking way) You're pushy, aren't you? Where's your manners?

Her: (Most likely blushing) I'm sorry.

Him: That's okay. You can order first; but it's going to cost you! I will have 3 tequilas, 4 beers and 8 vodka jellies, thanks.

Her: (Most likely laughing or smiling)

Him: (Smiling) Nah. Only joking, I'll let you go first because you look cute in that red dress. By the way my name is Dan, what's your name?

Her: (Smiling and telling him her name)

Why does this type of humor trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction?

Basically, even though initially she might be a bit shocked that he (jokingly) suggested that she was pushy and didn't have manners, she will then relax, smile and enjoy talking to a guy who is a bit of a challenge compared to every other guy who is a pushover.

Most guys that an attractive woman meets are so impressed by her looks, that they would never say something bold because the fear it might lead to her not liking them as a person.

What these guys don't realize is that attraction and liking someone as a person are two very different things.

If you want a woman to want you sexually and romantically, the number one thing that you must establish first is attraction.

Only when you've sparked a woman's attraction will she then care about your likeability as a person.

When a guy is bold enough to use a challenging style of humor, a woman naturally feels attracted to him because she gets to experience many attractive personality traits and behaviors all at once (e.g. confidence, social intelligence, masculinity).

You Are Probably More Hung Up About Your Looks Than Women Are

If you've been worrying about what women look for in a man physically (because you think you're not good looking enough to get the women you really want), hopefully you know understand that attracting women is a lot easier than most guys realize.

As long as you focus on making a woman feel sexually attracted in different ways (e.g. being confident, charismatic, masculine, funny) when you interact with her, she will usually let go of her superficial ideas of what she looks for in a man physically, and she will fall in love with the guy (i.e. you) who is making her feel a lot of attraction.

It really is true.

Do you believe it?

If you don't, then you've got a lot of insecurity to look forward to for the rest of your life.

If you do believe, then you've got a lot of confidence and great times with women to look forward to for the rest of your life.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Talk About With Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Here are some examples of things you can talk about with women to get to know them, while also making them feel sexually attracted to you at the same time.

4 Ordinary Conversation Topics That Can Spark a Woman's Feelings of Sexual Attraction

[image: Examples of what to talk about with women]

It's completely fine to talk about normal, ordinary topics as long as you also make the woman experience some feelings of sexual attraction for you.

If you don't focus on making her feel sexually attracted and aroused during the conversation, it won't really matter what you say - she will get bored and want to get away from you or will only see you as a friend or stranger that she doesn't want to get to know any further.

Before you talk to another woman, it's important that you understand that you can take a mundane subject (e.g. her job, hobbies and interests or what type of food she likes) and use it as a way to make her feel sexually attracted to you.

Here is how it works!

1. Talk about her work (or studies)

[image: Talk about her work or studies]

Asking a woman what she does for a living is a pretty common question that most guys will ask.

Yet, in most cases, a guy will take this mundane topic and engage a woman in a boring, predictable conversation about it (e.g. "Oh, how long have you been working there?" and "Do you enjoy your job?").

She's had that conversation 100s of times and it's just not exciting or attractive to talk about something in the same way over and over again with every guy she meets.

So, a great way to use a mundane topic such as work to create feelings of sexual attraction in a woman, would go something like this!

You: So, what work do you do?

Her: I'm a hairdresser.

You: (Smile and say in a joking manner) Really? How many ears have you chopped off so far?

Her: (Most likely laughing) None! - That would be bad for business.

You: (Smile and say) Well, I wouldn't mind too much if you cut my ear; as long as you took me home and patched me up afterwards.

Her: (Most likely laughing or smiling)

Why does this type of conversation make a woman feel sexually attracted?

Firstly, it's different from the usual, "What do you do? Oh, that's nice, â" conversations she has with most guys.

Secondly because you are teasing her and having a bit of fun with her about her job and about chopping off her customers' ears, you are showing that you're confident in yourself and you don't have to put on an act to impress her like all the other guys she meets.

You are confident to say whatever you want and you're also confident enough to suggest that she would want to take you home.

You're just not afraid and women love it.

Talking to a woman in that way is not a serious conversation about her taking you home.

Instead, it's just a bit of fun where you tease her and you allow her to relax into your masculine direction.

You are leading the direction of the conversation and she can just relax and go along with it.

Women are instinctively attracted to confident guys who are not intimidated by them and are comfortable being themselves, while also being a good guy.

2. Talk about what she likes to do for fun

[image: Talk to her about what she likes to do for fun]

This is a good way to find out what type of person she is (e.g. quiet and relaxed, sporty, a party girl, nerd, loner), and where she likes to hang out in her spare time, while also finding out some of the things you have in common.

For example (while talking to the hairdresser):

You: (Grin and say) So, what do you like to do when you're not at work chopping people's ears off?

Her: (Most likely smiling) I like to relax at home, or if I can, I really like to go to the beach.

You: That's cool. I love the beach. I was there a few weeks ago with some friends, but I got such bad sunburn I looked like a lobster for a week afterwards!

Her: (Most likely laughing or smiling)

Not only is this a great way to find out more about her, you also get to tell her more about you.

Women are attracted to guys who have things happening in their life and who are not sitting at home alone hoping for something to happen to them.

3. Talk about food

Most people enjoy food, so talking about food is a great way to find out about her tastes and to then potentially use that information when you meet up with her for a date.

For example:

You: Okay, so do you prefer to eat out or cook?

Her: I mostly like to cook.

You: Are you any good?

Her: Sure.

You: (Smile and say in a joking manner) Hmmm! Of course you would say that, but I can't take your word for it. You look smart, you're beautiful, but how am I to know if you're a good cook if I haven't tasted any of your cooking yet? You're going to have to prove it to me by cooking something for me tonight, tomorrow or sometime this week. But none of that salad stuff for me; I'm a steak and potatoes guy.

Her: (Most likely laughing or smiling)

As you can see, a simple conversation about food can spark attraction between you and her (by implying that she has to cook for you), while at the same time getting to know each other better.

4. Talk about travel

[image: Talk about travel]

Talking about travel is another great way to find out more about what excites her and to let her know what excites you.

You: So if you had an unlimited budget and could travel anywhere in style, where in the world would you like to go right now?

Her: Oh, I'd love to go to some tropical island and just laze on the beach for a few weeks.

You: (Close your eyes, smile and say in a joking manner) Hmm! I'm seeing it now. You in a sexy bikini sipping pina colodas on the beach! Me lying in a deck chair next to you! Sounds fantastic; when are we leaving?

Her: (Most likely laughing or smiling)

Not only is this a great topic of conversation because most people love talking about their dream vacation, but it's also a good way to let her know that you find her sexually attractive.

Where most guys go wrong is they stick to neutral conversation hoping that it will eventually lead to something sexual.

Other guys worry about talking about liking a woman or seeing themselves with a woman because they assume it will give her too much power.

That's not how it works.

If you are a confident guy, you can say whatever you want and you never lose any power.

Every Conversation is an Opportunity to Make Her Feel Attracted [image: Make her feel attracted while you talk to her]

As you can see from the examples of what to talk about with women that I've provided above, the list of what to talk about is endless.

Almost any subject you can think of (except for politics, religion or anything gruesome) is an ideal way to learn something about her, tell her something about yourself and trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

You don't have to put on an act and pretend to be someone you're not to impress women when you talk to them (i.e. by bragging, acting super cool, etc).

Just be yourself and allow those qualities in yourself that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. your confidence, humor, charm, charisma) to come through and she will naturally feel attracted to you.

When a woman is feeling attracted, then kissing, sex and a relationship will follow on naturally from there without much effort on your part at all.

Always Remember to Focus on Displaying Attractive Personality Traits and Behaviors

[image: Attract her by displaying attractive traits]

When talking to a woman that you want to have sex with or begin a relationship with, always make sure you that you also focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you by displaying the types of personality traits and behaviors (e.g. confidence, charisma, a masculine vibe) that naturally turn a woman on.

If you only talk to a woman without triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you, she might end up liking you a lot as a person, but that doesn't necessarily mean she will be interested in having a sexual relationship with you.

Watch this video to understand why!

A woman might spend a lot of time talking to a guy and having a great conversation with him, but if all he's doing is making her feel sweet, friendly emotions for him, she will remain open to hooking up with another guy if he comes along and makes her feel sexually attracted when he interacts with her.

You don't have to be a bad boy or a jerk to attract women when you talk to them.

Be a good guy, but make sure that you focus on triggering feelings of sexual attraction.

That is what really counts.

What you say to a woman is not as important as how you are making her feel when you say it.

How do you need to make her feel?

You need to make her feel sexually attracted and you can do that by actively displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Say to a Woman to Make Her Melt

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In this post, I'm going to share three examples of what to say to make a woman melt.

1. When you meet a woman for the first time

[image: Making a woman melt during conversation]

Imagine that you are in a bar or club and you have approached a beautiful woman that you feel attracted to.

At some point in the beginning stages of your conversation with her, you are probably going to ask her what she does for a living.

She then tells you that she is a secretary.

What are you going to say next?

What most guys will say at this point is, â€œOh, thatâ€™s nice. Do you like being a secretary?â€ or, â€œOh, sure. How long have you been doing that?â€ and they will continue having the kind of predictable conversation with her that sheâ€™s probably had with hundreds of guys before.

However, talking to a beautiful woman in this way is not going to make her melt, because it is not going to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

It might make her look at you and think, â€œHeâ€™s sweet,â€ or â€œHe seems like a nice guy,â€ but these are the types of feelings that make her see you in a neutral way or as a friend, itâ€™s not going to make her think, â€œWow, this guy is so sexy! I want to be with him right now!â€

So, rather than say what every other guy would say, when a woman says that sheâ€™s a secretary, a good way to reply that will spark her feelings of attraction for you is to say something like, â€œHmmm, a secretary. Naughty and nice all in one sexy package. I like it.â€

[image: Making a woman melt]

By referring to her as being both naughty and nice, you are implying that you see her as being more than just the serious business woman, while at the same time youâ€™re making her feel relaxed by telling her that you think sheâ€™s also nice and that you respect her.

Although most women want guys to find them attractive and want to have sex with them, they donâ€™t want to come across as being too easy or slutty. So by calling her nice, youâ€™re basically letting her know you donâ€™t think sheâ€™s too easy if she decides to have sex with you.

At the same time, by calling her naughty and sexy, you are making it clear to her that you find her sexually attractive and you want to have sex with her.

When you say this in a joking, fun, teasing way, she will feel turned on, because she will see that you are not feeling intimidated by her, or feeling insecure about how she will react.

Women love it when a guy can be confident enough to say something funny like that without being sleazy or feeling self-conscious about it.

[image: Making a woman melt when you meet her]

What most beautiful women are hoping to experience is to meet a guy who will not feel intimidated by them, but who can also chat to them in a cool, relaxed, easy going way, without him trying to impress them by pretending to be someone heâs not deep down inside.

2. When you are on a first or second date

[image: Making her melt on a date]

Some guys make the mistake of thinking that to get a woman to want to have sex and be his girlfriend, he has to impress her on a date by taking her to the most expensive restaurant, being super nice to her and basically doing whatever she wants him to do so that she will like him.

Although there is nothing wrong with being nice to a woman and spoiling her on a date, itâs not the main thing thatâs going to make her melt and want to have sex with you.

So, when youâre on a first or second date, you have to focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you without worrying about doing and saying everything right.

Not only is it impossible for a guy to live up to some imaginary ideal he might have created about what a woman wants from a man, eventually she will realize that heâs not actually being himself and that everything he is doing is just an act to impress and please her, and she will feel turned off because he is not giving her the opportunity to connect with the real him.

If youâre on a first or second date with a woman and itâs clear that youâre both having a good time, a way to make her melt and feel even more sexually attracted to you is to make her laugh.

For example: If youâre out at a restaurant eating together and she drops her fork, spills some of her drink, or does something a little bit clumsy, you can sayâ!

You: (Smile and say in a joking manner) Did my charming smile distract you? (or “Does my charming smile make you nervous?”)

Her: (Laughing) Maybe.

You: (Smile and say) ...and that was only my 3 out of 10 smile. You should see what happens when I give a full 10.

Her: (Smiling, laughing) What?

You: (Smile and say): Earthquakes, tsunamis, volcanic eruptionsâ! Women everywhere faintingâ! Itâs just such a responsibility to have so much power in one charming smile.

Her: (Laughing)

Whatâs happening here is that you are being confident and funny, which is going to make her feel even more sexually attracted to you.

3. When youâre in a relationship

[image: Making her melt when in a relationship]

If the spark has gone out of your relationship, getting you girlfriend or wife to melt is not as difficult as it might seem.

Even if, right now, she is saying things like, âIâm too tired,â or âIâm just not in the mood, it's up to you to take the lead and re-spark your woman's feelings of sexual attraction.

Break down her walls of resistance and self-doubt that have built up over time, and tell her, "You are the sexiest woman in the world to me. Every day you just get more beautiful and sexier. I love the way you smell and the way your skin feels when I touch you."

Hold her and let her feel your desire for her. Keep making her feel attracted by maintaining your confidence no matter how much she tries to resist you. Eventually, her defenses will drop and she will begin to melt in your arms.

Attraction Comes First Then Everything Else Will Follow on Easily After That

What makes a woman melt is a man's ability to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, and then build on those feelings as she continues to talk to him and interact with him.

If you focus on making a woman feel sexually attracted to you when you interact with her (when you meet her for the first time, on a date, or even in a relationship), she will not be able to help herself from wanting you.

Then, almost anything you say to a woman will make her melt and feel lust and love for you. Why? You will also be making her feel attracted to you in many other ways (e.g. via your confidence, by making her laugh, by making her feel feminine and girly in contrast to your masculine vibe).

The examples of what to say to a woman to make her melt that I have provided in this post will definitely make you stand out from other guys who are using the same old lines. They will also help you have better dates and get some of the spark back in a relationship.

However, just make sure that you focus on making a woman feel attracted to you as well as using the examples of what to say.

A woman isn't going to care if your lines are fresh and different, if you're not also making her feel attracted to you in other ways (e.g. by being confident and charismatic, making her feel girly and feminine in response to your masculine vibe, making her laugh).

Attraction always has to come first (i.e. by displaying confidence, being present in the moment, having relaxed and confident body language) and it also has to be built on as the interaction continues (i.e. by remaining confident, having a confident, easy-going tone of voice, etc).

If a guy starts off a conversation with a woman using a great line, but the rest of his behavior is nervous and awkward around her, a woman isn't going to melt just because his opening line was good.

Women are attracted to the strength in men and repelled by weakness, so even if a guy starts off by saying something interesting that makes her drop her guard and feel attracted to him, if his behavior doesn't back up his words, (i.e. his words are confident but his behavior is insecure and self-doubting) she will lose interest in him.

Although a woman might initially think, "Hmmm, this guy sounds interesting; not like all those other guys hitting on me. I wonder what else is different about him," if he then becomes nervous, insecure or tries too hard to impress her, she will end up feeling let down.

She will likely think to herself, “What a pity. He seemed so different from all the other guys, but in the end he was just like everyone else,” and she will either just smile politely and excuse herself at the first opportunity, or she will just switch off and ignore him.

Essentially, if you want to make a woman melt, the main thing you need to remember is that what makes a woman want you sexually or to be your girlfriend, is your ability to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that women naturally find attractive, and then to build on that as she continues to interact with you.

If you can do that, it won't really matter to her what you say, because she will be feeling attracted to you for many other reasons (e.g. your confidence, charisma, how you make her feel in contrast to your masculine vibe).

Just remember to focus on attraction as well as what you're saying. If you can do that, you will naturally make women melt and they will gladly hook up with you for sex and begin a relationship with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Pick Up Women on Valentine's Day

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In this post, I'm going to give you some examples of what you can say to women on Valentine's Day to start a conversation and get them attracted to you.

When you start conversations with women on Valentine's Day, you have to remember that women want love too.

[image: Lonely woman on Valentine's Day]

If a woman is single and all of her girlfriends have a boyfriend or husband and she's on her own, she is going to be happy if a guy can walk up to her, start a conversation and make her smile and feel appreciated on Valentine's Day.

She will appreciate it that a guy has helped her to not feel so lonely on the day of love and make her feel as though the world isn't such a bad place after all.

Of course, don't expect women to make it obvious that they want you to talk to them. Women don't go around acting like they want to be approached on Valentine's Day.

Most women walk through the world as though they're not even interested in guys, but all you need to do to change that is start a conversation and make her smile.

So, here are some examples of how to do that...

1. At a cafe

[image: Flirting in a cafe on Valentine's Day]

The first example of talking a woman on Valentine's Day is in a cafe / coffee shop.

All you need to say is, "Hey, how's your Valentine's Day going? Has anyone asked you to be their Valentines yet?"

As long as you say that with a smile and an easy-going attitude, most women will smile and open up to you.

It's just a matter of saying, "Hey, how's your Valentine's Day going? Has anyone asked you to be their Valentine's yet? You'd have to have at least 20 guys hoping to be your Valentines, right?"

You can add on a flattering compliment like that about her having lots of guys wanting to be her Valentines. It's most-likely going to make her smile and feel special.

If she is single, she's going to love it.

If she has a boyfriend or already has a Valentines, she's going to appreciate it and will likely say, "Thanks, but I already have a boyfriend" or "Thanks, but I've already got a Valentines."

If she doesn't have a boyfriend or Valentines, she's going to be open to you and you can then use your confidence and charisma to make her feel more attracted to you.

You can then get her phone number, add her to Facebook or social media, or continue talking to her and lead the interaction towards kissing and sex that day or night.

2. Two girls sitting on their own in a bar

[image: How to pick up chicks on Valentine's Day]

The next example of approaching and picking up women on Valentine's Day is in a bar, with two girls sitting on their own.

What you can say is, "Hey guys – which one of you bought me flowers for Valentine's Day?"

Once again, as long as you say that in a confident, easy-going way, most women are going to smile and open up. They will see the question as being funny, interesting and charming and will just go along with it and start talking to you.

So, it's just a matter of walking up and saying, "Hey – so which of you bought me flowers for Valentine's Day?" and standing there, smiling and letting them feel your confidence and presence.

If you do that, you have made them feel some initial attraction to your confidence, sense of humor and presence. From there, you just need to build on that attraction and move the interaction forward.

3. A woman on her own in a bar environment

[image: Valentine's Day conversation starters]

The next example is with a woman who is on her own in a bar environment.

For example: She is at the bar, ordering a drink and is on her own. Her friends may be off in the distance, but that doesn't matter. As long as she's on her own and you can approach and start a conversation, this Valentine's Day conversation starter will work well for you.

Walk up to her and say, "Hey, has anyone asked you to be their Valentine's yet?"

With a question like that, some women are going to feel the need to show to you to save face, so she might say "Yes" just so she can appear more valuable in your eyes.

A guy can then respond with, "Oh, damnit...I was going to ask you to be my Valentine's so you can then buy me drinks and wine and dine me. Oh well" and turn it into something to laugh about together.

If she doesn't have a Valentines, you can still use the same kind of response, but just change it up a little. If she says, "No one has asked me yet" you can say, "Okay great, then you can be my Valentines and buy me drinks and wine and dine me."

She will almost certainly laugh and smile at that point, which means that you are making her feel attracted and open to interacting with you.

4. On public transport

[image: Flirting on a tram on Valentine's Day]

Another Valentine's Day conversation starter is on public transport (e.g. a bus, train, tram or even a plane).

You can simply turn to a woman next to you and ask, "Hey, what did you buy me for Valentine's"

Day?” and start a conversation like that.

Your confidence and the playful cheekiness of the question is going to make her smile. It will almost certainly bring her guard down and make her open her up to an interaction with you.

[image: Flirting on a train on Valentine's Day]

Once a woman opens up to an interaction, you can then start to make her feel attracted in other ways (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, charming, funny, etc).

5. A woman at work or university

[image: Flirting in the office on Valentine's Day]

The final example is with a woman at work or at university.

So, say for example there is a woman at work or university that you have a crush on. You've been flirting with her and sense that she is interested in you too, but you just don't know how to get the conversation to a point where you and her are talking about liking each other and potentially doing something outside of work.

In that case, what I'd recommend is walking into the office in the morning and saying (with a smile and easy-going attitude), “Hey, happy Valentine's Day. Where are my flowers?”

Turn it into something to laugh about together.

[image: Flirting in the office on Valentine's Day]

In response, she's most likely going to smile, laugh and feel attracted to your confidence and sense of humor. She's also going to feel happy and relieved that there is some sort of communication going on between you and her now about some kind of relationship, liking each other, etc.

BTW: If you need more help with exactly what to say and do to pick up women, I recommend that you read my ebook The Flow. You can download it instantly and start learning right away.

Picking Up Women on Valentine's Day

[image: Picking up women on Valentine's Day]

If you're heading out for Valentine's Day and you're going to approach women, just remember that they want to be in love too.

If a woman is single, you're not doing anything wrong by starting a conversation with her. You're also not doing anything wrong by getting her smiling and laughing.

When you start a conversation with a woman in a confident, easy-going and funny way, she will almost always open up and you can then attract her in other ways (e.g. being confident, charismatic, charming, making her laugh).

Once a woman is feeling a lot of attraction for you (this can take anywhere from 30 seconds to 30 minutes depending on the woman and the situation), you can then move the interaction forward to getting her phone number, adding her to Facebook or social media or moving the interaction towards kissing and sex.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why am I Always Alone on Valentine's Day? 5 Possible Reasons Why

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Is Valentine's Day one of those days of the year when you feel sad to still be alone, while everyone else is enjoying sex, love and intimacy in relationships?

Do you hate it when people ask you, "What are you doing on Valentine's Day?" or "Do you have a date for Valentine's Day?"

Do you wish you could stay home alone and avoid seeing anyone for that day?

If you are asking, "Why am I always alone on Valentine's Day?" here are 5 possible reasons why this is happening, and what you can do change it right away.

1. You Miss Out on Opportunities to Be With Women Who Would Like to Be Your Girlfriend

[image: Missing the signs from girls who like you]

Women are a lot easier to pick up than most guys realize.

Over the past few years, you have definitely met some women who liked you and would have been happy to be your girlfriend, but your self-doubt got in the way and you didn't make a move and get her phone number, kiss her or ask her out on a date.

She then either thought that you didn't like her, or that you didn't believe that you were good enough for her, so she moved on without you.

If you want to be successful with women, you have to start by believing that you are good enough.

[image: Why don't women like me enough to be my Valentines?]

Believe it or not, there are thousands of beautiful, single women out there who are hoping to meet a guy exactly like you.

As you would already know, you can find single, beautiful women at your workplace, at your college or university, at the gym, at the supermarket, in bars and clubs, at the park or the beach, at the mall, online on dating sites, etc.

Yet, why aren't you hooking up with any of them?

If you've ever wondered, "Why am I always alone on Valentine's Day?" you probably don't believe that attractive women would want to be with you at all.

You might even be going around believing things like, "All the good women are already taken," or "The kind of women I want would never be interested in a guy like me."

This may be because you've failed when you have hit on women in the past, or you may have been told, "You're really nice, but I only like you as a friend," one time too many by women you really liked.

Whatever your past with women is, right now you probably don't have much confidence in your ability to attract the type of woman you really want as your girlfriend, or even just a woman for sex and a date on Valentine's Day.

Yet, here's the catch. The more you doubt yourself and your ability to attract women, the more that your lonely, single life becomes an ongoing, painful reality.

When a guy lacks confidence in himself and in his ability to attract women and happens to interact with a woman he really likes, everything about him screams, "I don't believe in myself! I don't think I'm good enough for you! Why would a beautiful woman like you ever be interested in a guy like me? I have no chance with you and I know it!"

His self-doubt and lack of self-confidence naturally turns women off as they begin to talk to him, because women are attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, self-doubt).

The women feel turned off by his emotional weakness, he notices them losing interest in talking to him...and the negative cycle continues.

Here's the thing though...

The truth is that a lot of the women he meets would actually be happy to be his girlfriend, but because of his self-doubt, the interaction heads into an unattractive, uncomfortable place and women then lose interest in being around him.

Women are looking for real confidence in guys because women are instinctively wired to find a man who can handle the challenges of life, rather than an emotionally weak or sensitive guy who will crumble under pressure.

A woman wants to know that if she does hook up with a guy and settle down with him, she won't have to carry him throughout life.

She wants a guy with real confidence who will go after what he wants in life and not give up, so she can relax into being his woman or the mother of his children without having to stress about trying to boost up his confidence, keep him motivated and encourage him to keep moving forward in life.

As long as a guy has some level of real confidence, most women will be interested enough to talk to him.

However, if a guy puts on an act of being confident, most women will see right through it and lose interest.

For example: An insecure guy might approach a woman with confidence and attempt to strike up a conversation with her, but if she gives him the cold shoulder or makes it difficult to talk to her (e.g. she gives 1-2 word answers, stops paying attention when he talks), he will ultimately reveal his lack of self confidence by the way he behaves around her (e.g. he will become nervous, stumble over his words during conversation, appear uncomfortable and then walk away from her feeling rejected).

What most guys don't realize is that all women test men to see how confident they really are; and this happens whether they're meeting for the first time, on a date together and even when they are in a relationship.

During the first interaction, testing a man's confidence allows a woman to determine whether a man is emotionally strong enough to handle a woman like her.

It is also a good way for her to see who is the more dominant one. If she can push the guy around or control him, she may decide he's not man enough for her.

Yet, here's the interesting thing!

If that same guy was able to remain confident and pass her confidence tests, it would be him who was having sex and a relationship with her.

That is the weird, but really cool way that a woman's attraction for a man works.

[image: Women are attracted to all kinds of guys]

As long as you can have a fair amount of real confidence and pass the confidence tests that women put you through, you will be able to attract the majority of women.

Of course, some women are much more testy than others and if you want the hot, confident women, you will have to have a high level of real confidence when you meet her, go on a date with her and get into a relationship with her.

However, the majority of women are much less picky than they initially act.

Yes, act.

Women put on an act of not liking a guy during an interaction as a way of testing his confidence.

If you can just remain confident and continue on making her feel attracted to you by displaying some of traits and behaviors that women feel naturally drawn to (e.g. confidence, being charismatic and charming, using humor, having a masculine vibe and making her feel girly in your presence), you will be able to get laid or get a girlfriend pretty much every time you go out to approach and meet women.

It's actually funny how easy it is.

When you know how to attract women properly, you will realize that the majority of men in this world have absolutely no idea how a woman's attraction for a man really works.

and that gives you a huge advantage.

When you meet a woman and are able to attract her in ways that other guys are clueless about, she becomes excited to have finally met a guy who understands what women really want in a man.

So the next time you notice a beautiful woman you feel attracted to, rather than fall into the old pattern of thinking where you doubt yourself and then you just don't do anything, take the opportunity to talk to her and actively practice making her feel attracted to you.

How? Display some of the personality traits and behaviors that women find naturally attractive (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, humor) and she will naturally like you and open up to you.

Of course, she will almost certainly test you at some points during the interaction to see if you are really a confident guy, but as long as you remain confident, she will continue to open up to you and you can then lead the interaction to kissing, sex and into a relationship.

2. You Haven't Yet Worked Out How to Attract Women During a Conversation

[image: Doesn't know how to attract her during a conversation]

One of the major reasons why so many fail to get laid, get a girlfriend or at least have a Valentine's girl on Valentine's Day is because they simply don't know what to say to a woman when they approach her.

For most guys, the idea of approaching an attractive woman fills them with fear and dread, which is why so many guys choose to avoid women rather than be faced with the uncomfortable situation of having to think of something to say or the dreaded awkward silence that follows when he runs out of things to say.

When a guy wonders, “Why am I always alone on Valentine’s Day?” it often comes down to the fact that he just doesn’t actively approach and attract the kinds of women he likes.

He might talk to some women at work or university who already have a boyfriend or husband or who aren’t even his type, but when he talks to single women that he finds attractive, he suddenly gets tongue-tied and loses confidence in himself.

So, rather than having to face up to a potentially uncomfortable interaction, he dulls his sexual desire every week by jerking off to porn and feels as though he’s probably doomed to be single for life or will have to accept an unattractive women at some point rather than being alone.

Here’s the thing thoughâ□!

Being alone on Valentine’s Day doesn’t always mean that a guy hasn’t been trying to approach women and get himself a girlfriend.

Some guys approach women all the time, but still don’t get any positive results with the women they really want.

Why?

Simple.

These guys don’t even know how to properly attract a woman during an interaction and either hope to be liked for showing the woman how nice of a guy they are or they make the conversation boring by talking about work, the weather and other dull topics of conversation.

Watch this video to understand where many guys go wrong when talking to women and how you can succeed where they failâ□!

When talking to a woman, your main goal has to be on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you rather than trying to get her to like you as a person.

If she is not feeling attracted to you, she will either lose interest and leave the interaction, or she will simply see you as a friend who she has no sexual or romantic interest in at all.

To get a woman to want to have sex with you and want to be in a relationship, you have to make her feel attraction for you first.

Don’t waste time trying to impress her with your job or study credentials or suck up to her by being an extra polite nice guy.

Be a good guy, but also make sure that you make her feel sexually attracted and turned on when she talks to you.

That is what counts these days.

It’s no longer 1905 where a woman had to find herself a nice man with a good job, so she could then get married, lose her virginity and settle down for life.

In today’s world, women want a guy who has the ability to make them feel turned on and if he also happens to be a good guy with a good job (or is smart at university) that is simply a bonus, but not an absolute necessity for sex and a relationship to begin.

So, if you want to succeed with women and avoid being alone on Valentine’s Day or any other day of the year, make sure that you understand how to attract a woman during a simple conversation. Guys who struggle to get laid or get a girlfriend usually make some of these mistakes during conversation:

- They stick to safe, boring conversations.

For a man and a woman to properly connect during conversation and create a spark of romance and attraction, the conversation should feel fun as well as being interesting.

A woman doesn't want to feel like she's being interviewed for a job (e.g. What do you do? Where do you live? What are your hobbies? How old are you? What movies do you like?).

Instead, she just wants to be able to relax, have an easy-going chat with you that includes smiling, laughing and joking around at times.

If a guy can't offer her that, she will assume that being in a relationship with him would feel boring as well.

- They try too hard to impress her.

What most guys don't realize is that what women really want is to meet a guy they have to work hard to impress; not the other way around.

When a woman is beautiful or at least fairly pretty, almost every guy she meets will suddenly change his behavior and try hard to impress her (e.g. he will become really nice and polite or he will act extremely confident, loud and brash).

When a guy puts on a fake persona, a woman instantly knows that he doesn't feel like he's good enough for her as he is, so he tries to put on an act of being someone he's not and hopes that it impresses her.

Yet, women have seen it all before. It's nothing new to them.

What a woman really wants is a guy who has real confidence and isn't afraid to be his real self, especially when she is testing him by playing hard to get.

So, if you want to stop saying things like, "Why can't I get a girlfriend?" or "Valentine's Day sucks because I'm always alone" you should stop trying to impress women with an act and just focus on making her feel sexually attracted to your authentic confident, charismatic personality.

When you can offer a woman that kind of experience during an interaction, things will naturally develop from a conversation to kissing, sex and even a relationship.

3. You Really Want a Girlfriend, But You Usually Avoid Approaching Women That You Find Attractive

This might sound really obvious, but if you want sex or a relationship with the kinds of women you really want, you have to first take the first step of approaching them.

Many guys feel sad about their single, lonely life and say things like, "I want a girlfriend, but the women I like aren't into me" or "I just want to find a nice girl who is right for me, but they are all taken.â□□

Yet, when it comes down to it, these same guys avoid approaching the women that they find attractive because deep down they donâ□□t believe they stand a chance.

So rather than feeling disappointed if she rejects them, they make excuses (e.g. women are too picky these days, I'm not good looking enough, I have to get a better job first, I have to move to a nicer apartment or house, etc) and waste years of their life jerking off to porn and feeling lonely and left out.

I've been helping guys to succeed with women for the last 10 years and I've found that most guys who avoid attractive women will say things like, â□□ Beautiful women only date guys who are tall, rich and handsome,â□□ or â□□ Beautiful women don't like guys who are short, overweight, skinny or earning an average income.â□□

However, if this was really true, most of the guys in the world would be single and lonely, and only the very good looking, rich guys would have beautiful girlfriends or wives.

Yet, the fact is that there are hundreds of millions of below average looking, short, skinny, overweight or bald guys with a beautiful girlfriend or wife.

It is true. Just have a look at the world around you.

What is even more interesting is that there are also millions of good looking men who are single and can't get themselves a girlfriend because they don't know what to say to women and lack the confidence that women look for in a guy.

Of course, many insecure, nervous good looking guys can still get a girlfriend or get laid, but it's almost never with the types of women they really want.

In the 100s of e-mails that I've received from good looking guys over the years, almost all of them complain about not being able to attract the kinds of women they want and having to accept the unattractive women who hit on them.

Why does this happen?

Simple.

A woman's attraction for a man is not the same as a man's attraction for a woman.

Most guys are attracted to women based on how physically attractive they look, (i.e. if a woman is physically attractive, a guy will be willing to have sex with her even if he doesnâ□□t like her personality, or even if he thinks sheâ□□s not interesting or funny).

On the other hand, women feel attracted to men for many other reasons that are not based on looks.

Yes, women do feel attracted to a manâ□□s physical appearance, but the most powerful types of attraction a guy can make a woman feel are based on how he turns her on emotionally and mentally when heâ□□s interacting with her.

For example: If a guy can make a woman feel girly in his presence, can make her laugh and can spark her feelings of attraction with his confidence and masculine vibe, she will perceive him as being attractive to her because of the way heâ□□s making her feel.

Even if heâ□□s not good looking and even if he doesnâ□□t have the other things that guys think all women demand (e.g. money or status), she will still feel attracted to him in other ways (e.g. to his confidence, charisma, charm, humor).

Itâ□□s very important for you to realize that you can make women feel attracted to you in many different ways other than looks, money or social status.

Yes, looks, money and social status can attract women, but the truth is that you don't need to have that to get laid, get a girlfriend or have a Valentine's girl on Valentine's Day.

When you understand that it really is possible to attract women in other ways, you will stop making excuses about why you avoid approaching women you find attractive (e.g. I'm not good looking enough. Attractive women don't go for guys like me. Beautiful women are out of my league) and start focusing on attracting women in other ways.

4. You've Gotten Used to Being the Lonely, Single Guy Who Gets Left Out

[image: Getting used to being the single, lonely guy]

When a guy is feeling depressed, lonely and dejected about his dating life, he will often say things like, I've tried to meet women, but all the good ones are taken, or I've approached beautiful women, but they only date guys who are good looking, have big muscles or drive fancy cars. I don't have those things, so why bother trying to talk to women at all?

By thinking like that, he is creating the illusion that all good women are taken and any single attractive women left wouldn't like a guy like him anyway.

He looks at himself with pity and feels as though it's his destiny in life to be doomed with women and miss out on love, sex and a relationship with an amazing woman who is perfect for him.

[image: Getting used to being the lonely, single guy]

However, that isn't his real identity. It's just a fake reality that he is creating by thinking in a negative way.

If you've allowed yourself to fall into a similar pattern of negative thinking, I urge you to stop right now.

No guy is destined to be alone and single unless he wants to be.

There are millions of attractive women looking for a guy like you right now.

That is true, even if you might not be ready to believe it right now because you want to hold onto a sad, negative identity as the lonely, single guy who sucks with women.

You are better than that.

You really are.

5. You Try to Get Women to Like You As a Person, Rather Than Making Them Feel Attracted to You

There's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman and there's nothing wrong with being a good guy, but trying to get a woman to like you as a person isn't what sparks her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

For example: A mistake a lot of guys make is believing that if they are really nice to a woman, do everything she wants and generally let her make all the decisions and have her way, sheâs going to think, *âWow! What a sweet guy. I want him to be my boyfriend! I will be treated so well!*â

Yet, that just isn't how it works.

A woman liking you as a person is not the same as her feeling sexual desire for you and wanting to be with you romantically.

What a lot of guys donât understand is that most of the guys an attractive woman meets are good guys.

There really is no shortage of nice guys in this world.

However, what most attractive women struggle to find is a good guy who also knows how to spark her feelings of sexual attraction during a conversation.

So, if you want a woman to want to have sex with you or be your girlfriend, you have to focus on more than just being a good person around her.

You need to focus on saying and doing the things that turn women on (e.g. displaying real confidence, making her feel girly and feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe, making her laugh).

Remember: When it comes to picking up women, sexual attraction comes first and then everything else happens naturally and easily after that.

The more ways you can attract women with your personality and behavior during an interaction, the more that they will feel attracted to you and want to be with you.

You then enjoy your choice of women rather than settling for what you can get, or for being alone on Valentine's Day or any other day of the year.

By making some adjustments to how you interact with women (i.e. focus on making them feel sexually attracted to you, rather than trying to get them to like you as a person), Valentineâs Day will be just another happy day that you enjoy your choice of beautiful women or enjoy a loving, committed relationship with the woman of your choosing.

Attracting women is easy, but you have to be willing to actually try some attraction techniques when interacting with women.

Don't expect to get different results with women if you keep saying and doing the same old things during conversations and interactions.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do Women Play Mind Games With Men?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

As you may have noticed, men and women behave very differently when it comes to dating, sex and relationships.

Women often behave so differently that some men become frustrated and assume that women are playing silly mind games, wasting time and being unnecessarily difficult.

Yet, as you will discover from this post, there are very specific and valid reasons why women behave in the ways they do when it comes to sex, dating and relationships.

Sexual Selection

[image: Men checking out women]

While most men are willing to have sex with a woman simply based on her appearance, most women need to be warmed up to the idea of having sex with a guy by interacting with him and seeing how his personality makes her feel.

For example: Most men will look at a woman and instantly have a “Yes” or “No” answer about whether or not they’d have sex with her, whereas most women (not all) will say, “Well, I’d have to meet him first to see if I like him.”

[image: Men checking out women]

Sexual selection happens in that way because men feel mostly attracted to a woman’s physical appearance, whereas most women feel more attracted to how a guy’s personality, behavior and inner qualities make her feel (e.g. his confidence, charisma, charm, masculine vibe).

Important: It is true that women are more interested in a man’s looks when it comes to online dating, but in face-to-face interactions, most women place less importance on looks than they do a guy’s personality, behavior and inner qualities.

This very simple difference in how men and women feel attracted to each other leads to all kinds of differences in male and female behavior, which often leads men feeling confused and wondering, “Why do women play mind games with men?” and “Why can’t dating be more simple and straight forward?”

As you will discover in the following examples, there are valid reasons why a woman will test a man (some guys refer to these tests as “mind games”) before an interaction escalates to kissing, sex and a relationship.

1. When you approach a woman to talk to her for the first time

[image: When you approach her for the first time]

Life would be so much easier if all women were completely open, friendly and keen to chat to any man who approached them.

It would be even easier if a woman then simply accepted any guy who was interested in her, so they could then start a relationship and no longer be single.

Yet, that's not how it works and there are specific reasons why.

When a man approaches a woman, some of the "mind games" that he will encounter involve the woman:

- Acting cold or uninterested initially.
- Giving him short, "Yes" or "No" or "I don't know" answers to his questions.
- Not contributing much to the conversation.
- Teasing him during a conversation.
- Rolling her eyes at things that he says to her.
- Making it difficult for him to talk to her.

So, why do women often act that way towards men who approach them? Is it because women are mean, cold bitches who want to play unnecessary mind games with men, or could there be a valid reason why?

Thankfully, there is a valid reason why and once you understand it and accept it, your life with women will be so much easier from now on.

In almost all cases, the reason why a woman will play hard to get during a conversation is simple: To test the guy's confidence.

Women have a natural instinct to find themselves a guy who has the emotional strength to handle the challenges of interacting with all different kinds of people.

This has been necessary throughout human history because a man has always needed to be able to get along with other people and get them to respect him and treat him well, otherwise he will find it more difficult to survive, thrive and prosper in an oftentimes unfair world.

If a man is picked on and easily pushed around by her or other people during a conversation, a woman won't feel safe hooking up with him because her instincts tell her that he will most-likely be more of a burden than a benefit to her in the long run.

Even though we now live in a modern, civilized society where a woman can make her own money, buy her own food, buy her own home and be protected by the police, media and government, she still has a natural instinct to align herself with a guy who is mentally and emotionally tough enough to handle challenging people and situations in life.

Men who don't understand this will feel angry and frustrated at women for playing mind games and making the dating process so difficult. A guy will complain and say, "Why are women so damn difficult? Can't they see that I'm a nice guy and have good intentions?"

Yet, what these guys don't realize is that it's actually simple and easy to pass the confidence tests that women put guys through. All you've got to do is relax, maintain confidence in yourself and smile at or ignore any tests she tries to put you through.

[image: When you approach her for the first time]

When you do that, you will discover that the majority of women are much easier to pick up than most guys realize.

As long as you are able to pass the initial confidence tests, most women will drop their guard and show you an easy-going, friendly side of themselves that they don't show to other guys who lack confidence around them.

All that a woman really wants to see is that you don't crumble under her pressure and are able to remain relaxed and confident as you continue the interaction, while even smiling or laughing at some (not all) of her tests because you find it amusing.

Some women are more challenging than others, but the majority of women are extremely easy to pick up once you've past their initial confidence tests.

2. When you call her and try to set up a date

Another mind game is how a woman can go from being really keen on you to cold in between you getting her number and then calling her for the first time.

For example: Sometimes a man will meet a woman, make her feel attracted and get along really well with her for 10 minutes to 2 hours and then get her number. She will look happy to give him the number and he will walk off feeling fantastic.

Based on the great interaction, he will naturally expect that things will now smoothly progress from a phone call to a date, to sex and into a relationship.

Yet, it won't always work out like that.

Sometimes a woman will answer the first phone call, be happy to hear from him and readily agree to a date. He will then be able to catch up her, have a great date, kiss her and begin a sexual relationship.

However, some women put guys through tests when they first call by saying, "No" to the request for a date. She will say that she is busy on the day he is suggesting or busy for the entire week.

Why would a woman do that if she actually likes the guy?

Well, apart from genuinely being busy in her life (e.g. with work, study, friends, family, exercise, projects, hobbies, etc), she might also initially say "No" to a date for one of the following reasons:

1. She is insecure about her attractiveness: Am I good enough for this guy? Is he sincerely attracted to me, or does he only want to see me so he can sleep with me and then dump me later on?
2. She wants to be in the position of power in this relationship because her last boyfriend dumped her and broke her heart: I'm going to get back at men by controlling this guy, making him love me and then dumping him to break his heart. Hopefully then I will feel better about myself and regain my self-esteem.
3. She wants to test his interest level: Is this guy after casual sex, a serious relationship or marriage? How certain is he that I am the one for him? Will he persist and continue to court me if I play hard to get?
4. She wants to test his confidence: Will he lose confidence in himself just because I can't make it to a date this week? Is that all it will take to break him and make him think that he is unworthy of me?

As you can see from the examples above, there are many reasons why a woman might initially say no to a date, play hard to get or act like she is very busy.

Sometimes she will be a nutcase (e.g. trying to get revenge on men for getting dumped and being left with a broken heart), but in most cases she will be testing a guy for less crazy reasons.

For example: If a woman is attractive and she wants a confident guy who she can eventually marry, she doesn't want to start dating a guy who crumbles at the first sign of resistance.

She wants a man that she will feel safe to be with in the long run, because she knows that he believes in himself and will go after what he wants until he gets it, even if he has to climb over a few little obstacles to get there.

A woman treating a man like that might seem like stupid mind games or "too much work" for some guys, but it's simply a case of a woman needing to test a man's confidence to see if he is the sort of man she should invest her lifetime with.

When a confident guy asks a woman out on a date and she says that she is busy, he will continue to believe in himself and just suggest another time or say that he will call her another time to see if they can arrange a time to catch up.

For example: He will laugh and say, "Oh okay, it sounds like you're a busy girl this week. Well, let's try to arrange a time to catch up early next week. How are you looking for Tuesday or Wednesday?" and she will then usually agree to a different time.

If she says that she's not sure about her schedule for the next week, he might laugh and say, "Well, make our catch up a part of your schedule" and if she doesn't, he will simply laugh and say, "Okay, I might get in touch next week and say hi" and may also jokingly add in, "Hopefully you can fit an awesome guy like me into your hectic schedule next week."

In cases like that, a woman will usually text the confident guy to say hi that night, the next day or sometime during the week.

That is her way of essentially saying, "Hey I'm still interested. Keep pursuing me" and the guy simply needs to text a bit and then call her up, have a laugh together and arrange a time to meet.

She will be thankful that he didn't lose confidence, he didn't get angry or defensive about her not being able to meet up immediately and he simply continued the courtship in a confident, loving way.

After all, she could actually be busy or she could already have a lover and have made plans with him that week, she could be busy at work with her studies or have plans with friends and family.

Just because a woman meets a guy that she likes, it doesn't always mean that she wants to drop everything in her life and get into a relationship with him immediately.

Prior to him kissing her or having sex with her, he is simply another guy that she met and she will forget about him if they didn't have a very strong connection.

To some guys, this kind of behavior from women is seen as silly mind games and a waste of time.

Yet, it's simply a case of women trying to navigate their way through the dating scene and find the right guy for them without wasting time on the 100s of random guys who want to sleep with her.

[image: Attractive woman with dating options]

If a woman is attractive, pretty much every guy would be willing to bang her at least once and many of those guys would also be interested in a relationship.

That's all very well and good for us guys because we get laid, but women don't see it in the same light.

If a woman let every guy who wanted to bang her have access to her, she would simply lay around in a bed all day having sex with guys who were lining up outside her door.

If a woman is attractive, she needs to be selective about which guys she allows into her life because after all, she is searching for real love just as much as other people are.

It might seem like she is being a flaky, mean bitch who loves messing with guys, but she's simply trying to find a guy with the emotional intelligence and emotional strength to handle a woman like her.

When she finds that guy, she stops dating and she happily gets into a relationship.

However, since those guys are hard to find, a woman will no doubt come across many guys who think she is a bitch for playing mind games or rejecting them.

You can be the guy that the majority of women wish they could meet, but you have to be willing to accept the differences between men and women rather than fighting against them or getting angry or annoyed about it.

When you understand why women behave in the ways they do, it actually becomes quite amusing because you can see through everything that a woman does.

Rather than losing confidence and doubting yourself like the majority of guys, you are one of the rare confident guys who smiles and just continues on towards kissing, sex and a relationship.

3. When you're about to have sex

[image: Mind games before sex]

Imagine thisâ□!

You're in bed with a beautiful woman who feels attracted to you. You're kissing and fondling each other (e.g. you might have slid a couple of fingers in and she might have been giving you a hand job).

Both of you are clearly feeling turned on and aroused.

At that point, the next logical step is to start having sex, but a woman will often test a guy at this point, which some guys will see as a woman playing silly games and being immature or annoying.

For example: Right before having sex, a woman might say, "We're not having sex y'know" or "This doesn't mean that we're having sex" or "Don't think that you're going to get laid now."

If you've read the other examples in this post, you would hopefully know by now that a woman doing that is simply a way of either testing your confidence or making you feel like she is an innocent woman that doesn't normally have sex this easily.

What you need to understand is that women feel more attracted and turned on when they experience a man's confidence, so in that moment she is instinctively doing a last minute test to see if she should be having sex with you (i.e. Have you been faking your confidence up to this point? Do you really feel like you deserve her?).

Rather than seeing her comments as annoying, childish behavior that doesn't make any sense, just look at it as a beautiful opportunity to deepen her attraction and desire for you in that moment.

In moments like that, a confident guy will either just smile and keep kissing her and escalating to sex, or he will smile and stop kissing her to just lay there together on the bed and relax.

He knows that she is attracted to him, otherwise she wouldn't be kissing him and engaging in foreplay, so he relaxes and lets her do her test.

Moments or minutes later, the kissing and touching will naturally begin again and in almost all cases, the woman will then have sex with the guy.

She will say things like, "I can't believe I'm doing this" or "I'm not usually like this" or "Should we really be having sex right now?" or "Do you think this is too soon?"

Why will she say things like that?

Simple.

She wants him to be able to trust her if they get into a relationship, because he has seen that she doesn't easily escalate to sex and can control herself.

Here's the thingâ€¦!

Women have just as much sex as men and enjoy it just as much as men, but they have to approach dating and sex differently to men.

For example: If women are too open about enjoying sex, they are often slut shamed (i.e. criticizing a woman or thinking less of her because she enjoys sex) and looked down on.

However, if a woman keeps her sex life private and makes a guy feel like it's unusual that she is interested in sex and it's all because of him, he will usually be happier to hook up with her and commit to her in a relationship.

4. When you're in a relationship

[image: Mind games in a relationship]

Regardless of how good your relationship is, a woman will always test your confidence and challenge your position as the dominant one in the relationship.

A woman doesn't do that because she's a bitch who wants to hurt you and make your life a misery.

Instead, she simply wants to feel safe that she is with a guy who has the emotional strength to handle challenging people and challenging situations in life.

She also wants to see that it continues to make sense for her to submit to you as the more dominant one in the relationship.

If a woman tests her boyfriend, fianc  or husband and he continually crumbles under her pressure and becomes insecure and emotionally sensitive, she will lose respect and attraction for him.

Likewise, if a woman tests her man's position of dominance (e.g. by throwing tantrums, being unreasonably demanding) and he regularly crumbles under the pressure and hands over power to her, she will lose respect and attraction for him as her man.

The more respect and attraction she loses, the less interest she will have in sex or intimate affection (e.g. hugging, holding hands, caressing) and if that continues on for a while, she will eventually begin to fall out of love with him.

Some guys see this behavior by women as selfish, unloving, silly and annoying mind games and they wish that women would behave more like men do.

However, what you always need to remember is that it's the difference between us and women that makes us so feel attracted to them.

The less feminine a woman is, the less attractive she is.

Just look at the photo below (of masculine lesbians vs. feminine women) and you'll know what I mean.

[image: Masculine and feminine women]

Which women do you feel more attracted to? The masculine lesbians or the feminine women? Pretty easy answer, right?

Well, the same rule applies to a feminine woman's attraction to your masculinity.

The more masculine you are in how you think, feel, behave, talk, take action and respond to women, the more attractive you will be to all kinds of feminine women (e.g. Shy, confident, hard to get, easy to get).

Don't be angry at women and expect them to think, behave and feel more like masculine men do.

They are women and the fact that they are feminine and not like men is the reason why you are naturally attracted to them.

If women thought, felt, talked, behaved and acted like men, you wouldn't be excited by them.

The behavior of feminine women might seem a bit crazy at times, but as you will have discovered in this post, there are reasons for it.

All women will test to see if you are a masculine guy (in how you think, feel, behave) and if you are, they will naturally feel attracted to you because your masculinity is what is most attractive to feminine women.

Your masculinity is just as attractive to women as their femininity is to you.

Let women experience your confident masculinity and you will then realize that attracting women is easy.

Attracting Women is Easy

Rather than looking at the behavior of women as being annoying, frustrating or immature, be wise and understand that there are very specific and valid reasons why women test men.

Be happy that you are a man and embrace your natural ability to effortlessly attract women by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women naturally feel attracted to about men.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works...

As you will discover from the video above, it's who you are as a man and how that makes her feel that is most important to the majority of women out there.

As long as you can understand and accept the way that a woman's attraction for a man really works, you won't be wasting anymore time thinking, "Why do women play games?"

Instead, you will smile, accept women as being different to men and simply get on with enjoying an amazing sex life with women or get into a relationship with an attractive woman of your choosing.

Other guys are enjoying easy success with women and you can too.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Sex Conversation Starters: 5 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

What you say to women can easily change a conversation from being friendly to sexual.

Your words can be used as foreplay to switch a woman on and get her in the mood for kissing and sex with you.

In this post, I'm going to share 5 examples of sex conversation starters that you can use at each stage of the dating process.

1. When you meet her for the first time in person

[image: Sex conversation starters to use when meeting a woman for the first time]

After you have sparked a woman's feelings of sexual attraction for by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women find attractive (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, making her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculine vibe and conversation style), you can then begin to start sexual conversations.

It's important that you make her feel sexually attracted to you first though, because if a woman isn't sexually attracted to you and you then start talking about sex or bringing up sex in anyway, she's almost always going to shut you down.

You have to start off properly by making her feel attracted to you first, before you try to change the conversation from being friendly to sexual.

An example of a sex conversation starter once you've attracted a woman (which can take anywhere from a few seconds to a few minutes), is to say, "You're sexyâ€¦I like you."

Saying that to a woman steers the conversation to a more honest and authentic exchange between you and her, where there is no need for mind games anymore.

[image: Sex conversation - flirting]

You have made her feel sexually attracted to you and you're not telling her that you find her sexy and you like her, so it's all out in the open now and there's no need for either of you to act like you're not sexually interested.

If a woman feels attracted to you before you say that, she will almost always begin flirting with you and showing more interest in you.

She will be excited that she has finally met a guy who not only makes her feel attracted, but he also has the confidence to steer a conversation in a sexual direction without feeling embarrassed or hesitant about it.

One of my favorite sex conversation starters to use in an initial interaction is to smile and say something like, "You're a nice girl, but I see a naughty side somewhere in there too."

When you can make a woman feel as though you see her as a nice, respectable woman, but you can also see that there is a naughty side to her in there somewhere as well, she will feel as though you understand her.

Pretty much all women have to hide the sexual side of themselves because if they show it to others, most people will think she is slutty and of bad character.

The majority of women that you meet will hide their sexual side and pretend to be an innocent virgin type of woman.

When you smile and say something like, “You’re a nice girl, but I see a naughty side in there too” she will smile and feel excited that she has finally met a guy who understands what is really going on.

2. When you catch up for a date

[image: Sex conversation starters for a first date]

Some guys make the mistake of putting way too much energy and effort into trying to impress a woman by being nice, gentlemanly and building up as much of a connection with her as they can.

There’s nothing wrong with being nice, gentlemanly or building a connection with a woman, but if you want the first (or second) date to lead to kissing and sex, you also have to create a strong sexual connection.

So, when a date is going well (i.e. you’ve made her feel attracted to you, you and her are laughing and having a good time), you can steer the conversation towards sex in a way that makes almost every woman crack up with laughter and then continue talking about the subject of you and her having sex.

This is something that has always worked for meâ€¦

I smile and say in a serious, but easy-going manner, “I’m just making it clear now that you’re not getting to have sex with me tonight. You will have to wine and dine me more than this to get anywhere with me. I’m not that easy.”

At that point, a woman will almost always laugh and say something like, “No, you have to wine and dine me more!” and try to take back that power position.

Women love it when a guy has the social intelligence and confidence to mess with the typical routine of a date to the point where he steps into the position of power.

On 99.9% of the dates that a woman has gone on, she will be in control of when a first kiss is allowed and when sex is going to happen, which is predictable and boring for her.

By saying what I’ve mentioned above, you instantly change the dynamic from being you getting to have sex with her, to her getting to have sex with you, which is actually what women want.

Women love a guy who is a challenge to win over because they are bored to death with the endless queue of guys who are willing to have sex and a relationship with her without her having to do anything to impress them other than look good.

3. When you’re relaxing on a sofa in or in a bed together

[image: Sex conversation - sofa]

If you’re at a woman’s house or back at your place after a date and are wondering how to steer the conversation towards sex, you can either be direct about it or lead up to it in a more subtle way.

For example: If you want to be direct, you can say, “Come here, I want to kiss you” in a relaxed, confident manner and draw her close to you.

Then look her in the eyes and if she isn't pulling away from you, simply move in for a kiss and it will happen.

Alternatively, if you feel as though she might not be ready for a kiss and you need to warm her up first, you can say, "Let's give each other a massage."

It doesn't matter who gives the other a massage first, but just start out with a simple shoulder massage if she is shy or back massage if she is more open to it.

From then on both of you will feel more relaxed and sexual and you can either start kissing her at that point or say, "Let's go to the bedroom" if you notice that she is really turned on and ready to go.

One of my favorite ways to initiate sex when relaxing on a sofa with a new woman is to simply say, "Come here" and get her to sit on my lap, facing me in the riding position.

She will most-likely be shy about getting on your lap and facing you, so you sometimes have to encourage her by beginning to lift her on to your lap.

Once she is on your lap, you give her the hug and then pull back so you are making eye contact for a second or two and then lean in for a kiss.

From there, sex happens on the sofa pretty much every time, but if she is shy about doing it there, just say, "Let's go to bedroom" and she will go.

I've found that it is always better to initiate sex in that way, rather than trying to use a sex conversation starter (e.g. "Do you want to have sex?" or "What kind of things do you enjoy during sex?") because most women just want you to have the confidence to make a move, rather than having to discuss it first.

4. When you talk to her on the phone in between dates

[image: Talking on the phone in between dates]

A sex conversation starter that you can use in this situation is to say something like, "You looked really sexy the last time we met. I couldn't keep my eyes off your buttâ€¦it has the perfect shape."

She will most-likely laugh at that point, but she will be excited that you were looking at her in that way.

Most women are insecure about different parts of their body and even though you might think that she is beautiful, she will definitely have some things about her body that she is insecure about.

The more confident you can make a woman feel about the attractiveness of her physical appearance to you, the easier she will escalate to sex with you and the more excited she will when having sex.

For example: If you tell her that you couldn't keep your eyes off her butt, she will feel really excited when you're giving it to her from behind or in the spoon position.

5. When you text her leading up to a second or third date

[image: Texting in between dates]

Women love the feeling of anticipation, which is essentially about the emotion of not knowing know what is going to happen.

Women love to go over different scenarios in their mind and imagine you leading up to a kiss or to sex with her in different ways and fantasizing over how good that will feel.

So, when you send her a SMS text (or Whatsapp message) leading up to a second or third date (not a first date!) with something like, “I’m looking forward to turning you on tonight” the woman will immediately go into fantasy mode.

She will imagine what’s going to happen and it will make her feel excited and turned on.

You will then most-likely get a reply with something like a wink smile 😏 or “OMG, I feel turned on” or “I can’t wait” or something along those kind of lines.

Getting Women in the Mood to Be With You Sexually

The most important part of getting a woman interested in being with you sexually is triggering her feelings of sexual attraction.

You can do that by the words that you use, but you can also do it by displaying certain personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract and arouse women.

For example: Confidence, charisma, masculinity (how you think, feel, behave, talk, take action) that makes her feel girly around you, humor, etc.

The better you get at displaying attractive traits, the more attractive you will be to women and the more they will want to have sex with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do Women Hate Me? 5 Possible Reasons Why

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you are sick and tired of being rejected by women and have gotten to the point where you're asking, "Why do women hate me?" here 5 possible reasons why it is happening to you...

1. You think that women should like you because you are nice, kind and polite to them

[image: Why do women hate me?]

You might be an intelligent, good, decent man who deserves to be loved and wanted by women, but you're not going to get that in return for simply being nice to them.

If you want women to like you and want to be with you, the missing ingredient that you've been failing to add into your interactions with women is sexual attraction.

You can't make up for a lack of sexual attraction by being very kind, nice and polite to women and then expecting that they like you in a sexual and romantic way because of that.

Women want to feel sexual attraction for you, just like you want to be with a woman who you feel sexually attracted to.

You can make women experience sexual and romantic feelings for you, but you need to make some minor adjustments to your approach to women when you talk to them and interact with them.

Here's the thing...

Pretty much every guy who feels that women hate him is simply using the wrong approach to women when it comes to dating and sex.

It's not that women hate who is and will never like him, but they simply don't feel attracted to the approach he uses when he talks to them and interacts with them.

For example: A guy who is hated or disliked by women will be really nice, polite, kind and considerate when talking to a woman and then hope that she will be nice to him and like him in return.

He will try his best to show her that he is a good, trustworthy guy who has good intentions with her and will treat her nicely.

He will also want to show her that he is interested in who she is as a person, cares about her wellbeing and would never do anything to hurt her, embarrass her or break her heart.

In other words, he will treat her like a princess and essentially kiss her ass and in return, he hopes that she will like him, love him and want to have sex with him.

[image: Rejected for being a nice gentleman]

He assumes that a woman will think, "Wow, this guy is really nice. He's not like other guys who only want to have sex with me. This guy is different. I should be with him."

Yet, that's not how it works.

[image: What if I told you that being nice to a woman doesn't obligate her to be romantically interested in you?]

Women do appreciate when guys are nice to them, but niceness isn't enough to make her want to have sex with a guy or start a relationship with a guy.

A woman wants to first feel sexually attracted to a guy and if he is then nice to her as well, she will be excited to have found such a charming, exciting guy and she will want him all for herself.

However, if a guy interacts with a woman and is only nice to her, she won't feel excited because there is no sexual attraction and he is one of 95% of guys who try to use the nice guy approach on women to get laid or get a girlfriend.

and she's sick and tired of it.

She wants to feel sexually attracted to a guy, not just experience friendly feelings (i.e. no sexual feelings) and then be expected to want to be with a guy just because he is being nice to her.

That is not how women work.

You've got to make her feel attracted to you first, rather than acting (yes, acting) like you just want to be her friend.

You can still be nice to her (I'm nice to women and I've enjoyed my choice of women for years now), but you must ALSO make her feel sexually attracted and aroused by the way that you interact with her.

Watch this video to understand why only being nice to a woman will often result in a rejection

So, how can you make a woman feel attracted to you when you interact with her?

You simply need to display some (not even all) of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women.

For example: Confidence, charisma, masculinity that makes her feel feminine and girly in comparison to you (i.e. how you think, talk, feel, behave, take action, respond and react to her), charm and humor.

If you display traits that women find naturally attractive in men, then women will automatically (whether they want to or not) feel attracted to you.

That is how nature works: Display attractive traits = Attractive.

It's as simple as that.

So, if a guy interacts with a woman and he is being nervous, self-doubting and unsure of himself around a woman, she is not going to feel attracted to him.

Why? Well, if you understood how a woman's attraction for a man really works, then you'd already know that women feel attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, high-self esteem) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, nervousness, low self-esteem).

Of course, some of the guys who are asking the question, "Why do women hate me?" will also add in, "How am I supposed to have high self-esteem when women hate me?"

Simple: Start attracting women when you interact with them by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women.

When you do that, women will show interest in you, treat you nicely and want to be with you and what will happen then?

You will become confident in your ability to attract women and you will feel good about how many women like you.

The result? You have confidence and high-self esteem. You will also have a girlfriend or be getting laid regularly if that's what you want.

[image: Happy couples]

Yet, if you have no idea how to attract women and don't even try to improve your understanding of attraction from this moment onwards, then you can't expect women to suddenly start treating you any better, because you still won't be making them feel any better about you.

A woman wants a guy who has the ability to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on and then, if he also happens to be a good, kind man then she sees that as a welcome, exciting bonus.

However, if all that a guy has to offer a woman is his kindness and she gets the impression that he's only being nice to get to spend time with her and hopefully grow on her, she will usually be cold towards him or reject him rather than have to put up with him pursuing her for months or years without ever understanding that she just doesn't feel any attraction for him.

At this point, some guys might say, "Why don't women just tell me that I'm not making them feel attracted?" and the answer is simple: She doesn't want to teach you how to make her feel attracted.

She wants you to be able to naturally attract her by displaying attractive traits, rather than have to take on a role as a big sister, mother or teacher for you to explain how to be attractive to women.

She also doesn't want to "give a guy a chance" even though she feels no attraction for him, or be nice and mistakenly give a guy the impression that if he keeps talking to her or pursuing her, she will eventually give him and "let him" be with her.

She wants a guy who makes her feel as though she would be lucky to be with him and thankfully, it is very easy to make a woman feel that way.

Watch this video to understand how to get a woman to feel lucky to be chosen by youâ|

Being a challenge for a woman to win over is the quickest, easiest way to get a woman to go from feeling attracted to you to pursuing you and hoping that she gets to be with you.

You can put a woman through that process when you first talk to her, or you can begin the process with a woman you already know simply by starting to make her feel very attracted to you.

2. You think that women play stupid mind games because you don't understand why they have to test men

[image: Why do women play mind games?]

When a guy gets to a point in life where is pissed off at women and is wondering, "Why do women hate me?!!" he will often feel as though women play stupid mind games and are a waste of time and energy.

However, guys like that simply don't understand that when a woman acts cold or disinterested at the start of an interaction, she's almost always doing that to simply test the guy's confidence.

Why do women want to test a guy's confidence?

Women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, determination to succeed) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, low self-esteem, fear of success or feeling unworthy of success).

So, if a man starts interacting with a woman who wants a confident guy, she will almost always test him by being cold and disinterested at the start.

She has to do that to him to test his confidence and see if he is going to crumble under the pressure, or if he is going to remain confident.

If he remains confident, she will then begin to let down her guard and show a friendly, easy-going side of herself that she doesn't show to other guys who lack confidence.

However, if the guy crumbles under pressure (i.e. he becomes nervous and unsure of himself), she will rapidly lose interest in him and may even coldly reject him to get him away from her so she doesn't have to waste any more time on a guy who doesn't have what it takes to make her feel attracted.

3. You act like you only want to be friends with women, but they know that you want sex or a relationship

[image: Pretending to only want to be a friend]

If you are one of the many modern men who are asking, "Why do women hate me?" then you will almost certainly put on an act (yes, an act) of only wanting to be a woman's nice friend when you first meet her.

When you talk to women that you find attractive, you may come across as neutral (i.e. you won't show sexual interest) and you will try to give her the impression that you just want to get to know her, or you find her interesting or fascinating and simply want to talk to her for that reason.

If a woman is attractive, she will have had plenty of guys (who don't know how to attract women) use that fake approach on her in the past and she will hate it.

There's nothing wrong with becoming a woman's friend before you decide that you want to ask her out, kiss her, take her on a date or have sex with her, but she's only going to be excited by that kind of courtship if you are also making her sexually attracted and aroused by the way you interact with her.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man worksâ◻|

If you think that women hate you, then you might be surprised by what you learn in the video above. Especially the part where I disclose the fact that you can CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman.

Yes, even you can do that.

When you create feelings of attraction inside of a woman, she will NOT hate you.

She will like you, be interested in you and be open to kissing you, dating you, having sex with you and even starting a relationship.

4. You think it is wrong or "too forward" to make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by you during an interaction

[image: I don't want to be too forward with women]

Women hate it when a guy shuts down the sexual side of himself around her because he thinks it is wrong, disrespectful or too forward to make a woman feel sexually attracted.

In fact, women actually refer to guys like that as “creepy” because women know that the guy masturbates at home, feels attracted to women and wants to have a sexual relationship with a woman, but he acts like he would never ever think about sex when talking to a woman.

By shutting that side of himself down, he gives off an awkward, creepy vibe that women hate.

Women can't relax and trust a guy like that because he is already lying to himself and everyone else by acting like he has no sexual feelings.

Here's the thingâ◻|

We are living in a time where pre-marital sex is accepted and is happening all around us.

[image: No sex before marriage vs. have sex whenever you want]

Some guys get angry about that and complain that modern women are slutty, but those guys are simply clinging to a bygone era where a woman would save her virginity for marriage.

Back in the late 1800s and early 1900s for example, a guy would simply approach a woman, be nice to her, show her that he was capable of supporting her (e.g. he'd buy her a gift) and if she liked him, they would date (no touching, kissing or sex) and he'd eventually ask her father for his daughter's hand in marriage.

Although some men wish that life still worked that way, it doesn't.

Culture always changes overtime and the “save herself for marriage” trend was something that came and went, just like the Japanese samurais, the top hat wearing English gentleman and the people who used to hate computers and swore never to use one.

Culture always changes.

In today's world, women are free to have sex with whomever they want.

[image: Modern women are free to shop around until they find the right man]

This doesn't mean that modern women are slutty, but that they simply have the freedom to “shop around” until they find the right guy for them.

Some women settle down early (e.g. my wife was 20 when I met her and I was 35. I'm now 38, she's 23 and we are going to start a family soon), but if a girl doesn't meet the right guy, she is free to keep dating and shopping around until she finds a guy who is worth settling down with.

In the past, a woman had to get married and stick with a man for life even if she was unhappy because it was shameful to get divorced.

This was unfair on women, but now that we live in a more civilized society where women can make their own money and support themselves, the rules of the dating game have changed.

In today's world, women usually choose a guy based on how much sexual attraction he makes her feel and then, if he ALSO happens to be a good guy who will treat her well, she sees him as a catch and settles down with him.

However, if a woman is being pursued by a guy who doesn't make her feel attracted, she doesn't need to accept him so she can have someone to support her.

Likewise, if a woman gets into a relationship with a good guy who attracted her initially, but he later turns into an asshole who doesn't treat her well, she also doesn't have to stick with him.

So, if you want women to like you and want to be with you, it is absolutely essential that you actively trigger her feelings of sexual attraction when you interact with her.

[image: I've got to show her that I don't only want sex]

Don't pretend that you don't find her attractive or that you only want to be a nice, innocent friend to her. Be honest and say, "You're sexy" | I like you" AFTER you have first triggered her feelings of attraction for you.

If you are a good guy and you give a woman that kind of attraction and courtship experience, she will be excited to have finally met a guy who understands how the modern dating scene works.

It's actually very rare for a woman to meet a good guy who understands what women really want these days.

Based on all my experience helping guys and hearing from women out there, I'd say up to 80% of guys are attempting to attract and pursue women in the wrong way that simply doesn't match up to how the modern world works.

So, when you are one of the rare guys who knows how to attract women AND give them the modern courtship experience that they are looking for, they will love you for it.

5. You're not aware that you can make women feel attracted to you whenever you want

[image: You can make women feel attracted to you]

You might have gotten to the point where you feel like life is unfair and you are being punished in this lifetime for being such a nice, loving, good man, but that isn't what is really happening to you.

If you had the skill of being able to actively trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction during an interaction, women would want to be with you and you wouldn't have gotten to this point where you think that women hate you and life sucks.

Watch this video to understand some of excuses that guys have (including the two excuses I used to have) for their lack of success with women when they don't know how to attract women

As you will discover from the video above, all types of guys (even those who others think are ugly) can attract beautiful women and enjoy a successful dating and relationship life.

You might be a good looking guy, an average or below-average looking guy (like me) or you might even consider yourself to be a bit ugly.

Whatever the case is for you, it's a fact of nature that you can attract women at will by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women find naturally attractive about men.

It's not possible to attract and pick up all women, but it is possible to attract most of the women that you meet.

All you need to do is get used to displaying attractive traits and the majority of women that you interact with from now on will feel some level of attraction for you, or a high level of attraction for you.

The better you get at displaying the traits to trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of women, the more women that you will be able to attract.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

I Like This Girl, But She Has a Boyfriend: 4 Mistakes to Avoid

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you've found yourself in a situation where you are saying, "I like this girl, but she has a boyfriend" here are 4 mistakes that you need to avoidâ|

1. Not seeing the truth

[image: I love her, but she has a boyfriend]

This special girl that really you like might have been flirting with you, been very friendly towards you and may have even given you the impression that she likes you or finds you attractive.

Yet, that doesn't mean that she will leave her boyfriend for you, even if she is unhappy in her relationship with him.

Many women actively flirt with other guys when they're in a relationship just to build up their self-esteem (i.e. she gets many guys hoping that they might score a chance to be with her and those guys then give her compliments, treat her well, do favors for her, etc), but she has no intention of leaving her boyfriend.

Of course, sometimes a woman will leave her boyfriend if the new guy is making her feel very attracted and she is bored of being in a crappy relationship, but if the girl you like hasn't made it clear that she wants to leave him for you, then she's most-likely just flirting with you to make herself feel good.

[image: The girl I like already has a boyfriend]

When a woman is in a relationship, she will also sometimes flirt with another guy to boost his confidence because she feels sorry for him that she doesn't have a girlfriend or doesn't get much attention from women.

A guy who doesn't have many (or any) other options with attractive women will often confuse her friendly, innocent flirting to mean that she really likes him and is secretly trying to show him that she wants to leave her boyfriend for him.

He will then begin to daydream about being her boyfriend and will become fixated on stealing her away from her current guy, so he can have her all to himself.

Yet, here's an important truth that you need to realize...

The truth is, when a woman really likes another guy and wants to leave her current boyfriend for him, she will tell him that directlyÂ or she will get herself into a position where she can kiss him (e.g. get drunk at a party without her boyfriend there, spend time alone at his place).

So, if this girl that you like hasn't been trying to make any moves on you at all, then it's unlikely that she wants to do anything more than enjoy a bit of friendly, innocent flirting with you.

The next mistake to avoid making when you like a girl who already has a boyfriend is...

2. Falling in love with her because you have no other options

[image: Falling in love with her because you have no other options]

No one can tell you who you can and cannot like.

If you like this girl, then it's your right as a human being to like her and to like any other girl that you want as well.

However, if you are falling in love with this girl because you have no other options with women, then you're going about life in a way that will lead to a lot of insecurity, heartache and confusion regarding women.

[image: I like her because she is nicer to me than other girls]

As a man, you must have the skill of being able to attract women at will so you can have your choice of women, rather than hanging around girls who already have a boyfriend and hoping that they leave the guy for you, or hanging around girls and hoping to get lucky one day if of them "gives you a chance."

If you want to be happy as a man, you've got to be able to actively attract girls when you interact with them, so they then hope to get a chance with you. Not the other way around.

You can be the guy who gets all the girls or who gets the girl he wants, but you have to know how to trigger a girl's feelings of sexual attraction for you when you interact with her in person.

[image: Third wheel missing out on the action]

So, let me ask you this question, "If you were able to attract 3 other beautiful girls and they all liked you, would you be trying to get this girl to leave her boyfriend?"

Probably not.

If you had 3 hot girls interested in you and shared a great connection with each of them, you would just leave this other girl alone to enjoy her relationship with her boyfriend, even if she is unhappy.

I mentioned the part about her being "unhappy" because most of the guys who are in the position where they are saying, "I like this girl, but she has a boyfriend" also say that one of the main reasons he wants her is that he knows he could treat her better and make her happier.

The thing is, you probably are a really good guy and you probably would treat her nicer than her boyfriend.

However, even though the girl looks unhappy because the guy is a bad boy or a jerk, it doesn't mean that she's going to want to leave him for a sweet nice guy who is going to treat her like a princess.

Why? Most of the guys who want to save a girl from a bad boyfriend are the type who think that the secret to success with women is to be really nice to a woman and treat her like a princess all the time.

There's nothing wrong with treating a woman nicely and making her feel special, but niceness cannot be the only basis of her attraction and interest in you.

Why? Women don't feel sexually turned on, aroused and excited to be with a guy simply based on him being nice to her.

Watch this video to understand why this video

If you want a girl to like you in a sexual, romantic way, you must be able to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you, rather than just making her experience friendly feelings for you.

To trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, you simply need to display some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women are naturally attracted to in men.

For example: Confidence, charisma, masculinity (how you think, feel, behave, take action) that makes her feel girly in comparison to you, charm, humor.

If you're only offer to this girl is to treat her nicer than her boyfriend currently does, but you don't even know how to make her feel sexually attracted and aroused by you when you interact with her, then she's not going to feel compelled to leave him for you.

The next mistake to avoid isâ€¦!

3. Being the guy who steals another guy's girlfriend, even though you'd hate it if a guy stole your girlfriend

[image: Stealing another guy's girlfriend]

If you don't have many other options with women, you probably don't really care about whether or not people are going to think you're a bad person for stealing her from another guy.

You're attracted to her, you feel horny and you want to have her all for yourself so you can have sex with her, love her and treat her well.

So, you probably don't really care if anyone tells you that it's the wrong thing to do to take another guy's girlfriend, but you should at least stop for a moment and think about how you'd feel if another came along and stole your girlfriend from you.

You'd really hate it if another guy stole your girlfriend from you, right?

It would piss you off and most-likely break your heart if she dumped you and left you for the new guy, or if she cheated on you and then left you for him.

So, do you think it is fair to try and take another guy's girlfriend?

I know, you probably don't care how he feels and you just want her. In your mind, you might think that she'd be so much happier in a relationship with you.

That actually might be true, but if you're only focused on getting her because she's the one pretty girl who is nice to you, then you're probably just fooling yourself into thinking that she's the perfect girl for you.

If other hot, single girls were attracted to you and interested in you, it's almost guaranteed that you would forget this current girl and hook up with one of the other hotties.

Then, if the girl you liked became single, you would be much less interested in her if you were already in a loving, sexual relationship with a new hot girl.

Here's the thing...

As a man, if you want your dating and relationship life with women to get better and better over time, you've got to be able to attract girls by choice, rather than trying to sneak in the backdoor and steal another guy's girlfriend just because she is being nice to you.

[image: Third wheel in love with another guy's girlfriend]

So, be completely honest with yourself right now and answer this question, “Are you only interested in her because you’ve got no other options with attractive girls?”

If the answer is yes, then you’re going to be so much happier in life if you can just spare a moment to understand how to attract other girls, rather than going through life trying to steal women that are already in a relationship with another guy.

Watch this video to understand how a girl’s attraction for a guy works

If you had the kind of attraction skills that I talk about in the video above, you would have so many other girls interested in you right now.

Of course, there’s nothing wrong with you liking this girl who has a boyfriend, but if you’re only focused on her because you can’t attract other pretty girls, then you’re going about life in a way that will lead to unhappy relationships and break ups because you won’t even know how to build on a woman’s attraction, respect and love for you over time.

You might be able to get a woman into a relationship initially, but if you don’t know how attraction really works, you will probably be another addition to the approximately 50% of relationships and marriages that end in a break up or divorce.

You don’t have to live a crappy life like that. You can have your choice of girls and choose a girl who you are madly in love with and she is madly in love with you.

Of course, you might be thinking, “That sounds good, but I want this girl that I like.”

Believe me, you are going to be much prouder of yourself, much happier and live a much better life if you can attract women on your own, rather than having to hang around a taken woman and hope to grow on her so you can steal her away from her boyfriend.

4. Wasting time waiting on the sidelines when you could easily have other women in the meantime

If you really like this girl and believe that she is the one for you, there is nothing wrong with you waiting until she breaks up with her boyfriend, especially if their relationship doesn’t look like it will last.

However, if you are waiting around for her for 6 months to a year or even more and you’re not enjoying sex and love with other women, then you’re wasting your precious lifetime and you will also look less attractive to her anyway.

Women are more attracted to guys who have other women interested in them.

The more women who are interested in you, the more attractive you will seem to other women.

Seeing that other women like a guy is an important part of how women rate a guy’s value.

Guys often see that as weird, silly behavior from women because they don’t know that women feel attracted to men for different reasons than men feel attracted to women.

[image: Willing to have sex with her just based on appearance]

A man doesn’t need to see that many other guys are interested in a girl before he feels sexually attracted to her, because a man’s attraction for a woman is mostly based on how she looks.

This is why men will look at women and have a “Yes” or “No” response ready about whether they’d have sex with her.

[image: Guys willing to have sex with a woman immediately]

Yet, women will say, “Well, he looks cute, but I’d have to meet him first” because women place less importance on looks and more importance on how a man’s personality, behavior and inner qualities makes her feel.

That does not mean that women cannot feel attracted to a man’s looks, but most women place more importance on how a guy’s personality, behavior and inner qualities make her feel.

For example: His confidence, the way his masculinity (how he thinks, feels, behaves, talks, takes action) makes her feel feminine, his charisma, etc.

So, What Are You Going to Do About This Girl?

It’s up to you what you want to do.

No-one can tell you that you’re wrong or a bad person for liking a girl who already has a boyfriend.

You can’t help feeling attracted to the kind of girls that you want.

However, my advice to you is this: If you are only focused on her because you don’t have any other options with pretty girls, then you should improve your ability to attract girls so you at least have some fun in the meantime while you wait and hope that she leaves her boyfriend one day.

It’s much better to approach it that way because when this girl that you like notices that other women are attracted to you, she will actually become more interested in you.

If she wants to leave her relationship one day, then you are going to be at the top of her list of guys that she is attracted to and hoping to hook up with.

In the meantime though, if she is happy in her relationship, I would suggest that you just leave her alone because although you might not care right now (because it’s not you who is having a girlfriend stolen from you), you would care if another guy was trying to do that to your girlfriend.

The truth is, you can attract so many other pretty girls and have your choice of girls, rather than having to steal another guy’s girlfriend.

Of course, it’s up to you what you want to do.

What do you think you should do?

1. Continue to pursue her and try to get her to leave her boyfriend.
2. Attract and hook up with other hot girls in the meantime.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with

women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How Can I Get Women to Like Me?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you want to get women to like you, the one and only thing that you need to focus on from now on is sexual attraction.

[image: Attracting women makes them automatically like you]

When you interact with a woman, you simply need to arouse her sexual desire and she will automatically like you.

Women don't care how intelligent you are, how good of a guy you are or if you have good intentions before you make them feel sexually attracted to you.

So, don't waste time trying to get women to "like" you as a person when you can cut through all the "getting to know her" or "building a friendship" stuff by getting straight to the point with sexual attraction.

How can you make a woman feel sexual attraction for you?

You can make a woman feel sexually attracted to you by displaying confidence, making her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity, being charismatic, charming, making her laugh, etc.

[image: Using your natural ability to attract women]

There are many different ways that you can trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction and desire for you and when do it, she will automatically like you and be interested in you.

However, if a guy talks to a woman and comes across as a typical nice guy who is trying to impress her by showing how honest, sincere, trustworthy and nice he is, she might like him as a person, but she isn't going to be feeling sexually aroused by his approach.

[image: Rejected for being a nice gentleman]

Women only care about all the nice things about you after you've made them feel some sort of sexual spark.

Prior to attraction, pretty much all guys are seen as being the same to a woman and she has little or no interest in them.

A woman will only switch ON and be interested in a guy if he is able to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction and then build on that throughout and interaction.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

So, if you've been wondering, "How can I get women to like me?" you really need to understand what makes a woman want a man sexually and romantically.

What Makes a Woman Want a Man?

[image: What makes a woman want a man?]

What makes a woman want a man is his ability to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction and then build on that as she continues to talk to him and interact with him.

If a man is making a woman feel a lot of attraction when he interacts with her then she will want him, and if he isn't making her feel that way then she will either ignore him or only see him as a friend. If you want to make a woman like you and want you in a sexual and romantic way, you have to be able to spark her feelings of attraction by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that women find attractive, when you interact with her.

For example: Some of the qualities that women look for and feel most attracted to in a guy include:

- Confidence.
- Masculinity (how he thinks, feels, behaves, talks, takes action).
- Charisma.
- Charm.
- Humor.
- Determination and drive to succeed in life.

If you want a woman to want you in a sexual way, don't waste time trying to show her how nice of a guy you are in the hopes that she will think, "Wow, he's so nice!" and then want to have sex and be in a relationship with you.

Women don't choose to have sex, and get into a relationship with a guy based on how nice and sweet he is. Why?

Watch this video for the answer!

What matters most to a woman is whether or not you make her feel sexually attracted and turned on when she interacts with you.

Once her attraction has been triggered, she will then begin to pay attention to and like other things about you (e.g. the fact that you are intelligent, a good guy, have good intentions, etc).

Sometimes a woman will agree to go out on a date with a nice guy that she doesn't feel much attraction for, but her interest will soon fizzle out if he's not actively making her feel turned on by the way he interacts with her.

For example: A guy might be really sweet and nice and treat a woman like a princess on a date. He might take her to an expensive restaurant, buy her flowers and gifts and try to show her that he can take care of her.

Yet, even though she will enjoy the five star treatment, it doesn't mean that she will be thinking, "I don't feel attracted to him, but that's fine because he is buying me things."

That's not how it works.

Mutual attraction needs to be at the foundation of a successful relationship.

If it's only one-sided (e.g. you're attracted to her and she only likes you as a person), then it's going to end in a break up unless you can start making her feel attracted.

Understanding What Women Really Want

Most of the guys who are failing with women simply don't know what you are about to learn in this section.

Here are two common myths that will destroy your dating and relationship life if you believe they are true!

1. Beautiful women only want to have sex with and date good looking guys

[image: Average to ugly looking guy with beautiful girlfriend]

It is 100% true that some beautiful women only want a good looking guy who has male model looks, but what is also 100% true is that the majority of beautiful women place less importance on looks and more importance on how a guy's personality, behavior and inner qualities make her feel.

That is the truth.

If it weren't true, the most guys (including me) wouldn't be able to attract, have sex with and have relationships with beautiful women.

So, if you have been asking yourself, "How can I get women to like me?" just make sure that you don't waste time looking in the mirror and asking, "Am I good looking enough for women?"

Yes, it is true that some women will only accept a good looking guy, but the majority of us guys are just average or below average looking and we can still attract and keep hot women.

Here's how it worksâ€¦!

When a guy can trigger a woman's feelings of sexual desire in different ways (e.g. by displaying confidence, charm, being masculine, making her laugh, etc) she will naturally feel attracted to him.

[image: Ugly guy getting the girl]

If he has what he thinks is a physical flaw (e.g. he is bald, overweight, skinny, has a big nose, is short), most women (not all) won't care about it because he is making her feel attracted in other, more important ways.

If he really builds on her attraction during the interaction, she will even begin to see any physical flaws he might have as being cute.

For example: She might think, "I don't usually like guys with big noses, but his nose is cute" or "I don't usually like bald, overweight guys, but this guy is sexy."

That really is how a woman's attraction works.

Of course, I'm not saying that all women will accept a guy who doesn't look like a perfect male model, but most will.

For example: A guy might be tall and good looking, but if he can't make a woman feel attracted to him while talking to her (e.g. because he is nervous, insecure, self-doubting, puts on a fake persona), she will look for reasons why she doesn't like him.

She might begin to think, "I originally thought this guy was attractive, now I don't like him" or "I initially thought he was attractive, but now I think he's ugly. I've got to get out of this conversation."

Why would a woman think that way?

Well, a female friend of mine once helped me understand the inner workings of a woman's mind and how she really feels attracted to a guy.

She said, "Insecurity makes a guy look ugly. Confidence makes him look sexy."

In other words, even if a guy has good looking features, a woman can feel turned off by him and see him as "ugly" if he displays traits that women find unattractive in men (e.g. nervousness, self-doubt, insecurity).

The truth is that most women (not all) place a lot less importance on a man's physical appearance than most guys think.

[image: Hooking up with women]

As long as a guy can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction and make her feel attracted to him in other ways, a woman usually won't get hung up about the fact that he doesn't have male model features.

If you're still not convinced that this is true, the next time you go out, take a look around you and you will notice plain looking, overweight, skinny and even "ugly" guys with beautiful girlfriends or wives.

If women only wanted to have sex with and date good looking guys, most of the guys in this world (including me) would be single, because most guys are average or below average looking.

So don't waste another day thinking that women don't like you because you don't look like a male model. It simply isn't true.

When you have the ability to trigger and build on a woman's attraction for you during an interaction, you will find that most of the women that you meet like you and be interested in you.

2. Women say they want nice guys, but only date bad boys

[image: Do I have to become a bad boy to get women to like me?]

When a woman is asked what she is looking for in a guy, she will usually say something like, "I just want a nice guy who can take care of me, who is sensitive and doesn't put on a big macho act to impress me."

Many guys completely misinterpret what the woman is saying and assume that if he is nice to her, she will then like him and want to be in a relationship with him.

Then, when he tries the nice guy approach on women, they reject him and say things like, "Umm, you're nice, but I don't like you in that way sorry."

Why?

It's simple: He is trying to establish a romantic or sexual relationship without first making the woman feel sexually attracted to him.

Women do want a guy to treat them well, but if all a guy is doing is being nice, then she's not going to be interested in anything sexual because there is nothing to feel turned on about.

If a guy doesn't realize that, a woman will simply lose interest in him and then hook up with another guy who actually makes her feel attracted.

When the nice guy sees that the other guy didn't treat her as nicely as he did, he then comes to the conclusion that women want bad boys or that women lie about wanting a nice guy.

What he doesn't understand is that a woman will choose a nice guy over a bad boy every time, but only if the nice guy can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, making her feel girly and feminine in comparison to his masculinity, making her laugh).

Here's the truth!

Almost all women do not want to be treated badly, but a woman would rather hook up with a bad boy who makes her feel attracted, than a weak, wimpy, nice guy that only makes her experience friendly feelings.

What women really want is a good guy who:

- Is confident around her and other people.
- Is respected and looked up to by others.
- Knows how to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction.
- Makes her feel girly and feminine in comparison to his masculinity.
- Uses humor in a way that makes her feel attracted, challenged and feminine.

Thereâs nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but niceness is not what makes a woman feel sexually turned on or aroused.

You donât have to be a bad boy (at all) to get women to like you, but you do have to display the behaviors and personality traits that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charm, humor, charisma).

Stop Trying to Get Women to Like You and Start Making Women Feel Sexually Aroused When They Interact With You

Getting a woman to want you and feel intense desire for you is not as difficult as most guys thinkâ.and you donât have to be good looking, rich, successful, or a bad boy to make it happen.

You simply have to be able to display some (not even all!) of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that are naturally attractive and arousing to women.

When you do that, a woman cannot stop herself from feeling attracted to you because it happens naturally and automatically without her even having to think about it.

Making a woman feel a lot of attraction for you during an interaction also causes her to want you to get you to like her.

When that happens, you will enjoy your choice with women from that day onwards.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Dominate a Woman: 4 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

It's no secret that women feel sexually attracted to dominant men.

However, the good news is that you don't have to go to extreme levels of dominance to make a woman respect you, feel attracted to you and fall in love with you or remain in love with you.

Most women don't require a guy to be completely dominant all the time and simply want a guy who has the ability to be dominant when necessary.

For example: If a guy can't work up the courage to be dominant, he's not going to be able to attract and keep an attractive woman who wants a confident guy.

[image: Rejected for lacking dominance and confidence]

She might be nice to him and even like him as a person because he is a good guy, but because he lacks the confidence to be dominant with her at times, she just won't feel enough of a spark of sexual attraction to justify seeing him as more than just a friend or random guy that's met.

On the other hand, if you are a confident good guy who is fairly dominant at times, then you will be able to attract the majority of beautiful women and keep a woman happy in a relationship.

[image: Hooking up with women]

She will be happy and excited to meet a good, confident guy who makes her feel feminine in comparison to his masculinity and occasional dominance, while also treating her well.

[image: Good guy approaching a hot woman]

It's very rare for a woman to meet a good guy who is confident and also has the ability to be dominant when necessary, so when she meets a guy like that she opens up and hopes that it leads to a phone number, kiss, sex and relationship.

Finally, if you are very dominant man, you will be able to attract a lot of hot women, but in order to keep a relationship together you will also need to be a good guy who is loving and respectful towards the woman.

If a guy is just being dominant and doesn't care about a woman's feelings (e.g. a jerk, an asshole), she might follow his lead and begin a sexual relationship with him, but she will eventually dump him when she's had enough of being treated like crap.

So, in this post, I am going to give you 4 different examples of how to dominate a woman when you first, while you're on a date, during sex and in a relationship.

1. When you first meet her

[image: Dominating her with eye contact]

A simple way to dominate a woman when you first meet her is to pass her confidence tests with a relaxed smile.

When you approach and talk to an attractive woman who is looking for a confident guy, she will always test your confidence by playing hard to get, teasing you during the conversation, not contributing much to the conversation or making it difficult for you to talk to her.

The way to dominate her is to show her (via your body language, vibe, conversation style, behavior and actions) that you're not crumbling under the pressure, you're not panicking and you're not getting angry or frustrated about it.

Instead, you are calm, present in the moment, confident and relaxed.

How can you show her that?

When she tests you, just pause for a moment and smile as you look her in the eyes.

Then, look her up and down (from her eyes to her feet and back up to her eyes) with a relaxed, charming smile.

Just stand (or sit) there looking relaxed, at ease and with a relaxed, confident smile on your face. She will love it.

Looking her up and down like that in a relaxed, confident way with a relaxed smile instantly makes a confident, attractive woman feel a lot of respect and attraction for you.

Of course, she will almost always continue to test your confidence by smiling and asking, "Why are you looking at me like that?" or "That's a weird that you just gave me" and so on.

Yet, what she is hoping to see from you is that you don't suddenly crumble under the social pressure and feel like you've made a mistake.

She wants to see that you have the balls to dominate her in the moment by remaining relaxed and easy-going, rather than thinking that you have seriously screwed up by looking at her in that way.

She might act like she thinks the up and down look is weird, but it's just a test to see if a guy really is dominant if he's just another nervous, self-doubting guy who is trying to act dominant, but doesn't have the balls to back it up.

Most confident, attractive women find it very difficult to meet a guy who is not intimidated by them and be confident and dominant, while also being a loving, respectful guy.

[image: Hot women - nightclub]

It's really difficult to find those sorts of guys because most guys either lack the balls to be dominant, or they go way too far with the dominance and act like an asshole or a jerk.

So, if you are a good guy and you can add in a bit of dominance to your interactions with women, you will see that women are instantly attracted and interested in you.

The equivalent attractive value of a man's dominance (and the effect that it has on a woman) is when a woman wears a short skirt, shows her cleavage and wears make up.

In just the same way as those three things (a woman wearing a short skirt, showing cleavage and looking pretty with make up) enhance her attractiveness to men, a man can enhance his attractiveness to women by displaying attractive traits like dominance, confident and charm.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use traits like confidence, dominance, charisma, charm and humor to naturally attract womenâ€¦|

As you will discover from the video above, being dominant is not the only way to attract a woman.

Dominance definitely makes a woman feel attracted, but it has to be done right (i.e. don't go overboard with it unless you have the confidence to back it up) to be truly enjoyable for a woman.

2. While on a date

[image: How to dominate a woman on a date]

An example of how to dominate a woman when you're on a date is to simply decide which table you're going to sit at a restaurant, rather than asking her, "Where do you want to sit?"

So, you would say, "Okay, let's go sit over there" or "I like that table—let's sit there" and she will then follow along.

If she says, "No, I like that table over there" it's fine for you to consider her option and if you like it, you can say, "Okay, yeah—that table is better. Let's go sit there" because you are still leading the way and making the final decision.

If you don't like the table she has pointed out, you can say, "Nah, I don't like that table—stop being fussy—let's sit over here—that I like this table" and she will go along with it, especially if she was only trying to go against your initial decision to test your confidence.

Another example of how to dominate a woman on a date is to put your arm around her shoulder as you walk side-by-side towards a destination and then gently, but assertively lead her into certain shops or in a particular direction (e.g. to cross the street, to turn a corner, to avoid an obstacle on the footpath/sidewalk, etc).

You don't have to lead all the time and push her around like she's some sort of rag doll and you don't always need to decide on which table to sit at when you go to a restaurant or café.

Instead, simply just relax and take on the role of being a dominant man who decides to do what he wants to do when he wants to do it, but is also respectful towards the woman.

Women aren't impressed by guys who try too hard to be dominant, when it's really not necessary to be dominant (e.g. ordering food for her at a restaurant when she wants to order herself, telling her to stand up when she wants to sit down, etc).

Women are impressed by guys who can just relax and be dominant whenever it is necessary.

3. During sex

[image: How to be dominant during sex]

Some examples of how to dominate a woman during sex are:

- Press her against your chest when you're giving it to her in the missionary position.
- Push her head into a pillow when you're giving it to her from behind.
- Put your hand on the back of her head and scrunch up some of her hair into your fist as you give it to her in the spoon position or from doggy style.
- Temporarily (for a few seconds) be a bit rough as you turn her around in the bed or bend her over.
- Grab the sides of her face and pull it back and forth on your middle man as she gives you oral.

You don't have to be dominant 100% of the time.

Some women are into hardcore dominant sex and want a lot of it, but most women are happy with displays of dominance being added in 20% of the time and the remaining 80% is simply normal sex.

4. In a relationship

[image: How to be dominant in a relationship]

Being a dominant man in a relationship isn't about being in control of everything all the time, making all the decisions and bossing a woman around like she's some sort of slave.

Only a very small percentage of women seek a master > slave relationship where she is 100% submissive to her man all the time, in and out of the bedroom.

The majority of women simply want a man who has the ability to take the lead and then be dominant when necessary.

It's completely fine to allow a woman to take lead and make decisions at times, but for the most part it needs to be you who leads the way and takes on most of the decision making.

The reason for you taking the lead is to allow her to relax into being your feminine woman, rather than her having to take on a more masculine way of thinking, feeling and being.

If you want a woman to feel addicted to being around you, it's essential that you allow her to escape the logical way of being that she will be forced into at work or university and allow her to relax into being an emotional, feminine woman around you.

Getting Used to Dominating Women

[image: Getting used to dominating women]

If you're currently not used to dominating women, the first few times that you try to be dominant, it might feel a bit awkward or forced on your part.

However, that awkwardness is the same with any interpersonal skill that a human adds to their personality.

Initially, there will be a stage of awkwardness that you have to get past, where you're not able to do it 100% correctly the first or second time and you will almost feel as though you're forcing it.

However, if you just continue on, you will get used to it and you will naturally take on a more dominant role whenever you feel like it.

Eventually, being dominant with a woman will become a part of your normal, automatic expression of personality and women will love you and respect you for it.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with

women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Romance a Woman in 3 Simple Steps

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The secret of how to romance a woman is:

| Attraction + Personalization + Spontaneity = Exciting romance

To help you understand how a man romances a woman in the way that she really wants, I will explain it to you with the following three stepsâ|

1. Make sure that she feels enough respect and attraction for you before you attempt to be romantic

[image: Make sure that she feels respect and attraction for you before you attempt to be romantic]

If a woman doesn't fully respect a man (e.g. because he is insecure, he gives her too much power in the relationship) and doesn't feel attracted to him (e.g. because he lacks confidence, doesn't make her feel feminine enough in comparison to his masculinity), then she's usually not going to be excited by any romantic gestures that he tries to offer her.

When a woman feels proper respect and attraction for a man, then she looks at everything else he does in a more positive light.

For example: He could take her out for a simple burger and fries on a Friday night, watch a sunset at the beach or simply cuddle up on the sofa to watch a movie on a Sunday night and she will feel happily romanced by him.

However, if a woman doesn't feel respect and attraction for a guy, any sort of gift or romantic gesture that he offers her isn't going to be seen in the same positive light.

Rather than being swept off her feet by his romantic gesture, she will know that he is only doing it to overcompensate for the fact that he doesn't even know how to make her feel respect and attraction for him.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really worksâ|

As you will discover from the video above, you can make a woman fall madly in love with you and remain madly in love with you without having to buy her expensive gifts or put a lot of effort into coming up with romantic ideas or activities.

If you want a woman to be happy in a relationship with you, there needs to be a strong foundation of respect and attraction that you make her feel based on your behavior, inner qualities and personality.

If your woman can't look up to you and respect you as her man, then she's not going to feel much attraction for you when you attempt to be romantic.

How can you make a woman feel proper respect for you?

- Be emotionally stronger than her (i.e. don't cry when life gets tough, don't be insecure, don't be so emotionally sensitive).
- Be a man of your word.

- Be a man who is rising up through the levels of life by reaching for your true potential, rather than hiding from your biggest goals and ambitions because you are afraid of failure or because you just want to spend all of time with her.
- Be loving and caring towards her and other people in your life, but don't be a pushover who lets people disrespect you or take advantage of your kindness.
- Have 100% belief in your ability to achieve whatever you are aiming to achieve in life and then keep following through until you get there. It may take 5, 10, 20 or 30 years to get there, but don't give up before then.
- Be masculine rather than being neutral around her or worse, taking on many of her feminine behaviors and ways of thinking.

How can you make a woman feel properly attracted to you?

- Be confident at all times.
- Make her feel feminine in comparison to how masculine you are (i.e. how you think, feel, behave, move and take action in life and around her).
- Be charming.
- Be charismatic.
- Make her laugh and feel good around you.

If a single man has those qualities, he will have access to the highest quality women around.

If a man displays those qualities when in a relationship with a woman, his woman will feel a deeper respect, attraction and love for him over time and she won't want to leave him.

Any kind of romantic gesture that he offers is going to be seen as sweet, adorable, endearing and will be appreciated because it's coming from the man that she respects, feels attracted to and is in love with.

2. Match the style of romance to her unique personality

[image: Match the romance to her unique personality]

Different women like different kinds of romantic gestures.

For example: Some women hate it when a guy when a guy buys gifts for her and thinks that he is being romantic, whereas other women really like it and see it as romantic.

Some women think that watching a sunset at the beach is boring and a huge waste of time, whereas other women love it because it is a perfect opportunity to relax, introspect, feel grateful about life and enjoy quality time with their man.

Some women think that lighting candles in a room and giving each other massages is romantic and sexy, whereas other women think that the candles are unnecessary and make her feel like the guy is trying to hard to be romantic.

Some women don't feel amazed and romanced by going to an expensive restaurant, some women think it's a waste of money and other women feel as though it means that the guy really loves her and thinks she is special enough to deserve that.

So, if you're going to romance the woman that you love, you need to make sure that you understand and accept who she really is as a woman.

When a guy tries to force a style of romance on a woman that just doesn't match her personality, she will feel as though he doesn't understand who she truly is and he doesn't care about how she feels in her heart.

Instead, he just wants to do what he thinks is romance or what he has seen in a movie, rather than giving her personalized romance that will make her feel understood and swept off her feet.

So, how can you match the style of romance to her unique personality and heart?

Rather than asking her what she wants you to do (women hate that), you need to analyze what type of person she really is and then trust your gut instinct to say or do something romantic.

If you try to do something romantic, it isn't the end of the world and you haven't made a huge mistake that will ruin the relationship forever.

Instead, just be a man about it and have a laugh about it by saying something like, "Okay, I guess you don't like that kind of thing" and then simply try something different the next time.

Let her know that you're not worried if she doesn't like some of your attempts at romance, because you love her enough to relax and just see what kind of romance is the most fun for the both of you.

Also let her know that she might originally think that something you do is tacky, old school or unnecessary, but if she just relaxes and lets herself experience it she might find that she really enjoys it.

For example: If she is the kind of woman who thinks that lighting candles in the bedroom and giving her a massage is tacky and over the top, she will most-likely enjoy it once you begin the massage.

[image: Romantic massage]

If you've ever gotten a massage before, you will know that once it begins you then start to relax and enjoy the relaxing experience.

So, just tell her to relax and experience it this time.

If she is the sort of woman who is really picky about things, she might tell you to get rid of the candles or that she doesn't want a massage with candles.

Simply have a little laugh and tell her to relax and not worry about it.

She will most-likely enjoy the experience, but if she doesn't like it because she feels like the candles are too tacky, just laugh with her and accept it (accept who she is as a person) and then don't include the candles next time.

It's all about personalizing the romantic experience in a way that matches up with her unique personality and your relationship with her.

When you are able to find the sweet spot of ideal romance for your relationship, both of you will be so much happier as a result.

3. Don't make it predictable

The final key to romancing a woman is to not make it predictable.

Women like to feel a variety of emotions rather than feeling the same emotions over and over again.

Even if she really enjoys a particular romantic thing that you do together (e.g. go for a walk in nature once a week and just chat and laugh together), it doesn't mean that she's always going to feel completely fulfilled with just that.

You don't have to keep coming up with new romantic ideas or activities all the time, but you just need to make sure that you cycle through different things to keep it interesting.

Personally speaking, the romance in my marriage is mutual.

I am always saying or doing random, spontaneous things that she perceives as romantic and she always does it for me as well.

When the love, respect and attraction is mutual and is building over time, that is the kind of outcome you get in a relationship, especially when you have the dynamic in your relationship where she is your woman and you are her man.

She looks up to you and respects you as her man, rather than seeing you as a neutral friend, partner or worse â□□ feeling as though she's more dominant, powerful or valuable than you in the relationship.

Although some women don't like to admit it when asked, what they really want is to be with a man who they can look up to and respect, so they can relax into his masculine rather than having to make all the decisions or boss him around to keep him in line.

When you are the sort of man who makes a woman feel deeper love, respect and attraction over time, then the desire that both of you have to be romantic happens naturally and spontaneously.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Do Women Want in Bed?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Pleasing a woman in bed is easy, as long as you don't worry too much about it and just do whatever you feel like doing at the time.

Having that type of confidence in yourself and the balls to do whatever you want is what impresses women the most.

Women don't need you to be superman in the bedroom and do all sorts of new and amazing things every time. Instead, most women just need you to be confident, present and willing to do whatever you want with her without worrying so much about it.

I know this because I've had sex with more than 250 women and I'm now a very happily married man with a sexy young wife.

One of the main things that women have always enjoyed about being in the bedroom with me is that I am right there with her, rather than being all up in my head due to over-thinking things or being insecure.

I have the confidence to just be masculine, loving her, appreciating her, devouring her and doing whatever I want.

If you can do that in the bedroom, I assure you that you won't ever be a disappointment to a woman again.

5 Things That Women Want in Bed

As long as you get these 5 fundamentals right, you really don't have to worry about your performance in the bedroom because you will already be more than good enough for most women.

The first thing that a woman wants to experience in bed is

1. To feel sexy in your eyes

[image: How do women want to feel in bed]

Making a woman feel sexy is extremely important whether you are having sex with her for the first time or are deep into a long term relationship or marriage.

To make her feel sexy, simply look at her, talk to her and touch her in way where you are unapologetic and unashamed of your ravenous attraction for her.

Try to think about it from her perspective...

[image: Woman feeling insecure about her attractiveness in the bedroom]

She knows that the most attractive thing to a man is a woman's appearance, so if a man doesn't really make it obvious that he finds her to be physically attractive, she will naturally question herself and feel a bit insecure.

On the other hand, if she can see, hear and feel the man's attraction for her (e.g. by the way he is touching her, looking at her, the sounds he makes when he touches her or looks at her), it will allow her to relax and enjoy herself rather than having to worry about whether or not she looks good enough.

A man can also make a woman feel sexy and desirable by what he says to her in the bedroom when leading up to sex or during sex.

For example: You might say, “Wow, look at you—you’re so damn sexy” or “I find everything about you to be sexy, especially your body and your pretty face.”

Making a woman feel sexy in your eyes allows her to relax into just feeling her emotions and enjoying the experience, rather than having to think or worry about things.

If a woman is feeling insecure (e.g. she’s worried about the little bit of extra weight on her stomach, her butt, her thighs, the fact that she isn’t wearing make up), then she will find it more difficult to surrender to her emotions and lose herself in the moment so she can then orgasm or simply enjoy the experience.

2. To feel your presence and attention

[image: Woman feeling her man's presence]

It’s a huge turn on for a woman when a man has the balls to be present in the moment where he focuses his attention on her and his attraction for her, rather than being all up in his head and worrying about his performance.

If you can just turn off your thoughts or disconnect from your thoughts to allow yourself to be present in the moment and put your attention on her, it will turn her on because she will feel like she’s under the spotlight of your masculine attention.

When she feels like you are present and focused on her, it automatically flicks a switch in her mind where she feels more feminine and submissive, which turns her on at a deep and primal level.

She can then relax into your masculine direction and surrender herself emotionally so she can fall deep into mental and emotional pleasure, which will then either lead to orgasm or enhanced physical pleasure.

3. To feel feminine in comparison to how masculine you are being

[image: Woman feeling feminine in comparison to her man's masculinity]

You don’t always have to be super masculine or dominant, but simply add that stuff in sometimes.

Likewise, being more masculine in the bedroom doesn’t mean that you have to go to extremes with an aggressive masculine approach (e.g. choking, slapping, hitting, whipping). If you and a woman are into that sort of thing, then go ahead and do it because it will be enjoyable for both of you.

However, most guys won’t ever need to do go to that extreme because the majority of women don’t want things to get too rough or aggressive in the bedroom anyway.

Instead, most women just want a guy to be masculine in the way he approaches sex, rather than being neutral (e.g. holding back from doing things, being more like a nice friend rather than being her man and allowing her to be his woman, suppressing his masculinity because he’s worried that she might not like it).

Some guys even go as far as being a bit feminine in the way that they use their body language and the sounds they make during sex, which is a huge turn off for a woman who wants to feel feminine (95% of women).

If you want to please a woman in bed, you must remember that the most fundamental thing that women are attracted to about is masculinity, not femininity or neutrality.

It is the difference between a woman's femininity and a man's masculinity that creates and maintains a spark of sexual attraction and desire.

Women are programmed to feel naturally attracted to your masculinity whether they act like they don't like it or not.

Some women will say, "Why are you bending me over? I don't want to bend over" or "Why are you pushing on me like that? Why aren't you more gentle with me?" but in almost all cases, the woman is simply testing to see if you will remain masculine, or if you will crumble under pressure and assume that she is more dominant than you.

If you just laugh (in a loving way, not a demeaning way) and continue on, she will be moaning and enjoying it seconds later.

However, if you crumble and say, "Sorry. Okay, what do you want me to do?" she will feel turned off at a deep level because you lack the ability to be masculine during a simple test like that.

So, regardless of whether a woman puts on an act of wanting to you to be a soft, gentle wimp in the bedroom, just know that what she really wants is for you ignore her tests and just embrace your role as a man of being the more dominant one.

4. To feel properly turned on by you

[image: Woman feeling properly turned on by her man]

Men and women get turned on for different reasons, so if you want to please a woman in bed, you must understand and accept that.

For example: Once a man has an erection and he slides it into a woman, it's pretty for him to happily bang away until he gets to the point of ejaculation.

He will then experience an orgasm, feel relieved and then relax and just enjoy the after effects.

Yet, unless a woman is highly orgasmic, she will need to be properly turned on by you in the lead up to sex or during sex to get to the point where she can have an orgasm.

Getting a woman properly turned on prior to sex does not require you to have loads of foreplay, lick her out every time or kiss for 5 or 10 minutes.

You can do that stuff sometimes when you want to, but you can also get a woman properly turned on before sex by simply doing the fundamental things that I've outlined so far in this post.

Some examples of how to get her turned on prior to sex or during sex:

- Display masculinity in how you think, talk, feel, behave and take action.
- Touch her, hug her or grope her in a masculine way.
- Let her feel your presence and feel like she is under the spotlight of your masculine attention.
- Be patient during sex and mix things up by going fast and banging away and then going slow and letting her experience your presence.

When you do that for a woman, she will naturally begin to have all sorts of sexy and naughty thoughts about you in her mind, which will make everything else that you're doing feel so much better to her.

5. To experience some variety

[image: Woman feeling bored with the lack of variety in her sex life]

Most women don't expect loads of variety when it comes to sex and they are more than happy with just some variety.

This applies whether you are having sex with a woman for the first time, during the dating phase or deep into a relationship or marriage.

Some women are mad about sex and want loads of variety and to do all sorts of weird stuff, but the majority of women are just fine to have sex with a man who they respect, feel attracted to and feel in love with.

Each couple will require a different level of variety, which is something that you will need to judge for yourself and your woman.

For example: A perfectly happy couple might have slowly gotten into a routine of having sex in bed a couple of nights per week just before heading off to sleep.

It might then become boring and too predictable for the woman or for both of them, so to break the routine by adding in some variety, they could have some drinks on a Friday or Saturday night before going to bed to make things a bit more fun.

Another example is with a couple that normally starts of their sex routine by the woman getting the man erect by jerking him off.

Over time, that might become a boring process to go through, so every now and again the man simply needs to start by giving her oral sex or by slow kissing for a 30 seconds to a minute so they both get into the mood.

Variety can also be the style of sex that a couple has.

For example: There's nothing wrong with having a quickie every now and then where you just get in there and bang away until you finish, without worrying about getting her turned on or giving her an orgasm.

That is totally fine as long as there is also some variety where you sometimes take your time while having sex with her, or you have some drunken love or start with kissing or fondling type of foreplay where you are rushing to get the job done.

Pleasing a Woman in Bed

As long as you do the 5 fundamentals that I've outlined in this post, a woman will almost always feel more than satisfied with her sex life with you.

Don't feel pressured by the things that you might read in online magazines where some random writer says that you must tie a woman up, give her anal, make her squirt and give her mind-blowing orgasms every time otherwise she will leave you.

If you and her want to get into those things because it interests you, then go ahead and do it. Both of you will enjoy it because it's what you want to do.

However, the point of my post here is to let guys know that you always don't have to extremes to give a woman what she wants in bed.

As long as you add in some variety and you are confident enough to experiment with things that match you and your woman, then everything will be fine.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

3 Tips on How to Make Friends With Girls

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Making friends with girls is very easy when you do the following 3 thingsâ€¦!

1. Attract them, but don't try to pick them up at all

[image: Making friends with girls]

When you interact with girls from now on, you need to focus on making them feel attracted to you (e.g. by displaying confidence, making them laugh, making them feel feminine in comparison to your masculinity, being charismatic), but don't try to pick them up at all.

Rather than using a girl's attraction for you to move to a kiss, sex or relationship, just keep her as a friend.

Many of these girls will want to be your girlfriend based on the attraction they feel for you, so they will treat you much better as a friend because they are hoping to impress you and get a chance to be your girlfriend.

Watch this video to understand how a girl's attraction for a guy works and how you can use it to make friends with girlsâ€¦!

If you interact with a girl and are being confident, masculine, charismatic and making her laugh and enjoy talking to you, she will automatically (whether she wants to or not) feel attracted to you.

Girls are attracted to guys who display personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that all girls and women find attractive.

The more attractive traits that a guy displays (e.g. charm, charisma, social intelligence), the more attracted that a girl will be.

However, if you want to make friends with girls and actually have them as real friends rather than have sex with them, you need to just keep it at point where she is attracted to you and you have a friendly connection.

For example: If a guy is only friends with a girl, he would hang out with her, talk with her, go to the movies every now and then, go partying together or catch up for coffee or something to eat.

Yet, he would never want to make a move on her or even try to make a move on her because he just wants to be friends with her.

2. Attend meet up groups to add more girls to your social circle

If you currently don't have a lot of girls in your life, the easiest way to make more female friends is to attend meet up groups in your area.

For example: In your area, there may be meet up groups about going out to party, eating at restaurants, cooking, hiking, philosophy, yoga, exercise and loads of other activities that you are welcome to join in on.

As long as you attend meet up groups with the ability to make girls feel attracted to you, then most of the girls that you meet will want to be your friend.

A lot of the girls will also want to have sex with you and be your girlfriend, but that will be up to you to decide who gets to be your friend and who gets to have a sexual relationship with you.

3. Invite girl to parties and interesting lifestyle activities

[image: Invite female friends to lifestyle activities]

This is a very important part of maintaining friendships with girls, especially since girls want to be able to show they that have a lifestyle when they post things on social media.

Parties

[image: Partying with female friends]

You don't have to invite girls to amazing parties that cost money or that will have 100s of people attending.

Instead, inviting girls to parties can be as simple as you and some friends (e.g. existing friends or new friends that you've met at meet up groups) are going to be having a "party" at a bar or club on a Friday or Saturday night.

As long as you have a reason for the party, the girls will feel good about attending.

Some example reasons for parties can be: A friend's birthday, the first weekend of summer, mid year party or someone is celebrating something.

Lifestyle activities

[image: Invite female friends to lifestyle activities]

Lifestyle activities can include:

- Having a BBQ or cookout at a friend's place, your place or at a local park.
- Going to the beach as a group and either having some things to play with in the water (e.g. blow up beds, beach ball) or hiring a jet ski or speed boat (that everyone except the girls chips in for) for an hour or two.
- Going on a winery tour for a day.
- Going to the snow for a weekend ski (or toboggan) trip.
- Going to a concert.
- Having pizza at a cool bar or caf   where everyone can hang out.
- Going on a camping trip.
- Doing some group exercise in a park (make sure someone is capable of leading the way).
- Playing laser tag as a group (they usually have these at go kart places or entertainment centers).
- Having a house party.
- Playing beach volleyball (or if there are no beaches near you, play soccer, cricket or badminton in the park).
- Going to a comedy night after starting with a meal and a couple of drinks.
- Having a dinner party.
- Going hiking and then having a picnic (or drinks and snacks) when you reach the destination.
- Go 10-pin bowling.

Being the guy who always knows of something cool or interesting to do, makes it so much easier to maintain friendships with girls.

However, just don't fall into the trap of organizing everything for everyone and hoping that if you just arrange enough activities, girls will eventually like you.

If you're approaching it that way, you're doing it wrong.

You need to start with a foundation of making the girls feel attracted to you first and then just allow them the privilege of being invited to some of the things that you do with other friends.

As long as you have made the girls feel attracted to you in the beginning, she will want to be around you no matter what because she will be drawn to you based on her feelings of attraction for you.

Inviting her or other female friends to parties and lifestyle activities is just a bonus that they get for being lucky enough to be your friend.

4 Mistakes to Avoid When Trying to Make Friends With Girls

If you make any of the following mistakes, it will difficult or stressful for you to maintain friendships with girls.

1. Acting girly

Some guys make the mistake of thinking that if they behave girly way (e.g. gossiping, giggling, caring way too much about fashion and celebrity relationship drama) it will make girls like him more and want to be friends with him.

It's fine to use that approach if a guy is gay or if he doesn't want his female friends to ever set him up with their hot girlfriends (or want him for themselves), but if your intention to have female friends is to get easier access to girls or be introduced to other girls that you can hook up with, make sure that you think, behave, feel and act like a masculine man.

When a guy acts girly and feminine, it automatically cancels out a girl's sexual attraction for him because girls are sexually attracted to masculinity.

It's fine to laugh and joke around with girls, but the thing that is going to make them like you, respect you and feel attracted to you the most is your masculinity, rather than an act of femininity to "fit in" by "being one of the girls."

2. Having a secret agenda

If a guy's only reason for wanting to have more female friends is to hopefully get laid, the girls will pick up on that if he also doesn't have the ability to make them feel attracted to him.

A classic example of this is the typical nice guy, who will act like a friend and be really nice to girls in the hope that, one day, he might get a chance with one of them.

Watch this video to understand why this approach to girls almost always results in rejectionâ□|

If girls notice that a guy has a secret agenda and is only being nice so he can hopefully "grow on them" and get a chance with one them, they might keep him around as a friend, but they won't have any intention of having a sexual relationship with him.

Of course, sometimes a guy like that will get a chance with a girl (e.g. is she is drunk one night or is depressed after a break up), but she will simply dump him later on because he doesn't even know how to make her feel attracted to him.

Watch this video to see what I meanâ□|

As you will discover from the video above, most guys have no idea how to make girls feel attracted to them and hope to be “liked” for being a nice, good guy.

My approach to women is to be a good guy, but the difference between me and a nice guy who gets rejected, is that I know how to trigger a girl’s feelings of sexual attraction for me.

For example: While interacting with a girl, I will display confidence, make her feel feminine in comparison to my masculinity (i.e. how I think, feel, behave, talk), be charming and charismatic.

By default, the girl will naturally feel attracted to me because of that.

However, if I talked to her and was nervous, self-doubting and too nice (how I used to be many years ago), girls would be turned off by me by default.

Some girls are nice and will keep a confused nice guy around as a friend, but that doesn’t mean that she wants to have sex or a relationship with him.

If another guy comes along who knows how to make her feel attracted, she will simply hook up with him instead, regardless of how “close” she is as a friend with the other guy.

3. Bad mouthing other guys

Some guys make the mistake of putting other guys down as a way to hopefully make girls see them as being better and more likeable or attractive.

For example: If the girls are talking about a guy who they think is a jerk, arrogant or an asshole, he will join in on the conversation by agreeing with them and saying that he is not like that or that he would never treat a girl like that.

If the girls sense that he is only saying that to hopefully impress them, they will lose respect for him because he is clearly insecure about his ability to make them feel attracted to him.

What a confident, alpha male would do is simply allow the girls to talk, gossip and be emotional during their conversation, without feeling the need to point out that he isn’t like the guy that they are talking about.

He can join in on the conversation if he wants to do, but it will either be to just chat in a friendly way and ask questions, (e.g. “Oh really? Why do you think he is a jerk?”) or he will turn it into something to laugh about instead.

He might say, “You girls are so mean” just for a laugh and the girls will then laugh and try to explain their reasons for referring to the other guy as a jerk.

He can then accept their reasons if he wants, continue to joke about it or let them carry on gossiping for a while and then join the conversation later on.

A confident, alpha male doesn’t feel the need to get involved in every conversation that his female friends (or anyone else for that matter) is having, because is masculine enough to just let them be girls and talk about random things in an emotional way.

4. Being Mr. Helpful rather than just attracting her and being a good guy

Another classic mistake that some guys make when trying to have more female friends is to turn into Mr. Helpful or Mr. Fix it.

For example: A guy might offer to fix a woman’s car, pay for her rent, buy her drinks, do her work in the office or at university and basically try to show her that he is willing to do anything to help her out.

There's nothing wrong with being a nice, helpful guy to a female friend, but when a girls picks up on the fact that the guy is only doing it because he doesn't know how to make her feel sexually attracted to him, it almost always lead to a rejection if he ever tries to make a move on her or "ask her out."

If your real aim is to make girls want to have a sexual relationship with you, then you must start with sexual attraction rather than acting like you only ever want to be her friend.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Alpha Male Meaning

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Alpha male (noun): A man who takes on a leadership role in any area of life that he wants to.

Leader (noun): A person who guides or directs others.

Many guys confuse the meaning of a human alpha male with an animal alpha male, which then causes them to feel turned off by the idea of being an alpha male.

[image: Animal alpha males]

For example: Being an alpha male in the animal kingdom often means that you would need to kill competing animals or be extremely dominant over a pack to be regarded as the alpha.

However, being a human alpha male doesn't require violence and extreme dominance over a pack of people.

[image: Human alpha males]

Instead, the meaning of being an alpha male as a human being is to simply take on the role of being a leader in any or all areas of your life that you want to.

You don't have to be the one and only leader because with human groups, there can be several leaders who temporarily take the lead at different times.

For example: Amongst a group of 10 male friends, there might be 3 alpha males who are all alpha in their own right, but they don't need to compete to be the main alpha of a group, because they are not tied to that group like a pack of animals in the wild.

Friends will get together and hang out, but they will also have other groups that they are a part of (e.g. work, family, other friends), so they don't need to fight, compete and kill other alpha males to be the leader of a group.

Leading By Choice, Whenever You Want to

A human alpha male doesn't need to lead every group that he is a part of in life.

For example: Although a guy might be an alpha male at work, he might not want to or need to take on the role of being an alpha male with his parents and siblings.

His father or older brother might be doing a great job as the alpha male of the family already, so he just relaxes and lets them take the lead.

His reason for not trying to take on the alpha male role might be that he is too busy with his career, business or his own family (e.g. wife and kids) to have enough time and energy to lead his parents and siblings.

He might also not have a very close relationship with his family, so he won't want to take on the alpha male role because he doesn't want to be involved with them too much.

As you can see, there is a clear difference between being a human alpha male and an animal alpha male.

For example: An alpha male wolf is the leader of ONE pack and he needs to be aggressive to maintain control of that pack.

An alpha male lion needs to go into another alpha male's territory and fight him into submission or even kill him, so he can then be the alpha male.

Yet, a human alpha male does not need to be aggressive or kill other alpha males to be considered "top dog" or an alpha male.

A human alpha male can also decide WHEN he wants to be the alpha in particular areas of his life (e.g. with his woman, at work, amongst friends or with family).

To be an alpha male, you just need to remember that you have the choice to take on a leadership role in any area of life that you want.

[image: Human alpha males]

If you approach life in that way, you will become more of an alpha male every day from now on and people will respect you more and women will feel increasingly attracted to you.

You Don't Have to Win at Everything to Be an Alpha Male

Another common misconception about the alpha male meaning is about winning.

Many guys mistakenly assume that an alpha male needs to win at everything, including trivial competitions amongst friends or coworkers.

That's not how it works.

A true alpha male knows that he is the alpha regardless of whether he wins at something or not.

With this mindset, a true alpha male will feel confident and alpha regardless of who is speaking to (e.g. a president of a country, a boss at work).

If he is a good guy alpha male, he will be respectful and get along with anyone he wants to, without feeling the need to compete with them, bring them down or win at anything to prove that he is the alpha male.

He just knows it.

Knowing that you are the alpha male no matter what is most important parts of being a human alpha male.

You don't have go around showing it, proving it or trying to compete to have it. You already have it.

You are an alpha male because you said so and that's the end of the story.

Everyone else just has to accept it because you have made the decision to take on that leadership role and therefore you have the qualities of an alpha male.

Good Guy Alpha Males Vs. Bad Boy Alpha Males

[image: Good guy alpha males]

A lot of guys who are afraid to be an alpha male in this life, are put off by the mistaken belief that being an alpha male means being a bad boy, jerk or asshole.

So, to clear up any confusion, let me just explain the difference between a good guy alpha male and a bad boy alpha male.

Bad boy alpha males are aggressive, selfish, mean, violent, untrustworthy and manipulative.

Good guy alpha males are confident, assertive and emotionally strong while also being trustworthy, loving, helpful and considerate of others.

If you think about the good men who you look up to and respect in this world, you will find that they are good guy alpha males.

These men will be good guy (e.g. honest, respectful, caring, loving, considerate), but they will also be very confident, assertive, emotionally strong and driven to make a difference in this world or succeed at whatever they are trying to achieve in life.

If you can't think of any good guy alpha males, here are few celebrity examples:

[image: Good guy alpha males: Bear Grylls, Bill Rancic, Will Smith]

From left: Bear Grylls, Bill Rancic, Will Smith

Where a lot of guys go wrong when it comes to the alpha male meaning is that they only focus on the bad boy alpha males who they don't want to be like at all.

Many confused nice guys assume that alpha male means bad, selfish, mean, manipulative and aggressive, so they try to distance themselves from being alpha because they just want to be a nice guy.

For example: A nice guy might think, "I don't want to be a jerk, boss people around and be an asshole! I'm a nice guy and I just want people to like me for being nice."

Here's the thingâ□!

If a guy just wants to be nice and he thinks it is wrong to be assertive, confident and driven, then he can live that way if he wants to, but he will suffer negative consequences throughout life.

It is a fundamental rule of nature that alpha males usually get the hottest women, are respected by others, promoted more and are more successful in pretty much all areas of life.

A self-doubting nice guy can be successful in life, but he will suffer a life of rejection, bad treatment, nervousness and anxiety, depression and even loneliness as a result of not standing up and being a good guy alpha male.

He might think to himself, "This world sucks! I am a nice guy and people treat me like shit! Why can't they see that I am a good guy with good intentions?" because he doesn't realize how nature works.

Nature is designed to reward alpha males with better women, more resources, more respect, more love and more good times than males who doubt themselves.

It's just how it works.

However, where a lot of guys get confused (and even angry) over this topic is assuming that they need to go from being a nice guy to being a bad boy to get all the rewards of being an alpha male.

Yet, that is NOT how it works.

A self-doubting nice guy simply needs to start being more confident, assertive and ballsy like a good guy alpha male is.

Good guy alpha males are liked and respected by pretty much everyone and are wanted by pretty much every woman.

Being a good guy alpha male is the best type of approach to take as a man in life, because you don't get into trouble, people respect you, people want to be your friend, women are attracted to you, women don't want to leave you, you get promoted at work or do better in business and life is much easier to live as a result.

However, if you live life as a nice guy, you might be disrespected or picked on by mean-spirited people, overlooked for promotions and rejected by women.

Living life as a bad boy means that a guy might get himself into trouble, be hated by many people, get fired from work, end up jail or even get beaten up or killed.

Being a good guy alpha male is the easiest, most effective way to live your life as a man, especially if you are already a good guy to start with.

So, if you are searching for the alpha male meaning and you want to become an alpha male, the place that you need to start is to believe that you deserve to take on the lead in any area of your life that you want to.

You don't have to take on the lead with every group that you're a part of (e.g. work, friends, family), but you do need to get into the habit of allowing yourself to take on the lead.

The more comfortable you get with taking on the lead, the more alpha that you will become.

The more alpha you become, the more that people will respect you and women will feel attracted to you and want to be with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Get Over an Ex-Girlfriend: 5 Steps

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you're having a difficult time getting over your ex-girlfriend, here are the 5 steps you need to take to get your life back on track without herâ€¦!

1. First, be 100% sure that you don't want her back

[image: Be certain that you don't want her back]

Would you like to get your ex-girlfriend back and give the relationship another chance, or do you want to move on and begin having sex and relationships with new women?

If you want to get your ex-girlfriend back, then I recommend that you watch my video about how to get an ex back.

However, if you are 100% certain that you don't want to get her back and you would prefer to get over her and move on, then draw that line in the sand. Make this the day that you are 100% clear on your intention to move on without her.

From this day onwards, if you are sincere about not wanting to get your ex-girlfriend back, don't make the mental mistake of stepping back behind that line and into the pain of missing her once again.

You need to make a clear, final decision that you're going to get over her and move on. Once you make that decision, you need to begin to step forward and into your new life without her.

To begin your new life, you need to go through step 2 of the process...

2. Improve your ability to attract new women

[image: Improve your ability to attract new women]

When a guy has been dumped by a girlfriend, he will often lose a bit of confidence in his ability to attract and keep a woman. He might feel as though if she dumped him, other women will just do the same, so he probably shouldn't even bother going near them.

If he was in a relationship for a long time, he might have forgotten what it takes to spark a woman's interest and get her to want to sex with him.

[image: Improve your ability to attract new women]

In other words, he will have become "rusty" or lost his mojo with the ladies.

Whatever the case is for you, it's important that you take a moment to improve your ability to attract new women. If you do, it will make the process of getting over your ex-girlfriend so much easier.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works...

When you're able to effortlessly attract women by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, humor), you will no longer feel as though your life is going to be horrible, lonely and empty without your ex girlfriend in it.

With the ability to attract women during an interaction, you will find that most women feel attracted to you and like you. When that happens, you instantly being to enjoy your choice of women and your ex-girlfriend no longer seems necessary.

3. Approach and have sex with new women

[image: Start approaching and having sex with new women]

It's one thing to know how to attract women when you interact with them, but if you don't actually have the confidence to approach women that you find attractive, then you'll usually be stuck thinking about your ex and wishing she was back in your life so you wouldn't have to be in so much pain.

The good news is that most guys don't have the confidence to approach women, so when you are one of the rare guys who is confident enough to approach women and you also have the skill of attracting women, most women will be yours for the taking.

So, if you need a boost to your confidence before you go and approach women, watch this video...

I remember when I first started approaching women after I got dumped by my ex-girlfriend (before the internet had people online helping each other).

It took me a while to build up the courage to start approaching, but once I got the hang of it, women really started treating me well. I was shocked when some women actually said things like, "Oh finally someone came over and talked to us" or "thank you for coming over and saying hi."

Hearing that blew my mind because I always thought that I'd be interrupting women and they'd see me as a nuisance, think that I was desperate or tell me to go away and not annoy them.

Yet, some women were literally thanking me for coming over and saying hi. Why?

Most guys who approach women are either drunk, nervous, sleazy or are putting on an act of being an even nicer guy than they really are. Women are bored to death the lame approach that 95% of guys use and they just wish that a normal guy would approach them and be real.

By approaching a lot of women (and getting laid like crazy), I discovered that as long as you approach in a confident, easy-going way and are simply being social, most women will open up and start talking to you.

Women know that it's the man's role to approach, so if they get approached by a guy who can make them feel attracted, they aren't going to reject him.

When you first approach, a woman will already feel some attraction for you based on the fact that you have the confidence to approach her in an easy-going, relaxed manner, but you need to build on that attraction by displaying other personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that are naturally attractive to women.

For example: Rather than putting on an act of being a nicer guy than you really are, just have the balls to be authentic and real when you talk to her.

If you're a good guy, then be a good guy, but don't become an ass-kissing nice guy in the hope that it will impress her, because it won't.

Watch this video to understand whyâ€¦

When guys use the nice guy approach on women, they often feel as though they are being original and that a woman will be impressed andÂ give him a chance simply based on him being such a nice guy.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is that pretty much every other guy who is clueless about how to attract women is doing the same thing to her and it bores her to death.

Women want you to walk up and spark their feelings of attraction for you, rather than only allowing her to experience friendly, polite and neutral feelingsÂ during an interaction.

4. Experience love with different women

[image: Experience love with new women]

The kind of love that you experience will always be different with each woman.

Sometimes, you will feel a friendly type of love, other times you will feel passionate love and other times it will be more of a spiritual love where you feel like soul mates or that you're meant to be.

Realizing that the love is different with every woman is an important part of how to get over an ex girlfriend.

Often, a guy will get stuck missing his ex girlfriend and the enjoyable love that they used to share because other girls haven't been able to make him feel the same way.

If he meets a number of women and none of them compared to his ex, he might begin to believe that he won't ever be able to find enjoyable love again with another woman.

Yet, from all of my experience helping guys to succeed with women (I've been doing this for more than 10 years now), I've found that when a guy is thinking like that it's usually because he hasn't followed the steps of this 5-step process properly.

For example: He is trying to meet new women, but he still lacks confidence in himself due to the break up or heÂ doesn't even know how to attract women during an interaction.

Based on his unattractive approach to women, he will only be able to get unattractive or undesirable women interested in him, which will make him miss his ex even more.

So, if you sincerely want to get over your ex girlfriend, you must ensure that you follow the 5 steps of this properly. Start by being 100% sure that you want to move on and if that is a "Yes" and then make sure that you are readyÂ to properly attract women when you interact with them.

If you approach women and turn them off by displaying unattractive traits (e.g. insecurity, self-doubt) or bore them with a typical nice guy act, then you're not going to get the hot women that will blow your mind and make you quickly get over your ex.

Almost all hot women will settle for nothing less than a confident guy who is able to make them feel attracted in different ways during an interaction (e.g. due to his confidence, charisma, humor, charm).

As long as you have the skill of being able to attract women with your confidence and personality, you will be able to get out there and experience new kinds of love with beautiful, attractive women, which will help you get over your ex girlfriend very quickly.

5. Become a man of purpose

[image: Become a man of purpose]

Being a man of purpose essentially means having a life long goal or ambition in life that is very important for you to achieve.

It needs to be more important than your girlfriend (fiance or wife), so that she will always be #2 in your mind, rather than her being what your life is all about.

It might sound harsh to say that about a woman, but it's actually what women want in a man.

Women hate it when a guy makes the classic mistake of basing his identity, self-esteem and happiness on a relationship.

A woman wants to feel very important to you, she wants to be respect and she wants to be loved, but she wants you to have bigger goals in life than just a relationship.

How is this part of the process of getting over your ex-girlfriend?

Simple: If you were a man of purpose already, you wouldn't even be reading this article about how to get over your ex girlfriend.

If you were a man of purpose, she most-likely wouldn't have ever dumped you in the first place, but even if the relationship broke up for other reasons (e.g. you dumped her, you drifted apart, you cheated and then left her, etc), you wouldn't be feeling as though your life is empty without her in it.

A man of purpose lives a full life and he spends most of his time and energy rising through the levels of his true potential as a man to make his biggest goals, ambitions and dreams a reality.

He doesn't spend his time stressing about whether his girlfriend is going to cheat on him or leave him, because as long as he treats her well, she will have no reason to want to end the relationship.

She will respect him, look up to him and be proud to be in a relationship with him. Based on his masculine approach to life (i.e. being a man of purpose), she can then relax into being his woman, rather than being his "partner" or friend.

He will know that she is proud to be with him and she will know that it would be her loss if she ever left him. If the relationship did ever break up, he would be absolutely fine with or without her because his identity would not be wholly based on his relationship with her and other women will find him naturally attractive and appealing.

So, what are some examples of purpose?

A man's purpose in life might be to:

- Become an elite athlete, win and when he is finished competing, transition into coaching or commentating.
- Rise up through the levels of his government job so he can eventually run for office and become a mayor of his city or town, so he can make a difference for his community.
- Build up his business experience so he can eventually lead a business that will revolutionize an industry, improve his country or even change the world.
- Become a skilled musician so he can make high quality, touching music that will be used on TV and in movies and will have a positive impact on the people who hear it.
- Come up with the perfect solution to a problem that many people struggle with.

If you can't think of anything right now, try completing these sentences in your mind...

- It would be challenging and difficult to achieve, but I'd love to...
- I've always dreamed of being able to...
- I want to be the first man to everâ□|
- I want to change the way that people think aboutâ□|
- I want to make a difference in this world by...
- My passion in life is...
- I wish I could...
- What I care most about in life is...
- I would have to work hard for a long time to achieve it, but this is what I want to do with my life...
- The one thing that I could do better than most people (or everyone else) is...
- I will look back on my life and feel extremely proud if...
- When I imagine my biggest dreams coming true in the distant future, this is what I see...
- If I could change one thing about the world it would be...
- The way I would like to help my country is...
- The one thing I wish I could change about my local community is...
- My purpose regarding my family is...
- I would be excited to be living life if I was...

Do you have a big dream or ambition that you would love to make real in this lifetime?

Choose a life purpose that will continually challenge you to be your very best self if you are going to achieve it.

Don't choose something that is easy or that you don't care about.

Do what you are really passionate about – that is what will keep you determined when you face obstacles (everyone encounters obstacles) along the way to success.

When you focus on your purpose and begin to make progress towards it, you will not only begin to get over your ex, but you will become irresistibly attractive to other women.

Women love it when a man has the courage to stand up and rise through the levels of his true potential, rather than hiding from it because he has a fear of failure or rejection.

When a woman senses that a man has purpose, she will feel naturally attracted and drawn to him. She will know that he is one of the rare ones who has the capacity to make her feel proud and excited to be in love with him for life.

So, what is your purpose? What comes to mind for you when you think of your purpose outside of a relationship with a woman?

It's not that a woman isn't important (my wife is the most important person in my life), but your purpose needs to be even more important to you.

Your goals and ambitions should span out as far into the future as you can envision (e.g. 40, 50 or more years into the future).

What you're aiming for should be something that you feel like you've been born to do, that you're destined to do or that you should be doing with your life.

Your purpose should be something that will always make you become a bigger and better man the more progress you make.

So, for example: If a guy simply wants to learn a new language for the fun of it or work out at the gym to stay fit, that is not going to be his life purpose; it's just a mere hobby.

If he wants to turn either of those things into part of his purpose, then it should directly link up to his long term plans to achieve his biggest goals and ambitions in life.

If he is learning a language, he should be doing that so he can then get reach to the next level of his purpose goals (e.g. use the language to do international business, be a teacher, translate a book, read literature that was previously out of his reach, communicate with his wife's family if they speak another language, become an ambassador, etc).

If he is working out relentlessly at the gym and learning a lot about fitness and nutrition, all those hours and all that effort should not be wasted on merely adding some extra muscle for the sake of his appearance.

Instead, it should link up to what he really thinks his purpose in life is. If he is just working out because he likes it and it is taking up most of his spare time, then he is not a man of purpose. He's just another guy who works out in a gym and doesn't really know what his life is about.

Guys like that usually struggle to get over an ex girlfriend because they place way too much importance on her and she becomes what his life is about. He spends a lot of time at the gym because it is important to him, but it's not his purpose in life.

When his girlfriend breaks up with him, he feels like his life is crashing down around him because she was his foundation of identity, happiness and purpose.

If his dedication to the gym and fitness was linked up to bigger goals (e.g. open a gym, become an elite athlete, become an elite fitness coach, etc), then he would be living life on purpose, rather than just wasting time working out.

So, to help yourself get over your ex girlfriend and never have to go through that kind of pain again, decide to become a man of purpose.

I must make this clear though: Being a man of purpose is not about the basic mechanics of life (e.g. getting a job, getting a house, getting a car). Those kind of basic things are not your purpose in life and are simply things that happen as a part of living life in a civilized world.

Your purpose needs to be bigger than that. It needs to be something that you feel like you were born to do. If it really is your purpose, it will challenge you to become a bigger and better man over time.

When you become a man of purpose, your ex girlfriend will instantly begin to seem less important and appealing to you because your identity and happiness will not be based on having her in your life.

As a bonus, you will also become incredibly attractive to women because women feel a deep, lasting attraction for a man who knows who he is and what he wants from life.

So, are you ready to get over your ex-girlfriend? Will you be able to attract a beautiful woman the next time you interact with one? What is your next move going to be?

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Do Women Notice First About Men?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a woman looks at a guy from a distance, it's only natural that she will notice the superficial things about him first (e.g. his appearance and clothing).

However, while she might be initially be drawn to superficial things about him, she will then start to focus on the more important things about him that have nothing to do with his appearance.

For example: A woman might notice a good looking guy across a room and think to herself, â€œHmmmâ€ | He looks kind of cute. Heâ€™s got a sexy smile.

If she then notices that he is relaxed and confident around other people, she will become more attracted.

If she also notices that when he speaks the people around him are paying attention, respecting him, laughing with him or having a good time, her feelings of attraction for him will increase even further.

She will then think, â€œThat guy is hot. I hope he comes over and talks to me.

When he approaches her to say, she will feel excited to be interacting with him because he has already made a positive impression on her from a distance.

[image: What women see in men]

However, even though she is excited to meet him and interested to see where it goes, she might act like she hadn't even noticed him prior to him approaching, or she will pretend as though she isn't very interested in talking to him, because she wants to determine how confident he is around her.

It's one thing to be confident around friends, but what a woman really needs to see is whether a guy will remain confident when talking to her, especially when she tests him by playing hard to get, acting like she isn't interested or not contributing much to the conversation.

[image: The first thing women notice about a guy]

If the guy remains confident and relaxed while talking to her regardless of how she tries to test him (e.g. by playing hard to get), she will feel even more attracted to him.

On the other hand, even though a woman might initially notice a good looking guy and think, â€œThat guy over there is hotâ€ | he looks like my type, she will instantly lose interest in him if she then notices that he's shy, nervous or insecure around other people.

It won't matter to her that he is good looking because he will lack the more important qualities that women really look for in a man.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works

If a man interacts with a woman and displays traits that turn women off (e.g. insecurity, nervousness, self-doubt, putting on an act of being an even nicer guy than he is, etc), she will lose interest in him even if he is good looking.

Some women (usually unattractive women) will accept an insecure good looking guy, but that doesn't mean she will remain attracted to him in a relationship.

What really matters to a woman is how a man makes her feel by way of his personality, behavior and inner qualities.

To most women, if the guy is good looking that is seen as a bonus, but it's not a necessity.

Of course, some women will only accept a good looking, rich, tall man, but the majority of women place less importance on looks and choose guys based on how he makes her feel during an interaction.

Understanding Attraction

If you're asking, "What do women notice first about men?" it's probably because you don't yet understand how a woman's attraction for a man works.

As a result, you probably believe that women are attracted to men for the same reasons men are attracted to women (i.e. looks).

For example: When a guy first sees a woman, the first thing he will notice about her is the way she looks, (her body, face, legs, etc) and if she is beautiful (or even just a little bit attractive), most guys will be willing to have sex with her simply based on her appearance.

Most guys will have sex or even a relationship with her regardless of whether she is confident and relaxed, or shy, nervous and insecure.

Yet, women don't work the same way.

If a guy is shy, nervous or insecure it is huge turn off for women because women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, self-esteem) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, self-doubt).

Since a woman's appearance is enough for most guys to want to have sex with her, most guys believe that women also choose men on the basis of looks.

However, almost all women (not all women!) choose men differently to the way men choose women.

Based on all of my experience picking up women and helping other guys to pick up women, I estimate that a guy can make approximately 90% of women feel attracted to him.

He won't be able to pick up 90% of women because some women aren't single, some aren't compatible with him (e.g. he's too smart for her) and some just won't suit his lifestyle.

However, he can make about 90% of women feel attracted to him and be interested in being with him if he is able to display the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women are naturally attracted to.

If Women Notice Men's Looks First, Then Why Are So Many Good Looking Guys Single and Lonely?

If women only had sex and relationships with guys based on good looks, most of the guys in this world (me included) would be single and lonely.

Only the tall, muscular good looking guys would be having sex and dating and getting married, while the rest of us just wasted our life jerking away to porn every week.

However, as you may have noticed by looking at the world around you, beautiful women are with all different kinds of men.

[image: Fat guy with sexy girlfriend]

[image: Can a fat guy have a hot girlfriend?]

[image: Can a fat guy have a beautiful girlfriend?]

[image: Ugly guy with hot cheerleader girlfriend]

[image: Ugly guy marries pretty woman]

[image: Ugly nosed guy with a beautiful girlfriend]

No doubt, you will have noticed that many plain, average looking, weird looking, short, fat, skinny guys have a beautiful girlfriend or wife, while many really tall, muscular, model look-alikes are single and desperate to get laid and get a girlfriend. Why?

Some of the “unattractive guys” have realized that even if a woman first notices a man’s looks, she will wait to see how she feels while interacting with him before she decides to have sex with him.

If his behavior and conversation style makes her feel attracted to him, almost all women will not get hung up about his looks.

In fact, she will even start to see his physical “flaws” in a more positive light.

For example: If he wears glasses, she will see it as cute, classy or sophisticated.

If he is overweight, she will see him as being cuddly and really like that about him.

For example: A woman at a bar or nightclub might notice a chubby, balding guy and then look away and forget all about him because heâ□□s not her type.

However, if he approaches her and engages her in conversation while being confident, relaxed and allowing his natural charisma to shine through, she will instantly begin to feel attracted to him.

If he then begins to make her feel girly and feminine in comparison to his masculinity (e.g. how he thinks, feels, behaves, moves, feels), she will begin to smile, blush and feel giggly while talking to him, which will turn her on and make her feel even more attracted to him.

Before long, she will find herself thinking, “He’s not my usual type, but I like him” or “I don’t usually go for overweight or bald guys, but this guy is different. He’s sexy.”

What she means by “sexy” is that he makes her feel sexually attracted. Sexy doesn’t mean good looking or having big muscles.

Yes, those things can attract women, but so many other things (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm) can attract women too.

This is why insecure good looking guys often find it very difficult to attract a decent looking girlfriend, because most women simply won’t accept the emotional weakness.

Insecure good looking guys will rarely approach women unless they are drunk or at party with mutual friends, so they don’t actually get many opportunities to properly meet women.

Sometimes a good looking guy will get approached by a woman who thinks he looks hot, but that will not guarantee that he is able to pick her up.

For example: A woman might notice a tall, muscular, good looking guy across the room and feel instantly attracted to his physical appearance.

Yet, when she stands next to him (e.g. at the bar or next to his group) in the hope that he begins talking to her, he looks away from her in a shy way.

Since she really likes him and thinks that he is her physical type, she takes the plunge and makes the first by starting a conversation with him.

The good looking guy might initially feel comfortable because he has been approached, but when she starts to test his confidence, she will notice the cracks and begin to see that he is a shy, insecure guy who doesn't feel like he is good enough for her.

Suddenly, she begins to think, â€œI don't know why, but this guy just gives me the creepsâ€ and then leaves the interaction.

This is not a once off occurrence. It's something that happens to thousands of good looking guys all over the world.

So don't waste your time worrying about what women notice first about men and thinking that if you're not good looking, you can't get women to feel attracted to you.

Here is the truth!

You can CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women.

Even if a woman doesn't initially feel attracted to your looks, it doesn't mean that you can't make her feel intensely attracted to you for other reasons (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, charming, funny).

Yes, some women will only have sex with or date a guy based solely on his appearance, but most women are attracted to things about men that have nothing to do with physical appearance.

Making a Woman Want You

Although women will notice everything about a man, it's important that you understand and accept that most women are attracted to a lot more than a man's outward appearance.

At the end of the day, a woman will either be attracted to you because you display certain personality traits and behaviors around her, (e.g. confidence, charm, emotional strength) or she will be turned off because you don't.

No matter how good looking a guy is on the outside, if he lacks substance on the inside, he will not be able to make a woman feel a lasting attraction for him.

You can be a male super-model, wear the best fashions and drive a Lamborghini, but if you lack confidence, are self-doubting and insecure, or behave in other unattractive ways, then a woman won't care that when she first noticed you she thought you were drop-dead gorgeous, rich or fashionable.

On the other hand, when you make a woman feel the way she wants to feel when she interacts with you (i.e. turned on, aroused, attracted), everything about you will seem so much more appealing to her.

For example: Once a woman is attracted, she will then appreciate the fact that you're also a nice, intelligent man who has good intentions with her.

However, she won't care about those things if you don't first make her feel attracted.

So, don't waste another day worrying about what women notice first about men.

Instead, just focus on making women feel attracted to you when you actually interact with them in person.

That's where all the power is and it is what gives you your choice of women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Do to Make a Girl Like You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

A girl will automatically like you when you trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

A lot of guys make the mistake of trying to get a girl to like them as a friend, but he really wants to have sex with her and have her as his girlfriend.

So, if you want this girl to have sexual, romantic feelings for you, the first thing you need to do is make her feel attracted and aroused when you interact with her.

Watch this video to understand how it worksâ!

When you make a girl feel attracted and aroused by the way you are interacting with her, she will automatically like you and be interested in being more than just a friend to you.

To make her feel attracted, you simply need to display some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that girls find attractive in guys.

[image: What to do to make a girl like you more than just a friend]

You don't have to be perfect. You just have to display some of the attractive traits and then believe in yourself enough to make a move.

What are some examples of attractive traits? You can:

- Be confident around her and other people.
- Be charismatic by allowing your true personality to come through, rather than putting on an act (e.g. acting nicer than you really are).
- Make her feel girly and feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe.
- Make her laugh and giggle when she talks to you.
- Use flirting to add a sexual vibe to your conversations and interactions.

When you display attractive traits such as those, you don't have to try hard to make a girl like you because it will happen naturally based on her attraction for you.

Many guys don't know how to attract girls, so they waste time trying to convince a girl to like them.

Watch this video to understand where guys go wrong and what you should do instead if you want this girl to like you in a sexual, romantic wayâ!

You can immediately create a spark between you and a girl simply by triggering her feelings of attraction for you.

Understanding How a Girl's Attraction For a Guy Really Works

[image: Making a girl like you]

Many guys are confused about what to do to make a girl like them, because they assume that girls feel attracted to guys for the same reasons that guys feel attracted to girls.

In other words, guys think that it's all about looks.

While it is true that a girl can feel attracted to a guy's looks, the majority of girls feel much more attraction to other things about guys (e.g. confidence, charisma, emotional masculinity, charm, humor, etc).

Yet, for most guys, the attraction they feel for girls is INSTANT and it doesn't even matter if the girl isn't very intelligent, interesting or even a very nice person.

Most guys will still be willing to have sex with her (and possibly even date her) solely based on how she looks.

For this reason, a lot of guys make the assumption that most girls make a decision about who to have sex with and be in a relationship with based on physical appearance.

Yet, for most women (not all), a man's personality traits (e.g. his confidence, charm, masculinity, sense of humor) carry much more weight than looks when she is deciding if she wants to have sex with him or date him.

For example: A guy might really like a girl and really want to hook up with her, but since he comes across in a nervous, insecure and self-doubting way when he interacts with her, she rejects him because she feels turned off by his insecurities.

Rather than realize that it is his lack of confidence that is turning her off, he will usually just assume that he is being rejected because he isn't good looking enough, rich enough or tall enough.

Looks Are Only Important to Some Girls

Some girls place a lot of importance on how a guy looks, but the majority of girls are much more open and flexible when it comes to what they will accept about a guy's appearance.

This is why you will always see so many ordinary, plain and even ugly guys with a beautiful girlfriend or wife.

How did they get their girl to like them?

Simple: He made her feel attracted to him for reasons other than his looks (e.g. confidence, humor, charisma, charm, masculine vibe, etc).

Here's the really interesting thing though!

If a guy isn't very good looking and even has some negative features (e.g. a big nose, eyes too close together, too short, chubby, skinny), these odd features will actually become attractive and appealing to a girl when she is feeling a lot of attraction for him.

Rather than look at his flaw as a bad thing, she begins to see it as a cute thing that only her guy has.

She will say, "I like that he's chubby; it makes him cuddly" or "I don't care that he is short, because he is confident and he makes me feel proud to be with him."

So if you're wondering what to do to make a girl like you because you think you're not good looking enough for her; think again.

Rather than focusing on making a girl like you as a person, just focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you instead.

If a girl has been rejecting you or giving you the cold shoulder, you will immediately begin to see that her attitude towards changes without her even realizing that she doing it.

All of a sudden, you will seem attractive and appealing in her eyes and she will wonder how she could have ignored you all this time.

4 Mistakes to Avoid Making If You Want a Girl to Like You

A big part of getting a girl to like you is to know what to avoid doing that might turn her off.

Here are some classic mistakes to avoid:

1. Don't pretend to be her friend if you want to be her boyfriend

A common mistake that guys make is to assume that the only way they can get the girl they like is to be nice and friendly to her.

A guy like this hopes that by being a good friend to her, listening to all her problems, gossiping with her on the phone or via text and generally being there at her every beck and call, she will one day realize that she likes him and wants to be his girlfriend.

Yet, what he usually doesn't realize is this: A girl liking a guy as a friend is not the same as her feeling sexually attracted to him and wanting to be his girlfriend.

If you want to get a girl to like you in a sexual and romantic way, you have to focus on sparking her feelings of sexual attraction rather than her feelings of friendship.

For example: Make her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity (i.e. how you think, feel, behave, talk, move) when you interact with her.

If you don't trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, she might like you as a friend and enjoy hanging around you, but she's not going to want anything more than that.

[image: Mistakes that make girls lose interest in you]

When another guy comes along who can spark her feelings of sexual attraction, she will be going out on dates and having sex with him, while she calls you on the phone to tell you all about it because you're such a good friend to her and she can always count on you to gossip and discuss love and relationships with her.

[image: Mistakes that make girls lose interest in you]

She could have actually been your girlfriend, but you were too busy pretending to just want to be her friend.

If you want a girl to like you in a sexual way, you must focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction. Only when you have done that should you then focus on showing her how good of a guy you are.

If you make the classic mistake of trying to show her how nice of a guy you are by being a friend to her, a girl will almost always only have friendly feelings for you and won't be interested in anything sexual.

3. Don't put her on a pedestal

Sometimes, a guy will feel as though the girl he likes is simply too good for him.

Although he secretly wishes that he knew what to do to make her like him, deep down he actually doesn't believe that he's worthy of her, so he puts her on a pedestal and worships her from afar.

For a girl to feel attracted to a guy, she has to be able to feel respect for him as a man by being able to look up to him as someone who is more confident and emotionally strong than she is.

So, when a guy puts a girl above himself in terms of value, she loses respect for him and then finds it nearly impossible to feel enough attraction for him to give him a chance to be with her.

A girl wants to feel feminine and soft in contrast to a man's emotional toughness and masculine vibe.

She doesn't want to feel as though she needs to be gentle with a guy because he lacks belief in himself and is emotionally sensitive like a girl.

To get a girl to like you and respect you as a guy, you have to believe that you are good enough for you.

When you truly believe that, she will notice it and feel attracted to you because of it.

She will then feel lucky to be getting a chance with a sexy guy like you who is 100% confidence in himself around girls.

3. Don't tell her that you like her before she is fully attracted to you

If a guy hasn't said or done anything to make a girl feel sexually attracted to him and he then tells that he likes her, she's not going to feel very excited to hear it.

She's going to be thinking, That's sweet, but I'm not interested in him in that way, or He's nice, but he's really not my type.

If you want a girl to feel excited about the fact that you like her, you have to make sure that you make her feel a lot of attraction for you first.

It's easy for you to feel attracted to her because a guy's attraction for a girl is mostly about how she looks.

He then starts to focus on other positive qualities about her and says that she is special, unique and maybe even "the one."

However, a guy's attraction for a girl is instant based on her looks.

Almost all guys will feel more than enough attraction for a girl's looks to instantly decide, "Yes" or "No" to the idea of having sex with her.

Yet, girls don't work the same way.

Girls need to be warmed up to the idea of having sex with a guy by interacting with him and assessing whether or not he has the attractive traits that girls look for in a guy (e.g. confidence, emotional masculinity, charisma, charm, etc).

When you spark a girl's sexual feelings for you (not just her friendly feelings) she will be happy to hear that you like her because she'll be feeling the same way about you.

4. Don't lose hope when she tests you

Girls like to test a guy's confidence.

Testing is a girl's way of separating the real men from the insecure boys, so to speak.

So, here's what you need to do!

Assume (without a doubt) that the girl you like is going to test you, so you don't lose your cool when it happens.

For example: If a guy approaches a girl that he likes, and she might give him a cold look and act aloof and unfriendly.

This is her instinctive, natural way of trying to find herself a confident guy, rather than giving an insecure guy a chance with her.

Another example is where a girl will smile and be friendly towards a guy during the first couple of minutes of conversation, but will then change her approach and start to tease him or pick on him to see how he reacts.

A guy who understands girls will realize that she is testing him, so she will remain confident and relaxed, rather than feel like he is losing his chance with her.

On the other hand, an insecure guy will take her change in behavior as a sign that she really doesn't like him. He will go away with his tail between his legs feeling rejection and left out.

All Girls Test Guys

Even when a girl is happy in her relationship with a guy, she will still test his confidence to see if he is growing as a man or has become insecure since being with her.

So, don't be afraid of when a girl tests you.

In fact, you should use it as an opportunity to make her feel deeper attraction for you by remaining confident regardless of what she throws at you.

Experiencing a man's confidence is irresistibly attractive to a girl. They simply can't get enough of it and will continue testing you for life to experience it.

If You Like This Girl, Start Making Her Feel Attracted to You

Getting a girl to like you is a lot easier than most guys realize.

When you trigger a girl's feelings of sexual attraction for you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, emotional masculinity, humor) you won't have to worry about coming up with ways to make a girl like you.

She will instinctively like you and feel drawn to you because you are making her feel sexually attracted and aroused.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Makes a Woman Want to Sleep With a Man?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The main thing that makes a woman want to sleep with a man is his ability to spark intense feelings of sexual attraction when she interacts with him in person.

For example: If a guy displays confidence, charisma and charm while he interacts with a woman, she will automatically have some sexual feelings for him.

If he then builds on her feelings of sexual attraction by making her laugh and making her feel girly in comparison to his masculinity (i.e. how he thinks, feels, talks, moves, behaves), she will then feel more than enough sexual attraction to want to sleep with him.

Watch this video to understand how it worksâ|

Sexual attraction is what makes a woman want to have sex with a guy or then start a relationship with him.

If a woman doesnât feel sexually attracted to a man, she might want to be his friend and experience friendly feelings for him (e.g. “He’s such a nice guy” or “He’s like a brother to me”), but she won’t much or any interest in ever sleeping with him.

If you want to make a woman want to sleep with you, donât waste time trying to be her friend or hoping that she likes you as a person if you can just show her how nice, trustworthy and intelligent you are.

If you want her to experience a desire to sleep with you, the main thing that you must do is spark her feelings of sexual desire for you by the way you interact with her.

When she feels sexually attracted to you, she will then appreciate the fact that you’re also a good guy. She will feel as though she’s hit the dating jackpot because she gets to be with a guy who is not only nice, but who who can also make her feel very attracted.

When you display the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, making her feel feminine in contrast to your masculinity, making her laugh), a woman will feel herself drawn to you without you having to do anything to âmakeâ her want to sleep with you.

Since you are making her feel sexual desire and that feeling is building up the more you interact with her, she will then want to release that tension with kissing and sex.

What if Iâm Not Her Type? Will She Still Want to Sleep With Me?

[image: What makes a woman want to sleep with a man?]

A woman may be going through life with an idea of what she thinks her type is, but that can easily change if she meets a guy who makes her feel a lot of attraction for other reasons.

For example: If she thinks that she wants a handsome man with brown hair, it doesn’t mean that an average or even below-average looking guy with black or blonde hair won’t be able to make her feel attracted.

Why?

For most women, the attraction that they feel for men has less to do with how the guy looks and more to do with how he makes her feel when interacting with her.

If a guy who isn't a woman's normal type is able to make her feel a lot of attraction during an interaction, she might say, "You're not my usual type, but I like you — there's something about you."

That "something" is his ability to make her feel attracted. She is feeling attracted to him, so she then begins to look at him in a more positive light.

[image: Almost any guy can attract women]

If he makes her feel a lot of attraction, she may even realize that she was wrong to have such a restrictive type when it comes to guys and she will open up to him, kiss him, have sex with him and get into a relationship with him.

That's how it works, but don't ever expect women to admit that or for other guys to tell you what I'm telling you.

Many guys go through life believing they must have the kind of physical appearance that a woman is looking for; otherwise she just won't feel attracted.

Yet, they are wrong.

Guys think that way because they don't even understand how a woman's attraction for a man works. They assume that because guys feel intense attraction to a woman's looks, women must choose men for the same reason.

So, if a guy isn't good looking, he will assume that he's simply not good enough for the majority of women.

Yet, he is wrong.

He can actually make the majority of women (90% of women based on all my experience picking up women and helping other guys to pick up women) feel attracted to him and want to be with him.

He first needs to understand that a woman's attraction for a man does not work in the same way as a man's attraction for a woman.

For example: A guy will notice a beautiful woman and instantly decide, "Yep, I'd definitely sleep with her."

He doesn't stop to check whether she's intelligent, interesting to talk to, or if she has a great sense of humor first before he makes that decision.

For most guys, if a woman has other great qualities about her, that's just seen as a bonus to him. However, if she doesn't have a great personality, he still feels attracted to her and wants to sleep with her, even if it's just once or if the relationship wouldn't last as long.

On the other hand, a woman might notice a guy and feel very attracted to his appearance, but if she interacts with him and he behaves in ways that are not attractive to her (e.g. he is nervous, insecure and self-doubting, puts on a fake persona and pretends to be more confident or nicer than he is, tries too hard to impress her), her initial attraction for him will fade.

Why?

Most women (not all) are mostly attracted to other things about a man besides his appearance (e.g. his confidence, his conversation style, his ability to make her feel girly and feminine in contrast to his masculine vibe, etc.).

[image: Making a woman want to sleep with you]

Of course, there are some women who will only sleep with and date good- looking, rich or successful guys, but the majority of women feel attracted to who a man is as a whole.

So, if youâre asking, âWhat makes a woman want to sleep with a man?â because youâve been blaming your lack of success with women on your appearance, you need to take a moment to understand how a womanâs attraction for a man really works.

Watch this video for more infoâ!

It sometimes takes a few hours, days or weeks for a guy to accept the reality of attraction, but once he does, he realizes that heâs wasted most of his life thinking that he isnât good enough for women.

Almost all guys have the capacity to naturally attract most women they meet. A guy cannot pick up every woman he meets (i.e. some are taken, some are not compatible with him, etc), but he can definitely attract most of the women he meets.

He simply needs to meet women, make them feel attracted and hook up with the compatible ones.

Have You Ever Seen Unattractive Men With Beautiful Women?

If women only slept with good looking guys, the world would be full of unhappy, single and sexually frustrated men, because the majority of men are not as good looking as women are.

Most of us guys are just guys and we donât really have any special about our appearance. We look plain, uninteresting and average or below-average.

Most guys have some physical flaw that they hate about themselves (e.g. a big nose, ears that stick out, a receding hairline, a weight problem), which they then use as the reason why they canât get laid.

Yet, other guys who have the same “flaws” get laid with beautiful women all the time and even have a beautiful girlfriend or wife.

When you begin to realize that you can attract a woman by the way you think, feel and behave around her, you will have discovered a big piece of the secret to what really makes a woman want to sleep with a man.

When you trigger a womanâs feelings of sexual desire by the way you interact with her (e.g. your conversation style, by making her laugh, by making her feel sexy in your eyes, making her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity), rather than looking at you and seeing flaws, a woman will see things about you that are cute and unique and that make her feel even more attracted to you.

For example: If a guy has a big nose, she will see that as being a cute feature and will come to really like it because it is attached the guy who is making her feel so attracted.

The more attraction he makes her feel, the more she will want to sleep with him and the more she will love his little “flaws” and unique characteristics.

On the other hand, if a guy tries to get a woman to sleep with him before he has properly triggered her feelings of sexual attraction, a flaw like a big nose, or a bald head will seem a lot more unattractive to her.

She will look at the “flaw” and think, “I don’t like this guy and he has a big nose too gross. I hate guys with big noses.”

You Have a Natural Ability to Attract Women

When a guy lacks confidence around women, he will often waste a lot of time looking for some kind of superficial way to make women feel attracted to him (e.g. he will buy a new car, work out at the gym, get a better job, wear expensive clothes, etc).

What he doesn’t realize is that the magic is inside him.

The magic is in his confidence, his natural ability to make a woman feel girly and feminine in comparison to his masculinity, his ability to make her laugh and many other qualities that naturally attract women.

Yet, if a guy doesn’t know that he can properly attract women by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women, he will lack confidence in himself around beautiful women.

He will assume that women wouldn’t want to sleep with a guy like him because he isn’t perfect looking, tall or rich.

He’s just a normal, every day guy, so why would beautiful women want to sleep with him.

Simple: Attraction.

Attraction is what makes a woman want to sleep with a man and if you have the ability to attract women, you can sleep with beautiful women.

If you want a woman to sleep with you, simply make her feel attracted to you and believe that she wants to sleep with you.

You can’t doubt yourself and your attractiveness to her and then expect her to feel turned on, or expect her to make it really obvious that she likes you and wants to have sex with you.

A woman can sense when a guy is feeling insecure and doubting himself by noticing his body language, the way he interacts with her and how he looks (or avoids looking) at her.

If a woman senses that you don’t believe in your attractiveness to her, she will rapidly lose interest in you because the number one trait that women look for in a guy is self-confidence.

The more self-confidence you have around women, the more that women will want to sleep with you.

Getting a Woman to Sleep With You

[image: Using your natural ability to attract women]

If you are attracted to a woman and you want her to sleep with you, here’s what you need to do:

- Focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you.
- When you sense that she is properly attracted, confidently attempt to escalate things to the next level (e.g. a first kiss, a date or sex).

If you don’t make a move, it’s more than likely that some other guy will come along and take her from you.

If the other guy has the confidence to seduce her and make her feel the way she wants to feel, sheâs not going to wait around for you to build up the courage to make a move; she will be kissing and having sex with the other guy instead.

In the past, when women saved their virginity for marriage, a guy would wait a long time to make a move and she would still stick around.

However, in todayâs world, most women have sex with a guy on the first night, first date or second date at the latest, so donât waste time acting like you just want to be a nice friend to her.

These days, if you take too long to make a move, you will often lose your opportunity to be with a woman and she will say something like, “Ummâyou’re really nice and I like you, but I’m not looking for a relationship right now” or “I think we’d be better off as friends.”

Making a Woman Want to Sleep With You is Easy

[image: Using your natural ability to attract women]

Hopefully by now, you have realized that you donât have to be good looking, rich or successful to make a woman feel sexually attracted to you and want to sleep with you.

When you display the behaviors and traits that are attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculinity, emotional strength) you will automatically be seen as attractive in their eyes.

What makes a woman want to sleep with a man is simply his ability to make her feel the way she needs to feel to be willing to have sex (i.e. attracted and turned on).

So donât waste another minute trying to make a woman want to sleep with you by being really nice, polite and friendly around her.

Be a good guy, but make sure that you make her feel sexually attracted to you because if she only has friendly feelings for you, she’s not going to want to sleep with you.

Itâs up to you to be confident and masculine enough (in the way you think, behave and take action) to talk to a beautiful woman, spark her feelings of sexual attraction and then escalate to kissing and sex.

When youâre confident enough to do that, many of the women you meet will want it too.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

7 Dating Rules For Men

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Dating modern women is very easy when you use an approach that is suited to today's dating environment.

The dating scene really has changed a lot lately, so to get you up to speed, here are 7 dating rules for men that will make the process of approaching, picking up and getting into relationships with women much easier for you!'

1. Understand that sex happens very quickly these days

[image: Oh, how times change...]

Although most women behave as though they would never have sex with a guy on the first night or first date, statistically speaking most women do have sex that quickly.

For example:

- A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date.
- A study in Europe found that 70% of women admitting to having experienced a one night stand.
- A study in the UK found that 49% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand.

This was a shock to me when I first started going out to approach women because women seemed to not even care if men approached them or not.

What confuses a lot of guys is how women don't seem to be as turned on by men as much as men are turned on by women.

When an attractive woman walks past, most men will look and come to a "Yes" or "No" decision about whether they'd have sex with her or even have a relationship with her.

This is why you'll often hear men referring to women as marriage material and instantly saying they would "tap" her.

There's nothing wrong with men doing that (we all do it), but the point I'm making here is about the difference between how men and women react to each other.

Almost all women go through life in OFF mode and will only feel properly turned ON and attracted to a guy if he interacts with her and displays some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that are attractive and arousing to women.

For example: Confidence, charisma, charm, humor, masculine vibe, etc.

Since almost all women need to actively interact with a guy before they can make a decision about whether they'd want to have sex with him, they tend to be very passive or indifferent when it comes to men.

One of the reasons why a woman's attraction works in that way is to help ensure that she doesn't give insecure guys a chance to be with her.

Her instincts are hard-wired to make her feel attracted to confident men, which is why women don't want to approach men and make it easy for them to meet her.

Another reason why women don't actively approach and try to pick up men, is that they don't want to seem too easy when it comes to sex.

By showing him that she can control herself when it comes to sex, a woman knows that it will help a man trust her if they get into a relationship.

Men know that all it will take for a woman to get laid is for her to say, "Yes" to the 100s of guys who look at her, call out to her or try to hit on her every week.

It's very easy for a woman to get laid, so to make sure that her future boyfriend or husband will be able to trust her, she has to restrain herself and act like she couldn't care less if she has sex or not.

As a woman gains experience with relationships, she will know that if she appears too open and easy about sex, most guys will become insecure and clingy in the relationship and then begin to control her.

So, as a modern man, you need to understand that sex does happen very often these days, but women still have to act like they are not interested in sex or never have sex on the first night or first date.

Some guys might feel as though the world should change back to how it was in the 1800s to early 1900s, so women are forced to wait until marriage to have sex, but it's not going to happen.

If you want to get in on the action, you need to accept that pretty much all women you meet will have had sex on the first night or first date before.

Some women may want to wait until the second or third date, but it is highly unlikely and will usually mean that you're simply missing her signals that she does want to have sex with you because you're afraid that you will be rejected if you make a move.

These days, one of the most important dating rules for men is to understand that sex actually starts a relationship.

Unlike in the past, where a woman had to get married to lose her virginity and start an actual relationship, women are able to start a relationship immediately if they feel enough attraction for a guy.

Having sex with each other is a way of cutting through all the courtship rituals and getting straight to the point.

After you've had sex, you can then continue to see each other and if you both begin to fall in love, then a relationship will begin to form.

However, most modern women don't even want to discuss having a relationship until after they've had sex with you at least once.

Some women don't even want to go there until they've dated you for a while, because she will have had relationships before and wants to be sure that you and her could last before she makes it official.

Of course, if you are skilled at making women feel attracted to you, a woman will immediately start talking about wanting to have a relationship with you after sex because she will be feeling more for you than she has felt for other guys.

2. Be a good guy to women, but don't be too nice

[image: Be a good guy, but don't be too nice]

The approach that we teach here at The Modern Man is about being a good guy who also displays the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that are naturally attractive to women.

For example: Confidence, charisma, charm, humor, masculine vibe, etc.

It's not enough to just be a good guy. If you want women to want you, it's essential that you make the effort to display attractive traits when you interact with women.

A common mistake that men make is to be very polite, considerate and nice to women and hope that it will make women like him enough to give him a chance.

[image: Rejected for being a nice gentleman]

Yet, that's not how it works.

Women want to feel attracted to you, rather than just like you as a person.

There's nothing wrong with having manners and being a good guy, but when a guy tries to attract a modern woman into a relationship by simply being nice to her, he will usually get rejected and here is why!

As you will discover from the video above, simply being nice to a woman doesn't make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

Only being nice also doesn't make her feel as though the guy is special and unique because pretty much every guy who doesn't understand how to attract women, will attempt to get her into a relationship by being nice to her.

Many guys fail to realize that the nice guy approach isn't unique. Almost all of the men that a woman meets will attempt to woo her by using a nice guy act (i.e. acting nicer than they really are, in the hopes that it will impress her).

She's bored to death of that crap.

So, if you want to stand out from the crowd, make sure that you focus on making a woman feel sexually attracted to you, while ALSO being the good guy that you are.

Although it would be nice if women simply liked you because you are a good guy, it's not going to happen because most guys put on an act of being a really nice guy as a way of hopefully getting a woman to like them.

Women only appreciate niceness AFTER they feel attracted to you. If you attract her and also treat her well, she will see you as a charming guy.

However, if you are just nice to her, she will see you as a typical nice guy and won't have much or any sexual feelings for you.

3. Don't be so easily impressed by her

One of the biggest mistakes that men make with women is to confuse their feelings of sexual attraction, with their overall evaluation of the woman.

For example: A guy will see a physically attractive woman and will instantly think, Yes, I would have sex with herâ" and based on the physical attraction he is feeling, he will begin to look at her overall personality and behavior in a positive light.

He might say, â" *She looks sweet*â" simply because she is smiling and he will imagine that she is a nice, trustworthy woman with no personality faults at all.

If she is wearing nice clothes and has nice hair, he might say, â" *She is stylish*â" and then imagine that she is intelligent, cultured, interesting and popular.

If he talks to her and while being nice to him, she says something vaguely intelligent or witty, he will feel impressed and amazed by her and it will begin to show up via his body language, behavior, vibe and conversations style.

He isnâ"t doing much or anything to make her feel attracted and is simply having a nice, friendly chat with her, while who she is and what she looks like is making him feel intense attraction.

He is attracted and impressed and he just canâ"t contain his excitement.

What he doesnâ"t realize is that pretty much every other guy that she meets has the same reaction.

Guys feel attracted to her and are then amazed that she is being nice to them during a conversation, so they feel like theyâ"ve found â"the oneâ" or about to score.

The guyâ" body language, behavior, conversation style and vibe then makes the woman realize that he is way more impressed by her than she is of him, which is the opposite of what she really wants.

She wants to meet a guy who is attracted to her, but most importantly – she is attracted, turned on and excited to be interacting with him.

She wants to feel as though he could have other women (she will sense that by his confidence and ability to attract her), but will choose her if she impresses him enough.

She wants him to be impressed by how she looks, but to not be 100% sold on who she is yet.

She wants to have to work to earn his full approval and interest.

This is what women refer to as a man being a challenge and here is why they like itâ"!

Simply based on how a woman looks, almost all men will be more than impressed and will be interested in having sex with her and possibly even a relationship.

Some guys will just look at her and think of having sex with her once or twice, but most guys will be in for a relationship as well.

Itâ" is incredibly boring for women.

Itâ" is not menâ" fault for feeling so attracted to women, but it is menâ" fault for not taking a moment to understand the reality that women live in.

Based on how easily men feel attracted to women, it creates a desire inside of a woman to want to meet a guy who is more of a challenge to win over.

Being a challenge around a woman is not about acting like youâ"re not interested or lying to the woman in any way.

What being a challenge really means is that you make a woman feel attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, masculine vibe, charm).

Once you have sparked a womanâ" attraction for you, the next step is to let her sense (via your body language, conversations style, vibe, attitude, behavior) that youâ€™re not fully sold on her yet.

4. Don't give up at the first sign of resistance

One of the most important traits that women look for in a man is confidence, which is why nervous, insecure guys always struggle to attract women.

An easy way for a woman to find out how confident a guy really is around her, is to test him by playing hard to get, acting uninterested or even teasing him during a conversation.

If he crumbles under her pressure, she knows that he isn't confident enough for a woman like her. However, if he remains confident and relaxed and either laugh at her tests or flat out ignore them, her respect and attraction for him will deepen.

When going through the dating process, you will often encounter signs of resistance even when women really like you.

For example: You might be getting along well with a woman and everything is going great, but she then rejects you when you attempt get her number.

She says something like, â€œYou want my number? Iâ€™m not sure I should give it to youâ€ or, â€œI don't know...I don't usually give my number out to guysâ€ to see how you will react.

Rather than feeling as though you are being rejected, just understand that she is almost certainly (at least 99% of the time based on all of my experience) trying to test your level of confidence.

5. Approach and talk to women that you find attractive, rather than settling for lower quality women that you will regret being with later on

If you only ever approach average or below-average looking women, you will never get to sleep with beautiful, sexy women.

It sounds obvious to say that, but so many guys wonder why they can't get a hot girlfriend, even though they rarely, if ever, approach and talk to hot women.

To be successful at picking up beautiful women, you need to have a fairly good level of skill when it comes to sparking and building on a woman's attraction while you interact with her.

This is because she knows her value on the mating market, so she doesn't have to settle for a guy who makes her feel little or no attraction.

Surprisingly, average and below average looking women actually have MORE choice of men than beautiful women do, because most guys are afraid to approach beautiful women and those who do are either drunk, insecure or sleazy.

It's usually very difficult for a beautiful woman to find a confident good guy because most guys are intimidated by her and most confident good guys already have a girlfriend or wife.

When you can walk up to a beautiful woman with an easy-going, relaxed confidence and spark her feelings of attraction, she will be interested to see how much more attraction you can make her feel.

She will almost always begin to put you through confidence tests (e.g. playing hard to get, not contributing much to the conversation initially, teasing you or putting you down during the conversation, etc) to see how confident you really are.

If you pass her confidence tests and simply focus on making her smile, laugh and feel good when talking to you, she will be excited to be interacting with a confident good guy who seems to be interested in her.

She will almost always then bring down her guard and show you a more relaxed, open, friendly and easy-going side of herself that almost no other guys get to see.

When she does that, she is essentially yours for the taking. You just need to remain confident and believe that you are making her feel attracted and that you can kiss her and have sex with her when the time is right.

Personally speaking, I can tell you that having sex with a beautiful woman is completely different than having sex with a woman that you know isn't very attractive.

Although it feels good to stick it in pretty much any woman, play with her titties and kiss her, all that is nothing compared to what you will feel when you're having sex with a beautiful woman that you're really attracted to.

I remember one of the first times that I had sex with a catwalk model. After sex, she got up out of the bed and walked naked into my bathroom and I was amazed at what I was seeing.

I saw her tall, perfectly shaped body with beautiful tits, beautiful face and a perfect ass get up and confidently walk into the bathroom and then come back after a minute all freshened up.

She climbed onto the bed and cuddled into me and I just looked down at her and thought, â€œWow. This girl is so damn sexyâ€ | look at that faceâ€ | *look at that body. Amazing.*â€

It was a big deal for me because a year and half prior to that moment, beautiful women wouldn't even talk to me for more than 30 seconds (if that!).

I was too nervous, I didn't know what to say and I had no idea how to make them feel attracted to me.

However, when I created the attraction techniques that I now teach here at The Modern Man, everything changed and women looked at me in a completely different way.

The more I improved my ability to attract women during a conversation, the higher quality of woman I was able to get.

You can do the same as well.

If you don't really know how to make women feel attracted and turned on by you when you interact with them, it's important for you to understand that you can actually learn the skill.

It's so damn easy that you will kick yourself for not knowing this earlier.

Watch this video to understand how it worksâ€!

As you will discover from the video above, a man does not have to be tall, handsome or rich to attract a beautiful woman.

Most guys believe that they have to be tall, handsome or rich to attract a beautiful woman, which is why most guys only ever approach and pick up average to below average looking women.

Sometimes, a guy will â€œget luckyâ€ and score himself an attractive woman, but she may then dump him later on when she is sick and tired of not feeling much or any attraction for him.

If you want to be able to attract and keep a beautiful woman, you must know how to actually trigger and build on a woman's feelings of sexual attraction for you.

6. Don't hide behind text messages

Another common mistake that men make these days is to hide behind texts messages after getting a woman's phone number.

A man will text back and forth with a woman and try to think of really interesting, funny or clever things to say via text, Whatsapp, Facebook, Twitter and other social media sites.

If the woman is interested in him, she might be happy to engage him in a text exchange for a while, but she will eventually lose interest if he doesn't grow a pair of balls and just call her.

If you want to get consistent results with women in your dating life, you need to have the balls to call a woman, get her laughing, have an enjoyable conversation (anywhere from 1-10 minutes) and then set up a time to meet in person.

You can set up dates at your place or her place (e.g. cook dinner, hang out and have some drinks before going out to party, meet up at your place and then walk to a nearby cafe together, etc) to help ensure that you and her can easily have sex on the first date.

Alternatively, if you want to go for more a traditional style of date, you can catch up for a coffee, something to eat or a couple of drinks and then transition the date back to your place or her place and then have sex.

If you don't want to have sex that quickly, you can do it on the second date, but don't leave it for too long because most modern woman don't like wasting time in the "dating zone" before they get to take you for a test drive.

7. Believe in yourself

[image: Believe in yourself]

One of the most important dating rules for men is to believe in yourself.

These days, we men are bombarded with message from the media telling us that we're not good enough and we need to be taller, have six pack abs, look like a model, be rich and be living a celebrity lifestyle to be worthy of a woman.

If a modern man pays to all of the messages in the media, it really can be very depressing, frustrating and confusing and lead to him avoiding women altogether.

However, what you need to understand is that the vast majority of women (I'd say about 90% based on all my experience picking up women and helping guys to pick up women) are much less picky about what they will accept in a man than most guys realize.

[image: Believe in yourself]

Some women are very picky and will only accept a tall, rich, good looking guy, but the majority of women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in a man.

Watch this video for more info!

As you will discover from the video above, it is possible for pretty much any man to attract a beautiful and then enjoy an amazing relationship with her.

However, the media is not going to tell you that and neither are women.

Beautiful, attractive women are going to say to you, "Hey, stop doubting yourself. You are good enough for me" and the media isn't going to stop talking about tall, handsome men with six-pack abs and loads of money.

Yet, despite what the media focuses on and why beautiful women have to play hard to get, you can still get what you want.

[image: Believe in yourself]

What you need to realize is that the majority of women (beautiful or otherwise) have average or below-average looking boyfriends or husbands and it's possible for pretty much any man to have a beautiful woman.

The main that you need to do is believe in yourself and your natural ability to attract women.

You need to believe that you can have your choice with women and you can attract a beautiful woman for sex or a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Do Women Find Sexually Appealing?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a man displays some of the behaviors, personality traits and inner that women naturally feel attracted to, women will find him sexually appealing and desirable.

For example: If a guy displays confidence, has a masculine vibe (rather than a neutral vibe) and is charming, women will find him to be sexually appealing.

This is a process that happens automatically, without the woman having to think about it or control, just like you will automatically feel attracted to the physical appearance of women.

Almost all women place much more importance on how a man's personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities make them feel, which is why you will rarely women perverting at men in the same way that men perve at women.

[image: Willing to have sex with her just based on appearance]

Women who do perve at men will either be drunk, just having a laugh together while pretending to act like guys, or they will be unattractive and hoping to catch the attention of an insecure good looking guy who will accept an unattractive woman.

However, the majority of women go through life in OFF mode in terms of their attraction for men.

[image: Men perverting at a woman]

Men are able to instantly find a woman sexually appealing and want to have sex with her simply based on how she looks.

Yet, most women don't feel the same readiness to have sex simply based on a man's appearance.

It is only when a man interacts with a woman and displays some the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women, will she then switch into ON mode and feel properly attracted to him.

Here are 5 examples of personality traits and behaviors that women find sexually appealing in men, (whether the guy is approaching her for the first time, on a date with her or in a long term relationship or marriage).

1. Relaxed confidence

[image: Relaxed confidence]

Confidence is the easiest way for a man to make a woman feel sexually attracted to him.

However, you don't need to go overboard with confidence and try to show off, be loud or brash.

The best type of confidence that attracts all kinds of women is relaxed confidence, where you are comfortable being yourself and are not putting on any kind of act.

A woman will find you to be sexually appealing if you can display relaxed confidence around her in social situations.

You can then deepen her feelings of sexual attraction for you by maintaining that confidence regardless of what happens, or what she says and does during the interaction (e.g. if she plays hard to get to test your confidence).

Most women will test a guy's confidence to check if his confidence is only an act that he is putting on to hide his feelings of nervousness, self-doubt and insecurity.

A woman might test him by showing a lot of interest one moment, and then suddenly switch off and pretend that she's not interested in him at all.

If he crumbles and doubts his sex appeal to her, she will know that he's not really confident and will then lose interest in him.

Women don't want to reward insecure guys with sex or a relationship, because they instinctively know that she would probably have to baby him and prop him up every time he felt bad about himself.

Women don't want to feel like they need to be gentle with a guy because of his insecurities.

They want a ready-made man who believes in himself with or without her reassurances.

In a relationship, a woman will often test her man's confidence by teasing him about his appearance or attractiveness (e.g. "You don't look as good as you used to" or "Why do you wear those clothes?" or "Gross, you have a belly now" or "Your arms are skinny. Why don't you go to the gym?").

If he reacts by becoming insecure or angry, he will fail her test and she will start losing respect for him.

She will then begin to lose touch with her feelings of attraction for him and when that happens, she will begin to fall out of love with him.

Being confident in yourself no matter what is critical part of earning a woman's respect.

When a woman respects you, she will find it 100x easier to feel attracted to you and she will feel excited, proud and happy to be in love with you.

Unfortunately, confidence is one of the biggest issues and problems that men face when it comes to approaching, dating and being in relationships with women these days.

In today's world, a lot of guys (who have been brainwashed by the media) go through life believing that in order for a woman to find them sexually appealing, they have to be tall, handsome, have a great male model-like body, be a millionaire and live a celebrity-like lifestyle.

This puts a lot of men off approaching and talking to beautiful women because they simply don't feel like they're good enough.

Yet, what a lot of guys don't realize is that if a man makes a woman feel attracted in other ways (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, charming), a woman will naturally begin to look at him in a more positive light.

Although a guy might not have the physical features of a typical male model, or be a millionaire, many women will still find him sexually appealing because of the way he is making her feel while interacting with her.

Not all women are open to feeling attracted in that way, but most women are (I'd estimate about 90% based on all the women I've picked up using my natural attraction methods).

The more confident you are in yourself and your ability to attract women with your personality, behavior and inner qualities, the more attractive you become to women.

How? Just like most men want the best looking woman, most women want the most confident guy.

The more confidence you have in yourself, the higher quality of women you will be able to attract, have sex with and get into a relationship with.

2. Masculine vibe

[image: Masculine vibe]

Another easy, natural way to trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction is to make her feel feminine in contrast to your masculinity.

For example: A woman will dress in a sexy dress or tight pants, will wear make up and will do her hair in a way that is flattering because she wants to appear feminine and sexy to men.

So, when she interacts with a man, she wants to be able to feel feminine and sexy in his presence. She doesn't want him to act like a woman and say, "Oh, that's a nice dress. What fabric is it?" or "Where did you buy that dress?" and be interested in the dress itself.

She wants a guy to have the confidence to be a man about it and look her up and down with relaxed confidence, smile and say to her, "Wow, look at you" or "Aren't you a pretty picture?" or "I've seen some pretty women in my life, but you are one of the rare sexy women. I like it."

Essentially, he just needs to be real and tell her that he finds her sexy, rather than lying to her and avoiding the topic by saying, "Oh, I love your hair" or "That's a nice dress" or "You have nice eyes."

Of course, making her feel feminine in comparison to your masculinity is more about how you use your body language and how you come across overall in terms of vibe, attitude and so on.

It's much less about what you say and more about how your body language, attitude and vibe makes her feel when she interacts with you.

For example: If a guy is nervous and self-doubting when he first starts talking to a woman, she will feel more dominant and emotionally strong than him, which will make her feel a bit masculine around him.

She will instantly feel as though he is a guy who lacks the capacity to make her feel feminine and girly in his presence and as a result, she won't be able to properly respect him or feel attracted to him.

On the other hand, if a guy approaches a woman and is confident and calm in the masculine role, she will automatically relax and feel free to be feminine and girly around him.

If he isn't good looking, rich, tall or some kind of superstar, she will still feel attracted to him and will say/think something like, "There's something about this guy" or "I like him" or "he's sexy" or "he's cute too."

That "something about him" is the fact that she feels attracted to his ability to make her feel feminine and girly in comparison to his energy, body language, tone of voice, etc.

So, if you want women to find you sexually appealing, make sure that you come across as being masculine, rather than suppressing your masculinity behind a nice guy act or being neutral because you are too lazy to be masculine.

3. Charm

[image: Charm]

Being charming essentially means that you trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction for you

(e.g. be confident, charismatic, masculine) while also being nice to her.

Important: It's not just about being nice.

You have to first make the woman feel sexually attracted to you and then also reward her with nice treatment, compliments and gentlemanly behavior.

Charm is attractive to a woman because not only does it make her feel good to be interacting with you, but it also allows her to feel respected.

She feels as though you not only find her attractive physically, but you also like her as a person and are interested in making her feel good.

However, you must get 100% clear on one important thing: Being nice does not mean that a guy is charming.

For example: If a nice guy is only ever polite during his conversation with a woman, doesn't flirt with her and pretends that he just wants to be her friend, she isn't going to say, "Wow! This guy is charming! I want to be his girlfriend" and will instead simply see him as another nice guy who is clueless about what find sexually appealing in men.

If another guy comes along and charms her (i.e. triggers her feelings of sexual attraction and also treats her nicely), she will hook up with him regardless of how much she liked the other guy.

If you want a woman to find you sexually appealing, you must (it's not an option â□□ it is a must) first trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you and then, when you are nice to her, she will see you as being charming and open up to you sexually and romantically.

4. An Attractive Style of Humor

[image: Attractive style of humor]

Most guys have heard that women love men with a sense of humor, however, what most guys don't realize is that all humor was not created equal.

For example: A guy who makes jokes or uses polite, â□□safeâ□□ humor does not make a woman feel sexually attracted to him.

She might be amused and she may even laugh, but it's not the type of humor that turns her on.

On the other hand, the type of humor that is most sexually appealing to women is what I call, Playfully Arrogant Humor.

It doesn't mean that a guy must be arrogant (in fact, being arrogant is a big turn off for most women), but it's about being arrogant in a playful, not-so-serious way, which is both funny and exciting to women.

Here is an example of Playfully Arrogant Humorâ□|

Imagine that you're at a bar, with lots of attractive women around.

You go up to get yourself another drink and you and an attractive woman arrive at the counter at the same time.

Instead of just letting her go first (like every other nice guy would), you can say (with a naughty grin), â□□*Okay, you can push in in front of me, but it's going to cost you! That will be 3 beers, 5 B-52s and a Martini*â□|â□□

See how it works?

You're not being rude or arrogant to her, you are just teasing her in a playful way to show her that you're not afraid of her and that you are there to have fun and relax.

That type of comment is not only funny to a woman, but it also makes her see you as sexually appealing because you have the balls to say something like that, while also being playful and positive about it.

You're not being mean and you're not actually expecting her to buy you the drinks; you're simply showing her that you're a confident, cool, fun guy who isn't afraid of her and is willing to be playful like that.

She will then feel intrigued by the sudden attraction she feels for you and it opens up the lines of communication between you and her.

5. Authenticity

[image: Authenticity]

One of the best ways to attract women is to cut the BS and just be real.

If you like a woman, don't be afraid to show her that when you talk to her by saying something like, "You're sexyâ€¦I like you."

Of course, you have to make her feel attracted to you first before saying something like that, otherwise she will laugh and see you as just another guy who is attracted to her, but who is clueless about how to make her feel attracted.

So, as long as you have made her feel attracted to you first, just be upfront and tell her that you find her sexy.

Don't say that she looks nice or that you like her dress. Don't BS like that. Tell her what you really think. Why?

Most women act like they are very confident about their physical appearance and attractiveness to men.

Yet, in reality most women are really quite insecure about it (e.g. the global survey conducted by Dove cosmetics found that 96% of women don't consider themselves to be beautiful).

So, it's always important to make a woman feel sexy and desirable when you're interacting with her, even if you think she is so amazing and would never be insecure about her looks.

For example: If a guy doesn't make it clear that he thinks a woman is sexy, she will be wondering, â€œDoes he really feel attracted to me or is he just passing the time until he can find a woman more beautiful than me? Is he just trying to make himself feel good by getting me to like him?â€

To make sure that he's not just waiting for a better woman to come along, she will then begin to play hard to get to see if he will keep pursuing her.

This is where most guys screw things up for real.

The more uninterested she acts towards him, the more desperate he becomes to get her to like him and then she begins to think, â€œHe's so needy and insecure. Urgh!â€ and loses even more interest.

So, rather than waste time playing games and getting rejected by women who aren't sure what your intentions are, just be authentic and let a woman know that you find her sexy.

The same also applies to women in relationships.

When a woman stops feeling like her man still finds her attractive, her natural instinct is to go in on herself and become closed off to showing affection or having sex.

For a woman to want to have sex, she first has to feel sexually attractive to the man, so making her feel sexy, appreciated and noticed is also an important part to keeping a relationship together.

Being Sexually Appealing to Women is Easy

The more ways that you can attract women with your personality, behavior and inner qualities, the more sexually appealing you will be.

When you have the ability to naturally attract women in that way, life becomes so much easier because you have your choice of women and you can keep a woman happy and attracted when in a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Does it Mean When a Woman Stares at You?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a woman stares at you, it can mean many different things.

For example, it could mean that:

- She finds you attractive and wants to make it clear, so you then approach her and start a conversation.
- She is just flirting with you and doesn't care if you approach or not (e.g. she likes to get guys interested in her as she goes about her day).
- You remind her of someone she knows.
- She's just randomly staring at you because she's deep in thought or thinking about life.
- You have something unusual about you, (e.g. a weird haircut, a tattoo, a shirt with an interesting slogan) that she's interested in.
- She likes your face/body/appearance/fashion sense so she's looking at you, but she's not necessarily interested in you.
- She wants to see if you have the confidence to maintain eye contact with her, rather than looking away quickly like most guys do.
- She wants to get random guys interested in her to make her female friends jealous that she is getting a lot of attention.
- She feels compelled to stare at you, but she doesn't really know why. She's just doing it.

As you can see from the list above, trying to figure out exactly what is going on in a woman's mind is usually a waste of time.

Even if a woman does like you, she won't always show that by staring at you.

For example: Some women are shy, so even if she is really attracted to a guy, she might avoid looking at him in case they make eye contact.

If he approaches her, she might react by pretending not to be interested in him, even though she is secretly hoping he'll sweep her off her feet.

[image: Woman pretending to reject a guy to test his confidence]

She will act as though she is shocked by his approach, but in almost all cases, she is simply testing his confidence and seeing if the guy will react by feeling rejected or trying to impress her even more.

Women like that need a confident guy will simply laugh and continue talking to her, because he knows that women often behave like that to test guys.

Some women are more forward and are not afraid to show their interest in a guy, so they will smile, stare or even wave at a guy from a distance.

Yet, those women are the minority.

The majority women won't make it easy for a guy to know if she is interested or not, because a woman usually doesn't want to attract insecure, shy guys who might approach her if she shows a little bit of interest.

So, she will often act as though she doesn't even care to meet any guys and is perfectly happy on her own.

In that way, only the confident guys (or the drunk guys who will probably get rejected) will have the courage to approach her.

If she does decide to show some interest by staring at a guy, she will almost always make him confused by the signal, to make sure that she doesn't attract an insecure, self-doubting guy.

For example: She might stare at him one minute and then ignore him the next.

When he then approaches, the woman will usually pretend as though she hadn't even seen him and will act surprised that he approached her, because she instinctively wants to test his level of confidence and social intelligence.

If he remains confident and relaxed, she will then begin to open up to him and show additional signs of her interest in him (e.g. smiling, keeping the conversation going).

If he is then able to build on her attraction by displaying more of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women find naturally attractive (e.g. charisma, charm, humor) she will feel more attracted and interested in him.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction worksâ|

As you will discover from the video above, what really matters is how much or little attraction you can make a woman feel for you during an interaction.

If a woman stares at a guy and he walks over, begins to make her feel attracted to him and passes her confidence tests, she will let down her guard and open up to him.

On the other hand, if he seems nervous and unsure of himself, she will quickly lose interest in him.

[image: Rejecting guy who lacks confidence]

She won't want to allow herself to get involved with a guy who will probably need her to support him emotionally in a relationship, or constantly try to encourage him to be more confidence in himself.

She will want a confident guy who believes in himself, so she can then relax into being his woman, rather than having to waste a lot of energy taking care of an insecure guy.

So, instead of worrying about what it means when a woman stares at you, focus instead on what you want from her.

For example: If you find her attractive and would like to have sex with her or date her, then simply focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

You are attracted to her, so you now need to make her attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor) when you interact with her.

Don't expect her to be clear about her interest in you prior to the approach or during an interaction, because most women simply don't want to make it easy for insecure guys to get a chance with them.

She needs you to believe in yourself and your ability to attract her and then approach and make that happen, with or without her reassurance.

You Might Be Surprised at What Really Makes Women Feel Attracted to Men

Quite often, when a guy notices that a woman is staring at him, he will begin to over-analyze it in his head because he knows that for most guys, when they stare at a woman, it clearly means they feel sexually attracted to her because of how she looks.

If she doesn't do anything else but stare at him, he might start thinking, â€œOkay, she's staring at me! maybe she likes me. I just don't know for sure. What if I approach her and she isn't really interested in me because I'm not good looking enough?â€

Since he feels attracted to women based mostly on how they look, he assumes that women select men for the same reasons.

Yes, it is true that a woman can feel attracted to a man's appearance and it's also true that some women will only accept a good looking guy, but the majority of women are much more flexible with what they find attractive in a guy.

This is why you will see guys who aren't good looking with beautiful women. Many guys will assume, “Oh, well he must have a big dick” or “He must be rich” because they don't even know how a woman's attraction for a man really works.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

As you will discover from the video above, most guys who fail with women don't even know the real reason why women reject them or dump them.

Most guys never get taught how to attract women and waste their life thinking that, unless they are good looking or rich, beautiful women won't want anything to do with them.

Yet, they are wrong.

What most guys don't realize is that they have to CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman by interacting with her.

Yes, if a guy is very good looking, some women will be interested in him purely based on his looks, but that doesn't mean that other guys can't attract those women too.

If a guy isn't good looking, he needs to accept the fact that if he wants to have sex or a relationship with a beautiful woman, he will need to attract her in other ways.

He can't expect her to want him because he is wearing a nice shirt, is a good guy or has a good job. That isn't how it works.

You've got to talk to the woman in person and make her feel sexually attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women naturally find attractive in men.

A man's attraction for a woman is different to a woman's attraction for a man.

[image: Men immediately willing to have sex with a woman, even though they don't know anything about her personality, intelligence level, etc]

For example: A man can feel attracted and willing to have sex and a relationship with a woman, regardless of whether she is nice, intelligent, or interesting to talk to.

If she looks good, almost all guys in the planet will be willing to stick it in her at least once and many of those guys will also be interested in a relationship.

On the other hand, a woman might stare at a guy and even think, *â€œHeâ€™s cute...I think I might like him,*â€œ but in most instances, sheâ€™s not going to do anything about it.

Sheâ€™s going to wait and see if he has the confidence to approach her and interact with her, or if heâ€™s just another insecure guy who is afraid of women.

Only when she has interacted with him in person will she then make her decision about whether she will give him her number, have sex with him, or date him. Why?

Women can feel attracted to many different things about a man other than his appearance (e.g. his confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, humor, determination to succeed in life, ability to get along well with her and her friends).

A woman might be staring at a guy because she thinks he is good looking, but if she feels bored or turned off while interacting with him, sheâ€™s not going to want to have sex with him or date him just because heâ€™s physically attractive.

Yes, some women will only date and have sex with very good looking guys, but the majority of women need to feel attracted to a manâ€™s personality and behavior, rather than just mere looks.

So, when a woman stares at you, donâ€™t waste time debating whether she really likes you or whether youâ€™re good looking enough for her or not.

What her stare means really doesnâ€™t matter when you have the confidence to approach her and make her feel attracted to you in other ways (e.g. make her laugh, make her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity, pass her confidence tests).

If you want her, then go and get her.

By triggering her feelings of sexual attraction she will become interested in you even if she initially thought she wasnâ€™t, or that you werenâ€™t her physical type.

If youâ€™re not a very good looking guy, rather than stand around feeling insecure about it and hoping sheâ€™ll approach you, just walk over to her and let her experience your attractive personality traits during an interaction.

3 Steps to Get You Past the Staring Stage

If you are currently stuck about what to do to get from the staring stage to actually getting her to want to have sex or be your girlfriend, hereâ€™s what you need to do:

1. Approach her and make her feel attracted to you.

Stop waiting for women to make it extremely obvious that they are willing to be approached by you, before you will make your move.

Confidently walk up to her and focus on making her feel sexually attracted to during the interaction.

Donâ€™t try and get her to like you by pretending to be an even nicer guy than you really are, because that will only make her think of you as a friend.

Simply focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you and the rest will follow naturally. Attraction comes first and then everything else flows on naturally and easily after that.

If you need to build up some confidence to approach the kinds of women you find attractive, watch this video...

As you will discover from the video above, you are in control of how you use the power of your mind.

You can either use it to become and be confident, or to become more insecure and be that way for life.

2. Be a bit of a challenge.

It is fine to feel sexually attracted to a woman and even say, “You’re sexy” but it is not fine to become so desperate to score with her that you stop expecting her to impress you further.

Women love guys who are a bit of challenge, because most guys are usually very easy to impress.

If a woman is attractive, most guys will have sex with her at least once and many of those guys will also be interested in a relationship even if they don’t like her personality.

Women hate that.

So, rather than fall all over yourself to please her, hold back and allow your interest in her to rise and fall based on how well she is treating you.

Don’t reward her bad behavior by acting even more interested in her.

Have standards about what you like and dislike when interacting with women and then let her see (by way of your body language, vibe, conversation style) that you are losing or gaining interest in her based on how she interacts with you.

3. Don’t act like you want to be her friend, if you really want to be her lover.

Pretending that you only have friendly intentions with a woman is a mistake that can backfire.

While you are pretending to just want to be an innocent friend to her, you run the risk of some other guy coming along and triggering her feelings of sexual desire.

You’ve got to talk to her in a way that makes her feel turned on, as well as show her that you’re interested in her sexually by the way you look at her, or by telling her that you think she’s sexy.

If you act like a friend, that’s usually all you will end up being to her.

If you want sex or a relationship, focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you, not on trying to be an innocent friend.

It’s Your Move

You can sit around wondering, What does it mean when a woman stares at you? but the truth is that you’ll never know until you approach her.

Ultimately, her stare only means something if you want it to.

Just focus on making her feel sexually attracted and she’ll be yours.

It’s as simple as that.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Makes a Woman Like a Man?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you want to know what makes a woman like a man, the answer is very simple:

A woman will like a man when he can trigger her feelings of respect and sexual attraction for him.

For example:

- He is confident and charismatic when interacting with her.
- He makes her feel girly and feminine in contrast to his masculinity.
- He is emotionally strong.
- He is socially intelligent.
- He can make her laugh.
- He has a definite purpose and direction in life.

When a guy displays the types of personality traits and behaviors that women feel attracted to, women naturally like him and feel drawn to him.

The Things That Make a Woman Like a Man Are Not the Same Things That Make a Man Like a Woman

[image: Willing to have sex with her just based on appearance]

Most guys automatically assume that because they like a woman based on whether she's physically attractive or not, women like men based for the same reason.

For guys, liking a woman is easy.

If she is pretty, wears sexy clothes or has a nice body, then most guys will like her and feel attracted to her regardless of whether she is intelligent, interesting or even a nice person.

However, almost all women like men for other reasons than looks.

Of course, before a woman has a chance to interact with a guy in person, she will look at his appearance and judge him on that, but regardless of whether she thinks he's hot or plain, if he can make her feel the way she wants to feel when she's interacting with him, she will like him and feel attracted to him.

For example: A woman might notice a guy and think, "He's really not my type," but when he approaches her and makes her feel a lot of attraction to his personality (e.g. his confidence, masculine vibe, his ability to make her laugh), her feelings for him also change.

That is how a woman's attraction really works.

Rather than dwell on all the reasons why he's not her physical type, most women (not all) will look at him in a more positive light and will even come to like the way he looks.

For example: If a guy is bald, has a big nose or is overweight, most women will go from feeling turned off by his look to saying, "He's cute! I like him! I don't usually find bald guys sexy, but he is different."

Of course, there are some women who only like men because of their looks, money and status, but the majority of women have what is called an Open Type.

Essentially this means that most women are open to dating many different types of guys, as long as the guy can make her feel attracted by his behavior, personality and inner qualities (e.g. confidence, charisma, self-esteem, humor).

Have You Been Making Excuses About Why Women Don't Like You?

[image: Women don't like me because I am not perfect]

Some guys who don't understand attraction get angry about how women keep rejecting them and don't ever seem to be interested, even though the guy is a good guy and has good intentions.

If he gets really angry about it, he might become irrational and believe that he needs to look like a male model, have loads of money, a huge dick and live like rock star before women will like him.

Guys like that go through life making excuses like, I'm just not good looking enough or that's why women don't like me, or Women are just after money and status and since I don't have either, they don't like me. Bitches!

Yet, that's just the irrational confusion of millions of guys who don't even understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works.

When you make a woman feel attracted to you in many different ways during an interaction (e.g. you turn her on by being confident, you make her laugh, you make her feel sexy in your presence, you make her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity), she starts to look at what you might perceive as being something negative about you (e.g. you're too short, you have a big nose, your eyes are too close together, etc) and she begins to see them as something about you that is unique and sexy to her.

By making her feel attracted to you in other ways, she begins to like you for who you are on the inside.

Not all women are like that, but most are, so if you have ever wondered, "What makes a woman like a man?" you need to understand that women can be attracted to men for all sorts of reasons.

You don't have to look like a perfect male model and have loads of money and a huge dick to be attractive to women.

You just have to be able to attract women your personality, behavior and inner qualities.

When you do that, women will instantly warm up to you and then begin to fall for you within the first minute or two of a conversation.

You might think that you aren't worthy of a woman like that because you don't look like a model or aren't a rich megastar, but she thinks otherwise.

She likes you because you make her feel attracted in many different ways when you interact with her.

On the other hand, if a guy is good looking, but is nervous, insecure, puts on a persona (e.g. pretends to be nicer than he really is), his good looks will fade in her eyes.

In fact, when a guy doesn't know how to make a woman feel attraction for him while interacting with her, no matter how good looking he is, she will begin to look for reasons why she doesn't like him.

That's why you will often see plain looking or below average looking guys with hot girlfriends or wives, and good-looking guys who are single (not by choice) or with unattractive women.

A Woman Liking You is Not the Same as a Woman Being Sexually Attracted to You

It's easy for a guy to get a woman to like him as a friend, but that is not the same as feeling attracted to him and wanting to have a sexual relationship with him.

There's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman in a friendly way, but that's not enough to make her feel sexually attracted to you.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

When a guy doesn't know how to make a woman feel attracted to him, he will hope that if he is super nice to her and treats her like a princess, she will realize how sweet he is and then give him a chance to be with her.

Yet, that's not how it works.

If a woman doesn't feel a lot of sexual attraction for a guy, she may like him and even enjoy his company, but if he then tries to make a move on her, or tells her how much he likes her, she will rebuff him by saying something like:

- You know I like you too, but not in that way. Sorry.
- You're a really nice guy, but I don't want to ruin our friendship.
- You're like a brother to me.
- I like you, but I already have a boyfriend.
- You're so sweet, but I'm not looking for a relationship right now.

When a woman doesn't feel a lot of sexual attraction for a guy she's not going to want to be with him in a sexual relationship.

Yes, she will like him as a person, but that's not enough of a reason for a woman to want to begin a sexual, loving relationship with him.

If you want to make women like you and want to be in a sexual relationship with you, the first thing you need to focus on is sparking her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

Sexual attraction comes first and then everything else will follow on naturally and easily after that.

If you're not actively making a woman feel sexually attracted to you when you approach her, then it won't matter if she likes you or not because as soon as another guy comes along who can instantly trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, she will leave you for him in a heartbeat.

Attraction is Easy

Making a woman feel attracted to you is a very easy thing to do.

In fact, when you improve your ability to attract women, you will realize that youâve been worrying about the wrong things (i.e. how to get a woman to like you enough to give you a chance, how to convince women to like you, etc) for a long time.

You donât have to be good looking, rich or have a perfect body to attract women.

When you attract women by displaying the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women, then you are set for life with women.

So donât waste another day worrying about how you can make women like you and focus instead on making them feel attracted to you.

When you focus on attraction, everything will naturally fall into place and you will enjoy your choice of women like you always should have.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Do Women Think About Bald Men?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you're wondering, What do women think about bald men? the answer is: Some women like bald men and some women don't.

Naturally, not all women will accept a man who is bald, but many women do find bald men attractive and most women are open to feeling attracted to a bald man if he can make her feel attracted to him in other ways.

[image: What women think about bald men]

For example: If a guy is confident, charismatic and interesting to talk to, most women aren't going to reject him just because he is bald.

Some women will reject him because they want a guy with a full head of hair, but the majority of women are much more open and flexible about their attraction for men.

If the bald man can attract her with his confidence, masculinity (i.e. how he thinks, feels, behaves, talks, moves), humor and charm, a woman will then begin to look at his baldness in a more positive light.

[image: Bald man with wife]

She will think, "Wow, this bald guy is sexy" because she is feeling attracted to other things about him.

On the other hand, if a guy (bald or with a full head of hair) is nervous and insecure around a woman and doesn't know how to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction during conversation, she will start to look for reasons why she doesn't like him and it won't make a difference to her if he is bald, or if he has a full head of hair.

Don't Believe What Women Say. Look at What They Actually Do

[image: Are women into bald men?]

A woman might say things like, "I don't find bald men attractive," or "I never dated a bald guy," but if a bald man comes along and attracts her with his confidence, his masculine vibe and can make her laugh, etc., she will feel attracted to him for those reasons and may even begin to see his baldness as something that adds a sexiness or cuteness to his overall look.

On the flip side, a woman might say, "I love bald men, they are so sexy," yet, if a bald guy approaches her and puts on a fake persona by trying to be more confident than he is, or by trying to be nicer than he is and therefore doesn't allow his natural charm and charisma to come through, she will reject him, even if he is bald and even though she loves bald men.

So if you're asking, What do women think about bald men? the main thing that you need to know is this: Most women are a lot more flexible about what they find attractive in a guy than most guys will ever realize in their lifetime.

Yes, some women do place a lot of importance on a guy's appearance, but most women are open to being attracted to most guys as long as the guy knows how to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him.

Watch this video to see what I mean!|

As you will discover from the video above, a woman can be going through life with a certain type (e.g. tall, handsome and rich), but if she meets an average looking guy of average height and with an average job, she can still feel attracted to him, have sex with him, fall in love with him and even marry him.

Of course, there are some women out there who are extremely picky, but most women will simply go with how they feel (rather than what they previously thought), so if a guy can make a woman feel properly attracted, she will almost always open herself up to seeing where it goes.

Did You Know You Can Attract Women in Many Different Ways?

A lot of guys make the mistake of believing that women are attracted to men for the same reasons that men are attracted to women.

For example: Since most guys instantly feel enough attraction for a woman's appearance to be willing to have sex with her, they usually assume that women pick men for sex in the exact same way.

However, even though women will say, "I love guys who are tall, dark and handsome," or "I think guys with big muscles and six pack abs are so hot," those women will often be seen dating, or marrying guys who are short, bald, average looking, below-average looking or overweight.

Why is that?

Basically, even though women may feel attraction for a man's outward appearance, most women (not all) place a lot more importance on non-physical traits (e.g. his confidence, his masculine vibe, his conversation style) when she is interacting with him.

Yes, a woman will have certain tastes when it comes to men, but it is the whole person that she looks at when she is determining whether she wants to hook up with a guy or not, and if a guy can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him, she will be interested in him even if he isn't her usual type.

When a guy doesn't know how to attract women with his inner qualities (e.g. his confidence, charisma, masculinity, etc.) he will often make the mistake of placing much more importance on his outer qualities (e.g. his appearance, money, status, etc.).

Watch this video to see what I mean!|

A guy like that doesn't know that although for men attraction is pretty simple, (i.e. pretty woman = attraction = willing to have sex), a woman's attraction for a man is based on many other things.

For example: Is he nervous or confident? Does he get along well with others or is he rejected by most people?

Does he understand modern society or is he still acting like a gentleman from the 1900s?

Does his masculinity (i.e. how he thinks, talks, feels, behaves) make me feel girly and feminine around him, or is he more of a neutral guy who I feel nothing around?

Even if a guy hates it that women judge him for things like that, women won't stop it.

It's just like how some women wish that men wouldn't judge them on their appearance.

We can't help feeling more attracted to physically attractive women, just like women can't help feeling attracted to confident guys who are able to make them feel feminine in comparison to his masculinity.

When you trigger a woman's attraction for you for reasons other than your looks, she will naturally start to see you through rose tinted glasses, even you are bald, don't have six pack abs or are average or below average looking.

Even if she feels attraction for a certain type of guy, she will be seeing you in a more positive light based on the attraction she feels for you.

Rather than look at you and think, "Hmmm! he's really great, but it's a pity about his bald head. I just can't date a bald guy even if he's perfect in every other way," she will usually think something like, "This guy is great! who would have thought baldness can be so sexy in a guy. I like bald guys now."

In almost all cases, if a guy's personality makes a woman feel attracted to him and makes her feel the types of emotions that she wants to feel when she is with a guy, she will overlook the fact that he's not her type.

She will feel attracted to him for many different reasons and she will want to be with him, and will even fall in love with him, for who he is as a guy.

You Can't Hide Your Insecurities From Women

Guys who lack confidence in their attractiveness to women often make the mistake of thinking they can hide their insecurities from women.

Women can see right through it because they notice insecurities by observing body language, analyzing subtle reactions during interactions and listening to how a guy speaks and what he says.

For example: An insecure bald guy might start talking to a woman and acting as though he is confident, but inside he will be thinking, "She probably hates my bald hair! I can't get a girl like this. I'm bald. She would never like me as I am."

The woman will notice the tension in his body language and facial expressions, his tonality and how he reacts and responds to her during a conversation.

She will then feel turned off by him (unless she is unattractive and wants an insecure guy who hopefully won't leave her) and the bald guy will think, "See! Women don't like me because I am bald."

He might then decide that if he wears a toupee, or if he grows his hair really long and combs it over his bald spot, women will not notice that he is going bald and they will like him and want to be with him.

In most cases, this type of disguise is blatantly obvious to most people and especially to women who are naturally very perceptive of the subtle details of a guy.

Rather than hide his baldness, it raises a red flag for a woman that the guy is insecure and doesn't even know what women really find attractive about men.

Then, if he attempts to approach a woman and she rejects him, he will usually feel dejected and will often try even harder to hide his baldness.

He might decide that he has to get hair plugs or laser treatment and get some hair back on his head, otherwise he will never get laid or get a girlfriend again.

What he doesn't realize is that it is his unattractive behavior (e.g. his nervousness, shyness and lack of confidence) that is turning women off, not his lack of hair.

Most women can see right through a man's act of confidence or self-assurance, regardless of whether a guy is bald, balding or has a full head of hair.

When an attractive woman senses that a guy is unsure of himself, she will naturally lose interest in him.

Unattractive don't mind it initially because it makes the woman feel safe that he probably won't dump her quickly, but that doesn't mean she won't dump him later on when she is tired of feeling turned off by his insecurities.

Thinking and behaving in an insecure way makes a man become trapped in a vicious cycle where his confidence diminishes more and more over time.

It may even lead to him to a point where he begins avoiding women altogether, or settling for whatever (unattractive) women he can get.

To break the cycle of insecurity, a guy needs to learn the real things that women are looking for in a man (e.g. confidence, masculinity, emotional strength, charisma), rather than focusing on trying to attract women with superficial things, like a full head of hair.

Changing How You Feel About Being Bald

[image: Changing how you feel about your baldness]

Going bald is something that happens to men all over the world.

In fact, statistically speaking, 40% of men have noticeable hair loss by the age of 35, 65% by the age of 60, and 80% by the age of 80.

When I met my sexy 20 year old girlfriend (who is now my wife), I was 35 and my hair was receding.

It didn't stop me from picking her up because I attracted her in so many other ways during the interaction.

If I had been worried about losing my hair, I would be like most guys who become insecure and feel like they are losing their value on the mating market.

Yet, I knew that I was high value because I have been able to attract women for years by displaying the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women.

If you want to feel better about going bald or being bald, you need to be able to attract women in other ways.

Watch this video for more info!

When a guy is confident in his ability to attract women in other ways, having or not having hair cannot take that confidence away from him.

Confidence is something that you need to take control of and build on over time, by basing it on things that are within your control.

If you base your confidence on superficial things like hair, body shape and wrinkle free skin, you will be the one who is responsible for destroying your confidence as you age.

The key is to realize that getting a woman to feel attracted for you is about displaying the personality traits and behaviors that women are naturally attracted to.

When you can attract women in those ways, you stop worrying about what women think about bald men and simply enjoy sex, love and relationships with beautiful women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Hair Color Do Women Prefer on Men?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

There is no one particular hair color that women prefer on men.

Some women like guys with blonde hair, some women like men with dark hair, and some women even prefer men who are bald.

The truth is, even if you've heard women saying, "I just love guys with dark hair / blonde hair," over and over again, it doesn't mean those same women won't feel attraction for other guys who have a different hair color, for other reasons.

Watch this video and you will see what I mean!

As you will discover from the video above, a woman can go through life thinking that she has a certain type and if she then meets a guy who makes her feel intense attraction, her type can change.

For example: She might have said that she only likes guys with a full head of hair, but then she meets a bald guy who is confident and turns her on and she then places less importance on her requirement for men to have a full head of hair.

Having the Right Hair Color Doesn't Automatically Mean That a Guy Will Be Able to Pick Her Up

[image: Rejected yet again...]

If a guy has the hair color that a woman says she prefers on, it doesn't mean that she is automatically going to be attracted to him and be interested in having sex with him or dating him.

It might get her attention initially, but she is going to be more interested in the traits that women really look for in a man, such as:

- Confidence.
- Masculinity (how he thinks, behaves, takes action, moves, feels).
- Charisma.
- Charm.
- Humor.

A guy's hair color is only a very small percentage of the overall package of who he really is.

For example: If a guy is insecure and lacks belief in himself, but has a woman's preferred hair color, she's not going to say, "Yes, he's really nervous, insecure and self-doubting around me, but he has the right hair color, so I'll have sex with him and date him!"

A guy might have the wrong hair color (or even be bald) and if he is confident, charismatic, has a masculine vibe and has an interesting and engaging conversation style, a woman is unlikely to say, "Well he really IS perfect in every other way. I just love the way he makes me feel. I want him. Pity about his hair color though. I have to reject him."

Most women are just not that shallow.

Yes, some women will only date guys based on their appearance, or their status, or how much money they have, but the majority of women are open to having sex and dating all sorts of guys, as long as those guys can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction.

The Strange Thing About How Women Feel Attracted to Men

When most guys see an attractive woman, they will not stop to question whether she is nice, intelligent, interesting or confident before they feel attracted to her.

They will simply look at her and decide, “Pretty face, nice butt, good tits” and they will instantly feel attracted to her and will be willing to have sex with her.

A man can literally feel attracted to a woman within one second and be willing to have sex with her, regardless of whether she is confident, funny, interesting to talk to and so on.

A man's initial attraction to a woman is almost completely based on her appearance. Her other qualities (e.g. her personality, intelligence) are not essential for a guy to have the instant “Yes” reaction to whether or not he'd have sex with her.

A woman's character will only become important if the guy wants to get into a serious relationship with her.

Until then, most guys will happily have sex with a beautiful woman, even if she's not very intelligent or interesting.

Women on the other hand are attracted to the things about a man that cannot be seen, (e.g. his confidence, masculinity, charm, style of humor).

Even if a woman feels a lot of attraction for a man's physical appearance, it doesn't mean that she will want to sleep with him or get into a relationship with him.

For example: If a good looking guy lacks confidence, doesn't know how to keep a conversation going and keep it interesting, puts on a false persona by pretending to be nicer than he really is, then most women (not all) will lose interest in him.

[image: Woman rejecting good looking guy]

For a woman, one of the most important things about a man is how he makes her feel when she's with him.

If a man can make a woman feel girly and feminine in contrast to his masculine vibe, can handle her when she challenges him (e.g. she plays hard to get, teases him during conversation) without crumbling and can make her laugh during conversation, she will usually perceive any physical flaws that he might have in a favorable light because she feels attracted to him in other ways.

This is why you have probably seen many average, plain and even ugly looking guys with really beautiful girlfriends or wives.

In many cases, these guys know that it's not their looks, the color of their hair or the car they drive that is most attractive to women, but rather their ability to make her feel the way she wants to feel in his presence, (i.e. attracted, girly, feminine, sexy).

Do You Think Your Lack Of Success With Women Has Anything to Do With Your Hair Color?

[image: Maybe women will like me if I change my hair color]

When a guy doesn't know how to attract women with the inner qualities that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, conversation style), he will often come to the conclusion that it's because he doesn't have the right physical appearance that women want.

If then he happens to overhear women talking about what they find attractive in men, he then begins to draw conclusions about why he has been so unsuccessful with women.

For example: If he hears women saying, "I just love men who are tall, handsome and have dark hair," he may conclude, "I'm tall, but I have light colored hair, so I guess I'm not attractive to women then."

Alternatively he might hear women saying, "I never date poor guys. I think a woman should be treated like a princess and a guy without money just can't do that for me."

If he then happens to be an average guy with an average job (like most guys in the world), he will begin thinking that women only date rich guys and he will then feel like he's not good enough.

He may ask himself questions like:

- If women judge men on their looks and I'm not a model, how will I ever get laid or get a girlfriend?
- If I can't pay for everything that a woman wants, will a woman ever want to go out on a date with me?
- If women are only interested in men with money, power and good looks will I ever be able to get a girlfriend?
- If all the women I know like men with dark hair and I have light hair, what kind of women will like me?

Even though everything about you does matter (including what you look like), the old cliché, "What matters the most is who you are inside," is actually quite true.

Watch this video and you will see what I mean!

Essentially, most women (not all) will pick a man for sex or a relationship based on who he is as a person and will place less importance on his looks.

For example: When a guy is confident, believes in himself, is someone that she can look up to and trust, has a positive outlook on life, has goals and ambitions, etc., a woman will feel attracted to him for those things and the superficial things like his appearance, the color of his hair, or his dress style will not be that important to her. Why?

Most women know that a man's appearance doesn't guarantee that he will be emotionally strong enough to take care of her and any children they may have if she chooses to marry him.

Even when a woman is only looking for a one night stand or a casual relationship, unless she is insecure about her attractiveness to men or likes to dominate men, she will look for a man who is emotionally strong and who she can respect and look up to.

Even though you will hear women talking about the color of men's hair, the truth is that most women will not even think about a man's hair color when it comes to deciding whether or not she wants to be with him.

If she feels attracted to him for more important reasons (e.g. he is confident, masculine in a way that makes her feel feminine around him, makes her laugh, is charming) then she isn't going to reject him because of his hair color.

Yes, some women are shallow and only date good looking or rich and successful guys or guys with the exact color hair they want, but most women have an Open Type, which means they will date most kinds of guys if the guy can simply make her feel enough attraction for him in other ways.

You Can Attract Women With the Color of Hair You Have Right Now

[image: Women don't like me because of the color of my hair]

If you've been going through life making excuses for your lack of success with women, like asking, "What hair color do women prefer?" and hoping that if you change your hair color you will then miraculously become attractive to women, hopefully by now you realize that your attractiveness to most women is not based on your hair color.

Attraction is about how you make the woman feel when you interact with her (e.g. do you turn her on with your confidence or turn her off with your insecurity and self-doubt?).

Changing your hair color might get you a few more looks from women, but if you don't know how to attract those women with your personality when you interact with them, they will instantly lose interest.

When you attract women by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women, you will never again have to think, "What if I am not good looking enough?" or "What if I have the wrong hair color?" because you will be too having sex and enjoying relationships with beautiful women.

Attracting and picking up beautiful women is so much easier than most guys realize, because most guys assume that a woman's attraction for a man is all about looks, money, power, penis size and height.

Yes, women can feel attracted to those things, but they can also feel attracted to other things about men, which is why men who don't have looks, money, power, a big dick or height are still able to have sex with, have relationships with and even marry beautiful women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Gets a Woman in the Mood?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

To get a woman in the mood, whether you've just met, you're on a date, or you're in a long-term relationship or marriage that has lost its spark, is easier than most guys realize.

I know this because I've slept with more than 250 women and I'm now married and the same approach I used with other women still works every time with my wife.

So, if you are asking, What gets a woman in the mood? what you need to know is that, regardless at what stage of the relationship you and her are in, the process is the same.

Here's what you need to do:

1. Display confidence.
2. Make her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity (e.g. how you talk to her, touch her, move, behave, etc).
3. Let her know that you find her sexy and desirable (either say it with words or show it via your body language, vibe and actions).
4. Turn her on with your touch.
5. Believe in your attractiveness to her (she will notice your confidence and it will turn her on).
6. Release the sexual tension and desire that you have for each other by having sex.

Essentially, a woman's attraction for a man and her desire to have sex with him, is based mostly on him displaying the personality traits and behaviors that will make her feel sexual desire for him.

When a woman's feelings of sexual attraction are triggered in that way, she will naturally be excited about the idea of having sex with him and will get in the mood.

If you behave in the ways outlined above, a woman will feel aroused and she will be just as eager to have sex with you as you are with her.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works!

As you will discover from the video above, what gets a woman in the mood is her feelings of attraction for you.

You have a lot of direct control over how much or little attraction a woman feels for you.

For example: If you are displaying traits that are unattractive to women (e.g. insecurity, nervousness, self-doubt, being neutral rather than masculine), the woman will find it difficult to get in the mood for sex.

It All Starts With You Believing in Yourself and Your Ability to Arouse Her

[image: Believe in your ability to arouse her]

When it comes to getting a woman in the mood, confidence is everything and if you want to have confidence during the build up to sex, you must believe in your ability to make a woman feel attracted and turned on by you.

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

Whether a woman is sitting at a bar looking at a guy sitting on the other side of the room, talking to him for the first time, on a date with him or in a relationship with him, his confidence is one of the main qualities that will make her feel attraction for him.

Confidence is attractive to women because it is a sign of emotional strength, and, because we live in a challenging world where it isn't always easy to survive, a woman wants to know that the guy she is with is someone she can rely on to be the man all the time, especially during difficult times.

[image: How to get a woman in the mood]

A woman's attraction for a man is directly linked to her need to survive, feel protected and be provided for.

If a man lacks confidence in himself, it sets off alarm bells in a woman's mind that he would probably be more of a burden to breed with than a benefit.

Even if both the woman and the man don't want to have children, their attraction is based on what would happen if they did breed.

That's what it's all about and why a man's confidence is so important to a woman.

Based on this, a woman will automatically be turned on or off by a guy depending on how confident he appears to her at first glance and then when she interacts with him.

For example: When a woman first sees a guy, she will naturally notice his appearance first because she has nothing else to base her opinion of him on.

However, after her initial first glance, she will begin to notice his body language, behavior and how he interacts with other people.

Her instincts will instantly begin to answer the following types of questions for her:

- Is he confident around other people, or does he seem unsure of himself?
- Does he have the confidence to approach her and strike up a conversation, or is he too insecure to make the first move? If he is afraid of talking to her, will he also be afraid to stand up and go after what he wants in life?
- When he approaches and talks to her, is he relaxed and easy-going, or is he nervous, self-doubting and insecure?
- When interacting with her does he make her feel attraction for him via his conversation style, body language, humor, etc., or does he stumble over his words or make only polite or formal conversation with her because he has no idea what makes a woman feel attracted to a man?

Basically, whether a woman looks at a guy from across a room, or interacts with him in person during a conversation or on a date, if he is a truly confident man, she will feel some level of attraction for him regardless of his appearance.

In a relationship or marriage, a girlfriend, fiancée or wife will feel attracted to her man if he is able to display the kind of personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women are attracted to (e.g. confidence, charisma, emotional masculinity, etc).

As long as a man is able to trigger a woman's feelings of attraction in those ways, he will never struggle to get a woman in the mood, as long as he believes in his ability to actually get her in the mood.

Some men are attractive in their behavior, but when it comes to interacting with new women or their girlfriend or wife, they doubt their ability to turn her on.

This is because most guys don't even know what makes a woman feel attracted to a man and go through most of their life feeling clueless about how to get a woman in the mood.

Watch this video to learn a surprising truth about what really attracts a woman to a man!'

Even though a woman will initially judge a man on his appearance, it is his other qualities, like his confidence, masculinity, the way he makes her laugh, etc., that will make her feel attraction for him and get her in the mood.

Of course, not all women are like this.

There are some women who will only ever accept a male model looking guy with loads of money, but the majority of women feel much more attraction and desire for a guy based on how his personality and behavior makes her feel, rather than whether or not is good looking.

Women feel attracted to men in that way because a woman's attraction is really based on what would happen if she had children with a guy.

If a guy is good looking, but lacks confidence in himself or is hopeless at his job, then he's not going to be much use to a woman in the long run.

However, an average or even below-average looking guy who is confident and is on his way to success in life (or is already successful), is going to make a woman feel much safer with him.

After all, most women can get pregnant very easily and if she makes a mistake and gets pregnant to a guy who is going to be more of a burden than a benefit, she will have to pay for that mistake for 20+ years until her child is hopefully able to support itself.

So, if you want to get women in the mood, you simply have to display some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, etc) that attract women and turn them on.

This applies when you first meet women, are on a date, having sex and 20 years into a relationship.

To get women in the mood, you've got to be the sort of man that they can feel attracted to.

You then need to believe in your ability to make her feel attracted and simply proceed to sex.

[image: Confidently proceed to sex]

If you don't display the traits that women find attractive or if you doubt your ability to attract women, you will get rejected when meeting women, find it difficult to score a second date or end up in a sexless relationship or marriage.

To keep the spark alive, you've got to be the sort of man who is attractive to a woman.

For example: When in a relationship, a woman will find it difficult to maintain her feelings of attraction for a man who insecure and self-doubting.

If a girlfriend, fiancée or wife has to constantly prop up her man's confidence because he doesn't believe in himself, she will gradually lose respect for him as a man.

When a woman loses respect for her man, she will also lose attraction for him and then, no matter what he does (e.g. take her out to dinner, buy her gifts) it will be difficult for her to get in the mood to have sex because she can no longer look up to him and respect him like she used to.

Without Sexual Attraction, She Will Only Experience Friendly Feelings For You

Whether you've just met a woman, are on a date with her, or have been in a relationship with her for a long time, if a woman doesn't feel turned on by the way you interact with her, she will either just write you off as being another guy who is hitting on her (if she's only just met you), or she will only experience friendly feelings for you.

Regardless of the circumstances, if a woman is not feeling attracted to you, she's not going to be in the mood to have sex with you either.

So, the quickest way to get a woman in the mood is to make her feel the ways she wants to feel when she interacts with you.

The more ways you can make her feel attracted to you, the more intense her desire will be to have sex with you. It's that simple.

Watch this video for more of an insight into how a woman's attraction for a man works!

As you will discover from the video above, you can actually CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman when you interact with her.

When you create those feelings of attraction, she will naturally get in the mood and all you need to do then is believe in your attractiveness to her and confidently proceed to sex.

If she is properly attracted to you, she will gladly, willingly and happily open herself up to have sex with you.

Most Women Are a Lot More Insecure About Their Attractiveness Than You Might Think

Many guys believe that because a woman is beautiful she is also confident about her ability to make men feel attracted to her.

However, that is often not the case.

In fact, according to a survey conducted by Dove, it seems that as much as 96% of women don't consider themselves to be beautiful.

A woman may act like she is confident, but privately she will feel insecure about how she looks and want to change a number of things about herself (e.g. nose, breasts, legs, butt, etc) before she will feel confident in her beauty.

For this reason, one of the key steps to getting a woman in the mood is to make sure that you let her know how sexy and desirable she is to you.

For example: When you first meet a woman or are on a date with her, rather than try to be nice and polite around her because you don't want to seem too pushy, let her know that you think she's sexy by saying, "I think you're sexy and I like you."

If you've successfully triggered her feelings of sexual attraction for you during the first part of your conversation together, she will feel excited to hear that you are also sexually attracted to her because she is already attracted to you.

Of course, if you say this to a woman before youâve fully triggered her feelings of sexual attraction, she will not feel excited to be hearing those words coming from you because she isn't attracted to you.

In a relationship, making your woman feel sexy is vital if you want to get her in the mood.

What often happens in relationships is that, when the initial thrill and newness wears off, a couple can easily fall into a rut.

Everyday life can intrude and itâs easy for a woman to go from being a sexy, glamorous model look-alike to being someone who is always wearing frumpy tracksuits and never does her hair or wears makeup.

To get her in the mood it is essential that you first make her feel sexy and attractive again.

[image: Getting a woman in the mood]

To do that you have to make her feel like sheâs the sexiest woman in the world to you.Â Look at her with desire; no matter how messed up her hair looks, or how unattractive her baggy tracksuit might be.

Let your eyes, body language and behavior show her that you find her sexy.

By making her feel sexy, she will naturally feel like having sex with you. All you need to do then is believe in your attractiveness to her and confidently proceed to sex.

Why Building Sexual Tension Gets a Woman in the Mood Fast

Some women are ready and willing to have sex with a guy without him having to do much to get her in the mood.

However, the majority of women need the guy they are with to turn them on, and the best way to do that is for him to build up the sexual tension between them.

Sexual tension is like an erotic dance between a man and a woman, where the man builds up her desire while interacting with her, (e.g. via flirting, body language and humor), but delays going to kissing and sex.

In this way, her desire builds up to melting point and she simply canât wait for him to release that desire inside of her.

When a guy builds up sexual tension correctly, a woman not only gets in the mood quickly, but she also feels the needs to have sex with him to release the built up tension.

It's kind of like when a man looks at porn videos of women and feels like he has to masturbate to get rid of the built up sexual tension he is feeling (i.e. the women are making him feel attracted, but there is no way to have sex with them so the tension builds up and he then releases it by masturbating).

When you build up a woman's sexual desire for you by creating sexual tension, she will feel as though she is going to explode if she doesn't have sex with you.

This same principle applies whether youâve only just met a woman, are on a date or have been in a relationship together for a long time.

On the other hand, if a guy doesnât create any sexual tension between himself and her, naturally she wonât be feeling in the mood if he suddenly decides to make a move on her.

Without Action There Will Be No Satisfaction

You can only build up sexual tension up to a point, but if you don't then take the next step and release that tension with kissing and sex, her desire will fizzle out.

A woman likes to feel sexual tension, but if she realizes that she's getting hot and flustered for nothing (because the guy is either too scared to take the next step with her, or she feels he is toying with her), she will quickly switch off.

So don't make the mistake of doing everything right to get a woman in the mood and then fail to finish what you started.

Women dream about being swept off their feet and ravished by a man, so you simply need to be confident enough to be that man.

If you can give a woman the exciting experience of triggering her feelings of sexual desire, building up the tension and then releasing it via kissing and sex, she will be all yours.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What to Do if a Girl Says She Likes You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Here's what to do if a girl says she likes you:

1. Build on Her Feelings of Sexual Attraction For You When You Interact With Her

[image: Build on her feelings of sexual attraction for you]

A girl saying that she likes a guy doesn't automatically mean she's interested in having sex or getting in a relationship with him.

For example: Sometimes a girl will say she likes a guy because:

- She thinks he's nice and she likes him as her friend.
- She is just flirting with him in a friendly, good-natured way but it doesn't mean that she's romantically or sexually interested in him.
- She's grateful for something that he's done for her (e.g. helped her with a project, run an errand for her) and she tells him she likes him because she perceives him as being a nice guy.

Regardless of a girl's reasons for saying, "I like you," she will not be interested in having sex with you or being in a relationship with you if you are not actively making her feel a lot of attraction by the way you interact with her.

A woman will feel attracted to you based on what you say, do and how you behave when you interact with her.

For example:

- Are you confident and charismatic around her, or are you nervous, insecure and self-doubting around her?
- Does your conversation style make her feel excited to be talking to you, or does she feel bored or uncomfortable?
- Does she feel feminine and girly when she's talking to you, or does she feel friendly or sisterly affection for you?
- Does she flirt with you, or is she serious and maybe even a bit cold and aloof towards you?

Basically, the more ways you can make a girl feel attracted to you when you interact with her, the more she will be interested in being your girlfriend.

Watch this video to understand how a girl's attraction for a guy actually works!

If you interact with a girl and you are displaying confidence, being charismatic, making her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity (e.g. how you think, behave, talk, move), then she is going to feel attracted to you.

As a guy, you have to actively make a girl feel attracted to you when you interact with her. You can do that by displaying the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that girls find attractive in guys (e.g. confidence, charisma, etc).

You then need to have the confidence to make a move by moving the conversation to a kiss, to sex and then into a relationship.

Just because she made the first move and told you that she likes you, don't expect her to make yet another move and try to kiss you first.

You have to believe in your ability to attract her and then make a move when the moment is right.

2. Turn Her On With Your Confidence

[image: Turn her on with your confidence]

In just the same way that you feel attracted and turned on by a woman's body and face, she will feel attracted to your confidence and belief in yourself.

So, make sure that you let this girl experience your confidence when you interact with her, rather than coming across as shy, self-doubting or insecure around her.

She has already told you that she likes you, so don't waste time second guessing yourself like other guys do.

For example: Some guys will worry and ask themselves, What if she didn't mean it? or What if I ask her out and she changes her mind? or What if she realizes I'm not as good looking or rich as other guys out there, and decides she can do better than me after all?

Like a lot of guys, he simply doesn't know that a guy can CREATE feelings of sexual attraction inside of a girl by the way he behaves and interacts with her.

He then wastes most of his life feeling as though he's not good enough for hot girls and misses out on opportunities to enjoy sex, love and relationships.

Yet, all along, he could have simply just believed in his ability to make girls feel attracted to him.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

Girls want to see that you are confident in yourself and believe in your ability to make them feel attracted when you interact with them.

If a girl says that she likes a guy and then he reacts by behaving in a nervous, shy, insecure and self-doubting way around her, she will quickly lose attraction for him.

She will realize that he doesn't even have the fundamental trait that all girls are looking for in guy; confidence.

By allowing your confidence to come through when you interact with this girl you like, not only will she be glad that she confessed to liking you, she will feel herself getting sexually attracted and liking you even more.

Confidence is not some magical thing that some guys have and some guys don't. It is simply having belief in yourself and in your abilities. Anyone can choose to be confident; it is a state of mind.

You can choose to believe in yourself or doubt yourself. You are in control of your confidence.

To be truly confident, you have to decide that you are going to believe in yourself and then stick to it.

However, be warned: Pretending that you are confident is something that a girl can see right through. A truly confident man doesn't need to put on an act of being confident. He simply believes in himself no matter what, so being insecure simply doesn't enter his mind.

He knows that the majority of girls (not all) feel much more attracted to a guy's personality traits and behaviors, rather than to the superficial things like his appearance or financial status, so he doesn't let negative thoughts about looks or money stand in his way of his success with women.

He knows that some girls only want a really good looking guy or a rich guy, but he also knows that most girls are more interested in how a guy's personality and behavior makes them feel.

So, when a girl says she likes you, enjoy it.

Feel confident about it and then focus on making her feel even more attracted to you.

3. Avoid Showing Too Much Interest Too Soon or Being Too Impressed By Her

If a girl is attractive, it will be very easy for her to attract guys for sex and a relationship.

As long as she is attractive and can make herself look sexy by the clothes she wears, her makeup, her hairstyle, etc., most guys will be interested in having sex with her.

Most girls are aware of the power of their pussy and it's not very exciting to them because they know that most guys are way too easy to impress.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

So, when a girl tells you that she likes you, she wants to experience something different from you than the usual puppy dog devotion she gets from most of the guys she meets.

For example: Sometimes, when a guy lacks experience with women, he will become so excited when a girl tells him that she likes him that he makes the mistake of coming across as being too eager.

- He might begin to follow her around like a puppy dog.
- He might begin to call her, text her or instant message her nonstop.
- He might begin to shower her with attention and gifts.
- He might run errands for her, help her out with work projects or homework, pay for everything, etc., just to please her.

However, rather than making her like him even more, this type of behavior only turns the girl off, because he is behaving like all the other guys who want to have sex with her or get in a relationship with her.

So, when a girl says that she likes you, the best way to show her that you're interested in her too, is to allow your interest to ebb and flow depending on how she behaves when she interacts with you.

For example: If she's flirty and nice to you, then you can respond by being flirty and nice back. If she is cold and aloof, you can respond by ignoring her or by walking away and talking to another attractive girl instead.

When a woman realizes that you're not like all the other guys she knows, she will be the one working hard to impress you.

4. Don't Make the Mistake of Becoming Her Friend

Some guys make the mistake of thinking that to get a woman into a relationship, they first have to become her friend.

A guy like that will believe that it's rude or ungentlemanly to rush a girl into a sexual or romantic relationship with them.

Yet, another guy will come along and kiss her the first time he meets her and then begin a sexual relationship with her. That guy will then become her boyfriend, rather than just a friend.

So, when a guy makes the classic mistake of taking things slowly, remains the perfect gentleman and never does anything to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him, her initial interest in him will eventually fade.

She will perceive his neutral behavior as a sign that he is not interested in her in a sexual way or that he lacks the all-importance confidence that she seeks in a guy.

She will stop liking him as a potential boyfriend and only see him as a friend or as another clueless guy who has a crush on her, but has no idea how to make her feel attracted to him.

This is one of the 3 things that attractive women hate about most single guys. Watch this video for more info!

If you like this girl and want to have sex with her or start a relationship with her, then stop pretending that you are just a nice, innocent friend.

There's nothing wrong with being a nice guy, but being nice to a girl is not enough to make her feel sexually attracted to you.

You have to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you and you can't do that by being a neutral nice guy who acts like he is just an innocent friend.

If you want her to be your girlfriend or lover, you have to actively make her feel attracted and turned on by every time you interact with her from now on.

5. Make Your Move or Stand the Chance of Losing Her

[image: Make a move or risk losing her]

If you don't make a move on her after making her feel attracted, she will eventually begin to wonder, What's wrong with him? Why doesn't he make a move?

If she is attracted to you and you get along, don't waste time waiting for extremely obvious signals.

Make a move by guiding her from a conversation to kiss, to sex and into a relationship with you.

If you only ever talk to her or even flirt with her, but you never escalate getting to kissing, dating and sex, then she will eventually lose interest in you.

Even if a girl told a guy that she likes him, she will still want a guy to take the lead and be the man from then on.

If a guy doesn't take the lead, she will decide that he's too insecure to be her boyfriend and she will simply wait for a more confident guy to come along who won't be afraid to make a move and take the interaction from flirting to kissing and beyond.

It's Really Up to You Now

If this was a tennis match, a girl telling you she likes you is like her having taken the first swing.

Now the ball is in your court and you have to make the next move.

Don't waste time worrying about what to do when a girl says she likes you, because she's already made this very easy for you by making the first move.

It's up to you now to take the lead by building on her attraction for you when you interact with her.

When you are certain that she feels attracted to you, either get her phone number and set up a date or get her somewhere private and move in for a first kiss.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Kind of Man Am I?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

According to a quote by Lao Tzu, “He who knows others is wise; he who knows himself is enlightened.”

So, before you can truly answer the question, “What kind of man am I?” you first have to ask, “What kind of man do I want to be?”

For example: Most guys in this world want to be a great man who is loved, respect and admired by others. However, that doesn’t mean that all men want to be famous actors, or musicians, or inventors, businessmen or wise gurus.

[image: Who am I as a man?]

To be loved, respect and admired by others, you simply need to become and be what others refer to as a real man.

Essentially, a real man is the kind of man who does great things in his life based on what he loves, values and respects the most, while also loving and respecting others.

He is successful in his chosen career, he has his pick of beautiful women and when he settles down, he is a great husband and father. He lives up to his full potential and strives to rise through the levels of life, rather than settling for a mediocre life or making excuses about why he couldn’t make it.

When it comes to deciding what kind of man he wants to be, a guy may struggle to distinguish between the characteristics of a man who is truly great and one who is not.

For example: Just because a man is a famous actor and is liked by many people, it doesn’t actually mean that he is an ideal role model for men on how to succeed in all aspects of life.

In his private life, the famous actor may be insecure and have a hard time keeping a relationship together with a woman, but women in the media will refer to him as sexy, handsome or desirable.

Guys who are asking themselves, “What kind of man am I?” and looking for role models to help them form a clearer identity as a man might see the famous actor and think, “If I was as famous as him, my life would be great. I want to be like him.”

Yet, the famous actor is probably still trying to work out what kind of man he is and hasn’t yet mastered all areas of life (e.g. relationships).

So, if you really want to know what kind of man you are, here are 5 characteristics that are the markings of a real man.

These are things that you should strive to attain and master in your own life if you haven’t already!

1. A Real Man is Confident Enough to Be His True Self

Some guys never become what is referred to as a real man because they never get clear on who they really are inside.

For example: When he interacts with women or people he meets in a social environment, he might put on an act of being an even nicer guy than he really is.

He hasn’t yet realized that people will like him and respect him more if he just comes across as real.

Deep down, he resents other people because he is so nice to them and they still overlook him, reject him or make fun of him.

[image: Putting on an act of being nicer than he actually is]

He thinks, “I’m so nice to people and they treat me like garbage. What is their problem?” because he doesn’t know that he is creating the problem by putting on an act of being even nicer than he really is.

People can sense that he is putting on an act, but he thinks that they have no idea. He thinks that is smarter than other people because he is nicer than them, but he is making a classic social mistake of faking a persona rather than being real.

If you think about the people that you respect and admire the most in this world, you will realize that they are the people who are their true self around others.

They don’t need to put on an act and are simply being who they truly are. People like that have an x-factor or charisma that is magnetically attractive and interesting to other people.

A guy who puts on an act of being even nicer than he really is (to hopefully impress people and make them like him) would rather be liked, loved and wanted for being his true self, but he is afraid to show it.

He worries that people will reject him, laugh at him or ridicule him for not being as passive and unassuming as he used to be.

He would like to dress in his own style (even if it’s a bit weird), pursue his passions (even if they’re different to what is considered the norm), and date the women he really wants.

Yet, he doesn’t feel as though he is allowed to do that because he is so concerned about what everyone else thinks—even though they don’t even care about him anyway.

He would love to be able to speak his mind and stand up for what he really believes without fear of being rejected or not liked, but he places way too much importance on what random people (who don’t even care about him) might think about him.

By pretending to be someone he’s not, he loses his natural charisma and uniqueness and simply blends into the background and yet another uninteresting guy who doesn’t believe in himself.

To be a real man, the first thing that you need to do is be confident enough to be your real self, while also being loving, considerate and respectful towards others.

The truth is, not everyone is going to like you, want to be your friend, or want to date you.

Not because you are not likeable or loveable, but that is how nature works. No guy is compatible with every woman on the planet and no woman is compatible with every guy on the planet.

Even the most popular celebrities in the world have millions of people who love them and millions of people who hate them or couldn’t care less about them.

Some celebrities can’t handle the fact that some people hate them, but savvy celebrities (e.g. Kim Kardashian) are wise enough to know that you can’t please everyone.

[image: Kim Kardashian and Kanye West: Although neither of them are perfect human beings in every way, they have become successful in life by being themselves and not listening to haters.]

Kim Kardashian and Kanye West: Although neither of them are perfect human beings in every way, they have become successful in life by being themselves and not listening to the haters.

Love her or hate her, Kim was able to remain one of the most popular women in the world for many years in a row, just by being herself.

People say, “She’s famous for doing nothing,” but the reason why she is famous is that she is actually being herself and she is doing a damn good job of it.

As for Kanye West, more people hate him than love him because of his arrogance, but he is simply living his life and being himself. He might be wrong about some of the things he says, but at least he is living his life on his own terms.

He started out developing video games and also making music for the games, before he realized that he was more interested in the music. He then spent most of his time making music and eventually became famous for it, even if many people think that his music sucks.

Although many people might hate his music, he is doing well, enjoying his life and expressing himself in his own unique way. Love him or hate him, he is being the man that he wants to be and he’s been very successful so far.

I’ve pointed out Kim and Kanye on purpose because I know that people either love them or hate them.

By watching how people react when Kim and Kanye are a topic of conversation, I’ve found that people who hate them are usually those who aren’t being themselves and are angry at the world for not letting them be successful, or angry at the opposite sex for not wanting them.

I’m not saying that I’m a huge fan of either of Kim and Kanye, but I do respect the fact that they are living their life on their own terms. They are not perfect, but neither is anyone else.

So, the question remains: What kind of man are you? Not the persona that you present to the world – the real you. Who are you really? What do you stand for? What makes you different? What do you really care about in this life?

Just think of some of the men that you admire most in life who are not actors. Can you think of any? Try to think of men that you look up to and respect.

You will find that those men are comfortable with their identity and confident enough to be themselves. They don’t need to put on an act to try and please everyone, because they know that it is impossible to be liked by everyone.

As a man, if you can be yourself and not waste anymore time pretending to be someone you’re not (e.g. acting nicer than you really are when you talk to women), you will not only be more successful with women and in life, but you will discover that loads of genuine, cool people feel drawn you to, want to be your friend, want to support you or simply want to be around you.

Additionally, rather than settling for unattractive women, you will begin to enjoy your choice of beautiful women who will love, respect and look up to you.

That’s what happens when you get clear on what kind of man you really are and have the confidence to actually be that man around other people.

2. A Real Man is Respected and Looked Up to By Others

One of the main qualities that a woman looks for in a man is someone she can respect and look up to. However, respect is not something that happens without you doing anything to create it.

To be respected and looked up to by women and other people, you have to:

- Be a man of your word: When you say that you will do something, you have to be relied on to do it; no excuses.
- Treat others with kindness and respect: You cannot be respected if you do not respect others and treat them well. Treat people well and then expect and gently demand the same respect and good treatment in return.
- Not be afraid to stand up for what you believe: Sometimes it can be difficult to stand apart from the crowd, but if you believe in your cause then be courageous enough to keep pushing forward to achieve it.
- Not whine about life like a victim: Life can be challenging sometimes. A real man knows this, so rather than complaining and whining about it, he looks for solutions to his problems and then takes action to fix the problem and then moves up to the next level of success in life.
- Not criticize or belittle others: A real man doesn't have to bring others down so that he can feel good about himself.

3. A Real Man is Clear About His Purpose in Life

[image: A real man is clear on his purpose in life]

A big part of knowing who you are as a man is to have a clear purpose and direction in life.

When a guy doesn't know what he wants in his life, then he will often just wander through life settling for whatever he can get, or whatever comes his way.

Women hate that because it lacks masculinity and seems more like what a woman would do.

Women love men who have purpose and direction in life and who will stop at nothing to achieve it, because it then allows the woman to relax into his masculine direction and simply be his loving, feminine woman.

When a guy has big dreams and ambitions and is determined to achieve them, he doesn't wait around for life to give him a handout (e.g. win the lottery, hope that a beautiful woman approaches him one day, hope that he magically gets a promotion at work, etc).

Instead, he makes things happen by having the balls to take action and go after what he really wants. He doesn't sit around complaining about how difficult life is and making up excuses for his lack of success. He makes his success happen by taking action.

A man like this is a sought after friend and lover.

Guys want to hang around him because they are either like minded and enjoy interacting with someone who has the same values as them, or if they don't, they hope that his drive, ambition and zest for life will somehow rub off on them too.

Women flock to him, because women are turned on by the idea of being with a man who is rising through the levels of life and reaching for his true potential.

A guy like that makes women feel secure, because they know that he is someone they can depend on during difficult times and rely on to be an emotionally strong man all the time, no matter what life throws at him.

When you have a definite purpose and direction in your life, your sense of identity and happiness isn't based on your friends or your woman.

You don't become needy, clingy or insecure because you don't actually need other people to make you happy.

You want and love to have other people in your life, but you would be happy with or without them, which is a very attractive and appealing to women and to friends.

So, do you know what your purpose is?

[image: Who am I? What is my purpose in life?]

What are your biggest dreams and ambitions in this life? What would you love to achieve, but you are worried you might not be able to?

What huge goals will really push you to grow and become a bigger and better man over time?

By answering those questions, you will begin to get clear on your purpose in life.

4. A Real Man Has His Choice Of Women

When a guy lacks purpose in life, most of the women he meets won't be very interested in him.

He may then begin to believe that superficial qualities like looks, money and status is what will make him attractive to women.

If he doesn't have these things, he may then settle for the kind of women he can get, rather than the beautiful women he really wants.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

On the other hand, a real man who knows what kind of man he is understands that most women are mostly attracted to men for reasons other than looks, money and status.

He understands that it's a man's personality traits and behavior that makes him attractive to most women, not what he looks like or what he has in his bank account.

Yes, it is true that some women only want a rich guy or a male model, but the majority of women are much more flexible and open about what they find attractive about men.

If you want to have your choice of women, you have to be able to trigger a woman's attraction for you for reasons other than your looks (e.g. by displaying your natural charisma, being confident, having a masculine vibe, holding up an interesting conversation, using humor to make her laugh and enjoy interacting with you).

5. A Real Man is a Good Guy, But is Not a Pushover

A real man will be good to people, be respectful and be kind, but he won't allow people to push him around, walk all over him or use him.

He will continue to be a good man, but he will stand up for himself and by being assertive and letting the person know that they are out of line or that they he would appreciate better treatment in future.

A real man knows that he can be a good guy, while also commanding and expecting respect and good treatment from others.

He knows that commanding respect doesn't make him an asshole or jerk, but instead makes him a man that others respect and admire, as long as he continues to be the good man that he is.

For example: A guy might be required to help out and work overtime to get a project finished at work.

A really nice guy will not only stay late and work longer than everyone else, he will also end up staying behind to clean up after everyone else has already gone home in the hope that it impresses them.

Yet, people will almost certainly treat him like they always have and simply rely on him to the confused guy who doesn't know how to be respected and liked by others.

[image: What kind of man do I really want to be?]

On the other hand, a normal good guy will stay late and pull his weight and when the project is finished, he will rally everyone together so that they can clean up and leave at the same time.

In a relationship, a real man knows that taking the lead in a relationship doesn't make him a domineering, controlling, arrogant boyfriend or husband.

He knows that a woman wants to be able to relax into her natural, feminine role and feel as though she can count on him to lead the way to a better life for the both of them.

She also wants to feel that she can count on her nice guy to be an emotionally strong man when the circumstances require it.

She doesn't want to have to be the strong one in the relationship and feel as though she is carrying him throughout life.

You Can Be Whatever Kind of Man You Want to Be

If you've been asking, What kind of man am I? I hope that you have now realized that the answer is to be your true self and not put on an act to try and please random people who don't even care anyway.

As long as you know yourself and are not afraid to be who you really want to be, you can be whoever you choose to be in life.

When you embrace your true self, you will exude a natural charisma and confidence that is attractive and interesting to women, to friends and co-workers.

You can accomplish whatever you want in this life if you just believe in yourself and don't stop when things get challenging.

You can have the types of women you really want if you just believe that you deserve that and then push forward and make it happen.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with

women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Does it Mean When a Woman Touches Your Arm During Conversation?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a woman touches your arm during conversation, it could mean that she is:

- Sexually attracted to you and is trying to hint that she wants you to make a move on her.
- A touchy-feely person who touches most guys on the arm, leg, shoulder, etc during a conversation.
- Very passionate about the conversation and sheâs touching your arm to emphasize her point, but doesn't mean anything sexual by it.
- From a culture that uses their hands a lot during conversation (e.g. Mediterranean, Latino, etc).
- Trying to show you that she is open to physical contact between you and her.
- A tease and is simply trying to get your hopes up, so you then treat her better and boost her self-esteem by showing her more interest.

How can you know which one of those applies to you?

In most cases, you can't because sometimes a woman will touch your arm without any sexual intentions, whereas other times it will be her way of trying to show you that she is interested.

So, rather than wasting time trying to work out if she is just being friendly or is being sexual, you simply need to focus on building up her sexual attraction for you.

Here's how it works...

A woman's sexual attraction for you will become more intense as you continue to display some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract women (e.g. being confident, charismatic, displaying a masculine vibe, making her laugh, etc.) while interacting with her.

When a Woman Touches Your Arm in a Friendly Way

If you're just having a friendly conversation with a woman and she's not displaying any other obvious feelings of attraction, then it doesn't necessarily mean that she is attracted to you simply because she touched your arm.

For example: Some women are very expressive and like to talk with their hands, and this might include touching a guy on the arm in a friendly way during conversation.

Additionally, some married women who have become a loving, caring mother at home know how soothing a touch on the arm, a hug, a pat on the back or a pat on the leg can be to someone.

She might touch most people like that because she wants people to feel good, relaxed and loved when around her, but it doesn't mean that she has any intentions of having sex with anyone other than her husband.

To know for sure if a woman's touch is suggesting that she is sexually attracted to you, she has to be showing you other signs of interest at the same time.

For example:

- She is playing with her hair, or a necklace if she's wearing one, in a girly way.
- She's giving you submissive looks by tilting her head to one side, or by dropping her chin.
- She's constantly drawing your attention to her lips by licking or biting them.
- She touches you on other parts of your body like on your leg, face, and possibly even hitting you on your butt in a playful way.

Those are very obvious signs of sexual attraction and if a woman is doing that when interacting with you, it's pretty clear that she is interested in having sex with you or at least kissing you to see how it feels.

However, regardless of whether a woman is showing any of these other signs of interest or not, it's not a foolproof way to determine whether she is actually attracted to you or not.

Don't Wait For Extremely Obvious Signals

[image: Don't wait for extremely obvious signals]

A confident woman who wants a confident boyfriend or lover will not give extremely obvious signals, because she doesn't want to make it easier for nervous, shy guys to hook up with her.

She wants to find a confident guy, so if a guy is nervous and waits too long to make a move, she will usually lose interest and then reject him when he tries to make a move.

On the other hand, a shy woman will often be too afraid to give you signals of interest because she is worried about being rejected by you or concerned that other people might think she is too easy when it comes to sex.

For example: A shy woman might touch you on the arm during conversation, but she won't necessarily do anything else to show you that she is interested. She will hope that you are getting the message and make a move, but if you don't she will either start looking for another guy or wait and hope that you eventually make a move on her.

So, instead of waiting around hoping to get a definite, â€œYes, I'm 100% interested in you. Go ahead and make a move on meâ€œ or â€œNo, I'm only being friendly when I touch your arm. Don't do anything or I will reject you and tell everyone that you hit on me,â€œ you simply need to believe in the power of attraction.

Just like you can feel a powerful attraction for a woman, she can feel a powerful, irresistible attraction for you too.

When you make her feel sexually attracted to you, she will want to have sex with you just as much (or even more) than you want to have sex with her.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

When you are interacting with a woman, she will feel an increasing amount of attraction for you as long as you display some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that are naturally attractive to women.

For example: Confidence, charisma, charm, masculine vibe, the ability to make her laugh and smile, etc.

She won't be able to stop herself from feeling attracted to you because women feel a natural attraction to guys who display those traits.

[image: When a woman touches your arm]

If you like this woman who touched your arm, all you really need to do is make her feel attracted, build up the sexual tension between you and her, and then release it via kissing and sex.

If she currently views you in a neutral way or sees you as being just a friend, her feelings for you will change if you simply start triggering her feelings of sexual attraction.

What you need to understand is that feelings can change.

For example: If you think back in your life, you might remember a time where there was a person at school, university or work that really annoyed you. You may even have hated them.

However, when they changed their behavior, attitude and communication style towards you, your feelings towards them changed as well.

You went from feeling dislike or even hate for them, to actually liking them. It's even possible that you became friends.

In the same way, when you change your behavior, attitude, conversation style and the way you interact with a woman to a way that triggers feelings of sexual attraction inside her, she will go from seeing you as being just a friend, to feeling excited about the idea of being kissed, having sex and getting into a relationship with you.

That is the power of attraction.

If You Snooze You Might Miss Your Chance With Her

[image: Friend zoned by the woman he loves]

Regardless of whether a woman touches your arm during conversation, is sending you every signal possible to get you to make a move, or is simply being friendly, if you are interested in starting a sexual relationship with her, then it's up to you to make the first move.

Most women would rather miss out on being with a guy, rather than her being the one who has to make the first move.

[image: Don't get left behind. Start making her feel attracted to you]

Here are some classic mistakes that guys make, which result in them missing out on being with a woman who actually likes them...

1. He pretends to be her friend in the hopes that it will slowly lead to sex and a relationship.

If a guy is attracted to a woman, but doesn't have the courage to actively trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him, he might make the mistake of being a nice friend to her in the hopes that the friendship will somehow lead to sex or a relationship.

Yet, unlike using the power of attraction to get instant results with women, building a friendship with a woman can take weeks, months or even years of effort.

After investing all his time in being her friend, it still doesn't guarantee that she will be sexually interested in him in any way.

Also, while he's doing the friend thing with her (e.g. being her shoulder to cry on, going shopping with her and gossiping on the phone like a girl, etc.) she could easily meet a guy who knows how to instantly trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, and has the confidence to make a move and kiss her.

She will then have sex and start a relationship with him.

Sheâs not going to stop and think, âMy friend is such a great guy. Rather than have great sex and feel really sexy and desirable with this new guy who is actually making me feel attracted, Iâm just going to sit around feeling boring, friendly feelings with my friend because he is so nice to me.

If you donât actively make a woman feel sexually attracted to you when you interact with her, she will only ever see you as a friend. She might then decide to hook up with another guy who has the ability to attract her and turn her on.

He will then start a sexual relationship with her and they will become boyfriend and girlfriend, rather than friend and friend.

To make her become his girlfriend, he didnât waste time pretending to want to be her friend.

He did it the easy way (and the way that women actually want) by making her feel attracted to him and turned on while interacting with him.

After kissing and having sex, they will then begin to discuss having a relationship and if they both want it, they will become boyfriend and girlfriend.

All of that can happen within hours or days, rather than wasting weeks, months or years trying to be a womanâs friend.

So donât make the mistake of assuming that if you become her friend she will eventually tell you that she loves you and you can then have sex with her and start a relationship.

If you want this woman to be your girlfriend or lover, simply trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you and get to a first kiss and then sex.

2. He doesnât make a move because he fears getting rejected.

It is entirely possible that if a woman touches your arm during conversation, it means that she is attracted to you.

So, if you donât make a move because you are afraid of being rejected, you will never get to experience a loving, sexual relationship with her.

Think about it this wayâ!

No one is 100% compatible with everyone they meet, so no guy can ever expect to pick up every woman he meets.

Most guys donât know that and feel as though if one woman rejects him, it means that all other women will reject him too.

Guys like that often get to a point where theyâd rather miss out on love and sex by not making a move on a woman, than get rejected and have to endure the painful the feeling of another woman not being interested in him.

A guy like this will look for reasons not to make a move on a woman. He might say, â*Iâm just not good looking enough,*â or â*Women are just not attracted to short guys like me,*â etc.

He will paint himself into a corner of insecurity and he will go through life missing out on opportunities with women (even if a woman is sending him a sign that sheâs interested in him), because he has developed a negative idea about what really appeals to women, and he fears that he will get rejected because he doesn't have those things.

Watch this video to see what I mean!

What a lot of guys don't realize is that most women (not all) place more importance on the attraction they feel for a guy's personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities than his looks.

Yes, there are some women who will only accept a tall, male model looking guy with loads of money, but most women are much more flexible and open about what they find attractive in a guy.

Essentially, when a guy believes in himself, knows what he wants and goes after it with determination, a woman will instinctively feel attracted to him.

She might go around saying, "I only want a handsome man with lots of money," but she won't be able to stop herself from feeling attracted to a confident guy who believes in himself and goes after what he wants with determination.

Yes, it is possible that you and a certain woman might not be compatible. However, if you don't try you will never know.

What Really Matters

[image: Flirting touch]

Ultimately, it doesn't matter what it means when a woman touches your hand in conversation, what matters is whether you are making her feel attracted to you and then have the confidence to make a move when the moment is right.

If what you want from her is sex, then go and get it. If what you want from her is a loving, committed relationship, then go and get that.

The choice is yours.

Just remember though: Regardless of what you want from a woman, the first thing that you must do is trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you, and then everything else will follow on naturally and easily after that.

Don't start out trying to be her friend or trying to show her that you're a nice, trustworthy guy.

Women don't care about those things before they feel attracted to you. Start with attraction and then everything else is simple and easy after that.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Be the Man: 5 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Life is so much easier when you are the kind of man that other people look up to and respect and you're also the kind of man that pretty much every woman wants.

As you go through your life as a man, you have a choice: Either accept the level that you're at now or rise up and reach for your true potential as a man.

If you do want to reach for your true potential, here are 5 examples of how to be the man around women, friends, when in a relationship, during sex and at workâ€¦!

1. How to be the man around women

[image: How to be the man around women]

To be the man around women, you need to:

- Be confident in yourself no matter how challenging a situation is.
- Relax and be calm, especially when others are panicking.
- Relax and smile when women attempt to test your confidence (e.g. by teasing you, acting cold, challenging you during conversation).
- Respect women and treat them well, but respect yourself just a little bit more.
- Make women feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity (e.g. how you think, feel, behave, talk, take action, how you use your body language, your vibe).
- Confidently take the lead, rather than expecting a woman to lead you, make moves on you or make it obvious that she wants you to lead.
- Be your true self, but always remember to respect and loving towards others.
- Be the type of guy that other people can look up to and respect.
- Love and accept women for who they are, rather than expecting women to change their behavior to suit you.
- Believe that you deserve to have the attention of affection and then simply guide women to kissing, sex and relationships with you.

When you approach your life with women in that way, you will find that most women simply accept that you are the man and go along with whatever you want.

Most guys don't realize how passive most women are when it comes to sex and dating (i.e. that most women just go along with whatever a confident guy wants).

When you see guys who have a lot of women around them, have sex with a lot of women, date multiple women at once, have hot female friends who they sometimes sleep with or have a hot girlfriend or wife, these will almost always believe that they deserve it.

[image: How to be the man that every woman wants]

It's the guy's belief that he deserves that kind of attention and affection that makes all the difference. Women simply go along with it and accept that he is the man.

When you see a guy standing on his own at a party, looking nervous around women or feeling left out, it's because he doesn't believe that he deserves the love, affection and attention of women.

Of course, he feels as though he deserves success with women when he is lying in bed at night feeling angry at women for rejecting him, but when he actually interacts with attractive women in person, he simply goes back into his shell and believes that he doesn't deserve their affection and attention.

In some cases, the guy will feel angry at women for playing hard to get and will think that women are bitches, mean and cold for not being more gentle, sensitive, loving and open with him.

Yet, that's not how it works.

If you want to be the man, you need to believe in yourself. Women aren't going to make it easy for you.

To sort out the men from the boys, most women act as though they aren't even that interested in men and simply have fun, dance, hang out with friends, go shopping and live their life.

This seems strange to guys who don't understand women because they expect women to think, behave and act like men. Yet, women are different to us.

Rather than going out and actively approaching men and trying to move in for a first kiss, most women take on a passive role and wait for confident men to approach them, turn them ON and then move in for a kiss, take her home for sex or simply get her number and follow up for a date.

Having confidence in yourself and leading the way is a big part of how to be the man around women.

However, even if you do interact with women in a confident way, they will still continue to test you (e.g. by playing hard to get, teasing you, challenging you during conversation) to see if you are confident enough to handle a woman like her.

[image: How to be the man that every woman wants]

In just the same way as men want the best looking woman, women want the most confident guy.

If you want to be the man, you've got to make sure that you have true confidence and belief in yourself.

2. How to be the man around friends

[image: How to be the man around friends]

If you want your friends to look up to you and respect you as a man, you to:

- Be the one who is emotionally stronger than everyone else.
- Love and accept everyone for who they are, while also encouraging them to be even better at times.
- Reach for your true potential as a man by pushing yourself to achieve your biggest goals and ambitions in life (this may take 10-30 years, but you need to be making progress to be someone that others look up to and respect).
- Be an inspiration to your friends by being more courageous and determined when it comes to becoming a bigger and better man in life.
- Don't try hard to impress people in the hope that they like you. Simply be an impressive man by rising up through the levels of life and reaching for your true potential as a man.
- Be yourself, rather than putting on an act to hopefully please everyone.

- Make people feel good around you, rather than always trying to get them to make you feel good by seeking compliments or by making them listening to your stories about what you've achieved, what you want to achieve and how good you are at certain things.
- Be the more alpha one who doesn't become unsettled or nervous in challenging situations.

When you have those kind of traits, you will automatically be seen as the alpha in your group (or one of the alphas in a large group e.g. work, university, different groups of friends) without having to ever ask for that role or suggest that you are.

People will simply look at you as being the man because regardless of the situation, you are always the emotionally strongest one, the loving one, the wise one and the forward-moving one.

3. How to be the man when in a relationship

Being the man in a relationship with a woman is about:

- Being emotionally stronger than her.
- Maintaining mutual respect between you and her.
- Leading the way to a better life for the both of you.
- Making her feel like a real woman.
- Always being a man of your word.
- Striving to achieve your biggest goals and ambitions in life, so she can relax into being your woman and feeling excited and proud to be in love with an awesome man like you.

When in a relationship with a woman, she will always test you to see if you are still worthy of being the man that she should submit to and look up to and respect.

Regardless of how good of a guy you are, how much money you make, how good you look and well you treat her, she will always still throw tantrums, tease you, say no to your requests and demand that you do all sorts of random things to see how much she can get away with and how much she can push you around.

Being the man in a relationship isn't about being domineering and ordering a woman to do whatever you want.

Instead, it's about maintaining a mutual love, respect and attraction for each other, while also making sure that you are the more dominant one.

Being the more dominant one doesn't mean being bossy, controlling and domineering. It's simply about being the one who takes on the more dominant role, while also being loving and respectful.

4. How to be the man when having sex

[image: How to be the man when having sex]

When having sex with a woman, she will see you as a real man when you:

- Are present in the moment, rather than worrying about your performance and being all up in your head.

- Do whatever you want with her, while also relaxed and easy-going about it.
- Give her your fearless love, attention, presence and affection rather than being afraid to show your attraction for her and simply banging away and trying to get to the point of finishing.
- Make masculine groans and noises, rather than being silent or making sounds like a woman.

You don't always have to do everything perfectly when you have sex with a woman to be seen as the man, because by nature, you are the man and she is the woman.

However, for her to look up to you, respect you and feel excited about submitting to you as her man, you need to make sure that you often display very masculine qualities in the bedroom.

For example: If you're getting to the point where you're about to finish and you are banging away at her from behind, women love it when you start to build up to that moment with very masculine groans and then let out a big, raw, unguarded groan when you finally ejaculate.

5. How to be the man at work

[image: How to be the man at work]

Being the man at work is not about bossing everyone around and trying to show people that you're more alpha than them.

Instead, it's about simply taking on the more alpha role in a relaxed manner, where you remain respectful towards other people, while also ensuring that you are assertive to let others know that you are someone who expects respect.

Just like most women are passive when it comes to dating and sex, most people in the workplace are also passive and simply allow leaders to rise up and take control.

Back when I was working in the corporate world (before leaving to run The Modern Man full time), I got promoted 3 times within 6 months, simply by taking on a more alpha mindset and assuming that I deserved to have a say, be respected and be one of the leaders.

I simply began to take more control in meeting by asking questions to lead discussions and then assumed that it was my position to begin weighing up the suggestions that people were making and then come to a decision on what was best.

People just followed along. They loved being asked questions and they loved that someone was actually listening to them and paying attention.

That's how it works.

You take the person's ideas, thoughts and opinions into account, briefly point out the positives of what they are saying and then come up with your own plan on what you think would work best.

As a result, I got pulled to the side by a manager and asked if I wanted to apply for a Team Coach position. I beat 30 other applicants for the job.

A few months later, I applied for a Team Leader position and got it and a few months later, I applied and scored the Team Manager position where I was the leader of 10 managers.

All of this happened as a result of me taking on the role of being the man. No one told me that I should be the man and believe in myself. I decided that I deserved to be the man.

Likewise, if you want to be the man, you have to decide that you deserve it too.

Being the Man That Almost Every Woman Wants

The main thing that I teach here at The Modern Man is how to be the type of man that pretty much every woman wants to be with.

This is the kind of man that women refer to as a real man.

Essentially, being a real man means that you are confident, masculine (in how you think, feel, behave, talk, move), you understand women, you have purpose in life and you know how to make a woman experience the type of love, respect and attraction that she yearns for.

When you are that type of man, it is too easy to attract and pick up women for sex and it's just as easy to keep a woman addicted to you when in a relationship.

Unlike the majority of guys who waste time trying to get women to “like” them as a person (e.g. by being really nice to her, doing favors for her, giving her loads of compliments), a real man simply talks to a woman in a normal way and she feels sexually attracted to him and then starts falling in love with him and wishing she could be with him.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

She Likes Me, But Doesn't Want a Relationship: 5 Possible Reasons Why

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Women aren't always completely clear when they reject guys, so if you've found yourself in a situation where you are saying, "She likes me, but doesn't want a relationship" here are 5 possible reasons whyâ"

1. She just wants to have casual sex with you

[image: She just wants to have casual sex with you]

These days, most peopleÂ lead fairly busy lives (e.g. work, study, maintaining friendships, staying in touch with family, exercising, relaxing, etc) and don't always have time for a full time, committed relationship.

Additionally, many women don't want to rush into settling down into a committed relationshipÂ with a guy just because she likes him and he likes her. Sometimes, she just wants to have casual sex for a while without having to get into a serious relationship.

Even though a woman won't admit it to otherÂ peopleÂ (because they mightÂ think she is slutty), she will usually be perfectly happy to have casual sex relationships for most of her late teens, 20s and even into her early 30s before she feels ready to settle down.

[image: Modern women hooking up with guys rather than rushing to settle down]

Here are some statistics to show you what I mean:

- An American survey found that the amount of men that a woman has sex with before getting marriedÂ has almost doubled from 3.7 men to 7.7 men in the last 10 years.
- An American study found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date.
- A study in the UK found that 51% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand.
- A study in Europe found that 70% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand.

A woman will stop having casual sex and fully settle down with a guy if he really is the right guy for her, but statistics show that approximately 50% of relationships break up at some point anyway, so a guy really has to know how to keep a relationship strong in the long run, otherwise it will simply fall apart over time.

I know that all too well because I got dumped by the love of my life a long time ago, before the internet had people online helping each other out.

I then became the sort of guy that a woman would never want to leave, slept with more than 250 women and I recently accepted my sexy girlfriend's marriage proposal (she was 20 and I was 35 when we met) and I'm now happily married (we've been together almost 3 years now).

So, if you have found yourself in a situation where you're saying, "She likes me, but doesn't want a relationship,"Â you should stop asking her for a relationship and simply proceed to kissing her and having sex with her, so you have begin a casual sex relationship.

When you kiss a woman, it immediately changes everything from being friendly to sexual and the doors then open to have sex.

When you have sex with a woman, the only thing left to do then is begin some kind of relationship and it's at that point (with the majority of modern women) that a relationship will begin.

However, asking a modern woman for a relationship before you've had sex with her will usually result in her saying something like, "I'm not ready for a relationship right now" or "Maybe in the future, but not now because I am busy with..." or "I really like you, but I wouldn't be able to give you what you want in a relationship."

In other words, she is saying to you, "Dude, just kiss me and have sex with me. Quit talking about a serious relationship."

So, how can you get to a first kiss with her?

Get you and her into a situation where you're either hanging out at her place or your place on the couch watching a movie, TV or having some drinks, or arrange to go out and party to have some drinks with some friends.

In either of those situations, you then need to build up her feelings of sexual attraction for you and when the moment is right (e.g. you and her are alone at the party, she is cuddling into you on the couch at home, etc), simply move in for the kiss.

If you can't work up the courage to kiss her, you can always use my trusty Goodbye Hug technique. Here's how it works...

When she is about to leave your house or when one of you is leaving the party, simply say to her, "Okay, come here and give me a goodbye hug" and then move into hug her.

Hold the hug for a couple of seconds and then pull back a little (still holding onto her, but only gently now) and look her in the eyes.

If she maintains eye contact with you and doesn't pull away, she wants you to lean in for a kiss. If she squirms, looks away or pulls away from you, she doesn't want to kiss.

As long as she gives you positive signals that she wants to kiss (the signals may only last 1-3 seconds based on how confident or shy she is), you must be confident and lean in for the kiss.

2. She's not attracted to you yet

[image: She's not attracted to you yet]

If this woman likes you, but doesn't want a relationship, it can often be her way of saying that she likes you as a person, but isn't sexually attracted to you yet.

A situation like this can happen if a guy has simply been acting really nice a woman he likes, trying to be polite, friendly and courteous to show her that he is a good, trustworthy guy.

There's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but simply acting like that around her doesn't create feelings of sexual attraction inside of her.

Watch this video to understand why

As you will discover from the video above, making her feel friendly affection towards you is not enough to make her want to have a sexual relationship with you.

If you want to have a relationship with a modern woman, you must begin by making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you. Women now select men for sex and relationships based on sexual attraction, not niceness.

To make her feel attracted to you, simply display some of the behaviors, personality traits and inner qualities that naturally attract women (e.g. be confident around her, make her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity, be charismatic, make her laugh, be a challenge for her to win over rather than handing yourself to her on a silver platter, etc).

When you make her feel attracted to you, she will then become open to having sex with you and seeing where it goes. So, from now on, you needÂ to stop trying to be her friend and trying to show her how good and trustworthy of a guy you are.

She already knows that you're a good guy.

She wants to feel sexually aroused when she talks to you, not just friendly and neutral. She wants to feel hot down there and feel like she wants to jump on you and start kissing you because you're turning her on so much.

[image: Don't get left behind. Start making her feel attracted to you]

She might be going around saying, "I don't want a relationship right now," but if she meets another guy who has the skill of being able to attract herÂ and turn herÂ on, he will almost certainly begin kissing her and having sex with her on the first night or first date.

[image: Friend zoned by the woman he loves]

So, if you don't want to lose your opportunity with her, you must switch your focus to attraction, rather than trying to convince her that you're a good guy or that you will treat her well in a relationship.

3. She prefers guys who are more of a challenge

What a lot of guys don't realize (or forget) about women is that it's very easy for a woman to attract guys for sex and a relationship.

If a woman is attractive or even decent looking, most guys will have sex with her once and many of those guys will also be interested in a relationship.

All of that happens simply based on her appearance.

She doesn't have to say or do anything else to impress the majority of guys (at least 95%) in this world because they will happily stick it in her at least once and many of those guys will also want to have a relationship with her for a while or for life.

The same rule of attraction does not apply when women select men for sex or relationships.

The majority of women (approximately 95%) will not have sex with a guy once simply based on his looks and they also won't want to have a relationship just because he looks good either.

Yes, women can feel attracted to a guy's looks, but most womenÂ place more importance on the attraction that they feel to a guy's personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities (e.g. his confidence, charisma, masculinity, humor, self-esteem, etc) than his looks.

Some women place a lot of importance on looks, but most women place more importance on how a guy's personality, behavior and inner qualities makes her feel.

This is why there is always a mismatch of expectations when men and women meet each other.

Most men are ready to have sex or try a relationship with almost any attractive or decent looking woman they meet, whereas most women interact with men in an OFF mode and need to have their attraction switched to ON based on how a guy's personality and behavior makes her feel during an interaction.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works!

Most guys don't understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works, so they interact with women and show loads of interest in her right away without triggering her feelings of attraction or making her feel as though she needs to impress him.

As a woman grows up, she quickly gets bored of how easy 95% of guys are to attract and get interested for sex.

As a result, she develops a desire to meet a guy who is a bit more of a challenge to win over. A guy who likes her and finds her attractive, but isn't completely sold on her unless she impresses him, treats him well and meets his standards.

Watch this video to learn more!

Have you been enough of a challenge for this woman you like?

Do you give her attention, compliments, treat her well and try to impress her no matter what she does or how she treats you?

4. She is worried that you would get too clingy in a relationship

If a guy really likes a girl and is thinking things like, "I don't think I could ever find another girl like her" or "She is really special. She is different than other girls. I believe that we are soul mates and meant to be together," then he will usually be coming across in a way that makes a woman put her guard up.

By observing his body language, listening to what he says to her and watching how he behaves around her, she may feel as though he is way too invested in her already and will be potentially becoming clingy, insecure, controlling and very jealous in a relationship.

There's nothing wrong with really wanting a woman and having loving feelings for her, but when a guy gets wide-eyed and has that naïve approach to relationships where he sees a woman as being the answer to all of his problems in life, a woman's guard will go up.

Instinctively, women know that a guy who lacks purpose in life and is obsessed with a woman will usually become clingy and be a nightmare to break up with (e.g. he will beg, cry and plead with her or in extreme cases, a guy might even get angry, violent or turn into a stalker who doesn't allow her to leave his life).

So, if you have been showing way too much interest in having a relationship with this woman you like, you need to relax and start focusing on making her feel sexually attracted to you.

You need to show her that you have a more balanced approach to life now (i.e. you are reaching for biggest goals and ambitions and dreams as a man and making progress), while also giving some of your time and attention to her.

If you don't approach life like a man is supposed to (i.e. your main priority is your purpose in life and a woman is your second priority), her guard will almost certainly remain up and she will be worried that you would become obsessed with her if you she got into a relationship with you.

5. She's too busy with work or university to be in a committed relationship

Some women are very career focused and purpose driven, so they prioritize their life plans as being more important than hanging out and wasting time with a boyfriend instead of working on their goals.

For example: If a woman is trying to get promoted at work and is taking work home with her to impress her boss or do an amazing job on a project, she's not going to have much time for a boyfriend who will want to see her several nights a week.

She will have time for a "friends with benefits" casual sex relationship or for a one night stand on a weekend, but she's not going to be available for a madly in love boyfriend who will want to see her 3-4 times a week.

Likewise, if a woman is still at university and is trying to get through her exams, she isn't going to want to waste time cuddling on the couch for hours, watching TV and talking about random things with a boyfriend.

She will be interested in some casual sex, but she will only want to have it with a guy who isn't going to become clingy and a lot of her time. A guy who can relax, let her do her own thing and be willing to see her whenever is the kind of guy she will sleep with, as long as he also makes her feel sexually attracted.

Note: Don't waste time trying to convince her that you are willing to see her whenever and think that it will work. If you haven't been triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you, she's not going to care about what you are willing to do, because she won't even be interested in you in that way.

If you want her to change her mind, you have to approach this correctly...

How to Change Her Mind

[image: Getting her to want sex or a relationship]

If you want to go from saying, "She likes me, but doesn't want a relationship" to "She loves me and won't stop having sex with me" you need to focus on triggering her feelings of sexual attraction and showing her that you are not going to be obsessed and clingy after you have sex with her.

Don't waste time trying to explain that you are not going to be obsessed or clingy in a relationship, because she will most-likely assume that you're simply trying to convince her to give you a chance.

Women hate to be put in a situation where a guy is essentially saying, "Give me a chance" because pretty much every guy who doesn't know how to attract her ends up acting like that.

She wants you to make her feel sexually attracted to you, have sex with her and then make her feel like she'd be lucky if she got to have a relationship with you.

She doesn't want to feel as though she'd be doing you a favor by accepting you as her boyfriend. She wants to feel lucky to be chosen by you.

Some guys think that it would be mean to treat a woman inÂ that way, but remember what I said about 95% of the guys that a woman meets in her life; they offer her no challenge and thatÂ is extremely boring and uninspiring to her.

You've got to give her what she really wants, not what you think is a nice thing to do.

When she can see that you have relaxed, have a much more balanced approach to life and most importantly â□□ are now making her feel sexually attracted and turned on when you interact with her, she will instantly begin to change how she feels about you.

As a result of feeling sexually attracted to you, sexual tension will immediately begin to build up between you and her and she will want to release that sexual tension with kissing and sex.

After you've kissed her and had sex, the dynamic between you will change (from friends to lovers) and you can then begin to talk about how often you and her should see each other.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

9 Reasons Why Women Love Men

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In today's world, it can sometimes seem as though women don't really care if they have a man or not and are perfectly happy on their own.

However, the truth is that women deeply love men and they need a man in their life to be able to experience the type of happiness that comes from the love between a man and a woman.

So, if you ever find yourself thinking that women don't really want you, need you or care to have a man in their life at all, remember these 9 points and you will understand that you are an important and essential part of a woman's life!|

1. Men make women feel girly and feminine, which makes them happy and turns them on sexually

[image: Feminine girly women]

One of the reasons why women love men is that a man's natural masculinity (i.e. how he thinks, feels, behaves, takes action) makes her feel girly in comparison to him.

The more feminine a woman feels around a man, the more sexually attracted she will feel and the happier she will be deep down.

Although modern women now take on very masculine roles in society (e.g. boss at work, leader of a country, UFC fighter, etc), deep down they still want to be able to feel feminine and girly in their private, romantic relationship with a man.

In today's world, millions of women get caught up in a career and take on a masculine attitude and way of being for much of their 20s and early 30s until they end up feeling depressed because they just don't feel like a woman anymore.

Women like this often find it difficult to attract a masculine man who is emotionally stronger than her and has the ability to make her feel girly, without her having to change who she is.

Since she has a more masculine way of being, she tends to attract feminine or neutral men, but that's not what she really wants deep down.

She wants a man who is more masculine than her, but who doesn't need her to change or be softer around him. He's so masculine that her masculine way of being is feminine compared to him.

Yet, such men usually prefer very feminine women and overlook women like her because as a masculine man, he has his choice of women, rather than having to take whatever he can get like other men (e.g. feminine men, neutral men, insecure men, nervous nice guys, etc).

When you are the type of man who can make any woman feel feminine and girly in comparison to you, it simply doesn't get any easier to pick up women.

Right now, the easiest women in the world to pick up are those who struggle to find a guy who is emotionally stronger than them and more masculine in the way that he thinks, behaves and takes action in life.

When you are the kind of man who can make a woman like her feel feminine, then you will find it extremely easy to make a feminine woman feel girly around you.

[image: Making her feel feminine]

At that point, you will have the choice of having a feminine woman, a neutral woman or a woman who has a more masculine way of being.

You literally have your choice of women and whatever turns you on the most, is yours for the taking.

So, if you ever feel as though women don't really want you, need you or care about you, what you really need to understand is that the most important thing to focus on is getting the fundamental masculine/feminine dynamic right between you and women.

When you interact with a woman, don't come across as being neutral and don't suppress your masculinity in an attempt to be nice around her.

Doing either of those things will not turn a woman on or excite her. She wants to feel and experience your masculinity, which will turn her on and make her want to be with you.

2. Men can be a boyfriend, husband, father or grandfather, which is something a woman cannot do

A very important reason why women love men is due to the fact that only a man can truly be a boyfriend, husband, father or grandfather.

When a man takes on one of those roles and is someone that she can look up to and respect, it brings a level of happiness and fulfillment to a woman that almost can't be expressed with words.

It's kind of like trying to explain the enjoyment that you get from eating your favorite food, compared to a food that you find boring and tasteless.

It might be difficult to describe the feeling you get when eating your favorite food, but you know that it's much more enjoyable than the experience you have when eating the boring, tasteless food.

The same applies when a man properly takes on the role of being a boyfriend, husband, father or grandfather.

He is someone that she can look up to and respect and he is also someone that she is attracted to and excited to be in love with.

She is happy to be with him and she loves the masculine dynamic that he adds into her life and to those lives of those around them.

[image: Men make women feel feminine, which turns them on]

Only a man can bring that pure, masculine dynamic into a situation, which is one of the reasons why women not only love men, but need a man in their life.

Sometimes, you will hear female pop singers and celebrities talking about how they don't need a man (e.g. remember that old song from Beyonce about not needing a man?), but those same women will change within a year or two and end up falling madly in love with a man and saying how happy they are with him.

So, if you ever hear women talking about not needing a man and saying that they are perfectly fine on their own, just smile with the understanding that she will change soon enough.

If she meets a man who makes her feminine and who she can look up to and respect, she's not going to ignore him and keep him out of her life based on her old comments about not needing a man.

He is going to make her feel that only a masculine man can make a woman feel and she's going to want all of that for herself, before another woman comes along and takes him.

3. Men are proud to provide for a woman, whereas women hate that role

Throughout human history, men have always been the gender who provided food, shelter and protection for women.

When a man is able to accomplish this for a woman or for his family, he feels proud and everyone looks up to him and respects him.

However, that is not a role that 99% of women want to take on.

Almost all women don't want to find themselves in a situation where a man is unable to provide for her and simply sits around at home while she goes out into the world and takes on a masculine role.

Although some women won't admit this when asked, what they really want is to be able to relax into being a feminine woman who is being provided for and protected by a masculine man.

When you are the sort of guy who makes a woman feel as though you have the potential to be a provider, a switch will be flicked inside of her and she will naturally feel drawn to you.

However, it isn't something that she wants you to come out and tell her. She wants to be able to discover that on her own as she gets to know you.

A mistake that some guys make when meeting women is to talk about their work achievements, business goals or expensive material possessions in the hopes that will impress a woman because he could provide for her.

However, that is not how pick up works.

A woman doesn't want to hear about those sorts of things initially because she doesn't want to feel as though she is being bought by a guy.

She wants to be able to feel a natural attraction for the guy's personality, behavior and inner qualities (e.g. his confidence, charisma, ability to make her laugh, making her feel feminine in comparison to his masculinity, etc).

After she feels attracted to him, she will then become interested in the type of guy he is and if he has long term potential.

When a woman finds out that you are the sort of guy who is rising through the levels of life and reaching for your true potential as a man, she will naturally want to align herself with you.

You do not have to already be successful to make her feel that way.

You simply have to be on your way to achieving success in life, so the woman can feel safe that she will be with a man who could potentially provide for her and any offspring in future.

This will then flick the "Mother Switch" in her mind where she begins to think about breeding with you to start a family.

It doesn't matter if she is 20, 30 or even 50 – the same type of attraction switch is flicked when a woman meets a guy who seems to have the capability of being a provider.

Even if she doesn't want children right now or is too old to have children, a woman still wants to align herself with a guy who is happy to take on the provider role.

A man's willingness to take on the role of provider allows a woman to relax into being a feminine woman, where she doesn't have to think, feel, act and behave like a man in the world in order to provide for herself or others.

She has a man who is willing to take on that role and although he might not achieve success for 10 or more years, she will stick with him if he is capable of becoming successful one day.

This is something that women will rarely admit to your face, but it's how nature works and what women really respond to.

4. Men are purpose driven, which matches well with love-driven women

Another thing that women love about men is how a man will have purpose in life based on achieving his biggest goals, dreams and ambitions.

For example: A man might want to be an elite athlete, be a high ranking official in the armed forces to make a difference for his country or the world, become a mayor of a town or city to make a difference, create a business that changes the world, solve problems that will help lots of people, etc.

This matches up with the typical nature of feminine women, which is for her to be more focused on love and relationships.

Although most women won't admit this to your face, she would prefer to be able to simply focus on being in love with her man and enjoying the relationship with him, their family, extended family and friends.

[image: Most women just want to be in love]

Some women are very career focused and they of course do an excellent job, but deep down, most women really want to be able to feel free to focus more on love and relationships.

They want to fall madly in love with a guy and then relax into being his woman, rather than having to continue taking on a more masculine role in life (e.g. having big career goals, trying to fix problems and change the world).

If you look at the women who are very career focused and place less importance on love and relationships, you will notice that they lack femininity, appear stressed and depressed and seem to take on traditionally masculine behaviors and gestures.

There's nothing wrong with a woman taking on a career and making a difference in the world, but deep down, all women love a man who has the ability to make her want to be a feminine woman who is more focused on love and relationships.

5. Men make women feel safe

It's a fact of nature that men are usually physically stronger than women.

Men are usually braver and more willing to put themselves in harms way to protect their loved ones. On the other hand, most women tend to cry, cower and scream out for help when they are in danger, in the hope that someone else will protect them.

Of course, there are some women are very protective and strong, but generally speaking, men have always been the ones who have protected women and the people around them.

This is another thing that makes a woman feel feminine in comparison to a man, which makes her love him all the more.

Making a woman feel safe is not about going around beating up other men or being aggressive.

It's simply about being emotionally tough enough to handle situations that come your way, rather than making her feel as though she needs to protect you.

6. Men make women laugh

[image: Men make women laugh]

When women are asked what they find most attractive in a guy, a sense of humor always ranks highest along with confidence.

What a "sense of humor" really means is that she is attracted to a guy who makes her laugh, giggle and feel good around him.

Life can often get very challenging at times and it's very easy for people to feel depressed or stressed and start to hate the idea of living at all.

However, one of the great things about men is our emotional strength in challenging moments, where we are able to turn a situation into something to laugh or smile about, rather than letting it bring us down.

When a woman meets a man who is able to make her laugh and smile (especially when she is being cold around him or is in a bad mood), she will appreciate him so much more because his type of personality is going to be an asset to her for life.

His sense of humor will make it easier to keep a relationship together, it will be easier to remain happy and life's going to feel a whole lot better when he is there to bring a smile to her face and have a laugh with her.

7. Men give a woman's life more meaning

[image: Men give a woman's life more meaning]

If a woman isn't career driven or doesn't have much of a purpose, her life isn't going to have a lot of meaning unless she is love with a man and has a great relationship with him.

Since most women are not purpose driven and don't want to spend their life focused on a career, their relevance in this world and their sense of identity comes from being in a relationship or marriage with a man.

The man is able to make her become his girlfriend, fiancée and then wife and he's then able to turn her into a mother.

This makes her feel as though her life has purpose and meaning, rather than her having to search for purpose and meaning by following a career path or trying to change the world like men do.

8. Men are dependable

[image: Most women change their mind like the weather, whereas most men are much more dependable and reliable]

Unlike women who tend to change their mind like the weather and go back on promises simply based on not feeling the same way anymore, men are much more dependable and reliable in the long run. When a man makes a decision, he usually makes that decision based on a long-term perspective of what he is trying to achieve from a particular situation.

This is something that women love about men because, regardless of whether a woman changes her mind every second, a man will keep pushing forward and lead himself, her and others to a better life.

When confused guys follow the direction of women, they often find themselves going around in circles and getting frustrated at women for changing their mind all the time.

However, real men know that women don't want to take the lead in a relationship (not in business or politics. I'm talking about relationships).

Although a woman wants her man to respect her and take her opinion into account, she ultimately wants the man to be the one who leads the way to a better life and doesn't get distracted by her constant change in mood or goals.

9. Men have created much of the technology that has brought us to this point as a human race

If it weren't for men, we probably wouldn't have computers, smart phones, cars, planes and other cool inventions that have transformed the way humans live and interact.

This doesn't mean that women haven't played an important role in society, but it is simply to point out the fact that men have always played a very special role in the development of the human race.

Since most men are more purpose-driven than women are and have a long-term perspective about achieving things and don't get distracted like most women do, amazing breakthroughs have been made and revolutionary technologies have changed the world.

Of course, in today's world, women have entered the workforce and are making huge contributions to humanity and are changing the world in their own unique way.

Women have brought a lot more tolerance, love and understanding to the world it has definitely made the world a better man.

However, the fact that is men have created most of the technology and have taken on the lion's share of the work to get humanity to this point.

This is something that women instinctively love about men who are relentless in their efforts to make this world a better place for all.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Date a Friend: 6 Things You Must Do

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Here is what you need to know about how to date a friendâ€¦!

1. Don't tell her that you have feelings for her, unless she really needs you to say it first

[image: Only tell her that you have feelings if she is shy]

Almost every woman hates it when a guy blurts out that he has "feelings" for her and expects her to then say something like, "Wow, I have feelings for you too. Let's start a relationship!"

Thatâ€¦s not how a woman wants a relationship to begin, regardless of whether or not you have been friends with her for quite a while.

The only time when a woman will need you to tell her that you have feelings for her, is when she is a shy, insecure woman who doesn't think that she is good enough for a guy like you.

When you tell her that you have feelings for her, she will then feel more confident around you and be more willing to reveal her feelings for you.

However, for all other types of women, she will want you to make her feel sexually attracted to you and then confidently guide her to a first and then sex.

After the kiss and sex has taken place, both of you will then naturally begin to talk about how you feel and discuss the possibility of having a relationship.

In most cases, a woman wants to be able to be able to say those things to you first.

[image: Having sex with a friend]

She wants to be feeling so attracted to you and be so excited that you and her have finally hooked up, that she then says something like, "I really like youâ€¦I've liked you all along" or "I'm so excited that this is happening. I've dreamed of this day" and so on.

She doesn't want you to steal that moment from her by sharing all your feelings like a woman, where you explain how you've been tossing and turning in bed at night, thinking about her constantly and hoping that a day would come where you'd finally get to kiss her.

Let her say those kinds of things first, so she can feel as though she is the lucky one who is getting to hook up with you. Let her feel like a lovesick woman who has finally snagged the man of her dreams.

Let her blurt out all sorts of sweet things based on the rush of feelings that she is experiencing now that she has finally kissed you and had sex with you.

Don't take that away from her. Relax and let her be very feminine and girly in comparison to your masculinity.

She will love you and appreciate you so much more if you allow her to have that kind of experience, rather than stealing it away from her by talking like a woman or being too emotionally sensitive or clingy.

After she has poured her heart out to you or at least said a bunch of lovely dovey things, you are then free to say some things to her, such as:

- You're twice as beautiful when you smile at me like that.
- It's nice being this close. It feels good.
- (Joking) Why didn't you kiss me before? I didn't know you were so shy.
- (Joking) I'm glad we did this. Now we have to pretend that it never happened.

One of the main reasons why you should let a woman lead the way with emotional talk is that many women hate it when a guy immediately falls madly in love with them and wants a relationship or marriage after sex.

If your friend is an attractive woman, then she's usually going to prefer a guy who is more of a challenge to win over.

Here's whyâ◻!

As long as your friend feels like you are a worthy challenge for her to win over (i.e. she feels sexually attracted to you, she looks up to and respects you as a guy, she knows that other women want to or would want to be with you), then she is going to be excited to get a chance with you.

If you watch the video above, you will understand why most women don't want to find themselves in a situation where a guy wants her much more than she wants him.

There's nothing wrong with showing your sexual interest in her before you have sex, but leave all the lovely dovey stuff for after sex and preferably after she has begun saying it to you.

2. Trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you

[image: Trigger your friend's feelings of sexual attraction for you]

One of the most important parts of understanding how to date a friend, is to get clear on the fact that you need to trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction in you before a sexual relationship will begin.

If you are good friends with this woman and you get along well, it doesn't automatically mean that she will want to have sex with you, because a woman's attraction for a man works differently than a man's attraction for a woman.

For example: If a woman is physically attractive, most men will be willing to have sex with her instantly, simply based on how she looks.

Most men won't even care what her personality is like or if there will be a possibility for a relationship after sex and will simply be interested in having sex with her based on how much attraction they feel for her physical appearance.

This is why men have always masturbated to porn and visual images of women, because a man's attraction for a woman is instant and is mostly based on her looks.

Although a woman can feel attraction for a man's physical appearance, it's almost always not enough for a woman to be willing to have sex with a guy.

Most women are more attracted a man's personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe that makes her feel feminine and girly in comparison, ability to make her laugh, etc) than his looks.

[image: Flirting with a friend]

This is why most women have to first interact with a guy to be able to feel the type of attraction they need to be willing to have sex.

So, if you want to start dating this friend that you like, you need to make sure that you are actively triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you, rather than it only being about you feeling attracted to her and her feeling like a friend around you.

If she only feels like a friend around you because you're not really saying or doing anything to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, then she will most-likely reject you when you try to kiss her, ask her out or start dating her.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to make your friend want more than just a friendship with you!

As you will discover from the video above, your friend can begin to have "feelings" for you if you simply start creating feelings of attraction inside of her.

That isn't going to happen if you just act like an innocent friend around her. You have to focus on saying and doing the types of things that will make her feel attracted and aroused by you.

If you're not willing to do that, she will usually just continue to look at you as a friend and will remain open to meeting other guys who actually make her feel attracted.

3. Stop placing yourself in the friend zone

One of the funniest things about the friend zone is that most guys don't realize that they place themselves in it.

If a guy knows that he can naturally attract women by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that women find attractive (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, ability to make her laugh and feel girly around him, etc), then he won't place himself in the friend zone by thinking that a woman only likes him as a friend.

Rather than hoping that he will grow on a woman by being a friend and eventually get a chance with her one day, he knows that a woman will instantly experience feelings of sexual attraction for him and will want more than just a friendship with him.

[image: How to date a friend you like]

Based on the confidence he has in his ability to make her feel attracted to him, he simply takes on the role of a potential lover or boyfriend (i.e. he feels free to hug her, touch her, he moves in for a first kiss, he asks her out on a date, he has sex with her, etc).

So, if you want to date this friend you like, you must ensure that you don't doubt your ability to create feelings of sexual attraction inside of her.

Don't wait around hoping that she suddenly feels attracted to you because you're such a good, decent guy. That's not how it works.

A woman's sexual attraction is triggered when a man displays certain personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities.

Once that attraction is there, the man then needs to believe in himself and move things forward to a kiss, sex and into a relationship, rather than placing himself in the friend zone and hoping that the woman makes the first move.

Here's the thingâ€¦!

Most women are passive when it comes to dating. What I mean by that is: Women tend to just go along with whatever a confident guy wants to do.

For example: If a woman meets a confident guy and he asks for her number, tells him to join him at the bar for a drink or asks her out on a date, she will usually just say, "Umm, okay" or "Yes, that sounds good" and go along with it.

That is the role that women refer to play in the dating scene. Women prefer to be guided from conversation to kiss to sex and into a relationship, rather than having to take on that leading role themselves.

Being passive and allowing a confident guy to lead her, allows a woman to feel feminine and girly in comparison to the man's masculine approach, which is a turn on for her.

If you place yourself in the friend zone, a woman will rarely, if ever say something like, "Hey â€¦ stop placing yourself in the friend zone. Touch me. Start kissing me. Let's go home and have sex!"

In most cases, she will simply be passive and accept that you lack confidence in your attractiveness to her and may also lack the maturity to take on the leading role as the man.

4. Build up some sexual tension with flirting

[image: Flirt with her to build up sexual tension]

Sexual tension occurs when a man and a woman are attracted to each other, but there are things getting in the way of them kissing and having sex.

For example: If you and a woman work together and it's seen as wrong or unprofessional for employees to hook up with each other and have relationships.

Another example is when you're talking to a woman who is attracted to you, but you're in a group of friends and you can't show much interest in each other because you have to keep it discreet for now.

You can also build up sexual tension between you and your friend by flirting with and making her feel attracted to you in places/environments/situations where it's not possible to start kissing and having sex.

For example: If you and her are eating lunch together at a cafÃ© or restaurant, you can flirt with her and get her laughing to make her feel attracted to you.

Wait until she starts eating some of her food and then smile and point to the side of her mouth and say, "Oh, you have some food there."

When she finishes wiping it off (there doesn't have to be any food there and she will still wipe/check), you can then point to her chin and say, "Oh, you have some there too."

When she tries to clear the non-existent food off her chin, you can begin to smile and laugh a little and say, "You've got something on your forehead as well."

She will then feel attracted to how you are making her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity, how you're making her laugh and also to your confidence.

When she has those sexual feelings for you, but is in a place where it's not possible to start kissing and having sex (i.e. at the café or restaurant), it will build up sexual tension between you and her.

5. Release the sexual tension with kissing and sex

[image: Having sex with your friend]

The best part about sexual tension is how good it feels for both of you when you release it with kissing and sex.

However, if you keep building up sexual tension and never release it, what happens is that the woman feels aroused and wants to release it with you or any other guy who can make her feel attracted and confidently move in for a kiss.

[image: Having sex with your friend]

So, if you build up sexual tension, you then need to allow her to release that with you, otherwise she will be in an aroused state and you may miss your chance with her if a confident guy comes along and makes a move.

6. Relax and let the new relationship unfold at its own pace

[image: Allow the relationship to unfold at its own pace]

When you begin to date a friend, the relationship may immediately become a whirlwind romance where you both spend loads of time with each other and fall madly in love.

You may immediately begin to announce your relationship to friends, talk about moving in together, go on holidays and even discuss the possibility of marriage.

Yet, that isn't going to happen in all friendships that transition to a sexual relationship.

Sometimes, a woman will want to keep it secret for a while (e.g. if you work together, have mutual friends, etc) to see if she has enough feelings for you to actually get into a serious, committed relationship.

So, after you get to kissing and sex, just let her know that you and her don't have to rush to decide what to do next.

Let her know that you are happy to allow it to unfold at its own pace and see what happens, but do reassure her that you like her, find her incredibly sexy and will still respect her and treat her well whatever happens between you.

When she hears that, the ball will be in her court and if she does have feelings for you, she will either begin acting like a girlfriend (e.g. calling you all the time, wanting to have sex with you, getting jealous about other women, etc) and may even straight out ask if you want a serious relationship with her.

If she does ask for a serious relationship, let her know that you do like her and are happy to see where it goes.

Let her know that both of you will know whether or not the relationship should get serious and she should just follow her heart and let that guide her to what she wants with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Become a Ladies Man: 7 Things You Need to Do

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Some guys want to get one girlfriend and settle down, or find a wife, get married and never hook up with any other women ever again.

That's completely fine if a guy wants to do that, but it's also completely fine if a guy wants to be a ladies man.

In today's world, sex is no longer taboo and both men and women are free to have sex with each other before marriage or without even ever getting married.

[image: How to become a ladies man]

It's now more acceptable than ever to be a ladies man, especially when women are so carefree about casual sex and relationships.

For example:

- An American study found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date.
- A study in the UK found that 51% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand.
- A study in Europe found that 70% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand.
- An American survey found that the amount of men that a woman has sex with before marriage has almost doubled in the last 10 years from 3.7 to 7.7.

So, how can you get in on the action?

How can you be the sort of modern man who is not only loved and wanted by women, but also really enjoys spending time with women, flirting with them and enjoying sex and relationships with them?

The answer is to become what people refer to as a ladies man. Here is the dictionary definition of the term.

Ladies man (noun): A man who the ladies love, respect and want to have sex with. A man who enjoys flirting with women and enjoying sexual, romantic relationships with women.

As you can see from the dictionary definition above, being a ladies man doesn't mean that you are sleazy, take advantage of women or only care about sex.

It's actually a lot classier and cooler than that.

So, here are 7 things that you need to do if you want to become a ladies manâ|

1. Have the confidence to approach and interact with women that you find attractive

[image: Ladies men are not afraid to approach women]

Most guys don't have the confidence to approach women that they find attractive, which is actually a huge opportunity for you and other ladies men.

Attractive women rarely get approached by good guys who are confident and who can be normal around a woman like her.

If a woman is attractive, most of the guys who approach her are too nervous, drunk or are being too sleazy with their approach.

However, that's not what a ladies man does.

A true ladies man will approach an attractive woman with an easy-going confidence, which will allow his natural and unique charisma to come through.

She will feel attracted to his confidence and charisma and she will love the fact that she's finally being approached by a guy who doesn't need to put on an act of being nicer, tougher or cooler than he actually is.

He's simply being his normal self and letting his confidence bring his natural charisma to the forefront, which is refreshing, attractive and calming for a woman to be around.

So, how about you? Do you have the confidence to approach women that you find attractive, or do you tend to chicken out when it comes to that moment where you want to approach?

Do you put on an act of being an even nicer guy than you really are, or are you able to be confident, normal and naturally charismatic when you interact with beautiful women?

Do you tend to only approach and talk to women who are average looking or unattractive, because you are worried about getting rejected by attractive women?

Have you tried approaching attractive women before, but they haven't responded well to you?

Whatever the case is for you, here is how you can begin building up the confidence to approach women that you find attractive!

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of direct control over how much or little confidence you have in life.

From this day onwards, you are going to use your powerful mind to become more confident, or you aren't. The choice is yours.

2. Be able to spark a woman's attraction for you when you interact with her in person

[image: Ladies men]

This is the most important skill that you will ever develop as a man in terms of your level of success with women.

If you don't know how to make women feel attracted to you when you talk to them and interact with them in person, then there is no point approaching and talking to women at all because they simply won't be interested in anything sexual with you.

If you don't have the ability to attract women, but you are a good guy, then women may like you as a friend or speak to you politely, but she is going to have little to no sexual interest in you at all.

So, how can you make women feel attracted to you?

Essentially, you need to display some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract and arouse women.

I teach more than 100 traits in my programs here at The Modern Man, but some examples are:

Confidence, charisma, humor, having a masculine vibe that makes her feel girly and feminine in comparison to you, etc.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to become a true ladies man!|

As you will discover from the video above, you can actually CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman.

You don't have to sit around waiting and hoping that women like you because you are wearing a nice shirt, working in a great job or driving a nice car.

You can get a woman NOW by creating feelings of attraction inside of her. That is what a true ladies man does.

3. Talk to her in a way that makes her fall in love with you and want to have sex with you

In the same way that most guys are afraid to approach attractive women, most guys also don't know how to talk to attractive women in way that makes the woman feel attracted and turned on.

This is a huge opportunity for you.

Most of the guys that an attractive woman talks to will make her feel uncomfortable, bored and flat.

She will know that the guy likes her and is hoping to "get a chance" with her, but he's not saying or doing anything to make her feel attracted and aroused during the conversation.

Watch this video to understand where guys go wrong and what you should do instead if you want to become a ladies man!|

As you will discover from the video above, most women are bored and annoyed at how clueless most guys are about how to attract and turn women on.

It's very easy for an attractive woman to get a guy to want to have sex with her, because pretty much every guy would have sex with an attractive woman at least once regardless of what she said during a conversation.

Yet, that's not how it works when women choose a guy for sex.

Most women (not all) are looking to feel attracted and aroused by a guy's inner qualities, personality traits and behaviors because that is what is most important to them.

4. Be charming, but don't be too nice

[image: Be charming, but don't be too nice]

If you want to be a well-respected ladies man amongst family, friends and coworkers, it's important that you are a charming ladies man rather than an arrogant ladies man.

Being charming essentially means that you make a woman feel attracted to you (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, getting them laughing, making them feel feminine around you, etc) and you also treat them nicely (e.g. give compliments, be courteous, be a bit of a gentleman at times, etc).

However, just being nice to a woman on its own is not enough to mark you out as a charming guy. If you are simply being nice to women, giving them compliments and treating them well, then you will be what is referred to as a nice guy.

Nice guys and charming guys are different.

You have to get clear on this.

Being charming means that you first spark a woman's attraction for you and make her feel aroused by the way that you are interacting with her and then you also treat her nicely.

It's not just about being nice on its own.

Watch this video to understand why just being nice isn't enough to make a woman want to have a sexual relationship with you!

Being nice to women is the right thing to do, but just make sure that you start out by making a woman feel attracted to you first.

If a woman isn't attracted to you and you are being nice to her, she isn't going to see you as being a charming guy.

Instead, she will simply label you as a typical nice guy who is clueless about what women really want.

5. Believe in yourself

[image: Ladies man with two women]

The main difference between a ladies man and a guy who will fail to become a ladies man is self-belief.

No doubt, you will have seen guys who are really good with women, but they aren't good looking, they work in a normal or average and don't really seem to have anything special about them at all.

Yet, what you will notice if you pay attention from now on, is that these guys have one thing in common: Self-belief.

They feel worthy of the attention, affection and desire of women. They believe that they deserve that from women.

Whenever I've coached guys who are failing at picking up women, I always find that one of the main things they are missing is self-belief.

For example: A guy might be good looking, have really great fashion sense, work in a great job, be tall and drive a nice car, but he simply doesn't believe in him and therefore can never be a true ladies man.

For guys like that, it is very easy for them to instantly transition to being a ladies man because all they need to do is start to believe in themselves and many women will find him attractive.

Yet, for guys like me who aren't good looking or tall, we have to make up for our lack of physical attractiveness by being attractive in other ways (i.e. by displaying some of the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract and arouse women).

Of course, some women out there will only accept a good looking, tall guy with loads of money, but the majority of women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in guys.

This is why you will see some guys who are ladies men, but they don't seem to fit the stereotype (e.g. he might have bad teeth, be bald, short, skinny, overweight, working in a crappy or average job, etc). How do those guys live the life of a ladies man without being good looking, rich and tall? Simple.

If he knows how to attract women by displaying the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities that naturally attract and arouse women and he also has self-belief, then most women are going to feel more than enough attraction for him to want sex and a relationship.

As a result, he can be just as successful with women as a good looking, rich, tall guy can.

6. Smile, but don't be a softie

When guys are trying to become more confident with women, they will sometimes make the mistake of putting on an act of being indifferent and not really care about what women think or if women are actually interested in them.

In cases like that, a guy will often stop himself from smiling and looking happy and will instead try to appear tough and too cool to care about women or anyone else in a social environment.

This can then result in a guy going into his shell because he is spending way too much time lost in his thoughts, rather than actually being present in the moment and enjoying interactions with women and other people.

Yet, that is not what a ladies man does.

A true ladies man is allowed to be aloof and indifferent towards people if he wants to, but if he is going to charm the ladies, then he is going to be using his confident, charismatic smile as one of his weapons.

When a guy confidently smiles and interacts with women while maintaining his self-belief (i.e. that he is worthy of women), what happens is that he begins to display his unique charisma, which then makes women feel attracted to him.

You have a unique charisma that is unlike anyone else on Earth, so don't hide that behind and act of being too cool for everyone else or pretending like you don't even care to be in a particular situation.

Be there, believe in yourself and smile if you want to. However, don't smile so much that you come across as a soft, happy-go-lucky, naïve guy who is simply too nice and needs to grow some balls.

Women do like good guys, but they don't like guys who are too nice to the point where the woman feels like she is more masculine than he is.

7. Don't give up if you make a mistake or don't get an end result immediately

Every guy starts out at a slightly different level when it comes to his ability to attract women and be a ladies man.

However, what separates the winners from the losers is the persistence and determination to succeed no matter what.

This is the same in all areas of life, where people who are losers tend to give up when they encounter challenges and obstacles and they then conclude that it's just all too difficult and that they could never do it.

On the other hand, people who are winners understand that there will always be challenges and obstacles on the way to higher levels of success in life.

The same principle of success in life applies to success with women.

If you are aiming to become more successful with women than you are now and reach higher levels of success (e.g. have sex and relationships with attractive women), then you are going to encounter challenges and obstacles on your way to achieving it.

If you are not willing to keep going, keep learning and keep growing, then you're not going to get to that end result and will simply give up when you reach the end of the easy part of the process.

However, if you are wise enough to know that a person will always encounter new challenges and obstacles when they are reaching for higher levels of success in life, you're going to be prepared to keep going when you make a mistake or don't get an end result in a certain situation with a woman.

You're going to know that you simply need to learn more or practice more and you will then get the result the next time or the time after that.

Some guys aren't willing to do that and only want a result the first time that they try something, but that is a loser mindset.

True winners in life are those who understand that you have to keep pushing past the point where most people give up and you will then reach true success.

The Best Part About Being a Ladies Man

When you do get to the point where you are a ladies man, picking up women becomes extremely easy, simple and consistent.

Personally speaking, I still feel amazed at how easy it is to attract and pick up women compared to how much I used to struggle in the past when I had no idea how to attract women.

In the past, I would try to talk to women and get them to like me because I am a good guy and I would hope that they'd give me a chance because of that.

Yet, just being a good guy is not enough for a woman to want to get into a sexual relationship with you.

Women want to be able to feel sexually attracted to you and feel lucky to be getting a chance with you, rather than having to give you a chance to be with them.

When you get to the point where you effortlessly make a woman feel lucky to be getting a chance with an awesome guy like you, you will realize how easy and simple it is to pick up most of the women that you meet.

Most women put on an act of being really difficult to pick up, but in reality, they are extremely easy to pick up when you are what is referred to as a ladies man.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Do Women Hate Men?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Have you ever heard women saying any of the following things?

- I hate men, they're all a bunch of assholes.
- Men are pigs who are only interested in sex.
- I don't need a man. I can do everything on my own just fine.
- Anything that a man can do a woman can do better.
- Men don't know how to treat a woman like a lady anymore.
- Men are too nice and need to grow some balls.
- Men should be more sensitive, show emotion and cry.
- Men should stop being so sensitive, stop crying and grow some balls.
- I hate men because they don't understand what we women really want.

If you've ever heard women say those sorts of things about men, you might have then asked yourself something like, "Why do women hate men?" or "Why are women so pissed off at men these days?"

[image: Why do women hate men and reject them?]

Yet, do most women actually hate men or are you simply focussing on a small minority of women who have a problem with certain types of men for their own reasons?

Likewise, do most men hate women or is there simply a minority of confused men who feel angry at women for things that could easily be cleared up if they simply understood where women are coming from when they reject or dump men?

To clear up the confusion, I'm going explain this from both the male and female point of view, so you can truly understand that most women do not hate men and for those women who do, it's usually the woman's fault or it is due to the man making a classic mistake that annoys a lot of women.

When the Hatred is the Woman's Fault

[image: When the hatred is the woman's fault]

If a woman goes through life thinking that all men are assholes, can't be trusted, are only interested in sex and don't know how to treat a woman like a lady, then that is her mistake and it's her fault for thinking that way.

A woman who feels that way has most likely been dumped by men that she loved and cared for, been treated badly in a relationship, cheated on or has been used for sex by men who weren't truly interested in her and just wanted a bit of quick action.

She may have experienced that several times in a row and then come to the conclusion that all men must be like that.

Yet, as you would know, she is wrong.

You are most-likely a good guy who has good intentions with women, wants to treat them well and you simply want women to appreciate you because of that.

Yet, regardless of how good of a man you are, man hating women are usually going to place you in the same category of men who can't be trusted. She will assume that you are being nice to her now, but you will probably end up being an asshole later on just like other guys have been towards her.

[image: Man haters]

That isn't your fault, but hers.

She is the one who is looking at men with hatred because of what she has experienced.

Even when a woman like her meets a really good, decent man, she will often maintain a deep, underlying hatred for him and all other men because of what she has experienced in the past, which will then affect how the relationship plays out.

[image: When the hatred is the woman's fault]

For example: If she was cheated on or dumped by a guy that she really loved in the past, she may seek to get revenge on a good man by getting him into a relationship, making him fall madly in love with her and then cheating on him and dumping him.

This will be her twisted way to get revenge on men in general and of course, against the man who once cheated on her and then dumped her despite the fact that she had loved him so much and was completely committed to the relationship.

Her hatred for men is not your fault as a man, but if you are going to be the bigger person in that kind of situation, what you need to do is have sympathy for her because she obviously has reasons for feeling that way.

Understand that she could actually be a great woman who loves and trusts men, but she has had some bad experiences in the past, which have led her to think, feel and behave in that way.

It's not her fault that she had those experiences in the past, but it is her fault for continuing to hold hatred towards men when her hatred is based on beliefs that are simply not true.

It's not your fault that she is continuing to go through life hating men and thinking that all men are going to cheat on her and dump her, but what you can do is come from a place of love and understanding where you feel sorry for the unhappy place that she is currently stuck at in life.

When the Hatred is the Man's Fault

[image: I've been a great friend to her for months, but she doesn't want to have sex with me. Bitch!]

The most common type of guy who will ask the question, "Why do women hate men?" is a guy who is a really good, honest, genuine man who wants to help women, take care of them, protect them and treat them really nicely.

Yet, despite his gentlemanly approach and his utmost respect for women, he doesn't seem to get the same respect and appreciation back from women in return. They might like him as a friend or take advantage of his kindness, but they usually don't want anything to do with him sexually or romantically.

Why? It is because women are all bitches who hate nice guys who treat them well?

No.

The main reason why nice guys find themselves getting rejected and overlooked by women is that they expecting a woman to want to have sex or a relationship with them, simply based on being nice to her.

[image: What if I told you that being nice to a woman doesn't obligate her to be romantically interested in you?]

Most guys don't actually know how to attract women and turn them on, so they try very hard to get women to like them for being nice, by showing women that they are trustworthy and by being a good friend to them.

A typical guy who doesn't even know how to attract women will be nice to a woman in the hope that if he can just show her how good of a guy he is, she will eventually "let him" have sex with her or "give him a chance" with her.

Women hate when guys do that. Watch this video to understand why!

Important: There is nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but if your aim is to have a sexual relationship with her, you first need to make her feel sexually attracted to you (e.g. be confident, charismatic, make her laugh, make her feel feminine in comparison to your masculinity).

When a woman feels sexually attracted to you, she will then appreciate the fact that you are a nice guy. However, if you are simply being nice to her and expect her to want to have a relationship with you because of that, she is going to either politely or rudely reject you when you ask her out or try to make a move on her.

Here's the thing...

If you are one of the guys who are asking the question, "Why do women hate men?" then you are almost certainly one of the guys who tries to get women to like you by being nice to them.

You've really got to get clear on this: There is NOTHING wrong with being nice to women, but women don't care if you're a nice guy until they feel sexually attracted and turned on by you.

Being nice to her isn't something that makes her think, "WOW! This guy is different! He's actually nice to me! WOW! I want him to be my boyfriend."

Why? Pretty much every guy uses that approach on her.

[image: Trying to get a woman by being nice, buying her gifts, getting her flowers, etc]

As a woman goes through life, an endless stream of clueless guys will try to "get a chance with her" by being really nice to her.

A nice guy will usually think that he is being smarter and more original than other guys by using the really nice approach, especially if he has ever heard that all men are assholes, only want sex and don't know how to treat a woman like a lady.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is that pretty much every guy uses that approach on women because most guys have no idea how to attract women and turn them on during a conversation.

In his mind, a typical nice guy has the dating game all figured out because he has heard women say that they want a nice guy and that all men are assholes. So, to him, it is pretty simple, "Be really nice and women will really like you. I figured it out. If women want a nice guy, then I'll be really nice. I get it. I'm going to be super nice and women are going to want me."

So, he tries it...

Yet, regardless of how nicely he treats women, they still continue to reject his romantic and sexual interest. He might then come to the conclusion that women actually hate nice guys and want a bad boy who treats them badly.

Yet, he is wrong.

[image: Why don't women like my nice guy approach?]

He's not alone though.

You only have to look online these days at forums and sites like Reddit and you will see hundreds of thousands of guys complaining about women (e.g. women are bitches, women only want money, women can't be trusted, etc) to see that there a lot of confused guys out there who don't yet understand what women really want in a man.

[image: Why do women hate me?]

Guys on forums are asking things like, "Why do women hate me?" and then providing reasons like, "I'm a nice guy...why can't they see that?" and asking, "What is their problem?"

Many of these guys then go on to develop a hatred towards modern women and say thing like, "I hate women and have decided that I am going to remain single and alone for life. I'll just go to prostitutes and watch porn. Women are too complicated. Bitches!"

I feel sorry for guys like that because they simply don't understand what women want from men. If they did, they would love women, not hate them.

So, I'm going to clear it up for you right now. Here is what you need to know...

Women do want a good man and they do like, love and appreciate good men, but women hate it when a nice guy expects to be rewarded with sex, love and devotion simply based on being nice to her.

If you want women to like you, love you, appreciate you and want to have a sexual relationship with you, then you must begin by making her feel sexually attracted to you and turned on by you. When she feels that way, she will then consider you as a potential lover, boyfriend or even future husband.

You can make a woman feel attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, having a masculine vibe that makes her girly and feminine in comparison to you, etc).

Once you have sparked a woman's attraction for you, she will then appreciate the fact that you are also a good guy. However, simply being a nice, good guy who has the best of intentions with her is not enough to make her want to start a relationship with you.

Why? Most guys that she meets try that approach on her.

Most guys are clueless about what women really want and how to make women feel attracted to them, so they pretty much all try to use the same nice guy approach in the hope that the woman gives them a chance.

Watch this video to understand 3 things that attractive women tend to hate about most single guys out there...

As you will discover from the video above, it annoys women that most single men don't even know how a woman's attraction really works. Not knowing what else to do, guys try to get women to "like" them by being nice, buying gifts and essentially sucking up to the woman.

Yet, that's not what she wants.

Yes, she wants you to treat her well and be nice to her, but that is only something that she will appreciate if you are the kind of guy who makes her feel attracted and turned on.

If you can do that for her, she will then feel lucky to have finally met a good guy who actually knows how to turn her on, rather than meeting yet another good guy who doesn't care if she feels attraction or not and simply wants her to reward him with sex, love and devotion because he is being nice to her.

Conclusion

Women don't hate men and men don't hate women.

Yes, there are some emotionally bruised or confused women out there who do hate men, just like there are some emotionally bruised and confused men who hate women.

Yet, for the most part, men and women love each other and get along well.

If women don't like you, then it's not always going to be your fault (e.g. she might have issues that she is still carrying from childhood, baggage based on her past relationships), but sometimes it will be your fault (e.g. you're expecting her to be amazed and want to date you because you're being nice to her).

If you want women to like you, here's what you need to do:

1. Love and respect women for who they are. Don't try to change women and expect them to think, feel, behave and act like you do.
2. Don't expect women to want to have sex with you just because you're a nice guy. Make women feel attracted to you and they will then appreciate the fact that you're a good guy. Attraction first and then everything else flows on naturally after that.

When you take that approach with women, you will see that most women are much more loving, compassionate and intelligent than you previously thought.

Yes, there are some crazy women out there, but there are also some crazy men out there too.

Don't focus on the minor exceptions and label all women as being manhaters just because a few of them are. See the bigger picture and you will realize that there's actually nothing to worry about.

You will then be free to get on with enjoying love, sex and relationships with women, rather than sitting around wasting time thinking that they are all a bunch of manhating bitches.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with

women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Make Women Fall in Love With You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The two best approaches to use to make women fall in love with you, are to either:

1. Be a charming guy
2. Be a challenge

There are many different approaches you can take with women (e.g. be a really nice guy, be a bad boy, be a jerk, etc), but being a charming guy or a challenge are by the far the easiest ways to make women fall in love with you.

1. Be a Charming Guy

[image: Being charming to make women fall in love with you]

Being a charming guy essentially means that you make women feel attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract and arouse women and you also be nice to them and treat them well.

Here's the simple way of looking at it:

| Make her feel attracted to you + Treat her nicely = Charming.

For example: If a guy interacts with a woman and he is being confident, charismatic and is making her feminine and girly in comparison to his masculine approach, then she will naturally feel attracted and aroused by him.

However, that is sometimes not enough to get the woman to fall in love. The real secret of how to get women to fall in love with you by being a charming guy is to also treat them well (i.e. give the woman compliments, be sweet to her at times, make her feel appreciated and noticed, etc).

You might have seen interact with a guy before and refer to him as a "charmer" or as being a charming guy.

What you will realize if you think about what you really witnessed when you saw that guy interact with her, is that he was making her feel attracted to him and he was also being nice to her.

For example: To make her feel attracted, he might have been displaying confidence, making her laugh and making her feel girly and feminine in comparison to his masculinity, which would have made her feel attracted and aroused by him.

He was also adding in some nice behavior and gestures in addition to being attractive to her (e.g. giving her compliments, treating her well, making her feel special, etc).

That is how to be charming and how to make women fall in love with you. It's easy and it also allows you to be the good guy that you are and still get laid, get a girlfriend or find yourself the perfect wife.

You don't have to be a bad boy, asshole, jerk or treat women badly to make them lust after you or fall in love with you. Instead, you simply need to be a more charming guy than you are right now by getting better at making women feel attracted to you and then continuing to be the good guy that you are.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use attraction plus nice behavior to make women fall in love with you...

As you will discover from the video above, you can actually CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman by displaying certain personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attract women.

Once the woman is attracted to you, she will see any nice, sweet, courteous or gentlemanly thing that you do around her as charming.

2. Be a Challenge

[image: Being a challenge for women to win over]

A lot of guys don't like the idea of being a challenge for women to win over, because they feel as though it involves playing silly mind games, lying to women or treating women badly.

However, being a challenge for a woman to win over is actually one of the nicest, most precious gifts you could ever give her.

Here is whyâ|

Essentially, the first thing that you need to understand is the reality that women live in when it comes to sex and dating.

For women, it's very easy for them to attract men for sex because most men will have sex with a woman (at least once) simply based on her appearance, even if they don't really like her personality or don't see much of a chance for a relationship after the sex.

This is why porn has always been directed towards men and why men can easily get aroused and masturbate over visual images of women that they don't even know anything about (i.e. her intelligence level, her personality, her trustworthiness, etc).

If you think back to the origins of pornography, it has always been directed towards men who can get aroused and masturbate to mere images of women.

Yet, why don't most women do that? (I say "most women" because some bisexual women sometimes use porn to masturbate).

Simple.

Almost all women are not instantly ready to have sex with a guy simply based on his appearance.

If they were, they would be masturbating to porn and they would be whistling at guys on the street, approaching guys and saying, "Hey, how about it?" and generally acting like guys when it comes to sex.

Yet, they don't.

Why?

Almost all women are looking for qualities in men other than mere looks.

Yes, a woman can feel attracted to a man's looks and there are some women who will want to have sex with a man because he is good looking.

Yet, the majority of women are much more attracted and aroused by a man's personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, ability to get her laughing, etc) than anything else.

Of course, there are some women who will hook up with a guy because he is rich, a celebrity or male model, but the majority of women aren't stuck on superficial traits and will happily fall madly in love with an average guy who can make her feel attracted and aroused for other reasons.

So, now that you understand one of the main differences between how men and women feel attraction, let's talk more about the reason why it's so beneficial for you to be a challenge for women to win over!

As a woman walks through the world, she knows that pretty much every guy that looks at her will be willing to have sex with her at least once.

[image: Willing to have sex with her just based on appearance]

Regardless of whether or not he likes her personality, he will be willing to stick it in, finish the job, plant his seed and walk away.

Even if a guy is a really nice guy and has good intentions with women, he won't be able to stop his natural urges to want to stick his middle leg inside attractive women and plant his seed.

Even if he doesn't want to have children, his attraction for her is based on his instant, instinctive analysis of her capacity to produce good quality offspring.

As a woman grows up, she usually enjoys all the attention that she starts getting from men now that she is of breeding age.

Yet, almost all women eventually get bored of the fact that most guys are willing to have sex with her even though she doesn't have to do anything else to impress them other than look good.

As a result, a woman will eventually develop the desire to meet a guy who is more of a challenge to win over, so she can feel lucky to be having sex with him, rather than always noticing that a guy feels lucky to be having sex with her.

Don't get me wrong here!

Being a challenge to women doesn't mean that you need to act like you're not interested, pretend that you don't like her or even say that you don't like her.

That's not how it works.

The secret of how to make women fall in love with you by being a challenge is to first make women feel attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract and arouse women and then hold off on being completely sold on her until she fully impresses you.

This means that you actually have to have standards when it comes to women and know the kinds of things that you will and will not accept in a woman.

[image: Being a challenge for women to win over]

If she displays traits that you don't like, you need to let her see that you're losing interest and she displays traits that you do like, you need to show that you're becoming more interested, but are not fully there yet.

When a woman is attracted to you and notices that you're not fully impressed by her yet, she will then begin to show you signs of interest and try to impress you further by displaying her best qualities and being on her best behavior.

[image: How to make multiple women fall in love with you]

She will then refer to you as being a challenge in her mind, to her friends or even to you.

Here's the really cool part!|

The more that she tries to impress you and win you over, the more that she falls in love with you and convinces herself that you are the guy she has been looking for all along.

Here's the even cooler part!|

By making her feel that way, you then become what women refer to as a "catch" meaning that she was able to beat other women to catch you and get you into a relationship.

[image: Make her fall in love by being a challenge]

She then feels lucky to have you as her man.

If you can easily attract women with your personality, behavior and inner qualities, while also being not so easy to pick up, a woman will know that you would find it extremely easy to get another woman if she doesn't snag you and save you for herself.

So, when a woman is able to get to a kiss, sex or date with an awesome guy like you, she will feel lucky and will rapidly fall in love with you and do her very best to make you feel the same way about her.

Where Guys Go Wrong

A lot of guys go through life never really understanding what attracts women to men and how to make women fall in love with them very easily.

For example: Some guys will put on an act of being an even nicer guy than they really are, in the hope that a woman will think, "Wow, this guy is really nice and caring. I should choose him as a lover, boyfriend or husband."

Yet, what these guys don't understand is that the nice, gentle and sweet things that a guy can offer a woman are only appreciated if he first makes the woman feel attracted to him and aroused by him.

Women don't get turned on and get wet down there if a guy is simply being nice and courteous towards them.

Why? Watch this video to understand!|

When nice guys get rejected by women, they often make the mistake of thinking, "Okay, if women don't want a nice guy, then they must want a bad boy or a man who treats them mean."

Yet, these guys are missing the point.

Here's the truth!|

The majority of women in this world do NOT want a bad guy who treats them meanly, disrespects them and doesn't care about them.

Instead, women want a good guy who also has the ability to make them feel attracted to his personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities.

The simple reason why women reject most nice guys is that they try to make women like them and fall in love with them simply based on being nice, courteous and considerate.

As you may have realized by now, that is not enough for a woman to fall in love with a guy.

If you are serious about making women fall in love with you, you have to be willing to do this properly.

The right way to do it is to begin by making the woman feel attracted and aroused by you and then either be a charming guy than she can feel special around or a challenge that she feels lucky to have caught.

[image: Combining charm and challenge]

You can also combine the two approaches (be charming and a challenge) for a more powerful effect on her.

By being a charming guy who is also a challenge, she feels excited to have met a good natured guy who turns her on, but who is also a challenge for her to win over.

When she finally does get to kiss you, have sex with you or get you to say that you love her, she feels as though she's snagged herself a catch that is worth keeping.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Get a Woman to Sleep With You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In this post, I'm going to explain the natural process of how to get a woman to sleep with you.

The first thing that you need to understand and accept is that we men need to go through a different process than women do when it comes to sex.

[image: Men immediately willing to have sex with a woman, even though they don't know anything about her personality, intelligence level, what she does for a living, etc]

For women, it is very easy to attract men for sex because most men are willing to have sex with a woman simply based on her appearance.

Most guys (approximately 95%) will have a sex with a physically attractive woman, even if they don't like her personality or have no intention of having a relationship with her.

However, most women don't work the same way.

Most women will not have sex with a guy simply based on his appearance because they place more importance on how a guy's personality makes them feel.

Most women also want to have the experience of feeling a build up of sexual tension (this can take minutes, hours or days depending on the situation) before they feel ready to release that built up tension with kissing and sex.

So, here is what you need to do to get a woman to sleep with you!|

1. Make her feel attracted to your personality and inner qualities

[image: Make her feel attracted to your personality and inner qualities]

While it is true that women can feel attracted to superficial qualities about men like looks, height, money and social status, most women are willing to have sex with a guy who has other attractive qualities.

For example: If an average looking guy meets a woman and makes her feel attracted to his confidence, charisma, ability to make her laugh and his masculine vibe that makes her feel girly and feminine compared to him, she will almost certainly be willing to sleep with him if he plays his cards right.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works and how you can use it to get a woman to sleep with you, even if you're not tall, rich or handsome!|

As you will discover from the video above, a woman's attraction for a man works a lot differently than most guys realize.

While there are some very picky women out there who will only sleep with a tall, handsome rich guy, the majority of women in this world are much more flexible about what they find sexually attractive and appealing about a guy.

2. Build up the sexual tension between you

[image: Build up the sexual tension between you]

Unlike men who will get an instant boner by looking at women in porn, women tend to need to be warmed up and brought to boiling point before they are willing to have sex.

This is why it's so important to build up some sexual tension between yourself and the woman you want to sleep with.

Essentially, you make her feel attracted to you and then also make her have to work to impress you some more before she fully wins you over and gets to kiss you or have sex with you.

Women refer to guys like that as a challengeâ€¦!

As you will discover from the video above, most guys are willing to sleep with a woman right away and don't require any build up of sexual tension.

If the woman is physically attractive, most guys don't want to waste any time or risk losing their opportunity with her, so they show a lot of interest and hope to be liked for being a really nice guy or treating her well.

Yet, that's pretty much all a woman experiences as she goes through life and it is very boring for her. By being a bit of a challenge to win over, you're actually giving a woman what she really wants and if you give her what she wants, she will give you what you want.

3. Create a unique connection between you and her

A lot of guys get stuck at this point.

They start talking to a woman, but quickly run out of things to say or struggle to keep the conversation going and keep it interesting.

Here's where guys go wrong and what you should do insteadâ€¦!

4. Kiss her and then proceed to sex

[image: Kiss her and proceed to sex]

The most important step before sex is to kiss a woman.

It sounds pretty obvious, but a lot of guys hesitate at this point and then wonder why their interactions or dates fizzle out and never seem to lead to sex.

You've got to get to the first kiss because it changes the dynamic from being innocent and playing to being intimate and sexual.

[image: Release the sexual tension with kissing and sex]

Once a woman has kissed you, she is much more likely to be willing to sleep with you that night, on the first date or at the latest on a second date.

I know that from a lot of personal experience and also from surveys and studies. For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women admitting to having experienced a one night stand before.

So, don't think that the woman you are talking to is an innocent angel or a clueless virgin. These days, most women have regular casual sex and get in and out of relationships until they find the perfect man for them.

How Will You Know if a Woman Wants to Sleep With You?

[image: How will you know if a woman wants to sleep with you?]

As long as you follow the basic process that I've outlined in this post, a woman will want to sleep with you.

However, women aren't all exactly the same and they will think, behave and act in different ways under different circumstances.

For example: Sometimes you will meet a woman who is really attracted to you and wants to sleep with you, but she will pretend as though she isn't very interested and will then play hard to get.

Why would she do that to you?

- To test your confidence level: If she plays hard to get and you begin to doubt yourself, hesitate and crumble under the pressure, she knows that you're not confident enough for a woman like her.
- To test your interest level: If she plays hard to get and you then lose interest in her, she knows that you're not genuinely interested in her and were only trying to get laid or boost up your ego.
- To test your level of desperation or neediness: If she plays hard to get and you begin desperately trying to impress her, she will assume that you feel unworthy of her and probably aren't good enough for a woman like her.
- To protect her self-image: Most women don't want to come across as being too easy when it comes to sex because they want you to be able to trust them if a relationship happens after sleeping with each other.

As you can see, there are many different reasons why a woman will play hard to get when you are leading up to sleeping with her.

To be successful at getting women to sleep with you, you must arm yourself with the ability to attract women so they actually want to be with you and you also must have the confidence to stay in an interaction and keep moving forward until you actually get to the point of having sex.

Sometimes, it will happen very easily where you meet a woman, make her feel attracted and begin kissing her right away. You then leave the bar, club or party with her and take her home to sleep with you.

However, other times, it can take 1-3 hours of hanging out together or partying before a woman will be willing to kiss you and leave a venue to go home and sleep with you.

In terms of sleeping with a woman on a first date, most women that you will meet are going to be open to it as long as you have established enough attraction and have the confidence to move from one step to the next with her.

Yet, some women will want you to wait 2-4 dates, especially if you are courting her in a way where she gets the impression that you want to be her boyfriend or husband in future.

[image: Getting a woman to sleep with you]

If she senses that you have serious, long term intentions with her, she will instinctively change her approach to sex and want to show you that she has the willpower to resist sex, so you will then be able to trust her to control herself around other guys when you are in a relationship with her.

Always Remember: Sex is Mutually Enjoyable

[image: Remember that sex is mutually enjoyable]

A final thing to point out here on the topic of how to get a woman to sleep with you is to always remember that sex is enjoyable for both men and women.

You're not taking anything from a woman by allowing her to have sex with you.

If you make her feel attracted to you and there is a build up of sexual tension between you, she is going to want to release that with kissing and sex.

It's not just you who is going to want to have sex. It's a mutually enjoyable experience.

So, don't ever get into the mindset of thinking that women are doing you a favor by sleeping with you.

Guys who think that way are usually the type of guys who don't even know how to attract women during an interaction and are simply hoping to "get a chance" with a woman by being really nice to her or being a good friend.

That's not how it works.

If you want to get a woman to sleep with you, the first thing you must do is make her feel attracted to you in a sexual way, not a friendly way.

If you then build up some sexual tension between you and her (that can take anywhere from minutes to hours to days, depending on the situation), she will feel a strong desire to release that built up tension with kissing and sex.

When you do have sex, it will be a mutually enjoyable and pleasurable experience. She's not doing you a favor or giving you a chance.

You are both attracted to each other and are mutually excited about sleeping with each other and then seeing where it goes after that.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Best Places to Meet Single Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Here are some of the best places to meet single women:

1. Singles parties: Most women at singles parties are hoping to meet a good guy who is confident and make them feel attracted and turned on during an interaction. Do a Google search for “Single parties” and then include the name of your town or city.
2. Speed dating events: All women will be single and hoping to find a match. Pretty much every major city or town has a speed dating service, so just try it.
3. Bars and nightclubs: Many women will be single, but even if they aren’t most will still be open and friendly if you approach and chat to them in a confident, easy-going and social manner, rather than just trying to pick them up.
4. Hobby clubs: Some women go to hobby clubs (e.g hiking, bike riding, acting, painting, cooking, etc) to improve their skills, but many also hope to find a boyfriend who will share her passion or at least appreciate it.
5. Dance classes: Many women go to dance classes as an easy way to meet guys. People who attend the classes are forced to dance together as couples, which gets rid of the awkwardness of waiting around for guys to approach and talk to her.

So there you have it.

Meeting single women is as simple going to those places now, right?

Not quite.

If you’ve already tried going to those places to meet single women, you will have probably already figured out that itâ□□s not as simple as simple as that. Knowing the best places to meet single women is great, but you also have to know how to attract them when you approach.

If you approach women and have no idea how to make them feel attracted to you, they aren’t going to be interested in talking to you for very long. For women, it’s very easy for them to attract us men because we are mostly attracted to women based on looks, but most women look for qualities other than mere looksÂ in the men that they meet.

Watch this video to understand how a woman’s attraction for a man works...

Single women are open to being approached by guys, but they have some basic requirement that they want you to meet:

1. Approach in a confident, relaxed manner, rather than coming across as nervous and tense.
2. Be real and authentic, rather than putting on an act of being nicer, cooler, tougher etc than you really are.
3. Have a fun and interesting conversation that sparks her attraction and allows her to feel what it would be like to be your girlfriend.
4. Make sure that you make her feel attracted to you first, before you try to make a move on her or get her number.

That last one is the most important.

Attractive women hate the fact that most guys who approach them don't even know how to make them feel attracted. Watch this video for more info...

As long as you approach women in a confident, relaxed manner and have the ability to make a woman feel attracted to you (e.g. by displaying confidence, being charismatic, making her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity, etc), then meeting single women will be an easy, exciting and rewarding part of your life.

Most Women Are Much Easier to Pick Up Than Guys Realize

[image: Meeting single women]

If you go out to meet women in bars or even at a singles speed dating event, women don't always make it clear and obvious that they are hoping to meet a guy.

Most women put on an act of being indifferent, being hard to get, not needing a man in their life or being too attractive for every guy in the room.

Yet, when those same women go home, they will often cry themselves to sleep because all of their girlfriends have a boyfriend or husband are enjoying sex, love and relationships.

So, when you go out to meet single women, don't ever expect them to make it obvious that they want to be approached by you or even that they really like you when you're talking to them.

Some women will make it clear that they like you during an interaction (e.g. she might start touching you a lot, tell you that she likes you, or make it really obvious that she wants to kiss you, etc), but the majority of women don't make it that obvious.

In fact, if you meet a woman who wants a very confident guy, she will often act as though she doesn't like you very much because she wants to test your confidence.

[image: Best place to meet single women]

If she plays hard to get and you crumble under the pressure, she knows that you're not confident enough for a woman like her.

However, if you remain calm and continue to talk to her and build up her attraction, she will eventually let down her guard and show you a friendly, easy-going side of herself that most guys never get to see.

[image: Best places for meeting single women]

When you are able to do that to women, you will realize that most women are much easier to pick up than they make themselves out to be.

Early on, when I first started approaching and picking up women, I didn't know what women were really doing when they were playing hard to get with me.

Being the insecure guy that I was back then, I assumed that they were playing hard to get and being difficult because I wasn't good looking enough and they wouldn't like a lower middle class guy from the outer suburbs like me.

However, when I realized that it's usually just an act that women put on to make themselves appear more valuable to you or it's a test that they use to see how confident a guy is, that is when things started to change.

I realized that that I needed to stay in the interaction and continue to build up a woman's attraction for me. When the moment was right, all I needed to do then was get her phone number, move in for a kiss or take her home for sex.

Having Sex With Single Women

Sex is another thing that women pretend not to be interested in or act as though they never do in their life.

Yet, statistically speaking, most of the single women you will meet will have already experienced a one night stand (sex on the first night) or had sex on a first date.

For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women had experienced a one night stand before.

So, don't fall for the act that women put on where they seem like they're not even interested in men or that they won't have sex on the first night or first date.

As long as you build up a woman's attraction for you and create a unique connection between you and her, the ball is then in your court to take things to the next level (e.g. phone number, kiss or sex).

Don't think that she hasn't done it before or that she is an innocent girl and every other woman is naughty. The woman you are talking to has most-likely already had plenty of sex before and is willing to have it with you if you play your cards right.

It's not 1905 anymore where a woman had to save her virginity for marriage. These days, women have sex all the time and they will have it with you if you can make them feel attracted, connect with them and then move the interaction forward with confidence.

As long as you have attraction and a unique connection in place, almost all women won't reject you at that point. If a woman does play hard to get about giving you her phone number, kissing you, going on a date or leaving a venue to have sex with you, it's usually just to test your confidence or your interest level in her.

So, when you go out there to meet single women, make sure that you don't give up at the first sign of resistance.

Stay in there and continue to build up the woman's attraction for you while also creating a unique connection between you and her.

When the moment is right, take things to the next level with her and enjoy the great times ahead.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Do Women Need Men?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In today's world, women can live a life that is completely independent of men if they choose to.

A modern woman can earn her own money, be protected by the police, justice system and media and be supported by the government.

However, regardless of how much a woman can take care of herself in the modern world, she still will always want and need a man for the following reasons:

1. To experience the love that can only occur between a man and a woman.
2. To be impregnated by a man that she loves and wants to have a family with.
3. To have the father of her children present to make her feel safe and to help raise the children in a more balanced way, compared to her doing it all by herself.
4. To be a boyfriend or a husband that she can share life experiences with, overcome challenges with and grow together over time.

So, the answer to the question, "Do women need men?" is a definite yes if a woman wants to lead a normal, happy life.

Sometimes, you might see a news story or an article online about women no longer needing men because they can go and get themselves implanted with semen from a sperm bank and have their own children without the need of a man.

Lesbian women tend to do that so they can raise a children, but normal heterosexual women still have a natural desire to be impregnated by a man that they love.

After all, women love having sex just as much as men do.

Women love the feeling of a rock hard penis sliding into their little love tunnel, just as much as we men like to get in there and give it to them.

Sex is a mutually beneficial and enjoyable thing for men and women and so is love.

Regardless of the changes that happen in modern society, the love between a man and a woman always remains a very special and powerful thing that most women place the utmost of importance on in their life.

If a woman doesn't have the love of a man in her life, she may spend a lot of time on her career and try to distract herself, but will almost always become depressed and feel like her life is wasting away on pointless work, when she really wants to be in love, be a mother and have a family.

So, if you've been wondering to yourself, "Do women need men?" because you don't seem to desperately wanted by women, then you should ask yourself what the real reason is behind you asking that question.

For example: Watch this video to understand the real reason why a lot of good men fail with womenâ€¦

Have you been wondering, "Do women need men?" because you simply don't know how to make women feel enough attraction for you to be with them?

Do women seem to not be in need of a guy like you because you've simply doubted that you're good enough for them, so you avoid them and privately jerk off to porn every week?

Are you hoping that women make it obvious that they want you or need you, before you approach them or ask them out?

Why Aren't Women Making it Obvious That They Need Me?

[image: Why don't women make it obvious that they need me?]

When an attractive woman walks past a guy, he will usually turn his head to look at her.

If he's like 95% of guys on the planet, he will be willing to have sex with her simply based on how she looks.

Yet, women don't work the same way.

Women essentially walk around in OFF mode, so as a man, you have to approach a woman and actively make her feel attracted to you (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, making her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity, getting her laughing, etc) to get her to switch to ON mode.

A woman might see a very handsome guy and switch to ON mode, but she's not going to approach him and try to pick him up. She will simply feel some attraction for his looks and then continue on with her life.

Why? Generally speaking, women are passive when it comes to dating and mating. A woman will wait to be approached by a guy who has the confidence and masculinity to do so.

If the guy who approaches her can make her feel attracted, she will then open herself up to the situation and allow herself to be guided from a conversation to kiss, to sex and into a relationship.

So, if a guy lacks confidence and doesn't approach women as a result, he's probably going to be wondering things like, "Do women actually need men these days?" or "Why don't women like me?" because women don't seem to be rushing up to him to meet him.

If a guy does have the confidence to approach women, but doesn't actually know how to actively attract a woman during an interaction, he might be left thinking, "What's wrong with women these days? Can't they recognize a nice guy when they meet one? What is their problem?"

Don't Listen to the BS lyrics From Female Pop Singers

A guy who doesn't understand women will often feel confused when he listens to the confident, brash, girl power lyrics of female pop singers.

Female pop singers will passionately sing lyrics like, "I don't need a man" or "Sisters are doing it all for themselves" and act as though they don't care if they have a man or not.

Yet, is that really the way it is? Do modern women not need men at all, or do those song lyrics simply create a smoke screen to hide what is really going on behind the scenes?

Let's clear this up...

If a woman is saying she doesn't need men in her life, you can bet your bottom dollar that she has recently (or repeatedly) had her heart broken and she's still hurting, or she is lusting after the type of guys who aren't interested in her.

With that being the case, the anti-men lyrics are nothing more than a smoke screen for insecure or emotionally bruised women.

The heartbroken female pop singer (or everyday woman) who is saying that she doesn't need men, will cry herself to sleep over the fact that she no longer has a man in her life.

Just listen to some of the candid interviews of female pop singers and celebrities and you will see them admitting to crying their eyes out all the time. They may put on a front of being emotionally cold and independent, but it's just a smoke screen.

Likewise, a woman who is saying that she doesn't need men because the kind of men she wants don't want her, will continue to try to attract their attention.

So, do women need men? Of course they do.

If women didn't need men or want men in their life, there wouldn't be so many Who needs men anyway? songs out there.

The only reason those songs exist is because single or dumped women tend stick together in a friends forever sort of way, so when one of their group has been dumped or let down by a guy, they all rally round to make her feel better by adopting an attitude of, Who needs men anyway when we've got each other?! Who

Of course, when the dust settles, they all set about helping her to find a new man ASAP.

Watch this video to understand how women really think...

As you will discover by watching the video above, what women say is often completely different to what they actually do.

Women don't think, feel, act and behave in the same way that we men do and that is a good thing.

It is the differences between men and women that actually make us feel attracted to each other, so don't be annoyed at women for being so complex love and appreciate them for it.

If women were to think, feel, act and behave like men (e.g. imagine a butch, masculine lesbian type of woman with short hair), we wouldn't feel attracted to them like we do now.

Do You Know What Women Want From a Man?

[image: Do women need men these days?]

No matter how successful or independent a woman becomes in her life, she still longs to feel like a woman around a man.

What does that mean? She wants to feel feminine and girly in comparison to your masculine way of thinking, feeling, talking, moving, behaving and taking action.

Modern women often have to suppress their natural femininity to compete with male co-workers, or to be seen as mentally tough enough to handle the top jobs.

This is a long way removed from the typical daily life of a woman a couple of generations ago, back in a time when women generally took on the traditionally female role of being a housewife and mother, while the men took on the traditionally male role of being the bread winner and protector.

The world has changed and sisters are able to do it for themselves now, but to feel like a real woman (i.e. feminine, free to be emotional, focused on love, etc), a masculine man is needed to provide the natural balance in her life—and that is what all women want.

Ancient Attraction in the Modern World

For most of human history (i.e. like 99.9% of it), women depended on men for their very survival.

Just because we now live in a modern civilization where a woman can survive on her own, it doesn't mean that her ancient attraction triggers have now been replaced.

If it ever happens at all (I don't see it happening in the foreseeable future), it will take a long time for women to stop feeling attracted to men for reasons that ancient women did.

For example: Throughout human history, women have always wanted to be chosen by the alpha male in a group or village because he represented the best chance of survival in terms of providing food and protecting them from danger.

In the modern world, a woman may no longer need a provider and protector in a literal sense because she can make money and rely on the police, supermarkets, media, government etc. to take care of her, but that does not change the fact that she is still instinctively looking for a man with alpha male qualities.

Classic alpha male qualities include:

- Believing in himself no matter what.
- Being masculine in the way that he thinks, feels, talks, behaves and takes action in life.
- Being composed under pressure because he knows that he has the emotional strength and mental resilience to get through anything.
- Gaining and maintaining the respect and admiration of other men and people in general, rather than being a guy who is picked on, overlooked or taken advantage of.
- Leading the way to a better life for himself and others, even if he can't do a 100% perfect job all the time. He simply keeps pushing forward, learning from his mistakes and leading the way to a better life.
- Being driven to succeed at whatever he is aiming to achieve in life and not giving up when he faces challenges, obstacles or roadblocks.

A modern day alpha male no longer needs to be able to hunt down a mammoth or fight off a sabre-toothed tiger, but he does need to have genuine confidence, mental and emotional masculinity (i.e. think and feel like a man does) and the ability to make a woman feel like a real woman in his presence.

The bottom line is that if you lack confidence around women, or if behave in a shy and insecure way, you are showing yourself to be a lower ranking male and therefore not a man that women need.

A woman might appreciate a guy as a friend if he comes across as a lower ranking male, but her ancient attraction triggers will remain OFF because she still feels the urge to be with a guy who is mentally and emotionally stronger and savvier than a lower ranking male.

Being the type of man that women need comes down to displaying your natural, alpha male qualities that attract women on a primal level.

It's not about being a bad boy, a jerk or an asshole. Instead, the ultimate type of man that women want and need in today's world is a good guy alpha male.

Why? We live in a civilized world now and it's no longer violence that wins arguments and controls local areas. To be a successful man in the modern world, you need to be able to get along with other people and create win-win situations (not lose-win situations where you always lose or win-lose where you always try to take from other people), which is what good guy alpha males do.

Assuming that you are a good guy, all you need to work on to be the man that women want and need is to improve your ability to attract women on a more instinctive, primal level.

You can still be the good man that you are, but essentially, you most-likely need a bit more balls and to stop being such a nice guy around women.

Here's why...

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman at all.

However, being nice on its own is not enough to make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on, so you have to actively trigger her ancient attraction triggers that are just as important to women now as they have ever been.

You can still be a good guy, but you've also got to be the sort of good guy that turns women on.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Where Do Women Like to Be Touched?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

While women do like to be touched by men that they are attracted to or in love with, they don't all like being touched in the exact same places or in the same way.

Here are some examples of where most women like to be touched, but you should keep in mind that the woman you are with might prefer less touching in some areas than others.

Apart from her vagina and breasts, sensitive areas include:

1. Hair and scalp

Touching a woman's hair can really turn her on, whether it's pushing longer hair behind her ears like a father would do to his little girl, stroking her head in a loving way or gently massaging her with one finger making a circle motion all the way from her temple down to the back of her ear.

2. Ears and neck

The ears and earlobes are very sensitive areas that only need to be touched very lightly to turn a woman on.

The muscle that runs around the side of the neck to form a connection between the base of the skull and the breastbone is highly sensitive to touch in most people, which is why a whispering sweet nothing in a woman's ear and breathing gently on her neck can bring her a lot of pleasure.

3. Upper back and arms

A man's arm around a woman's shoulders can make her feel protected, which is a feeling she instinctively likes.

Gently stroking her back or the top of her arm (just below her shoulder) can also be very relaxing, comforting and arousing.

4. Hands and wrists

A touch on the hand can create an instant connection when you are first talking to a woman and getting to know her.

In a relationship, holding hands giving her a gentle massage on her palms and wrists can really generate a lot of loving pleasure.

5. Lips and mouth

The lips are extremely sensitive to touch.

Try it now. Run a finger across your upper lip now and imagine how a woman would feel if you did that to her when she was feeling attracted to you and turned on by you.

In terms of kissing, research shows that kissing someone for the first time leads to a release of the feel-good hormone dopamine, which boosts the intensity of the pleasure that is being experienced.

From the first kiss onwards, kissing leads to the release of oxytocin, which generates the warm, fuzzy, loved-up feeling that all women love.

6. Inner thighs

If a woman is attracted to you and you are kissing her, she will like being touched on her inner thigh. Simply make your way up from knee and caress and grope her as you get close to her vagina. Whether you touch her vagina or not depends on whether you are about to sleep with each other or are already in a relationship, as well as if she might be worried about other people seeing what you're doing.

If you do touch her vagina, just graze past it a couple of times before actually groping it. You can also build up her desire for you to grope her by grazing past it a couple of times, then making your way back down her thigh to caress her there for a bit longer before eventually making your way up for a bit of groping and finger play.

What Makes a Woman Want to Be Touched By a Guy?

[image: Where do women like being touched by men?]

The bare essential ingredient that a woman needs to feel for a guy, before she will want to be touched by him is attraction.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to make a woman enjoy being touched by you...

As long as a woman is attracted to a guy that she meets, she will enjoy his touch and it will give her feelings of pleasure and excitement.

However, that changes when a man and woman get into a relationship.

In a relationship, a woman will lose interest in being touched by a guy if she begins to lose respect for him as a result of the way that he treats her or conducts himself as a man throughout his everyday life.

For example: If a man gets into a relationship with a woman and they both really enjoy being with each other at the start due to the initial feelings of lust and attraction, they will both enjoy experiencing the pleasure that comes along with touch.

Yet, as the relationship continues, the woman will lose interest in being touched by him if he does things that cause her to lose respect for him (e.g. being insecure, clingy, controlling, emotionally weak, etc).

Once a woman loses respect for a guy, she can no longer bring herself to feel a lot of attraction for him and if that continues on for a while, she will eventually begin to fall out of love with him.

So, what you need to do to be the sort of guy that women want to be touched by, is to be a man that a woman can look up to and respect now and in the long run.

Being a man that a woman can look up to and respect is about being confident in yourself, going after your biggest dreams and ambitions in life, treating her with love and respect, making her feel valued and wanted and being someone that she can rely on to be emotionally strong no matter what challenges you encounter in life.

As long as you have that foundation in place when in a relationship, your woman will be able to feel attracted to you in many different ways (e.g. she will feel attracted to how you make her laugh and smile, to your intelligence, to your unique charisma and personality).

When a woman respects you and also feels a lot of attraction for who you are as a man and how you make her feel, her love for you will deepen over time.

When that happens in a relationship, she will like to be touched by you in any way because you are the man that she wants to be touched by.

You are the man who she respects, feels attracted to and is in love with, so your loving or sexual touch is exactly what she wants to experience.

When you're in love with a woman, you can touch her in very simple ways and she will feel the tingle of sexual attraction and desire for you.

Foreplay becomes easy and effortless because even a simple kiss on the cheek, forehead or neck or a warm, loving embrace can lead to feelings of sexual desire that then results in sex.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Flirt at Christmas Parties: 8 Tips and Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In this post, I'm going to give you 8 tips and examples on how to flirt at Christmas parties and other work events.

However, before I give you the tips and examples on what to say and do, I have to point out something very important...

The basic rule of flirting is that you need to make a woman feel sexually attracted to you BEFORE you attempt to flirt with her. If you try to flirt with a woman before sparkling her attraction for you, it just won't feel right to her and she will almost always reject you.

So, before flirting with a woman at a Christmas party, work event or anywhere else, you need to actively spark her attraction for you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, masculine vibe, charisma, etc).

When a woman feels a spark of attraction for you, she will welcome your flirting and will flirt back to show her interest in you. However, if you are only being a standard nice guy when you talk to her and are not making a woman feel any sexual attraction for you, she will reject your attempts at flirting because it won't feel right to be doing it with you.

What Will Other People Think if You Flirt With Women at an Office Christmas Party?

[image: Flirting at Christmas parties]

Flirting is such an innocent, discreet thing to do that everyone enjoys it, as long as it doesn't go too far and become sleazy.

However, how much you flirt with women at a Christmas party or work event really depends on the culture at your workplace.

[image: Flirting in the office]

For example: In some workplaces, the boss and management team are completely fine with employees hooking up for casual sex, dating and getting into relationships. Heck, even some of the managers will have sex with people who work for them.

Yet, in other workplaces, the boss and management strictly forbid employee relationships and if a relationship does begin, they will expect the employees to remain professional and only show signs of affection outside of the workplace.

So, if you are attending a Christmas party for work and your management forbids employee relationships, you will need to be more subtle about the way you flirt (i.e. only use body language and behavior to flirt, rather than saying sexually flirtatious things in front of others).

Keep reading and I will give you some examples of what to say and do. For now, I'm going to explain how flirting works...

How Flirting Works

Watch this video to understand how flirting works...

In the video above, I give examples of how to flirt when talking to female Starbucks baristas. For examples of how to flirt at Christmas parties, continue reading below...

8 Tips and Examples of How to Flirt at Christmas Parties

Some of the examples below include what to say, while others include body language and tips on behavior, which are all important elements of flirting.

The first example is to...

1. Give her a flirty look from a distance and then smile in a confident, relaxed way that shows you like her

If you haven't yet approached the woman that you want to flirt with, you can start out by giving her a flirty look from a distance.

A flirty look means that you look at a woman and show her that you find her attractive and that you like her, while also showing her that you think she likes you too. Essentially, think about how you would look at a woman if you really liked her and you know that she likes you too.

It's an exciting moment to experience for both of you.

Give her that type of look and she will know exactly what it means.

Whatever you do, just don't look at her as though you like her, but you are unsure if she likes you too.

Why?

When flirting with women, you MUST ensure that you are making her feel attracted to you, rather than turning her off.

If you look at a woman as though you like her and you know that she likes you too, she will feel attracted to you because you will be coming across as confident.

However, if you look at her as though you like her, but you aren't sure if she likes you, then you're going to be coming across as insecure and self-doubting, which is not attractive to women.

Women are attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, self-assuredness) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecure, anxiety, self-doubt, etc).

Women only want to flirt with guys that they feel attracted to, so you must ensure that you when you give a woman a flirty look, it is backed up with a relaxed, easy-going confidence in yourself.

So, how does it work?

Start by making eye contact with her from a distance and give her the flirty look for about 1-2 seconds, where you communicate via your body language that you like her and you know that she likes you too.

Then, add in a smile and hold eye contact for another 2-3 seconds, before looking away before continuing to talk to other people or doing something else (e.g. ordering a drink, getting some food from the buffet, etc).

That is how a flirty look works.

Essentially, you look at her as though you like her and that you know she likes you too, hold eye contact, give her a smile and then look away in a relaxed, confident manner. Think about how you would look at a woman if you really liked her and you knew (for sure) that she liked you too.

When you give her a confident, flirtatious look like that, she then feels excited that there is a spark between you and her. She becomes curious and keen to interact with you to see if she will feel even more attracted to you when in your presence.

By the way...

Don't worry about whether or not the woman will know what you are doing because she will.

Women know what flirting is.

Women have to use flirting to be subtle about their sexual interest in men, because pretty much everyone looks down on a woman or treats her with less respect if she is very open about her interest in sex. She knows what you are doing.

Flirting is a language that pretty much every woman understands and uses, so when you give her a flirty look, she will know that you find her attractive and are using the subtle, discreet language of flirting to let her know.

She will feel excited that you have the social intelligence to be able to privately create a spark between you and her via subtle flirting. So, don't hesitate to give her a flirty look – just do it and you will see what I mean.

2. Give her a flirty squint and a smile while maintaining eye contact during a conversation

[image: Flirty squint]

Once you've approached and started to talk to a woman that you want to flirt with at a Christmas party, it's essential that you continue to build up her attraction for you and occasionally flirt with her throughout the interaction.

So, if you're talking to a woman who is feeling attracted to you (e.g. because you are displaying confidence, charisma, making her laugh, being masculine, etc), then another way to flirt with her is to squint your eyes and smile at her when maintaining eye contact.

Essentially, what you are discreetly communicating to her with this type of flirtatious body language is, "I know you like me" and by the way "I like you too."

[image: Flirting co-workers at an office Christmas party]

When should you use the flirty squint with a smile?

When she is clearly showing you that she likes you and is flirting with you too (e.g. she may be giggling in a girly way when talking to you, touching you, biting her bottom lip, dipping her chin down to look up at you in a submissive way, twirling her hair around her finger or just playing with her hair in a girly way, etc).

Giving her a flirty squint with a smile is really about showing her that you know she is attracted to you and that there is clearly a spark between you and her. You don't ever have to say, "There is a spark between us” because your flirtatious body language will communicate that in a discreet, classy way.

Reminder: As mentioned earlier in this post: You must first make her feel attracted to you before you attempt to use any type of flirting with her.

If a woman isn’t feeling attracted to you at a Christmas party and you try to flirt with her, she’s going to feel as though you’re being weird because she knows that flirting should only be used when there is mutual attraction between two people.

If you want to be successful at picking up women, you must go through a natural sequence that flows from one step to the next. The first step of the sequence is that you make the woman feel sexually attracted to you and then everything else follows on naturally and effortlessly after that.

If you go against the flow of nature by attempting to pick up women before you’ve even made them feel attracted to you, they will reject you almost every time that you try.

3. Accuse her of trying to get you drunk

Another example of how to flirt at Christmas parties is when you are talking to a woman who is attracted to you (e.g. because you are being confident, charismatic, masculine, etc) and she suggests getting another drink.

At that point, you can smile and ask her, “You trying to get me drunk are you?” and she will understand that you are suggesting that she is trying to get you drunk so she can then seduce you into having sex with her.

You don’t have to specifically say that she is trying to get you drunk to seduce you into having sex with her, because she will already understand that on her own without you having to explain it to her.

If she laughs and enjoys that question and you want to add in a little more humor and flirting, you can say, “I just want to let you know that I’m not that easyâ€”you’re going to have to romance me a little more first. I don’t put out just because I get drunk” and then laugh with her about that.

Of course, whether you add in that last comment depends on how conservative the culture is at your workplace Christmas party.

If other people are listening into the conversation and you’re in a workplace where people are expected to be very formal and professional, then it’s probably not going to be appropriate for you to say something like that.

However, if you and her are talking alone or if it is very loud and only she can hear you, then it’s usually going to be fine and she will laugh and enjoy the humorous flirting that you’re adding into the conversation.

4. Make her compete with another woman, then reward her when she shows more interest in you

[image: Flirting with a coworker at Christmas party drinks]

One of the easiest ways to pick up women is to get other women interested in you during a conversation or interaction.

Unlike men who are usually willing to have sex with a woman instantly simply based on her looks (and regardless of how many other men want to sleep with her), most women assess a man’s sexual attractiveness based on a range of other factors, including how much other women like him or would like him if they met him.

If a woman is interacting with a guy and other women don't like him, it's going to make her feel less attracted to him. Likewise, if a woman is interacting with a guy and she feels as though other women wouldn't like him if they met him, she will feel turned off.

It's just the way that women work. Why? A woman's attraction for a man is mostly based on things that are not physical (i.e. his confidence, personality, charisma, social intelligence, masculinity, etc).

Watch this video for more info...

As you will discover from the video above, most women will overlook the fact that a guy isn't 6ft tall, rich and handsome if he can attract her in other ways.

One of the ways to attract a woman (who is playing hard to get) and then subtly flirt with her (i.e. show your interest in her in a subtle way) is to get other women attracted to you during a conversation and then reward the woman you like with more of your attention, if she begins to treat you better and show you more interest.

So, if you're flirting with a co-worker at a Christmas party and she seems like she is going to play a little bit hard to get, simply include some other women in the conversation and get them attracted to you as well (e.g. be confident, charismatic, get them laughing, make them feel feminine and girly in comparison to your masculinity, etc).

When she sees that other women are attracted to you, she will then begin to compete with them for your attention and interest.

When you see her showing you more interest and attention (e.g. touching you, interrupting other women to get your attention, etc) and trying to treat you better, you can then reward her by giving her more of your attention.

To flirt with her at that point, give her a loving smile and briefly show more attraction for her than you do the other women. Then, go back to making all the woman feel attracted to you and keep repeating that process until the woman you want is showing you really obvious interest.

At that point, you can say to her, "Hey, you want to go to the bar to get a drink?" and get some alone time with her. She will then feel excited that she is getting to do that with you.

Women love guys like that and refer to them as a challenge. Watch this video to understand why women enjoy a guy who is a challenge to win over...

As you will discover from the video above, most women are bored of how easy guys are to attract for sex.

Being the challenge that women are looking for is simple: Make her feel attracted to you and then stop yourself from being completely sold on her. Show interest in her, but make her feel as though she needs to impress you more before she fully wins you over.

Most guys are afraid to do that because they think it is mean or playing silly mind games. Guys also fear that if they don't show 100% interest in a woman, she will lose interest and walk away.

Yet, if you watch the video above, you will realize that most guys offer no challenge at all because they are willing to have sex with women immediately, which is boring for women. Women want to feel as though they are lucky to score you as their lover or boyfriend, rather than feeling as though they are doing you a favor by letting you have sex with them.

5. Suggest partying together on New Year's Eve

This is a subtle example of how to flirt at a Christmas party or work function with a co-worker.

Sometimes, it's going to be appropriate to use this style of flirting depending on how conservative the culture is at your workplace.

For example: If you are talking to a co-worker and she is attracted to you, but she is worried about showing sexual interest in you, kissing or appearing as though you and her are going to hook up, you can subtly flirt with her by suggesting that you and her party together on New Year's Eve.

She will then know that you are interested in her because you want to see her outside of the workplace, but are flirting because you are being discreet about your interest in her.

Flirting is about discreetly showing your interest in each other, without always having to make it obvious that you want to have sex with her, date her or start a relationship with her.

It's a private language of words, behavior, body language and vibe that is used to communicate sexual interest without having to actually say, "Hey, I want to have sex with you. Do you want to have sex with me?"

Flirting in a subtle way about partying together on New Year's Eve is also effective when interacting with a woman who is insecure and doesn't really feel as though you really like her.

When she knows that you want to see her outside of the workplace, she will be able to relax and show interest more in you because she will be hopeful that you do like her and want to spend more time with her.

Some guys might be thinking, "Why do women have to make things so complicated about dating and hooking up?" but that's just the way life is when insecurity is a part of the dynamic between people. If both the man and woman are confident, everything flows easily from one step to the next, but if either one is insecure it makes the whole dating process so much more complicated.

For example: If she is insecure, you need to make her feel attracted to you and show her that you like her. If you don't let her know that you like her (after making her feel attracted to you first), she will usually play hard to get and may even say that she doesn't like you.

On the other hand, if a woman is confident and knows that she is sexy and beautiful, she will play hard to get for other reasons.

Rather than playing hard to get because she is worried about being rejected, a confident woman will play hard to get because she wants to test your confidence in yourself. She will look to see if you are insecure and need her to be gentle with you, or if you are a confident guy who can handle any tests she puts you through.

If you crumble under the pressure and feel as though she's not interested in you, she knows that you're not confident enough for a woman like her. However, if you remain calm and continue to believe in your attractiveness to her, she will be impressed by your confidence and feel even more attracted and drawn to you.

She will feel attracted and be thinking something like, "Finally! A guy who isn't intimidated by me and who I actually feel attracted to as well!"

6. Tell her that you think she is sexy and that you like her

[image: Flirting at a Christmas party]

This is one of my favorite examples of how to flirt with women.

Once a woman feels attracted to you and you are getting along with each other, it's important for you to say something like, "You're sexyâ€¦I like you."

The reason why you need to say that is because most of the women you meet will be insecure about their looks and attractiveness (96% of women, according to the Dove global survey on beauty). Even if a woman looks pretty and sexy to you, she will almost certainly feel insecure about her looks and will need you to let her know that you find her attractive.

If she is confident and knows that she is sexy and attractive, she will appreciate that you have the balls to say that to her, but will only feel excited about it if you first make her feel attracted to you. No matter what you say or do around women, just remember: You have to make her feel attracted to you FIRST and then everything else follows on after that.

Once you have made a woman feel attracted to you, if you then don't give a woman a direct compliment about her attractiveness to you, she will usually play hard to get and act as though she doesn't like you, so she can test your interest in her and your confidence level.

So, to cut out all the silly mind games when you talk to women, just be honest and tell her that you think she is sexy and you like her. The best time to say something like that to a woman is when she is attracted to you, you're getting along well and have just had a laugh together about something.

Pause for a moment, look her up and down, smile and say in a confident, relaxed manner, "You're sexyâ€¦I like you" and she will love it that you're so confident, honest and ballsy, but that you can also be relaxed and easy-going about whatever you say to her.

Of course, if you're at a very conservative work Christmas party, or if everyone can hear you and her talking, you need to be careful about giving her a direct sexual compliment like that in front of other people.

Some women will feel embarrassed to get a compliment like that in front of co-workers or friends, while some women will feel proud and then show sexual interest back to you. You need to decide what you think is appropriate for the Christmas party that you are attending.

7. Make funny faces at her during conversation while gently teasing her

One of the easiest ways to flirt with a woman is to make certain types of funny faces at her during a conversation.

Example 1: Scrunch your nose up and look at her in a judgemental way when she says something silly or unintelligent, but only do it in a joking manner. Then say to her, "Oh, I thought you were really smartâ€¦and then you said that" and then smile and laugh with her about that.

Example 2: Raise up your eyebrows and look pleasantly surprised or impressed when she says something that makes her look very smart and interesting. Then say to her, "Wow, I didn't know that you were so intelligent. You're beautiful and smartâ€¦you've got it all girl" and then smile and laugh with her about that.

Flirting with women in this way is about gently teasing her to make her feel girly and feminine around you.

Gently teasing a woman isn't about being rude, mean or being a bad boy. Instead, you're simply flirting with women in the way that they secretly wish guys would, but will never admit to your face because they are worried that guys will take it the wrong way and begin to rudely tease them.

Women love to feel girly and less dominant around a guy and gently teasing her is a subtle, easy way to achieve that. Gentle teasing is seen as charming because you are being attractive to her (i.e. confident) while also being nice to her.

Just don't go overboard with it. Add in gentle teasing like you would add in sugar to coffee or spice to a pasta dish. If you add in too much, it becomes overwhelming and less enjoyable.

When you give her a bit of gentle teasing, be sure to remain masculine while doing it. Don't suddenly start getting giggly like she would. Retain your masculinity and she will feel the most amount of attraction for you.

When a woman feels girly and feminine in comparison to a guy's masculine approach, she feels sexually turned on by him because it is the fundamental difference between masculine and feminine that creates sexual desire between men and women. So, don't hide your masculinity – let her feel it by the way you talk, move, feel and behave.

A lot of nice guys struggle with this because they want to come across as being a nice, trustworthy, gentle guy who only has the best of intentions with a woman. While it's great to be a good guy, you shouldn't put on an act of being a super nice, neutral guy in the hope that it will impress women...because it won't.

When a guy is simply being neutral, friendly and nice when talking to a woman, it doesn't make her feel sexually turned on. Instead, she just experiences friendly, neutral feelings around him, which is why many nice guys get rejected by women who could have actually become their lover, girlfriend or even wife.

Watch this video for more info...

8. Gently, but firmly touch her when you lean in to talk to her

A lot of guys are afraid to touch women because they assume it will be an invasion of the woman's privacy or personal space, which will then make her freak out and reject him in front of everyone.

However, here's how it really works...

When a woman is attracted to a guy and he is being confident and relaxed around her, she will almost always welcome his touch and even feel excited about it, as long he doesn't become overly sleazy in front of others when it's not the right time or place (e.g. in front of the boss, when next to the conservative manager that she is trying to impress, etc).

When and how can you touch her in a flirtatious way?

As long the woman is attracted to you (e.g. because you're being confident, making her feel feminine in comparison to your masculine approach, etc), you can touch her gently, but firmly when you lean in to talk to her in a loud environment or when you have to say something to her quietly to keep it private between you and her.

Simply put your hand on her lower back or on the upper arm that is on the opposite side to the ear that you're going to speak into (i.e. if you're going to speak into her right ear, gently, but firmly touch her left upper arm with her your hand).

Women love this type of gentle, but firm touching because it shows that you are confident and masculine around her and are not afraid to take things to the next level with her. You are also classy enough to keep your touching subtle and discreet, so she doesn't have to worry about what other people might think.

If you have been making her feel attracted she will welcome your touch, but just make sure that you don't go overboard with it if you happen to be attending a very conservative Christmas party or work event. You don't have to touch her every time that you lean in to talk to her. Instead, simply be confident enough to touch her whenever you feel like it.

When a woman is attracted is attracted to you and then feels your touch, it turns her on and she enjoys that you have the social intelligence to subtly and discreetly show your interest in her in a classy way.

Women see this as flirting because you are subtly showing your interest in her in a discreet way. If she begins to touch you when she leans in to talk to you, it means that she is flirting back with you and wants you to know that she is enjoying where the interaction is heading.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

10 Tips on How to Be a Better Man

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

As the years of your life pass by, you will either become an increasingly wise, happy and successful man or you will fade away and look back at your life in regret.

Regardless of how good of a man you are already, there is always room for improvement. You may be an awesome guy right now, but you can be even better.

So, if you've reached a point in your life where you want to know how to be a better man, here are 10 life-changing tips that will make all the difference for you...

1. Take full responsibility for your success or failure

[image: Take responsibility for your success or failure]

One of the main things that separates the men from the boys, or separates successful men from unsuccessful men is the ability to take responsibility for how successful you are in life.

Growing up, we often get helped by our parents, teachers and other adult role models in our life. If we fail at something, they are usually there to help us finish the job, do the job for us or encourage to keep going until we succeed.

However, when a guy grows up, he needs to take complete responsibility for his own success or failure in life. If he doesn't, people will begin to lose respect for him and want to steer clear of him because he will feel like a burden for them.

If a guy makes mistakes along the way, gets stuck at certain stages of life (e.g. finding a girlfriend) or isn't living the kind of life that he always dreamed of, he needs to take responsibility to fix that himself.

If he doesn't take responsibility to make his life better, he will likely become negative about his future, feel depressed about his current life and think that it's all just too difficult, because he is expecting that success should be handed to him on a silver platter.

For example, he might think, "Why is life so hard? I'm a good guy. I deserve to be successful. Why am I not living the life I want? It's not fair. Life sucks."

[image: Why is life so difficult for me?]

Yet, that's how young boys think. A man with a boyish outlook on life still expects people to rush to his aid just like parents and teachers did during his childhood.

It would be nice if everyone was completely focused on making you happy and successful, but that's just not how life works. You have to stand up for yourself, otherwise you get left behind.

Real men take responsibility for their own success or failure in life and they do whatever it takes to achieve the type of life they really want. They don't waste time making excuses or sit around talking with friends about how unfair life is. They make things happen.

Of course, some people do achieve success very easily and some people even get lucky and become successful without even trying, but most people have to work their butt off to achieve the type of life that they dream of living.

So, one of the most important tips for you on how to be a better man is to realize that you have a lot of direct control of your own success and failures in life. If you're not getting the type of results that you want in life, then step up and complete the required actions to get to where you really want to be in life.

Don't waste time thinking that life is too hard and that you can never succeed at what you're aiming to achieve.

Every single day, new men are succeeding in what they set out to achieve in life and you can do that too, but you need to take complete responsibility for your level of success or failure. Don't waste time blaming the government, society, women or other guys for your lack of success in the areas that you want to achieve certain things.

The fact is, millions of guys who were in much worse situations than you have pushed past many obstacles and challenges to achieve the success that they have now.

You can get to their level of success and happiness in life and even exceed it.

You can be one of the strong men in this world who take responsibility for your own success and don't waste time making excuses. You find a solution, use it and then get on with enjoying the next level of success and happiness in life.

You're not one of those guys who go through life with a closed mind and look for excuses to justify their lack of success. You rise up and take whatever action you need to get to where you want to be.

A classic example of guys not taking responsibility for their lack of success is when it comes to women. Watch this video to find out the real reason why a lot of good guys (who women would love to be with) fail with women...

As you will discover from the video above, many guys waste most of their life thinking that they aren't good enough for women.

They come up with excuses for their failure, rather than looking for real world solutions to get the result they want.

2. Love and accept others for who they are

This is a very important part of being a better man.

Loving and accepting others for who they really are not only helps you be the sort of guy that people admire and want to be friends with, but it also makes you much more attractive to women.

When you meet people, you should aim to love and accept them for who they really are deep down, rather than always trying to change people or expect that people change themselves around you to suit you.

Let people be who they want to be.

Love and accept people for their unique personality that they bring into this world.

When people get the sense that you are a wise man in that way, they feel much more comfortable around you and they feel glad that someone can appreciate who they really are.

In a relationship with a woman, it also gets rid of feelings of stress that she would otherwise experience if she were in a relationship with a guy who couldn't love and accept her for who she really is.

She doesn't have to put on an act of being someone that she not around you and for that, she will love you so much more deeply.

We all want to be loved, accepted and appreciated by others and part of being a better man is leading the way to that type of dynamic with the people in your life.

3. Be the kind of man that others can look up to and respect

[image: Be the kind of man that others can look up to and respect]

Being the kind of man that other people can look up to is not all about becoming a huge success in life, being a celebrity, being a sports star or creating a world changing business.

If you want to do that, then go ahead and do it, but it's not actually required to be the sort of man that other people look up to and respect.

Essentially, all you really need to do is be the sort of man that sticks by his word, goes after his biggest ambitions in life, loves and accepts others for who they are and remains emotional strong; especially when others are feeling emotionally weak.

To be a better man, try to be an emotionally strong man that others can lean on as a pillar of strength in this world, rather than being yet another guy that others have to lift up emotionally and carry around like a burden.

4. Follow through on your word

This is a pretty obvious one, but there is an important point that I want to make for you here.

As a man, you need to follow through on your word if you promise to do something, but it's not always possible to follow through on every single promise that you make.

For example: If you make an outrageous promise and tell your friends that you're going to fly them to the moon next week, you're probably not going to be able to follow through on that.

So, what you need to do is only make promises that you can actually keep.

Try to avoid promising people things that you really cannot deliver on or that you don't even think is possible.

As you go through life, you've got to do what you think is possible and only promise things that you can actually follow through on.

When you approach life in that way, you are a much better man than a guy who promises the world to people and then doesn't even follow through on it, or a guy who makes promises and then comes up with excuses later on as to why he can't do it.

5. Be emotionally stronger than everyone else in your life

Your emotional strength as a man is one of the most attractive and important things that you can provide to women and others throughout life.

It is a priceless gift that you can give to women and the world and in return, women will love you and want to be with you and men will look up to you as respect you.

[image: Be the kind of man that others can look up to and respect]

In terms of women, regardless of how successful, independent, intelligent and emotionally strong a woman is, she will always still want to be with a man who is emotionally stronger than her.

An unattractive or insecure women might accept a guy who is emotionally weaker than her, but she will still secretly wish that she could be with an emotionally strong man who made her feel safe, proud to be his woman and excited to in love with him.

Women don't want to feel as though they need to be the tough ones in this life, because it takes away from their femininity and forces them to be more masculine and strong like men.

So, when a guy is unable to be strong enough for a woman, she naturally loses respect and attraction for him.

An important part of a woman's sexual attraction for a man is based on his emotional masculinity (i.e. strong, confident, assertive, determined to succeed no matter how many challenges come his way, etc) and how that then allows her to be feminine, vulnerable and sensitive around him.

If a woman feels like she is emotionally stronger than her man when in a relationship, it will cancel out her sexual attraction for him and she will begin feel attracted to other guys who are more masculine than he is.

Emotional strength is also just as important in work environments and around friends and family.

When you are the man who is emotionally stronger than everyone else (i.e. you don't crumble under pressure, you remain strong no matter what), people will then look up to you, respect you and admire you as a powerful, reliable source of strength in their life.

By being emotionally strong as a man, you are more likely to get promoted at work and friends are more likely to look up to you, respect your opinion and want to be around you.

6. Have a huge life purpose and follow through on it with unrelenting determination

A big part of how to be a better man is to have a huge purpose in life.

Essentially, this means having huge ambitions or dreams that you want to achieve and make happen in this lifetime.

The reason why I say, "follow through on it with unrelenting determination" is that anything really big that you want to achieve in life, will usually come along with many obstacles and challenges before you get to the final destination.

If you think about some of the most successful people in the world or people that you know personally (e.g. sports stars, business people, coworkers, family or friends), you will realize that, in almost all cases, it wasn't an easy straight line to success for them.

They had to make their way along many winding paths, take some detours, do a couple of u-turns, get through challenges and overcome obstacles before they eventually got to the amazing place that they are at now or that they eventually reached.

The same thing is most-likely going to happen in your life as you aim to become more successful and become a better man than you already are right now.

Although it's essential to have a positive mindset, the reality of life is that there are usually certain challenges and obstacles that anyone will encounter as they rise up to higher levels of success.

As long as you are prepared to follow through with unrelenting determination, you will eventually get there.

When you do reach your goals, you will be seen as a better man than most other guys on this planet who simply give up and think that life is too hard.

7. Be a good guy alpha male

A lot of guys are afraid of being an alpha male because they feel as though it's about bossing people around, being an asshole, being aggressive and being selfish.

However, that's not how it works at all.

Yes, there are some bad boy alpha males in this world, but the majority of alpha males in this world are good guys or fairly good guys.

If you are wondering how to be a better man, don't look past your natural ability to be a good guy alpha male. You will not be a bad boy, a bad person or an asshole if you take on an alpha male role in life.

Being a good guy alpha male essentially means going after what you want in life with confidence and unrelenting determination, while also being good to other people and being kind, loving and considerate.

If you think about some of the most respected men in history, you will see that they were good guy alpha males. Times were different back then, so they might have been a bit more ruthless than a modern man, but they were good guys for their time.

When you become more of an alpha male (i.e. you take on the lead when you can, you believe in yourself, you push forward to achieve what you want in life, you are assertive, etc), women find you irresistibly attractive and men respect you and look up to you.

8. Expand your mind by learning new things

[image: Harness the power of your mind]

An interesting thing about many people is that they assume that they've got everything worked out already and don't ever have to learn anything new.

Yet, we all have the capacity to keep learning, growing and become more wise and enlightened over time.

If we keep our mind open, we will always discover new, interesting things that have been right under our nose the entire time, but we simply weren't ready to see it.

For example: A lot of guys go through life thinking that women are only attracted to guys who are good looking and rich, but one of the enlightening things that I teach here at The Modern Man is that you can attract women in other ways (e.g. with your confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, humor, etc).

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works...

As you will discover from the video above, women can feel attracted to good looking rich guys, but they can also feel just as attracted to personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities in men.

Some women are extremely picky and will only accept a man with male model looks and truckloads of money, but most women have what I call an Open Type.

Having an Open Type means that they are open to feeling attracted to all different types of guys (e.g. overweight, bald, skinny, from other races, average looking, below average looking, etc) as long as the guy can make her feel enough attraction in other ways (e.g. with his confidence, charisma, masculinity, humor, etc).

9. Watch less porn and have more real sex

There's nothing wrong with looking at porn or masturbating to clear out a build up of semen that you haven't got rid of by having real sex.

Masturbating is completely natural and normal and porn is one of those cool gifts that comes along with an advanced civilization that has technology and has become less conservative about what it allows the public to access.

However, a lot of modern men have gotten sucked into jerking away their sexual desire, which then makes them less passionate about life, more prone to depression, less willing to approach women and less interested in maintaining a healthy sex life when in a relationship.

Poll

How often do you masturbate?

- ☐ Once a month
- ☐ Once a week
- ☐ A few times a week
- ☐ Every day
- ☐ Multiple times per day

Vote

View Results

[image: Loading ...]

Loading ...

So, if you are one of the many modern man who've been masturbating way too much, an important tip for you on how to be a better man is to keep your hand off it.

If you're over-masturbating, try to cut it back to once a week or twice a week if you absolutely have to. Instead of jerking away your built up sexual desire for women, use that desire to approach and have sex with new women or give it to your girlfriend, fianc  or wife.

10. Commit to a life that gets better and better over time

[image: It is possible to be happy and successful in life]

One of the keys to being a better man is to have a positive outlook on life, where you are continually working towards an even better life for yourself (and those in your life) over time.

You don't have to achieve everything tomorrow.

It may take you 10, 20 or 30 years to get to where you really want to be, but have a positive, forward moving attitude while you do it. Head towards a better future with a positive outlook and know that you will get there.

Don't get sucked into all the bad news around you.

For example: When a man watches too much bad news on TV or listens to the negative viewpoints of friends, he might begin to think that the world is screwed up, relationships are too difficult now and life is just getting worse and worse.

Yet, thinking about life in that way is only going to make a guy feel miserable and see no point to living at all.

To be a better man, try to focus on the bright side of life by paying attention to the people who are happy and successful in life and in their relationships, rather than focusing on all the bad news that you hear around you in every day life.

Personally speaking, I am a now close friend of many happy, successful people and life has never felt better than it does right now. I also have a confident, happy, sexy wife (she's 23 and I'm 38) who is just as excited about the future as I am.

However, prior to becoming the man that I am now, I tended to attract friends who were negative or who looked at life in a more pessimistic way. During those years of my life, I hated so many things about the world, the government and the people around me.

Yet, all that was a waste of time and energy. It got me nowhere and only left me feeling crap about life, myself and everyone else.

It's your choice whether you want to be a pessimist, optimist or somewhere in between, but what I've found is that, it's feel better and it is more effective to be positive and focus on creating a life that gets better and better over time.

When you approach life in that way, you become increasingly happier over time because you reach goals that make your life better. You feel proud of yourself for becoming a bigger and better man over time and the people around you look up to you and respect you because of it as well.

On the other hand, if a guy thinks about life in a negative way and believes that his life is just going to get worse and worse, it naturally kills his motivation, happiness and attractiveness to others and he ends up feeling depressed and out of place in this world.

So, here's what you always need to remember...

Regardless of what negative people say, the truth is that there are many successful, happy people in this world who started out at the bottom of the ladder in life and are now enjoying an amazing life. They worked their way towards success and happiness and it wasn't always easy, but they got there and they are now enjoying the benefits of that.

In terms of relationships, there are also millions of couples who are falling more deeply in love with each other over time and are enjoying life more and more as the years go on.

Think about the couples that you've seen who are still madly in love, happy and excited to be together after 20, 30 or even 40 years together.

That is what is possible for you.

You can be that happy about your life and you can be that happy in a relationship.

So, rather than getting sucked in by all the bad news that you see on TV or the pessimistic mindsets of the unsuccessful people around you, try to focus on the millions of people who are happy, successful and continually moving towards a better life over time.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Kind of Men Do Women Like?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Some women are very picky and will only go for specific types of men in terms of looks, height, financial status and race.

However, most women in this world have what I call an Open Type, which means that they are open to being with different types of men as long as he can make her feel attracted to him for other reasons (e.g. he is confident, charming, charismatic, makes her laugh, etc).

This is why you will see guys who average or below average looking with beautiful women, or guys who don't even have a job with a hot girlfriend. Likewise, you will also see women having relationships with or getting married to men from all kinds of races.

The Ultimate Kind of Man

[image: The ultimate kind of man]

The ultimate kind of man that almost all women like, is a good man who:

- Is confident around her and other people.
- Is masculine in the way that he thinks, feels and approaches his life (i.e. if there is a problem he finds a solution and then keeps moving forward, rather than wasting time getting emotional like a woman).
- Will love her and accept her for who she really is deep down, rather than constantly trying to change her or get her to be more like him.
- Has the ability to guide both himself and her into deeper feelings of respect, attraction and love over time, rather than expecting her to stay with him for life just because things felt good at the start.
- Has purpose in direction in life (i.e. he has ambition) and is determined to achieve what he is setting out to do in the long run, rather than just being a lost guy who doesn't even know what he should be doing with his life or who doesn't have the determination to follow through on his dreams.
- Is fearless when it comes to love, rather than approaching a relationship with a closed heart or insecure mindset.

All Men Can Actively Attract Women

[image: Any man can actively attract women]

Some men are born with better looks than others, but that doesn't mean that the rest of us can't actively attract women in other ways (e.g. by being confident, having a masculine vibe that makes a woman feel feminine in comparison, making her laugh, being charismatic and charming, etc).

The truth about attraction is that most women (not all) are more interested and attracted to how a guy's personality, behavior and inner qualities make her feel than on how he looks.

Yes, there are some women who only want a good looking guy, but the majority of women are much more flexible about what kind of man they will accept.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works and how you can use it to be the kind of man that women want...

As you will discover from the video above, the kinds of men that women can feel attracted to come in all sorts of shapes, sizes and races.

For example, all of the following type of men can attract women, even if they don't have male model looks, lots of money or aren't 6ft tall.

- An alpha male.
- A mysterious man.
- A charming man.
- An overweight man.
- A short man.
- A bald man.
- An ugly man.

The truth is, the kind of men that women have sex with, get into relationships with and even marry are not all the same.

These men don't all wear the same brand of clothing, listen to the same kind of music or lead the same type of lifestyle.

So, when it comes to the question of, "What kind of men do women like?" what you really should be asking yourself is, "How can I get women to feel attracted to me?"

Why? It doesn't actually matter if women like you as a person and think that you're a nice guy with good intentions.

Being nice to a woman is a good thing to do, but it only really matters to her AFTER you've made her feel attracted to you.

Being nice to her isn't the thing that makes her feel attracted to you. If you want her to feel attracted to you, it's about displaying the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

For example: If you interact with a woman and you are being confident, making her laugh, you are charming and you have a masculine vibe that makes her feel girly and feminine around you, then she will naturally feel a lot of attraction for you.

However, if you interact with a woman and come across as nervous, you hold back on cracking jokes because you're worried about saying the wrong thing and you make her feel neutral around you (rather than feminine), she's naturally going to feel turned off by you.

Attraction Comes First and Everything Else Flows Naturally After That

If you want to be the kind of man that women like, you must start off by making a woman feel attracted to you when you interact with her.

When you make a woman feel attracted to you first, she will then be more willing to overlook any minor (and sometimes major) differences between you and her, just so she can get to have sex with you and possibly be your girlfriend.

For example: If a guy is passionate about football and a woman that he meets hates football, it doesn't mean that she won't want to have sex with him, be his girlfriend or possibly even marry him one day.

As long as the all-important element of sexual attraction is present and she can look up to you and respect you as a man, then any minor or superficial differences (like a different taste in music or lifestyle interests) really don't matter much at all to most women.

In fact, if a woman gets into a relationship with a man who likes football, she will most-likely be willing to go to games with him or watch some games on the TV, just so she can get to spend time with him.

She doesn't have to become a fan or become passionate about football like he is, but she will at least accept his interest in football and appreciate it because it's something that makes him happy.

What Kind of Men Do Most Women Not Like?

[image: What kind of men do women not like?]

The kinds of men that most women don't like are those who are:

- Too nice.
- Too nervous or shy.
- Lacking purpose and direction in life.
- Lacking personality and charisma.
- Too arrogant or selfish.
- Lacking any alpha male qualities.

Essentially, the way to be successful with women is to just be the good guy that you are, but also have some balls.

Having balls means that you are confident, can be assertive if you need to and you have the emotional strength to handle any challenges that life throws at you.

However, don't forget to continuing being the good guy that you are.

A lot of guys get confused about what women really want in men and if they notice a woman with a bad boy, they assume that most women want that.

Yes, there are some women who want a bad boy for a lover or a boyfriend, but most guys aren't that and they still manage to get laid, get a girlfriend and get a wife.

Why? The majority of women in this world just want a good man who has enough balls to handle the challenges of life.

If a woman gets that sense about you, she will naturally feel attracted to who you are and will hope that your conversation with her leads to kissing, sex, relationship and then love.

It's pretty much as simple as that.

Once you can attract women in that way, you will realize that you are actually the kind of man that women like.

Yet, the reason you weren't getting good results in the past was that you simply lacked the ability to really attract women and turn them on when you talked to them.

Watch this video to understand more about what makes a woman feel attracted to a guy...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Sweet Things to Say to a Woman

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a woman is sexually attracted to you, most things you say to her will sound sweet and she will even perceive you as being charming.

Alternatively, if a woman isn't sexually attracted to you first, saying sweet things to her isn't going to suddenly trigger her feelings of lust and desire for you.

Essentially, there is nothing wrong with saying sweet things to a woman, but if you're not actively creating sexual attraction between you and her, she'll enjoy the flattery, but will end up only seeing you as a nice, sweet guy who is only "friend material" but nothing more.

So, if that's not what you want to happen, you need to be aware that even though a woman will appreciate it when you're sweet to her, there is more to making a woman feel attraction for you than just the sweet things you say to her.

Women Can Feel Attracted to Men For Many Different Reasons

What often happens is, guys make the mistake of assuming that women are attracted to them for the same reasons they are attracted to women. In other words, because most men are "visual" creatures and feel attracted to women because of how they look, they believe that women are attracted to men for the same reasons.

So, inevitably, because most guys in the world aren't male model look-alikes, they potentially write themselves off as not being "good enough" to get the type of women they really want.

When this happens, some guys might give up on women and dating and spend most of their life being single. Alternatively, a guy might end up dating (and even marrying) an unattractive woman that no other guys want, because he doesn't believe he can do better.

Then there are also some guys who look for ways to be liked by the type of women they really want.

For example, a guy like this might come up with some sweet things to say to a woman to flatter her in the hopes that she'll like him because he's being so attentive towards her.

Or, he might be super nice to her, or pretend to only be interested in her as a friend, etc., in the hopes that she'll eventually fall in love with him.

Sadly, what these guys don't realize is that women don't get attracted and turned on when any guy says a nice or sweet thing to them. You have to make a woman feel attracted and turned on by you first and she will then really love and appreciate anything sweet that you say to her.

What you need to understand about a woman's attraction for a man is that it usually needs to be proactively triggered. While a woman can feel attracted to a guy's looks, the majority of women don't feel enough attraction based on a guy's looks to want to have sex and begin a relationship.

Women want more than just looks in a guy. Yes, some women only want a good looking guy, but the majority of women are more interested in how a guy's personality and behavior (e.g. his confidence, charisma, charm, etc) attracts them and turns them on.

So, unlike a woman who only has to wear a sexy, short or tight dress, put on some makeup and fix her hair to attract a man, a man can make a woman feel attracted to him in many different ways other than looks.

For example, even if a guy is average looking, or even ugly, most women (not all) will overlook that if he can turn her on with his confidence, make her laugh, make her feel feminine and sexy in his presence, etc.

Most women have an Open Type when it comes to men, which basically means they are open to being approached by all sorts of guys as long as the guy can make her feel attraction for him when heâs interacting with her.

This is the main reason why you have probably seen many average looking, ugly, short, fat, bald or skinny guys dating, and even married to beautiful women. Itâs not because these guys are rich or famous or because they have something that you donât, but because they have been able to make their woman feel how she wants to feel when sheâs with him.

Naturally not all women will accept a guy who isnât tall, good looking, muscular or rich, but the majority of women will.

When a guy can make a woman feel sexually attracted to his personality, something strange actually begins to happenâ

He starts to look âhotâ to her. Physical âflawsâ like a big nose, a bald head, a crooked tooth, etc., will begin to look attractive to her, and it becomes that âcuteâ thing that only âher guyâ has that she really finds sexy.

On the other hand, no matter how attractive a guy is, most women will not feel attracted to him if he lacks confidence in himself and is insecure and nervous around her; which is also why youâll see so many good looking guys who are single.

Are You Looking For Sweet Things to Say to a Woman Because You Are Hoping it Will Make Her Like You Enough to Give You a Chance With Her?

The truth is, you can say sweet things to a woman andâ even though she might like you as a person, itâs not the same as her feeling attracted and turned on by you sexually.

Sexual attraction is what really counts when it comes to picking up women and getting them into a relationship with you. If you focus too much on trying to be liked for being a sweetâ guy, you will find yourself in the friend zone 99% of the time.

On the other hand, when you use your personality, your body language, your attitude, your communication style, etc., to attract her, then sheâll love to hear the sweet things you say to her because they will make her feel special and girly.

Hereâs an example scenario of how two guys can say the same thing to a woman, and get completely different results, simply because of how they each make her feel during conversation.

Example Guy #1 â George.

George is a really nice, attractive guy, who is insecure and self-doubting around attractive women. However, George believes that if he can say sweet things to a woman, she will like him and she will overlook his nervousness and insecurity.

So, the next time George sees an attractive woman he likes, he approaches her and engages her in conversation. He then says, â€œDo you know your smile makes me think of the beach?â€ She smiles back at him and asks, â€œReally, why?â€

However, because George is only using a line he learned by rote, he becomes flustered when she challenges him, starts to stumble over his words and ends up feeling and looking foolish.

Why?

Although George knew the right things to say to a woman, he didn't really know how to use them to open up the flow of conversation between him and her, and then use that conversation to make her feel sexually attracted to him.

Example Guy #2 â€œ James.

On the other hand, there is a guy called James.

James is a little on the short side with a big nose and a few extra pounds around the waist. However, James is a confident guy who believes in himself.

When he approaches a beautiful woman and says, â€œYour smile makes me think of the beach,â€ he uses her challenging, â€œReally, why?â€ as an opportunity to create even more attraction between him and her.

He might smile back and say, â€œBecause it makes me feel warm and happy; like Iâ€™m on vacation,â€ and use that as an opportunity to make her feel even happier to be talking to him by saying, â€œSpeaking of vacations; if you could go anywhere in the world right now, where would you go and why?â€

However, the truth is, it doesn't really matter what James says to her, only that he says it with confidence and self-assurance and that he keeps her excited to be talking to him.

So, even though he doesn't look like a male model, she finds him fun and sexy because she's feeling attracted to him because of his confidence, his humor, or even the fact that he doesn't fall to pieces when she challenges him.

Being Sweet to a Woman Isn't Good Enough

There's nothing wrong with being sweet to a woman and being a good guy. However, that's not what is going to make her feel sexually turned on, and if a woman doesn't feel turned on by you, she's not going to be interested in pursuing a sexual and romantic relationship with you.

What often happens is guys approach a beautiful woman and hope that by being overly nice or sweet towards her, she's going to say, â€œWow! This guy is so sweet! I want to have sex with him and start a relationship with him.â€

That's not how it works.

What a lot of nice, sweet guys don't understand, is that the majority of guys in this world are nice and sweet. In fact, if a woman is attractive, most of the guys she meets every day are going to be nice and sweet to her.

So, when a guy approaches a woman and says sweet things to her, it doesn't mark him out as being any different from most of the guys she's already met.

What makes a guy stand out from all the other nice, sweet guys in the world is his ability to trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of her.

Essentially, when you are interacting with a woman, you are either displaying the personality traits and behaviors (e.g. confidence, charm, humor, etc.) that naturally attract women and turn them on, or you are not.

If you are just being nice to women, or only saying sweet things when you interact with them, you cannot expect them to feel turned on by you and want to have sex with you, or start a sexual relationship with you.

Being More Than Just a Sweet Guy

These days, a guy needs to be able to say and do things that will actively turn women on, rather than just hoping that women will give him a chance simply because he is nice and sweet and has good intentions.

Today's modern woman will select a man for sex and relationships based first, on his ability to make her feel sexual attraction for him, and only then will she decide if she wants to be in a relationship with him.

So, if you've been wasting time thinking that by saying sweet things to women you will get lucky, hopefully by now you realize that when you make a woman feel sexual attraction to your personality, your confidence and charisma, etc., everything you say and do will seem sweet and charming to her.

The, rather than hoping to get lucky with a woman who will give you a chance (and probably lose interest later if you are unable to deepen her attraction when in a relationship), you will have your pick of beautiful women and you will be able to keep a woman happy, committed and in love when in a relationship with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Attracts Women to Men the Most?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The thing that attracts women to men the most is a man's ability to trigger their feelings of sexual attraction for him based on his personality, behavior and inner qualities.

For example: If a guy is confident, has a masculine vibe, is charismatic and charming, then a woman will naturally feel attracted to him.

A lot of guys waste their life thinking that women must be most attracted to a guy's money, looks or height, but they fail to remember that most guys aren't rich, don't have male model looks and are of fairly average height.

So, how can average or below average looking guys get hot women without being rich, famous or more than 6ft tall? How can a normal, every day guy be the sort of man who makes a woman feel intense attraction for him?

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works...

As you will discover by watching the video above, a woman can feel attracted to superficial things like money, looks and height, but most women (not all) can be intensely attracted to other qualities about men (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, masculine vibe, etc).

Understanding Attraction

What often happens is that most men make the mistake of thinking that women feel attracted to men for the same reasons that men feel attracted to women.

In other words, because men are mostly attracted to women who are beautiful, they then assume the same rules apply to women, and that women are attracted the most to men who are, as the common cliché sums it up, â€œtall, dark and handsome.â€

However, what guys like that don't realize is that most women (not all), are more attracted to who a guy is inside (i.e. to his personality traits and behaviors), than what he looks like on the outside.

For example: A woman might look at a guy and say, â€œOh, he's really handsomeâ€ or â€œWow! He's a really good looking guy,â€ but it's not the main thing that is going to make her decide if she wants to have sex with him, or be his girlfriend or wife.

If she interacts with him and he behaves in ways that naturally are unattractive to women (e.g. he's nervous, his conversation style is dull, he puts on an act and pretends to be someone he is not just to impress her), then his â€œgood looksâ€ will suddenly â€œfadeâ€ in her eyes, because his behavior is turning her off at a deep, instinctive level.

So, even though before she starts interacting with him she is thinking to herself, â€œHe's so hot! I'd love to hook up with him,â€ when she starts talking to him he fails to create attraction between him and her, then naturally her feelings towards him will change.

If over the course of their conversation together, his unattractive behavior (e.g. his lack of self confidence, his nervousness and insecurity, or if he is arrogant and thinks being good looking is enough so he doesn't even try to attract her during conversation), becomes apparent to her, she will start thinking, â€œHmmm, heâ€™s not really as good looking as I thought,â€ or, â€œSure heâ€™s cute, but heâ€™s just not my type.â€

Regardless of how good looking he is, if a guy is not making a woman feel the way she wants to feel when she interacts with him, i.e. if he is not triggering her feelings of sexual desire for him, then she is not going to feel excited about talking to him; no matter how good looking he is.

Naturally, there are women out there that will only talk to, have sex with and date very good looking guys, but the majority of women want more from a guy than just a pretty face or big muscles.

That is why so many plain, average or even unattractive guys in the world are walking around with hot girlfriends or wives; they simply have the personality traits that make them irresistible to women.

Making Women Feel Attracted to You is Easier Than You Think

If you want to know what attracts women to men the most, you need to first realize that it has more to do than just looks. It has to do with making women feel naturally attracted to your personality and to who you are as a man.

You can do that by:

- Being confident and relaxed when you talk to her.
- Making her feel girly and feminine in contrast to your masculinity.
- Making her laugh and feel turned on during conversation.

By displaying these and other personality traits that are naturally attractive to women, you wonâ€™t have to make the mistakes that guys make that turn women off.

Here are 3 common mistakes to avoid making if you want women to feel attracted to youâ€¦!

1. Presenting yourself as a friend rather than a lover.

Most guys are raised by well-intentioned mothers who teach their sons, â€œTo get a woman to like you and want to be your girlfriend, you have to be a nice guy.â€

Naturally, there is nothing wrong with being nice to women and being a good guy, but if you want women to feel attracted to you and want to have sex with you and be your girlfriend, being nice to her and pretending to be her friend isnâ€™t what is going to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

For example: A common mistake guys make when they interact with a woman they want to get into a sexual relationship with is to pretend that they have â€œgood intentions.â€

A guy like this believes that being sweet and friendly with a woman is what she really wants. He has probably heard women saying, â€œGuys can be such jerks! I just want to find a nice guy for a change,â€ or â€œWhy are all the nice guys taken?â€

When a nice guy hears these things, it just confirms to him what his mother taught him when he was a little boy. He then makes the mistake of thinking that if he is extra nice and sweet around women, they will think, â€œAh! Finally! A nice guy I can have sex with and fall in love with!â€

However, thatâ€™s not how it works. In fact, if he interacts with a woman in this way and pretends that he only has friendly intentions towards her, and if he then asks her out on a date or tries to kiss her, she will likely give him the, “You are a really nice guy, but I don’t have feelings for you,” speech.

The main thing you must remember is that what attracts women to men the most is not a man’s niceness, or his ability to be friendly, but rather his ability to trigger her feelings of sexual desire.

Niceness isn’t some extraordinary quality that makes a guy stand out from the crowd, because all over the world, most guys are nice guys. Most guys are sweet and friendly.

So if a woman is going to pick a guy who she wants to have sex with or be in a relationship with, she needs him to make her feel a lot more than just nice, friendly feelings for him.

The more you can trigger a woman’s feelings of excitement and sexual desire for you when you interact with her, the more she will want to have sex with you and be in a relationship with you.

2. Offering her all the wrong things to attract her.

Another mistake guys make when they want to get a woman to like them, is to assume that if they spoil her with gifts, expensive dinners, pay for her drinks if they are in a bar or club, and generally do whatever they can to impress her, she won’t be able to help herself from falling for them.

In reality, although a woman may use a guy’s generosity to enjoy herself and feel spoiled, she’s not going to think, “Wow! This guy is really spending all this money on me and taking care of me, I think I’m going to have sex with him.”

Naturally there are women who will have sex with a guy if he spoils her and buys her gifts, and there’s a name for those types of women.

However, the majority of women aren’t going to fall into bed with a guy just because he is paying for dinner, and they certainly are not going to feel a lot of respect for him as a man either.

The number one thing that women are looking for is a man who makes them feel sexual attraction and who they can also look up to and respect.

3. Not understanding that women like to test men.

What a lot of guys fail to realize is that women test men all the time. It doesn’t matter if a woman has only just met a guy, if she’s been dating him, or if she has been married to him for a very long time, and it doesn’t matter if a guy is a novice at attracting women and making them feel respect and attraction for him, or if he’s a pro; women will still test a guy.

So, why do women test men?

It is a way for a woman to see if the man is actually man enough to handle her, and if she sees that he can, she will then feel even more attraction and respect for him.

On the other hand, if a woman tests a guy, for example, by pretending to be bored during conversation, or by pretending to lose interest in him, if the guy then becomes flustered, anxious and tries even harder to impress her, she will lose respect for him and she will write him off as not being man enough for her.

What happens to a lot of guys when they realize that a woman is testing them is they get angry. They will say, “Why do women play games? Why can’t they just say what they want like us guys do?”

What they don’t understand is that women are not men, and a woman tests, rather than be a game, can actually be an opportunity for a guy to make her feel more attraction for him by showing her that heâs confident enough to âtake itâ and still stay calm, no matter what she throws at him.

When you can maintain your confidence in yourself and not get flustered by the test that sheâs putting you through and just continue to believe in yourself, it can actually make her feel more attracted to you.

When You Trigger Her Feelings of Sexual Attraction She Canât Help But Feel Drawn to You

What attracts women to men the most is a manâs ability to make her feel the things she wants to feel when sheâs interacting with him.

She will be thinking:

- Does this guy turn me on, or turn me off?
- Does his conversation style make me laugh and feel excited, or does it make me feel bored?
- Does he make me feel good about myself and excited to be interacting with him, or is he making me look for ways to get away from him?

When interacting with women, what youâve got to be able to do is make them feel attracted to who you are as a guy. Attraction always comes first, and then everything else (sex, dating, a relationship) will happen naturally.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Do Women Like to Be Called Beautiful?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Yes.

However, a beautiful woman only really cares about compliments like that from a guy who can make her feel attracted to him.

If a guy that doesn't even know how to attract her and turn her on says, "You're beautiful" she might be nice about it and say, "Thanks," but she's not going to think, "WOW! I'm not attracted to him, but hey – he thinks I'm beautiful. WOW! Maybe he is the guy for me!"

Why?

Simple.

Beautiful women are sick and tired of the fact that pretty much every guy wants to bang them. Watch this video to understand why...

As you will discover from the video above, if a woman is beautiful, most guys in this world will happily stick their middle leg inside of her and many of those guys will also be willing to have a relationship with her...even if they don't like her personality.

So, before you tell a woman that she is beautiful, make sure that you make her feel attracted to YOU first.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to make beautiful women feel attracted to you...

As you will discover from the video above, you can actually make a beautiful woman think that you are sexy, handsome and attractive even if you look average or below average looking. It's weird, but that's how a woman's attraction for a man works.

Do Women Enjoy Being Called Beautiful?

It depends on who is saying it.

There are different instances in which a woman will either be delighted by the compliment, or instances where she will feel put out. Giving a woman a compliment is usually acceptable, but because there are times when compliments come with a host of underlying issues and expectations, a woman will usually only prefer to be called beautiful by a man she already feels attracted to.

Some good examples of when women do not like to be called beautiful areâ€¦

Being complimented by a guy she finds creepy. When a woman refers to a guy as being â€œcreepyâ€œ it is usually the type of guy who suppresses his real personality, hides his emotions (or bottles them up) and pretends that he is not interested in sex.

Now if a creepy guy says, â€œYou're so beautifulâ€œ to a woman, she might start to worry that he will snap out of his usual state of â€œno emotionsâ€œ and attack her. Being called beautiful by a guy like this is definitely not welcomed.

Another example of when a woman doesn't like to be told that she is beautiful is when a guy uses compliments to hide his lack of conversation skills.

If a guy is nervous about talking to women, and he lacks confidence in himself and in his self worth, he may keep telling a woman “You’re just so beautiful,” “Do you know how beautiful you are?” or “I can’t believe that I’m talking to such a beautiful woman like you.”

If he has nothing else to say, this type of conversation will just make her feel uncomfortable. Although every woman likes a compliment now and then, if all a guy does is tell her how beautiful she is and nothing else, he again comes across as being creepy as well as insecure.

Another example is the type of guy who has no idea how to approach a woman that he finds attractive.

His idea for an approach might be to be the perfect gentleman by walking up to her and saying, “Wow, you’re so beautiful!” A beautiful woman, especially one who is self confident and secure in herself, already knows that she is beautiful.

If a guy walks up to her out of nowhere and the first thing out of his mouth is a remark about her looks, she is likely to shrug it off as just another guy after her because of her looks, and she won’t be impressed.

Some guys use compliments about a woman’s beauty to get her to have sex with them. If calling her beautiful is all he has, then he is likely not going to get far with her (unless she is very insecure about herself).

Most women want to know that a guy is interested in them for more than just their looks, and in turn, they are attracted to the guy for more than just his compliments.

In certain instances it may be okay for a guy who is only her friend to call her beautiful, but she will feel a little weird and won’t want to give him the wrong impression.

She will likely say something like, “Oh, you’re so sweet. You’re such a good friend” or “You’re so nice. Why don’t you have a girlfriend?”

Often, guys like this will misinterpret what she is saying and think it’s a come on. Unfortunately, if this friend is harboring secret feelings for her, the whole situation can get weird and uncomfortable.

Finally, a woman does not like to be called beautiful by a guy that she does not feel attracted to. If a woman doesn’t feel attracted to a guy and she is never going to have sex with him, being called beautiful by him can make her feel uncomfortable.

This is especially true if this guy is relentless and thinks that if he compliments her enough times she will change her mind about him and will give in to his advances.

So, when do women like to be called beautiful?

There are instances where complimenting a woman on her beauty will be accepted. For example, If a woman is beautiful but suffers from low self esteem, she will thrive on being called beautiful because it is a way for her to make herself feel better about herself.

In this case if a guy tells her she is beautiful she will happily accept the compliment; even though she may not feel attracted to the guy or want anything to do with him. She may even give him some false signals to keep him interested in her so that he can keep telling her how beautiful she is and she can keep feeling good about herself.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Steps of Dating

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Every couple is different.

Yet, in most cases, the steps of dating usually follow the same basic path:

1. The woman will usually wait for the man to make the first move by approaching her and starting an interaction.

If you don't have the confidence to approach the kinds of women you really want, watch this video...

2. As soon as he approaches, the man will begin to make her feel attracted to his personality, behavior and conversation style.

If you don't know how to attract women when you interact with them, watch this video.

3. He will then ask for (and get) her contact details (best if it's her phone number), or he will skip the steps of dating by kissing her and having sex with her immediately.

4. A few days later he will call her up (or contact her online if she has only given him her online details) to arrange a date.

5. On the first date, his primary responsibility is to continue building the sexual attraction between him and her.

6. At the end of the date, depending on the amount of sexual tension built up between them during the date, he will either kiss her goodbye (with the understanding that they will hook up again very soon), or they will move on to the next step, which is having sex.

7. Once they have sex, the interaction automatically goes from the casual phase to the dating phase.

8. They will then continue dating and having sex until they both decide that they want to be in an exclusive relationship with each other (or they decide to move on).

However, the most important thing is to make a woman feel sexually attracted to you right away, so that the sexual courtship can flow naturally from the one stage to the next.

It's Up to You to Take the Lead

[image: Take the lead by approaching first]

The most important step when it comes to dating is that you, as the man, take the lead.

Where guys often go wrong, is they assume that approaching a woman and asking her out is the main thing and then everything will happen all by itself. However, that's not how it works.

Often a guy will go as far as getting a first date and maybe even a second date, yet in the end the woman will either say, "I really like you, but I only see you as a friend," or she'll just come out and say, "I don't think this is working out."

Why does this happen?

Usually this happens because the guy has failed to take the lead in the relationship, and lead him and her through the natural steps of a modern courtship.

In the past, dating wasn't common and if a man and a woman did go out on a date, it was usually under the supervision of a suitable chaperone, so holding hands, kissing and sex was virtually impossible.

Today, however, the steps of dating have changed and a modern woman expects to hold hands, get kissed and even have sex before she makes the decision to be in a committed relationship with a man.

These days, a woman doesn't consider herself to be a slut, or to be doing anything wrong when she has sex with a guy before marriage, or even if she has sex with him on the first date. Basically that's how the world works now, and these are the normal steps of the modern relationship.

So, don't think that you need to be a good boy who has to take a woman out on dates for weeks or months, pay for everything and never make a move to touch or kiss her until many months later.

Most women (not all) are looking for a guy who knows what he wants and who has the confidence to move the sexual courtship along quickly.

There are some women (especially in certain cultures) that still hold out from having sex too soon, or even before marriage, but in most cases, a modern woman will be eager to move things forward quickly.

If you've managed to create enough attraction between you and her during the date (with your confidence, charisma and conversation style, etc.), most women will usually be hoping that sex will happen right away, or at least pretty quickly, so she can then decide how she really feels about you and whether she wants to keep on dating you or not.

Some Classic Mistakes Guys Make When it Comes to Dating

Although the steps of dating are pretty simple, sometimes guys who lack experience with women make some mistakes that can easily be avoided, but end up costing them the relationship before it even gets started.

These mistakes include the following:

1. Being too much of a gentleman.

Many guys are raised by mothers who teach them that to get a woman to like them and want to be in a relationship with them, they have to behave like gentlemen.

Unfortunately, these guys make the mistake of believing that being a gentleman means that they have to be super nice to a woman and treat her like a princess and pretend that sex isn't even something they ever think about, let alone expect to have with her sometime in the near future.

These guys may go as far as asking a woman out on a date and then spend the date pretending not to be interested in anything more than opening the passenger side car door for her to get in, pulling out her chair, and spoiling her with an expensive dinner.

That's not what women want.

Although there is absolutely nothing wrong with being a good guy and treating a woman nicely during a date, the main thing most (not all) women want from a man when they are out on a date with him, is for him to make her feel sexually attracted to him.

Yes, a woman will enjoy the five-star treatment, but if he's not making her feel sexually attracted, she will just assume that he only wants to be friends, and even though she may â€œlikeâ€ him, sheâ€™s not going to see him as someone sheâ€™s going to have sex with or be in a relationship with.

So when it comes to dating, donâ€™t waste time trying to be liked by a woman, or pretending that youâ€™re not interested in anything sexual with her because youâ€™re a â€œgentleman.â€

The most important thing of all is that you start out by making her feel sexually attracted to you.

2. Taking too long to move things along.

Another classic mistake that guys who are shy, nervous and insecure around women make, is to take too long to move from one step to the next.

For example: A guy might pluck up the courage to ask a woman for her phone number, yet, when he gets it he doesnâ€™t know what to do with it.

He might end up debating with himself,

- Should I phone her or text her?
- How soon should I contact her; should I wait one day or one week?
- Should I ask her out on a date, or should I just ask her to hang out with friends?
- Will she even remember me when I contact her?
- What if she isn't interested in me anymore?
- Should I just send her a text to see how keen she is, before I call her?

If he gets as far as contacting her, this guy can spend days and even weeks sending her â€œcuteâ€ text messages without ever getting up the courage to ask her out on a date.

Alternatively, there is the guy who gets as far as calling her up and asking her out on a date, but then fails to move things along after that, by not showing her that heâ€™s interested in her sexually by triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for him.

What this guy doesnâ€™t understand is that a woman will choose to have sex and date a man based on her sexual attraction for him, but sheâ€™s not going to sit forever waiting for him to move things along.

If a guy canâ€™t â€œtake the bull by the hornsâ€ and move things along fast enough for her, she will â€œswitch offâ€ and turn her attention to a guy who can turn her on, and who can then release the sexual energy that has built up inside her with kissing and sex, right away.

Just Be Yourself, But Be Attractive in How You Interact With Her

When you are the kind of guy who can trigger a womanâ€™s sexual desire with your confidence, charisma and humor, you donâ€™t have to worry about following some kind of dating protocol. You can just be yourself and keep moving forward through the steps of dating.

Don't know how to make a woman feel that way? Watch this video...

Essentially, when you make a woman feel the way she wants to feel when sheâ€™s with a man (i.e. attracted, turned on, girly and feminine in comparison to your masculinity), the steps of dating will unfold naturally and all by themselves without you having to put much effort in at all.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

The Coolest Guy in the World: Does He Exist?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you were to take a poll asking people who they think is the coolest guy in the world, you'd probably end up with hundreds or possibly thousands of different answers.

This is because being cool means different things to different people.

To be cool can be defined as the ability to be comfortable with oneself, no matter what situation you find yourself in.

What Are the Qualities That Make a Guy Cool?

Before we can even think about who might be the coolest guy in the world, we first have to define what makes a guy cool.

Although there are certain characteristics of cool that are endemic to specific people and cannot be copied by others, there are a list of qualities that apply to most cool guys.

For example:

- A guy who is considered as being cool is always a hit with the ladies regardless of whether he is good looking, rich or famous.
- A guy who is considered as being cooler than other guys, is often an alpha male.
- A cool guy has confidence and high self esteem.
- A cool guy believes in himself no matter what.
- A cool guy is mentally and emotionally strong; he knows what he wants and he goes out and gets it. You will never see him waiting for a woman he likes to choose him; he chooses her.
- A guy who is cool is a great conversationalist, especially when talking to women. He knows exactly what to say and how to say it to draw people, and especially women, out and make them open up to him.
- A cool guy has mastered the art of flirting. He knows how to use words and body language to seduce a woman until she is weak at the knees and wanting something sexual to happen.
- A cool guy has purpose and direction. He knows what he wants to achieve in his life and makes every effort to accomplish his goals.
- A cool guy knows how to make a woman feel like a real woman. He is masculine in his energy and behavior, but also treats a woman well and makes her feel beautiful, feminine and appreciated.
- A cool guy is charming, funny and interesting.

Finally, and probably the most important point of all, a cool guy is totally comfortable with himself.

He doesn't need to wear the latest fashions, drive the latest cars or live in the trendiest neighborhoods to be cool.

He is cool because he likes himself and doesn't need anyone else's approval before he feels good about himself.

So, Who is the Coolest Guy in the World?

Anyone can be the coolest guy in their social scene, but when it comes to the coolest guy in the world, we can only look at the guys who personify the qualities mentioned above.

Based on popular opinion, some of the coolest guys in the world, both past and present, include:

Elvis Presley

A list of the coolest guys in the world cannot be complete without mentioning “the King of Rock and Roll.”

If there was ever a man who personified “cool” it was Elvis.

His way with the ladies was legendary and arguably, no one has come close to oozing charm and charisma the way he did.

Elvis Presley was an alpha male through and through and is a good example of a man who was supremely self confident, lived with a lot of drive and motivation and was totally comfortable being himself.

Even when he became addicted to drugs and started putting on weight, he still maintained his charm and he never lost his touch with the ladies.

Robert Redford

At the time of writing this post, Robert Redford is 77 years old and yet, he is still regarded as one of the most charismatic and sexiest men in the world by women.

Not only is he an actor, but he is also a businessman, a producer, a film director, a passionate environmentalist, a philanthropist and the founder of the Sundance Film Festival.

Still active in movies as an actor, director and even a narrator, he continues to be a man who commands respect.

His appeal with the ladies has not waned with age and neither has his confidence and personal drive. He is a man who although understated, commands attention when he walks into a room.

Brad Pitt

Brad Pitt is cool because of the way he morphs.

He can change his look to suit any role, whether in real life or on screen and his boyish good looks and consummate charm keep him firmly in the limelight.

However, he is not cool because he is famous.

He is cool because he is so completely relaxed with himself.

Although he has often been regarded as the sexiest man in the world, he is equally comfortable in an Armani suit at the Oscars as he is wearing jeans and a T shirt and playing with his kids.

As for his appeal with the ladies...that goes without saying.

Usain Bolt

This man is all charm.

He ran himself into the record books as the fastest man on earth and his flamboyant style and theatrical sense of humor has made people fall in love with him all over the world.

He is someone who walks and talks with confidence and there is no doubt that he believes in himself and in his abilities.

He knows his worth and his place in the world and does an excellent job of being the fastest man alive.

His charm is so great that women swoon over him from the stands at every track event all around the world.

If you're looking for cool, then look no further than Usain Bolt.

Bruce Lee

For a man who died at the age of 32, Bruce Lee has left behind a legend that is phenomenal.

Not only was he widely regarded as one of the best and most influential martial artists who ever lived, but he also founded the art of Jeet Kune Do and became the 1958 Hong Kong Cha cha champion.

He was an actor, a film maker and a martial arts instructor as well as a philosopher.

He is credited with helping change how Asians were portrayed in American films and many actors, musicians, athletes, philosophers and artists regard him as one of the most influential figures from the 20th century.

As a man, Bruce Lee was confident, disciplined and supremely driven.

His charisma and charm seduces people (and women) even to this day.

Of course, this list could go on and on without ending.

Men such as Sir Richard Branson, Christopher Reeve, George Clooney, Richard Gere, etc, are other examples of men who made and still make, their mark in the world.

As for picking just one guy to be the coolest guy in the world, well that would simply be impossible.

Of course, we could just say that you are the coolest guy in the world.

Who could argue with that?

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Do Women Like To Be Looked At?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Yes.

Women know that the most attractive thing about them is their physical appearance, so they want to be appreciated for it.

However, women don't like it when guys look at them and:

- Try hide it.
- Go overboard and become sleazy about it.
- Stare at her in a creepy, needy way.

Perving on women from behind and then nervously trying to hide it when they notice is usually labeled as creepy behavior by women.

[image: Perving on a woman behind her back]

Women want you to be relaxed and honest about your attraction for them, rather than thinking that it's a sin and you should be ashamed of yourself for feeling the natural human emotion of attraction. Women like it when they are looked at by a confident guy who loves and appreciates her for who she is, but doesn't get all weird about it.

Essentially, you just look at her in a calm, confident way and love and accept her for who she is. You feel welcome to look at her because you too are an attractive guy.

Don't think that you are attractive enough for a beautiful woman? Think again.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can get women to feel MORE attraction for you than you feel for them!

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of direct control over how much or little attraction that women feel for you.

Women don't really care about looks as much as we men do, so you need to use that to your advantage.

For example: If you approach and talk to a woman, you can make her feel attracted to your confidence, charisma, charm, humor and masculine vibe.

When she feels attracted to you based on that, you can then increase her attraction by being a bit of a challenge to win over.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

As you will discover from the video above, most guys are unwilling to offer a woman any sort of challenge because they want her simply based on her looks.

Yet, that is boring for her.

If she is attractive, then pretty much every guy wants to have sex with her, at least once.

She wants a bit more of a challenge, so she can feel as though she is scoring herself a quality guy, rather than just letting one of the billions of guys who want to have sex with her the chance to stick it to her.

Stunned By Your Feelings of Attraction

[image: Stunned by your feelings of attraction for her]

If we were to reveal the Achilles Heel of every man, it would definitely be a beautiful woman.

When a beautiful woman walks into a room, it is her intention to get the attention of every guy there.

Women know that their physical appearance is the most attractive thing to us men and that with the sway of their hips, a pout of their lips and a flick of their hair, they can make a man forget his own name (well not really, but you know what I mean).

With powerful weapons such as these would you even ask do women like to be looked at? After all, why would they not want to be looked at?

The multi-billion dollar beauty and make-up, fashion, weight loss, jewellery, hair product and perfume industries thrive because women primp and preen themselves to be more beautiful so that they can be looked at, by men.

Why else would they do it?

Young teenage girls do it, married women do it, grandmas do it, women in the military do it and women working in rice paddies do it.

No matter which culture you look at anywhere in the world; there are women making themselves look beautiful; once again, to be looked at by men.

Not just their own husbands, boyfriends or partners either; they like to be looked at by just about any guy.

Yet, in the movies and on TV you will often see women reacting badly to being looked at. Why? Because it's entertaining for the audience and it panders to the wide variety of audiences who will watch the show.

It is a popular form of humor because it hits so close to the truth; that women are looked at by guys all the time.

It's true to say that women don't like being jeered or harassed, but they do like it when a guy appreciates their beauty in a relaxed, easy-going and non-threatening way.

Leering, crude comments and wolf whistles are not appreciated, but looking and appreciating her efforts definitely is.

We men look at women and that is totally natural and normal because it is how we decide whether or not a woman is worth investing any time into. How else will a guy know if he finds a woman appealing?

On the other hand, most women (not all) rarely look at a guy and think, "I would have sex with him and get into a relationship with him purely based on his appearance."

There are times when a woman is being playful about looking at guys when she's hanging out with her girlfriends or after having a few drinks, but you will rarely see a woman check out a guy like a guy would check out a girl.

Ultimately we should always remember that women and men are different in many ways; from our emotional make up, to how we attract and interact with the opposite sex.

For us men, we decide whether or not we'd have sex with a woman in a fraction of a second.

We can literally undress a woman with our eyes and think, "Yep, I'd tap that."

[image: Man mentally undressing a woman]

A woman, however, needs to interact with the guy, talk to him and engage in meaningful conversation, so that she can find out whether or not he's confident, masculine (in his thinking, behavior and actions), socially intelligent, and to see if she feels any sexual attraction for him.

Women use a different set of criteria to judge a guy from a distance, than a guy would use to judge them.

Just as guys look at a woman's physical beauty, a woman will look at the way he approaches her, how he interacts with her and how he treats her when they are alone and in front of others.

Women need more information about a guy before she will decide whether she finds him attractive or not.

If a woman was to base her attraction on mere looks, then she would simply go for the best looking, biggest or the strongest guy, and this is obviously not the case; how else would you explain all the ordinary looking guys who have hot girlfriends?

To a woman, just because a guy is good looking, doesn't mean that he would be a capable provider or protector, or that he would be able to give her physical and emotional support when she needs it.

This is why women are attracted to guys who behave like real men.

Real men are not necessarily the good looking guys, but they are definitely the guys with the most self confidence, a healthy self esteem and are forward thinkers who know what they want from life and are doing everything in their power to get it.

Women like to be looked at by guys who display real man qualities because this makes them feel wanted and like a real woman.

Women will also sometimes look at a good looking guy and say, "Oooh, he's hot" but they will instantly lose interest in him if they notice that he isn't confident (by observing him), or if they talk to him and see that he lacks self confidence.

Other turn offs include guys who are boring and who cannot engage a woman in conversation and who do not know how to flirt.

Guys who use body language inappropriately and who make a woman feel tense and uncomfortable are also a turn off, as are guys who are mentally and emotionally weak.

Women like to be looked at because they know that this is how they will attract the best of the male species; the guy who stands out from the rest because of his confidence, mental and emotional strength and social intelligence.

He is the guy who will always hold sway over his less dominant, less accomplished and less charming counterparts and this is the guy a woman wants to attract by making herself beautiful.

If a guy looks at a woman in a natural, relaxed way and shows appreciation for the efforts she's made to beautify herself she will respond favorably.

Women like to be appreciated and to have their efforts valued, and if the guy is confident enough to show her that he appreciates her beauty and her efforts, he will definitely make a lasting impression on her.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Special Ways to Tell Someone You Love Them

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The most special way to tell someone you love them is to create so much attraction in her that she feels she will burst if she doesn't hear those words from you.

Then, no matter where you are, or what you are doing at the time, when you say "I love you" to her, she will be so excited and so thrilled to hear it, it will feel wonderful and special to her.

That's how it should work, but many guys make the mistake outlined in this video, so they end up getting rejected when they tell a woman about their feelings...

You must ensure that she feels sexually attracted to you, before you express any feelings for her.

If she just sees you as a friend, it won't matter that you're saying, "I love you," because the feelings won't be mutual.

She might love you as a friend, but not in a sexual way, so she will reject your attempts to transition from a friendship to a romantic relationship.

When Should You Say, "I Love You" to a Woman?

I recommend that you say it after you've been having sex.

For example: You and her have just had sex and while she is lying in your arms, you say "I love you" to her.

That will be special to her because you will have already made her love in the way you created and then released the sexual tension her via kissing, touching and sex.

Be warned though: Many modern women hate it when a guy says, "I love you" first. They prefer a guy to wait, so she can be the one who says it first.

You have to trust your gut instinct on that.

Now, assuming that your woman wants you to say it first, here's another example...

You and her may be watching a movie together at home and something she has been looking forward to seeing for a long time.

By making the effort to do what she wants at times, she already sees it as a sign that you care about her, because you are making an effort to enjoy something she likes with her; even if it's not something that really appeals to you.

Then, when you put your arms around her and tell her you love her, she will feel that it's special, because not only are you saying the words, you are also showing her with your actions.

Essentially, there are many different special ways to tell someone you love them, however, the most important thing to remember is:

1. When you make her feel attracted and build up the sexual between you and her, then when you tell her you love her, it will feel special to her.
2. No matter how special the way you tell someone you love them, if the timing is wrong, she won't be excited to hear it.

The Consequences of Telling a Woman That You Love Her Before Youâve Triggered Her Feelings of Attraction

Telling a woman you love her, especially at the beginning of a relationship, can instantly bring you and her closer together and can take the relationship to the next level, (i.e. you may decide to date each other exclusively, it may lead to you moving in together, or it may even lead to you both deciding to get married).

However, even though saying âI love you is a great way to cement a new relationship and make it even stronger, there are a few times when telling someone you love them can actually ruin the relationship before it has actually had a chance to grow.

So, before you say it,Â make sure you donât fall into one of the following categories:

1. Saying âI love you too soon.

A classic mistake guys often make, is telling a woman they love her before they have actually triggered her feelings of sexual attraction for them.

Some guys will say âI love you to a beautiful woman within a relatively short time of meeting her, because of how much lust and desire they are feeling for her.

However, itâs not something that you should rush into and say to a woman to express your feelings of lust for her.

Even if you are certain that itâs not lust that is driving you, but genuine love, you first have to be sure that youâve triggered her feelings of sexual attraction for you, so she will be happy when you tell her and it will feel special to her.

If a woman isnât sexually attracted to you, then she isnât going to be excited to hear that you love her, no matter how special you make the event (e.g. by taking her to a fancy restaurant first, giving her a gift, etc.) because most beautiful women (not all) feel turned off by how easily guys fall in love with them.

Attraction is always the first step you need to go through with a woman before you tell her that you love her. Basically, the more attraction she feels for you, the more desire she will have to be in a relationship with you.

Then it will be a natural step for her to fall in love with you, and no matter where or how you say it, it will be special to her because she will be excited to hear it.

2. Pretending to be her friend and then saying âI love you.

Another mistake guys make, is to pretend to be a womanâs good friend when what they really want is to have sex with her and be in a relationship with her.

A guy like this assumes that if he hangs around her for long enough, is nice to her, listens to all her problems, does nice things for her and is generally available to her every beck and call, she will suddenly realize that she loves him too, and they will then become a couple.

Another example of this is when a guy mistakes a womanâs niceness towards him as a sign that she loves him back.

This is common when guys feel shy, insecure and nervous around women and have probably had bad experiences with women in the past.

For example, a guy like this might be ignored by beautiful women, or he might have been laughed at or mocked by beautiful women in the past.

So, when an attractive woman responds by being kind or friendly towards him, he mistakenly assumes she must love him too.

Again, it's no use finding special ways to tell someone you love them if you're not sure they feel the same way about you and will be happy to hear it.

A woman might "like" you as a person, but the love that she feels for a guy she wants to be in a sexual, romantic relationship with is completely different.

So, if you're not sure if she perceives you as just being a nice friend to her, then you need to first change her perception of you from that of a "good friend" to someone she wants to have sex with and be in a relationship with, before you attempt to tell her you love her.

The Best Way to Tell Someone You Love Them Is to Show Them With Your Actions

Quite often, guys hear women (or even their own woman) talking about the romantic actions of other guys.

For example: A guy might hear his woman saying, "My friend Julia's boyfriend organized a romantic dinner for the two of them on the beach last night. He even organized a butler who served them at a table in the ocean while another guy was playing the violin. It was so romantic and then he told her that he loves her. It was just so special! I wish something like that would happen to me!"

When a guy hears this, he assumes that he has to match, or even better, what the other guy did if his woman is going to be impressed.

However, even though women will talk about such events that happen in other people's lives (or even in the movies), it doesn't mean she will not be equally happy when her guy shows her that he loves her with small, everyday actions.

For instance, one of the most common reasons couples break up today, is because the woman feels that her man is taking her for granted. Yet, when she feels appreciated, valued and attracted, she also feels loved.

You can tell your woman you love her by making her feel loved and appreciated in your everyday actions.

For example:

- If you say that you're going to do something, then be a man of your word and follow through on it.
- Don't assume that it's okay with her if you put your work, friends, hobbies, etc., before her. If you have to change plans with her, first make sure that you let her know how important she is to you, and then make sure that you make it up to her the next day (or as soon as possible) by doing something nice together. It doesn't have to be anything elaborate. Watching the sunset on the beach, or in the park, or even from your porch while holding hands, is enough to let her know you love her.
- Sometimes, the best time to tell her that you love her is at a time that seems â€œinappropriate.â€œ

For example: If your woman comes home from the gym, or has been working in the garden all day, or has been helping a friend move, etc. and is looking sweaty and disheveled, wrap your arms around her and say, â€œYou look so beautiful today. I love you.â€œ

Or if she's got a cold and her nose is all red, make her a hot drink, tuck her in bed and tell her, â€œYou've got the cutest red nose I've ever seen. I love you.â€œ

When you tell her you love her at these times, it will be special to her because you're letting her know that you love her no matter what even if she's not looking her best.

Why does this matter?

Women know that men are attracted to them mostly because of their physical appearance.

This means an attractive woman can attract most guys, because she's beautiful, and chances are, he'll say â€œI love youâ€œ to her because he's feeling lust.

However, at the back of her mind she may be wondering, â€œWhat if I don't put on make up; will he still love me?â€œ or, â€œWhat if I don't always look my best; will his love for me fade?â€œ

When a guy appreciates a woman, even when she's not always looking beautiful, she has the pleasure of knowing that his love for her is real, and that makes her respect, attraction and love for him grow even more.

When the Time is Right, Saying â€œI Love Youâ€œ Will be Special No Matter What You Do

All relationships grow and develop in stages.

When you approach the sexual courtship with a woman in the correct way, the relationship will unfold naturally and effortlessly from one stage to the next, until both you and her reach the point where you are truly in love and committed to each other.

When you deepen her feelings of love, respect and attraction for you, saying â€œI love youâ€œ will happen naturally and without any effort on your part.

In fact, the most special way to tell someone you love them is by actively triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you, to the point where her feelings build up so much, that she feels she will burst if she doesn't tell you she loves you first.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with

women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Things to Say to a Woman to Turn Her On

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

There are many things a guy can say to a woman to turn her on, but those things won't make a difference to her if he hasn't made her feel sexual attraction for him first, by displaying the personality traits and behaviors (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, etc.) that are naturally attractive and arousing to women.

Basically, what you say to a woman is not as important as how you interact with her.

In other words, when you interact with a woman and make her feel attracted to your confidence, masculine vibe, conversation style, etc., then whatever you say to her will turn her on, because your behavior and body language will have already triggered her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

On the other hand, if when you interact with her and you appear nervous, insecure and hesitant during conversation, whatever you say to her will come across as being forced, and she will feel uncomfortable rather than turned on in your presence.

Watch this video for some examples of things to say to a woman to turn her on...

Understanding Attraction

A lot of guys who are not very successful with women, go through life believing that the guys who always seem to get the women they want, have some secret "trick" or a list of magic things to say to a woman when they interact with her, that instantly turns her on and makes her want to have sex with him.

What these guys don't realize is that there isn't a magic list or some sneaky "trick" that triggers a woman's sexual attraction for men. In fact, getting a woman to feel attracted and want to have sex with you is a lot easier than most guys realize.

When you display the types of personality traits and behaviors that women feel attracted to, (e.g. confidence, the ability to make her laugh and feel feminine in contrast to your masculine vibe, etc.), then women will naturally want to be with you.

You don't have to try hard to impress a woman, and you don't need a "magic" list of things to say to her to turn her on. Instead, you've got to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you by being the man she needs you to be.

For example: When a guy approaches a woman he feels attracted to without hesitation, fear or anxiety and is completely confident and at ease in her presence, even if she initially pretends that she's not interested in him, (because women like to test guys to see if they are really confident or if they are only pretending to be confident), eventually, just by remaining calm and relaxed, she will naturally start feeling attracted to his confidence and masculinity.

He doesn't need to say something specific to get a woman to feel turned on by him - she automatically feels attracted to him because he is displaying the characteristics that women are instinctively drawn to.

On the other hand, a guy who is nervous and insecure around women will crack under the pressure of a woman's tests. He will feel flustered if she pretends not to be interested in him or pretends to be bored by his conversation, and he will begin to doubt himself.

He might start thinking, â€œIâ€™m just not good looking enough, thatâ€™s why sheâ€™s rejecting me,â€ or, â€œIf only I knew the right things to say to her to turn her on then she would be interested in me.â€

The truth is, the thing that makes a woman want to have sex and start a sexual relationship with a guy is feeling sexual attraction for who he is as a man, and by being a strong man around her in terms of his thinking, behavior and actions.

Some Examples of Things to Say to a Woman to Turn Her On When You Are Interacting With Her

Imagine that youâ€™re talking to a woman you like and want to have sex with and she touches you on the arm. You can use that moment as an opportunity to say something that will turn her on.

What can you say to her that will turn her on? Here is an exampleâ€¦

When she touches you, look down at her hand on your arm and then look back up at her pretending to be shocked and say, â€œOh no! Look at you; youâ€™re all over me! I have that effect on women you know, they just canâ€™t keep their hands off me. I guess it was too much to hope that you could resist me long enough to finish our conversation.â€

Then, smile playfully and make her see that youâ€™re clearly joking with her by pretending that youâ€™re so irresistible that she canâ€™t keep her hands off you.

Obviously youâ€™re only joking with her, but by having the confidence to tease her in this way (something most guys canâ€™t do), youâ€™re showing her that youâ€™re not overcome by her beauty, or feeling intimidated by her.

Women feel extremely attracted to a guy who is not easily impressed by her and has the confidence to use humor to tease her in a playful but sexual way.

A common mistake that a lot of guys make when they are interacting with a beautiful woman they feel attracted to is they feel so impressed by her, and they feel so lucky to be talking to her, that they take on the role of being a nice guy who is only interested in making polite, neutral conversation with her.

Naturally there is nothing wrong with being a nice guy with a woman, but if your intention is to have sex with her, pretending to be Mr. Nice Guy isnâ€™t going to turn her on; however, triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you, will.

This is why it is so important to use every opportunity, no matter how irrelevant, to create attraction between you and her. Here is another example of how you can do thatâ€¦

Imagine youâ€™re walking along the aisles in a supermarket and you suddenly spot a beautiful woman you would like to hook up with.

You can obviously, either just watch her from a distance and hope that by some miracle she will notice you, or you can take the initiative and get her interested in you by making the first move.

Hereâ€™s an example of what you can do to initiate a conversationâ€¦

Let us assume that you are pushing your shopping cart past her in one of the aisles, and you accidentally bump your cart into her cart.

A shy, nervous, "nice" guy who doesn't know what to say to a woman to turn her on will say, "Oh! I'm so sorry! Are you okay?" Although that is the polite thing to say, it is not going to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him.

On the other hand, a confident, alpha male will use this as an opportunity to make her feel attracted to him by saying something like, "Okay! I see what's going on here; you're trying to get me to notice you. Well, I'm all yours now!"

When you say this while smiling at her and making it clear to her that you're teasing her, she will most likely laugh and get a bit flustered, because you are implying that she bumped into you intentionally because she is trying to hook up with you.

Then, simply smile again and say, "I'm only joking. Hi, my name is!" What's your name?"

This is attractive to her because she can see you have the confidence, social intelligence and masculinity to say something risky like that to her, rather than do the "right" thing by being a boring, nice, friendly guy who's just being nice and polite around her, rather than using the moment to make her feel sexually turned on by you.

It's Easier Than You Think

Turning a woman on is not as difficult as most guys believe.

You can trigger a woman's feelings of sexual desire by displaying the behaviors and personality traits that women are naturally attracted to, like being a confident, masculine man who can make her feel girly and feminine in his presence.

Then, you won't have hope that you know the right things to say to a woman to turn her on, because you will be turning her on with your body language and behavior, and whatever you say after that will feel interesting and sexy to her and she will feel turned on.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Attracts Women to Men Sexually?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The main thing that attracts women to men sexually is when a man displays the personality traits and behaviors that women are instinctively attracted to, and that can trigger her feelings of attraction and desire for him.

Some of these personality traits and behaviors include the following:

- Being confident and self-assured.
- Being able to turn her on and make her feel feminine and girly in contrast to his masculine vibe.
- Being charming and charismatic.
- Being able to attract her with his conversation style.
- Being able to make her laugh.

When a woman interacts with a confident, charismatic guy who thinks, behaves and acts in a masculine way, she can't stop herself from feeling sexually attracted to him.

However, when a woman interacts with a guy who is insecure and thinks, behaves and acts in a nervous, shy or self-doubting way, deep down at an instinctive level, she can't stop herself from feeling turned off by him sexually.

This is why, if you want to know what attracts women to men sexually, you first have to understand how women pick men for sex, and for relationships.

It's Who You Are as a Man That Matters to Most Women, Not What You Look Like

[image: What attracts women to men in a sexual way?]

Many guys go through their life making excuses about why they are not attracting the women they really want for sex and for relationships.

These guys will say things like, â€œBeing tall, dark and handsome is what attracts women to men sexually, and I'm not those things so women are not going to be interested in me.â€œ

Or, â€œI don't feel sexually attracted to fat, unattractive women, so it's only natural that because I've got a big nose and I'm also on the fat side, women will not be sexually attracted to me either.â€œ

However, that's not the case at all.

Although men will choose a woman for sex and even a relationship based on how attractive she is, women will be willing to overlook a man's flaws (e.g. if he is not good looking, is fat or thin, has a big nose or a bald head, etc.), if he can make her feel sexually attracted to him in other ways.

For most women (not all), the cliché â€œIt's who you are on the inside that really counts,â€œ applies.

For example: When a woman first sees a guy, she has nothing to base her interest in him on other than his appearance. This is why, when a woman sees a very good looking guy for the first time she might say, â€œOh! Heâ€™s soooo sexy! I wouldnâ€™t mind hooking up with him.â€ At this initial stage, yes, she is sexually attracted to him because of his looks.

However, if she interacts with him and he behaves in an insecure, nervous or submissive way around her, her attraction for him will quickly fade, and she will even start noticing things about him that are turning her off.

For example, she might say, â€œMmmm, I never noticed that mole on his cheek; I hate moles on guys, they are so un-sexy,â€ or, â€œHeâ€™s not really as good looking as I thought; heâ€™s got funny teeth/ears/hands/etc.â€ Essentially, she is looking for excuses to explain to herself why she is feeling so turned off by him.

On the other hand, the same woman might see a short, chubby, bald guy and disregard him completely. Yet, when he approaches her and interacts with her in a confident, charismatic way and triggers her feelings of sexual attraction for him with his masculine vibe, she can quickly go from disregarding him to being completely turned on by him.

Then, his initial â€œflawsâ€ of being short, chubby or bald suddenly become unique qualities that make him even more attractive to her. For example, she might say, â€œI think guys who are bald are so sexy,â€ or â€œHeâ€™s not fat, thereâ€™s just more man there for me to love.â€

Of course, if the short, chubby, bald guy is also nervous, insecure, or puts on a fake persona to try and attract her, her initial disregard towards him will not change, and she will probably say something like, â€œHeâ€™s not my type,â€ to explain why she feels turned off by him.

As you can see, itâ€™s not what a guy looks like that matters to most women, but how he makes her feel when sheâ€™s with him.

Yes, there are some women who will only have sex with, and date, good looking men, but the majority of women are attracted to the type of man who can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction in the way he interacts with her.

2 Simple Ways to Make a Woman Want You Sexually

What attracts women to men sexually is primarily based on a manâ€™s ability to display the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive and sexually arousing to women when he interacts with them.

Here are 2 ways you can attract women sexuallyâ€¦!

1. Drop the Mr. Nice Guy act.

In the past, to get a woman to be interested in him, a man would have to be nice to her, court her and show her that he could take care of her if they got married.

Unfortunately, because of that, many guys today make the mistake of thinking that by being nice to a woman and behaving like a gentleman with â€œgood intentions,â€ she will feel sexually attracted to him and make her want to start a relationship with him.

However, if you look at todayâ€™s woman, you will realize that dating and relationships donâ€™t happen like that anymore.

Todayâ€™s women are clearly self-sufficient, can earn their own money and they can choose to have sex whenever they want and with whomever they want.

A woman will no longer select a guy simply based on how nice he is to her when they are interacting. Even if heâs a really nice guy, thatâs not what attracts a woman to a man sexually. The way that a modern woman will select a man for sex and a relationship is now based on his ability to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction first, and then everything else will follow.

Thereâs nothing wrong with being nice to a woman and thereâs nothing wrong with being a good guy, but being nice to a woman isnât going to make her feel sexually attracted to you.

The truth is, most guys in the world are nice guys. Being nice to a woman and avoiding making it clear to her that you find her sexually attractive is what most âniceâ guys do.

These days, if you want to have sex with a woman or get her into a relationship with you, you are going to have to drop the Mr. Nice Guy act and instead focus on saying and doing things that will turn her on.

2. Connect with her in a different way to every other guy.

When you interact with a woman, your conversation is of vital importance, because youâre either connecting with her and turning her on, or youâre boring her like every other guy who has been hitting on her before you.

Conversation is what allows a man and a woman to be in each otherâs presence long enough to determine whether they are sexually, emotionally and socially compatible with each other.

Most often the reason why a guy struggles to make a woman feel sexually attracted to him is because, instead of using conversation as a means to create a sexual, emotional and intellectual connection between him and her, he instead engages her in boring conversation.

For example: He will ask her boring questions like, âWhatâs your name? What do you do for a living? Did you go to university? Do you like your job?â etc., but none of these questions create sexual attraction, because every other guy sheâs been talking to has asked her the same questions.

For a woman to see you differently from all the other guys, you have to behave differently when you interact with her.

For example: Instead of asking her questions as if youâre interviewing her for the job of being your girlfriend, you can create a connection between you and her by triggering happy, positive feelings inside her.

Instead of asking, âWhat do you do?â you can say, âIf you could be at any fun placeâ in the word right now, where would you be and why?â

This is a great thing to say to a woman, because it opens the conversation up, makes her think of something that brings up good feelings for her, and allows her to talk about something that she feels passionate about.

This type of question also allows her to say, âWhat about you?â and then when you share something personal about yourself, a positive connection gets created between you and her.

It All Boils Down to How You Make Her Feel

The most important thing you need to know is that the thing that attracts women to men sexually, is the way he makes her feel when sheâs with him.

By displaying the inner qualities that instinctively turn women on, like having the mental and emotional strength to be confident and charismatic around her, while also being able to be masculine and to take the lead in the sexual courtship, a woman has no choice but to feel sexually attracted to you.

On the other hand, if you behave in a nervous, self-doubting, insecure way around a woman you find attractive, she will only pick up on your self-doubt and she will feel turned off.

When you behave in ways that are attractive to women, then attracting women sexually is not difficult.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Tall, Dark and Handsome: Is That What Women Want?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Some women do want that, but most women don't really care about it.

The truth is, most women place much less importance on a man's physical appearance than most guys realize.

Watch this video for proof:

Although women can initially be attracted to a man based on how he looks, it doesn't mean they won't consider dating a guy who isn't tall, dark and handsome, if he can make her feel enough attraction to him for other reasons.

For example: If a guy is of average height, with average looks, (like most guys in the world), but also happens to be confident, charismatic, is interesting and fun to talk to, has a great sense of humor, etc., a woman isn't going to reject him simply because he doesn't fit into the "Tall, dark and handsome" category.

On the other hand, a guy might look like a male model or a sexy Hollywood actor, and if he is shy, nervous and insecure around women, or, if he puts on an act (e.g. he pretends to be more confident, or nicer than he really is), a woman will come up with all sorts of reasons why she doesn't like him.

So, if you're asking, "Tall, dark and handsome: Is that what women want?" consider that if this was the case, you wouldn't see so many short, ugly, pale, skinny, fat, bald or just plain guys dating, or married, to really attractive women. It just wouldn't be possible.

Naturally, not all women will date a guy who isn't very tall and good looking, but most women will, because most women have what Dan Bacon (founder of The Modern Man) refers to as Open Type. Basically, this means that most women are open to dating different types of guys, as long as the guy can make her feel the way she wants to feel when she's with him.

Guys Assume Women Are Attracted to Men For the Same Reasons Men Are Attracted to Women

[image: I'm not good looking enough for women. I need to be tall, dark and handsome for them to want me]

Basically, because most men are attracted to beautiful, sweet and girly women, they assume that it's then only natural for women to be attracted to tall, dark and handsome men.

This is why so many guys will go around saying, "I'm not good looking enough to get the women I want," or, "Tall, dark and handsome is what women want...and I'm none of those things."

What these guys don't realize is that when a woman feels attracted to a man's personality and to the way he makes her feel, she will naturally overlook the fact that he's not 6ft tall and doesn't look like he's just stepped out of the pages of a magazine, after having spent a few weeks tanning on some tropical beach.

If women only dated guys who are tall, dark and handsome then most of the guys in this world would never have sex, get a girlfriend, or get married, because most guys are of average height, with average looks.

Yet all over the world, average, and even ugly, fat, or short guys are having sex and dating and marrying attractive and even beautiful women. How is this possible?

These guys have been able to make women feel attracted to them for other reasons.

Watch this video for some real life examples!

As you will discover from the video above, attraction not all about being tall, dark and handsome.

Women can be attracted to all different types of guys for various reasons (e.g. the guy is confident, funny, charismatic, etc).

This is why, when a woman is interacting with a tall, dark and handsome guy who happens to be nervous, insecure and self-doubting around her, even though she may initially have thought, "Wow! He's really hot, I'd love to get together with him," after interacting with him for a few minutes she will instinctively pick up on his lack of confidence.

When this happens, the initial attraction she felt for his looks will begin to change and she'll start finding (seemingly irrelevant) things about him that are turning her off.

For example: She might think, "I never noticed this before; he has a weird looking nose."

"Hmm, he's not really that good looking after all. What was I thinking?"

Sometimes a woman can't even find a physical flaw to dislike about a good-looking but insecure guy, but in her mind she'll be thinking, "He's really hot but there's just something about him that I don't like. I suppose he's just not my type. It must be his nose...or those dorky shoes."

Even if she can't put it in words, deep down a woman knows that it is his lack of confidence that is turning her off.

Of course, some women will accept an insecure good looking guy, but most women won't.

It might be difficult for you to believe that all women don't want tall, dark and handsome guys, but the proof is everywhere around you.

It's Who You Are as a Man That Really Matters

[image: Women just want men for their looks. I'm not a tall, handsome male model, so they wouldn't want me]

Most guys have heard the cliché, "It's not what you look like, but who you are inside that matters," and in most cases, a guy will write this off as wishful thinking.

However, there's more truth in that statement than most guys realize.

The truth is: You may not be able to change how you look, but you can change the way you feel about yourself and the way you interact with women.

When you present yourself with confidence and self-belief, and can trigger a woman's feelings of attraction and respect for you as a man, then she won't really care that you're not tall, dark and handsome because she will be attracted to what's inside.

So, rather than sit around thinking, “Tall, dark and handsome: Is that what women really want in a guy?” and feeling like you will never be able to fit into this unrealistic mould, then instead do the things you can do to make women feel attracted to who you are as a man.

For example, here are some *do*s and *don*ts when interacting with women.

Do trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

It seems like an obvious thing to say, but a woman isn't going to be interested in having sex with a guy if he hasn't first made her feel sexually attracted to him.

So, whenever you're interacting with a woman you're attracted to, make sure what you say and do in her presence is making her feel attracted to you too.

The more ways you can make her feel attracted to you while interacting with her, the more intense her desire will be to have sex with you.

Do come across in a charming manner.

If you look up the definition of charm in the dictionary, it is:

Charm (noun): The power or quality of delighting, attracting, or fascinating others.

Being charming is about making a woman feel attracted to you while still being a nice guy around her.

When a guy is charming, not only does he trigger a woman's feelings of sexual desire for him, he also makes her feel safe because she gets the sense that he is not just looking at her as a piece of meat, but is also interested in her as a person.

Don't pretend you're not interested in having sex with her.

A common mistake that a lot of guys make is to pretend they're not interested in having sex with a woman they really do want to have sex with.

This is confusing to women.

If a guy pretends to only be a friend to her and then tries to touch or kiss her, she will naturally be turned off because his behavior has been friendly or neutral and he has not triggered her feelings of sexual attraction.

If you're interested in a woman in a sexual way, then don't pretend you're not and then make a move on her. This will usually result in a, “You're sweet, but I don't see you in that way,” rejection speech.

Don't wait around hoping a woman will make the first move.

What sometimes happens is that when a guy feels insecure about his looks, instead of approaching women and making them feel attracted to him in other ways, he instead waits for women to make the first move.

A guy like this believes that because he's not tall, dark and handsome a beautiful woman will automatically reject him, but if a woman approaches him first, then she will be okay with his looks.

However, most women would rather miss out on being with a guy, rather than have to take the lead.

Making the first move is the first indication a woman gets that you are a confident man. Why deny her that experience?

Nobody Is Perfect

So, â€œTall, dark and handsome: Is that what women want?â€œ

As mentioned at the beginning of this article, some women do, but for most women it doesnâ€™t really matter.

When you are confident, masculine, charming and are able to trigger a womanâ€™s feelings of attraction and respect for you as a man, most women wonâ€™t care that much about your looks.

So donâ€™t waste anymore time fearing that youâ€™re not handsome enough, or tall enough to attract the women you want. Nobody is perfect, and the best part is, if youâ€™ve read this article, you now know that you donâ€™t have to be perfect to attract a beautiful woman.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Can I Do to Be a Better Person?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

To be a better person, you need to develop the mindset, qualities and behaviors in yourself that will make you feel good about who you are as a person and proud of who you are.

You also need to be the sort of man that others can look up to and respect. So, if you're asking, What can I do to be a better person? here are 7 ways to start...

1. Be confident.

It may be a cliché, but it's a cliché for a good reason: Confidence is the most important quality you need to develop in yourself if you want to be a better person, and if you want to have a happy, successful and fulfilling life.

Why?

- Confidence is attractive. It is attractive to women and it is attractive to people in general.
- Confidence is the opposite of being insecure and self-doubting.
- Confidence is strength, while insecurity is weakness.
- Confidence is about believing in yourself and your abilities without being arrogant and disrespectful of others' opinions.
- Confidence is something that you can decide to have or not have.

Why do women and other people feel attracted to a man's confidence rather than his insecurity?

Life can often be challenging and regardless of how successful a woman is, or what her achievements in life are, she still wants to know that when the chips are down, the guy she is with has the confidence and strength to face life head on and take care of both of them.

In life, people generally gravitate towards the people who seem like they are going to be better at surviving, and making the best of the challenges that life throws at them. It's instinctive.

So, if you want to be a better person, develop the mindset of someone who knows that he isn't perfect, and focus instead on the things you like about yourself and the things that you are good at and use that to feel confident.

2. Have a purpose and direction in life.

[image: Heading towards success]

Sitting around hoping that life will throw him a bone never worked for any man who is successful in life today.

Having a purpose and direction in life, and being able to have your say in the world not only gives you confidence, it makes you feel positive about who you are as a man and it makes you feel proud to be you.

On the other hand, when a guy feels stuck in his life because he's in a dead end job, or living at home with his parents with no intention of ever moving out, or hates that he doesn't have a skill or qualification to better himself but at the same time isn't interested in going to college or university to improve himself, then other people will instinctively pick up on this and will feel repelled by him.

To be a better person, and to be the kind of guy that women feel attracted to and men feel respect for, you need to have big dreams and ambitions for yourself and the courage to pursue those dreams without fear of failure.

3. Take life with a pinch of salt.

Don't take life, or yourself, so seriously all the time.

Even if you do everything perfectly for a week, you are sure to make a mistake sometime in the future...and so will everyone else. No one is perfect and it's completely fine and normal to make mistakes every now and then, but what will make you a better person is when you learn from those mistakes and push on to greater victories ahead.

Life is not always going to be a happy bed of roses, but if you can smile and laugh at the things that make you angry or upset or when you make an occasional mistake, not only will you feel better about whatever is bothering you, women will naturally feel attraction for you, and other guys will feel respect for you as a man.

It doesn't mean you must behave like a clown, or be disrespectful during a serious situation, but when you can take a difficult situation, e.g. during a disagreement, a crisis at work, etc., and diffuse it with some humor, people will naturally see you as someone who is well-rounded and cool to be around.

4. Be the kind of guy who can attract beautiful, quality women.

What does being a better person have to do with attracting beautiful women?

According to entrepreneur, author and motivational speaker Jim Rohn, "You are the average of the five people you spend the most time with."

Consider this: If a guy can't attract the kind of women he really likes, i.e. beautiful, intelligent, classy, etc., he will naturally resort to dating women who are unattractive, low-class, lacking in ambition, etc.

Essentially, the type of woman you attract and date can either pull you up and make you an ever better man than you already are, by encouraging you to reach for your true potential in life and be the best man you can possibly be.

Or, she can pull you down by being negative and by making fun of all your dreams and ambitions; in which case you'll only end up sinking down to her level and live a sad, empty and unfulfilling life.

5. Be true to yourself.

Being true to yourself is not about being a bully towards others, or about disregarding peoples feelings in favor of putting yourself first.

Being true to yourself simply means that you are clear about who you are as man.

An example of that would be a someone who is a nice guy, who desperately wants to be liked by everyone, so he resorts to behaving like Mr. Nice and allows both women and men to walk all over him.

For example: A woman might pretend to be interested in him sexually, and then use him to run errands for her, pay her rent, and generally be her â€œgo-toâ€ guy whenever she needs something.

However, in reality she doesn't respect him as a man and she doesn't feel attraction for him, so even though she pretends to be interested in him, she has no intention of ever having sex with him or being his girlfriend.

In a business setting Mr. Nice is the guy that others use to do all the â€œdirtyâ€ work that everyone else hates, or, he's the guy the boss doesn't respect and dumps all the extra, unsavory jobs on, e.g. the filing, a difficult client, etc.

In a social setting, Mr. Nice is always the guy who gets stuck with the check or the one who is always running to the bar to refresh everyone's drinks.

If there is one definitive answer to the questions, â€œWhat can I do to be a better person?â€ then that answer is: Be true to yourself.

The only person who has to like you is you. If you can like and respect yourself, people will be able to pick up on that, and they will naturally be drawn to you because they will sense that you are the kind of man who doesn't mess around pretending to be someone he's not just to be liked, i.e. he is authentic, and that's attractive.

6. Be a man of your word.

Do what you say you're going to do. It's a simple habit, but when you cultivate it, you will be someone people can look up to and respect.

In a relationship one of the main reasons why couples break up is when a guy stops being a man of his word and starts taking his woman for granted.

In business, a man who keeps breaking his word is not going to progress very far because no-one will trust him.

If you want to be a better person, always strive to keep your promises and do what you say you are going to do. It's as simple as that.

7. Have a positive outlook.

Life is not always going to be perfect (.g. a guy might lose his job, get dumped by his girlfriend, have a falling out with his family), but whining about it isn't going to make it any better.

To be a better person you can't be a whiner.

It's understandable that if things go wrong you might feel disappointed or upset, however, being able to keep a positive outlook is the best way to not only get out of whatever situation you find yourself in quickly, it's also an attractive quality that women love in a guy, and other guys admire.

You Are Already a Better Person Just By Asking the Question

A big part of becoming a better person is to learn to love and accept the things about yourself that you cannot change, (e.g. you're too short, you come from a broken home, etc.), while at the same time striving to improve the things you can, (e.g. all the things mentioned above).

As long as you actively strive to rise through the levels of life and reach your true potential as a man, you will feel increasingly happy and fulfilled and then life will suddenly become so easy because you will have the respect and admiration of those around you, as well as your choice of beautiful women.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Do Girls Want in a Guy? 7 Common Traits

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you're trying to figure out what girls want in a guy, it might seem to you that girls are very complicated and very difficult to please.

You might be thinking, â€œIâ€™m just a normal guy. How can I be the kind of amazing guy that girls really want?â€

Actually itâ€™s quite simple! and you don't have to be super amazing and perfect to be the type of guy that girls want.

[image: What do girls really want in a guy?]

Some of the most common traits that girls want in a guy are:

1. Confidence in all areas of life.
2. The ability to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you when you interact with her.
3. The ability to take the lead the way from a conversation to kiss, to sex and into a relationship.
4. To make her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity (i.e. how you think, feel, behave, take action).
5. To make her feel turned on by your conversation style.
6. To see that you have a definite purpose and direction in life outside of a relationship with her.
7. To be able to look up to you and respect you as a man.

Essentially, all that adds up to you being able to make a girl feel attracted to who you are as a guy.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

As you will discover from the video above, you can make girls feel attracted to you in many different ways (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, masculine vibe, etc).

What Girls Don't Want in a Guy

[image: What girls don't want in a guy]

To fully understand what girls want in a guy, you have to first understand what they don't want in a guy and why.

For example:

1. A guy who doesn't know how to make her feel attracted to his personality.

Being able to feel attracted to a guy's personality, behavior and inner qualities is what matters the most to almost every girl in the world.

Yes, some girls are shallow and only want a rich, good looking, successful guy, but most girls aren't like that at all.

While it is a nice bonus for a girl if a guy is good looking or has money, the majority of girls are more attracted to and turned on by who a guy is on the inside.

For most girls, a guy's inner qualities, personality, vibe, attitude, behavior and outlook on life are of far more important to her than what he looks like or what he has in his bank account.

This is why you will often see girls with average or below-average looking guys who are not rich, tall or famous.

These normal, everyday guys have the kind of inner qualities that most girls want in a guy, (e.g. confidence, self-belief, a masculine vibe, charisma, an interesting conversation style, etc).

Of course, even though you might see a lot of evidence of girls hooking up with ordinary guys in real life, it can still be pretty hard to believe.

You might want to believe that girls only want good-looking guys who are rich because that is what most girls SAY they want.

Yet, what girls SAY and what they actually DO are usually two completely different things.

For example: A lot of girls will say that they want a nice guy, but they will then reject nice guys and here's whyâ€¦!

Likewise, a lot of girls will say that they only want a tall, handsome guy with six pack abs, but they will then date and fall in love with guys who are just normal height, average looking and in average shape.

As difficult as it might seem to you right now, you must try to remember that can't always trust what girls SAY. Instead, you have to look at what they actually DO in real life.

If you pay too much attention to what girls say, you will feel insecure and unworthy of them.

For example, a guy might say, â€œIâ€™m too short and I donâ€™t have big muscles. Girls only like good looking guys who are tall and who work out at the gym every day, so they just wonâ€™t like me.â€

Or, â€œGirls like guys who are rich and successful. I donâ€™t have much money to take girls out or buy them gifts, so I will never be able to get a girl to want me.â€

Here's the thingâ€¦!

Girls are naturally attracted to the emotional strength in guys (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. nervousness, insecurity, self-doubt), which is why being good looking or rich doesnâ€™t guarantee that a guy will automatically be able to get any girl he wants.

For example: If a good looking, rich guy interacts with a girl and he comes across as being nervousness, anxious, insecure and self-doubting, most girls will feel turned off by him.

Why? He will be displaying emotional weakness, which is a direct turn off for girls.

The girl might think that he looks good and she might like that he also has money, but she won't like the way he makes her feel, so she will usually reject him and go for a guy who can make her feel attracted to his personality, behavior and inner qualities.

As you will have already seen in real life, if an ordinary guy interacts with a girl and makes her feel attracted to his personality (e.g. by being confident, funny, masculine, etc), she will usually overlook the fact that he isn't tall and rich because he is making her feel the way she wants to feel around a guy.

So, if you're confused and wondering, "What do girls want in a guy?" here is the what you need to do from now onâ€¦!

Rather than wasting time thinking you don't have what girls want because you're not a rich model, simply focus instead on triggering a girl's feelings of sexual attraction for you based on how you interact with her.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

When you trigger a girl's sexual desire for you, she will feel excited about the idea of having sex with you or beginning a relationship with you.

Another thing that girls don't want in a guy is

2. To be left alone unless she gives you a clear signal.

Girls hate it when guys are too afraid to approach unless they give him a clear signal.

Here's what you must remember at all times!

Girls are attracted to your confidence, not your nervousness and hesitation. It's not cute to be nervous and it's not what girls want.

They want your balls.

It's your masculine confidence that turns them on, not your boyish fears of girls. They want you to believe in yourself and take action to go after what you want.

A real man (or a confident guy) simply believes in himself and approaches a girl whenever he feels like it.

He doesn't sit around thinking about it because he already knows that most girls don't like to approach guys first.

He knows that by approaching a girl with confidence, she will automatically be impressed and feel attracted to him for having the balls to do it.

Even if a girl thinks that a guy is cute, she will rarely approach him first because the most important quality that girls look for in a guy is the confidence to go after what he wants in life without fear.

A great way for a girl to test a guy's confidence is to wait and see if he can make the first move, regardless of whether or not she gives him signals.

Depending on the girl (and how confident of a guy she is trying to attract), she will often even ACT like she doesn't like the guy to really test his confidence and belief in himself.

From her perspective, if a guy is too nervous and insecure to even approach her and go after what he wants, she then wonders what else in his life will he be nervous and insecure about doing.

Instinctively, she will feel repelled by him because his inability to confidently approach is a sign of a guy who doesn't have the social confidence to stand up for himself and go after what he really wants in life; in this case, her.

Of course, there are some girls who like to take the lead and make the first move, but in most cases it is because the girl is unattractive, has had too much to drink, or if the guy is really good looking and she wants to get to him first before he hooks up with another girl.

For the most part, almost every girl wants you to take the lead and seduce her, rather than her having to make the first move.

Another thing that girls don't want in a guy is

3. A guy who tries to become her boyfriend by being a good friend to her.

[image: Acting like an innocent friend, but what he really wants to do is have sex with her and make her his girlfriend]

There is a big difference between a girl feeling nice, sweet, friendly feelings towards you and her wanting to rip your clothes off because she can't control herself from wanting to have sex with you.

Many guys make the mistake of thinking that the way to a girl's heart is by being a good friend to her, while at the same time never stepping out of line by letting her know that he wants her sexually.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with being nice to a girl, but that's not what's going to make her want to have sex with you and be in a relationship with you.

For example: If a guy hangs around a girl that he wants to have sex with or be in a relationship with and he gets her to like him as a friend, she will usually accept that and only see him as a friend.

If he suddenly makes a move on her, or tells her that he has feelings for her, she will usually give him the, "Aww, thanks. That's so sweet, but I only see you as a friend," speech. Why?

He failed to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him first.

He had spent all of his time and effort making her feel friendly feelings towards him, rather than turning her on and making her horny by triggering her feelings of sexual attraction.

What you must understand about seducing girls is that attraction always has to come first and everything else (i.e. kissing, sex, relationship) will effortlessly follow on after that.

Without attraction, a guy is simply, "just a friend" to a girl.

So, if you want to have sex and be in a relationship with a girl, the main thing is to actively make her feel sexually attracted to you when you interact with her, not pretend to be her good friend and then hope for the best.

Becoming the Kind of Guy That Girls Want

What do girls want in a guy?

The answer is very simple: Girls want a guy who will trigger their feelings of sexual attraction for him by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that women are naturally attracted to (e.g. confidence, self-belief, charisma, emotional strength, etc.).

Most girls yearn to experience the exhilaration of being with a guy like that.

Even if a girl is young (18-25), she still fantasizes about being swept off her feet by a confident, charismatic guy who can turn her on while also being nice to her.

That's why girls often read romantic novels, watch love story movies or TV drama shows about relationships, because they fantasizing about meeting a confident, charming guy.

You can be that guy.

You don't have to become Mr. Perfect to be that guy and you don't have to be good looking, tall and have loads of money.

You just have to be able to trigger a girl's feelings of sexual desire for you and then just treat her well as you effortlessly guide her from a conversation to kiss, to sex and into a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Talking On the Phone For Hours With a Woman: Will it Help or Hurt Your Relationship?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Unless youâre in a long distance relationship and have no other means of connecting with her, talking on the phone for hours is not what you should be focusing on.

Whether youâve just met a woman and have exchanged phone numbers or if you've already been dating for a while, a relationship should not revolve around talking on the phone for long periods of time.

Here are 4 reasons why...

1. Thatâs What Girls Do

Girls love talking on the phone for hours because they enjoy talking about their emotions, discussing gossip and just wasting time talking about random things.

Yet, just because girls do it with other girls, it doesn't mean they want to talk like that with guys.

Young women who are inexperienced with relationships and don't really understand their attraction to men yet are usually fine with talking on the phone for hours for a while.

Yet, if the same types of phone calls continue on weeks or months into a relationship, a woman will eventually get bored.

Why? Women want to be with a guy who loves them, wants them and appreciates them, but they don't want another girlfriend who just wants to sit around talking and wasting time.

Women instinctively feel attracted to guys who rise through the levels of life by reaching for their true potential as a man, rather than hiding from that potential behind a relationship with a woman.

If a woman gets the sense that a guy is basing his life and identity on a relationship with her and feels as though he can just relax and be with her, she will instinctively begin to feel turned off by him.

When that happens, she will want to spend less time on the phone and may even begin to ignore his calls and give excuses like, "Sorry, my phone died!" or "Sorry, I was sleeping. Talk to you another time!"

So, make sure that you don't fall into the trap of doing what her girlfriends do and just talking to her on the phone for hours like a friend.

While this approach certainly allows a guy to connect with a woman on her level, it does not create the type of respect and attraction that makes a woman feel truly passionate towards him.

Instead, it leads to a friendly type of love where the woman sees the guy more like another one of her best friends, rather than a guy that she lusts for sexually.

Additionally, a woman usually has plenty of girlfriends that she can talk on the phone for hours with and gossip about trivial and irrelevant things, so she doesn't also need that from a man.

What she wants from a guy is for him to trigger her feelings of sexual desire so much that she wants to meet up with him in person so she can release her built up emotions through touching, kissing and sex.

[image: Meeting up with her in person, rather than just talking to her on the phone]

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to make a woman feel intense to be with you sexually and romantically!

As you will discover from the video above, you can actually make a woman feel attracted to you when you talk to her over the phone.

For example: Being confident, getting her laughing, flirting with her, being masculine, being charming, etc.

However, you must ensure that you don't spend too much time chatting and building up attraction.

At some point, you need to meet up with her in person so you can release the built up sexual tension with kissing and sex, rather than just continuing to talk and potentially making her feel turned off that you always seem to be available and don't seem to be doing much with your life other than talking to her on the phone for hours.

[image: Talking on the phone vs. meeting up in person]

That leads me to the next point...

2. She Might Assume You Don't Have Much a Life Without Her

A woman loves it when you give her genuine affection, attention and love. However, most women don't like it if you make her the your main focus in life.

Although there are some insecure women who like to control their men and who want everything to be about them, in most other instances, women prefer to be with a man who knows what he wants from life and doesn't waste time avoiding it.

Achieving big things in life usually takes a lot of time and effort and women instinctively know this. When a woman finds herself with a guy who is way too focused on her, she will begin to feel turned off by him.

She might not be able to explain it to him (e.g. she might say, "I just don't feel the same way anymore"), but instinctively, she will know that something isn't right.

To make matters worse, if the guy doesn't know what she really means, he will often make the mistake of thinking that he needs to be spend even more time with her.

He might then try to spend every spare minute he has talking to her on the phone for hours, liking her posts on social media and sending her e-mails and texts, to make sure that she knows how special and important she is to him.

Unfortunately, that type of behavior only makes her feel even more smothered by him.

Contrary to what many guys believe, women don't want a man to give everything up in his life just to focus on her and making her happy.

Most women want a man who:

- Has friends and interests apart from her.
- Has goals and ambitions for his life and his future, which will include her if they decide to move in together, get engaged, start a family or get married one day.

- Is striving to reach his true potential as a man.
- Could be a happy and enjoying life with or without her.

Essentially, there's nothing wrong with talking on the phone with a woman for hours if you want to do that sometimes.

It can be a great way to make her feel respect and attraction for you, by allowing her to experience your confidence and mental and emotional strength through the tone of your voice.

However, when a guy is insecure about his attraction and value to a woman, talking on the phone for hours seems like the right thing to do because in his low emotional state, he believes that this is what she really wants from a man, and that if he gives her his undivided attention, she'll feel compelled to stay with him.

Yet, that isn't the way it works.

If talking on the phone for hours is all you do in your relationship (e.g. because you're hiding from other areas of your life, you're too scared to see up with her in person and begin a sexual relationship, etc), then she will eventually lose interest in you once the novelty of all your attention wears off.

3. You're Not Giving Her the Opportunity to Really Miss You

Some guys don't realize that women really like it when a man is a bit of challenge or hard to win over.

Here's why!

As you will discover from the video above, most women are bored at how easily most guys feel attracted to them and fall in love with them.

By being a bit of a challenge to win over, you're actually giving a woman a gift that she will appreciate 100x more than a box of chocolates, flowers or dinner at an expensive restaurant.

Giving her the gift of feeling attracted to you (this has to be established first) and then feeling as though she needs to impress you a lot more before you let her be with you, is a priceless thing that women wish that guys could give them.

Part of being a challenge to a woman is by not always being available to her when she wants to talk on the phone.

As long as you are making her feel attracted to you when you interact with her in person or talk to her on the phone, a woman will fall madly in love with you as she tries to get more and more of your attention and time.

She wants to call up her girlfriends and say things like, "He hasn't called me in 2 days! It's driving me crazy! I wonder if he's met someone else? Do you think he still likes me? Should I sleep with him to make him mine?"

When you do finally call her, she will be excited because you've given her the opportunity to miss you. This is exciting for her because it makes her feel lucky to have you and to be getting your attention.

You are able to make her feel attracted to you when you interact with her in person or on the phone, so she knows that you could easily have other women, but you have chosen her and that is exciting to her.

4. Talking On the Phone For Hours Means You're Probably Not Meeting in Person Often Enough

When a guy gets a woman's phone number, he will sometimes aim to only talk to her on the phone or text back and forth, rather than actually arranging a real date where he can connect with her in person, touch, kiss and have sex.

When a guy does this, a woman will naturally begin to wonder why he keeps calling her, but doesn't seem to want to meet with her in person.

Eventually, she'll begin to suspect that he's simply too shy, nervous or insecure to meet with her face-to-face and she will inevitably lose interest.

What Women Really Want

Women today are looking for a masculine, emotionally strong guy who isn't afraid to meet her in person and trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for him.

She's looking for a man who can engage her with interesting and fun conversation, flirt with her, kiss her and get her into bed for some exciting sex. She's not looking for another best friend she can gossip with over the phone all year long.

Talking on the phone for hours is fine if you and your woman are too far apart from each other and there is no other way for you to connect with each other.

However, if you and her live near each other, you should be spending most of your time rising through the levels of life and reaching as your true potential as a man.

The time that you give her should be spent in person, so you can deepen her feelings of love, respect and attraction for you as a man.

If you spend too much time talking on the phone, it may get boring and routine for her and she may become open to hooking up with another guy who makes her feel attracted in person.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Things That Pleasure Women: 4 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Different things pleasure women at different times of the dating and relationship process and in this post, I'm going to explain how to please a woman:

1. When you meet her for the first time.
2. When you're on a first date with her.
3. When you're having sex with her.
4. When you're in a relationship with her.

1. When You Meet Her For the First Time

[image: Pleasure when you first meet her]

Here are some examples of things that pleasure women when you meet them for the first time.

You can:

- Make her feel feminine and girly in comparison to your masculinity, rather than making her feel neutral (like a friend) or more dominant and masculine than you.
- Make her laugh and smile as she talks with you by being relaxed and confident, rather than making her feel tense and awkward in response to your nervousness and anxiety.
- Allow her to express her true personality by making her feel loved and accepted for who she really is, rather than making her feel as though she has to put on an act (e.g. of being more polite or conservative than she really is) around you.
- Give her the gift of being a challenge to win over, rather than becoming super keen on her immediately even though you haven't done much or anything to make her feel attracted to you.

Regarding the last example above (being a challenge), watch this video to understand why most beautiful women wish that they could meet a guy who knows how to make her feel attracted while also being a bit of a challenge to win over...

As you will discover from the video above, most guys don't allow women to feel the pleasure of scoring themselves a guy who isn't as easy and desperate as 95% of the other men she meets.

For example: A typical guy will immediately show (via his body language, conversation style, attitude, vibe, etc) that he is very attracted to her and is hoping to get a chance with her.

He doesn't realize that she wishes that she could meet a guy who makes her feel attracted and then gives her the gift of hoping to get a chance with him.

Alternatively, he might hide behind nice, polite conversation because he thinks that making a woman feel sexually attracted and getting her to kiss and have sex fairly quickly is wrong.

He believes that all women should be treated like innocent princesses or virgin ladies from 1900 who only had sex after marriage, because he doesn't realize that pretty much everyone is having sex very quickly these days.

For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date, a European study found that 70% of women admitting having a one night stand and 48% of British women also admitted to having had a one night stand.

In other words, sex is happening all the time and very quickly these days. Women don't expect men to take them out on 5, 10 or 20 dates before sex happens.

So, when a guy talks to a woman and doesn't make her feel sexually attracted and turned on during the first interaction, most women feel like he's just another boring, outdated guy who doesn't understand how the modern dating scene works.

How does it work?

Make the woman feel attracted to you > Test how you feel about each other with kissing and sex > Decide to have a relationship or not.

Most women won't ever admit that openly, but that is what they have been doing more more than a decade now. It's how things work in today's world.

So, all a guy really needs to do is make a woman feel attracted and turned on and then guide her to kissing and sex. After that, both he and her will decide whether or not they want to continue on together or not.

That might sound slutty or wrong, but it's just how things work now because women no longer have to remain a virgin before marriage and they also don't have to rush to find a man who can support them, because they can make their own money, pay their own rent or mortgage and take care of themselves.

Watch this video to understand more how a woman's attraction works and how you use it to quickly and easily begin new relationships...

When you first meet a woman, the most important pleasure you need to give her is the gift of sexual attraction.

If your approach to her only makes her feel neutral or friendly feelings, then she's not going to want to have sex with you or be your girlfriend based on how nice you are being towards her.

Sexual attraction always has to come first and once that is established, a woman will find pleasure in doing even the most simple, ordinary things with you because she will be excited by the attraction.

Yet, most guys try to skip the step of sexual attraction and just be liked for being a nice guy, which is one of the 3 things that beautiful women hate about most single men!

As you will discover from the video above, it's very easy for a woman to initially attract men for sex or a relationship because if she is beautiful, or even just fairly attractive, most men will be willing to overlook certain "bad" qualities she might have just to get to have sex with her.

All a woman really needs to do is look good enough and most guys will want to have sex with her, so it's very easy for her to attract guys for sex.

This is where a lot of guys get confused about attraction as well.

Most guys assume that women select guys based on looks. So, when a guy isn't getting laid or can't attract a girlfriend, he will usually think, "It's because I'm not good looking enough."

However, what he doesn't realize is that most women are more attracted to how a guy's personality and behavior makes her feel (e.g. based on his confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, etc).

When he meets a woman, he hopes that she will feel enough pleasure based on his physical appearance and will want to have sex with him because he's also a nice guy.

Yet, when that doesn't work, he will then begin to wonder, "Why else could women be rejecting me?" or, "Why am I so attracted to women, but they aren't attracted to me?"

It's confusing for guys who don't know how a woman's attraction for a man works because if you listen to the media, you will be told that it's all about looks, money, six pack abs and having a huge dick.

Yet, in the real world, most women are willing to have sex with a guy who isn't good looking, rich, in shape or packing a huge trunk in his pants.

Watch this video to understand some of the excuses that guys use for their lack of ability to pleasure women and then what the real problem actually is.

2. When You're on a First Date With Her

[image: Pleasure on a first date]

Unlike in the past where sex before marriage was forbidden, today's woman is free to do whatever she wants.

This means that sex on the first date is quite common (e.g. a study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date).

However, sex is not going to happen just because a guy takes a woman out to a nice expensive restaurant and buys her an expensive dinner.

That's not how it works.

For a woman to want to have sex with a guy, she needs to feel turned on to the point where she can't wait to get the "date" over so that she can be alone and naked with him.

To pleasure a woman on a first date, a guy needs to:

1. Build up the sexual tension between him and her to boiling point.

Sexual tension is created when a man and a woman feel a lot of sexual attraction for each other, but they avoid escalating to sex right away (e.g. because they work together, are on a date, are already in a relationship with someone else that they plan on leaving, etc).

The attraction is there, but because they aren't releasing it with kissing and sex, it keeps building up until they are constantly thinking about having sex with each other. It's a very pleasurable experience for both men and woman.

For a woman, being so turned on by a man that she can barely stop herself kissing him, hugging him, touching him or groping him is what gives her the most pleasure on a first date.

This doesn't mean that the entire date needs to be sexual or that you even need to talk about sex. You simply need to create a sexual vibe between you and her and just let that tension build up.

For example: Near the end of the date, suggest going back to your place or to hers to "hang out" and then smile and say in a confident, relaxed manner, "It's not about us having sex, but it would be nice to maybe have one kiss on the couch before you leave."

If a woman is really attracted to you and she feels as though you're only going to want to have one kiss on the couch before she leaves, she will feel the excitement of the sexual tension building.

In her mind, she will be thinking, “Well, maybe I do want to have sex...! I don’t know if I just want to kiss him. I guess I’ll just see what happens!” and it will be exciting for her.

She will want to make you feel turned on when you kiss on the couch and in the process of doing that, she will turn herself on and will actually want to have sex so much more.

2. Release the tension with kissing and then sex.

Although building sexual tension is important, you have to then release it with kissing and sex at some point. You can’t just keep building it up forever and expect her to keep waiting for you to make a move.

If you build up the sexual tension between yourself and a woman, you have to take things to the next level of at least kissing or she will assume that you’re either too scared to take things further or aren’t even fully interested in her.

If a guy doesn’t make a move soon enough, a woman will often release her built up sexual tension with another guy who is more confident and willing to quickly move to a kiss and then to sex.

So, don’t waste too much time building up sexual tension. Build it up and then release it with kissing and then sex.

3. When You’re Having Sex With Her

[image: Pleasure during sex]

An example of how to pleasure a woman during sex is to be present in the moment.

For example: A guy might feel so worried about trying to please a woman during sex that he gets caught up in his head thinking, “I hope she likes what I’m doing to her,” or, “She didn’t moan when I touched her there...what if she doesn’t like what I just did there?” or “What if I’m not making her feel enough pleasure? What if other guys have been better in bed than me – will she still like me after this?”

The woman then notices the subtle changes in his body language and vibe and realizes that he’s worried, thinking too much and as a result, is not present in the moment with her.

He’s in his head, rather than having the confidence to stop thinking and simply enjoy the pleasurable physical and emotional feelings, which is a huge turn off for women.

What he doesn’t realize is that one of the things that pleasure women during sex is to be in the presence of a man who isn’t worried about a thing and is simply present in his body and in the moment, enjoying the feelings and experience of having sex with her, rather than retreating into the distance of his insecure mind.

Essentially, women don’t want you to worry about a thing. Just be there, do things to her and enjoy how it all feels.

4. When You’re in a Relationship With Her

[image: Pleasure in a relationship]

A relationship is only as strong as the love, respect and attraction that flows through it.

If a woman doesn't respect her man and feel attracted to him, she will gradually begin to fall out of love with him. When that happens, pretty much anything he says or does just won't make her feel much pleasure at all.

To maintain the pleasure of being in a relationship with him, a man needs to continue building on the attraction and respect his woman feels for him over time, rather than taking her for granted and expecting her to stick around because things felt good at the start.

One of the things that pleasure women in a relationship is to not only have a deeper feeling of attraction for her man over time, but to see that his attraction for her is also deepening and stronger than ever.

If you've ever seen couples that are still madly in love 20, 30 or 40 years into a relationship, you may have noticed that a deep, mutual attraction is in place.

However, couples who are cold towards each other, have drifted apart or who feel like marriage is hard work, are those who no longer have a mutual attraction for each other.

The mutual attraction is maintained in different ways, but it essentially comes down to deepening a woman's love, respect and attraction for you over time in different ways.

In terms of your attraction for her, it will deepen over time if you maintain the correct relationship dynamic (i.e. she looks up to and respects you as a her man, you make her feel feminine in comparison to your masculinity and as a result she keeps up her effort to look pretty and feminine for you, etc).

You also need to ensure that you maintain your perception of her as being attractive (based on how you felt in the early days), rather than slowing losing attraction for her as she ages, puts on a few pounds/kilos after having children or doesn't always wear make up like she did when you first met.

Your attraction for her has to deepen over time, to the point where you are attracted to her because you love her, you respect her and you know that, although she is a bit older, she is still the same hottie that you met many years ago.

When you do that, you will sincerely be able to look at her with loving attraction and compliment her (e.g. "Wow, you look sexy today" or "You're beautiful, I love you"), rather than giving empty, non-sexual compliments like, "You look nice" or "That's a nice dress."

Some men are excellent at making a woman feel sexy when they first meet her, on a first date and even in the beginning of a relationship.

However, over time, many of those men start to take their woman for granted and think, â"She already knows how sexy and desirable she is to me. I don't have to tell herâ" | she knows. â"

Yet, statistically speaking, most women (anywhere from 80-95% depending on the study) feel insecure about their physical appearance and attractiveness, even if they pretend to be confident about it. They need to be reassured of their attractiveness, especially from the man they are in a relationship with.

For this reason, a woman in a long term relationship or marriage will often avoid having sex or even being affectionate with her man, if she doesn't feel that she is sexy and desirable in his eyes.

So, in a relationship, one of the main things that will pleasure your woman is being made to feel that she is the sexiest woman on Earth to you every time you look at her, touch her and make love to her.

However, as pointed out, you also need to ensure that she respects you, feels attracted to you and is still excited to be in love with you. When all that is in place, you and her will pleasure and doing even the most simple of things together.

You Control the Pleasure

One of the most important things that you need to know about women is that, as a man, you are almost fully in control of how much or little pleasure she feels when with you.

Most women are fairly passive when it comes to meeting guys, being on dates and being in relationships. They usually just wait and see what the guy will do and what type of feelings and experiences he will lead both of them to experience.

Essentially, the better you are at making a woman feel respect and attraction for you, the more easily she will fall in love with you and stay in love with you. She will also find it easy to feel intense pleasure when having sex with you and by being in a relationship with you.

So, a question for you now is this: How good are you at making a woman look up to you and respect you as a man, as well as feel sexually attracted and turned on by you?

Do you think that could possibly learn a bit more about how to attract a woman and deepen her feelings for you over time?

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Attracts Women to Bad Boys? 4 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Before I list off some of the things that attract women to bad boys, I want to point out something very important...

You can still attract women in these ways while being a good guy. You do not have to treat women badly to be attractive to women.

The ultimate type of guy that women want is a good guy who also has some balls. So, if you're a good guy who wants to attract women, you can get rid of the idea of thinking that you need to become a bad person to accomplish it.

Bad boys are not the ultimate type of guy that women want. However, some of the things that do attract women to bad boys, which you can use to attract women as a good guy are as follows...

1. He lives by his own rules.

Bad boys are generally the type of guys who do what they want, even if the current standards of society say they shouldn't.

Bad boy (noun): A man who does not conform to approved standards of behavior. A person who goes against convention.

As you can see by the dictionary definition above, a bad boy is a word that is traditionally used to describe a guy who lives by his own rules, rather than just blindly following the crowd.

After all, culture always changes and what is taboo today, will be acceptable and normal soon enough.

A classic example is women wearing mini skirts. It used to be shocking if a woman showed her ankles while wearing a long dress, but it later became acceptable to wear a mini skirt and then a skimpy bikini on the beach.

[image: Women before and now]

Even though in the year 1900, most people thought it was wrong for women to show some skin by wearing a mini skirt or a bikini, most women are now free to do it and everyone is enjoying it.

Culture always changes, so it's no surprise that women have an instinctive attraction to guys who have the balls to go their own way if they believe that it's the right thing to do, rather than just blindly following superficial cultural ideas that may eventually be replaced anyway.

Just look at what happened to "no sex before marriage." Men who had sex with a woman before marriage were seen as bad boys, but now it's just normal.

Society used to be so serious about pre-marital sex and some men and women were sent to jail, sacked from a job, disowned by family and even murdered for committing that "crime."

[image: Oh, how times change...]

Yet, times have changed and now sex before marriage isn't a big deal for most of the world.

So, just because certain behaviors might be seen as taboo today, it doesn't mean that people won't relax about it later on, or even come to like it and prefer it.

For example: Here are a few, famous men who went against the status quo (i.e. they took on a bad boy role in society), but who are now seen as good guys who helped change the world:

[image: Bad boys who helped change the world]

- Steve Jobs and Steve Wozniak: Jobs and Wozniak were looked at as nerds for working on computers. Most people didn't see any reason to start using computers at all, but Steve Jobs pushed on and he and the people at Apple helped changed the way people now interact with technology.
- Nelson Mandela & Martin Luther King: Mandela and King were told that black people weren't equal to white people, so they spent most of their life fighting for equal rights and won.
- Eddie Mabo: Eddie was told that the Indigenous Australians (known as Aboriginals) were not entitled to any land that was taken over by the Queen of England when England created a colony in Australia. The Aboriginals were reported to have been living in Australia for up to 60,000 years before the British arrived. Eddie Mabo didn't bow down and instead fought the case and the Aboriginal people were awarded vast stretches of land in outback Australia.
- John Lennon from The Beatles and Jim Morrison from the Doors: John and Jim lived in a time where society expected musicians to sing nice songs about nice things. Yet, these men went against the grain by singing controversial lyrics that challenged the status quo.
- Elvis Presley: He lived in a time when musicians were expected to act nice and not use any sexually provocative body language. His sexual dance moves, unconventional lyrics and masculine confidence soon landed him the title as being the bad boy of rock and roll.

As you can see by the examples above, living by your own rules can have huge benefits in your own life and for humanity.

Have a look at the dictionary definition again...

Bad boy (noun): A man who does not conform to approved standards of behavior. A person who goes against convention.

Elvis Presley, Steve Jobs, Nelson Mandela and the other men are literal examples of how the dictionary describes the term bad boy.

If all of those men simply hid away and kept their mouth shut, the world would probably be a much less tolerant, less interesting and less connected place right now.

Although women might not be able to explain their attraction to a man who lives by his own rules (labeled as a "bad boy" by the dictionary), there is a deep, instinctive reason why it is attractive, which is directly linked to the development of the human race.

Think about it...

If women were mostly attracted to guys who kept quiet and didn't stand up for change when they thought it was necessary, humanity would most likely advance at a much slower rate.

Dictatorships would probably be more common and we may not have as many democratic countries that allow citizens to enjoy certain freedoms (that have been fought for by bad boys).

Of course, not all bad boys that women are attracted to are going to change the world or even do anything special at all, but women can't stop themselves from feeling an instinctive attraction for a guy who has the balls to do what he thinks is right.

You don't have to be a bad person to do that, as has clearly been demonstrated by the celebrity examples above.

You can still be a good guy, but if you want to make women feel attracted to the bad boy trait of living by your own rules, then just start doing what you want, thinking how you want and going after what you really want in life...even if conservative people currently think that it's wrong.

2. He has a raw, masculine confidence that makes her feel feminine and girly in comparison to him.

[image: Raw, masculine confidence that makes a woman feel feminine and girly in comparison]

This is another example of a bad boy trait that can still be used to attract women, even while being a good, honest guy.

When a woman interacts with a guy who has a raw, masculine type of confidence, it automatically triggers her feelings of sexual attraction because it makes her feel feminine and girly in comparison to him.

It instantly creates a spark of sexual attraction between them because there is a clear masculine and feminine dynamic between them. Rather than feeling neutral, they are attracted to the differences in their energy (i.e. he is the man and she is the woman).

Think about it this way...

When you place a positive and negative magnet next to each other, they will naturally be attracted to each other. Yet, when you try to force two negative magnets together, you will be able to feel that they are naturally repelled by each other.

That's a fairly close match to how human attraction works. For human sexual attraction to exist, there has to be a more masculine and more feminine person.

So, when a woman interacts with a guy who has a soft, nice guy type of confidence, it doesn't make her feel girly and feminine in comparison to him because he isn't exuding a lot of masculinity with that confidence.

Instead, it just makes her feel nice, friendly and neutral around him. There is no sexual spark because there is no real difference in their energy; they are just neutral around each other (i.e. neither are very masculine or very feminine around each other, but are somewhere in the middle).

What a lot of good men don't understand is that the majority of guys in this world (I'd estimate it at about 80%) use the typical nice guy approach on women.

The typical nice guy approach is where a guy tries to be liked by a woman by showing her how much a nice, respectful, trustworthy and genuine guy he is.

[image: Nervous nice guy hoping to be liked and given a chance to be with a woman for being nice to her]

Women do appreciate nice traits in a guy, but if a guy is simply trying to get a chance with her as a result of being nice to her, then he is skipping the most important thing of all...

Sexual attraction.

The first thing that has to be established between you and a woman is mutual sexual attraction.

Yes, you are attracted to her looks, but as a guy, you have to actively make a woman feel sexually attracted to you and turned on by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, etc).

Only then will she appreciate the fact that you're also a nice guy.

However, she's not going to want to select a guy based on how nice he is being to her.

If women did that, men would be in competition over who could be the nicest to women and things would get very crazy.

Can you imagine what would happen if women rewarded men with sex, love and devotion based on how nice they were?

Desperate guys might begin offering to be a woman's slave and do whatever she wants, if she will just give him a chance to be with her. Other guys might buy flowers and chocolates and gifts for women every day in the hope that one day, she will reward him with a kiss on the cheek.

Luckily, the world doesn't work like that and attracting a woman is something that you can do easily and immediately, without ever having to suck up to her with expensive gifts, dinners or a long list of compliments.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works and how you can use it to make women lust after you and see you as being better than a bad boy...

As you will discover from the video above, you do not have to be a bad boy or bad person to attract women.

You do not have to treat women badly, be an arrogant prick or be rude to women.

You can be a good guy, but you simply have to be willing to display some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, flirting, masculine vibe, etc).

3. He makes a woman feel a range of exciting emotions compared to a typical nice guy.

[image: Feeling exciting emotions around a bad boy]

Although a bad boy isn't the best relationship option for a woman, she will often have sex with him or date him for a while, just so she can experience the wide range of emotions that come with being in a relationship with a guy like that.

If a woman hooks up with yet another nice guy, she can usually predict how it will play out.

The nice guy will be nice and sweet to her, he will be very attracted to her, he will fall in love with her and when she gets bored of being in a relationship with a guy who doesn't make her feel much attraction, she will then try to break up with him.

Yet, since he has a hard time attracting women because his approach is to hopefully be "liked" by a woman for being such a nice, good guy, he will cling to her like glue and become insecure and needy as she tries to break up with him.

Even though she might like him as a person and feel sorry for him in a way, she will try hard to continue on with the break up because she knows that he doesn't have a clue about how to make her feel the kind of attraction that really wants to feel for a man.

For most women, it's the same story over and over again.

So, rather than going through that, a woman will often play around for a while by being with a bad boy who is capable of making her feel a wider range of emotions based on how unpredictable he is or how difficult he is to win over.

For example: A lot of the guys that women label as being a "bad boy," are those who are more of a challenge to win over, compared to a typical nice guy.

Watch this video to understand why most women prefer guys who are a more of a challenge and how you can be a challenge, while still being a good guy!|

As you will discover from the video above, you're not being a bad person by offering a woman a bit of a challenge before you let her get to have sex with you or be your girlfriend.

Instead, you are just being a wiser man who understands the reality that women live in and as a result, you are giving her a gift that she is desperately looking for.

4. He makes a woman feel like she is doing something naughty.

Think about it this way...

Most guys like to look at sexy, female strippers and exotic dancers or jerk off to the women in hardcore porn.

[image: Men looking at online porn]

The women in porn are bad girls!

So, is the nice guy wrong for feeling attracted to them? Should he ignore those women and only pay attention to women who wear long skirts and don't kiss or have sex before marriage?

He can do that if he wants to, but if he is like most modern men, he doesn't only pay attention to nice, conservative women.

He can't stop himself from feeling attracted to the bad girls in porn and if he goes to a strip club and watches exotic dancers (i.e. bad girls), he probably won't be able to control his attraction for them either.

He might have been going around telling everyone, "I want a nice girl that I can introduce to my family," but that doesn't mean he can't feel attracted to bad girls too.

[image: Strippers are bad girls]

A stripper is arousing for guys because she isn't being so conservative and formal like everyday women.

By working as a stripper, she's actually being a bad girl, but most nice guys will still feel attracted to her, want to have sex with her and may even a relationship with her.

So, can you blame some women for going through with the attraction that they feel for so called "bad boys" who are little bit naughty when it comes to showing their sexual interest and actually kissing her and hooking up with her for sex very quickly?

Likewise, the women in porn are actually bad girls, but millions of nice guys from all over the world jerk off to them all day long.

So, in just the same way that guys get turned on by women who are being a little bit naughty rather than just being nice, women can also feel turned on by guys who make them feel a bit naughty.

How naughty? It doesn't have to be too extreme at all. It's simply about taking things a little further than a typical nice guy would and if you can do that, it's enough to get most women aroused.

For example: A typical nice guy will take a woman on a series of dates before he eventually builds up to kissing her and having sex with her.

Yet, he doesn't realize that in today's world, most women have experienced sex on the first date or even sex on the first night.

In the USA, a study found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women had experienced a one night stand.

In other words, while millions of nice guys have been jerking off to porn and thinking that everyday women don't want to have sex, bad boys (and good guys like me who can attract women) have been having sex with women on the first night and first date for years.

These days, sex happens very quickly, but that isn't something that women like to go around admitting.

So, when a woman meets a guy who has the ability to attract her, turn her on and then guide her to kissing and sex on the first night or first date, it makes her feel a bit naughty.

Nice guys would probably label that guy as a "bad boy," but in reality, he's just a guy who has adapted to the pace of the modern dating scene.

Some nice guys will think that modern women are disgusting and slutty for having sex so easily, but those same nice guys will jerk off to hardcore porn and have all sorts of wild thoughts while doing it.

So, guys can't blame women for wanting to feel a bit naughty at times, rather than just always being so nice, innocent and sweet.

The Ultimate Type of Man

The ultimate type of man that pretty much all women are attracted to is a good man who is also very confident and masculine.

Yet, since those men are usually already taken, a woman will often accept what she sees as the next best thing (i.e. a bad boy) if she is sick of the typical nice guys that she keeps meeting.

So, although it might look like women are mostly attracted to bad boys or only want a man who is bad or mean to her, that's actually not the case at all.

Of course, there are some strange women who like to date bad men (e.g. women who are attracted to career criminals, thugs or men on Death Row), but the majority of women in this world want a good guy who is confident, self-assured and masculine.

Being with an actual bad man is not what women are looking for.

[image: Actual bad men - the type of men that most women are NOT interested in]

The vast majority of women definitely aren't looking to couple up with a bad man who will beat her up, treat her like crap and make her life a misery. That would be crazy.

Instead, women just want a good guy who has some balls and isn't afraid to live the life he wants.

[image: Most women just want a good guy who has the balls to go after what he wants in life]

You don't have to be a bad person to make women feel attracted to you. Women aren't looking to get beat up or be treated like crap by a bad man. They just want you to have some balls, but also be a good, loving guy.

Treating a Woman Like a Princess

When a guy thinks of himself as being a "nice" guy who likes to treat a woman like a princess, but then notices that most of the women he really likes (i.e. the feminine ones) seem to be more attracted to guys who don't treat women as nicely as he does, he might ask himself, "What attracts women to bad boys?" or, "Why does a woman want a man who treats her badly, rather than a nice guy who will treat her well?"

A guy like this will often make the mistake of thinking that women must not feel attracted to him because he's not a bad boy or a bad person.

"Maybe I should start treating women like shit. If that's what they want, then fine. I'll show them what a bad boy is. I'll be the rudest asshole they've ever met. Will they like me then? I doubt it! Stupid bitches...they can't see what they are missing with me. I'm the nicest, most honest, genuine guy around. What else do they want?!"

What he doesn't realize is that his inability to create feelings of sexual attraction inside of woman is what is getting him rejected or making women overlook him.

He doesn't understand that almost all women do want a good guy, but they only want that good guy if he can also make her feel sexually attracted to him.

[image: I treated her like a princess, but she likes him instead]

It's simply not enough for a guy just be too nice because niceness isn't what turns women on sexually. So, should he be bad to her?

Of course not.

He needs to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, masculine vibe, charisma, etc).

Quite simply, a woman will hook up with a bad boy because he makes her feel attracted. Ultimately though, what she really wants is a good guy who can make her feel just as much or even more attraction than a bad boy.

Thankfully, that is a very easy thing to do.

Watch this video to understand more about how easy it is to attract women as a good guy...

As you will discover from the video above, you actually have a lot of direct control over how much or little attraction a woman feels for you.

For example: If a guy interacts with a woman and comes across as nervous, insecure and unsure of himself, while also trying to suck up to her by being really nice, then she's not going to be feeling attracted and turned on by him.

However, if a good guy interacts with a woman and comes across as confident, emotionally strong and charismatic, the woman will naturally feel attracted to him.

Why? Women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, etc) and turned off by the weakness (e.g. insecurity, nervousness, etc).

When you display some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women, you don't even have to work at trying to get the woman to like you because she will automatically like you based on the attraction she is feeling.

Then, if you also happen to be a good guy, she will feel as though she's just hit the dating jackpot and will be keen to hook up with you sexually and hopefully get you into a relationship.

“I Just Want a Nice Guy Who Treats Me Well”

Most guys have probably heard women say, “Where are all the nice guys?” or “I just want to be with a nice guy who treats me well.”

Then, what often happens is a lot of guys begin thinking, “I am a nice guy and I really, really like her. So, what I am going to do to get her is treat her like a princess, show her that I have good intentions, show her that I respect her and that will treat her right. Hopefully, she will then realize how much of a nice guy I am and will give me a chance with her. After all, she just said she wants a nice guy, so I'm going to be really nice and then she will really want me. Yes!!! I've worked it out! I've discovered a secret hack to get women to like me! I'll be the nicest guy they've ever met and then they will have to choose me! Yayy!”

Yet, when he tries the nice guy approach, instead of her falling head over heels in love with him, she either rejects him or she says something like, “I really like you, but I only see us as being friends,” or “You are really nice, but I don't have feelings for you” or “I see you as more of a brother.”

Later on, he might then be disappointed to see her dating a guy that he perceives as being a bad boy (e.g. because he kissed her or had sex with her on the first date) and he may wonder, “Why do women say they want a nice guy and then end up hooking up and dating bad boys? I don't understand what attracts women to bad boys? Why would a woman prefer to be treated badly when there is a really nice guy just dying to have a chance with her and treat her like a princess? I would wait months or years to have sex with her if that's what she wanted. I would do anything for her!”

What he doesn't realize is that being nice to a woman just isn't enough to make her want to begin a sexual, romantic relationship. As mentioned earlier, there is absolutely NOTHING wrong with being nice to a woman, but being nice isn't the thing that makes her wet and gets her craving sex with you.

You Don't Have to Be a Bad Boy to Attract Women

Hopefully by now, you have realized that most bad boys are able to display certain personality traits, (e.g. confidence, masculine vibe, charisma, charm, etc) that women find attractive in men.

The majority of nice guys simply don't know that they can attract women in those way, so they waste a lot of time trying to be a nice, sweet guy by pretending not to be interested in having sex with her, in the hopes that she will like him and want to date him one day.

Yet, the nice guy could easily get into a sexual, romantic relationship with her immediately if he would simply stop trying to suck up to her by being nice and start making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

If he isn't willing to make her feel turned on (e.g. because he thinks it's wrong, sleazy or too forward), the woman will reject him or keep him in the friend zone, even if she really likes him as a person.

He may then feel confused about that and wonder, "Maybe if I can be even nicer to her, she will then see that I'm the nice guy that she has been looking for all along! I've been nice to her so far, but now I'm going to be twice as nice!"

He will then be even nicer, more polite, more generous and caring, but he will remain stuck in the friend zone because the all-important element of sexual attraction will still be missing from the dynamic.

Then, when he see another guy walk up to her, attract her and show his sexual interest right away, he will label the guy as being a bad boy or a jerk. "What an asshole. All he wants to do is have sex with her. At least I respect her!"

He will wonder why an intelligent, beautiful woman like her would fall for a guy like him, â€œI don't understand what attracts women to bad boys when they can have a nice guy like me who treats her like gold and cares about her? What does he have that I don't?! I'm a much nicer guy than he is! I don't get it!"

It's pretty simple: The bad boy is making her feel attracted.

So, to close up here, I want to make one point very clear...

You do NOT need to be a bad boy to attract women.

You can attract women by being a good guy, as long as you are willing to display some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women and turn them on.

When you do that, you will immediately begin to enjoy your pick of beautiful women and you will notice that in reality, most women are not attracted to bad boys after all. Most women just want a good guy who turns them on.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Color Attracts Women?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Most guys want to get an edge over other guys or stand out from the crowd to attract women more easily.

So, a question that I've been asked here at The Modern Man a few times over the years is, "What color attracts women?" and "Does wearing a certain color shirt make it easier to attract and pick up women?"

[image: What color attracts women to men?]

For the guys reading this who understand how a woman's attraction really works, you will know that asking what color attracts women the most doesn't result in an answer of, "It's definitely red!" (red works for women who want to attract a man) or, "It's definitely black!"

Why?

A woman's attraction for a man is mostly based on how his personality and behavior makes her feel, not what color clothes he is wearing.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man REALLY works and why it doesn't really matter what color clothes a guy wearsâ!

As you will discover from the video above, you can make a woman feel just as much attraction for you if you wear a red shirt, a black shirt or even a brown shirt.

What really matters is how you make her feel when she interacts with you. If your confidence, charisma, humor and masculine vibe makes her feel attracted and turned on, she will like you regardless of what color shirt you are wearing.

The Myth of the Color Red

Scientific studies often say that red attracts the opposite sex, but it just isn't true for men who want to attract women.

They say that red attracts women based on what works for women and then just lump that finding on men as well, to be politically correct.

It's just a bunch of researchers that are clueless about attracting women and are guessing at what might work.

Pretty retarded.

Additionally, a lot of people blindly talk about how red must be a great color to attract women, because red attracts a human's attention in general.

For example: There is a reason why red is used for stoplights/traffic lights and for stop signs.

Red gets attention.

However, when it comes to attracting women, it's a completely different story altogether.

You MAY get attention based on wearing a certain colored shirt, but it isn't going to make a woman walk over, drop to her knees and suck your dick.

Personally speaking, I remember wearing a red shirt about 12 years ago when I was first learning how to approach and attract women.

The red shirt didn't help or hinder my success.

Why?

I was being rejected by women because I was nervous, self-doubting and wasn't emotionally strong enough to handle their initial tests of my confidence when I approached and interacted with them.

I could have been wearing a blue shirt and it wouldn't have a difference.

A woman's attraction is mostly based on how your personality and behavior makes her feel, not on whether you are wearing red, blue or orange.

My personality and behavior was turning women off because I was coming across as nervous and unsure of myself, even though I was trying hard to appear confident.

Billions of Opinions

[image: Not all women like the same color on men]

There are currently more than 3.5 billion women in the world and you will likely get a lot of different opinions when you ask them the question of, What color attracts women?

Women will answer randomly with things like, "Oh, I like guys who wear blue" and another woman will say, "Oh no, white shirts are the best because they look clean and fresh" and another will say, "I prefer black. It's mysterious."

Yeah, whatever.

Each of those women will have been attracted to, hooked up with and been in relationships with guys who were NOT wearing that color when they met.

Most women do not reveal what really attracts women to men and simply say random things about what they want in a guy, (e.g. "I just want a nice guy"), even if they don't even follow through on what they are saying.

If you want women to be attracted to you for real, the most important thing is how you make them feel when you interact with them.

Watch this video and you will see what I mean!

When a guy interacts with a woman and makes her feel attracted to his behavior and personality traits, (e.g. his confidence, ability to make her laugh, ability to make her feel feminine and girly in comparison to his masculinity), she's not going to be worried about trivial things like whether or not he is wearing clothes in her favorite color or not.

On the other hand, a guy interacts with a woman and behaves in ways that turn her off (e.g. being nervous and self-doubting around her, having a boring conversation style, treating her like a friend rather than a woman he wants to have sex with), she will feel repelled by him and his clothes will become another reason why she doesn't feel attracted to him.

The most important thing you need to know is that the more ways you can make a woman feel attracted to you, the more intense her attraction for you will be, and the more interested she will be in the idea of having sex with you or becoming your girlfriend regardless of what color you are wearing.

Are You Making Excuses About Not Being Attractive to Women?

[image: Women reject me because I don't wear the right color]

A lot of good guys don't really know how to attract women, so they focus on unimportant things like the color of their clothes, in the hope that it will somehow change their luck with women.

Yet, attracting women is not a matter of luck.

It's actually a skill that a guy either has or doesn't have.

Guys who have the skill of being able to attract women are the guys who actively attract women with their confidence, charisma, sense of humor and masculinity.

Guys who don't have the skill of being able to attract women try to "get lucky" by being really nice to women and trying to impress them by being a gentleman or having a great fashion sense.

They just don't know that it is possible (and very easy) to attract women with their personality, behavior and conversation style, because they've been filling their heads with excuses about why they've failed with women for so long.

Watch this video and you will see what I mean!

Common excuses that guys use to explain why they're not attracting the kind of women they really want, include some of the following:

- I'm not good looking enough.
- I don't have a lot of money, an expensive car or a nice house.
- I'm not a doctor or lawyer; I only have a simple job.
- I'm not rich enough to buy the latest fashions, drive a luxury car or wear expensive jewelry.
- I wear the wrong color clothes, so women don't find me attractive.

The list of excuses just goes on and on.

If a guy really wants to believe that these are the main things that women look for in a guy, he will keep finding "proof" to substantiate his beliefs.

For example: He will see a guy who is wearing a red shirt with a hot woman and he'll think, "Ahah! Another one.

Red shirts do attract women!" and will forget that he's seen 100s of other guys wearing different color shirts, but still with a hot woman.

If he sees a guy who is good looking with a hot woman, he will think, "Ahah! Another one. It's all about a guy's looks! You have to be good looking to get a hot girl" and will forget that he's seen 100s of average and below average looking guys with hot women.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is this simple truth!

It is possible to attract most women by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors (e.g. confidence, charisma, sense of humor, masculine vibe, etc) that naturally attract women.

Human Attraction is Actually Color Blind

Something that a lot of guys don't realize is that most women (not all) are attracted to guys for a range of different reasons that have nothing to do with a guy's looks, social status, money or fashion sense.

In fact, most women are just hoping to meet a guy who has the personality traits and behaviors that she feels naturally attracted to.

What are these behaviors and personality traits?

- Confidence and a strong belief in himself and in his abilities and value as a man.
- Masculinity (how he thinks, feels, behaves and takes action) that makes her feel girly and feminine in his presence.
- The ability to be charming and sweet without being too much of an ass-kissing, people pleasing nice guy.
- The ability to make her laugh, feel happy and feel turned on by how he talks to her.

Here's the thing though!

Most of the guys that a woman meets will turn her off because they will usually display personality traits and behaviors that are the opposite of the ones that are attractive to her (e.g. self-doubt, nervousness and insecurity, a dull or formal conversation style, etc).

Watch this video to understand where many guys screw up when talking to women and what you can do instead to succeed!

As you will discover from the video above, most women don't get to meet guys who can just be normal around them.

Most guys put on an act of being even nicer than they really are, while also suppressing their real personality, which then hides their natural charisma.

It's very boring, typical and even annoying for a woman who keeps meeting guy after guy who simply can't be normal around her and allow her to feel some attraction.

So, rather than wasting a lot of time talking to guys like that, a woman will immediately try to make it clear to him that she is not interested in him.

For example: She might tell him she already has a boyfriend and ask that he please leaves her alone.

She might give him the cold shoulder and just ignore him, or she might make fun of him by saying something like, Gross, I hate your red shirt! it doesn't suit you in the hopes that he will feel embarrassed or uncomfortable and then go away.

Naturally, if this happens to him, he will immediately cling to a new excuse of why he didn't get the girl by thinking, It's my clothes that are turning women off. If I can just find out what color attracts women the most, I will then finally get lucky with women. Maybe I should wear purple! Yeah, that will work!

Yet, no matter how much he tries to convince himself that he's wearing the wrong colors around women, he will always continue to see men who are wearing the same colors as he is, but they actually have a hot girlfriend.

He will then try to come up with another excuse like, "He must be rich" or "He must have a huge dick” in an attempt explain why a woman would like a guy who is wearing that color.

It’s pretty silly I know, but guys think all sorts of crazy things when they don’t actually know how to attract women with their personality and behavior.

Back when I was hopeless with women, I used to think that women were rejecting me because my nose is bent (I broke it in an accident when I was younger).

I also thought that I wasn’t good looking enough, so women just wouldn’t want anything to do with me.

I wasted so much money buying all sorts of fashionable clothes in the hope that it would be thing that finally changed my luck with women.

Yet, all I got was comments like, “Nice shirt” or “I like your shirt” while talking to women, but they still rejected me when I attempted to get their number, go in for a kiss or ask them out.

Why? I was turning them off by displaying personality traits and behaviors that naturally repel women (e.g. nervousness, insecurity, self-doubt, being too nice, etc).

You Can Attract Women, Regardless of the Color of Your Shirt

Women can feel incredibly attracted to men for many other than looks, money, or the style and color of their clothes.

The next time you go somewhere where there are a lot of people, look around you and pay attention for a couple of minutes.

You will see all different kinds of guys (e.g. tall, short, overweight, thin, handsome, average looking, below average looking, etc) walking around with attractive or even very beautiful women and the guys will be wearing many different styles and colors of clothes.

All the guys won’t be in a red shirt or blue shirt. They will be wearing all sorts of colors and styles of clothing.

These guys are attractive women because they know how to trigger a woman’s feelings of sexual desire with the personality traits (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, masculinity) that are naturally attractive to women.

It’s as simple as that.

So, if you want to be attractive to women, the most important thing is how you make them feel when you interact with them.

Yes, some of the women you meet might have a preference for a certain color that they like a guy to wear, but if your personality and behavior turns her on, she will be happy to overlook your bad color choices and she might even start imagining how she would like to buy things for you in her favorite color if she becomes your girlfriend.

What Color Do You Like Wearing the Most?

The color that you like wearing the most is going to be the best color for you. Why? The color that will attract women to you the most is the one that you can wear with the most confidence and belief in yourself.

If you are confident and believe in yourself more when you wear black, then wear that color. Women will like you more in black because you will be more confident.

Confidence is one of the most important traits that a woman looks for in a guy, so just wear whatever makes you feel the most confident.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Can a Man Do That a Woman Can't?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

These days, women can do pretty much everything that men can do.

For example: In today's world there are female pilots, truck drivers, engineers, mountaineers, firefighters, soldiers, professional fighters and wrestlers, oil rig workers and even presidents.

On the other hand, there are certain things that have (up until now) been out of a woman's abilities, for example:

Even though women have been in the army and navy for many years, there has never been a female Army Ranger or Navy SEAL, but all that is about to change in 2016. According to the Pentagon, women will now be allowed to train and serve as Army Rangers, and qualified women will begin training as Navy SEALs.

Basically when it comes to most things, it seems that these days, women can do everything that a man can do.

[image: Woman and man about to arm wrestle]

However, no matter how hard they try, there are also certain things that a man can do that a simply woman cannot do.

For example: When it comes to feats of physical strength, endurance and speed, women are still unable to match men.

As yet, no woman has been able to run a 4-minute mile, nor has any woman been able to record an official sub-10 second 100-meter sprint. Although the world record bench press is 722 lb (327.5 kg) for a man, Becca Swanson, dubbed "The World's Strongest Woman" has only managed to bench press 480 lb (220 kg).

4 Things That Men Can Do, But Women Can't

[image: No matter how much society changes, women are still women and they want you to be a man]

While a woman can take on or act out a female version of the following roles if they want to, it's just not the same as a man doing it:

1. Be a boyfriend.
2. Be a husband.
3. Be a father.
4. Be a grandfather.

Depending on certain circumstances (e.g. after divorce or a death), some women have to take on the role of also being strong and masculine like a father, but it's just not the same for a child as having a man take on that role.

Take for example what happens to boys when their mother (who is taking on the role of a father) gives them advice on dating. A mother will often tell her son, "To get yourself a nice girl, you have to be a gentleman and you have to treat a woman like a princess. â□□

Although this might sound like good advice from a motherâ□□s point of view, if when the boy grows up and tries to â□□get himself a nice girlâ□□ by being sweet and nice to women, what often happens is he gets rejected and doesnâ□□t understand why.

Watch this video to understand why a woman will usually reject nice guys who expect to be wanted sexually and romantically because they are being a nice, gentleman towards her...

Unless a woman is unattractive and is willing to accept any guy, she's not going to be looking to be in a relationship with a nice, sweet guy who only makes her experience friendly feelings for him.

Of course, there is nothing wrong with being a nice guy to women, but being nice is not enough for a woman to want get sexually or romantically involved with guy.

What a woman really wants is a good guy who can also trigger her feelings of sexual attraction. She doesn't just want a good guy who treats her nicely â□□ there has to be sexual attraction and desire present for her to be interested in anything sexual or romantic.

For example: If a guy is nervous, insecure and self-doubting (traits that turn a woman off sexually) when heâ□□s talking to a woman that he likes, then sheâ□□s not really going to care if he is a nice guy who is paying for all her drinks, or giving her loads of compliments, because sheâ□□s going to be feeling turned off by his emotional weakness.

On the other hand, when a confident guy is talking to a woman, who also happens to be a nice guy, she will see his approach as being attractive and charming.

She will feel excited about interacting with him, because she will be feeling sexually attracted to his personality and behavior and at the same time, she will also be feeling good about the fact that he is treating her nicely.

Regardless of What a Modern Woman Can Do, She Still Wants to Be Able to Relax and Let Her Man Take the Lead

[image: Couples hooking up]

Although itâ□□s true that women can now do most of the things that men can do, she still wants a guy to take on the role of being â□□the manâ□□ in the sexual courtship.

Regardless of how tough a woman seems in her day-to-day life or career, when she is with a man, she wants to be able to relax into being a feminine woman.

Being a feminine woman means that she is free to be girly and emotional, rather than having to put on a fake exterior where she becomes masculine and emotionally rational like a guy.

To make a woman feel feminine, you need to fully embrace your role as the man. Don't act like a soft guy in the hopes that it will impress her.

What she wants to see is that you're not afraid to think, feel, behave and take action like a masculine man. You're also not like most clueless guys who become neutral around women (i.e. neither masculine or feminine, but somewhere in between).

You give her the gift of experiencing and feeling your masculinity by the way you use your body language, how you think, how you feel, how you talk and how you take action.

You don't hide your masculinity and instead embrace it. As a result, she can then relax into being a feminine woman around you.

That's what a woman ultimately wants. She wants you to be emotionally strong enough to approach her, attract her and guide her to kissing, sex and into a relationship.

She doesn't want to have to take on that role herself, or else she will end up feeling like more of a guy.

Of course, there are some women out there who like to approach men and take on the masculine role (e.g. when a woman is insecure so she acts dominant because she fears being rejected, when a woman is unattractive and has to actively approach and hit on guys or else she will remain single, etc).

Likewise, in some relationships a woman will take on the role of being the stronger one (e.g. he cries when life gets tough, she makes all of the decisions, etc), but that's not what most women want, because when a woman takes on the role of being 'the man,' it's very difficult for her to then feel respect for him.

When a woman doesn't fully respect the man that she is in a relationship with, she will begin to lose touch with her feelings of attraction for him (which also means their sex life will be non-existent), and without respect and attraction, the love simply cannot grow, mature and deepen over time.

Essentially, no matter how strong or successful a woman is, in almost all cases, she wants to be with a man who can confidently take the lead when he interacts with her, and who is confident enough to guide her from a conversation, to kissing, to sex and into a relationship.

It's Not a Competition

When a man asks, 'What can a man do that a woman can't?' it can mean that he thinks men and women are in competition with each other. Yet, we're not in competition with women. We have a very cooperative relationship that has been working well for a very long time.

It's actually the differences between men and woman that allows sexual attraction to take place.

For example: The more masculine you are in how you think, behave and feel around a woman, the more feminine she is free to be around you. The more feminine a woman feels around you, the more sexually attracted she will be.

Why? Think about how magnets are attracted to each other; there is a negative and positive. Two positives repel each other, whereas a positive and a negative are naturally attracted to each other. That's how human attraction works, except the forces are masculinity and femininity, rather than positivity and negativity.

An example of attracting women with your masculinity is to be an emotionally strong man, which then allows her the freedom to be emotionally sensitive and vulnerable like a feminine woman. She doesn't have to be emotionally tough and strong and can simply relax into being a feminine being around you.

When you give a woman the gift of being able to be feminine around you, it's worth more than buying her 100 boxes of chocolates or getting her flowers every month for 10 years. Making her feel feminine in comparison to your masculinity is the ultimate gift that can last a lifetime, if you do it properly.

Another example of attracting women with your masculinity is to be the more dominant one. Being more dominant doesn't mean that a woman is less important, less intelligent, less capable or that her opinions don't count.

It's simply about being the emotionally stronger one and not letting her push you around or take control of everything because you are afraid of losing her. All women instinctively test men in relationships (e.g. by throwing tantrums) to see how he reacts.

If he almost always reacts with anger, becomes insecure or crumbles under her pressure, then she knows that she's not with a real man.

A real man knows that women throw tantrums to test whether she should continue looking up to him as her man or not. If he can't handle her tests, then she instinctively feels as though he's probably not strong enough to handle challenging people at work or in other areas of his life.

Women want to feel safe by knowing that they are with a guy who can remain emotionally strong and remain in control of his emotions no matter how much he is challenged.

Whether some guys like it or not, women know that it's a man's duty to be rising through the levels of life and to be reaching for his true potential as a man. That is what a real man will do, and that is what makes a woman feel respect and attraction for him.

It's not up to a woman to rise through the levels of life to make her man feel safe. She can do it if she wants to, but she knows (and so does pretty much every other woman on the planet) that it's not her role in a relationship with a man.

Even when a woman is strong, powerful and successful in life, she still needs to feel that she is a feminine woman in her relationship because she is with a masculine man.

If her man is unable to make her feel feminine in comparison to his masculinity, the sex will dry up and a break up or divorce will be a near certainty.

Ultimately, no matter what women can do that men can, women still want to be able to feel feminine around men.

Women aren't the new men.

As a man, you are the man. It doesn't matter how much a woman acts like she is tougher, braver or more masculine than you are, she doesn't actually want you to believe it and bow down at her feet.

She wants you to be proud of her for being such a strong woman, but she wants you to be even stronger than her.

No matter what women do in society, always remember that you are the man. Don't lose your way with that.

You are the man and there's nothing that a woman can do that will change that.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

What Age is a Man at His Physical Peak?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

According to various studies, the official answer to “What age is a man at his physical peak?” is anywhere from his late 20’s to his early 30’s.

After that age point, a man’s physical strength will usually decline throughout the remaining years of his life, unless he decides to use TRT (Testosterone Replacement Therapy) or HGH (Human Growth Hormone) to keep his body functioning like a younger man.

Different Men, Different Peaks

[image: Different men, different peaks]

Younger men typically have more strength and stamina, but there is no exact age where every man is at his physical best because people live out their life in different ways.

Take for example, a man who spends most of his youth focused on being a top-notch athlete and being in great physical shape.

Yet, when he leaves school and gets a job, he might stop participating in sports, spend most of his time sitting down at a desk at work and then sitting on a sofa when he gets home and may also fail to stick to a healthy diet.

As a result, he will naturally start losing muscle mass due to his lack of physical activity and his physical peak will have ended by the time he’s in his early to mid 20’s.

On the other hand, another guy might spend most of his youth being in poor physical shape because he doesn’t play sports or exercising and has an unhealthy diet.

Then, at the age of 40 or 50, if he starts to take his health and fitness seriously, he will inevitably begin to build (or re-build) muscle mass and he will be in the best shape of his life, (i.e. at his physical peak).

So, although science can predict what is supposed to happen in your body at different ages throughout your life, your physical peak will probably have more to do with how you live your life.

Ultimately, your daily choices will add up over time to determine whether reach your highest potential as a man, whether that be that physically, mentally, spiritually or sexually.

When it Comes to a Woman’s Attraction For a Man, Most Men Only Get Better With Age

This is one of the best things about being a man:

Unlike women who tend to lose their value on the dating market as they grow older, men just seem to get better and more attractive to women over time.

According to multiple studies, it seems that men are programmed to be attracted to young and attractive women, because attractiveness and youth in a woman is a sign of good health and by association, good fertility.

Essentially, men want a woman who will be able to have multiple, healthy and attractive offspring; therefore, ensuring the best chances for his genetic lineage to continue into the future.

This is why, a woman loses her value on the dating market the older she gets. Men simply stop feeling the instinctive attraction for her that she would have got when she was in her late teens, 20s and 30s.

On the other hand, science has been able to prove that a man's maturity actually plays in his favor in the dating scene, because unlike women who are fertile only for a short period of time, men who are older and are still around (in the past, most men would be dead before they even made 30 because of all the tribal wars, civil wars, world wars and random murders) are displaying how strong their genes are.

Essentially, if a guy makes it into his 40s or 50s and is living a good life, to a woman this indicates that he must be genetically superior to other guys to have survived this long.

It sounds weird, but attraction is weird.

A woman's attraction to a man being older and more mature might seem weird or "creepy" to guys who don't understand how attraction works, but it's just nature.

If you don't know how a woman's attraction for a man REALLY works, then I recommend that you watch this video!

As you will discover in my video above, most women feel attracted to men for different reasons than we men feel attracted to women.

The majority of guys in this world assume that women are mostly interested in a guy's looks, so if he isn't in peak physical condition, he might as well pack up and go home.

Yet, that's the case at all.

Women can be attracted to men for all sorts of reasons (e.g. confidence, masculine vibe and behavior, charisma, making her laugh and feel good around him, his determination to succeed in life, etc).

Here's the thing that a lot of guys forget because the majority of us now live in cities with supermarkets, smartphones and cars!

A Man's Attractiveness to a Woman is Mostly About His Ability to Help Her Survive

For most of human history and even to this day, surviving, thriving and prospering in life hasn't been easy for most humans.

It's very easy to forget that for 99.9% of human history, there were no supermarkets, smartphones or sofas.

As a result, women have developed hard-wired instincts that urge them to couple up with a guy who is going to be capable of helping her survive, thrive and prosper.

This is why you will often see beautiful women who are in perfect physical condition, with a guy who is overweight.

[image: Attracting women as a fat man]

[image: Can a fat guy have a beautiful girlfriend?]

[image: Can a fat guy have a hot girlfriend?]

[image: Fat guy with sexy girlfriend]

[image: Fat guy with a skinny girlfriend at the pool]

To some guys, they look at that women like that and think, “What is she doing with him?” but it’s pretty simple: He is making her feel attracted in deep, instinctive ways that override her superficial preference for a guy with muscles and six pack abs.

Yes, she might go around saying, “I want a guy with six pack abs and a perfect body,” but that doesn’t mean she can’t feel attracted to other men for more fundamental reasons that are linked to her survival (e.g. he is masculine, he gets along well with others, he is determined to succeed in life, etc).

What a lot of guys don’t realize is that women can be attracted to guys who are in shape and those who aren’t. Of course, not all women are willing to be with a guy who is overweight, skinny or not in peak physical condition, but the truth is that MANY women are.

For most women, the attraction that she feels for a man is not based on whether he is at his physical peak or not. Why?

Although a man’s physical peak would have been beneficial to a woman in the past where a man was required to hunt and protect her and their offspring from dangerous predators or bad men, in the modern world, a man doesn’t need to be able to fend off saber tooth tigers, invading tribes or gun wielding cowboys.

To protect a woman in today’s world, a man needs to rise up and reach for his true potential as a man in a way that is going to ensure that he can survive, thrive and prosper in this world.

For example: If a guy loves playing computer games and works in a dead end job just so he can pay the bills, a woman isn’t going to feel safe being coupled up with him for life.

However, if he takes game playing seriously and makes a career of it, then she can feel safe knowing that he is spending his time on something that will ensure he can survive, thrive and prosper in this world.

A man who is at his physical peak doesn’t necessarily guarantee that he can protect a woman in the way she needs to feel safe in today’s world, or that he will be able to succeed in life and therefore be able to provide for her and their offspring, if they decide to have any.

In today’s world, it is impossible to accurately say at what age a man is at his physical peak, and here’s why!

Many Modern Men Are Defying the Odds

It’s pretty obvious that guy in their 20s and 30s are usually in much better physical condition than men in their 40s and 50s, but that doesn’t mean the older guys have to pack up and go home.

For example, at the time of writing this post:

- Steve West is an American swimmer who at the age of 40, qualified for the U.S. Olympic Trials in two events.
- Raymond Moon is 83 years old and he is the world’s oldest competitive bodybuilder.
- Kim Collins is a track and field sprinter from Saint Kitts and Nevis, who holds the record of being the oldest man to run a sub 10 second 100 meter race. At age 39 years and 69 days, and he continues to break his own record every time he races.

- Floyd Joy Mayweather, Jr. is an American professional boxer, who retired undefeated at the age of 38, after having won 12 world titles and the lineal championship in 4 different weight classes.
- 95 year old Svend Stensgaard, from Denmark can powerlift 290 pounds and all this after having had a heart attack a few years ago.

Basically, the list can go on and on, because men are no longer being held hostage by what is supposed to be the norm in physical strength and performance.

For example: Studies conducted by Age UK and the University of Manchester and published in the British Medical Journal, have established that nearly 70% of men aged between 70 and 90 are still having fulfilling sex lives.

No doubt they have Viagra to thank for that, but hey they are still getting laid go grandpa!

These days, a lot of older men are getting married or having children, well after what is supposed to be their physical sexual prime.

Celebrity examples include:

- George Clooney who married a woman 17 years his junior at the age of 53.
- Bruce Willis who became a father (again) at the age of 59.
- Steve Martin who became a father for the first time at the age of 67.

Non-celebrity examples include me. I recently married my sexy girlfriend who is 15 years younger than me (she was 20 when we met and I was 35) and we're now trying to start a family. She's now 23 and I'm 38.

Wherever you look today, you will see evidence that your age as a man is no barrier to the success you can have with your career, with women and in life in general.

Age is Just a Number

The question, What age is a man at his physical peak? no longer has the typical answer that it would have in the past.

It's very easy to complain and make excuses about why you can't do this or that, or why you can't have the women you really want, but that's just a waste of time and energy.

Rather than worrying about whether or not you've passed your physical peak, focus instead on going after what you really want in life without holding back be it a new job, a physical goal like losing weight, or achieving a physical feat, or getting a hot woman the choice is yours.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Ways to Make a Woman Want You Sexually

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

By displaying the behaviors and personality traits that women are naturally attracted to, you will automatically trigger a woman's feelings of sexual desire for you.

The more attractive personality traits and behaviors you display, the more that a woman will want you sexually.

For example, some of the many ways to make a woman want you sexually are by:

1. Showing her that you're confident and self-assured around her.
2. Attracting her with your masculinity (i.e. making her feel girly in comparison to your masculine vibe, body language, tone of voice, etc).
3. Attracting her with your conversation style.
4. Being charismatic and charming.
5. Making her laugh and smile when she talks with you.
6. Flirting with her to create sexual tension.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to make her want you in a sexual way!

As you will discover from the video above, most women are open to feeling sexually attracted to men for reasons other than looks, money, social status, height or penis size.

Some women are picky and only want a guy who meets all the superficial criteria, but most women are much more flexible about what they find sexually arousing when interacting with a guy.

Without Sexual Attraction, You're Just Another Guy to Her

You might be a really good guy and have only the best of intentions with a woman, but she's not going to care about that unless you are able to make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

Most guys have no idea how to make women feel sexually attracted and turned on, so they try to be "liked" by a woman by being really nice to her and trying to show her that they are trustworthy, respectful of her and only have the best of intentions with her.

Yet, that's not what she wants to feel.

She doesn't want to feel nice, friendly feelings, she wants to feel sexually turned on. If a guy is just nice to her and then expects that she will "give him a chance" to be with her, then he's going to get rejected more often than not.

Watch this video to understand why!

As you will discover from the video above, being nice to a woman doesn't make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

It just makes her feel friendly, neutral feelings.

However, that doesn't mean that you should treat women badly! Being nice to a woman is a good thing, but she will only appreciate it if you start by triggering her feelings of sexual attraction and THEN treat her nicely.

Guys who make women feel attracted and then treat them nicely are seen as charming. However, guys who treat women nicely and then expect to be liked enough to be given a chance are usually just rejected.

If you don't make a woman feel sexually attracted to you first, she will simply see you as a friend, or as just another guy who is hitting on her and hoping to get a chance to feel her boobies for being so nice to her.

Understanding What Women Are Really Attracted to in Men

Most men go through life thinking that women are attracted to men for the exact same reasons that men are attracted to women.

Basically, because men are mostly attracted to a woman's physical appearance and are willing to have sex with a pretty woman even if they don't like her personality or have no intention of starting a relationship with her, they assume that women are attracted to men for the same reasons.

This is why so many guys give up on getting the women they really want, because they assume that if they're not tall, or they don't have big muscles or male model good looks, then they simply won't stand a chance with beautiful women.

However, that's not the case at all and you can prove it to yourself the next time you go out.

Just look around you and chances are high that you will see many below average looking, overweight or skinny guys with attractive or beautiful girlfriends or wives. Why?

They have been able to attract the women with things other than their looks (e.g. sense of humor, confidence, charisma, etc).

When a woman is beautiful, or even just attractive, she knows that she can attract all men for sex, but that's not what she wants.

She wants a man who can trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for a change, rather than just her making him feel turned on and she has to put up with feeling friendly or nice around him.

Yet, most of the guys that an attractive woman meets will not know how to make her feel sexually attracted. They will assume that attraction is based on looks, money or status and if they don't have that, they will try to sneak in the back door by being an ass-kissing nice guy.

These guys have no idea that you can make a woman want you sexually by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, sense of humor, masculine vibe, high self-esteem, charisma, etc).

Rather than displaying those traits, a lot of guys display unattractive traits (e.g. nervousness, self-doubt, nice guy act, etc) and turn the women off.

After getting rejected, he walks away thinking that it must be his looks or some other excuse that he uses to explain his lack of success with women.

Yet, the real reason why he is getting rejected is that he simply doesn't know how to attract women when he interacts with them. He is displaying unattractive traits and then expecting women to want him because he's a good guy.

That's not how it works.

Women want a guy who makes them feel sexually attracted and turned on and pretty much ANY guy can make a woman feel that way.

Of course, there are women out there who will only go for very good looking guys with big muscles, but the majority of women have what I call an Open Type, which essentially means, she is open to dating many different types of guys as long as the guy can make her feel attracted to his personality and the way he interacts with her.

Making a Woman Want You Sexually

[image: Making a woman want you sexually]

To make a woman want you sexually you need to...

1. Trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you based the way you interact with her.

When youâre interacting with a woman that you want to have sex with, it is important that you make your intentions clear.

For example: A mistake that many guys make is to pretend theyâre only interested in being friends and in hanging out with her.

They will be nice and sweet and polite to her, and they will avoid behaving in a way that might suggest to her that they are actually interested in her sexually.

To make a woman want to have sex with you, you have to make it clear to her thatâs what you want.

For example: After making her feel attracted to you (e.g. by being confident, having a masculine vibe, making her laugh, flirting with her, etc), you can then pause for a moment, look at her and say, “You’re sexyâI like you.”

Since you have already made her feel attracted to you, she will welcome the sexual compliment. However, if a guy had only been nice to her and was pretending to just want to be friends, she’s not going to welcome his compliment.

The more ways you can make a woman feel attracted to you while interacting with her (e.g. by being confident, by making her feel feminine in your presence, by turning her on based on how you’re talking to her, by making her laugh, etc.), the more intense her desire will be to have sex with you.

Watch this video to understand where a lot of guys mess up when talking to women and what you can do instead to make a woman want you sexuallyâ!

As you will discover from the video above, a lot of guys make women feel turned off the idea of sex, simply based on how the guy is interacting with her.

This is a huge opportunity for you.

When you are the guy who can actually make a woman feel turned on and want you sexually, you will see how easy it is to pick up women and have your choice of women.

Most guys never learn this stuff and go through their life thinking that they are being rejected because of their looks or because they’re not mega rich.

Yet, the reason why they are being rejected is much more simple (i.e. they are not actively triggering a woman’s feelings of attraction) and easily fixed.

2. Build up the sexual tension between you.

[image: Ways to make a woman really want you sexually]

Sexual tension occurs when a man and a woman feel sexual desire for each other, but for various reasons, (e.g. they are in a formal workplace, are friends, etc) they postpone kissing and sex.

Essentially, you and her both know that you're attracted to each other, but decide to continue flirting and building up the sexual tension (for a few more hours, days or weeks) before you actually get to kissing and sex.

Women love the excitement of being so turned on by a guy, but not really knowing when the tension between them will finally be released with kissing and sex.

When you build up the sexual tension between you and a woman correctly, not only will she want you sexually, but she will also feel as though she is going to explode if she doesn't release that tension inside her by having sex with you, or at least kissing you.

How can you build up the sexual tension correctly? Attract her and use flirting.

Watch this video for some examples of flirting!

As you will discover from the video above, women actually prefer it when guys flirt.

I've been contacted by some guys over the years who are worried about using flirting because they fear being rejected or being called a sleaze.

A woman will only react badly to flirting if a guy tries it BEFORE making her feel sexually attracted.

When it comes to women, attraction comes FIRST and everything else (e.g. flirting, building a connection with her, kissing, dating, sex, etc) follows on after that.

So, make sure that you actively make a woman feel attracted to you first, before you try to do anything else.

If you don't make her feel attracted and simply behave like a nice, sweet guy who is being friendly, it will be impossible for any significant sexual tension to build up between you and her, because you're not actively making her feel sexually attracted to you.

As long as you start with attraction, you will see that everything else flows on easily and effortlessly after that.

3. Transition from just talking and flirting, to kissing and then sex.

Building sexual tension is good, but its purpose is to lead to kissing and sex. A common mistake that guys make is to hesitate and then fail to release the sexual tension at the appropriate time.

Eventually, if a woman doesn't get the release she is craving by being kissed and then dragged off to the bedroom, she will either lose interest, or she will just assume that the guy is too afraid to make a move.

How long should you build up sexual tension?

It really depends on where you meet the woman and what the circumstances are.

For example: Sometimes, you only need a couple of minutes of sexual tension before you can begin passionately kissing a woman at a bar or nightclub.

Yet, in a workplace, you might need to build it up over a couple of days or couple of weeks and then release the tension with kissing and sex by getting her to meet up with you outside of the workplace.

How can you know if she is ready?

You will be able to see it in her body language and in the way she is interacting with you.

For example:

- She will make an effort to keep the conversation going and to keep you engaged and talking to her.
- She may be playing with her hair, touching her neck, or fiddling with her necklace if she is wearing one, while talking to you. Why? She wants to look girly and feminine in comparison to your strong, confident, relaxed masculinity to show you that she is feeling sexually attracted and is willing to submit to you.
- She will most likely be leaning in towards you and touching you during conversation (e.g. on the leg, the arm, the face, etc).
- She will be laughing at your jokes and trying her best to get along with you.

All these (and many more) are signs that she is feeling sexually attracted to you and that she wants the sexual tension between you and her to be released with kissing and sex.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

12 Places Where Women Approach Men

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Are you curious to know if there are places where women approach men first?

The answer is “Yes!” and I’ve put together a list for you. The most common places where women approach men include:

1. Karaoke bars or hostess bars.
2. Business networking events.
3. Speed-dating events (before the event starts when everyone is just standing around waiting for it to begin).
4. Bars and clubs in some countries where the women are poor and desperate for a man to support them (e.g. remote areas of South East Asia), or in cities where the dating scene is competitive (e.g. New York) or where there are a high ratio of women to men (e.g. Latvia, Estonia).
5. Men’s clothing stores with female shop assistants.
6. Prostitute parlors or brothels.
7. Strip clubs.
8. At a dog park if you are walking around with a cute looking dog, a rare breed dog or a very beautiful looking dog.
9. At a house party where you and her have mutual friends, so she has an excuse to walk up and say hello.
10. At meet up groups (i.e. via meetup.com).
11. At local charity or volunteering events.
12. At dance classes (e.g. salsa, ballroom, hip hop).

There are also certain situations where a woman will approach a man first, including:

- When she is drunk and is just walking around and talking to random guys.
- When she is unattractive and feels as though approaching first is the only way she can potentially hook up with a decent guy.
- When she approaches a guy on behalf of a friend who likes the guy (this usually only happens to really good looking guys).
- If the guy is very handsome and she wants to show off to her girlfriends by approaching and getting him interested in her.

In pretty much every other situation, women wait to be approached by men, and here is why!

Women Usually Want You to Approach First Because They Don’t Want to Be More Dominant Than You

[image: Most women wait to be approached first]

Even when a woman really likes a guy, she will usually avoid approaching him and making the first move, because she wants to ensure that she doesn’t take on the dominant role in the courtship.

Most women approach dating in a passive way and simply wait for a man who is confident enough to approach and take on the role of the leader, so she can then relax into feeling feminine and submissive in comparison to his masculinity.

The more feminine a woman feels in comparison to your masculinity, the easier it is for her to feel sexually attracted and turned on around you.

If she feels like the more dominant one, it will usually turn her off completely and if she feels neutral around you (i.e. you're kind of confident around her), it usually won't be enough to turn her on.

She wants to be able to respect you as the more masculine one, rather than have to approach you, be gentle with you, make it obvious that she likes you and then guide you to kissing and sex.

If a woman interacts with a guy and feels as though he's not strong enough for her emotionally (i.e. she feels more dominant than him) or that he's just too neutral (i.e. he's using the nice guy approach to hopefully get her to see how good of a guy he is), she might keep talking to him out of pity, but she won't be interested in anything sexual or romantic.

[image: Why don't women want me when I approach them?]

If another guy comes along and joins the interaction and makes her feel respect and attraction for him based on his confidence and emotional masculinity, she will quickly switch her focus to him and open herself up the possibility of kissing him, having sex with him and beginning a relationship with him.

When that happens, the less confident guy will usually feel confused about why he is being rejected. After all, he was being nice to her and he has good intentions, so why is she rejecting him and hooking up with the other guy?

He might think to himself, â€œIâ€™m just not good looking enough, thatâ€™s why. When I approach a woman, she feels turned off by my appearance and then she wonâ€™t give me a chance to show her that Iâ€™m a nice guy.â€

Or he might say, â€œWomen are only after guys who are rich and successful; I just canâ€™t compete with that. Iâ€™m only an average guy with an ordinary job. Maybe if I was loaded with cash and looked like a model, then women would like me.â€

He might then stop approaching women because he assumes that because heâ€™s not good looking enough, rich enough, successful enough or whatever else he believes that women really want.

Yet, what he doesnâ€™t realize is that most women (not all women), are attracted to men for reasons other than just their looks, money, success or status.

Watch this video to see proof of that...

As you will discover from the video above, the real reason why a lot of good guys fail with women is that they don't even know how to attract and turn women on with their personality.

Most good guys waste their life thinking that they are being rejected because they're not good looking enough, rich enough or successful enough or they believe that women only want bad boys.

Yet, the truth is that most women (not all), just want a good guy who can also make them feel attracted in other ways (e.g. to his confidence, charisma, charm, humor, masculine vibe, etc).

[image: Approaching women and attracting them]

Most women, even the pretty ones, aren't even that picky at all. They may act like they are picky, but if they meet a good guy who can also make them feel attracted in other ways, they usually hook up with him, fall in love and stick with him.

If All Women Judged Men on Looks, Money or Status, Most of us Guys Would Be Single

Of course, there are some women who will only talk to, date, have sex with and get married to good looking, muscular, rich guys who live a celebrity lifestyle.

Yet, the majority of women have what I call an Open Type.

This means that most women are willing to be with many different types of guys (e.g. bald, overweight, thin, different races, etc) and it all depends on how the guy makes her feel when she's with him.

Basically, whether a guy is conventionally good looking or downright ugly, wealthy, or is struggling to make ends meet, tall, tanned and muscular, or is short, fat and round, if he can make her feel a lot of attraction when he interacts with her, she will usually overlook his flaws and will even begin to see him as being attractive.

If you don't believe this is true, the next time you're out in a public place, take a look around you.

Chances are, most of the guys that you see won't be good looking, muscular, rich or successful, but they will be with attractive and even beautiful women.

So what it is that makes these men so attractive to beautiful women who could easily get any man they want?

Watch this video and you will understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works and how you can use that to attract the types of women you really want!

As you will discover from the video above, it's not possible to attract every hot woman in the world, but if you are skilled at attracting women with your personality (e.g. by displaying confidence and charisma, using humor, making her feel girly in comparison to your masculine vibe, etc), most women will feel attracted to you.

Although women go around acting like they will only accept Mr. Perfect, the majority of women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in a man and what they will accept for sex and a relationship.

If you ask a woman directly, she will deny that, but you only have to look at the world around you and you will see that beautiful women are with all sorts of guys, including short, bald, overweight, thin guys who have an average job or even no job at all.

Women Are Attracted to the Qualities In Men That Cannot Be Seen

If women selected men purely on physical appearance, most of the guys in this world wouldn't be able to get laid, get a girlfriend or ever get married, because most guys are not male models with a truckloads of money in the bank.

Here's the thing:

Women feel naturally attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, determination to succeed in life) and are turned off by the weakness (e.g. insecurity, nervousness, shyness).

Of course, there are some women out there who will be willing to accept an insecure, nervous guy (usually unattractive, desperate women, or women who like to dominate men), but most women won't put up with a man who is emotionally weak.

This is why most women don't approach men.

Women don't want to reward emotionally weak men (i.e. insecure, nervous, self-doubting men) with free sex, love and devotion. Women want to find a confident, emotionally strong man who has the balls to approach her and talk to her because that says a lot about the confidence he will have at work, around friends and in general life.

She'd rather be with a guy who can handle himself around other people, than get stuck with a guy who feels nervous in social situations and will likely get overlooked for promotions at work because he's afraid to take on a more alpha role in interactions.

This is why, the only real places where women approach men are the ones where it's part of the woman's job description to do so (e.g. she's a prostitute, hostess or sales woman in a men's department store).

Alternatively, it's because the circumstances are unusual, (e.g. at a speed-dating event, the woman is drunk and just approaching random guys hoping to get lucky, she is unattractive and has to put herself out there to hopefully get herself a guy).

In most other places, (e.g. in a bar or club, at the mall, in the library, in the grocery store), most women will not approach men first.

This is why it's so important that you give yourself the confidence to approach women, rather than waiting around and hoping that a hot woman approaches you and guides you through a pick up.

If you need to build up the confidence to approach women, watch this video:

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of direct control over how much or little confidence you feel.

You can either use the power of your mind for you or against you. To use the power of your mind for you, the key is to begin thinking in a more confident, positive, forward moving way and then taking action based on that increase in confidence.

Do You Have What it Takes to Attract Her and Turn Her On?

When a guy approaches a woman, she has to interact with him for 30 seconds to a minute to work out whether he has the qualities that she's looking for in a man.

For example: If a guy approaches and comes across as being nervous, self-doubting or as putting on an act of being an even nicer guy than he really is, a woman will usually begin to close up very quickly and lose interest in interacting with him.

On the other hand, if the exact same guy were to approach her and be confident, relaxed, believe in himself and come across in an authentic manner, she will remain open and interested in getting to know him better.

His confidence will have automatically attracted to her and his ability to be real and authentic will intrigue her and keep her open, rather than making her feel as though she has to put up a protective guard because he is putting on an act or social persona (e.g. using the classic nice guy approach).

What a lot of guys don't realize is that a woman's attraction can be switched on or off, based on how a guy is coming across.

If a guy doesn't know how to turn her on during an interaction (e.g. make her feel feminine in comparison to his masculinity, attract her with his confidence and natural charisma), then she will simply "switch off."

There's no point trying to "make it work" with a guy like that, because there's just no spark between them. He doesn't know what he should be saying or doing to create that spark and she doesn't want to be the one who has to teach him.

She doesn't want to say, "Hey, stop being so nice and neutral around me. Be a good guy, but believe in yourself. You are good enough for me. Believe it. Show me that you believe it. Be masculine, rather than being neutral. Make me feel feminine in comparison to your masculinity."

Rather than try to enlighten him on what it takes to really attract a woman, she will either reject him, politely excuse herself from the conversation or keep talking to him until another guy comes along who can make her feel attracted.

When You Know That You Can Attract Women With Your Personality, There's No Need to Wait Around for a Woman to Make the First Move

Many guys waste their life and miss out on enjoying love, sex and relationships due to a fear of fear of approaching women.

For example, some guys think:

- What if I approach her and she tells me to go away?
- What if she is not attracted to me?
- What if she laughs at me and thinks I'm a joke, or a desperate guy?
- I'm too ugly/fat/have a big nose, etc. Attractive women don't go for guys like me. Why even bother approaching?

Guys like that allow negative thoughts to control them and prevent them from approaching women.

Yet, here's the thing:

Most guys are already good enough for the majority of women out there. Most women really aren't that special at all.

Yes, you feel attracted to them, but you can make them feel attracted to you too. As a man, you can attract women by displaying certain personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, etc).

So, there's no need to hide yourself away and waste your life because you think you're not good enough.

You are good enough.

Let me ask youâ€¦!

Have you been letting your fears stop you from approaching and hooking up with the women you really want?

Have you been going through life thinking that you're not good enough for attractive women, because you didn't even realize that you could make women feel intensely attracted to you by displaying certain personality traits and behaviors during an interaction?

Stop wasting your life.

You are good enough for most women out there.

Watch this video and you will see why it is possible for you to approach and attract women at willâ€¦!

As you will discover from the video above, you can actively make women feel attracted to you. You don't have to wait around hoping that a beautiful woman will break with tradition and decide to approach you and guide you to kissing and sex.

[image: Approaching women and turning them on]

You can make it happen yourself...and it's ridiculously easy to do.

Most guys don't even know (or believe) that it's possible to improve their skills with women.

They fall into a negative pattern of believing that if they've been unable to approach women in the past, or if they had some bad experiences and got rejected, then they don't have what it takes to attract the type of women they want, and even worse, that there's nothing they can do to change it.

Yet, they are wrong.

The truth is that it is possible to attract women based on what you say and do. You can literally display certain personality traits and behaviors during a conversation with a woman and she will automatically feel attracted to you.

When you have the skill of being able to attract women, you automatically begin to have your pick of women.

Most of the women you interact with feel attracted to you and it changes from you hoping to get just one woman, to choosing between many attractive women who want to be with you.

Yet, you can't expect that to happen if you sit around waiting to be approached by women or if you don't even know how to properly attract women when you interact with them.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Charm a Woman

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The secret of how to charm a woman is to first make her feel sexually attracted to you and then be nice to her.

It's not enough just to treat her nicely. That is not what being a charming man means.

If you try to charm a woman by only being nice, courteous, sweet and polite and you skip the sexual attraction part, she will only perceive you as a nice guy that she has no sexual interest in. As a result, you will be placed in the friend zone.

To properly charm a woman, you need to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you and then give her the additional bonus of being the lucky recipient of your good, kind nature.

So, how can you make a woman feel attracted and then treat her nicely in a way that will be seen as charming?

Some of the many ways that you can make a woman feel attracted to you are to be confident around her, make her laugh, make her feel girly in comparison to your masculinity, have a masculine vibe and flirt with her.

Some of the ways that you can treat a woman nicely and be seen as charming are to give her compliments, take her out somewhere nice for a date, treat her well and generally show her that you respect her and care about her.

However, I've got to be very clear about something here...

It's not enough to just be nice to a woman. Simply being nice to a woman (e.g. showing her that you respect her, giving her compliments, etc) is not the way to charm her.

You have to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction first.

If you only use the nice guy approach, it will result in rejection more often than not and here is why...

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but if you don't trigger her feelings of sexual attraction, she will only see you as a friend.

Attraction has to come first and everything else flows on naturally and easily after that.

The Fantasy World of Movies

If you watch any kind of romantic movie that is aimed at women, you will usually see the same basic storyline unfold where the beautiful girl is fed up of dating losers, jerks and guys who don't treat her right.

Initially, she rejects the nice guy in the movie, but after he saves the day, saves the world or saves her, she falls in love with him and he is portrayed as her Prince Charming that she was meant to be with all along.

Awww, how sweet.

The "charming" man who sweeps a woman off her feet in a movie is usually the type of guy who puts her on a pedestal and treats her like a "lady" in every way.

He charms her by lavishing her with gifts and tokens of affection and he does all the â◻◻ gentlemanlyâ◻◻ things such as holding doors open for her, bringing her flowers on the day of a date, picking up the tab for everything, sending her flowers the day after a dateâ◻|and never ever touching her or even attempting to kiss her without asking for her permission first.

While some guys might wish that real life worked that way, if you want to be successful with women, you have to come to terms with what actually works in the real world. The fantasy world of a movie is different to reality that we actually live in.

Real World Charmers

[image: Charming a woman with sexual attraction]

Unlike the movies, men who effortlessly charm women in real life don't need to save the day, save the world or save the woman from a bad guy or jerk.

It's actually a lot more simple and immediate than that.

Real world charmers don't need to buy women gifts, take women out on 5 sweet dates and eventually work their way up to holding her hand and then kissing her.

In the real world, guys can instantly charm women and get to a kiss and even sex on the first night or first date.

[image: Starting with kissing and sex]

For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women admitted to having experience a one night stand before. In other words, it's actually very easy to charm a woman into beginning a sexual relationship with you.

These days, relationships usually START with sex and after that happens, the man and woman then decide whether or not they want to continue dating casually or become exclusive with each other.

So, if you're looking for information on how to charm a woman, make sure that you don't waste time trying to become Mr. Perfect who hopes to be liked by a woman because you're such a nice, courteous gentleman of a man.

Why?

Modern women only care if you are gentleman AFTER you have made them feel sexually attracted to you. If you try to get women to like you because you're a nice gentleman of a guy, they will simply place you in the friend zone or "no way" zone because there is no sexual attraction present.

In today's dating environment, you have to start with sexual attraction and then everything else follows on after that.

It's not like how it used to be back in 1905 for example. Back then, a man would have to court a woman and show her that he was a gentleman and could support her.

If she liked him enough, he could then go and ask her father for his daughter's hand in marriage. If the father approved, they could then marry and finally lose their virginity together on their wedding night.

That's not the way it works anymore.

In today's world, women aren't in a desperate hurry to find a nice gentleman who can support them financially and protect them from the big bad world. Today's women can support themselves and have plenty of protection from the police, government and media.

So, rather than looking for a nice gentleman who can support them, almost all modern women now select a man based on how much sexual attraction he makes her feel.

If he also happens to be a nice guy, then that is seen as a bonus, but it's not always necessary right away because sex doesn't always mean that she will be interested in a relationship or marriage.

These days, sex is basically a chance for a man and a woman to take each other for a test drive to see how they feel. If there is a lot of sexual chemistry, they get along really well and there is also feelings of new love, then a relationship begins.

However, if it all feels a bit too boring and awkward for the woman, she simply breaks up with the guy and meets a new one. When she eventually finds the right guy for her, she will usually settle down and stick with him for life.

Charismatic Charm

[image: Charismatic charm]

One of the ways to be attractive when you are charming a woman is to have what is called charismatic charm.

This essentially means that you are totally comfortable being your real self. You don't put on an act of trying to be nicer than you really are, more arrogant than you really are, or anything else where you're not being your true self.

You embrace your true personality and you love and accept yourself for who you are. You let that true, genuine personality come through with a relaxed belief in yourself. You don't try to force people to like your personality, but simply relax and be yourself.

At the same time, you also love and accept other people for who they are. You don't expect them to think, behave, feel and act exactly like you to when you interact with them.

You love and accept them for who they are and you let them be who they want to be.

You make them feel comfortable in your presence, but at the same time, you also make sure that they respect you and appreciate you for who you are.

When you use that approach and you're also a good guy, then you will have what is referred to as a charismatic charm. People will feel drawn to your charisma that is based on your unique, one of a kind personality.

People also feel as though they can be themselves around you. They don't have to put on an act of being someone they're not (e.g. nicer than they really are, meaner than they really are, etc) to hopefully make you feel comfortable or accept them.

[image: Charismatic charm]

When a woman meets a man who has this charismatic charm, she becomes intoxicated by it and feels drawn to him on a deep level.

Most of the guys that a woman meets will be putting on an act, which then makes her feel awkward and unable to relax and show her true personality throughout the interaction.

Watch this video to understand some of the common mistakes that guys make during conversation that turn women off...

As you will discover from the video above, a big part of how to charm a woman into having a sexual, romantic relationship with you is to be a good guy, while also making sure that you display some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

4 Common Traits of a Charming Man

If you want to be able to charm a woman without putting in much effort at all, you simply need to get into the habit of being a more charming man.

When you get used to doing some of the following things in your interactions with people in general and then also use them in your interactions with women, you will be automatically be seen as a charming, appealing guy.

Here are 4 common traits of a charming man...

1. A charming man makes other people feel good about themselves

If you think back to some of the most charming men that you've ever met during your life, you will realize that they had a way of making you feel good about yourself during conversation.

Rather than putting you down or try to make you feel inferior, these guys allowed you to feel good about yourself in their presence.

There's nothing wrong with a charming man talking about his achievements or feeling good about himself around others, but always makes sure that other people feel good about themselves when they are around him.

Making people feel good about themselves doesn't mean that you should go overboard and try too hard to kiss everyone's ass. You just need to be emotionally generous enough to actually care about the other people feeling good when they interact with you.

2. He smiles and add positivity to social interactions

To be seen as a charming man, you don't have to smile and be happy and joyful every second of every day.

It's simply about being one of the people or the only person who adds in smiling, laughter and positivity to interactions, especially when other people are feeling down or being very negative.

There's nothing wrong with having a big of negative, frustrated conversation at times, but a charming man will always be the one who has the emotional strength to bring everything back to a positive note or get people to focus on a solution, rather than wallowing in depression, sadness or despair.

3. He accepts compliments in a confident, classy way

When a guy receives a compliment and then awkwardly brushes it off as nothing important or looks uncomfortable and nervous with the spotlight focused on him, this isn't seen as being charming or charismatic.

A charming, charismatic man will accept a compliment by confidently thanking the person and then, if there is a lot to say about what he is being complimented for (e.g. he has achieved something big) he will be open to talking about it for a short while, but he won't try to hog the spotlight for an unnecessarily long period of time.

He will say what needs to be said and be proud of whatever he is being compliment about and will then begin to redirect the conversation away from him and into a discussion that makes the other person feel motivated, happy or confident in themselves.

4. He doesn't try to be perfect at everything

When a guy tries way too hard to be perfect in every way (e.g. his manners, appearance, conversation style, etc), he will come across as being awkward, fake and some women will even refer him as "creepy."

We human beings are not perfect at everything and that is okay. Some people are better at certain things than other people are and all of us make mistakes during conversation, when we are attempting to achieve things in life and as we go about our every day life.

Part of being a charming man is not being afraid to be your true self, even if that means that you make a mistake or slip up in conversations every now and again.

When a woman sees that you're comfortable to be your true self, it's very charming and appealing because she can relate to your imperfections.

She's not perfect.

She has imperfections just like everyone else does and rather than feeling as though she needs to act like she is perfect when interacting with you, she can relax and feel free to be her true self; imperfections and all.

If she makes a mistake during conversation or does something that other people might see as embarrassing, she won't really have to worry so much about you.

She knows that you are a loving, wise and intelligent man who understands that mistakes happen and that no one is perfect. You love her and accept her for who she is and you love and accept yourself for who you are and everything is just fine.

Turning on the Charm

Another big part of how to charm a woman is to make sure that you add in some flirting to your interactions.

Most guys don't feel comfortable flirting with women because they assume it will be seen as sleazy or too forward. Yet, it's actually the most discreet, classy way of displaying your sexual interest in a woman and letting her innocently show her sexual interest back.

Watch this video to understand how flirting works and how you can use it to charm a woman...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with

women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Is She Attracted to Me? The Only Reliable Way to Tell

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The only reliable way to know if a woman is attracted to you is when she actively tries to get and maintain your attention and interest.

If a woman continually tries to get your attention (e.g. approaches you, starts conversations with you, texts you or calls you, etc) or maintain your attention (e.g. always tries to keep the conversation going if it goes silent, tries to impress you, etc), then it's pretty clear that she is attracted to you.

On the other hand, if a woman is telling a guy to go away, ignoring him in a frustrated way and doesn't want to be near him, then it's pretty clear that she's not attracted to him.

[image: She's not attracted...]

Yet, here's the thing about women and their signals of interest...

All women give off different signals of interest and attraction.

Women are not robots who all behave in the same way.

So, you can't look up a list of "signs that a woman will show you when she's attracted" and then expect a woman to show them to you. It's just not how it works in real life.

For example: If a woman is looking for a very confident guy who believes in himself, she will usually test his confidence by acting uninterested, playing hard to get and even teasing him during a conversation. She might even say things like, "I hate your hair" or "Why do you wear those stupid shoes?"

If the guy becomes nervous and self-doubting and suddenly feels like he's blown his chance with her, then she loses interest in him because he doesn't have the type of confidence that he's looking for.

However, if he simply smiles, remains confident and continues to interact with her, she will feel attracted and impressed by his level of confidence.

[image: Passing her confidence tests to make her attracted]

Of course, not all women make it difficult for guys to sense their attraction. Some women show really obvious signs of attraction (e.g. holding eye contact, excessive touching, biting her bottom lip, tell you that she likes you, etc) because they don't want to lose their opportunity to be with you.

So, if there's a woman that you currently like and you've been asking yourself the question, "Is she attracted to me?" here's what you need to doâ◻|

You need to make her feel attracted to you.

[image: Is she attracted to me or not? Make her feel attracted...!]

What a lot of guys don't understand is that the attraction that a woman feels for a man can be CREATED.

A woman's attraction for you is mostly within your direct control.

For example: If you display some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, ability to make her laugh, masculine vibe, etc), she will naturally feel some level of attraction for you.

The more ways that you can make her feel attracted while you interact with her on the phone or in person (not via text), the more attraction she will feel.

That is an attraction that you are creating.

Most guys waste their life thinking that they can only attract women if they are good looking, have a lot of money, have a huge penis, are tall or have loads of power and status in society.

However, the reason why average and below-average looking guys can get a hot girlfriend or wife is that they CREATE feelings of attraction inside of a woman by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

Watch this video to understand how it works..

As you will discover from the video above, there can even be a huge difference in attractiveness between male identical twins.

Stop Wasting Time and Start Making Her Feel Attracted

Some guys will spend hours, days and even months getting to know a woman and still end up wondering, “Is she attracted to me?”

Fearing rejection, the wait and hope that she will speak up and just say, “Hey, I like you. Do you like me?” or “I am attracted to you. Are you attracted to me?” but that rarely happens unless the woman is unattractive.

Most hot women have plenty of options to choose from, so rather than helping an insecure guy to hook up with them, they wait to meet a more confident guy who will simply move the interaction forward from a conversation to a kiss, to sex and into a relationship.

So, what should you do?

Simple.

Actively make her feel attracted to you by displaying some of the traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

When you do that, she will feel attracted to you. She won't be able to stop herself from feeling it â□□ it's natural and automatic.

Once she is attracted to you, it's important to let her know that you find her attractive too, otherwise she might play hard to get for a while (to ensure that you really like her) because she is worried about being rejected by you.

So, to cut out all the silly mind games, you need to tell her that you find her sexy and you like her.

When talking to her and getting her laughing, stop for a moment and look her up and down and then back in the eyes. Then say, “You're sexyâ□|I like you.”

If she says, “Gross! I don't see you that way” then it's clear that you haven't made her feel attracted to you first.

However, if you have made her feel attracted to you first, her natural instincts will kick in and she display submissive body language (e.g. dip her chin down and look up at you, bite her bottom lip, giggle and smile like a girl, etc) to show you that she is willing to submit to you sexually.

She might also say, “Thanks” and smile at you, or if she is the type of woman who wants a really confident guy, she might test your confidence by asking, “So, what makes you think that I like you?"

Whatever she says, just smile, pause for a moment and then continue on with the conversation. Pausing in a moment like that will also make her feel attracted to you because it displays confidence and masculinity.

A guy who lacks confidence and suppresses his masculinity (e.g. a guy who acts like a really nice guy to hopefully be liked by women) wouldn't have the balls to pause and look at her for a few moments in a situation like that.

He would laugh nervously, say that he was only kidding, apologize or display nervous body language.

So, to be clear here

If you want this woman to feel attracted to you, then you need to actively CREATE those feelings inside of her.

Display the traits and behaviors and she will feel it. It's as simple as that.

7 Mistakes That Guys Make When Trying to Work Out if a Woman is Attracted Attracting women for sex and relationships really is one of the easiest and most natural things to do in life.

Yet, if a guy makes some or all of the following mistakes, a sexual courtship goes from being easy and natural to difficult and forced

1. Asking her.

Ask a woman, "Are you attracted to me?" is the worst thing you can say when you are meeting new women or in a relationship.

Why?

Women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, self-esteem, self-belief, assertiveness, determination to succeed, etc) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. insecurity, low self-esteem, self-doubt, nervousness, etc).

So, when a guy asks a woman, "Do you feel attracted to me?" he is displaying a whole host of unattractive traits all at once.

What a woman wants to see is that you are wise enough to know that if you are confident around her, she will automatically feel attracted to you by default.

Then, all you need to do is make her feel attracted in other ways during the interaction and her attraction for you will increase.

Watch this video to understand how it works

As you will discover from the video above, when you make a woman feel attracted to you in other ways (e.g by displaying confidence, making her laugh, etc) she will begin to look at your physical appearance in a positive light.

Even if a guy doesn't look like a typical male model (e.g. he's overweight, bald, short, thin, etc), she will look at his physical appearance and like it because it's a part of him.

So, as long as you can make her feel attracted to you by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women, you don't have to worry about what you look like.

Of course, there are women out there who will only accept a perfect male model with loads of money and a humungous penis, but the majority of women are much more open and flexible about what they can find attractive about men.

2. Being extra nice to her in the hopes that it impresses her enough that she won't care about attraction.

Not knowing how to attract women, some guys make the mistake of playing the "Mr Nice Guy" in the hopes that the woman will turn around and tell him that she is attracted to him.

Yet, the only thing this accomplishes is to get the woman to doubt her feelings (if she's been feeling attraction for him), because suddenly he is behaving like her best friend instead of a potential lover.

Watch this video to understand why being too nice to a woman will often lead to rejection!

As you will discover from the video above, there is absolutely nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but when a guy is too nice in the hopes that a woman will "like" him enough to give him a chance, she will reject him due to a lack of sexual attraction.

A woman might like a nice guy as a person, but if he doesn't know how to make her feel turned on while talking to him, then she's usually just going to see him as another confused nice guy who doesn't even know how to attract women.

3. Wasting time looking for signals instead of taking the lead and moving things forward.

In many cases, a guy who keeps wondering, "Is she attracted to me?" is the kind of guy who sucks at getting the type of women he really wants.

He might be able to get lucky at times, but if the woman doesn't make it easy for him, he will usually be stuck with unattractive women or nothing at all.

Rather than taking the lead like a man, he will wait and hope that she makes the first move by suggesting they go on a date, telling him that she likes him and wants to be with him or getting drunk at a party and kissing him first.

Yet, this rarely happens with hot women because they'd rather hook up with a confident guy than have to guide an insecure, self-doubting guy into the bedroom with them.

A woman wants a guy to make her feel like a real woman (i.e. feminine, girly, free to be emotional around him) so she can relax and enjoy the excitement of being sexually seduced by a masculine man.

It's a huge turn on for a woman to know that a man not only has the ability to actively attract her and turn her on, but he also has the balls to move the interaction forward from a conversation to kiss to sex and into a relationship.

If she has to make all the moves, she will feel like the dominant one in the relationship and that is a definite passion killer for almost every woman.

4. Being way too keen, even though she hasn't done much or anything to impress him.

If the woman that you like is a beautiful, pretty or sexy woman, then pretty much every guy would be willing to have sex with her at least once.

Many of those guys would also be willing to have a relationship with her, regardless of her intelligence level, what she does for a living, the type of clothes she wears and what her personality is like.

Essentially, just because she looks good, most guys are willing to stick it in.

Women hate that.

Since the majority of guys in this world make an instant “Yes” or “No” decision on whether or not they would have sex with a woman, women prefer guys who are more of a challenge to win over.

Watch this video for a full explanationâ□|

As you will discover from the video above, you can stand out from the crowd of guys simply by not being so immediately won over by women.

A word of warning thoughâ□|

I am not saying that you should act like you are challenge and then sit around expecting women to rush to you and beg you for a chance to be your girlfriend.

That’s not how it works.

Being a challenge means that you need to first make a woman feel attracted to you and then only become fully interested in her if she treats you nicely, presents herself beautifully and meets your standards.

After making her feel attracted, you can say to her, “You’re sexyâ□|I like you,” but just don’t show her that you are 100% sold on her before she puts in some effort to impress you.

By making her work to earn your full interest, she will appreciate you and want you so much more than if you were to just give her your 100% approval even though she isn’t treating you very well or meeting your standards.

5. Ignoring her.

Some guys hope that if they can just ignore a woman enough, she will feel rejected and then feel compelled to get him to like her.

Yet, if she isn’t attracted, she isn’t going to care if the guy is ignoring her or paying her a lot of attraction.

Attraction has to come first and everything else follows that.

If a woman is attracted to you and you ignore her a bit, it can make her want to get your attention or impress you more so that you like her.

However, she will only do that if you have been making her feel attracted and turned on by the way that you’ve been interacting with her (e.g. displaying confidence, getting her laughing and feeling girly around you, etc).

5. Asking her friends or family.

Almost all women hate it when a man tries to sneak into her life by getting her friends and family involved.

Of course, it’s completely fine to ask a woman’s family or friends if she likes you when you know that she’s already attracted to you, but there’s no point doing it then unless you just want to joke around and build up some tension.

Problems occur when a guy (who she has no sexual interest in) goes behind a woman’s back to ask her friends or family, “Is she attracted to me?” Since she hasn’t been gossiping to them about him as her new crush, they will tell him to ask her himself.

A woman's parents or friends usually won't want to force her or encourage her to get with a guy whom she isn't attracted to, so they will feel weird about getting involved unless they know that she has a crush on him.

6. Missing her unique signs of interest.

[image: How can I tell if she is attracted to me?]

All women give different signals of interest.

Some women act uninterested when they are interested, so they can test a guy's confidence and interest level. Other women make it really obvious that they like a guy (e.g. submissive body language and behavior, excessive touching, etc) and some women even come right out and say, "I like you."

As a man, it's important to be aware that women will think, behave and act differently than one another.

Rather than looking for exact signals that you've read about somewhere online, you need to pick up on her way of showing interest and then confidently move things forward from one step to the next (i.e. from a conversation to kiss to sex and into a relationship) when the time is right.

If you wait too long, many women will give up on you and either assume that you lack the confidence to make a move or think that you don't like her enough to follow through all the way to kissing, sex and a relationship.

7. Snubbing her.

Snub (verb): Rebuff, ignore, or spurn disdainfully.

Not knowing what else to do (i.e. he's already tried the nice guy act), some guys resort to becoming rude towards women to hopefully impress them.

For example: If a guy has been rejected time and time again for being an ass-kissing nice guy towards women, he might think, "Okay, you want a bad boy? I'll show you a bad boy you bitch!"

He will then try to act like he doesn't care about women and will be rude, arrogant and cold to women during conversations.

Although being rude will certainly get a woman's attention, it isn't going to make her say, "WOW! This guy is being rude to me. It must mean that he is so popular with other women that he doesn't care about me."

Instead, she's just going to see him as a weird jerk who not only doesn't make her feel attracted during an interaction, but also lacks the social skills to be get along with people in a harmonious way. Of course, there are some women who like arrogant guys, but those guys will be making the woman feel attracted to them in other ways (e.g. making her laugh, being confident, having a masculine vibe, etc).

The secret to success with women isn't about being a rude bad boy who doesn't care about women. It's about being a good guy who also has the ability to attract women and turn them on during interactions.

Go With the Flow

Getting laid or getting a girlfriend is simple when you go with the flow of nature, rather than trying to fight against it.

Going with the flow of nature means that you start out by actively making the woman feel attracted to you, before you attempt to get to know her or begin a sexual relationship with her.

Fighting against the flow of nature means that a guy bitches and moans about how he wants women to like him and want to be with him sexually, just because he's a nice guy.

Here's the thingâ€¦!

Women don't care if you are a nice guy before you have made them feel sexually attracted to you.

If a guy tries to be liked for being a nice guy, he's going to get rejected by most women. However, if a guy starts out by making the woman feel sexually attracted to him and then charms her with his nice personality, she will feel attracted to him and feel excited about starting a relationship with him.

So, if you want to succeed with this woman you like or other women you meet in future, make sure that you go with the flow of nature rather than fighting against it.

Attracting women for sex and relationships is really easy when you approach it correctly...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Do Women Like to Be Pursued?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Yes, women do like to be pursued, but they only want to be pursued by guys that they feel attracted to.

For example: If you meet a woman and you are confident, charming and make her laugh and enjoy talking to you, then she's going to feel attracted to you.

Then, when you pursue her because you are attracted to her too, she is going to welcome the pursuit because the attraction is mutual.

[image: Pursuing a woman]

However, if you meet a woman and you are nervous, too polite and essentially putting on an act of being an even nicer guy than you really are (in the hope that she "likes" you as a person), then she's not going to feel attracted to you.

She might like you as a person and think you're a nice guy, but because you haven't said or done anything to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you, she won't be interested in being pursued by you.

[image: Do women ever want to be pursued anymore?]

If you pursue her, she is going to feel annoyed because it is clear that you feel attracted to her, but she only sees you as a friend or random guy that she has met.

Women hate it when a guy expects to be able to date her even though he hasn't done anything to make her feel attracted or turned on. All he has done is be nice to her, be friendly and is now expecting to get to date her and have sex with her based on that.

If you want a woman to welcome your pursuit and say, "Yes" when you ask her out or gladly have a first kiss with you, then you must start out by making her feeling attracted and turned on by you.

Don't expect women to want to be with you just because you're a good guy.

That's not how it works.

Do you know how to make a woman feel attracted to you when you interact with her in person?

Watch this video to understand how it works!

As you will discover from the video above, you can proactively trigger a woman's feelings of attraction for you when you talk to her on the phone or interact with her in person.

When a woman feels attracted to you, she will then become open and willing to be pursued by you.

However, just make sure that you're not too easy.

Some women like prefer guys who are a bit of a challenge to win over and here is why!

As you will discover from the video above, it's very easy for a woman to attract guys for sex or a relationship.

All she really has to do is say "Yes" or "No" to the many guys who will be interested in her at any given point in her life.

Yet, that gets boring after a while.

She doesn't want to be in the position of power all the time. She wants to be able to secure herself a guy who could easily have other women, but he will choose her if she is attractive enough and impresses him enough when they get to know each other.

Don't Expect Women to Think, Behave and Act Like We Men Do

Do you ever feel confused when you try to understand why women think, behave and act in the ways they do?

Does it seem to you as though women play games with men by sending out mixed signals?

For example: Sometimes a woman will be responsive and friendly to you, but if then show interest in her, she will go cold and start to ignore you.

Other times, she might seem keen to meet up with you for a date, but when you attempt to arrange it, she says that she's busy or isn't looking for a relationship right now.

Luckily, there are specific reasons why women do that and once you understand it, you will then know how to stop her feeling like she needs to play games with you.

Watch this video and I'll give you 7 examples of what initially seems like "strange" behavior from women, but turns out to be completely understandable if you can understand why women do it!

As you will discover from the video above, women aren't as strange and weird as most guys think they are.

There are very specific reasons why women think, behave and act in the ways that they do.

As a man, one of the best decisions you will ever make in life is to stop fighting against the differences between men and women and simply accept that women really are different to us.

Women have specific reasons for behaving in the ways that they do and when you can learn to love and accept women as they are rather than expecting them to act like we do, your life will get a whole lot easier and more enjoyable from then on.

Mistakes That Guys Make When Pursuing a Woman

Most women do want to be pursued to see that the guy actually likes them and to see how interested he really is (i.e. is he just trying to get her interested to boost his ego, is he only interested in sex, etc).

So, there is nothing wrong with pursuing a woman, but if you want things to flow smoothly from one step to the next, I recommend that you avoid these rookie mistakes!

1. Being too keen too quickly.

It's great to show interest in a woman, but you need to maintain your cool! especially if she is attractive.

Why?

If the woman that you like is attractive, then pretty much every guy she meets will be willing to have sex with her (at least once) and many of those guys will also be interested in a relationship! just based on her appearance!

Most guys are willing to bang any half-decent woman, regardless of what her personality is like, what she does for a living, how smart she is and so on.

This is why women prefer guys who are a bit of a challenge to win over, compared to guys who immediately like her 100% just because she looks good.

What a woman wants is for you to make her feel attracted to you (i.e. display some of the personality traits that naturally attract women, such as confidence, charisma, charm, humor, etc), show your interest in her, but don't be 100% sold on her until she fully impresses you and wins you over.

Some guys are so eager to get laid or get a girlfriend (with any half-decent or pretty woman they meet), that they immediately become super keen and try to show the woman that they are ready for sex, relationship or even marriage with her.

Other guys don't want to offer any challenge because he wants to show the woman how much he likes her and wouldn't want to be "mean" by making her have to impress him a little.

From his perspective, he wants to show her how nice of a guy he is because he thinks that it will trick her into wanting to be in a relationship with him.

Yet, that's not how a woman's attraction for a man works. Here's whyâ|

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman.

However, niceness is not what turns a woman on and makes her feel sexually attracted to a guy. Women only appreciate niceness from a guy that they are attracted to.

You've got to make sure that you first establish the woman's attraction for you and when you've done that, she will then see your nice behavior as charming and exciting.

Yet, if all you are offering a woman is nice behavior, she is simply going to see you as a nice guy, a friend, a nobody, an ass-kissing or a just another random, forgettable guy that she has met in her life.

So, make sure that you approach things the right way.

If you meet a woman and are really keen on her immediately without even doing much (or anything) to turn her on, she will either reject you or lead you on by showing interest one minute and indifference the next.

Some women enjoy leading guys on by pretending to be interested when they aren't. Women do this to boost their self-esteem by having loads of guys interested in them at any given time.

However, the guys that they actually sleep with or get into a relationship with are almost always those who properly attract them, offer a bit of a challenge and then move the interaction forward to kissing and sex.

2. Pursuing her relentlessly, even though she isn't attracted.

[image: Pursuing a woman who isn't attracted]

Some guys grow up never being taught how to properly attract a woman and get her into a sexual relationship.

Guys like that often base their ideas of how to get a girlfriend on what they see in Hollywood movies.

For example: The hopeless romantic guy has a huge crush on a girl and he pursues her for the first half of the movie. She keeps rejecting him and is happy in her relationship with a jerk or a bad boy.

Then, the hopeless romantic nice guy saves the day, saves the world or saves the girl and she falls head over heels in love with him.

That's not how women respond in the real worldâ|and we rarely have a chance to save the world like movie characters do.

In the real world, women hate it when guys pursue them despite the fact that mutual attraction has not been established.

It's one of the 3 things that attractive women hate about many single men!

As you will discover from the video above, it's very easy for women to attract men for sex or a relationship because a man's attraction to a woman is primarily based on her physical appearance.

If she looks good, most guys would be willing to bang her and many of those guys would also be interested in a relationship.

The same rule doesn't apply for women.

Most women (not all) are mostly attracted to the non-physical traits about men (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, humor, masculine vibe, etc), so to make her feel attracted, a guy needs to actively display some of those traits when he interacts with her.

If a man meets a woman and he's only being nice, friendly and polite when talking to her, then she might like him as a person, but she's not going to be feeling attracted and turned on by his approach.

If he then begins to pursue her relentlessly because he feels attracted to her, she will roll her eyes and feel annoyed that yet another clueless guy is trying to hook up with her based on making her feel nice, friendly feelings.

If you want a woman to welcome your pursuit, you must ensure that the attraction is mutual. You can't expect an attractive woman to enjoy being pursued by guys that aren't even making her feel turned on or attracted.

3. Expressing his feelings too soon.

A woman only wants to know if you have "feelings" for her after you have made her have feelings for you.

Feelings begin with attraction and then begin to branch out into lust, love and yearning. So, when a guy has feelings for a woman, it's clear that he is attracted to her and is beginning to fall for her.

In most cases, the best time to tell a woman that you have feelings for her is sometime after (e.g. a few minutes, a few hours, a few days) you've had sex with her.

Why? These days, most relationships start with sex and the man and woman then decide if they want to be with each other in a committed relationship after that.

For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women admitted to having had a one night stand before.

It's fine to wait 2-3 dates before you have sex with a woman if that's what you want, but just hold off on telling her that you have "feelings" for her prior to that.

The only exception is when the woman is really shy and insecure about her attractiveness and appeal to you. In that case, it's fine to say, "Hey I just want you to know that I like you more than just a friend."

In most cases though, when a guy declares his feelings for a woman too soon, he will scare her off if she hasn't yet decided whether or not she wants anything more than a friendship with him.

4. Asking her if she likes him.

If a guy asks a woman if she likes him, it immediately demonstrates a lack of confidence and self-esteem, which is unattractive to women.

Women are attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, self-esteem, assertiveness, determination to succeed, etc) and turned off by the weakness (e.g. insecurity, nervousness, low self-esteem, wimpiness, etc).

So, the best approach to use is to simply make the woman feel attracted to you. When a woman is attracted to you, she will like you. It's as simple as that.

5. Hiding behind text messages.

[image: Hiding behind text messages]

These days, so many guys make the mistake of getting a woman's phone number or adding her to Facebook, only to then hide behind messages for weeks or months at a time.

If you don't get her on a phone call and arrange a time to meet up in person, she will usually lose interest very quickly and begin to ignore your text pursuit.

For example: A guy recently e-mailed me and saidâ□|

"Last weekend there was a music festival here in [edited out name of city for privacy] and a girl friend of mine had one of her mates come along. She lives several hours away from here.

Anyway, we really along well, had great conversations and shared jokes and a good time. Towards the end of the night they both had to leave as she had to drive back to work very early. I wasn't going to do the same as I wanted to enjoy the rest of the festival. We gave each other a kiss goodbye and finished off great!

Within 10 minutes since leaving, she then sends me a friend request on Facebook, which I took about an hour to accept, just not too appear eager.

We messaged each other like crazy, flirted a lot, and definitely connected. Anyway, fast forward to today, things have started to fizzle out a bit. I feel I've been having to start the conversations all the time.

Initially she was quick to reply and I'd give sporadic ones to not appear needy. Now, after more than these past 24 hours, she hasn't started conversation as I would've liked so I decided to send her something last night. Waiting for her reply at this moment at it is 2pm already. My question, should I always be trying to start messaging conversations? Does it not make me look needy and her rather uninterested?"

Can you see where that guy is messing things up?

He's over-thinking things.

He's acting like he's not needy, when he actually is. If it wasn't needy, he would relax and realize that people have a life and don't always have the time to be lying in bed messaging back and forth. She might have something to do that day (e.g. go see her family, go to the gym, catch up with friends, or even catch up with a guy she is dating).

Prior to having sex with a woman, you're pretty much just another guy that she's given her number to. Unless you get to that part of the relationship, you can be easily replaced by another guy, unless she is the type of girl who doesn't have many options with guys and focusses only on you.

In the example above, what the guy needed to do was simply message her back and forth for a while the first night if he likes texting so much (personally, I wouldn't have even messaged her) and then transition to get her phone number so he can call her up during the week.

Giving her a space of a couple of days after the first meeting would have allowed her to miss him and look forward to the call. Since she lives far away from him, he's probably not going to be able to get her out on a date immediately, so it's fine to wait 2-3 days to call her.

When he called her, he would need to respark the attraction (e.g. be confident, get her laughing and smiling) and then try to arrange a time for them to meet in person within the next week or so.

Since she lives several hours away from him, the date with either happen in his city, her city or somewhere half way between. It doesn't really matter where the date happens, but an in-person date is what needs to happen, not 100s of messages on Facebook.

You can only keep things interesting for a short while when all you are doing is messaging a new woman that you've met. Getting on a phone call and arranging a time to meet in person again is how things need to move forward.

Additionally, the guy mentioned that she was flirting and showing lots of interest via message. So, after exchanging many messages with him and not even getting a phone call, she might have been thinking, "Is this guy really interested in me? Is he afraid to call me because he thinks I will reject his offer to meet up?"

When she starts to think like that, she will usually stop messaging and wait for him to ask for her phone number or call her up if he already has it.

So, if you are pursuing a woman, make sure that you don't waste time hiding behind texts.

This kind of behavior makes women wonder if the guy has nothing else to do with his life; after all a guy who has purpose and is going somewhere in his life wouldn't have the time to keep texting and phoning her all the time.

How to Pursue a Woman

Here are the basic guidelines of how to pursue a woman:

1. Make her feel attracted to you.
2. Create a unique connection between you and her.
3. Be a bit of a challenge for her to win over (when you first talk to her).
4. Get her contact details.
5. Follow her up until you get her out on a date.
6. Have sex with her.

After you've had sex with a woman, the pursuit can then stop. She will then begin to pursue and want to see you again because you've already had sex with her.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Not Looking For a Relationship. What She Really Means

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a guy asks a woman out and she says that she's not looking for a relationship, it might be because:

- She doesn't feel enough sexual attraction for him and only wants to be friends (e.g. he's too nervous, he lacks confidence, he's too nice, etc).
- She doesn't want a serious relationship right now and would prefer a guy who only wants to have sex or casually date (i.e. have sex, be boyfriend and girlfriend) for a while.
- She's already seeing one or more guys and wants to keep things casual rather than getting into an exclusive relationship, which will result in her having to dump the other guys.
- She has had her heart broken recently or too many times and isn't yet ready to fall in love and commit to a serious relationship.
- She's too busy with work or university to have to worry about devoting a lot of time to a serious relationship.

The most common of all reasons why a woman will say, "I'm not looking for a relationship" is that she just doesn't feel enough attraction for him.

Watch this video to understand the reality that most women live in and why they end up wishing that they could meet a guy who is more of a challenge to win over...

As you will discover by watching the video above, most guys are willing to have sex and even a relationship with a woman simply based on her appearance.

Yet, the same rule doesn't apply to women.

Unless a guy is really good looking, rich or famous, he will need to proactively spark a woman's feelings of attraction for him by displaying some of the personality traits that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, charm, humor, etc).

Most women are passive when it comes to dating and simply wait for a guy to turn them on and then guide her through the sexual seduction process.

Watch this to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to make a woman want to have a relationship with you...

As you will discover from the video above, there can even be a huge difference in attractiveness between two identical male twins.

Why? A woman's attraction for a man is mostly based on non-physical things (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, etc). While it is true that some women will only accept a male model with loads of money, the majority of women in this world are open to feeling attracted to all different types of guys.

Women Don't Always Say What They Really Mean

[image: Women don't always say what they really mean]

When a woman says that she is not looking for a relationship, it doesn't necessarily mean that she won't get into a relationship tomorrow if she meets a guy who attracts her and turns her on.

So, why does she say that she doesn't want a relationship?

She simply wants to avoid any confrontation with the guy or give him clues about what he could change about himself to attract her.

For example: She could be direct and say, "Look, you're a nice guy, but if you were more confident and actually made me feel girly in response to your masculinity, I would be interested, but you're too nice and you lack the kind of balls that I want a guy to have. You're too much of a softy for me. Grow some balls first please."

Yet, if she did that, the guy might get angry or he might try to act like he was more confident and ballsy to attract her.

That's not what she wants though.

A woman doesn't want to have to teach a guy how to be a confident, attractive man. She wants a ready-made man who instantly allows her to relax into being a feminine woman (i.e. girly, free to be emotional, slightly submissive, etc) around him.

If a guy doesn't have what it takes to make her feel the way that she really wants to feel, she will simply reject him and remain open to meet other guys instead.

For example: A woman might outwardly complain, "I really just want to meet a nice guy who will treat me like a princess. Why can't I meet a guy like that? Men are such jerks!"

Yet, when a nice guy approaches her (let's call him Guy#1) and behaves like the perfect gentleman, she might smile politely and talk to him, but when he attempts to kiss her or initiate a sexual relationship with her, she will pull away, appear shocked and say something like, "You're a really nice guy, but I'm not looking for a relationship."

Why?

Niceness doesn't create sexual attraction or turn a woman on. It simply makes her feel "friendly" feelings, which isn't enough to justify a kiss, a date or a sexual relationship.

Watch this video to understand further...

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with being nice to women at all, but if your real aim is to have a sexual, romantic relationship with her, you must first establish mutual feelings of sexual attraction.

Yes, you are attracted to her, but have you done enough to make her feel attracted and turned on by you? Are you expecting her to want to be in a relationship with you because you're a nice guy or a good guy?

That's not enough.

You have to first make her feel sexually attracted to you and when that is established, she will then appreciate the fact that you are a good guy and will see that as a very welcome bonus.

However, trying to get a woman into a relationship simply based on niceness or a friendly approach just doesn't cut it.

So, to be very clear here...

When a woman says she's not looking for a relationship, what she usually means is that she's simply not interested in having a relationship with that particular guy, because he's not making her feel enough (or any) sexual attraction.

He may be doing everything he thinks she wants him to do, (e.g. treating her like a princess), but because heâs not creating a sexual spark between them, so when he brings up the idea of him and her having a relationship, she flatly rejects him.

Yet, a few minutes later another guy (letâs call him Guy#2) may approach her and before long, they begin kissing, leave the venue together or exchange numbers and start dating immediately.

[image: She doesn't want to have a relationship with me. What's so good about the other guy?]

Even though a few minutes earlier she told Guy#1, âIâm not looking for a relationship,â she had trouble saying *âYes!*â to a date with Guy #2, or even kissing him and having sex with him on the first night or first date.

Guy#2 made her feel the way she wants to feel when sheâs with a man (i.e. attracted and turned on, in addition to treating her nicely). He created a spark between them, connected with her and that then made her want to be in a relationship with him.

4 Mistakes That Can Lead to Her Saying, “I’m Not Looking For a Relationship Right Now”

Attracting women into sexual relationships is very easy when you follow the correct dating procedure (i.e. attract her, connect with her, escalate to kissing and sex).

However, when a guy makes one or more of the following mistakes, dating becomes a nightmare full of rejection, confusion and heartacheâ!

1. Sharing his feelings with a woman before she is even properly attracted to him.

Most guys instantly feel attracted to a womanâs physical appearance, and in most cases, that attraction is enough for him to want to have sex with her and possibly even start a relationship with her.

So, if a woman that he is attracted to happens to be nice to him, he might say something like, *âI really like you. Youâre so different from all the other women Iâve metâ or âYouâre really special to me. I want you to know that I have feelings for you. Do you have feelings for me?*â and he may even hint at wanting to be her boyfriend, or ask her what she thinks of having a relationship with him.

Why do guys share their feelings with a woman who isn’t even properly attracted yet?

Most single guys have no idea how to make women feel attracted to them, so when an attractive woman is nice to them, they get all excited and immediately begin to imagine having a relationship with her, having sex with her, falling in love and maybe even living happily ever after.

The guy gets excited because he feels as though he is getting lucky (i.e. scoring a woman without even having to properly attract her first), but in most cases, a woman will reject a guy who shares his feelings for her before she is properly attracted to him.

When she says, “Sorry, I’m not looking for a relationship right now” he will feel crushed.

[image: Why doesn't she want to have a relationship with me?]

All those excited nights that he couldn’t fall asleep because he was imagining being with her, all come crashing down into a heap of rejection.

She might add, "I like you as a friend and I don't want to ruin that. Can we just be friends?"

It's a horrible experience to go through for a guy, especially when he really feels like he was doing the right thing by sharing his feelings for her.

Yet, instead of pleasing her, this Hollywood movie approach makes a woman feel uncomfortable and turned off. Why?

Women hate it when guys don't know how to make them feel attracted and turned on. It's one of the 3 things that many attractive women hate about most single guys!

Most guys completely overlook the fact that women want to feel attracted and turned on too.

Women are sexual beings just like we are, so when a guy expects a woman to give him a chance because he's got "feelings" for her, she will feel annoyed, misunderstood and will reject him.

If she doesn't want to hurt his feelings, she might say something like, "I'm not looking for a serious relationship at the moment" or "You're nice, but I think we'd better off as friends."

So, when is the right time to tell a woman that you have feelings for her?

Generally speaking, you should wait until after you've had sex with her. It's not 1900 anymore where a man had to court a woman for months or years before they finally lost their virginity on the wedding night.

In today's world, most relationships start with sex and after that, the man and woman can then decide if they want to keep seeing each other casually or get into an exclusive, committed relationship.

2. Hoping that if he is a good friend to her, she will then want him as a boyfriend.

[image: I've been a good friend to her - why doesn't she want to have a relationship with me?]

Some guys make the mistake of putting on an act of being a friendly guy who only wants to be a "friend" with a woman that they secretly like, because they don't want to come across as being too forward or appear not to be a nice guy.

Then, when he makes his move and tries to become romantic with her, the woman responds by saying something like, "I don't want to ruin our friendship," or, "I am not looking for a relationship."

What she really means by that comment is that he hasn't been saying or doing anything to make her feel sexually attracted to him, so the knowledge that he's looking for something more, only makes her feel awkward around him.

Some guys think that just because a woman "likes" him as a person, she also feels sexually attracted to him. Yet, there is a huge difference between a woman liking a guy and feeling sexually attracted to him.

A woman can easily like many different guys as a friend without feeling sexually attracted or wanting to be in a relationship with any of them.

3. Hoping that if he does whatever she wants, she will be so impressed by his generosity that she'll want to be in a relationship with him.

When a guy doesn't know how to make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on, he will sometimes hope that if he can just do whatever she wants him to do, she will then be impressed and "give him a chance" with her.

Yet, thatâs not how it works.

When a man becomes a doormat for a woman to walk all over, she loses respect for him and as a result, she is unable to feel sexually attracted to him as well.

Women are instinctively attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, assertiveness, etc) and repelled by the weakness (e.g. insecurity, low-self esteem, wimpiness, etc).

If a beautiful woman perceives a guy as being weaker than her, she will usually reject him by saying sheâs not looking for a relationship.

I say “beautiful woman” in the sentence above, because many unattractive women will accept a weaker man because they are insecure about their ability to keep a confident man in a relationship.

However, if you’re like most guys on this planet, you’d rather have an attractive woman than be stuck in a relationship with an unattractive woman that you’re not proud of and aren’t interested in having sex with.

All that said, there’s nothing wrong with doing what a woman wants at times, as long as you aren’t letting her push you around in the hopes that she “likes” you.

You can be a kind, good man, but just don’t be a pushover.

4. Thinking that her attraction and love can be bought.

Itâs normal for a guy to want to buy a woman a drink, or if theyâre going out on a date, to pay for dinner.

However, the mistake many guys make, is to assume that if they shower a woman with things (e.g. expensive dinners, gifts, trips, etc), she will be impressed and want to be his girlfriend.

Although some women will enjoy this type of treatment (and may even exploit the guy to get as much out of him as they can), most women wonât be so easily bought.

There’s nothing wrong with buying a woman dinner or paying for a drink, but as long as you’re not going overboard with those things to hopefully get her to “like” you enough to give you a chance.

Most modern women earn their own money and don’t need a guy to prove that he has the ability to shower them with gifts and support them for life.

These days, most women make their decision on who to get into a relationship with based on how much sexual attraction the guy makes her feel.

If you can just focus your attention on triggering a woman’s attraction for you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, humor, masculine vibe, etc), you will laugh at how easy it is to get women into sexual relationships with you.

You won’t be hearing, “I’m not looking for a relationship” and will instead be hearing, “When can I come over to your place?” or “I miss you! I want to see you.”

When You Make a Woman Feel the Way That She Wants to Feel Around a Guy, She Will Naturally Want to Have a Relationship With You

Most women are bored to death with the dating options that they get to choose from.

It's the same old thing over and over again.

Guy meets her > Instantly wants to be with her because she looks good > Tries to impress her by being really nice > She rejects him because she's not feeling attracted.

Over and over again.

She then has to say, â€œYou're really nice, but I'm not interested in a relationship.â€

What she really means is that she's tired of being hit on by guys in the same old, boring way.

A woman dreams of being approached by a guy who can attract her and turn her on, connect with her and then be a bit of a challenge to win over.

She wants to feel lucky that you are choosing her, rather than feeling as though you can't really attract other women and are only focused on her because you have no other options with quality women like her.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Ask a Woman Out on a Date: 5 Mistakes to Avoid

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

It's very easy for a woman to get laid or find herself a boyfriend because all she has to do is say, "Yes" to the many guys who will be interested in her at any point in time.

If a woman is attractive, most guys are going to be willing to have sex with her at least once and many of those guys will also want to have a relationship with her, regardless of what her personality is like, what she does for a living and what her fashion sense is like.

For most guys, it's either a "Yes" or a "No" as to whether they would have sex with a woman, but it doesn't work that way for women when they select men.

This is why the dating game works differently for men than it does for women.

For women, it's about being passive and basically saying "Yes" to guys who make them feel enough attraction, whereas for guys it's about proactively making women feel attracted and then having the confidence to move the interaction forward from one step to the next.

So, if you want to know more about how to ask a woman out, here are 5 mistakes to avoid if you don't want to get rejected...

1. Not establishing mutual sexual attraction first

[image: Not establishing mutual attraction first]

If you are sexually and romantically interested in a woman, you shouldn't try to ask her out simply based on a friendly interaction or a platonic friendship between you and her, because she will almost always reject you.

Women say "Yes" to guys who ask them out on a date, when mutual sexual attraction has been established first.

As a guy, it's very easy for you to feel attracted to her because a guy's attraction for a woman is mostly based on her appearance, which is why guys jerk off to porn and can be seriously interested in a woman instantly simply based on how she looks.

You might have heard guys referring to women in photos as "marriage material" and you may have personally fallen in love with many women that you've seen on trains, in shopping malls and simply walking past you on the street.

However, generally speaking, a woman's attraction for a man works differently.

As a man, you need to proactively make a woman feel attracted to you by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, humor, masculine vibe, etc).

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works...

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of direct control over how much or little attraction a woman will feel for you.

For example: If a guy interacts with a woman and he is displaying nervousness, self-doubt, insecurity and anxiety, the woman is going to feel very turned off by him.

Women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, etc) and turned off by the emotional weakness (e.g. nervousness, insecurity, etc).

As long as you are triggering a woman's feelings of sexual attraction for you, she will feel open to the idea of having sex with you or beginning a relationship.

However, if the main approach that you're using with women you like is to simply be a nice, friendly guy, then there is no guarantee that she will feel enough sexual attraction to say "Yes" to going out on a date or beginning a relationship with you.

2. Waiting too long to make a move

[image: Waiting too long to ask a girl out]

After attraction has been established, most women will give a guy a limited Window of Opportunity (WOW) to make a move.

For example: If you meet a woman at a bar or a party and she shows signs of being attracted and is interested, she might only give you a few minutes to start making a move to touch her, get more intimate with her (e.g. sit down on a couch together at the party or bar) or get her alone with her (e.g. move a few steps away from her friends, go to the bar together to order a drink, etc).

[image: Losing an opportunity with a woman because he took too long to make a move]

If you don't make a move, she will lose interest and open herself up to another guy instead.

This will happen if her real plans for the night are to hopefully get laid or get herself a boyfriend by having sex with a guy on the first night.

On the other hand, if you meet a woman at work or at university for example, the WOW (Window of Opportunity) might last for a couple of weeks, but if you wait too long to make a move, she will usually lose interest due to your lack of confidence.

So, if you're going to ask a woman out, what you essentially need to do is make her feel attracted to you, get her number, call her up (1-3 days later), respark some attraction and then suggest catching up.

3. Asking to take her out, rather than to catch up

A common mistake that guys make is where they ask a woman if they can take her out somewhere, rather than just asking her to catch up.

When a guy says, "So, can I take you out sometime?" or "I'd like to take you out on a date. When are you free?" it signals to a woman that the guy is already thinking that the date will lead to a serious, committed relationship and possibly even marriage.

Some women are fine with that type of approach because they are looking for a serious relationship and don't want to waste time with casual sex or temporary dating relationships, but these days, most women feel turned off by it because it's too serious too soon.

So, here's what you should say to ask different types of women out...

1. A woman who only wants to have casual sex and date you for a while to see where it goes.

“Hey sexy â□□ it was fun to meet you the other night. You crack me up. It would be cool to catch up sometime soon to say hi. . I’m going to busy on _____ (e.g. Monday) and _____ this week, but I have _____ and _____ free, how about you?”

2. A woman who doesn’t want a casual relationship and is looking for a serious boyfriend or potential husband.

“Hey, so I really enjoyed meeting you the other day and I like you, so let’s organize a time where I can take you out. I’m going to busy on _____ (e.g. Monday) and _____ this week, but I have _____ and _____ free, how about you?”

3. A woman who you’ve only ever been friends with, but have now established mutual sexual attraction with.

“Hey, so I know that you and I have only ever been friends, but I think it would be fun to catch up, have a drink together and see what happens.”

Or,

“Hey, so I’m going to a bar on Friday night with _____ (a friend or some friends), you should come along too” and then at the bar, make her feel more attracted to you and kiss her there or invite her back to your place for a private after party (e.g. “Hey, let’s head back to my place to chill out and have a drink, just you and me”).

As you can see from the examples above, it’s best to tailor your approach to the particular woman and the dynamic between you and her.

When you do catch up with a woman in person, what you need to do is continue to build up her attraction for you, get to a first kiss and then get her back to your place or go to her place.

These days, most women hate it when guys take too long to get to a first kiss or sex.

For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on the first date and a European study found that 70% of women admitted to having a one night stand before.

So, when you do “catch up” with this woman that you’re asking out, make sure that you don’t wait too long to make a move or she might lose interest.

These days, women often have many different guys chasing them at the same time (e.g. at work, on dating apps like Tinder, guys that she’s given her number to at a bar, ex-boyfriends or lovers, guys in the friendzone with her, etc), so if you wait too long to make a move, you will often lose your opportunity to be with her.

Most women will immediately ignore all the other guys chasing her if you can make her feel enough attraction, guide her to kissing and sex and make her feel lucky to be with you.

The easiest way to do that is to first attract her (don’t try to skip that part) and then offer her a bit more of a challenge than other guys do.

Watch this video to understand how it works...

As you will discover from the video above, most women are bored to death with how easy it is for them to attract guys for sex or a relationship.

She wants to feel lucky that an awesome guy like you is choosing her because she has done enough to impress you, rather than feeling as though you’re just another horny guy who is hoping to score with any woman.

4. Getting nervous because you are worried that one mistake will ruin everything

If you want to be successful at dating women and keeping a relationship together, one of the most important things you need to do is develop confidence in your attractiveness and value to women.

When you are able to trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction for you during an interaction by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, masculine vibe, humor, etc), she will overlook or forgive some or many little mistakes that you make along the way because she's feeling so attracted and turned on by you.

As long as you are able to make a woman feel properly attracted to you like that, you don't have to worry about any minor slip-ups or mistakes that you make along the way.

Instead, you just need to keep moving forward from one step to the next, based on the fact that if a woman is attracted to you, then she will be open to the idea of having sex with you or going out on a date with you.

However, if you are only approaching your interactions in a way where you are being a really friendly, nice guy who is hoping to be liked because you're such a nice guy, then women won't be as lenient on the mistakes you make.

Since the woman won't be feeling much or any sexual attraction for you based on the nice guy approach, your mistakes will become yet another reason why she will feel as though you're not a good match for her.

5. Trying too hard to impress to her to the point where she begins to play hard to get

[image: Trying too hard to impress a woman before asking her out]

A lot of guys don't realize how easy most women are to pick up.

Most women act as though they are really hard to get and really picky, but the majority of women are very easy to get a phone number from, get out on a date and have sex with as long as you've established enough attraction first.

Since many guys don't really know how to properly attract women with their confidence and personality, they will often fall into the trap of trying really hard to be liked for being such a nice guy.

Watch this video to understand why the nice guy approach to women results in rejection more often than not...

As you will discover from the video above, there is nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but women only appreciate nice guys when the guy first establishes sexual attraction.

If a guy is being really nice to a woman in the hope of impressing her, she might like him as a person because he is so nice, but she's not going to be feeling sexually aroused and turned on by his approach.

For example: A guy might laugh at all of a woman's jokes, buy her drinks, over compliment her and try to show her how much of a nice, trustworthy guy he is compared to other guys.

Yet, most women aren't stupid and they know what it is going on when a guy does that. She knows that he's simply trying to suck up to her by being nice and is hoping to be rewarded with sex, love and devotion because of it.

She knows that he has no idea how to attract women and turn them on with his personality, so he is trying to overcompensate for his lack of attraction skills by being really nice.

Women hate that.

It's one of the 3 things that many attractive women hate about most single men...

Of course, it's a lot easier for women because all they have to do is look good and say, "Yes" to the many guys who are interested in them.

Yet, here's the thing...

It's even EASIER for guys who know how to attract women with their personality and confidence, because those guys are usually already take or sleeping with multiple women. So, when a woman finally meets one of those guys, he can pick up women just as easily as a 8-10/10 women can pick up men.

When you are the guy who can attract and turn women on with your personality and confidence, you instantly become a rare find or a "catch" as some people refer to it as.

The fact is, most single guys in this world are clueless with women and end up wasting years of their life trying to impress with women the nice guy approach, without ever knowing how easy it is to attract women for sex and relationships.

When you can trigger a woman's feelings of sexual attraction by displaying some of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women and you then confidently move the interaction forward from a conversation to kiss, to sex and into a relationship â you will realize how easy most women are to pick up.

Most women go through months of their dating life never even meeting a good guy who can properly attract her and turn her on with his confidence and personality, so when you come along and give her that experience, she won't be saying "No" when you ask her out.

She will be saying, "Yes!" and will be eager to meet up with you ASAP.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Get a Woman in Bed on the First Night or First Date

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If you want to get a woman in bed on the first night or first date, the first thing you need to accomplish is to get to get a first kiss.

I've slept with more than 250 women and of the women who I had a one night stand with or had sex on the first date with, it was always the first kiss that changed everything and immediately opened the doors to sex.

Some women can be pulled back for sex after talking to them for 1-10 minutes, whereas others need a couple of hours of hanging out, building up the attraction, getting to know each other and getting to a kiss before they are ready to leave the party or venue and go home with you.

Sometimes, a woman will be shy to leave with a guy in front of her friends, whereas other times she will be excited to show off to her friends that she's met a cool guy who turns her on and that she's happy go home and have sex with.

In terms of first dates, the same rule of getting to a first kiss applies, but it can't be just any kind of kiss. To increase the odds to almost 100% that she will want to have sex (or at least give you a BJ) on the first date, you need to kiss her in a way that turns her on.

So, here's how to get a woman in bed on the first night or first date...

How to Get a Woman in Bed on the First Night You Meet Her

[image: Get a woman in bed on the first night you meet her]

First off all, you will want to go to a place where women are willing to sleep with guys on the first night that they meet them.

- Bars.
- Nightclubs.
- Weekend festivals where people stay in tents or campervans.
- House parties.
- Singles events where you can leave the venue together.
- Wine or beer tasting events.

I've pulled women back for sex on the first night from many different places over the years, but almost all of my one night stands have come from bars, clubs and house parties.

I've also gotten sex on the first day by meeting women in a bookstore and at a shopping mall, where I invite women back to my place on a Sunday afternoon to "hang out." As long as you know how to attract women and you have the confidence to move the interaction forward, you can get women in bed very easily these days.

When you're at a bar or nightclub for example, you need to talk to women in a way that turns them on and makes them feel aroused by you, rather than just talking to them in a nice guy way all night.

Watch this video to understand some of the classic conversation mistakes that guys make, which turn women off the idea of having sex or going on a date...

When talking to a woman that you want to have sex with on the first night, it's better to be direct and honest about your sexual interest, rather than pretending as though you just want to be her friend or are simply a nice, innocent guy who wants to talk to her for a while.

One of the best ways to be direct is to say something like, "You're sexyâ€¦I like you" after you've built up some attraction between you and her.

So, at a point in the conversation where you and her are attracted to each other and you've just made her laugh, simply pause for two seconds and look at her up and down and then say, "You're sexyâ€¦I like you."

From that point onwards, she knows that you find her sexy, so she doesn't have to play hard to get to make you show her how much you like her. It's already clear that you find her sexually attractive, so she can then relax and just be herself around you.

It's important to give women that direct confirmation of your attraction because most women are much more insecure, depressed and anxious than guys are.

For example:

- Most women are insecure about their physical appearance. According to a global study conducted by Dove cosmetics, 96% of women don't consider themselves to be beautiful.
- Women are reported to experience depression at twice the rate of men in the USA.
- In the UK, 40% of women will require treatment for depression at some point in their life compared to only 10% of men. In other words, women are more depressed than men.
- Women are twice as likely to experience anxiety compared to men.
- 60% of the people who have OCD (Obsessive Compulsive Disorders) and phobias are women.

As you can see from the statistics above, women are generally emotionally weaker and more sensitive than men.

So, rather than looking at women and assuming that they are superhuman beings who never get nervous or anxious, understand that women usually need your confirmation and assurance that you find them attractive and appealing.

If you don't give an insecure woman (i.e. most women) that confirmation, she will usually play hard to get and make you really try to impress her first, so she can see for sure that you really do find her attractive and aren't just trying to score with another random girl.

So, after you've given a woman the confirmation of, "You're sexyâ€¦I like you" what you then need to do is get to a first kiss.

With some women, the first kiss will happen in front of her friends, while other women will prefer to get alone first (e.g. sit down on a couch together, go to the bar to order some drinks together, go outside the party, sit in a dark or quiet corner of the room, get in a car, etc).

How the first kiss happens usually depends on how the woman perceives public displays of affection. Some women are completely fine to kiss a guy in front of friends, coworkers or some family members, whereas other women are worried about looking slutty or easy, so they prefer to do it away from prying eyes.

Everyone has different opinions about kissing in front of other people, so how you can know if a woman is okay with kissing you in public?

Generally speaking, if you have made her feel a lot of attraction for you (i.e. you haven't just been talking to her like a friendly, nice guy and instead have been turning her on by the way you behave, talk and interact) and she is talking to you face to face (i.e. eye to eye) while smiling, looking in your eyes, looking down at your lips and remaining really close to your face, then it's almost 100% certain that she wants you to kiss her.

To test whether or not she wants to kiss, simply lean in to kiss her slightly. As long as you do it in a confident, relaxed manner, the kiss will almost always happen and it will feel amazing for both of you.

However, if you begin to lean in and you're looking up at her and using your body language to basically ask, "Is it okay to kiss you??" most women will reject you at that point. You've got to just relax and trust in the fact that she is attracted to you and simply lean in to see what happens.

One time, I had a girl pull back and not want to kiss, so I simply smiled and said, "Oh, I didn't know that you were so shy" and she then apologized and I said, "Come hereâ€¦let's just hug instead."

We hugged for a few seconds, pulled back and started kissing.

I could have ruined that moment though by thinking that I'd been rejected when she originally pulled back. Instead, I believed in my attractiveness to her and from that belief in myself, I was able to say, "Oh, I didn't know that you were so shy."

After you've gotten to the first kiss, what usually needs to happen is a bit more partying and hanging out and you then suggest leaving together.

For example: In a moment where you are her are feeling intimate (e.g. hugging, holding each other, kissing, etc), simply say something like:

- We should get out of here.
- You ready to get out of here?
- Let's get out of here and go somewhere else, just you and me.
- Do you want to get out of here and go hang out somewhere private, just you and me?
- Are you ready to get started with the after party at my place?
- Wanna get out of here?

As long as you have built up the woman's attraction for you, created a unique connection with her and gotten to a first kiss, most women will then be willing to leave the venue with you.

[image: How to get a woman in bed]

Despite the fact that sex happens very often these days, a lot of guys make the mistake of assuming that a woman would never sleep with a guy on the first night.

Here are some statistics to put it in perspective:

A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a study in Europe found that 70% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand before.

In other words, sex happens very quickly these days, so don't be afraid to make a move after you've put in all the effort to get her attracted, turned on and kissing you.

How to Get a Woman in Bed on the First Date

[image: Get a woman in bed on the first date]

When I first started dating lots of women, I would usually take them out to a restaurant, café or lounge bar to eat, drink and hang out for hours.

After a while, that dating process became very time consuming and usually didn't result in sex on the first date.

So, rather than waste my time and money wining and dining women who weren't going to get it on with me, I decided to only allow women to date me if they would come over to my place for a first date or if I went to their place for a first date.

Quite simply, the first date is about coming over and hanging out while I cook up a dinner and we drink a glass of wine together (I would say a glass, but the bottle would always get finished).

If I was cooking, then I would ask the woman to bring over the wine and if she was cooking, then I would bring the booze.

BTW: I'm speaking in past tense, because I am now in a committed relationship with a hottie, so I don't need to go on dates anymore.

Sometimes, women didn't want to cook dinner at my apartment, so the alternative strategy would simply be to say, "Okay cool, let's meet at my apartment and we will then go for a walk to the nearby cafes and chill out for a hour or so to get to know each other. If we hate each other, you have an easy way to exit and say that you never, ever want to see me again."

That would always get a laugh and after enjoying a funny, interesting, sexually arousing date at a coffeeshop, the woman would almost always be eager to come back and "hang out" at my place, which then lead to sex on the first night.

Essentially, to get a woman in bed on the first date, what you need to do is build up her sexual attraction for you, create some sexual tension and then when you do kiss her, make sure that you get her feeling aroused and turned on.

For example: Having a slower, passionate kiss rather than attacking her mouth with an overly-enthusiastic kiss.

When a woman sees that you can go from laughing and having a good time with her in your apartment or house, to calming your emotions down and giving her a slow, passionate kiss; it signals to her that sex with you would be interesting, which then turns her on.

Don't Expect Her to Lead You

[image: Don't expect her to lead you]

A very small percentage of women will be the aggressor and kiss you first and then essentially tell you that they want to have sex right now.

However, for the most part, a woman will want be lead by you and seduced into having sex, rather than actively asking for it or leading the way to make it happen.

The main reasons why most women wait to be sexually seduced by men, rather than making all the moves themselves:

1. They want to see how confident a guy really is.

The most important trait that women look for in a man is confidence. A great way to test a guy's confidence is to see how he handles himself around an attractive woman.

From a woman's perspective, if a man doesn't have the confidence to make a move and go after what he wants with a woman who likes him, then she will naturally doubt his ability to go after what he wants in the world in general.

Her instincts will tell her that he is potentially the type of guy that will get pushed aside and won't really achieve much in life, because he doesn't have the social confidence to stand up for himself and go after what he wants.

So, even if a woman really likes you and wants to have sex with you, she will usually still wait for you to kiss her first and then suggest leaving together, rather than give you a "free pass" and guide you through the sexual seduction process herself.

She wants to see that you have the confidence to seduce her on your own and that you don't need her to be gentle with you and guide you through the process.

2. They don't want to look too easy.

From a woman's perspective, if she doesn't show any resistance to the idea of having sex with you, then she's in danger of looking too easy and therefore a less appealing option for a committed relationship.

She will have most-likely been brought up to believe that nice girls don't have one night stands or sex on a first date, so no matter how much she wants to have sex with you, she knows that she has to show resistance to demonstrate that she's a good girl.

Here's the thing...

A woman saying â€œNo at certain points doesn't always mean, â€œNo, I don't want to have sex with you at all.

Instead, it can often mean, â€œNo, I don't want to be seen as easy, so I'm going to have to resist you for a little while longer.

So, if you are talking to a woman who is clearly attracted to you and is resisting the idea of kissing you or having sex, it often just means that she's trying to maintain a certain image in your eyes.

If you sleep with a lot of women on the first night, you will find that almost all of them say things like, "I've never done this before" or "Wow, I'm never like this" just before you have sex.

This is simply a woman's way of trying to assure you that if you get into a relationship with her, you will be able to trust her to control herself and not be seduced by other guys.

Personally speaking, about 80% of the women I've slept with on the first night or first date said that kind of thing.

Initially, I would say, "Yeah, that's what every girl says" but after a few times, I realized that it was better to smile and say, "Well, you're like this with me, aren't you? I bring out the naughty side in you and I like it."

The Importance of Attraction

I haven't really talked a lot about attraction in this post, but I want to point something out here...

A woman will only want to kiss you if she feels enough attraction for you first. The most important skill that you will ever develop to successful with women is your ability to trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of a woman.

Watch this video to understand how it works...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Nervous Around Girls? Here Are 5 Simple Ways to Fix it

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Do you get nervous around girls you like?

Would you like to stop feeling nervous and start being the confident guy that you know you can be?

Here are 5 ways to fix your feelings of nervousness around girls...

1. Realize that you have the power to make her feel attracted and turned on by you

One of the main reasons why a lot of guys get nervous around girls, is that they simply don't know how to make girls feel attracted to them.

As a guy, it's very easy to feel attracted to girls because your attraction for them is mostly based on how they look. However, a girl's attraction for you is mostly based on how you make her feel when you interact with her.

For example: If a guy nervously interacts with a girl and hopes to be liked by her because he's being really nice and polite, she isn't going to be feeling attracted and turned on by the way he is interacting with her.

Why? Girls are attracted to the emotional strength in guys (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem) and turned off by the weakness (e.g. nervousness, self-doubt, insecurity, etc).

Watch this video to understand how a girl's attraction for a guy works...

As you will discover from the video above, you can make girls feel attracted to you in many different ways.

When you are confident in your ability to make girls feel attracted to you, then you will automatically stop feeling so nervous around girls you like.

Rather than feeling nervous, you will feel excited to talk to a girl you like because you know that you can make her feel attracted to you.

When you're confident in your ability to attract girls, talking to girls turns into a situation where you either get laid or get yourself a new girlfriend, rather than getting rejected or placed in the friend zone.

2. Stop thinking and start doing

A lot of your nervousness is caused by allowing yourself to think too much about what you are about to do, rather than actually doing it.

For example: If you see an attractive girl that you really want to approach and talk to, you will naturally begin to feel nervous if you waste time thinking and worrying about what might go wrong if you do approach.

If you want to stop being nervous around girls, you've literally got to disconnect from your thoughts and just take action. This is what an alpha male does.

An alpha male doesn't need to sit around thinking about whether or not he's going to be able to attract a girl or be interesting enough to keep a conversation going with her.

Why?

He knows that she will naturally feel attracted to him because of his masculine confidence.

She won't be able to stop herself from feeling attracted to it, because all girls feel attracted to a guy's confidence. It's one of the easiest and most efficient ways to attract girls.

So, rather than wasting time and energy thinking about what might go wrong, an alpha male simply approaches a girl and relies on his confidence to ensure that she feels attracted to him.

If you need to build up the confidence to approach girls, watch this free video...

As you will discover from the video above, it is possible for you to get over your nervousness around girls.

You have a very powerful mind and in this life, you are either going to use it to make you confident and successful with girls or nervous and unsuccessful with girls.

Guys who are nervous around girls will sometimes find that they can "get lucky" and score with a girl, even though they are nervous.

However, when the initial excitement of being with a new guy wears off, the girl almost always loses interest in him because he lacks the most fundamental trait that girls look for in a guy; confidence.

He might be fairly confident with her in the early days of the relationship, but if she starts pulling back her affection and interest later on, he will then become insecure, jealous, clingy and controlling.

When that happens, the relationship begins to fall apart and his luck with her will run out.

He will then be on his own again and might even be more nervous around girls, because he knows that most girls don't feel attracted to him and he's not even sure how to keep a girl interested when in a relationship either.

It's a vicious cycle of insecurity that a lot of guys go through for most or even all of their life.

So, if you want to avoid all the heartache that comes with being a nervous guy around girls and you want to be able to pick up hot girls and keep a relationship together, make sure that you get your confidence issues sorted out now, rather than later.

Luckily, it's actually fairly easy to rapidly become confident and then build on that to have unstoppable confidence within a few weeks.

If you want to learn how to have unstoppable confidence in yourself, make sure you click around here at The Modern Man. All the answers and solutions you seek are right here on this website.

3. Understand that she isn't as bulletproof as you think she is Most guys don't realize that girls are usually more insecure, depressed and socially anxious than guys are.

For example:

- Women are reported to experience depression at twice the rate of men in the USA.
- In the UK, 40% of women will require treatment for depression at some point in their life compared to only 10% of men. In other words, women are more depressed than men.

- Women are twice as likely to experience anxiety compared to men.
- 60% of the people who have OCD (Obsessive Compulsive Disorders) and phobias are women.
- Most women are insecure about their physical appearance. According to a global study conducted by Dove cosmetics, 96% of women don't consider themselves to be beautiful.

One of the reasons why girls feel that way is that they know how superficial and fleeting their beauty is, especially as they start to get a bit older.

All girls know that they get so much more positive attention and compliments when they paint their face with make up.

[image: Make up - mixed races]

When a girl wakes up in the morning and looks at herself in the mirror, she knows full well that she doesn't look as good as she will when she plasters make up all over her face. As a result of the modern trend of wearing make up, many girls develop insecurities about their physical appearance.

They may act as though they are confident and full of self-esteem, but statistically speaking, most girls that you will meet in your life are actually insecure about their appearance.

So, rather than looking at every girl as being a superhuman who is way more confident, valuable and amazing than you are, just realize that she's a normal girl in this world.

Even though she might be very good at acting confident, you have to remember that she is probably more anxious, nervous and insecure than you are.

When you come from that perspective, you will feel more confident around girls because you will actually feel sorry for them a bit, rather than feeling nervous because you are looking up to them as being super amazing creatures that are way better than you.

So from now on, don't give girls so much credit.

Yes, they look good and you'd like to have sex with them, but you can make them feel attracted to you too.

4. Don't try so hard to impress girls during a conversation

What a girl really wants to see when she interacts with you is that you're confident enough to be your real self, while also focusing on making her feel confident and comfortable as well.

If a guy believes that he isn't good enough for a girl, he will often make the mistake of trying too hard to impress her during a conversation (e.g. by being extra nice, always trying to say the right thing, etc).

Girls don't want you to try so hard. They want you to believe in yourself, relax and allow them feel attracted to your unique personality.

Watch this video to understand some of the classic mistakes that guys make when talking to girls and what you should do instead...

As you will discover from the video above, most guys don't even know how to make girls feel attracted to them during a conversation.

When you are the confident, good guy who also knows how to turn girls on and make them feel a lot of attraction during a conversation, you won't have to worry about feeling nervous around girls anymore.

Rather than feeling nervous, you will feel excited because you will have yet another opportunity to get laid or get yourself a hot girlfriend.

Soon enough, you will realize that attracting girls is one of the easiest, most exciting things that you ever learn to do in your life. Learning how to attract girls is the most rewarding skill that a guy can master in life and it's so easy to do.

Most guys think that attracting girls is really difficult and that you need to be tall, handsome and rich to get a hot girl, but if you've watched any of the videos on this page, you will know that those guys are wrong.

It's actually funny how easy it is to attract girls.

Most girls put on an act of being really hard to pick up and being really choosy, but as long as you can trigger their feelings of attraction during an interaction, you will see that they are usually so damn easy to have sex with or begin a relationship with.

Especially these days as well.

We're now living in a time where it's totally fine for girls to have sex with many guys before settling down into a relationship. That is, if they want to settle down at all.

So, from now on, don't waste your time trying really hard to impress girls when you talk to them.

Instead, just make girls attracted to you by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract girls (e.g. confidence, masculine vibe, charisma, etc) and then go from a conversation to kiss, sex and into a relationship.

5. Don't try pick up every girl you talk to

Some guys get nervous around girls because they put too much pressure on themselves to be compatible with every girl that they find attractive.

As a guy, it's very easy to find girls attractive because most of your attraction is based on their physical appearance, but that doesn't mean you will be perfectly compatible with all of them.

So, rather than placing so much pressure on yourself by trying to pick up every girl that you talk to, just relax, make girls feel attracted and see what unfolds between you and her.

The way that nature works is that no guy is compatible with every girl in the world and no girl is compatible with every guy in the world.

Sometimes, you will talk to a couple of hot girls and initially be interested in one of them because of how she looks.

Yet, as you talk to her and her friend, you might find that you're much more compatible with her friend who is not only beautiful, but connects with you in a more enjoyable way.

That doesn't mean that you've screwed up with the other girl and gotten rejected. It's simply nature taking its course and connecting you with the more compatible girl.

Although they will rarely admit it, girls want you to have standards and only let girls get to be with you if they impress you enough and meet your standards.

This is what girls refer to as a guy "being a challenge" to win over...

As you will discover from the video above, most guys are unwilling to be a challenge for girls to win over because they are trying to score with basically any attractive girl they can get.

When you are the guy who is wise enough to present girls with a bit of a challenge to overcome before they get to be with you sexually or romantically, you will see how easy it is to pick up girls.

You will then see that most girls are now interested in you based on the way that you interact with them and when you have that realization, you won't feel nervous anymore because you will be confident in your ability to make girls feel attracted to you from then on.

If you look up confidence in the dictionary, you will see that it is described as having belief in yourself and your abilities...

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

If you want to be confident around girls, you have to work on your ability to attract them, rather than trying to be liked because you're such a nice guy.

When you can easily attract girls by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to girls, you will have confidence in yourself around girls and you will naturally and automatically stop feeling nervous.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Am I Always Alone?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Despite the billions of other humans on the planet and how easy it is to now connect with people via social media, some guys still find themselves feeling lonely and left out at times.

Recently, a guy contacted The Modern Man to ask, “Why am I always alone?”

He went onto explain, “I’m always the guy who is there for other people. I mean I’d give someone the shirt off my back if they really needed it, but people don’t return that kindness to me.

No matter how nice of a guy I am, I always seem to be alone. Other guys have girlfriends and get invited to parties, but no one really ever invites me to those parties...and I don’t have a girlfriend either.”

[image: Why am I always left alone?]

So, to help him and other guys like him, I’m going to provide some tips on how to get past your feelings of loneliness and start enjoying your life with women, friends and other people you meet along the way.

Of course, one of the first tips someone would give to a person who always seems to be alone would be to make some new friends. Yet, what if people aren’t that interested in being his friend?

That’s where I come in. Here are some tips on how to be the sort of guy that others actually want to spend time with...

1. Be a good guy, but don’t be a doormat for others to walk all over

[image: Why do I feel alone around other people?]

Whenever I’ve personally helped a guy to overcome his loneliness (via my phone coaching service), I’ve pretty much always found that he is the sort of guy who is trying to be liked by others for being so nice, generous and giving.

Growing up, a guy like that has been told by parents, teachers and other authority figures to treat people nicely if he wants to be liked.

Yet, what he doesn’t realize is that the advice is missing a crucial bit of information.

What the advice should be is, “Be nice to people, but make sure that they respect you. Some people will be nice to you no matter what, while others will take advantage of your kindness and use you.”

There’s absolutely nothing wrong with being a good guy, but when a guy is way too nice to people because he is hoping that they reward him with respect, love, attention and friendship, then he’s doing it wrong.

As a man, the way to make more people like you is to be a good guy, but have balls. You’ve got to be able to stand up for yourself and get people to respect you.

To have that type of confidence in yourself, you need to start looking at yourself as an equal to other people, rather than assuming that you are beneath them.

If you assume that you are beneath others, some kind hearted people will encourage you and try to lift up your spirits, while others will bring you down and try to take advantage of you.

It might seem like a very noble thing to do to live your life essentially kissing everyone's ass, but it won't get you the results you want.

If you want people to like you and want to be around you, it's important that you take a more balanced approach to life. Be a good guy, but don't be a complete pushover.

For example: Watch this video to understand why a guy will be rejected by most women if he is too nice to them...

As you will discover from the video above, there is absolutely nothing wrong with being nice, but being way too nice in the hope of being "liked" is when problems begin to occur both with women and with friends.

Some nice guys give so much and are so generous and kind to friends, but then find themselves feeling disappointed that no-one has their back when they need it.

It's a tough pill to swallow, but the reality of life is that some friends will have your back no matter what you do for them, while others will always turn their back on you when you need it most.

Rather than hoping that everyone is as nice, loyal and kind as you are, just come to terms with the fact that you will need to be a bit more selective with friends. Don't just let anyone be your friend, especially those who you suspect will just use you for your kindness.

Only let people be your friend if they show you the same respect, appreciation and kindness in return. If they don't, then you need to have the balls to say, "Hey, I really appreciate you as a friend, but I'm disappointed that you" and explain what you're disappointed about.

Then say (in an assertive, but friendly manner), "Next time, I want to do a lot better than that. Tell me now how you will approach the situation differently next time" to make your friend feel accountable for his/her actions.

Some guys are afraid to have that type of conversation with a friend because they are afraid of losing the friendship, but in most cases (except with people who are just using you) it will bring you and your friend closer together.

Your friend will respect you more and treat you a lot better from then on. He/she may slip back into his/her old pattern of behavior at some point, so you have to be ready to address that if it comes up again to make sure that your friend knows that you are not going to be a pushover anymore.

2. Understand that you are right here with the rest of us

[image: You are here with the rest of us]

You might feel alone, but the reality is that you are here on planet Earth with the rest of us. Even if you want to feel alone, you're not because you are surrounded by everyone else. We're all here together.

This is your world as much as it is mine and everyone else's. You are welcome here. This is your place. This is where you belong.

You're not an outsider; you are a part of what is going on here. Don't expect people to come running up to you on the street and say, "Hey, let's be friends" or women to wave you over to come and join their group at a bar or party.

That's not how the world works.

If you want to be included, you have to include yourself. However, you also need to make sure that you are a compatible match for the people you are trying to be included with.

For example: If a guy is trying to get himself a girlfriend, but is a shy, anxious, nervous guy, women aren't going to be excited if he approaches and includes himself in their conversation.

Why? Women are attracted to the emotional strength of men and turned off by the weakness, so his nervousness is going to make the women feel like they need to reject him to get him to go away.

On the other hand, if a guy approaches in a confident, easy-going and self-assured manner, the women will naturally feel attracted to his emotional strength.

They will most-likely test his confidence (i.e. to see if he is just putting on an act of being confident), but if he remains confident, relaxed and self-assured, they will open up to him and begin to feel an increasing amount of attraction for him.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use that to get women to want to be with you...

As you will discover from the video above, you won't be stuck on your own for very long when you are able to trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of a woman.

Rather than sitting home alone on a Saturday night, you will have a woman cuddled up next to you, kissing you and wanting to spend the weekend with you.

3. Come from a place of emotional fullness, rather than neediness

A lot of the guys who find themselves asking, "Why am I always alone?" are the type who tend to make people feel drained when around them.

How so?

The guy is emotionally needy (i.e. he lacks self-esteem and needs others to constantly lift him up, he is insecure and needs reassurance from people, he constantly tries to talk himself up or impress people rather than just relaxing and knowing that he is good enough), so when people are around him, they are constantly having to deal with his awkward way of interacting with them.

People can't just relax and have a good time around him because the way that he interacts with them tends to drain their mental and emotional energy.

For example: This tends to happen a lot with guys who suffer from Asperger's syndrome, because they find it difficult to understand the subtle nuances of social interaction.

It also happens to "normal guys" who are insecure and tend to suffer from social anxiety, because people who are interacting with them can see that the guy is uncomfortable. Most people don't want to feel responsible for making another person uncomfortable in a social setting, so they will just tend to ignore guys like that.

He will then find himself wondering, "Why am I always left alone?" or "Why do other guys get invited to parties, but I don't?"

He might assume that it's because he's not good looking enough, rich enough or whatever enough, but it usually just comes down to the fact that his lack of confidence makes other people feel uncomfortable around him.

Watch this video for some examples of mistakes that guys make when talking to women, which turn women off in similar ways...

As you will discover from the video above, when a guy comes from an emotionally needy place during a conversation, it will often cause him to behave in ways that are unattractive to women.

When talking to a woman, she wants to be able to see that you are confident, relaxed and completely comfortable being yourself.

You are a good guy, but you're not putting on an act of being even nicer than you actually are, in the hope that it will impress her. You're just being real, which is hugely impressive to women because most guys put on an act around women in the hope of being liked.

4. Don't try too hard to fit in or to be very different than others

You are a unique individual and there are many interesting, likeable things about you.

So, rather than trying really hard to copy everyone else at a party or be extremely different than everyone else, just relax and be your normal, natural self.

When you embrace your true personality and let that come through, you will naturally be seen as a more charismatic and interesting guy. However, if you put on an act to hopefully fit in or be seen as really different than others, people will pick up on the fact that you're a faker.

Fakers usually end up hanging around other fakers, but since they are all faking their personality and happiness, they all end up feeling miserable, insecure and lonely even when they are around other people.

If you want to be happy in this life and be naturally liked by others, then start by liking yourself first. You've got to love who you are because you are somebody in this world and you don't be you, then who will?

5. Improve your ability to attract women

[image: Improve your ability to attract women]

As a guy, you will never find yourself alone (unless you choose to have some alone time for a while) when are able to make women feel attracted and turned on by how you interact with them.

For example: If a guy interacts with women and is shy, nervous and self-doubting, then women aren't going to feel attracted and turned on by him. Why?

Women are attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, assertiveness, determination to succeed) and turned off by the weakness (e.g. insecurity, low self-esteem, timid behavior, fear of failure).

Watch this video to understand the many excuses that guys come up with to explain their lack of success with women, without ever knowing the real reason why...

As you will discover from the video above, the real reason why guys fail with women is that they don't even know how to attract women and turn them on during an interaction.

Most guys are just hoping to be liked for being a good guy, wearing nice clothes and saying nice things to women. That's not how it works! You've got to trigger a woman's attraction for you based on how you interact with her.

For example: Attract her with your confidence, attract her by making her laugh, attract her by using your masculinity to make her feel girly in your presence.

The list goes on. I literally teach guys how to attract women in more than 100 different ways. You don't have to be able to attract women in all of the 100 ways, but if you can at least do 5-10 of them, most women will feel enough attraction for you to want to kiss you and have sex with you.

When you have that level of skill with women, you won't be sitting around wondering, "Why am I always alone?" because you won't be alone anymore.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Understand a Woman: 5 Examples

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Have you ever heard a woman say, “I want a guy who understands me” when she is describing her perfect kind of guy?

Women say that sort of thing all the time, but what does it really mean to understand a woman?

Here are 5 examples of how to understand a woman in the way that she really wants to be understood by a man.

1. Understand that she isn't always as strong as she makes herself out to be.

[image: How to understand a woman's mind]

Women will often put on a brave front as behave as though they are confident and too good for most guys that they meet. Yet, beneath the surface, many women are either insecure, depressed or suffering from some sort of anxiety.

For example:

- Women are reported to experience depression at twice the rate of men in the USA. In the UK, 40% of women will require treatment for depression at some point in their life compared to only 10% of men. In other words, women are more depressed than men.
- Women are twice as likely to experience anxiety compared to men.
- 60% of the people who have OCD (Obsessive Compulsive Disorders) and phobias are women.
- Most women are insecure about their physical appearance. According to a global study conducted by Dove cosmetics, 96% of women don't consider themselves to be beautiful.

As you can see from the statistics above, many women that you meet will put on a brave face, but are actually quite insecure.

A lot of guys make the mistake of interacting with women and placing those women above themselves in terms of social value, confidence and dominance.

Yet, when a woman encounters a guy who places himself below her in terms of dominance because he assumes that she is so much more confident and emotionally strong than he is, she loses respect for him because he doesn't understand who she really is deep down.

She knows that she's just a girl in the world, trying to get by and doing her best to remain strong, even though she often cries, feels afraid and becomes insecure.

For example: According to an American study, most women cry about 5.3 times a month, or about once a week.

So, while a woman might look tough because of the way she is acting around a guy, it doesn't mean that she is as emotionally strong as a typical guy is.

When a woman meets a guy who assumes that she is stronger than he is, she knows that he's not the sort of guy who will easily understand her.

A typical woman is not looking to match herself up with a guy who is emotionally weaker than she is. The majority of women want to find a guy who is emotionally stronger than they are, not weaker. She wants to be able to feel safe and protected with him because no matter how challenging life gets, he will remain emotionally strong for both of them.

2. Understand that she often just wants to feel emotions, rather than try to fix every problem.

[image: How to understand a woman emotionally]

One of the mistakes that guys make when talking to a woman is to try and fix all of her problems during a conversation. The guy wants to show her how helpful he is and make her life better by fixing problems and annoyances in her life.

Yet, that's not what a woman always wants from a guy.

For example: A woman might talk about how there is a girl at work who is annoying because she is getting more praise from the boss.

In most cases, the woman is going to be smart enough to come up with a solution on her own, so she's not necessarily looking to the guy to come up with a solution that will fix the problem for her.

She might just want to express her feelings and talk about it in an emotional way, rather than having a serious, logical discussion on how to fix the problem.

So, the mistake that some guys make in these moments is to say, "Oh, I know what you need to do to fix the problem" and then explain exactly how to fix it. He's hoping that she will be impressed by helpful and smart he is.

Yet, that's not what she's looking to experience around a guy. Why?

If she always has to have serious, logical discussion like a guy when she talks to him, then she can't relax into being a feminine, emotional woman.

She has to disconnect from her preferred state of emotions and get into a more masculine, logical state of mind to fix the problem and keep moving forward in life.

Here's what a lot of guys don't realize about women...

Many women simply like to TALK about problems, get emotional about it and then change the subject.

Not trying to fix the problem doesn't mean that the woman is stupid or incapable of fixing problems in her life, but it does mean that she is simply thinking, feeling and behaving like a feminine woman.

She can get masculine and logical if she needs to, but when she's talking to a guy, she wants to be able to relax into being a woman, rather than having to copy how he thinks, behaves and feels.

Of course, sometimes a woman is looking for help from a guy and is hoping that he can offer a solution, but in those cases, she will ask for his help and focus on trying to come up with a solution.

However, the majority of times, she just wants to be able to express her feelings and talk about things in an emotional way, without having to get into a more masculine, logical way of thinking.

Note: This does not apply to a work context, where you are having a serious conversation with a co-worker or female boss. In that environment, you need to have serious, logical discussions to be able to find solutions and fix problems.

However, when having a conversation with a woman who you want to attract into a sexual relationship, you need to back off on trying to be a Mr. Fix It every time she brings up a problem or complains about something that is going on in her life.

Just let her experience the emotions and she will be extremely happy, impressed and excited that you understand a woman sometimes just wants to vent and get into an emotional state of being.

3. Understand that she wants to be able to feel like a feminine woman around you.

Some women are very masculine in their nature and prefer to think, feel and behave like men.

However, the majority of women are very feminine in their nature and regardless of how tough a woman's exterior may seem to you when you meet her, deep down she wants to be able to feel feminine and girly around the man that she gets sexually and romantically involved in.

She might be embarrassed or reluctant to openly admit that to others (e.g. if she works in a high status job and needs to make sure people respect her), but away from prying eyes, she wants to be able to be her man's girl.

To make a woman feel like a feminine woman around you, it's important that you don't suppress your masculinity by putting on an act of being a really nice, sweet, extra polite guy or a neutral guy who has no sexual feelings for her.

Women want men to be more honest and ballsy, rather than putting on an act of being a non-sexual gentleman who just wants to get to know her slowly.

It's not 1905 anymore.

In today's world, sex happens all the time and usually very quickly. For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand.

So, while it might seem like the "right thing to do" to be neutral and extra nice around modern women, it's usually a recipe for disaster.

Watch this video to understand why putting on an act of being an even nicer guy than you really are, will often lead to rejection with modern women...

As you will discover from the video above, there is nothing wrong with being nice to women.

However, when a guy is way too nice to the point where he suppresses his masculinity and tries to come across as an extra polite, sweet, non-sexual guy, most modern women simply roll their eyes and reject him for using such an out-dated approach to dating.

What women are really looking for is a guy who isn't afraid to be real around her, but is also a good guy. He doesn't put on an act of being nicer than he actually is, but he is still a good guy.

Rather than lie and pretend like he just wants to be his friend, he has the balls to say, "You're sexy, I like you" shortly after they begin talking to each other.

He's not afraid to be real like that and women like it. They like it when a guy has the balls to be honest and show his sexual interest in a relaxed, confident manner.

4. Understand that she wants you to make her feel safe and protected, but to not go overboard.

Deep down, a woman does want to feel safe and protected by her man, but she doesn't want him to go overboard and treat her like a naïve child.

Most women are perfectly capable enough of getting by in life without the protection of a man. She has supermarkets at her disposal, she has a smartphone, there are police in place to protect her and she can earn her own money to support herself.

Life today is not like it used to be 100 or 200 years ago. Today's women have equal rights, they have power and they can get by in life without the direct protection of one man.

However, despite all that, a woman still wants to feel like her man has got her back and that he will remain emotionally strong no matter how challenging life gets for either of them.

He will continue to lead the way to a better life for both of them, even if she stumbles and falls along the way because she's not as emotionally strong or resilient as he is.

Making a woman feel safe and protected isn't about starring other guys down or beating up guys who look at her. It's simply about making sure that she can rely on you to be a confident, emotionally strong man no matter what happens.

5. Understand that she won't always think, feel and act the same way as other women do.

Some women like to be made to feel a lot more girly and feminine than others.

Some women are very career focused whereas others only study and work to kill time until they find a man who will impregnate them, marry them and let them be a stay at home mother.

Some women are afraid to fall in love, whereas others are fearless with love. Some women are insecure when they are in a relationship, whereas others are completely confident and secure in their attractiveness and value to a guy.

So, one of the keys of how to understand a woman is to understand that not all women are the same. You can't expect every woman to think, behave, feel and act in the same way. You've got to allow a woman to be her individual self and love and appreciate her for who she is, rather than expecting her to think, feel, behave and act like other women.

Understanding How a Woman's Attraction For a Man Really Works

One of the things that really annoys women is how the majority of guys don't understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works.

Most guys assume that women feel attracted to men for the exact same reasons that men feel attracted to women (i.e. physical appearance).

However, as you will discover from the video below, the majority of women feel attracted to men for reasons other than mere looks...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Why Are Women Such Bitches?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Recently, a guy contacted The Modern Man and asked, “Why are women such bitches?”

He went on to explain that he is a good guy and tries to talk to women, but they are always so cold and indifferent towards him.

To quote his e-mail, he said, “I approached a couple of women at a bar and after say hello and getting the conversation started, they then gave me the cold shoulder. When I tried to keep the conversation going, one of them told me to leave them alone because they were catching up and hadn’t seen each other in a while.

Why are women so cold to me like that? It’s not the first time it has happened. Most women I know through work or friends overlook me and go for other guys. I’m a good guy, so what is their problem?”

Can you guess what the problem is?

To me, it’s pretty simple because I went through that myself when I was struggling to get anywhere with women.

Here’s the problem...

The guy isn’t emotionally strong enough to handle the initial tests that some women put guys through.

[image: Women looking for a confident guy]

Some women are a lot easier to approach and talk to than others.

If a guy approaches a woman who is looking for a confident guy, she’s not going to be gentle with him and allow him to talk to her without passing some of her confidence tests first.

For example: She might be nice to him when he starts the conversation, but then begin to close off and act uninterested as the conversation progresses. She might stop contributing much to the conversation to see how he reacts.

If the guy reacts by becoming nervous and self-doubting and she can see that via his body language, she will immediately lose interest in talking to him because she’s looking for a confident guy.

To get him to go away, she might begin to act cold and disinterested and may even ask him to leave her alone.

She would rather reject him and get him away from her, than give him a chance to get to know her and potentially grow on her because she’s trying to find herself a confident guy, not an insecure guy who can’t even handle her initial tests.

If a guy can’t pass her initial confidence tests, then she knows that he’s most-likely not strong enough for a woman like her.

So, as you can see from this example, women aren’t cold, mean bitches who actively try to make men feel bad.

If a woman is bitchy towards a guy, it usually means that she is either testing him or trying to get her to leave her alone because she knows that he’s not emotionally strong enough for a woman like her.

Some women also adopt a bitchy attitude to hide their insecurities (e.g. if a woman is insecure about her attractiveness, she might act bitchy to get guys to be more respectful towards her) and in those cases, you should feel sorry for her, rather than hate on her.

So, if you are a guy who is wondering, â€œWhy are women such bitches?â€ the first thing you need to know is not all women are bitches and they don't always act bitchy.

If youâ€™ve had the misfortune of meeting a bitchy woman, don't assume that all women are like her. Most women are nice and are much easier to pick up than most guys realize.

How so?

The majority of women who I've picked up put on a bitchy, hard to get attitude at some point during the pick up process, but it didn't worry me.

I know that I have the ability to attract women and turn them on during a conversation, so I have nothing to worry about.

I know she is going to feel attracted to me and if she needs to pretend to play hard to get to feel better about herself, then she can do that, but I know that I'm going to sleep with her anyway.

Watch this video to understand how you can have the same power over women, regardless of whether they act bitchy or nice towards you when you meet them...

As you will discover from the video above, you actually have a lot of direct power and control over how much or little attraction and woman feels for you.

Don't fall for her act of playing hard to get. Just smile and know that she is feeling attracted to you and she will eventually drop the act and want to hook up with you.

How can you know that you're attracting her?

Simple.

There are many personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women to men. For example: If you are being confident, have a masculine vibe, make her feel girly in response to your masculinity, make her laugh and have some charisma, most women won't be able to stop themselves from feeling very attracted to you.

A woman might act like she isn't that interested, but if you're attracting her in those kind of ways, then she is going to be attracted and interested.

[image: Some women are easier to approach than others]

Her act is almost always going to be a typical confidence test that she needs to put you through before she feels satisfied that you are emotionally tough enough for a woman like her.

When Guys Get Rejected as Soon as They Approach...

As mentioned earlier, some women are much easier to approach and talk to than others.

However, if you approach women who are looking for a confident guy who knows how to turn them on, you need to get it right.

Here are some example reasons why a guy will get rejected as soon as he approaches a woman or group of women...

1. Approaching in a shy, nervous or anxious way

If a guy lacks self-confidence, he will often come across in a shy, nervous or anxious way when approaching and talking to women that he is attracted to.

He might be confident and relaxed when talking to unattractive women or women who are already in a relationship, but when he approaches and talks to women that he finds attractive, he can't stop himself from feeling shy, nervous and anxious.

Some women (usually unattractive women) will accept a shy guy, but the majority of women won't.

Why? Women are attracted the emotional strength of men and turned off by the weakness.

Why? Think about the world we live in. To survive, thrive and prosper, you usually need to be fairly tough emotionally.

Being an emotional wimp doesn't always mean that a guy won't be capable of being successful in modern life (e.g. he could work in I.T or accounting and do very well for himself), but women don't take that into account when feeling attraction.

Attraction is an automatic reaction to certain personality traits and behaviors that men display.

Essentially, if the humanity was forced back into basic survival, the more confident, alpha and emotionally strong guys would most-likely be able to survive, thrive and prosper as well as protect a woman.

Of course, this will probably never, ever happen, but that's not important to the human body and it's instincts.

A woman has the natural instinct to feel attracted to confident guys, not shy, nervous or anxious guys because her attraction is directly linked to her need to find a guy who would be a good survivor under any living conditions.

If a guy starts talking to her and is shy, nervous or anxious, it doesn't make her feel as though she would be safer and better off with him compared to a confident guy. So, rather than getting herself involved with him, she rejects him and waits to meet a guy who is emotionally stronger.

She may not be able to explain it that way, but her natural instincts will immediately say "Yes" or "No" when she assesses a guy's body language, vibe and conversation style during the first few seconds to a minute of an interaction.

If she is the type of woman who will not accept anything less than a confident guy, she will reject the shy guy and hope that he goes away and leaves her alone.

He might walk off thinking, "Why are women such bitches?! I'm a good guy! What is their problem?!" but I hope that you now understand what is really going on.

As you will discover from the video above, men and women feel attracted to each other in different ways.

While a woman can feel attracted to a guy's looks, the majority of women choose guys based on the inner qualities, personality traits and behaviors.

For example: If a guy approaches a woman and is confident, charismatic, has a masculine vibe and is able to get her laughing, she is going to be so much more attracted to him than a nervous, shy, anxious guy who is good looking.

Of course, some women (usually the unattractive ones) will accept a nervous good looking guy, but the majority of women will reject him or maybe only have a brief relationship with him.

If you want to be successful with women, you've got to be able to attract them with your personality, behavior and inner qualities. That is what really counts to the majority of women out there.

Yes, some women are shallow and will only accept a male model with loads of money, but the majority of women really do select guys based on how much attraction his personality, behavior and inner qualities (e.g. self-esteem, confidence, ability to love, good nature, etc) make her feel.

2. Putting on a nice guy act

There's nothing wrong with being nice to women, but when a guy puts on an act of being even nicer than he really is, women put their guard up immediately.

Think about it this way...

Have you ever met someone in person who was acting really nice to you, but you could tell that they really weren't that nice of a person. How could you tell? You could sense it.

You could see it in their body language, notice it in their vibe, pick up on it in their attitude and the way they spoke and moved.

Women can do that too.

In fact, women are usually even better at it than men. Women are hard-wired with natural instincts that help them filter out the fakers from the real men.

Some women do make mistakes and end up with bad guys who screw them over, but most women are very good at noticing when a guy is acting a lot nicer than he really is in the hope that he can impress her.

If a woman doesn't reject him immediately, she might allow him to suck up to her (e.g. give her lots of compliments, buy her drinks, do favors for her, etc), but when he finally reveals his interest in her, she will reject him.

He might then wonder, "Why are women such bitches?" because no matter how nice he is to women, they always seem to reject him in the end.

Why does that happen?

Watch this video to understand why being too nice to a woman will often result in rejection...

As you will learn from the video above, there is nothing wrong with being nice to a woman.

In fact, I recommend that guys be good guys and treat women well. However, if you put on an act of being even nicer than you are to hopefully be "liked" enough by a woman to be given a chance, then you're doing it wrong.

The shortcut to success with women is to trigger their feelings of sexual attraction for you. Once a woman feels attracted to you, she will then appreciate anything nice that you say or do for her.

However, without sexual attraction present, anything nice that you say or do for a woman will simply make her see you as a nice guy or as a guy who is trying to suck up to her and be liked.

3. Approaching her and putting on an act of being a gentleman who isn't interested in sex at all

Just like being too nice to a woman can backfire and lead to rejection, being too much of a gentlemen upfront can also be a reason for women to go cold.

Unlike women from the early 1900s, a woman today is in a world where she can buy her own things and support herself without a man. She can also have sex before marriage and not even get married if she doesn't want to.

[image: It's not 1900 anymore. Sex happens all the time now]

These days, some guys still hold on to the idea that the way to woo a woman is to â€œtreat her like a lady,â€œ which essentially means to not touch her, keep the conversation and vibe non-sexual and treat her like an innocent virgin would never have sex before marriage.

This approach would have worked 100 years ago, but itâ€™s only going to get a guy rejected by most women in todayâ€™s world.

Modern women are much more independent than in generations gone by and they donâ€™t want a man who acts (yes, he is acting because he isnâ€™t normally like that around friends) in an overly formal way around a woman.

He will make sure that he keeps his hands to himself and certainly never dream of kissing a girl without asking for her permission first. He will pull out a womanâ€™s chair, tell her that she has nice eyes (rather than being honest and saying, “You’re sexy, I like you”) and generally act like she is a woman from 1905.

Since 95% of guys who behave in this gentlemanly way believe that they are doing things the right way, they are going to say, â€œ*Why are women such bitches?*â€œ when they get rejected.

Women Are Much Easier to Pick Up Than You May Realize

[image: Most women are easier to pick up than they like to reveal to guys]

If you’re the sort of guy who thinks that women are bitches (don’t worry, I used to be like that too), then you simply don’t realize how easy most women are to pick up.

Women might put on an act as though they are so hard to get and so valuable, but most women are insecure about their attractiveness and simply looking for a confident guy who will respect them, love them and appreciate them.

Most guys assume that women think they are so damn good and that guys need to bow down at their feet.

Yet, a global study (conducted by Dove Cosmetics) that included 1,000s of women from around the world found that 96% of women do not consider themselves to be beautiful.

Crazy, right?

Well, it’s true.

[image: Women insecure about their looks]

Women know that they don’t look as good without make up as they do with make up. Guys might not remember to think that when they see a hot girl with make up, but she knows it.

She knows that when she puts on make up, she gets so much more compliments and attention because of all the paint that she has plastered all over her face.

[image: Women - with and without make up]

When she looks at herself in the mirror without make up, she knows that she has flaws and is not as perfect as guys think she is.

Yet, guys don’t get that.

Most guys treat her like she is so amazing and like they are so undeserving of her, especially when she paints her face (i.e. applies make up).

What these guys don't realize is that they can easily make her feel attracted to them and if they just have the confidence to stick with the interaction and pass her confidence tests, she will relax and open up to being with him.

So, don't waste anymore of your life thinking that women are bitches.

Most women are just nice people who are either a bit insecure (and acting bitchy to cover that up) or acting a little bitchy to test your confidence.

Smile, relax and let women see that you're not afraid of them and they will respect you and open up to you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Make a Good First Impression On a Girl

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

One of the first things that you need to know about making a good first impression on a girl is that she doesn't want you to worry too much about it.

Girls are attracted to guys who are confident in their sex appeal and attractiveness and who don't need to show off or put on an act of being really nice, polite and sweet to hopefully be "liked" enough by a girl.

Guys who worry about making a good first impression on a girl, often end up behaving in ways that actually turn her off.

[image: Rejected for making the wrong impression]

For example: A guy who tries too hard might put on an act of being a much nicer guy than he normally is, which will simply make him come across as untrustworthy.

He might also appear nervous and unsure of himself, which will also turn the girls off because they are attracted to a guy's confidence, not his self-doubt and insecurity.

There's nothing wrong with being nice to a girl, but being too nice to her (in the hope of being liked) will usually result in rejection.

Here's why...

As you will discover from the video above, when a guy focuses too much on trying to make a good impression by being nice and friendly, it usually won't make the girl feel anything more than friendly emotions around him.

So, before we go any further here, the main thing that we need to get clear on here is that you shouldn't be worrying so much about trying to make a good first impression on her.

When a girl sees that you are relaxed, confident and simply being yourself, she will be impressed and attracted.

Think about it...

If this girl that you like is attractive, then most guys that she meets will feel nervous around her and will try really hard to make a good first impression on her by being really nice, friendly and polite.

[image: Woman feeling bored by nice guy]

While she might appreciate the nice behavior, it isn't what is going to make her feel sexually turned on and eager to begin a relationship.

What she's looking for is a confident guy who isn't afraid to be himself, but who is also a good guy. Not just a good guy who is nervous and who is afraid to be himself around her.

She wants a good guy who is confident and is able to be his real self around her, without worrying so much about what she might think.

What Really Matters to Her

[image: What really matters to her]

What really matters is that you trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

When a girl is sexually attracted to you, she will then look at everything else about you in a more positive light.

For example: You can just say a few simple things and make her laugh once and she will think it's amazing.

You might have noticed that before when you saw a girl talking to a guy and she was gushing and giggling at pretty much everything he said or did, even though he wasn't saying or doing anything amazing.

That's the power of sexual attraction.

Watch this video to understand how a girl's attraction for a guy works and how you can use it to make the right kind of first impression on the girl that you like!|

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of control over how much or little attraction she will feel for you.

For example: If you are confident, charismatic and charming around her, she is going to feel so much more attraction for you than if you were nervous, anxious and too much of a nice guy around her.

Dress Well if You Want to, But Don't Waste Too Much Time Worrying About it

[image: Will this make a good first impression on her?]

No.

There's nothing wrong with wearing good clothes to make a good first impression, but it's not something that you should spend a lot of time worrying about at all.

As a guy, the way to approach fashion is simple: Wear good clothes and then forget about it. Don't worry about it, don't think about it and don't waste time talking about it.

Just put on some good clothes and then get on with being a confident guy who believes in himself. The confidence that you have in yourself is much more important to a girl than the shirt you are wearing.

When it comes to fashion, let girls be the girly ones who ask, "Does this look good on me?" and "What do you think of my shoes?" or "How does my butt look in these jeans?"

Apart from gay guys and guys who are serious about fashion, the rest of us men don't need to worry about it.

Just put on some good clothes and then stop thinking about it altogether. How? You have to know that the most important thing that a girl looks for in a guy is his inner qualities (e.g. confidence, charisma, determination to succeed in life, emotional masculinity, etc).

The clothes you wear and the way you style your hair is nothing more than window dressing that girls look at to assess you on a superficial level.

Yet, it's not what really counts.

For example: A guy can wear expensive, designer clothes, but if he is nervous, self-doubting and shy around girls, they aren't going to say, "WOW! I want to be with you because of your clothes!"

That's not how it works.

While she might like the clothes he is wearing and even give him a compliment about it, she's going to feel deeply turned off by his lack of confidence, so she won't be interested in him in a sexual, romantic way.

Always Be Your Real Self, Regardless of What She Might Think

[image: Be your real self]

Girls are attracted to guys who are not afraid to be their real self, regardless of what she might think. This isn't about rude, arrogant or disrespectful towards girls, but it's about embracing who you really are not being afraid to show that.

For example: If a guy is talking to a girl and he really likes football, but she then says that she hates football, he might then make the mistake of playing down his interest in football to hopefully avoid upsetting her.

He might then say that he doesn't really like football that much, but he watches it because there's not much else on TV.

When the girl then realizes that he is worried that she might not like him because he likes football and she doesn't, she loses respect for him because he can't even stick to who he is around her.

He's embarrassed that he's not living up to her girly standards and is worried that if she doesn't like something that he does, she will feel like they aren't a match.

So, how should he respond instead?

He needs to stand by his love of football and then, in an easy-going, positive manner, ask her something like, "Okay, if you don't like football, what other sport do you like, or what other things to do you like?" and talk to her about that.

He doesn't have to try to convince her to like football or play down his interest in it. He's allowed to love and enjoy whatever he wants and so is she.

He can be his real self and she can be her real self. When he allows both himself and her to be their true self around each other, it feels so much better to be around each other.

The unique dynamic of their two personalities coming together is much more special, interesting and magnetic than both of them feeling awkward and stifled around each other.

To feel relaxed and at ease in a guy's company, a girl needs to feel that she's with a guy who is confident and at ease with himself.

She doesn't want a guy who puts her on a pedestal and hangs on her every word, but a guy who is his own man with an opinion of his own, even if it goes against her opinion.

If they have the same opinion, then great, but if they don't, that isn't a problem either. It's just a difference of opinion, which is absolutely normal and expected between men and women.

A girl also doesn't want a guy who is so desperate to be liked by her that he becomes her personal "Mr Fix It" guy by making sure he's always at her beck and call to help her with her every need.

There's nothing wrong with being a helpful, good guy to a girl, but it does become a problem if the guy thinks that by being helpful, she will then reward him with sex, love and devotion.

Girls have sex with guys that make them feel sexually attracted and turned on. If the guy also happens to be a really nice guy or helpful, then it is seen as a bonus to her, but it's not even 100% necessary to have sex with her or begin a relationship.

The number one thing that you need to do is make her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you. Putting on an act of being an even nicer guy than you really are is not the way to make a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on.

What is a way to attract her and turn her on?

Where do I start!? You can attract and turn girls on in so many different ways...

For example: Be confident around her, use your masculinity to make her feel girly around you, be charismatic, make her laugh, etc.

Watch this video to understand how it works...

At The Modern Man, I teach guys how to attract girls in more than 100 different ways. You only have to be able to attract most girls in 5-10 ways and they will eager to kiss you, have sex with you and be your girlfriend.

However, when you have the ability to attract girls in more than just 10 ways during an interaction, you are pretty much a 9/10 to 10/10 guy to most girls.

It's very easy to do, so if you are serious about being able to make a good first impression on this girl you like, make sure that you focus on attracting her rather than getting her to like you as a person.

If you make the mistake of trying to get to know her slowly by being a friend, being really nice and pretending that you're not even interested in anything sexual, she won't be loyal to you.

All it will usually take for you to be replaced in a situation like that, is another guy to come along and make her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

She will then hook up with him and won't even feel bad for leaving you behind.

So, if you don't want to get rejected by new women or left behind by girls that you already know and like, make sure that you switch your focus to turning them on rather than trying to be a friendly, nice guy who doesn't even create a sexual vibe.

You deserve to have your choice of girls, but you will only get that when you are willing to start turning them on rather than trying to get them to like you enough to give you a chance.

Don't Worry About Always Trying to Say the Right Thing

Imagine this...

A guy attempts to strike up an interesting conversation with a girl that he really wants to make a good first impression on.

He's feeling nervous and doesn't want to risk saying the wrong thing to her so he sticks to safe, dull topics (e.g. "So, what to do you for work?" or "So, what are you studying?" and then replies with safe responses like, "Oh, nice" or "Oh, that's good.")

He's trying to be on his best behavior and avoid saying or doing anything that might let her know that heâ□□s got sex on his mind.

He just wants to be able to show her that he respects her and doesn't care if it takes weeks, months or years before they have sex. He's a nice guy and he doesn't expect anything sexual from her at all.

1-2 minutes later, another guy comes along who is confident and alpha and she instantly feels attracted to him. She smiles, giggles and begins to ignore the nice guy.

[image: Rejected for acting like he just wants to be her friend]

The nice guy thinks, "What? I'm being so nice to her! Why would she go with that guy? He's not as nice as me!" and feels confused and angry because he keeps hearing how girls want to be with a nice guy.

Standing there feeling the pain of being rejected, he takes a moment to watch what the confident guy is doing when talking to the girl.

He notices that the confident shows his sexual interest in conversation through flirting and innuendoâ□|and he doesnâ□□t keep his hands to himself. He touches her on the shoulder and then puts his hand behind her lower back and says, "Hey, let's go sit over there."

She goes with him.

The confident guy then builds up the sexual tension between them and then escalates the conversation into a kiss. An hour later, she leaves with him to go back to his place to have sex.

Meanwhile, the nice guy is left wondering why she chose the â□□bad boyâ□□ over him.

Yet, hereâ□□s the thing, heâ□□s not a bad boy.

Heâ□□s just a confident, alpha male who is secure in who he is and what heâ□□s got to offer a girl. So, rather than acting like a really nice guy who would never think of having sex with her, he just gets right to the point.

He makes her feel attracted to him, then expresses his sexual interest in her and when the moment is right, he makes a move to kiss her. After sex, they can then begin a relationship.

Approaching girls in that way is the easiest way to go from a conversation to kiss, sex and into a relationship.

You don't need to put on an act of being someone who really respects her and would never think of having sex with her.

Yes, respect her and be good to her, but damnit â□□ attract her and get to a kiss. Don't waste time trying to "get to know her" for hours, weeks or months.

Get to the point.

Attract her, express your sexual interest in her (e.g. "You're sexy, I like you") and then get to a first kiss. When you approach girls in that way, you don't have to worry about trying to make a good first impression on them by being a super nice guy or being Mr. Perfect.

If you don't make a girl feel attracted to you first and instead try to get her to like you, she will almost always play really hard to get. She will make you jump through endless hoops to eventually be able to hold her hand or kiss her.

Of course, that is if another guy doesn't come along and pick her up immediately.

So, if you want to get results with girls today, don't waste time trying to get to know them and showing them how nice, sweet and kind you are.

Be the good guy, but make sure that you put most of your attention and effort into making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you.

Once a girl is sexually attracted to you and turned on by you, everything else flows on naturally and effortlessly after that.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

She Says We're Just Friends. How to Change Her Mind

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If a woman says that you're just friends, it means that she doesn't feel enough attraction for you to justify having a sexual relationship.

For example: A woman will often say that to a guy who has been really friendly and nice to her, but hasn't done anything to make her feel sexually turned on.

There's nothing wrong with being friendly and nice to women, but if you are only making her feel friendly emotions, then it's not going to make her want anything other than a friendship.

Watch this video to understand why that happens and what you need to do instead to make her want to have a sexual relationship with you!|

As you will discover from the video above, there is a clear difference between a woman liking a guy as a nice friend and liking a guy in a sexual way.

Unfortunately, a lot of guys lack the confidence to make their intentions with a woman clear, so they start off by pretending to be a good friend in the hopes that, over time, she'll suddenly realize what a sweet, wonderful guy he is and then she'll want to have sex with him and be his girlfriend.

That's how it works in Hollywood movies, but it rarely happens that way in real life.

In real life, a guy can approach and talk to a woman and make her feel sexually turned on within seconds to a minute. He can then build on her attraction for him and she will become sexually interested in him, even though he hasn't spent anytime trying to get to know her as a friend.

A guy like that essentially takes the shortcut to a sexual relationship with a woman, which is something that you can do with this friend of yours if you are willing to start making her feel attracted to you.

Watch this video to understand how it works!|

As you will discover from the video above, you are in control over how much or little attraction you make this friend of yours feel.

From now on, this woman that you like will begin feeling sexually attracted to you because you are actively triggering those feelings in her, or she will remain "switched off" if only continue being a sweet, innocent, polite friend around her.

Starting Off as Friends

[image: Starting off as friends]

It sounds like a good idea to start off getting to know a woman as a friend, before you finally reveal your "feelings" to her, but it's not.

Why?

Being friendly doesn't make a woman feel lust and desire to have sex and if a guy wastes time acting like he wants to be her friend, another guy can simply come along, make her feel attracted and proceed to a kiss, then sex and begin a relationship.

The friendly guy is then left behind and despite all the weeks or months of effort that he put into “getting to know her,” she turns her back on him in an instant because of her sexual desire for another guy.

Sexual desire is the most important thing to begin with, followed by a connection or “friendship.”

However, starting out as friends is almost always a horrible idea that has a high chance of ending up in a rejection.

[image: She says we're just friends but I think there's something more]

Guys who don't know how to attract women hope that she will develop feelings for him over time.

Then, somewhere down the line, he hints at wanting her in a sexual way and she says, “We’re just friends,” because nothing about his behavior has ever made her feel anything other than feelings of friendship.

The truth is, most women are pretty nice and don't really want to hurt a guy's feelings, especially when she considers that guy to be her friend.

So, instead of telling him directly that she's just not sexually attracted to him, she says, “We’re just friends,” in the hopes of letting him down easy.

Almost all women don't ever want to be put in a position where they have to teach a guy how to attract them. For example: She's not going to say, “Hey, you're only being nice to me. You have to be more confident, put me in my place when I'm being bitchy or demanding too much of you, flirt with me, touch me and get me trying to impress you.”

Instead, she will just accept that the guy doesn't know how to attract women and hook up with a guy who does. If she had to take on the role of teaching a clueless guy, the relationship would be more like a teacher>student or big sister>little brother relationship, which would destroy her feelings of respect and attraction for him.

The type of relationship that a woman wants is a girl>guy or woman>man, relationship. She wants to be able to look up to and respect her man, rather than feel as though she has to teach him how to be a man.

When You Make Her Feel Sexually Attracted, She Will Look at You Differently

If the woman you like has dropped a bomb on you by saying that she only sees you as her friend, you might be feeling discouraged and even hopeless right now.

You may even be thinking, “Well, if she says we’re just friends, there’s probably no way to make her change how she feels about me.”

Yet, there is.

You really can make her change her mind and see you as the guy that she wants to be in a sexual, romantic relationship with.

Although her feelings for you may be purely platonic right now, when you make her feel sexual attraction for you, she will naturally start seeing you in a different light.

She will smile and look at you differently. Something about you will change and she will be liking it. She won't be able to keep her eyes off of you. Why? You will have triggered her sexual desire, which is the most important thing that you need to do if you want a woman to want more than just a friendship with you.

Human feelings are not set in stone forever.

Feelings can change.

Throughout your life, your feelings for certain people have changed all the time, true?

For example: There might have been a person at work or university who really annoyed you, but over time their attitude and behavior changed and so did your feelings towards them.

Perhaps you met someone at a party and didn't seem to like them, but once you encountered them in a different setting where their behavior was different (e.g. at work, at a friend's place), you discovered that you actually did like them.

The same applies to this woman that you like.

Although, right now, your behavior and attitude towards her makes her see you as a friend, when you change your approach and begin to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction for you, she will naturally stop seeing you as her friend and start seeing you as the guy wants to be with.

However, that's not going to happen if you keep making the same mistakes you've been making up to this point!

3 Common Mistakes Guys Make That Keep Them in the Friend Zone With Women

By the time a guy like this makes his move on the woman he likes, he has already been making these classic mistakes.

1. Being a super helpful friend.

It's only natural that when you want to be a good friend to someone, you will try hard to make yourself available to them whenever they need you. If a friend needs your help, you will be there for them and it's a very honorable and admirable thing to do.

Yet, it isn't a good strategy to use when you're attempting to make a woman your girlfriend, especially if you're not saying or doing anything to spark her feelings of sexual desire for you.

A guy who becomes a woman's Happy Little Helper will be secretly hoping that if he helps her enough (e.g. helping her with a difficult task or project, running errands for her, chatting for hours on the phone with her, etc) the more likely she is going to feel that she can't be without him in her life.

He hopes that she will feel as though, without him, her life would be a mess, so she simply HAS TO get into a relationship with him.

Sadly, that's not what she's going to be thinking.

Instead, she's going to be thinking, "What a sweet guy. I'm so glad he's my friend. Hmmm! I think I'll give him a call and ask him which dress he thinks I look best in for my date with that sexy, guy I met last night."

When a guy is available 24/7 for a woman, it can suggest to her that he has nothing else going on in his life other than being there for her.

Although that might be flattering to a girl because it makes her feel good about herself, itâ€™s not exactly going to make her feel sexually attracted to him. Why?

A woman wants to know that the man she gives herself to (sexually and emotionally) can easily attract other women, but has chosen her instead.

Thatâ€™s exciting for her.

Women refer to guys like that as being a “challenge” to win over and here is why they prefer guys like that over guys who are eager to be a Happy Little Helper Boy who hopefully gets a chance with her...

As you will discover from the video above, the woman you like is probably sick and tired of how easy 95% of guys are to attract.

She doesnâ€™t want to reward a guy with sex, love and devotion just because he is being nice and friendly towards her. Pretty much EVERY clueless guy she meets does that to her.

When you can stop using the fake friend approach with her and instead be real and start creating a sexual vibe with her, she will then respect your authenticity and feel attracted to your ability to turn her on.

Women instinctively know that Happy Little Helper boys are great to keep around as a friend, but will most-likely end up becoming too clingy or needy in a relationship.

Why? Guys like that have no idea how to attract women. They go through like kissing up to women and trying to be “liked” for being such a nice, friendly, supportive, generous guy.

Yet, that is not what turns women on.

So, when a guy like that finally gets lucky and manages to get a girlfriend, he will struggle to remain confident when she tests him later on in a relationship.

How will she test him?

Almost all women test a guy’s confidence in a relationship (e.g. by being less affectionate, not replying to his texts as quick as she used to, cancelling on dates, talking about other guys who like her, etc) to see how he will react.

If he becomes insecure, clingy and angry at her, she knows that she has gotten herself mixed up with an emotionally weak man who needs her for his emotional security and sense of identity.

However, if he remains confident and simply continues on with the relationship as per normal, her respect and attraction for him will deepen.

Here’s the thingâ€¦

Women won’t go around telling guys exactly why they are rejecting them though. Instead, she will say things like, “We’re just friends” or “I don’t want to ruin our friendship” and hope that he gets the hint.

She’s not going to waste her time trying to teach a guy the complexities of how to be an emotionally strong man for her. Instead, she will simply wait to meet a more confident, capable guy and hook up with him instead.

2. Behaving like â€œone of the girlsâ€œ around her.

If a guy behaves like â€œone of the girlsâ€œ with the woman he likes (e.g. by gossiping with her and talking about “girly” things like clothes, shoes or dating, being her shoulder to cry on when a guy dumps her, saying “OMG!” like a girl would, giggling like a girl, etc) he then shouldn’t be surprised when she treats him like “one of the girls.”

In other words, it shouldn’t be a shock to him when she says that they are just friends because he is just acting like one her girlfriends would. He’s not saying or doing anything to turn her on and make her feel sexually attracted to him.

Instinctively, a woman knows that a real man wouldn’t waste his time gossiping like girls do because he’s going to be focused on rising through the levels of life and pursuing his biggest dreams, goals and ambitions in life.

A real man also isn’t going to want to gossip like girls do because he will think, feel, behave and act like a masculine man. He will know that women are naturally attracted to the masculinity of men, so he won’t make the mistake of acting like a girl to hopefully fit in with her and her friends.

There’s nothing wrong with a guy talking on the phone to a woman he likes, but he shouldn’t make the mistake of behaving like another one of her girlfriends by gossiping about people or discussing guys who are interested in her.

3. Being too much of a nice guy.

There’s nothing wrong with being a good guy around women. In fact, I recommend it.

However, where guys mess up is in thinking that being really nice to a woman all the time will be enough to trigger her feelings of love and attraction for him.

For example: He might be very polite around her, never flirt or use humor to create attraction between him and her and essentially treat her like an innocent woman who would never have sex before marriage.

In his mind, he is showing her that he is a nice guy, he respects her and he has good intentions with her. He believes that if he puts on that show for long enough, she will wake up to the fact that she’s actually madly in love with him.

Before falling asleep at night, he will get excited as he imagines having sex with her and will be hoping that if he can just show her how nice of a guy he is, she will eventually realize that he is the guy for her.

She will say, “Wow! Why have I been dating all these jerks and assholes? The perfect guy has been in front of me all along. I’m so stupid!”

Yeah, go and watch a Hollywood movie if you want to see reality play out like that.

[image: When will she realize that I'm the guy for her?]

In the real world, women hook up with guys who make them feel sexually attracted and turned on. If the guy also happens to be a really good guy, then that is seen as a bonus to her.

However, as you would have seen, most women will hook up with guys who don’t even treat them well, simply because the guy is making her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

For example: He is being confident, flirting with her, making her feel girly in response to his masculinity, etc.

The woman would prefer to have a good guy who could make her feel attracted in those ways, but such guys are almost always taken by other women.

So, she has to settle for the remaining types of guys who might not be good guys, but at least make her feel attracted and turned on.

Here's the thing...

If you're too nice to a woman and don't say or do anything to turn her on sexually, she might consider you as "friend material", but she's not going to consider you to be boyfriend material.

There's nothing wrong with being nice, but if you're saying or doing anything to make her feel sexually attracted to you, then you can't expect her to have those types of feelings for you.

Making Her See You as More Than "Just a Friend"

[image: Making her see you as more than just a friend]

To make her want you as a lover boyfriend, you need to show her, through your behavior and actions, that you do have the sexually attractive qualities she's looking for in a man.

For example: Women are instinctively attracted to men who are masculine, confident and who know how to make them feel like a real woman.

Most women wait for a guy to trigger their feelings of attraction and if he is unable to do that, she simply categorizes him as a friend and then remains open to meeting a guy who can make her feel attracted and turned on.

Up until now, you've been making this woman see you as a friend, but you can change that.

By changing your behavior towards her and actively triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you, you can turn her feelings of friendship for you into feelings of sexual desire.

Then she will be the one chasing you and hoping to get a chance with you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Should a Guy Make the First Move?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a guy asks, “Should a guy make the first move?” he might be hoping the answer is something unexpected like, “No, women have to make the first move. So relax, sit back and a beautiful woman will guide you from a conversation to a kiss, sex and into a relationship.”

Ahh, wouldn't that be nice?

If women made the first move, we men wouldn't have to do anything to impress women or get them to have sex with us.

We could just sit back and let women seduce us into having sex.

Wake up, wake up!

Although that would be a nice world to live in, it's not the world that we live in.

Why?

Women are instinctively attracted to men who have the balls to make a move and go after what they want. If women rewarded shy, fearful, insecure, self-doubting men with sex, the human race would gradually lose its strength.

Generation after generation, women would reward wimpy guys with sex and their genes and insecure ways of thinking would spread throughout the human race.

In the real world that you live in, women are programmed to respond to men who have the confidence to make a move and the social intelligence to know when to do it.

For example: If a guy just starts talking to a woman and immediately tries to kiss her, he definitely has the confidence to make a move, but he lacks the social intelligence to know when he should be making that move.

However, if a guy talks to a woman, makes her feel attracted to him (e.g. by making her laugh, being confident, being charismatic, having a masculine vibe that makes her feel girly, etc) and then makes a move at the right time, the woman will instinctively feel attracted to his overall package.

She will feel as though he has the social intelligence to make women feel attracted, the confidence to make a move and the awareness of when to make a move.

Instinctively, a woman will feel as though it's better to breed with a guy like that than have sex with a nervous guy who is clueless about whether or not he should make a move.

Even though a nervous, clueless guy might be able to succeed at work in the modern world and provide her with a comfortable lifestyle, he still lacks the all-important inner qualities that women are programmed to breed into the human race.

Although a shy, nervous, insecure guy might feel like he deserves her because he is a good guy, she will instinctively feel turned off by his lack of confidence and awareness of how to naturally guide a woman to sex.

Most Women Would Rather Miss Out on Being With a Guy

Than Have to Approach Him

Even if a woman really likes a guy and hopes to meet him and possibly date him, she will usually avoid making the first move by approaching him and hitting on him.

Naturally, this isn't true for every woman. There are women who will make the first move on a guy, but in most cases this is because:

1. The guy is really good looking and she wants to get him before another woman beats her to it.
2. She is really drunk and doesn't care what he or anyone else thinks about her approaching first.
3. She isn't very attractive and knows that if she doesn't make the first move, no decent guy is going to hit on her first.
4. She is a feminist who has chosen to reject her femininity in favor of being more manly.
5. She is approaching on behalf of a friend who likes him.
6. They have mutual friends, so she feels like she has an excuse to approach him first.

However, in almost all other circumstances, an attractive woman will avoid making the first move by approaching, because she doesn't want to take on the role of being the man and having to guide him from a conversation to a kiss and into a sexual relationship.

If a woman has to take the lead by making the first move, the natural spark of sexual attraction (that is created when there is a clearly defined masculine/feminine dynamic between a man and woman when they first meet) will be lost.

Just like two magnets are attracted by their opposite poles (positive and negative) and repelled by like poles (positive and positive, or negative and negative), so too will a feminine woman feel sexually attracted to a masculine man.

One of the easiest ways to attract a woman with your masculinity is to have the balls to make a move. If a woman senses that you are afraid, then it's like putting two positive magnets together; they are repelled by each other rather than attracted.

You have to be the man and let her be the woman. If you can do that for women, you will see that they are instinctively attracted to you and willing to be sexual with you.

When a guy makes the first move by walking up and starting a conversation with a woman, it is a signal to her that he is probably a confident, masculine man who will naturally make her feel girly and feminine around him.

With the seemingly insignificant action of approaching a woman with confidence, he automatically begins to create attraction between him and her. It happens naturally and automatically without him having to do anything other than approach in a confident manner.

Yet, if a woman has to be the one to make the first move, she will never be 100% sure that he would have been confident enough to approach her if she hadn't initiated the interaction between them in the first place.

So, rather than risk rewarding an insecure, nervous, self-doubting guy with sex and potentially a relationship, most women would rather wait for a guy who has the balls to make the first move by approaching.

[image: She doesn't want to have to make the first move]

If a woman notices that a guy is afraid to approach her or make a move on her during a conversation, she is left to ask herself things like, â€œIf he is too afraid to make a move, what else will he be afraid to do in his life? Will he have the courage to strive for, and achieve his goals in life, or will he hide from his true potential because heâ€™s afraid to take a chance?â€

Are You Worried That She Isn't Interested and Will Reject Your Attempts to Make the First Move?

Often, guys who try to avoid making the first move, usually have the wrong idea about what women are REALLY attracted to in men.

Since most men decide whether or not theyâ€™d have sex with a woman in a fraction of a second based on how good she looks, they assume that women use the same criteria to choose men.

In other words, when a guy is worried about making the first move, he's usually thinking, “Would she be interested in a guy like me? Am I good looking enough? She's beautiful, so why would she want a guy like me to approach her or kiss her? She could easily get herself a male model or a billionaire for a boyfriend, so why would she want me?”

Doubting themselves in that way is one of the main reasons why so many guys end up being paralyzed by fear when it comes to approaching women.

They make up excuses about why women would like them to make a first move and then become paralyzed with anxiety and fear, to the point where they can't work up the courage to approach or move in for a kiss.

Watch this video to hear some of the excuses that guys come up with and you will then discover the REAL reason why they fail with womenâ€

Think about the last time that you let fear stop you from making the first move on a woman you liked.

Instead of walking up to her and starting a conversation, did you allow your mind to cycle through any of these excuses?

- Iâ€™m not that good looking, so why would she want to talk to me?
- She'll probably reject me, so what's the point? I'm not good looking enough for her.
- Women like guys with big muscles. Iâ€™m too skinny/fat, so why would she be attracted to me?
- Women like rich guys. I donâ€™t have a lot of money, so I canâ€™t buy her expensive gifts or take her out to fancy restaurants.
- Women like tall guys. I'm not very tall/I'm short, so she wouldn't want me to make a move on her anyway. I'll just get rejected, so there's no point even trying.

Here's the thingâ€

For a woman to feel sexually attracted to a guy, she needs to first interact with him to experience his personality and assess his inner qualities.

That is what matters to most women, not looks.

Yes, a woman will sometimes look at a good looking guy and say, â€œWow, he's so handsome,â€ but she can then lose interest in him if she realizes that he isn't confident, and the first sign of a man's confidence is whether or not he approaches her and makes the first move.

Of course, some women are shallow and only care about a guy's physical appearance or money, but the majority of women in this world are much more interested and attracted to a guy's personality, confidence and inner qualities.

Most Women Are Attracted to Men For Reasons Other Than Looks and Money

If a guy pays too much attention to what goes on in movies, TV sitcoms, talk shows, music videos, etc., the general messages he'll be getting is that he has to look like a supermodel, be a millionaire and live a luxury lifestyle to be good enough for attractive women.

This puts a lot of good guys off making the first move on women, because they simply don't feel like they're good enough for the women they find attractive.

What he doesn't realize is that most women are MUCH EASIER to pick up than they claim to be.

Most women will go around saying that they only want a handsome billionaire with a massive penis, but the majority of guys do not fit into that category and still manage to have sex with, get into relationships with and marry those women.

If you want to be successful with women, you have to stop believing the crap that you see on TV and that you hear women say. It will confuse you, make you feel insecure and put you off making a move on women.

What you need to understand is that most women are attracted to things about men that cannot be seen, but can be experienced during an interaction.

For example:

1. Confidence

[image: Confidence while talking to women]

Confidence is the most important thing that a woman looks for in a man. If a guy can walk up to her and make the first move in a confident way, she will feel attraction for him and will be open to having a conversation with him.

He can then make her feel more attracted by making her laugh, flirting with her, making her feel girly in response to his masculine vibe and by being charismatic and charming.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works!

As you will discover from the video above, displaying confidence is just one of the ways that you can make a woman feel attracted to you.

The more ways that you are able to make a woman feel attracted to your personality and inner qualities, the more attractive you will be.

Most women only need to feel attracted to 5-10 personality traits and inner qualities to feel like it's a good idea to kiss you, have sex with you and get into a relationship with you.

2. Masculinity

These days, a lot of guys have been brainwashed by the media and by women into thinking, behaving and feeling like more of a woman than a man.

For example: A guy will talk to a woman he likes and rather than being his natural, masculine self, he will suppress his masculinity to be nice, friendly, neutral and extra respectful towards her.

There's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, as long as you do not suppress your masculinity while doing so.

Watch this video to understand whyâ€¦|

As you will discover from the video above, being nice to a woman is a good thing as long as you are also making her feel attracted.

One of the easiest ways to make a woman feel naturally attracted to you, is to not suppress your masculine vibe, feelings, thinking, behavior and attitude around her.

Rather than suppressing your masculinity to be a soft, nice guy, you should embrace your masculinity and be a strong, good guy. When you do that, she will naturally feel attracted and turned on by you.

Making the first move on a woman is another way of expressing your masculinity. A woman will often refer to this as being "swept off her feet" by a real man who is masculine enough to allow to relax into being a feminine woman.

On the other hand, when a man sits on the sidelines and waits for the woman to sweep him off his feet, he is literally robbing her of the exciting experience of feeling feminine in response to his masculinity.

3.Â Approach to life

A manâ€™s approach to life starts with his ability to make a move and take action when he sees a great opportunity in front of him.

If he is the kind of guy who allows his fear and self-doubt to control him, chances are high that he will waste most of his life hiding from his true potential as a man as well.

By approaching a woman or making a move to kiss her (after you've first made her feel attracted to you), you are demonstrating to her that you're the type of "go getter" guy who has a higher chance of living a great life compared to a scared, fearful guy who is afraid to make a move.

Make Her Feel Lucky to Be Chosen By You

[image: Make her feel lucky to be chosen by you]

If youâ€™re asking, â€œShould a guy make the first move?â€ it could also be because youâ€™ve had some bad experiences with women in the past.

You might have tried making a move on a woman, only to have her reject you or even laugh at your suggestions of going on a date or starting a relationship.

This is what happened to a guy when he asked out a woman at work, only to have her turn around and call him STUPID for suggesting it.

Have a listen to his story here and you will discover what he did to turn his life around and get a hot girlfriendâ€¦|

https://s3.amazonaws.com/tmm_audio/johndatingpower.mp3

As you will discover by listening to the clip above, it's critically important to start off by making a woman feel attracted to you first, before you try to make any move on her (e.g. get a phone number, kiss her, etc).

The guy in the audio clip automatically attracted the girl he approached because he came across as being confident and masculine.

Even though he has a lisp when he talks, wears glasses and isn't very good looking, he was still able to get a hot girlfriend by attracting her in OTHER ways.

If you are the type of guy who is worried about making a move on a woman, it may be because you feel insecure about attractiveness and hope that if a woman approaches you first, she's less likely to reject you for not being good looking enough.

Yet, if you don't know how to attract her when she approaches, you're probably not going to get anywhere with her.

If you want to have your choice of women or be able to effortlessly go from a conversation to kiss, to sex and into a relationship, you need to make women feel attracted to your personality and inner qualities and then have the confidence to make a move when you see a great opportunity in front of you.

Not all women will make it completely obvious that they want you to make a move though.

For example:

Even if a woman feels a lot of attraction for you and is hoping that you make a move, she might respond in one of the following ways:

- Pretend that she's not very interested, as a way of testing your confidence.
- Pretend that she's not very interested, as a way of checking how interested you are in her and how willing you are to pursue her.
- Be interested in you, but not really know how to show you that other than to keep talking to you, texting you, etc in a friendly way.

So, if you like a woman and you want to make a move on her, don't waste time looking for 100% clear signals that she wants you to make a move.

You need to make her feel attracted and then have the confidence to make a move when the time is right.

If she rejects your attempts to make a move, just smile, remain confident and say in a light-hearted, easy-going way, "Well, I guess I misread your signals."

What then?

Remain confident.

If you have made her feel attracted to you, then she is attracted to you. Just because she didn't want you to make a move at the moment you did, it doesn't mean she won't want it 1 minute later or 1 hour later.

One of the most important parts of being successful with women is believing in yourself and moving forward from one step to the next.

If you need some help on how to make a move and avoid rejection, please click around my site and keep learning. All the answers and solutions that you need to succeed with women are right here, right now.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

7 Ways to Arouse a Woman

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Arousing a woman is easy.

A woman's attraction for a man is based on him displaying the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive and arousing to women.

If you display those traits and behaviors, the woman becomes aroused.

[image: Aroused and ready for a kiss]

It doesn't matter if the woman is 18, 28, 38 or 48 – there are certain personality traits and male behaviors that will be arousing to her.

[image: Ways to arouse a woman]

So, here are 7 ways to arouse a woman whether you are approaching a woman for the first time, on a date with her or in a long term relationship or marriage...

1. Have a masculine vibe

One of the easiest ways to arouse a woman is to make her feel girly and feminine in comparison to your masculine vibe and behavior around her.

If a guy is approaching a woman for the first time, he will have a more masculine vibe if he can be confident, calm and present in the moment.

Just like we men are naturally attracted to the feminine things about women (e.g. their tits, feminine facial features, hips, higher pitched voice, girly or feminine behavior or body language, etc), women are naturally attracted to the masculine things about us.

So, when you interact with a woman and have a masculine vibe, it makes her feel naturally attracted and aroused by you, as long you are letting her experience the full extent of your masculine vibe, rather than a suppressed version of it.

For example: Many guys suppress their masculine vibe to be more neutral and friendly around a woman and some guys suppress their masculine vibe so much that they end up coming across as feminine.

They then wonder why gay guys look at them and while very masculine women give them flirting glances. The guy is suppressing his masculinity so much that he naturally becomes attractive to gay guys (who think there might be a chance to seduce him) and unattractive masculine women who want a more feminine guy that they can control.

If you want to arouse a feminine woman (most women), you need to come across as being masculine and this applies whether you are approaching a woman for the first time, you're on a date or are in a long term relationship or marriage with her.

Your masculine vibe is the easiest way of making a woman feel attracted and aroused by you, so you should maintain that as at least the default thing that you do to be attractive to women.

2. Touch her with presence

For a man to be present, he can't be "in his head" and worrying about things.

He needs to be there in the moment and experiencing it without questioning himself or worrying about things.

When he can do that and just be present in his body rather than his head, he will present in a way that is attractive to women.

Presence is a way of demonstrating to a woman that you're a confident guy. It's one of the traits that is naturally attractive to women no matter where you are in the world.

Touching a woman with presence means that you're not all up in your head and worrying about whether she likes you or not. You're not wasting time over-thinking everything and worrying about what she is saying or doing in response to you.

You're just there in your body and are present and confident in the moment, which arousing for a woman to be around.

[image: Touch her with presence]

When a woman is touched by a man who is present it is highly arousing, compared to a guy who touches her when he is worried, nervous or anxious about getting rejected (i.e. when meeting new women) or turned down by her (i.e. when in a relationship and trying to initiate sex).

When a man touches a woman with presence it makes a woman feel aroused because it takes confidence to be able to interact with her in that way.

3. Be charming

Being charming essentially means that you make a woman feel attracted to you, while also being nice to her at the same time.

This is a lot different than just being a nice guy when you meet women, or being a good boyfriend or husband to your woman when in a relationship.

Charming behavior is arousing for women because they not only feel attracted to you, but they also feel as though you're respecting them and not only looking at them in a sexual way.

You see her as being special and she means something to you. Best of all, she sees you as special and you mean something to her because you are making her feel attracted to you, as well as being nice to her.

Being nice to a woman on its own is not enough to make her feel aroused. You have to make a woman feel attracted first and anything nice that you do on top of that is appreciated and seen as charming, lovable and endearing.

4. Very briefly brush your cheek, chin or nose against the side of her face as you whisper something in her ear

[image: Whisper in her ear]

This is a very easy and simple way to make a woman feel aroused.

If a guy is talking to a woman for the first time, he might say, “Hey, come here” and lean into her to whisper something in her ear.

As he begins to whisper something like, “Hey, I just wanted to whisper something in your ear, I’ve been talking to you for like 2-3 minutes and you haven’t even offered to buy me a drink, where’s your manners?” he will briefly brush the side of his face (or his chin/cheek/nose) against the side of her face in a soft, sensual way.

She will then smile and most-likely begin laughing and the guy will too.

She will feel aroused by the whisper and the physical contact of their faces brushing against each other, but she’s also going to feel attracted to him because he’s being funny and had the balls to say something like that to her.

If a man is in a relationship or marriage with a woman and is trying to arouse her to have sex, he can wait for a moment where they are laughing and smiling together on the couch.

He can then put his arm around her or just lean in and say, “Come here, I want to tell you something, I’ve got to whisper it” and then lean in, brush his face against hers and say, “You’re beautiful.”

After that, he shouldn’t expect anything from her other than a smile and some laughter. He should pull back, smile and look her in the eyes for a moment and then look away.

He needs to just relax and let her experience the arousal and then get on with whatever they were doing, without expecting her suddenly want to have sex.

She will be sitting there feeling attracted and slightly aroused and will be more likely to want to have sex that day or night.

5. Make her feel sexy in your eyes

Most women insecure about their physical appearance even though they act as though they are confident about it.

[image: Women insecure about their looks]

According to a study conducted by Dove Cosmetics, 96% of women don’t think they are beautiful.

So, it’s always important to make a woman feel sexy in your eyes. If you don’t, then all sorts of unnecessary problems will emerge.

When approaching a woman for the first time: If a guy doesn’t make a woman feel sexy in his eyes, she will be insecure about what he really thinks of her. To make sure that he really likes her and finds her sexy, she will play hard to get and make him work for her attention. Yet, the more he does that, the more desperate he seems and the less she is attracted.

So, to cut through all the nonsense and insecure mind games, a guy needs to first make a woman feel attracted to him and when they have a good moment together (e.g. laughing, smiling), he needs to be direct and say, “You’re sexy, I like you.”

In a long term relationship or marriage: A woman will often avoid affection or sex if she doesn’t feel sexy and desirable in her boyfriend or husband’s eyes.

[image: Make her feel sexy in your eyes]

So, a man needs to make his girlfriend or wife feel like she is the sexiest woman on Earth in his eyes. When she feels sexy and appealing in his eyes, she is going to feel more comfortable to be affectionate and intimate without having to stress and worry about how she looks.

Always aim to make your woman feel as though she is the sexiest woman on Earth to you. There's nothing wrong with saying that other women are pretty or beautiful, but never say that they are prettier or sexier than her.

Making her feel sexy, appreciated and noticed is an importantÂ important to keeping a relationship together these days. It's very easy for a woman to use a dating app like Tinder or make an online dating profile and look for a new guy if her current guy doesn't make her feel noticed, sexy and appreciated.

Unlike women of the past who had to stick with a man for life because they couldn't earn their own money and it was shameful to get divorced, today's women can come and go as they please. To keep a relationship together in today's world, you've got to make sure that you take care of your relationship and don't take your woman for granted.

6. Smile and hold eye contact with a sexual vibe

Rather than just looking at a woman with a friendly, nice guy smile when you meet her or looking at your girlfriend or wife in a friendly, happy way, you need to add in the sexual element.

How?

Look at her as though she is sexy to you and maintaining that feeling in your mind and body, while you hold eye contact with her and smile.

If you are looking at a woman and thinking that she is sexy, it will come through in your body language and vibe. It will come through correctly and she will get it. She will understand what your smile means.

If you're meeting a woman for the first time, it will make her feel a bit shy and girly in response to your direct masculinity and she will likely smile and ask, "Whaaaat?"

You don't need to answer her question. She knows what is going on. Just wink at her, look away and smile.

If you're in a relationship or marriage, she will be used to your body language and she will know what it means. Let her feel the arousal that comes with that type of smile and don't expect anything else from it.

She will feel attracted and aroused by you as a result and the fact that you're not trying to get sex at that point will create sexual tension between you and her.

As you may know, sexual tension is released via kissing and sex. So, the more sexual tension you build up between you and a woman, the more desire she will have to release it with kissing and sex.

7. Display real confidence

Whether a woman looks at a guy from across a room or interacts with him in person on a date in when in a relationship, she can feel turned on if she sees that he is a truly confident man who is free of insecurities.

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

Insecurity (noun): Lack of confidence or assurance; self-doubt.

A truly confident man doesn't need to put on an act of being confident. He has absolute belief in himself and his abilities and doesn't need to hide behind insecurities.

Women are instinctively turned on by this because we live in a challenging world and it isn't always easy to survive, thrive and prosper.

While we men feel aroused by the healthy, youthful looking appearance of a woman, women feel aroused by our emotional strength.

Displaying the emotional strength of being confident applies whether are you attempting to arouse a woman that you've just met, are on a date with or are deep into a relationship with.

It's your inner qualities that turn her on the most now and in the long run.

These days, a lot of guys waste a big percentage of their life pumping iron in the gym and hoping that if they just build up enough muscle, they will be so physically attractive to women that women will approach them, seduce them into having sex and then remain attracted in a relationship.

That's not how it works.

Yes, muscles and a good body can be attractive to women, but we men can attract and arouse women with less effort simply by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women.

There's nothing wrong with staying in shape if you want to do that, but don't make the mistake of thinking that improving your physical appearance will solve all of your problems with women or with the woman you've already got.

The majority of women feel much more attraction and arousal based on how a guy's personality and behavior makes her feel, rather than whether or not he has big biceps or a toned stomach.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works and how you can use it to arouse a new woman you meet, or the woman you've been with for years...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Not Looking For Anything Serious. Why Do Women Say That?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If a woman says to a guy that she's not looking for anything serious, it can mean that:

- She's not feeling enough attraction for him and is only interested in sex, but she will keep her eyes open for other guys.
- He is coming on too strong with a relationship vibe, even though they haven't yet had sex.
- She is currently dating other guys and doesn't want to get into a serious relationship right now.
- She is playing hard to get because she wants to gain some power over the guy and make him work harder to impress her first.
- She is playing hard to get because she wants to use his desperation to get her into a relationship as a way to feel more confident about herself around other guys
- She is playing hard to get to be able to brag to her girlfriends that a guy is chasing her and won't give up.
- She knows that he doesn't have what it takes to keep her interested in a long term relationship.
- She is focused on her studies or work and doesn't want the distraction of a committed relationship right now.
- She doesn't want to get into an argument or create any drama by directly rejecting him, so she just says, "I'm not looking for anything serious right now" to let him down softly.

In other words, there can be many reasons why a woman will say that she's not looking for anything serious.

[image: Not looking for anything serious right now]

So, how can you get past it?

How can you get her to change her mind and decide that she wants to a serious relationship with you?

You've got to make her feel like she wants it more than you do. You've got to stop trying to convince her that she should get into a relationship with you and instead make her feel the type of respect, attraction and desire that she needs to feel before she will consider a relationship.

The Easy Way to Make a Woman Want to Have a Relationship With You

[image: The easy way to get a woman to want to have a relationship with you]

There are men (I'm one of them) who can instantly make a woman want to begin a sexual relationship and then become an exclusive couple, even if she had been telling other guys that she wasn't looking for anything serious.

How do guys like me do it?

Simple.

I make the woman feel sexually attracted and turned on, but then let her see that I'm not 100% sold on her yet.

She has to impress me further, before I will allow her to get a chance to be with me.

This is what women refer to as being a challenge and here is why they like it so muchâ□|

Have you ever seen a guy interacting with a woman and it was obvious they had instant chemistry?

The sparks between them started flying as soon as he started talking to her.

The woman was immediately laughing, giggling, flirting with him and touching him in suggestive ways and it was clear to both of them (as well as to those watching) that they were going to hook up sexually.

You may have watched them exchange phone numbers or start kissing and then leave together; obviously to begin a sexual relationship.

All this happened right away and it was clear that at no point during their interaction, did the guy have to convince her to like him.

He didn't have to waste time trying to get to know her. She was attracted to him and excited about potentially getting to be with him.

He wasn't trying hard to impress her and hope that she would choose him. He simply attracted her and then offered her the challenge that so many men deprive women of.

Guys Who Waste Time Trying to Get to Know a Woman First

[image: Guys who waste time trying to get to know women first]

Have you ever seen a guy talking to a woman for hours, or trying to get to know her over a period of weeks or months in the hope that she would eventually "like" him enough to give him a chance?

He was trying to get her to want a sexual relationship with him, but because he wasn't doing much (or anything) to make her feel sexually attracted to him, nothing happened between them other than a friendly banter.

In other words, he placed himself in the friend zone.

She didn't friend zone him; he did it.

He ACTED like he just wanted to be friends. In other words, he lied to her and pretended to just want to talk and hang out.

Awww...how cute.

Here's the thing though...

Women aren't stupid.

Women usually know when a guy is crushing on them and if the woman isn't feeling sexually attracted and turned on by him, she's not going to want to have sex with him or begin a relationship just because he's been nice to her.

Why?

Watch this video...

When a guy who has been acting like a friend eventually plucks up the courage to bring up the idea of a relationship, a woman will usually respond by saying something like, â□□I really like you and I think you are a great guy, but Iâ□□m not looking for anything serious.â□□

Why do women say that?

A woman will say she's not looking for anything serious, because there is no attraction between her and the guy.

He's just being a nice friend to her and expecting that he will be rewarded with boobies and sex because of it.

That's not how it works man.

Guys who lack experience with women often make the mistake of thinking that because a woman likes him as a person, she will then want to have sex with him and be in a relationship with him.

Yes, that's how it works in the movies and with unattractive women, but not with hot women in real life.

If a woman is attractive, pretty much every guy is going to want to have sex with her at least once. Many of those guys will also want to have a relationship with her.

Why?

Guys feel an instant attraction to a woman's looks and since most guys are starved for sex, they are usually ready and willing to bang any half decent woman around.

Women know this.

and it annoys them.

Here's why!

As you will discover from the video above, most guys that an attractive woman meets won't even know what to say or do to make her feel attracted and turned on.

They are just hoping to get lucky or be liked enough to be given a chance to be with her.

...and that is a huge opportunity for you.

When you are the guy who turns women on, you are the guy who doesn't hear the dreaded, "Sorry, I'm not looking for anything serious" or "Sorry, I'm not looking for a boyfriend right now."

Instead, you hear, "You're sexy...I like you" and your phone is bombarded with text messages and phone calls from women who want to see you.

Making Her Want it

[image: Making her want it]

A woman's desire to be in a relationship with you is based on your ability to make her feel the way that she wants to feel around a guy.

In other words, you need to make her feel attracted and turned on by you.

Some guys make the mistake of assuming that women are attracted to men for the exact same reasons that men are attracted to women.

So, when a woman says she's not looking for anything serious, the guy immediately assumes that it's because he isn't good looking enough for her.

Why do guys think that?

Men are mostly attracted to women because of how they look, which is why men have always jerked off to porn.

Guys don't need to get to know the woman first and find out what her personality is like. Just the look of her butt, tits, pussy or face is enough to get a rock hard boner.

"Ooh, look at those tits."

It's instant for us. Physical attraction is usually more than enough for most guys to be willing to have sex with a woman.

Most guys decide "Yes" or "No" instantly when they see a woman, but almost all women (I'd estimate about 95%) do not operate in the same way.

The more beautiful a woman is, the more likely a guy will want to have sex with her and will want to be in a relationship with her—even if she's not very intelligent and doesn't have a good job.

On the other hand, although a woman can initially feel attraction for a man's looks, in most cases, her attraction for him will switch off if he can't actively turn her on when he interacts with her...even if he's a supermodel hunk.

Why?

Women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in a man.

It really isn't all about looks, like it is for us when we feel attracted to women.

While a man will choose a woman mostly because of her good looks, a woman will be attracted to him for a variety of different reasons that have nothing to do with his looks (e.g. his ability to make her laugh, his confidence, his masculinity, his social intelligence, etc).

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man REALLY works and how you can use it to your advantage from now on!

As you will discover from the video above, most women have what I call an Open Type, which means that they are open to feeling attracted to all different types of guys.

Most women do not select men based on looks, money, social status and penis size. Instead, they select men based on how much attraction his personality and inner qualities make her feel.

Where Guys Go Wrong With Modern Women

Modern women don't view sex and relationships like their more conservative and oppressed predecessors.

Today, a woman doesn't have to stay a virgin until her wedding night before she can have sex. She also doesn't have to settle on being with a man who doesn't make her feel any attraction, simply because he's her husband.

Today, if a woman is even moderately attractive, she can have her pick of men from bars, clubs, at work and via online dating and dating apps like Tinder.

This is why, unless a guy can make her feel a lot of attraction for him, she won't be worried about losing him and will keep shopping around until she finds the kind of man who makes her feel the way she wants to feel (i.e. excited, attracted, challenged, etc).

Where many guys go wrong with a woman they like is

1. They are too easily impressed by her.

[image: Too easily impressed by women]

Women know that all they really have to do to make a guy want them is to dress nicely, wear a short skirt, put on some makeup and basically just look pretty.

Without even trying, chances are, different guys will hit her on several times in a day or night just because she looks good.

So, when yet another horny guy comes along and says, “You’re so beautiful. You’re different from all the other women I’ve met. I really want to take you out on a date some time,” she responds by saying, “That’s sweet, but I’m not looking for anything serious.”

He’s essentially behaving like every other guy who’s approached her in the past. She knows that her looks have already done all the work for her and she doesn’t have to do ANYTHING else to impress him.

He wants her just because she looks good.

For her, this is boring.

There is no challenge, no excitement and no chemistry. She knows that he already likes her and chances are, no matter what she says or does (even if she’s a bit bitchy or acts dumb around him), he’s probably still going to want to have sex with her.

She realizes that a sexual courtship with him is going to play out in the same old boring way (i.e. the guy is attracted, takes her out on a date, tries to get her into a relationship, she feels bored by the lack of challenge, dumps him, he texts and calls her for weeks or months trying to get her to see him again, etc).

She doesn’t want to go through that over and over again with guys.

It’s just so typical.

The guy gets what he wants and she is just expected to go along for the ride because he is nice and he treats her well.

It’s not 1905 anymore though man.

Women can do their own thing. They can make their own money. They don’t need a man to pay for dates and wine and dine them to show that he can take care of them.

What you have to understand about today’s women is that they want to feel sexually attracted to you first.

Even though women don’t admit it to others, they start relationships by having sex first and then seeing how they feel.

For example: A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women admitted to having experienced a one night stand anymore.

In other words, have sex with her first and then take it from there. Stop trying to get her to commit to a serious relationship upfront.

A woman doesn’t want to feel as though you’re just another guy who can’t attract other women and are trying to lock a girl down in a relationship so you can finally feel good about yourself.

A woman wants to be with a man that can easily attract other women, but will have a relationship with her if she impresses him enough after sex.

Of course, this applies to attractive women, not unattractive women.

Unattractive women love it when a guy gets serious about wanting a relationship before sex. Hot girls hate it.

2. They lack self confidence around attractive women.

One of the most important qualities that women are attracted to in men is confidence. Yet, the one quality that most men lack (especially around beautiful women) is confidence!

Being confident and having high self-esteem is not about being arrogant or being a jerk, but rather it is about having belief in yourself and your abilities.

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

Insecurity (noun): Lack of confidence or assurance; self-doubt.

Confidence in your attractiveness and appeal to her is so damn important.

You've got to believe that you are good enough for her.

When a guy doesn't believe that he is good enough for a woman, he will either be really nervous around her or act like he just wants to be friends with her, rather than letting her know right away that he finds her sexually attractive.

That's not to say a guy must be vulgar or crass (that's not a sign that he's confident, just that he's sleazy and doesn't really know how to attract a woman), but he must be clear about what he wants.

For example: If a guy makes a woman feel attracted to him, he can then say to her, "You're sexy" or "I like you" to cut through the BS and get straight to the point.

She is attracted to him and he is attracted to her, so there is no need for games now.

Yet, some guys don't have enough confidence in themselves to feel like it's okay to say that.

So, what will a guy like that do instead?

He will hope that if he's nice enough to her she will eventually end up liking him, which will then lead to her feeling sexually attracted to him and wanting to be his girlfriend.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is that liking someone is not the same as feeling intense sexual desire for them.

You Can Change a Woman's Mind About Not Wanting Anything Serious

You may have started out today thinking, "What do women mean when they say that they're not looking for anything serious?" and feeling like it will next to impossible to get this woman that you like to feel the same way as you do.

Hopefully now you realize that the amount attraction and desire that she feels for you is pretty much within your control.

For example: If a guy is trying to be liked by a woman and hoping to get a chance with her, then he's not going to be making her feel much or any sexual desire.

However, if he switches his focus to making her feel sexually attracted (e.g. by being confident, making her feel girly in response to his masculinity, being charismatic, being a challenge, etc), that is when things will change.

She will go from not wanting anything serious, to wanting to have sex with him and then secure him into a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

My Wife Wants to Leave Me

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Most people go into marriage assuming that it's going to last forever.

It certainly feels that way on the wedding day anyway.

Yet, as you are most-likely aware, approximately 50% of marriages end in divorce these days.

Sometimes this happens because once married, a couple falls into a dull routine and forgets all about nurturing and growing the love, respect and attraction between each other.

[image: Letting the spark die in a marriage]

In most cases, when a husband finds himself saying, "My wife wants to leave me," it's because he has simply expected that the love, respect and attraction would stay alive for life because things felt so good at the start.

Either that, or he assumed that his wife would stick around for life because that's what they agreed to do on the wedding day.

Yet, that's just not how it works anymore.

In the past, a wife had to stick with her husband for life even if he mistreated her, because it was shameful to divorce. Unfortunately, that's not the case anymore and TV shows, movies and pop singers have made the idea of affairs, divorce and starting a new life almost seem like a cool thing to do.

In today's world, if you want to keep a relationship together, you have to build on the respect, attraction and love that your wife feels for you, rather than taking it for granted and expecting that she will stick around because you are married.

If a husband fails to do that, the wife may become tired of not feeling the way she wants to feel and, unlike in the past where a woman would stay in a marriage even if she felt unhappy for the sake of the children or to avoid the stigma of being divorced, she will leave or ask for a separation.

Of course, that's not to say that the problems in the marriage are solely the man's fault.

[image: It's not always the man's fault]

For example: If a wife isn't fully committed to being married, or is a woman of loose morals (i.e. she cheats, has affairs, flirts with other guys online, etc), then there is a high chance that she is going to destroy their relationship over time.

On the other hand, if a woman is fully committed to her marriage and is willing to do whatever it takes to make it work, then it's highly unlikely that the marriage will end in divorce.

Is Your Wife Committed to the Idea of Marriage?

Right now, if you're saying, "My wife wants to leave me," you're probably feeling hurt, betrayed and maybe even a little desperate.

You may, or may not, fully understand what is causing your wife to want to leave you, and you might even believe that there's nothing you can do to make her change her mind.

Luckily, thatâs not true.

To get your wife to change her mind, you need to go through a process of rebuilding her respect, attraction and love for you. When she experiences those renewed feelings of respect and attraction for you, she will then naturally open herself up to fully loving you again.

Watch this video to understand how it worksâ!

The video above is for men who have already been dumped by their woman, so be sure to use the advice now to fix things between you and her, rather than waiting and then having to fight to get her back after she leaves you.

If she does decide to leave you, don't make any of these mistakesâ!

As you will discover from the video above, your wife is only going to start taking you seriously if you are able to make her feel the way that she wants to feel.

The fact that you're a good man and are promising her that you will do better, is usually not going to be enough for her.

At this point in your marriage, she's probably heard you promise to change in the past, but you really didn't know how to do, so you just slipped back into your old ways.

Where Husbands Go Wrong

One of the biggest mistakes that husbands make when their wife wants to leave, is rushing to come up with a quick fix for the problems in their marriage, without first understanding what has caused the problems in the first place.

For example: If a wife has decided that she wants to leave her husband because she is sick and tired of him not being able to be the emotionally strong, masculine man that she needs, she isn't going to change her mind if her husband offers to take her on a vacation.

Getting out of the house and going on a vacation might be fun and she might even go along with it, but the real reason she wants to leave is that he still isn't able to be the type of man she wants emotionally (e.g. he's too insecure, jealous, emotionally sensitive, etc).

In that case, a husband offering to take his wife on vacation to fix the problems between them is like putting a Band-Aid over a severed artery and hoping that it will stop the bleeding.

So, before you say or do anything else around your wife, you first need to understand why she has stopped feeling respect, attraction and love for you as her man.

How can you find that out?

[image: Don't ask her to teach how to be a better husband]

Definitely not by asking her. Why?

Although some women will explain the reasons why they are no longer attracted to a man, most women (not all) will try to avoid doing so for one or more of the following reasons:

1. Instinctively, a woman wants to protect herself around a man. If she thinks that her man may potentially become angry and even aggressive (whether verbally or physically), she will choose the best way to let him down easily, to avoid putting herself in harms way.
2. Some women want to avoid seeing their man break down and either, beg, plead or cry and try to â€œguiltâ€ her into feeling sorry for him and changing her decision. She might also want to avoid having to listen to him make rushed apologies hoping that if heâ€™s sincere enough and promises her that heâ€™ll do whatever she asks him to do, it will be enough to change her mind.

3. Many women simply donâ€™t want to teach their man what he needs to do to get her back. If she has to â€œmotherâ€ him and then take on the role of being his teacher, she will fear that it will become a repetitive pattern in their relationship, where she will have to continually teach him how to be the man she needs and wants him to be.

Rather than explaining everything for you and teaching you how to get her respect back and re-attract her, most women will say things like, â€œI think weâ€™ve drifted apart,â€ or â€œI just donâ€™t love you like I did when we got married.â€

So, make sure that you take the time to learn what how a womanâ€™s attraction for a man really works and how you can use that to stop your wife from leaving you.

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of direction control over how much attraction you make your wife feel for you.

For example: If a husband is insecure, emotionally sensitive and takes his wife for granted, he will literally be destroying her feelings of respect and attraction for him as a man.

However, if a husband is confident, emotionally strong and makes his wife feel loved and appreciated, she will naturally feel respect and attraction for him.

Classic Mistakes to Avoid

There are many reasons why a wife will decide that she wants to leave her husband.

In some cases, the reasons are obvious (e.g. heâ€™s been having an affair, heâ€™s been physically or verbally abusive towards her, etc), while in other instances the reasons are a lot more subtle and harder to identify.

For exampleâ€¦

1. Taking her love, respect and attraction for granted.

This is probably the easiest thing to happen in a marriage.

Over time, work, bills, children, etc., can take on a bigger significance than the husband and wife relationship. Eventually, instead of taking the time to make his wife feel loved, valued and appreciated, a husband can easily fall into the habit of taking her for granted.

An example of this is when a husband and wife fall into a pattern where she must always do the dishes, household chores and take care of the children, while he takes charge of the cars and paying the bills.

While itâ€™s perfectly normal to divide duties in the household, thereâ€™s nothing stopping him from occasionally doing the dishes, or helping out with the chores or the children if she is busy, (just like thereâ€™s nothing wrong with her paying the bills or taking care of the cars if he is under a lot of pressure).

In this way, although thereâ€™s clearly a balance in the relationship dynamic where he is the man and she is the woman, he is still letting her know that he doesnâ€™t take what she does for granted and that he loves and appreciates her for it.

If he just assumes that she is there to serve him, she will end up feeling like a maid or a business partner in life.

She wants to feel like you and her are still in love. You love her and appreciate so much that you're willing to do nice things for her.

2. Not reaching for your true potential as a man.

When a woman gets married to a man, it's because she feels enough respect, attraction and love to commit to him.

In her eyes, he's a keeper and is worth committing to for life.

It's not so much about his looks, but rather his inner qualities (e.g. his confidence, mental and emotional strength, drive and ambition, etc), that make her feel attracted, safe and taken care of.

Yet, during the course of the marriage, if a guy stops behaving in all the ways that were attractive to her (e.g. he becomes needy and insecure, ends up stuck in a dead-end job because it's comfortable and pays the bills, etc), she will naturally start to question whether or not she will live her best life by staying with him.

A woman knows that life is often very challenging and it requires a man to have the mental and emotional strength to carry on and keep trying to create a better life for them both.

So, when a wife notices that her man keeps hiding from his true potential in life (i.e. he doesn't try to achieve his biggest dreams and ambitions and just settles for second, third or fourth best), she naturally feels turned off and resentful towards him.

You Can Make Her Change Her Mind

Even if your wife is currently saying, "It's too late. I don't love you anymore," it's not too late to change her mind.

Why? If there was real love between you and her in the past, then that love is still there in the background.

She is simply refusing to allow herself to connect with those feelings for you because she doesn't want to put herself in a position of being disappointed again if you don't change enough.

Once you can show your wife (via your actions, behavior, body language and the things you say) that you fully understand what caused her to want to leave you and are already changing those things, she will naturally start to re-connect with those feelings of respect, attraction and love that she's been blocking herself from feeling.

It's likely that before you read this article you were thinking, "My wife wants to leave me and there's nothing I can do to stop her," but as you can see, it's not impossible.

She just needs to feel respect and attraction for you again as her man, and the love will flow between you again.

Here's a video that I made for men who have already been dumped by their woman and are trying to get her back.

Watch this and you will understand that it's possible to change her mind now and it's also possible to get her back if she leaves you!

As you will discover from the video above, the love between you and your wife is not dead.

She's just not allowing herself to fully connect with it now because she currently feels as though you don't have the ability to change and improve in the ways she needs you to.

Yet, you do.

You can do this.

You can fix the issues between you and her, get her respect back, make her feel attracted to you again and when that happens, she will naturally reconnect with her feelings of love for you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

I Don't Understand Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Hey – Don't feel down on yourself for not understanding women.

Why?

Women don't understand everything about men either.

Both genders are confused about each other; so don't put all the blame on yourself.

If you want to understand what women really want from men and why they think and behave in the ways they do, watch this video...

As you will discover from the video above, many other intelligent, successful men don't understand women as well.

It's not just you.

In fact, if you watch the entire video above, you will know more about women than most guys will figure out before they reach 50 or 60 years old.

Why Women Reject Nice Guys

[image: Rejected for being a nice gentleman]

One of the strangest things that guys struggle to understand is why women claim to want a nice guy, but they then reject guys who are very nice to them.

I mean, if she wants a nice guy, then she will be happy if a guy is really nice to her, right?

Wrong.

Here's why...

As you will discover from the video above, women don't reject guys for being nice; they reject guys who don't make them feel much or any attraction.

A typical nice guy who has no idea how to make a woman feel attracted and turned on, will be really nice to a woman and expect that it will be enough for her to "give him a chance."

That's not how it works.

Why?

Pretty much any guy can put on an act of being nice, but that doesn't mean he will be nice to her later on in a relationship. It also doesn't mean that he is going to be able to survive, thrive and prosper in this world.

It just means that he's nice.

...and anyone can be nice for a while if they want something.

Women know this.

Women know that most guys are willing to put on an act of being nicer and more generous than they actually are, in the hope of getting some action.

Yet, women see right through and reject them because the nice guy won't be doing anything to make her feel attracted and turned on sexually. He will just be nice, polite, respectful and friendly towards her.

He will then be shocked when he sees her hook up with a guy who doesn't waste any time putting on a nice guy act and simply makes her feel attracted, kisses her and then hooks up with her.

Do you know how to make a woman feel attracted to you?

Watch this video to find out...

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of direct control and influence over how much attraction a woman feels for you.

For example: If a guy interacts with a woman and displays signs of nervousness, low self-esteem and also puts on a nice guy act, she will feel turned off by him.

Why? Women are attracted to the emotional strength of men (e.g. confidence, high self-esteem, etc) and turned off by the weakness. So, when she senses that he lacks confidence, is nervous and has low self-esteem, she will naturally feel turned off by him.

If she also notices that he is putting on an act of being nicer than he actually is, she will put her guard up and won't be able to relax around him because she doesn't fully trust him.

The Guy With a Lot of Female Friends, But No Girlfriend

[image: Why don't my female friends want me in a sexual way?]

I've been helping guys to become more successful with women for more than 10 years now.

Over the years, I've found that approximately 30% of guys have a lot of female friends, but still can't manage to get laid or get a girlfriend.

Here's an example (the name and some details have been changed for privacy):

Tom's Story

Tom had plenty of close female friends that he'd known for several years, but he struggled to get himself a girlfriend.

His female friends always said things like, "You're such a nice guy Tom...any girl would be lucky to have you as their boyfriend," but none of them showed any sexual interest in him at all.

When he tried to ask one of them out on a date, he would get excuses like:

- I'd rather remain good friends.
- I don't want to ruin our friendship.
- Don't be silly. You and I could never be a couple.
- I see you as more of a brother than anything else.

Despite the rejections from women that he was close with, Tom decided that he would continue being the "good friend" that he'd always been because he felt being friends with a girl he really liked was better than not having her in his life at all.

Secretly, he was hoping that one day, one of these women would eventually come to realize that he was the guy she'd been looking for all along and fall madly in love with him.

Sure, it works like that in the movies and with unattractive women or with women who are old and no longer wanted by other guys, but all other types of women simply hook up with a guy who is able to make them feel attracted, rather than just be a friend.

So, what was Tom's mistake?

He was essentially being too nice.

When listening to his female friends, he kept hearing them talk about wanting to meet a "nice guy," so he fell into the trap of believing that continuing to be really nice would eventually cause his female friend to realize that he was "the one" for her.

Tom didn't realize that attracting and hooking up with a woman is something that can happen immediately.

He assumed that he needed to get to know her for a while and build up her interest in him as a friend, before she would be interested in anything romantic or sexual.

He completely overlooked the fact that other guys simply approach and talk to women, make them feel attracted, hook up with them sexually on the first night or first date and then start a relationship.

Without being aware of that, Tom thought that he had to show her how much of a good friend he was, how much he respected her and how nice he could be to her.

This meant that Tom was effectively at her beck and call, always available to run to her whenever she needed him, always available to talk on the phone and always around when she needed a shoulder to cry on after another fight with her latest boyfriend.

From Tom's perspective, he felt as though he was:

- Doing exactly what women were asking for. He was being really nice.
- Behaving like the nice guy characters in movies, who always get the girl in the end.
- Doing the things that he had overheard his female friends refer to as romantic and sweet.

Yet, he just kept getting reject and thought, "Do I need to be even nicer? How else can I prove to her that I am a nice guy?"

So, when Tom said to me, "I don't understand women," he had every reason to feel confused. The women he knew were all saying that they wanted a nice guy, but they continued to date guys who weren't even 10% as nice as he was.

I explained to Tom that there's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but it's not the thing that makes her want to begin a sexual relationship with you.

You have to start by making a woman feel sexually attracted and turned on by you and then anything nice that you do for her will be seen as sweet and charming.

She will feel lucky to have found a guy who not only turns her on, but is a good guy with good intentions. That is what women are looking for.

When a woman says that she wants a nice guy, she means, "I want the guy that I'm attracted to and turned on by to also be a nice guy." She's not saying, "I don't care about feeling sexually attracted and turned on and just want a guy to be nice to me."

Understanding Women

[image: Understanding women]

You may have started out today thinking, “I don’t understand women,” but hopefully you now understand a little more about the female version of the human species.

As a man, you need to learn this stuff on your own. Don’t expect women to teach you how to be the type of confident, emotionally attractive man that they want.

If a guy doesn’t understand how to attract women and turn them on, they just reject him or keep him around as a friend. Women don’t want to take on the role as your teacher on how to be an attractive man.

They want you to work that out yourself, so you are a ready made man, rather than a guy that they have to teach and guide throughout life.

A woman wants to be able to look up at you and respect you as her man, rather than feeling as though she needs to take care of you and teach you how the world works.

So, if you are serious about wanting to understand women, I recommend that you watch this video...

As you will discover from the video above, most guys that a woman meets have no idea how to make her feel attracted.

It’s easy for women to make us feel attracted because we feel instantly attracted to a woman’s looks.

Most guys are willing to have sex with a woman and even begin a relationship with her just because she looks attractive.

Yet, the same rule doesn’t apply for women.

The majority of women select a guy based on how much attraction his personality and inner qualities make her feel.

Sure, some women only want a good looking, rich man with muscles and a lot of status in society.

Yet, the majority of women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in a guy and do not base it purely on his looks.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Get an Ex Back: 6 Things You Should Know

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

The secret of how to get an ex back initially seems quite obvious, but when a guy tries all the obvious things and they don't work, he then begins to wonder if it's even possible to get a woman back at all. It is possible to get your ex back and in most cases, it's a fairly quick and easy process. However, if you're currently looking for advice on how to get an ex back, you are probably at a point where you're stuck and don't know what else to say or do to get her to give you another chance. So, if you are serious about getting your ex back in your arms once again, here are 6 important things that you need to know...

1. The No Contact Rule doesn't work for most situations.

[image: The No Contact Rule doesn't work for most situations]

The No Contact Rule is essentially about not contacting your ex for a period of at least 30 days.

This technique only works when the woman really loves you and feels attracted to you and is worried about you moving on with another woman.

In other words, it only applies to about 10% of the cases that I've come across (I've helped 100s of guys via my phone coaching service and many more guys with my program, Get Your Ex Back: Super System).

So, if your ex really loves you, is still attracted to you and wants to be with you, then okay â use the No Contact Rule and when she reaches out to you, arrange to catch up with her in person and then get the relationship back together.

However, if your case is like 90% of other cases, your ex has lost respect and attraction for you and doesn't really love you right now.

So, if your ex has gotten to the point where she no longer respects you or feels attracted you, not contacting her means that you are simply giving her space and time to move on without you.

She might contact you to check and see if you're still missing her, but that doesn't mean that you're actually getting your ex back. It simply means that she is contacting you to check that you're still missing her.

If she finds out that you're missing her, haven't really changed and still don't even understand the real reasons why she broke up with you, it will make her feel like she made the right decision to break up with you.

She will then continue to move on without you.

2. Texting is the worst method to use when getting an back.

[image: Bombarding girlfriend with texts]

Pretty much every guy that I've helped to get an ex girlfriend, fianc  or wife back via my phone coaching service, has been making the classic mistake of repeatedly texting his ex.

He will have been trying to have conversations with her via text, explain himself, apologize and get her to agree to meet up with him in person.

Yet, no matter how creative he gets with his texts, it doesn't do anything to get her back and usually just turns her off even more.

The reason why texts don't work to get an ex back is that it's just text on a screen. Your ex can't hear your tonality and how you are expressing the words, so she has to guess how you would be saying it if you said that to her in person or over the phone.

If your ex currently has a negative perception of you or is feeling negative about you, then she's going to look at your texts in a negative light.

For example: If a guy got dumped by a woman because he was being too insecure, needy and jealous, then she's not going to be amazed when he sends her a text and tries to come across in a confident way.

Instead, she is going to read his text through the filter of her negative perception of him.

Regardless of what he texts her, she is going to still assume that he is insecure, needy and jealous and hasn't changed at all.

What you actually need to do is get her on a phone call, so:

- She can hear your confident tonality over the phone and feel respectful towards you.
- You can get her laughing and feeling good when talking to you.
- You can tell her that you understand where you went wrong and then apologize to her for that.
- She can hear the sincerity in your voice and notice the changes that you've already made since the break up.

When she is feeling good while talking to you on the phone, she will then be much more willing to meet up with you in person.

However, if you are only sending her texts and she has a negative perception of you, she's probably not going to be willing to meet up with you in person anytime soon.

3. You have to make it about her, not you.

[image: Make it about her, not you]

A lot of guys make the mistake of trying to get an ex back by talking about how much they want it, how much it means to them and how much they've been thinking about it.

If your ex girlfriend, fiancée or wife currently doesn't feel a lot of respect and attraction for you and has disconnected from her old feelings of love for you, then she's not going to really care about what you want.

What you want and what you are trying to get out of the situation doesn't really matter to her.

So, when getting an ex back, what you really need to do is make it all about her getting to feel the way she wants.

How?

You need to make her feel understood and respected by briefly letting her know that you understand her reasons for breaking up with you and it has been a huge wake up call for you.

Why briefly?

You have to make it about her, not you.

After briefly letting her know that you understand why she decided to end the relationship, you then need to come across in a way that shows her that you've already changed, improved or fixed those things about yourself.

Letting her hear the changes in how you think, talk and come across over the phone will then bring her guard down. She will realize that she no longer needs to feel frustrated at you for not understanding why she really broke up with you.

You get it now.

The break up is not a mystery to you.

She doesn't need to teach you anything because you've worked it out on your own, so there is nothing for her to feel frustrated about. Instead, she feels relieved and her guard then comes down.

When her guard is down, she will then begin to respect you more and become open to feeling attracted to you (e.g. when you make her laugh over the phone, when you come across as confident and charming, etc).

Showing her that you've taken on her feedback and have already grown, developed and improved on your own is an important part of how to get an ex back.

However, don't make it all about you. You've got to make it about her.

How?

When you apologize for your mistakes, make sure that you apologize for how your mistakes would have made her feel, rather than how bad you feel about it now.

4. Women hate it when guys beg and plead for another chance.

Not every guy makes this mistake, but a lot of guys do.

After personally helping 100s of guys to get a girlfriend, fianc  or wife back, I'd estimate about 80% of guys make this mistake initially.

A guy will beg and plead for another chance with her because he doesn't really know what else to do.

He will either lack the relationship experience to know how to handle a situation like that, or the woman will be of a quality that he usually can't attract unless he gets lucky.

Now that his luck has run out, she's pulling the plug and he feels like he is fighting for his life.

Without her, he is going to feel like crap and he knows it. He knows that it will be very difficult for him to get another woman like her, so he becomes desperate and begs for her to give him a chance.

Yet, what he usually doesn't realize at the time is that women hate that.

Women hate to see a man in a position of emotional weakness like that, just because a woman is pulling away from him.

What a woman wants to see is that he loves her and wants her in his life, but he doesn't NEED her.

Women are naturally attracted to men who happy and emotionally strong with or without a woman in their life.

A man needs to be emotionally independent from a woman so he can be happy with or without her. If he doesn't do that, he will naturally react by begging and pleading when a woman pulls away because she is literally taking his happiness and emotional security with her.

5. It doesn't matter to her that you're a good guy and have the best of intentions with her now.

[image: But, I have good intentions...I promise.]

No doubt, the break up has been a huge wake up call, you now have much better intentions with your ex and you want to do the right thing.

You're most-likely a good guy and have realized that you stuffed up with her, but here's the thing... That doesn't really matter to her right now.

The only thing that really matters to her right now is how she feels. She's not going to feel respectful of you and attracted to you, if you're still the same guy and haven't made any real changes to how you think, behave and act when interacting with her.

For most break ups, the woman doesn't care that her ex is sorry and has better intentions now.

Why?

In most cases, guys never really understand the REAL reasons why the woman is breaking up with them.

A woman will usually give vague reasons like, "I just don't feel the same way anymore" or "I need space" or "It's not working for me," because she doesn't want to take on the role of a guy's teacher about how to be a man.

From a woman's perspective, if a guy isn't capable of being the kind of man she needs, then she has to move on. She can't hold his hand, teach him and guide him through the process.

She wants a ready made man, not a guy that she has to turn into a man herself.

6. Now is not the time to be playing games with her.

The other night, I was on a phone coaching call with a client who had been dumped by a woman because she lost respect and attraction for him due to his behavior.

He then looked around online and found the No Contact Rule and assumed that it had to be correct and would work on all women, because so many people were talking about it.

He was wrong.

He followed the No Contact Rule for 30 days, even though his ex-girlfriend was contacting him and sending him text messages like, "Hey, how are you?"

How did he reply? Well, he was informed by a random person online to reply like this, "Hi, life is good. I've moved on now. I hope you are well too."

No, no, no!

This girl was reaching out to him and what he really needed to do was MEET UP WITH HER IN PERSON, not pretend that he didn't care about her. He needed to get her on a phone call and then MEET UP WITH HER, not play those mind games with her.

What I explained to him is that if you are still playing games like that, then you're not ready for an adult relationship and you should only be just dating women for fun. If you are serious about being a relationship, then be a man and be honest.

When it comes to getting an ex back, you need to be the emotionally stronger than the woman. You need to be the courageous one who is willing to take risks by putting yourself out there, while also ensuring that you project emotional strength rather than neediness or desperation.

Essentially, you pursue her to get her back, but you do it in a confident, emotionally secure way. You are a man who is simply going after what he wants and you're not embarrassed, ashamed or confused about that.

It's very clear to you: You love her, you want her in your life and you're attempting to get her to give the relationship another chance.

So, you don't need to play games and pretend that you don't care about her so you can hopefully gain some power over her.

You are already the man.

You are already the more powerful one.

You need to understand that, so you can come from a place where you are not afraid to love her and tell her that you want her in your life.

You don't need her, but you do want her. That's the difference.

So, if you are serious about getting your ex back, make sure that you don't waste time playing games with her.

You need to get her on a phone call and get her to feel a renewed sense of respect and attraction for you and then get her to meet up with you in person.

At the meet up, you need to make her feel more respect and attraction for you and get her to forgive your past mistakes and open herself up to having feelings for you again.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Learning How to Love Yourself

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Learning how to love yourself is extremely important to your success at picking up women and keeping a relationship together because women are attracted to the emotional strength of men and turned off by the weakness.

If you don't love yourself, it will always come through via your body language, vibe, behavior, conversation style and actions around women.

Who you are on the inside always comes through on the outside.

You can't hide it.

[image: Learning to love yourself as a man]

When you don't love yourself, women pick up on the fact that you lack self-esteem and don't feel like you're good enough for them, which is a huge turn off.

Why?

Women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength of men and turned off by the weakness. The stronger you are emotionally, the more attractive you are to women. Learning to love yourself is just one way to improve your emotional strength as a man.

So, how can you do it? Here are...

15 Ways to Love Yourself More

Learning to love yourself is something that you can achieve right now.

However, if you don't do most of the following, you will probably wake up 30 years from now and realize that you're still unhappy with yourself.

So, don't waste anymore time.

Do as many of the following things as you can, as soon as possible:

1. Understand that no-one is perfect and we all have areas that we want to improve. You're not a failure because you have things to improve. It's normal, natural and it's actually a good thing because it means that your life isn't over. You have so much more potential.
2. Accept who you are right now as being good enough to be loved and accepted by other people.
3. Focus on your strengths and positive qualities as reasons to love yourself.
4. Feel optimistic and excited about improving on your weaknesses and negative qualities, rather than feeling like it's all too difficult or that you'll never be good enough.
5. Forgive your past mistakes (everyone makes mistakes!), rather than wasting more of your life feeling as though you've already messed up too much and can't do any better in the future.
6. Get clear on your purpose in life and then follow through on it with unrelenting determination and confidence.
7. Stop comparing the speed of your success to others. People succeed at different rates depending on many factors.
8. Feel grateful for what you've already achieved, while also feeling excited about what you might be able to achieve in future.

9. Do things that make you laugh and smile. You deserve to feel happy like that.
10. Do things that make other people laugh and smile when they are around you. They deserve to be happy like that too. Let them feel good around you. Don't hog the happiness.
11. Allow yourself to be your true self. Love yourself for being a unique part of this world.
12. Allow others to be their true self around you. Love them for that.
13. Stop trying to please everyone. There will always be people who try to bring you down to make themselves feel better.
14. Realize that if you don't allow yourself to receive your own love, you will struggle to freely give it to a woman, friends and family. As the old saying goes, "You need to love yourself first before you can truly love others."
15. Understand that you are connected to an infinite source of love that is yours to share and experience with others. You won't ever run out of love if you freely give it to others. Instead, you will experience more love and have a stronger connection to the infinite source of love.

As you can see from the list above, learning to love yourself isn't just about thinking that you're good enough.

There's more to it than that.

The more you can love yourself, the easier it will be to love others without feeling afraid about not getting any love in return.

When you are full of love to the point where you are not afraid to give love to others, you become much more attractive, charismatic and appealing to others.

Think about the people you've met in life who are confident in themselves and have high self esteem, but who are also loving and good to others. Pretty much everyone wants to be around people like that.

You can be that kind of guy too. You don't have to be good looking, rich and have a perfect body to be the kind of guy that everyone likes. It's much easier than that.

Yet, that's not what the media would have you believe...

The Superficial Modern World

[image: The superficial modern world]

If you watch a lot of TV, listen to the lyrics of the latest songs and watch the latest movies, you will be bombarded with a superficial way of looking at life.

In the media, it's all about how a guy looks, how much money he makes, how tall he is, his six pack abs and big dick.

If you pay attention to the messages in the media, you find it difficult to feel like you're good enough for attractive women or for the majority of society.

After all, you only need to watch E!News or Entertainment Tonight or The Insider and you will see female journalists gushing over a guy's looks and status in society.

If you are not in the same position as he is, you might think that you don't deserve to truly love yourself because you're just you. You're not a worldwide celebrity on TV and you don't have female journalists saying, “Oooh, look at his absâ|wow.”

Here’s the thing though...

In real life, most women really don’t care so much about a guy’s appearance and more are interested in his inner qualities and personality.

For example: A study by Jamaco (a UK menswear company) found that 72% of women preferred the guy on the right over the guy on the left.

[image: Male attractiveness - study]

Yet, 62% of men assumed that the guy on the left would be more attractive.

Why is the guy on the right more attractive to so many women?

[image: Male attractiveness - study]

The guy on the left looks like he might spend way too much time worrying about his physical appearance (like a woman or a gay guy would), whereas the guy on the right looks more relaxed, easy-going and capable of loving a woman for who she is.

There’s nothing wrong with the guy on the left though.

He could be a really good guy and even cooler, smarter and more loving than the guy on the right, but we’re talking about what women are attracted to here.

...and the way that women feel attracted to men is WEIRD.

Watch this video to see what I mean (especially the part that I begin explaining at 6 mins and 6 seconds into the video).

As you will discover from the video above, you can actually get women to love and appreciate the odd, quirky or what you think are “ugly” things about you.

It’s weird how it works, but hey â we live in a weird world. We’re on a planet that is apparently floating in infinite space amongst billions of galaxies that have trillions of planets and stars (which are mostly like our sun).

It’s a weird world man.

If you want to be happy and successful with women, you’ve got to accept the way that things REALLY work and then use that to enjoy life.

You deserve to love yourself and you deserve to have beautiful women in your life. If you don’t think that you deserve that, you’re doing it wrong man.

You are more than good enough for the majority of women out there.

If you don’t know that now, I will make you realize it if you click around my site and keep learning.

Loving Yourself Means That You Will Have High Self-Esteem

| Self esteem (noun): Confidence in one’s own worth or abilities; self-respect.

Women are naturally attracted to the emotional strength in men (e.g. confidence, high self esteem, assertiveness, determination, courage, etc) and turned off by the weakness (e.g. insecurity, low self-esteem, etc).

Being able to love yourself and allow yourself to have high self esteem is important when you approach women for the first time, go on a date and when you're deep into a relationship.

If you don't love yourself and feel as though you're not good enough, you're either going to get rejected or will get dumped later on in a relationship when the woman has had enough of feeling turned off by your emotional weakness.

So, get it sorted now.

Learn to love yourself by understanding that you ARE good enough.

If you are aware of some things about yourself that need improving (e.g. your conversation skills with women, your ability to attract women, etc), then go ahead and work on that. While you are in the process of getting that sorted out, make sure that love and accept yourself for who you are right now.

The truth is, most women are much easier to impress and attract than guys realize.

Yet, if you go through your life feeling as though you will never be good enough, then most women will accept that about you.

They will see you as a guy who just doesn't have the emotional intelligence to get a grip on how to be a confident man who loves himself and is moving forward in life towards bigger and better success.

You don't have to have achieved all of your goals to feel like you are good enough.

Feel as though you are good enough now, while also working hard to get to where you want to be in life.

Everyone is on a journey. Love your journey. Love yourself. You are good enough. You do deserve to be loved by yourself and those around you.

Yes, there are going to be some haters, but you cannot please everyone. There will always be some people who feel like they need to bring you down to feel better about themselves.

Don't let that bring you down. Instead, feel sorry for them because they haven't yet learnt how to love themselves enough to give love to others.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Signs a Woman Wants to Sleep With You

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When a woman wants to sleep with you, she won't always make it obvious.

For example, sometimes a woman will:

- Pretend not to be interested in you because she wants to see if you remain confident in your attractiveness to her.
- Pretend not to be interested because she wants to see how sincere your interest is in her (i.e. are you just trying to get her interested to feel good about yourself, or do you actually like her and want to be with her?)
- Show a lot of sexual interest in random guys just to get attention (e.g. at work, university, etc). She will make the guys chase her and try to get with her, but she will reject them and even act offended for assuming that she was interested in sex.
- Think that she is making it obvious that she wants to sleep with you (e.g. she's talking to you, laughing at all your jokes, etc) and will be confused about why you're not making a move on her.

In other words, don't waste your time trying to look for signs that a woman wants to sleep with you.

What you need to do is very simple!|

1. Make her feel sexually attracted to you.
2. Connect with her.
3. Kiss her.

Once you have kissed a woman, the doors to sex will then open. A kiss instantly changes things from being friendly to sexual.

Anything that you say or do prior to kissing her really isn't that important.

For example: If you spend an hour talking to a woman before kissing her, it is pretty much the same as spending 10 minutes talking to her before locking lips.

The kiss is the point where things really change.

You can talk to a woman all you want, but unless you get to a kiss – it's usually just going to be another conversation with a guy who made her feel some attraction, but didn't do anything about it.

To get what you really want with a woman, you need to make her feel attracted, connect with her a bit (sometimes it only takes 30 seconds, sometimes it takes 30 minutes) and then kiss her.

Once you've kissed her, it's pretty obvious what is going to follow on after that when you go home together or have a first date.

BTW: Don't assume that the woman you are talking to has never hooked up with a guy very quickly.

[image: Women are now free to have sex whenever they want]

A study in the USA found that 55% of couples had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women have experienced a one night stand.

In other words, sex usually happens very quickly these days, so don't waste time trying to get to know a woman for a long time before you make a move.

Wait Too Long and She Will Be Gone

Rather than getting to a first kiss and then taking it from there, some guys waste time waiting for extremely obvious signs that a woman wants to sleep with them.

For example: A guy will almost be hoping that the woman will say something like, “I can’t wait any longer! Kiss me now!!” or “I want you so bad” | let’s go have sex.

What these guys are unaware of is that most women would rather miss out on having sex with a man, than have to be the one to take on the masculine role and make the first move.

Women are sexually attracted to a man’s confidence and masculinity. This is why women will only give a guy a certain window of opportunity to make a move on her.

If, in that time, he shows himself to be too insecure, nervous or shy to take advantage of that opportunity, she will lose interest.

Why?

Women are instinctively attracted to guys who are more alpha in how they think, behave and take action in life. We live in a very challenging world and it’s not always easy to survive, thrive and prosper.

Instinctively, a woman knows that she will most likely live a better life and be safer with a guy who isn’t afraid to make a move and go after what he wants in life.

So, if you wasting time hoping to get some 100% definite signs a woman wants to sleep with you, most women are just going to lose interest and open themselves up to another guy instead.

It doesn’t matter if you’ve been getting to know a woman for weeks or months, she can easily get snatched up by a guy who knows how to make her feel instant attraction for him and then get to a first kiss.

Following through on the feelings that you ignite inside of a woman is extremely important to your success with women. You need to create a spark and then turn it into a passionate fire with kissing and sex.

If you just talk to her and act like an innocent friend who isn’t interested in her in a sexual way, the fire will die out before it has a chance to even begin.

Dating is Not Like it Used to Be

[image: Dating: Before and now]

In the past, sex was a taboo subject; especially for women.

Women were expected to remain “pure” until their wedding night, and then sex was something that they were expected to do for the purposes of having children only.

Sex was definitely not supposed to be fun and women weren’t supposed to enjoy it.

Heck, it was even seen as wrong to have oral sex.

Oh, how times have changed.

In today's world, women are free to have sex whenever they want, and with whomever they want, without being labeled sluts or whores if they do.

Sex is now seen as a good thing and women are free to enjoy random sexual encounters with as many men as they want before they get married. That is, if they ever do settle down and get married at all.

Here's the thing!

Sex feels just as good for women as it does for men.

Women today want to be kissed, touched and be turned on by a guy. They want to have sex and experience orgasms because it's fun and enjoyable.

They are free to do whatever they want.

Yet, despite all the changes to society, most women still don't want to be the ones taking the lead in a sexual courtship.

Women still want men to lead the way.

Why?

Women are attracted to the emotional strength of men and turned off by the weakness. They are also attracted to a guy's masculinity in how he thinks, behaves and takes action.

So, when a guy is confident (i.e. emotionally strong) and masculine enough to approach her, attract her and lead the way to kissing and sex, it is a huge turn on for her.

She can just relax into feeling like a feminine woman as she surrenders to his attractive masculinity.

This is the type of sexual seduction that women welcome from men. They want it. It's erotic, it makes her happy and makes her feel alive.

Waiting around for signs a woman wants to sleep with you is not the way to seduce her.

You've got to actively make her feel attracted to you and then guide her from a conversation to kiss, sex and into a relationship (if you want one).

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works and how you can use it to get women to want to sleep with you!

When a woman feels sexually attracted to you, her sexual defenses go down and she opens herself up to you.

The more attraction you make her feel, the more desire she has to want to get physical by kissing you and having sex with you.

Here's the thing though!

Even though a woman is VERY attracted to you, she can still act like she's not interested in having sex with you.

In most cases, a woman does that to test a guy's confidence in himself, make sure that his interest is sincere (to avoid being used for just sex) or because she is insecure and is trying to gain some power over him by making him chase and try hard to sleep with her.

So, don't waste time looking for signs a woman wants to sleep with you.

You've got to make her feel attracted, connect with her and then get to a first kiss.

Attracting Her With Your Confidence

Women are naturally attracted to confident men because confidence is a sign of emotional strength.

Women's attraction to confidence goes all the way back to when women were reliant on strong, confident men to protect them from predators (especially during childbirth) as well as from being hurt, raped, taken or killed by other men.

Women's preference for confident men helped the human race to survive and even become even more resilient and brave over the generations.

Although a modern woman no longer needs a man with big muscles to protect her from animal predators or roaming tribesmen, her sexual attraction is triggered when she encounters a confident, emotionally strong man.

A man's weakness (e.g. insecurity, shyness, anxiety, etc) is not beneficial to a woman because it doesn't make her feel protected and safe.

If a woman interacts with a guy and senses that he lacks confidence, it makes her feel as though she needs to be gentle with him and if life got really challenging, she would have to be the strong one and take care of him.

Regardless of how convenient modern life feels (e.g. with our supermarkets, smartphones and electricity), a woman still has the natural instinct to be with a confident man who will be able to remain strong if life got challenging.

She wants your confidence, just as much as you want her beauty.

Instinctively, men know that the more beautiful a woman is, the more beneficial she will be in his life because:

- A beautiful woman will produce better-looking children.
- Sex with her will be more enjoyable.
- He will feel proud to show her off.
- Guys will respect him more because she is beautiful.

On the other hand, a woman's attraction for a man doesn't revolve around his looks.

Yes, there are some women who only want a good-looking guy and don't care about anything else, but those women are the minority.

Most women feel much more attraction for a guy's personality and inner qualities than his looks.

Instinctively, a woman knows that a man's looks are not what will keep her feeling safe and protected.

She knows that his level of confidence, masculinity and social intelligence is what will directly impact his ability to survive, prosper and protect himself, her and any children they may have.

This is why a guy can be really good looking, yet still not be able to make a woman feel sexual attraction for him or be able to make her want to sleep with him.

Guys who aren't good looking usually go through life thinking that they are failing with women because of their looks.

Guys who are good looking and still can't get a girlfriend usually go through their life thinking that something must be wrong with them or with women, because everyone says to him, "You're so handsome” but he’s still single and get a girlfriend.

So, what is the real reason why guys fail with women?

Watch this video to find out!|

As you will discover from the video above, guys make up all sorts of excuses for their lack of success with women.

Yet, the real reason why they are failing is very simple.

3 Things You Can Do to Make a Woman Want to Sleep With You

Getting a woman to want to sleep with you is all about making her feel attracted, connecting with her and then getting a first kiss.

Here are 3 ways to help you get to that point!|

1. Flirt and use body language to create a sexual vibe.

Flirt (verb): Behave as though you are attracted to someone, but for fun rather than with serious intentions.

Flirting is one of those skills that every man can have, but few guys ever take the time to learn.

In fact, because a lot of guys don’t know how to flirt, they usually just write it off as “playing pointless mind games” or “being childish,” and refuse to even think about flirting as a way of building attraction between themselves and a woman they want to sleep with.

Flirting is a safe and discreet way of building the sexual tension between a man and a woman.

It’s a way of showing your sexual interest in each other without having to say something obvious and direct like, “I like you and I want to have sex with you. So, how about it?”

Of course, we men would love it if women were that easy and you could just say, “Hey, let’s have sex” but women have to act like they aren’t very easy when it comes to sex.

Why?

For you and for themselves.

- For you: So you will be able to trust her when you get into a relationship. You know that she’s not easy when it comes to sex and can control herself.
- For her: So other people don’t look at her as being slutty and think less of her.

Flirting is an easy way to spark some sexual attraction and create a unique, sexual connection between yourself and a woman.

Without flirting, an interaction between a man and a woman might as well be an interaction between a brother and sister, or an innocent conversation between two friends.

Flirting changes the vibe from friendly to sexual.

So, if you want a woman to want to sleep with you, don’t hold back on flirting with her.

2. Build up the sexual tension between you.

Building up sexual tension is a lot like fishing.

A man throws out the â□□baitâ□□ (i.e. sexual attraction and flirting), and then carefully reels in the â□□fishâ□□ (i.e. the woman).

Sometimes, a woman will be ready to be reeled in immediately, while other times you will need to gradually reel her in (seduce her).

It's all part of the fun of picking up women.

3. Release the sexual tension with kissing and then sex.

Itâ□□s all good and well to flirt and build sexual tension, but if a guy doesnâ□□t make a move when the time is right, a woman may think:

- Heâ□□s too scared to take things further.
- Heâ□□s sexually inexperienced and doesnâ□□t know what to do after the initial stages of foreplay.
- Heâ□□s just trying to get me interested to make himself look good in front of his friends, but he's not going to do anything.

Whatever the case, a woman wonâ□□t sit around feeling sexually frustrated for too long while she waits for a guy to make his move.

[image: Waiting too long to make a move]

If you take too long, she will usually release her sexual feelings with another guy who makes her feel some attraction and has the confidence to make a move much quicker.

Donâ□□t Wait Until Itâ□□s Too Late

Women hate it when guys don't have the confidence to make a move when the time is right.

It's so disappointing for women when they meet a guy, feel attracted and then the whole thing fizzles out because he's too busy looking for extremely obvious signs that she wants to sleep with him.

So, instead of waiting around looking for signs a woman wants to sleep with you, all you need to do is make her feel attracted, build up the tension and then release it via kissing and sex. She wants it just as much as you do, but she needs you to lead the way.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

15 Interesting Things to Ask a Girl to Get to Know Her

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

In this post, I will provide you with 15 interesting things that you can ask a girl to get to know her. However, I want to warn you of something very important first...

If your real aim with this girl is to begin a sexual relationship with her, then don't waste a lot of time trying to get to know her.

If you act like an innocent friend around her who isn't interested in anything sexual, a girl will usually remain open to hooking up with other guys and will only see you as yet another friend in her life.

[image: The consequences of pretending to just want a friendship with her]

If another guy comes along and makes her feel sexually attracted and turned on, he can actually kiss her and begin a sexual relationship with her...without wasting a lot of time getting to know her a lot first.

Triggering her feelings of sexual attraction and then kissing her is the shortcut to getting a girl into a relationship with you.

So, I will now provide you with 15 examples of things that you can ask a girl as you get to know her, as well as explain some ways that you can make her feel sexually attracted at the same time.

15 Examples of Things to Ask a Girl to Get to Know Her

[image: Things to ask a girl to get to know her better]

The first example of something you can ask her to get to know her better is...

1. So, what do you like to do for fun these days?

This is a question that puts a girl on the spot and she will often try to come up with an answer to impress you.

Making her feel like she needs to impress you is a GOOD thing, because most of the guys she meets will want to be with her just because she looks good, which is one of the things that women really hate about most single men...

As you will discover from the video above, most guys are immediately interested in girls because of their looks and don't need the girl to say or do anything else to impress them.

Hot girls hate that, so if the girl you like is attractive, don't be too easy on her. Make her have to work a little to impress you first.

2. What would you do if you could be a guy for one day?

This will give you a great insight into what she thinks of guys and whether or not she is sexually open around you.

Make fun of her answers in a playful way. For example: If she says that she'd like to know what it feels like to pee standing up, you can say, “Come onâ€¦you can do better than that. We guys do more than just piss standing up.”

If she says, “I would treat women with respect and make them feel good about themselves,” you can jokingly say, “You’d make a horrible guy. You’re too nice” and then laugh with her.

3. What’s something about you that you wish people would know?

When you ask a girl this question, she will usually tell you the thing that she is most proud of about herself, which will give you an insight into what is important to her.

When she shares that with you, she will feel as though she’s really getting to know you in a way that matters to her.

4. Okay, so you’re smart, beautiful and sexy. There has to be something wrong with you. Do you have an extra toe or something?

It’s important to say something like this to a girl because most girls are insecure about their attractiveness and if they aren’t sure that you’re truly interested, they will usually play hard to get.

So, to cut through all the mind games, just tell her that you think she is smart, sexy and beautiful and then make her feel attracted by adding in some humor.

Talking to a girl in this way will make her feel much more attraction for you than just giving her a nice compliment like, “You’re smart, beautiful and sexy. How can you not have a boyfriend?”

If you haven’t been making a girl feel much attraction for you prior to giving her that compliment (i.e. you’ve just been nice, friendly and polite), she’s not going to be excited about your sexual interest in her.

Instead, she will feel as though you are just giving her that compliment because you’re awestruck by her and hoping that if you kiss her ass enough, she will give you a chance to be with her.

Yet, if the girl that you like is attractive, she’s going to hate it when nice, friendly guys suck up to her in the hope of getting a chance to be with her sexually and romantically.

Always remember: The most important thing you need to do if you want to be successful with girls is to make them feel sexually attracted to you first. Sexual attraction comes first and everything else flows on naturally and easily after that.

Don’t waste time trying to get to know a girl for days, weeks or months and think that everything will be fine. A guy who knows how to attract girls and pick them up will be able to hook up with her on the first night or first date.

If you want this girl to be your lover or girlfriend, then you must be willing to make her feel attracted. ...and that means you need to be able to make her FEEL something other than nice, polite, friendly feelings around you.

By saying something like, “Okay, so you’re smart, beautiful and sexy. There has to be something wrong with you. Do you have an extra toe or something?” you have started out by giving her a compliment and then made her laugh by talking about her potentially having a 6th toe.

Essentially, you are saying that she is beautiful, but are wondering, “What’s the catch? There has to be something wrong with you” in a joking way.

She will feel attracted to you for being confident enough to say something like that to her and she will also feel attracted to how you can make her laugh and feel good.

By suggesting that she has a 6th toe, you're not being mean or making her feel bad. Instead, you're showing her that you're not only a good guy, but you also have balls and a sense of humor.

5. If you could click your finger and be on vacation/holiday anywhere in the world right now, where would that be?

This is a great thing to say to a girl because it immediately gets her thinking about being somewhere that would make her feel happy.

When she feels happy about the place she is describing, part of that positive feeling will become associated with you. She will feel good around you, which will make her feel attracted to you.

6. If you could instantly change something about how you look physically, what would that be?

This is good to ask a girl because it gives you an insight into what she thinks about herself.

For example: She might say, "Nothing...I love everything about myself" and you can then jokingly ask, "Are you sure? You wouldn't change your [name a piece of her clothing or jewelry]"

You can then have a laugh with her and say, "No, I think you look great. Everything about you is perfect" in a half serious way.

She will then feel as though she's not sure if you are being serious or not, which will make her feel attracted to you because you have the confidence to mess with her like that during a conversation.

7. So, are you the kind of girl who is closer with her family or her friends?

This is a good question to ask a girl to get to know her because it gives you an insight into how she thinks at this point in her life.

Right now, she might be very focused on all the relationships she has with her friends, but that doesn't mean that she won't switch at some point and become very family oriented.

Asking her this question is about understanding who she is today and why.

For example: She might be more interested in relationships with her friends right now because she doesn't want to settle down and just wants to have fun and see where life takes her.

A girl like that won't like it if a guy comes on to strong and seems like he wants to get married and start a family asap.

So, whatever her answer to the question is, make sure you follow up and ask her why she is closer with her family/friends at this point in her life.

8. What's your favorite food on a day when you're feeling hungover? I usually end up eating [insert what you eat when hungover]

[image: Things to ask a girl to get to know her well]

Asking a girl this question will let you know how playful or serious she is about life.

For example: You might ask a very serious, health-conscious girl this question and she may reply with, "Oh, I don't drink...I hate alcohol" compared to an easy-going girl who says, "I usually have a pizzaâ□|and then regret eating it later onâ□|lol.”

If you want to have a relationship that lasts, it’s important for you to find a girl who is compatible with you who are. You don’t have to be exactly the same, but you have to be able to appreciate each other and let each other be who you want to be.

For example: A girl might only drink alcohol on special occasions, but just because she is strict in that way, she shouldn’t expect you to be and vice versa. To make a relationship last, you’ve got to be able to love each other for who you each are and get along effortlessly, rather than trying to control and change each other all the time.

9. On a scale of 1 to 10, how much do you want to jump on me and start kissing me right now? By the look of your smile, I’d say it’s a 9 or a 10...wow, you move fast.

[image: Things to ask a girl to get to know her]

This is something that you ask a girl in a joking way...of course.

Smile and be confident and easy-going when you ask it. Maintain eye contact with her and use it as a way to laugh together, rather than being serious or tense about it.

If she denies wanting to kiss you, just smile and say, “Yeah rightâ□|I see the way you look at me” and then laugh with her.

Don’t make it a serious thing.

She will feel attracted to you for having the confidence to say such a thing, as well as for how girly and under pressure she feels in response to your masculine approach.

She will feel slightly dominated by you during this interaction, which will turn her on.

10. I was naked in front of you right now, where would you look first?

She will most-likely smile and possibly gasp in shock when you ask her that type of question.

She will also probably look at your crotch/groin and when she does, you can say, “Oh you’re naughtyâ□|I have to watch myself around you.”

You can then joke by pretending to be disappointed in her. Shake your head and say, “I’m disappointed in you...I thought you were a good girl, but it looks like you just see me as a piece of meat like other girls do. It’s all about sex for you girls these days...I have a personality too you know?”

Essentially, you’re taking on the typical role of the girl who has to reject a guy for just wanting to have sex, which is going to be very funny for her.

11. Have you figured out your calling in life yet or are you just going to continue being extremely beautiful?

This is a good question to ask a girl when you’re getting to know her, but don’t expect her to come up with a detailed answer.

Most people don’t really know what their purpose is in life, which is why they often feel depressed when they reach 30-50 years of age and realize that they’ve been wasting their life.

When you ask a girl this type of question, she will either:

- a) Be completely clear with her answer and know exactly what she wants.
- b) Give a fantasy answer like, "I want to be a movie star" even though she's not doing anything to achieve that dream.
- c) Say, "I don't know yet."
- d) Laugh and say something like, "Yes, I'm just going to be beautiful."

Her answer will tell you what kind of girl she is.

If she's very career focused and is trying to achieve big dreams in her life, then she's going to want a guy who isn't going to feel insecure about her achieving things in life because he is also following through on his biggest dreams and ambitions in life.

If she doesn't really care about her calling in life and just wants to have fun, she's not going to want to spend any more time talking about life goals and plans and will just want to enjoy herself around you.

12. If you had a chance to go back in time and give your 15-year-old self some advice, what would you tell her?

We all get wiser as we age, so this is an interesting question for anyone to answer.

If you ask a girl this question, she will usually think about something that she wish she knew when she was younger (e.g. don't worry so much about what people think, follow your dreams, etc).

When she shares that type of thing with you, she will feel closer to you because it's not something that she will tell everyone.

13. Are you a good cook or are you just hot?

This is a great question to ask a girl because it makes her laugh and also makes her feel like she needs to impress you with the answer.

Many girls these days are hopeless at cooking and are secretly embarrassed or worried about it, so if she says, "I can't cook" a great response is to then smile and say in a joking, but half-serious way (to get her attention), "Well, I liked you up until that point, but now you've lost me. It's over between you and me."

If she says that she can cook, you can say, "Wow...so, you're hot and you can cook. Nice, I've hit the jackpot. When are you making me some food?"

A girl will feel attracted to you when you talk to her in this way because it makes her feel girly in response to your masculine approach. It's also funny and it takes balls to say something like that to a girl, which they respect and feel attracted to.

14. So, who do you think should make the first move ♀♂ the guy or the girl? ♀♂!and when are you going to kiss me? I've been talking to you for 5 minutes already.

Of course, this is to be said in a joking way. It's not a serious question that you seriously need the answer to. You're just messing around and helping to make sure that she knows what your intentions are with her.

Remember: If you're aim to get to know this girl is to begin a sexual relationship with her, make sure that you're not acting like an innocent friend who just wants to get to know her.

Make her feel attracted to you and then bring up sexual things, so she is clear that you aren't just intending on being another friend.

15. What's one thing about girls that you wish guys would understand?

Her answer to this question will give you a great insight into where guys mess up when trying to pick her up or keep a relationship together with her.

For example: She might say, "We might seem strong, but we are usually more fragile and sensitive than guys realize."

A lot of guys make the mistake of believing the confident front that girls put on. Yet, most girls are much more sensitive, insecure and fragile than they seem.

For example: When Dove Cosmetics did a global survey of women, they found that 96% of women don't consider themselves to be beautiful.

[image: Women being insecure about their looks]

So, don't assume that the beautiful girl you like is confident and secure about how she looks. In most cases, girls are even more insecure than guys are about their looks.

Beginning a Sexual Relationship With Her

If your real aim of getting to know this girl is to begin a sexual relationship with her, make sure that you focus on making her feel sexually attracted to you.

Don't waste too much time trying to get to know her before you kiss her and begin having sex with her.

If you act like an innocent friend, another guy can easily come along and steal her away from you by making her feel sexually attracted and then kissing her. After he has kissed her, the door is then open to have sex with her and when that happens, a relationship will immediately begin.

Watch this video to understand how a girl's attraction for a guy works and how you can use it to begin a sexual relationship with this girl you like...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Shy Around Women? Here's How to Fix it

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Is being shy around women preventing you from living the life you really want?

Do you freeze up every time you find yourself around beautiful women?

When you spot a beautiful woman that you would like to talk to, and possibly have sex with or date, rather than walk up to her and strike up a conversation, do you instead let your mind run away with negative thoughts about what could go wrong?

[image: What if she rejects me in front of everyone?]

Thoughts like...

- What if she rejects me in front of everyone?
- What if she has a boyfriend?
- What if people think I am a weirdo or a creep for approaching her?
- What if she thinks I'm not good looking enough?
- What if she laughs at me or makes fun of me in front of everyone?
- What if she gets annoyed because I'm interrupting her?
- What if she is not attracted to me and tells me to go away?
- What if I freeze up during conversation and run out of things to say?

If you want to approach a woman and you allowing negative questions like those to run through your mind, your confidence automatically begins to fade away and you become filled with anxiety, fear and hesitation.

So, by thinking in that way, you're only setting yourself up to fail.

You probably know that thinking in that way is silly, right?

When the negative thoughts fill your mind, you probably feel annoyed and wish you could just think in a confident way, but no matter how much you try to convince yourself that it will be okay, you can't seem to stop the negative thoughts from making you feel nervous, shy and anxious about talking to the woman.

Stop the Shyness By Making Her Feel Good

[image: Stop the shyness by making her feel good]

If you want to stop feeling shy, you need to stop focusing on yourself and how you feel.

The reason you feel shy is that you're worrying so much about yourself, what might happen to you and how you might feel if things don't go well.

That is NOT going to stop you from feeling shy.

What will?

Do what a confident, charismatic guy would do.

A confident, charismatic guy would approach and talk to the woman and his focus would be on making HER feel good around him, rather than on trying to make himself feel confident enough to talk to her.

He would take the focus away from his emotions and what he wants and instead focus on making her feel good. He is just approaching to give her the gift of interacting with him and feeling good around him.

Think about itâ€¦!

If he were focused on trying to make himself feel good before approaching her or during the interaction, then he would be spending way too much time in his head.

If you want to stop your shyness, you've got to make the approach or interaction about the other person.

The reason for the approach is to make HER feel good, not you. When you switch your focus like that, it forces you to get into a state of being where you are able to give her that experience.

I call this the Shy Stopper technique and here's how it worksâ€¦!

1. Don't worry about yourself, how you are feeling or how you might feel. Just stop thinking about yourself completely.
2. Talk to the woman and focus on making her feel confident, happy and relaxed around you. Give her the gift of feeling good around you.
3. You will then automatically feel more confident, happy and relaxed around her and your shyness will go away.

Why?

Shyness happens when you think too much about yourself, how you feel and how you might feel if things go wrong.

The point here is to put your focus on someone else, rather than making you the focus of your attention.

When a woman notices that you are present (i.e. you're not all up in your head like a shy guy) when interacting with her and she is feeling that good around you, she will naturally feel attracted and drawn to you.

If you know that your number one job is to make her feel confident, happy and relaxed around you, it forces you to smile, be more confident and be in a better mood to make HER feel goodâ€¦not you.

When you do that, you become more present in the interaction and your shyness doesn't have a chance to exist.

Your presence and ability to make her feel good, causes you to come across as more confident and charismatic and the woman feels attracted to you as a result.

Are You Shy When Talking to Attractive Women?

Some shy guys make the mistake of always trying to say the right thing around attractive women, because they are worried about getting rejected by her and then feel even worse about themselves.

So, rather than taking a risk to be himself, a shy guy will often put on an act of being a nicer, more polite guy than he actually is.

He hopes that the woman will see that he's a good guy and give him a chance.

Yet, that's not how it works.

Watch this video to find out why!

As you will discover from the video above, women feel much more attraction to guys who aren't afraid to be themselves, even if that means saying a few things that she might not agree with or like.

Are You Confident in Other Areas of Your Life?

[image: Why am I so shy around women?]

When a guy is shy around attractive women, it doesn't mean that he won't be confident in other areas of life.

For example: A guy who is shy around women might feel totally confident and in control in a business setting. He might be in charge of a huge department and have all his employees and co-workers regard him with respect and admiration.

Why is he shy around women, but confident at work?

In a work situation, he is confident of his abilities to do the job well, so there is no need to feel shy. He believes in himself and feels worthy.

Yet, around women, he isn't confident in his abilities to attract women, so he feels shy and unsure of himself around them.

Have a look at the dictionary definitions and you will see that your shyness around women is directly linked to your insecurity about your ability to attract them!

Shy (adjective): Being reserved or having or showing nervousness or timidity in the company of other people.

Insecurity (noun): Lack of confidence or assurance; self-doubt.

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

This is why it's so important to have the skill of being able to attract women.

If you don't know how to attract women with your personality, you will naturally feel shy and insecure around women you really like.

However, if you feel confident in your ability to attract women, you will feel excited at the opportunity to interact with women you like because you will know that you can get them to want you.

3 Simple Things That Will Help Eliminate Your Shyness Around Women

Getting rid of your shyness around women will happen in stages.

Why?

There are different levels of confidence that you can have. For example: A guy can have a little bit of confidence around women, a mild level, a fairly good level, strong and unstoppable level of confidence.

I could literally come up with 20-30 different variations of confidence, but you get the picture.

Confidence is something that you build on and make stronger overtime. The stronger your confidence gets, the more attractive you are to women and the more that men will respect you and look up to you.

So, now that you're clear on that and are not expecting to be free of shyness for life with one trick, here are 3 simple things that you can do to help eliminate your shyness around women and replace it with confidence!

1. Talk to women in a way that makes them feel attracted.

When you talk to a woman in a way that makes her feel attracted, she will feel drawn to you and will want to help keep the conversation going.

Watch this for examples of how to do that!

This is the first step to overcoming your shyness around women.

Why?

You need positive feedback about your abilities to become confident. Look at the dictionary definition!

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

You can't be truly confident if you don't have any positive feedback to back up your belief in yourself.

So, if you want to stop feeling shy around women, you have to begin by making women feel attracted to you when you talk to them.

For example: If you talk to women and make them feel attracted to you by displaying confidence, making them laugh, being charming, having a masculine vibe, etc. you will get positive feedback and reactions from women.

When you see that women react positively to you, there is nothing to be shy about anymore.

Instead, you feel excited whenever there is an opportunity to talk to a woman you like because you know that you're going to be able to make her feel attracted to you.

When you switch a woman's attraction switch to ON and she's interested, there's nothing to be shy about and everything to be excited about.

How can you do that?

Here's an example of using humor and displaying confidence when talking to a woman!

You: [Smile and ask] Do you like coming here or do you hate this place?

Her: [Most likely laughing at the intensity of your question] No, I like it. It's okay.

You: It's my first time here and I like it because of you. I prefer to hang out at a coffee shop a couple blocks away from here called [insert name]. Have you ever been there?

Her: No. Not yet.

You: They make the best lattes. They make the milk real smooth and creamy. You should try it sometime.

Her: Mmmâ€¦sounds nice. I love lattes. I might have to try it.

You: Cool, maybe you can take me there and buy me a latte sometime.

Her: [Most likely laughing] Noooo! You have to buy me one.

You: [Smile and say] Okay, itâ€¦s a date then. I'll get the latte, but you have to pay for the napkins.

Her: [Most-likely laughing].

By talking to women in this positive, confident and playful kind of way, it automatically makes you feel confident and relaxed while showing her that you have a sense of humor.

Compare that to a conversation that a shy guy might have where he tries to appear really nice, intelligent and polite:

Shy guy: Do you like coming here?

Woman: Yes, it's okay.

Shy guy: Oh, that's good. So, what's your name?

Woman: Penny.

Shy guy: Nice to meet you Penny. I'm Sam.

Woman: Okay.

Shy guy: So, what do you do for a living?

Woman: I'm an accountant.

Shy guy: Oh okayâ€¦that's good. How long have you been doing that?

Woman: 4 years.

Shy guy: Why did you become an accountant?

Woman: Ummâ€¦sorry, I have to go and talk to my friends. Nice talking to you. Bye.

Shy guy: [Feels rejected and most-likely assumes she doesn't like him because he isn't good looking enough].

In the second example above, the shy guy is not doing ANYTHING to make the woman feel attracted, happy and relaxed around him.

He's just being a nice, polite guy and is probably hoping that he can impress her by showing how intelligent, nice and well mannered he is.

Yet, here's the thing...

[image: Rejecting the shy guy]

Women don't care about all the nice stuff BEFORE they are attracted to you.

If you make a woman feel attracted to you (e.g. by making her laugh, being confident, being charming, having a masculine vibe, etc), she will then become interested in your other qualities (e.g. you're a good guy, you're intelligent, etc).

Watch this video to understand why being really nice to a woman doesn't turn her on and make her want to begin a sexual relationship...

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman.

However, if you want her to appreciate how nice you are towards her, you have to make her feel sexually attracted to you first.

If you don't do that, she will just see you as yet another friendly, nice guy that she has little or no romantic interest in.

2. Have purpose and direction in life and follow through on it with passion.

Some guys feel shy around women because they make the mistake of looking at women as the main thing they need to conquer in life.

"If I can just get a woman to like me, then I will be happy and confident."

No, no, no.

What you need to do is work out what you want to really achieve in this life. I don't mean things like get a job, buy a house and have a pet dog.

Think about your biggest dreams, ambitions and goals that scare you because you think you might not be good enough to achieve them.

Then begin walking the path towards that success.

If it takes you 5 years or 50 years, it does not matter. The point is that you are a man on a mission; a man of purpose.

Rise through the levels of life and reach for your true potential as a man. Be happy with or without a woman in your life.

When you get to that place mentally and emotionally (it can happen within hours or days of deciding to be like that), you will automatically become more attractive to women.

Why?

Women feel turned off by guys who seem them as being their purpose in life.

A woman isn't your purpose in life.

Women are easy to pick up.

What is challenging is going after your biggest dreams and ambitions in life and never giving up. Becoming a bigger and better man by rising through the levels of life and reaching for your true potential.

When you are living your life in that way, women become attracted to you like flies to honey. They swarm.

However, if you look at women as being way more valuable and important than you and your biggest dreams in life, you will fail.

Women will feel turned off by you on a deep, instinctive level.

Instinctively, women know that guys who are afraid to rise through the levels of life and reach for their true potential will most-likely become needy, clingy, insecure and controlling in a relationship.

Why?

When a couple gets past the initial stage of a relationship (i.e. the lust and new romance stage), a woman will usually test the guy's confidence in himself by playing hard to get or pulling back some of her affection and interest.

If he reacts by becoming insecure, clingy and needy, then she's obviously not with a man who is rising through the levels of life and reaching for his true potential with or without her.

Instead, she's with a guy who is afraid of failure and is using the relationship with her to hide from reaching his true potential as a man. He wants to make his life about her and the relationship because he doesn't have the balls to face reality and be the strong man that she wants and needs.

3. Add to your social intelligence.

Social intelligence is essentially about your ability to get along well with others.

It's also about your level of awareness and understanding of how to navigate social situations effectively.

For example: A guy who is confident around women has a level of social intelligence that allows him to think, feel and behave in a confident way around women.

On the other hand, a guy who is shy around women is literally going through life with missing pieces to the puzzle.

He might be a very intelligent man academically or at work, but when it comes to his understanding of women and socializing, he is a bit lost.

Why do women care about a guy's social intelligence?

For all of human history, life has been challenging. It has been a struggle to survive, thrive and prosper in this world.

Today is no different.

We now have smartphones and supermarkets, but that doesn't mean that life is so easy and safe now.

It's a competitive world out there and humanity is usually only a hurricane or earthquake away from being forced back into basic survival.

A woman's natural instinct is to align herself with a guy who has what it takes to survive, thrive and prosper no matter how challenging life gets.

When a guy can socialize and make friends easily, his attractiveness to a woman increases because she can see that he's not a loner and therefore, in times of trouble, he will have an existing support group to help him out or will be able to quickly form alliances with new people.

Instinctively, this makes a woman feel safe and protected and more importantly sexually attracted to you.

Fact: You Are Worthy of Most Women Right Now

Many guys feel shy around women because they believe that they just aren't good enough for the type of women they really want.

For example: A shy guy might say, "Beautiful women don't date guys who look like me. If I was better looking, then I would be confident and women would like me" or "Women only want guys who are rich and successful; I'm just an average guy. I can't compete with the rich or popular guys."

Yet, these guys are wrong.

Yes, of course there are some women who will only date good looking guys, rich guys, or guys who live an amazing lifestyle, but those women are the minority.

The majority of women in this world have an Open Type, which basically means they are open to feeling attracted to all different types of guys, as long as the guy can make them feel enough attraction in other ways (e.g. by displaying confidence, flirting with her, making her laugh, being charismatic and charming, etc).

The next time you're out at the mall, walking down the street, at a ball game, etc., take a good look around you. You will probably see hundreds of plain, short, bald, ugly or fat men with an attractive girlfriend or wife.

Are all of those guys rich or do they have a huge penis? Is that their secret?

No.

Most people in this world are not rich and most guys have an average sized penis.

Their secret is simple.

Women can be attracted to guys for MANY different reasons other than looks, money, social status or penis size.

A woman can literally be with a guy because he is confident and funny and as a result, she loves being around him and thinks he's cute, sexy and an amazing boyfriend.

A good guy looking on might think, "What is she doing with him? I'm so much better looking and I make a ton of money. Why don't I have a girl like that?"

Simple.

He's expecting to be wanted, desired and lusted after because of his looks and money.

Yet, while there ARE women who want a guy purely for those reasons, the majority of women are much more interested in how a guy's personality and confidence makes them feel.

The "ugly" guys that you see with a beautiful girlfriend or wife are attractive to their women for reasons that have nothing to do with their looks, money, penis size or social status.

Yes, those things can and do attract women, but you CAN attract women in OTHER ways.

So, if your shyness around women is based on an excuse about not being good looking enough for the women you want; think again.

You are good enough for the majority of women right now. When you realize that and allow yourself to feel confident as a result, you will immediately see the change in how women look at you.

They will see the confidence in you and they will feel attracted to you because of it.

Stop the Shyness and Start the Happiness

[image: Shyness around women]

Being shy around women sucks.

You go out to a party or a bar and no matter how well you are dressed, how cool your hair looks or how much muscle you've built in the gym, you still feel shy.

No matter how intelligent you are, how good your intentions are with women or how much better you think you are compared to other guys, you still feel shy.

and it sucks.

So, if you want to continue fixing your shyness and becoming a confident guy today, click around my site and keep learning.

The faster you learn what I have to teach you, the quicker you will get rid of your shyness around women and be the confident guy that you know you can be.

Life as a confident guy comes with more beautiful women, better friendships and relationships and more respect from people in your life. You feel happier, more alive and you achieve things quickly and with less effort.

Life as a shy guy...well, you know what that's like.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

7 Places to Find Beautiful Women

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

7 of the best places to find beautiful women are at:

1. An exclusive bar nightclub.
2. Dance classes (ballroom dancing, hip hop, salsa).
3. Yoga class.
4. A shopping mall.
5. Group fitness training classes (e.g. cardio bootcamps).
6. Singles events.
7. Fashion shows.

Now on to the more important part...

What to Actually Do When You Get There

[image: Where to find beautiful women and how to meet them]

Regardless of where you find a beautiful woman, the most important things that you need to do are:

1. Approach her rather than just looking at her and hoping that she approaches you because you're dressed well, you look cool or appear interesting.
2. Attract her in many different ways during the interaction (e.g. with your confidence, charisma, charm, humor, masculine vibe, etc).
3. Get her contact details and tell her you'll get in touch, or stick with the interaction and escalate to a kiss or even sex on the first night.

As long as you focus on those 3 things, you will get results when you go out to find beautiful women.

A Really Weird Thing About Beautiful Women

This took me a long time to accept, but I've known that it is true for more than 10 years now.

That is, most beautiful women (not all) are much less picky than guys realize.

If you talk to a beautiful woman and she feels attracted to you because you're being confident, charismatic, charming and making her laugh at times, she will be interested in you.

Don't get me wrong here...

I'm not saying that a guy can pick up ANY beautiful woman or that EVERY beautiful woman in this world can be attracted in ways other than looks, money and social status.

What I am saying is that many beautiful women can feel more than enough attraction for a guy simply based on him displaying several of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

Watch this video to understand how it works...

As you will discover from the video above, it's completely normal for average and even below average guys to have a more beautiful girlfriend or wife.

Why? Most women are much more flexible about what they find attractive in a man and do not base their decision of whether or not to be with a guy simply based on his looks, financial status or social status.

Yes, those traits can help attract women (no doubt about that), but the majority of guys in this world don't work as a male model, aren't rich and have normal social status.

Yet, many of them are able to hook up with, get into relationships with and even marry beautiful women.

Going to the Same Place as Beautiful Women vs. Actually Approaching Beautiful Women

[image: Approaching beautiful women]

Iâ€¢ve lost count of the number of times guys have asked me where they should go to find beautiful women.

It's a great thing to know if you're actually going to approach the beautiful women you see and you are prepared to make them feel attracted to you.

Yet, most guys aren't going to approach and still don't even know how to properly attract women, which is one of the 3 things that attractive women hate about most single guys...

As you will discover from the video above, it's very easy for beautiful women to make guys feel attracted to them.

They don't have to ANYTHING other than look good and 95% of guys will be willing to have sex with them or begin a relationship...just because she looks good.

Guys will stare at her, call out to her and try to get her attention, but she will rarely get approached by a guy who can just be NORMAL around her.

[image: Finding and approaching beautiful women]

The majority of beautiful women only ever get approached by:

- Drunk guys who are so intoxicated that they don't care what happens.
- Nice guys who are hoping to be liked for being nice.
- Sleazy guys who come on way too strong and don't give her a chance to first confirm her sexual interest with flirting.
- Buyer guys who offer to buy her drinks or anything else to get a chance with her.
- Faker guys who pretend to be asking for directions or information as an excuse to talk to her.
- Weirdo guys who are socially awkward and have a strange vibe that makes her feel uneasy.

It's a nightmare out there for most beautiful women.

Throughout her single life, a beautiful woman rarely gets approached by normal, good guys who make her feel attracted and turned on during a conversation.

It's so rare, which is why you will often hear beautiful woman asking, "Where are all the real men?"

The majority of guys that a beautiful meets will make some or all of the conversation mistakes that I explain in this video...

As you will discover from the video above, many beautiful women struggle to find a normal, good guy who can just be real and make her feel attracted and turned on.

Why?

Guys like that almost always have a girlfriend, a wife or plenty of women in their life.

If you are a good guy, then there is a huge opportunity for you to get yourself a beautiful woman.

How?

When you give beautiful women the attraction experience that they've been starved of for so long, then you are the guy that they feast on.

They eat you up.

[image: Where to find a beautiful woman]

I'm being serious here.

It's so frikken easy that it's hilarious (and sad at the same time) that most guys don't know this.

Most guys go through life thinking that all beautiful women are out of their league, unless they can somehow work out how to become more good looking, rich, taller, etc.

Yet, while some beautiful women are very picky and will only accept really good looking, rich, tall, muscular men, the majority of beautiful women are much more open to feeling attracted to the personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities of men.

Other Places to Meet Beautiful Women

As you go through your everyday life or visit new parts of your city or town, you will no doubt see a few beautiful women here and there.

Of course, not all of them will be single, but it doesn't hurt to approach and say hi. Why? You're not doing anything wrong. If she is single, she will be hoping that she can meet a guy and since she's not going to do the approaching, she will be glad when a normal, good guy walks up to her and says hello.

As long as you make her feel attracted to you when you begin interacting with her (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, charming, funny, etc), she will be excited to be interacting with you.

When you then ask for her number and she says yes, you will remember what I said about many beautiful women being a lot easier to pick up than most guys realize.

Okay, so if you've got the confidence to approach, you know what to say and you're ready to make her feel attracted, you might want to check out some of these places...

- Dog parks on a weekend.
- Weekend markets.
- Coffee shops where women hang out alone reading books or browsing the internet.
- Concerts or shows.
- Cultural events.
- Wine or beer tasting events.
- Hobby groups.

- Volunteering.
- Public swimming pools.
- Modelling events.
- Car shows.
- At the gym.
- At a sports event.
- Music festival.

She's Beautiful, But She Still Has Natural Instincts Like Other Women

Whether a woman is beautiful or not, she's going to be attracted to the same kinds of things that other women find attractive.

Yes, some beautiful women are superficial and only want perfect looking male models with money and a huge penis.

It's true.

Yet, the majority of women can't stop themselves from feeling attracted to certain personality traits, behaviors and inner qualities in men.

For example: If a guy approaches a beautiful woman and displays nervousness and insecurity when interacting with her, she will instinctively feel turned off by him.

On the other hand, if a guy approaches her and displays relaxed confidence, has a masculine vibe, is charming and can get her laughing, she is going to feel very attracted to him.

The less physically attractive a guy is, the better he has to be at attracting women with his personality, behavior and inner qualities, but it is possible to do.

Not all beautiful women will accept a guy who doesn't look like a model, but a very high number of them will...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Single Dads Dating Guide

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Dating as a single dad is now easier than ever because it's no longer taboo for a woman to date, get into a relationship or even marry a single dad.

In fact, according to a recent scientific study, single dads are who have a good relationship with their children are 30% more likely to find themselves in new long-term relationship than single guys.

There Are Only Two Things That You Need to Do

[image: Single fathers dating guide]

You don't need an in-depth strategy for dating women as a single dad.

Sure, you've got more responsibilities than a single guy and you already a child (or children) that you probably love more than anything else in the world right now.

However, the rules of the dating game are still the same.

Just like any other single guy, you need to:

1. Attract women by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.
2. Confidently follow through with texts, phone calls and dates until you are in a sexual relationship with her.

Do you know how to attract women to your personality and behavior? Watch this video to understand how it worksâ€¦!

As you will discover from the video above, you actually have a lot of direct control over how much or little attraction a woman feels for you.

For example: If a single dad is nervous, self-doubting and insecure around women, he will be seen as unattractive because he will be displaying personality traits and behaviors that turn women off.

However, if he is confident, charismatic and has high self-esteem, he will be seen as attractive.

You can literally make a woman feel attracted to you in more than 100 different ways when you talk to her in person and about 50 different ways over the phone.

You can pick up the majority of women by only displaying 5-20 attractive traits because most women are much less picky than guys realize.

Of course, some women are very picky and will only accept a guy who looks like a male model, has loads of money, no kids and has a perfect body.

Yet, those women are the minority.

This video explains the real reason why a lot of good guys fail with women, even though most women aren't very pickyâ€¦!

As you will discover from the video above, a lot of good guys waste most of their life sticking to useless excuses about why they aren't successful with women.

Attracting women really is very simple, even if you're a single dad.

If you believe in your attractiveness and appeal to women and that comes through as confident behavior, body language, vibe and conversation style from you, then most women will feel attracted to you because of it.

They will be attracted to the fact that you still believe in your attractiveness and appeal to other women, even though your previous relationship didn't work out.

Why is that appealing?

We humans have had to fight and struggle to survive, thrive and prosper throughout our entire history.

Even in today's world with our supermarkets, smartphones and government services, it is still a challenge to survive, thrive and prosper.

It's a competitive world out there and when a woman comes across a guy who believes in himself and remains strong no matter what, it's a very attractive and appealing quality.

It allows her to feel as though if she got into a relationship with you, she'd feel safe and protected because you are a confident, emotionally strong man who remains strong and believes in himself no matter what.

Single Dads Who Doubt Their Appeal to Women

[image: Women won't like me because I'm a single dad]

Some single dads worry that women are going to look at his situation in a negative light (e.g. "What a loser" | "he got dumped" or "This guy is bad news" | "he can't even keep a relationship together. Would we break up if we had a child?").

Sure, some women will think negatively, but most won't.

If you make a woman feel attracted to your personality and behavior, she will begin to look at other things about you (i.e. being a single dad) in a positive light.

Watch this video about attraction to understand how it works. (If you want to skip ahead to where I explain it, go to 6 minutes 06 seconds (6:06) into the video and play it from there).

Single dads who don't understand how a woman's attraction REALLY works will worry that women will feel turned off by their dependent child or broken relationship with the ex.

[image: Single dad separated from family]

For example: He might think...

- Will women still want to date me when they find out I'm a single father?
- Will women be turned off by the fact that I have to pay child support?
- Will women accept that I won't always be available because my children are my first priority?
- Will women perceive my children as baggage and try to come between us?

If you've watched the videos on this page, you will know that a guy can be overweight, bald, skinny, have a big nose or be a single dad who has to pay child support and he can still be attractive to many women.

Not all women will accept a single dad, but many will.

Being a Single Dad is Not Unusual Anymore

In the past, being a single father was very rare role for a man to take on, because couples got married and then stayed together for life even if they were unhappy.

Firstly because it was expected of them (marriage was forbidden and in the USA in 1900 for example, the divorce rate was less than 10%) and secondly, for the sake of the children.

Back in the old days, there was no internet to connect with old flames and premarital sex was forbidden, so single dads were one of the rarest things on the planet (i.e. it would happen in the mother died while giving birth).

Not anymore.

In today's world, an estimated 50% of children end up spending at least some part of their childhood living in a single-parent household as a result of a separation, divorce or an out-of-marriage birth.

Yet, gone are the days where it was taken for granted that the children will automatically end up with their mother. According to American statistics, over 8% of all single-parent households today are now headed by a single father. This is a nine-fold increase (up from only 1%) since 1960.

Basically, being a single dad today is nothing unusual and isn't something that you need to hide or be ashamed of.

Fact: Women Are Attracted to Men For Many Different Reasons

[image: Dating tips for single dads]

Probably one of the biggest concerns that single fathers have is that they will no longer have the criteria that women are looking for in a man.

Many guys (whether they are single, divorced or widowed) make the mistake of assuming that if they don't fit a specific profile (i.e. good looking, have lots of money, don't have children from previous relationships, etc), women won't be interested in dating them.

In reality, most women (not all) are very flexible when it comes to dating.

Although a woman will initially judge a guy based on how he looks (because she hasn't experienced his attractive behavior or personality yet), once she meets him, his looks will become less important to her than the other qualities he has to offer (e.g. his confidence, masculinity, sense of humor, mental and emotional strength, etc).

This is why you will often see a really beautiful woman dating a plain or even "ugly" guy, or a fat guy, or a bald guy, etc.

It's not a mistake.

She is with him for a reason.

She has discovered qualities in him that make her feel attracted to him as a man, and any imperfections that he might have (e.g. being overweight, bald, a single dad, etc) have become something that marks him out as unique to her.

He is the man that she is attracted to (i.e. because he's confident, charming, funny, etc) and she then likes (or accepts) everything else about him because it is him and he is the man she is attracted to and wants to be with.

It might be weird to hear attraction being explained like that, but a woman's attraction for a man is different to a man's attraction for a woman.

Women can feel attracted to a guy's looks, but most women (not all) are much more attracted to a man's inner qualities, personality and behavior than anything else.

This is also why you will sometimes see a really good looking guy who is single and can never seem to get a woman to keep talking to him for more than a few minutes or stay in a relationship with him for more than a few weeks. Why?

He will be good looking, but he will lack the all-important inner qualities that make women feel deep, lasting and intense attraction, respect and love for a man.

So, if you're a single dad, the most important thing you need to work on is your ability to attract women to your personality, behavior and inner qualities as a man.

A very important inner quality is your confidence.

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

Insecurity (noun): Lack of confidence or assurance; self-doubt.

If your confidence has taken a serious dent after going through a messy divorce or break up, a woman will be able to pick up on your insecurity and it will turn her off.

You've got to believe in your appeal to women, regardless of what has happened in the past.

If you don't believe in yourself, women won't either. A woman would rather miss out on being with a guy than have to comfort him emotionally and be gentle because he's so insecure and self-doubting.

She wants a ready made man who is capable of making her feel the type of love, respect and attraction that she is seeking in a relationship.

When a single father gets rejected by a woman, he might assume, It's because I have children, or It's because young, attractive women only like young, good looking men without relationship baggage.

Yet, the truth is, most women (not every woman) will date all sorts of different guys - old, young, rich, poor, muscular, fat, good looking, ugly, single or divorced.

It's true and you've seen it all around you in real life.

The most important criteria for most women is whether or not a man can trigger her feelings of respect and attraction for him when they interact in person.

If he can do that for her, then she will find him attractive regardless of whether he is good looking, rich, or has been in a relationship before and now has children.

Single Dads Dating Guide: 3 Mistakes to Avoid Making

When you do decide to get out there and meet new women, here are some common mistakes to avoid as a single dad in the dating scene:

1. Talking too much about your kids before she is committed to the idea of being in a relationship with you.

Here's the thingâ□!

If you are a really confident guy who is doing well in life and can attract women with your personality (e.g. you're charismatic, funny, confident, charming, have a masculine vibe, etc), then you can say or do whatever you want and women will lap it up.

However, if you are a single dad who doubts his attractiveness to women and is thus nervous, insecure and tense when approaching and meeting women or going out on dates, then you will need to be a bit more cautious and play by the rules of the dating game.

For example: If you don't make a woman feel much attraction for you (e.g. because you're too nice, polite, friendly, etc rather than being confident, charismatic and sexual) and she isn't feeling turned on and excited about potentially getting to be your girlfriend, then she isn't going to be very keen to hear a lot of stories and details about your child or children.

On the other hand, if you are making her feel a lot of attraction for you (e.g. you're being confident, charismatic, charming, funny, etc), she will be turned on and excited about the possibility of being your woman, so she will be keen to listen to whatever you've got to say.

Everything that you talk about will be heard through the filter of her sexual attraction and desire for you, so it will be 10x more interesting and appealing than if she wasn't feeling attracted to you.

So, if you are a very confident guy and can easily attract women and turn them on, then go ahead and talk about whatever you want with women. They are going to like you no matter what you say.

However, if you don't really know how to attract women and turn them on during a conversation, you will need to focus most of your effort on achieving that before a woman will be genuinely interested in listening to you talk about your kids.

The basic rule of the dating game is that attraction must be established first and then everything else flows on naturally after that.

So, don't try to win a woman over by talking about your kids and hoping that she likes how good of a dad you are.

That will not work unless the woman is unattractive or desperate and is looking for a guy who doesn't believe in himself.

If you're dating attractive women, you've got to begin by triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you based on things other than your kids.

Once she is turned on, attracted and is showing you lots of interest in you as a man, you can then reward her with details and stories about your kids.

In other words, she has to earn the right to get close to your kids. It's a gift that she will get from you if she plays her cards right.

She needs to show you how interested she is in you first, before you allow her to have the privilege of getting emotionally closer to your child or children.

2. Talking about your ex in a bad way.

Even if you're being completely honest by telling a woman what a bitch your ex is and how she left you with the kids to run off with her personal trainer; that type of conversation isn't showing her what she needs to see to feel sexually attracted to you (i.e. that you're confident, well-adjusted, emotionally mature and have successfully moved on with your life).

If you talk about your ex, just focus on the positives and tell her that you've moved on from her and stay in contact now because it's the right thing to do for the children.

She doesn't need to know anything more than that until she has earned the right (i.e. she has become your actual girlfriend) to know the private details of your past with her.

What you need to focus on is getting her to feel attracted to you and beginning a sexual relationship with her. After that, she can then earn the privilege to get more and more information out of you.

You might have heard that women like guys who are mysterious or a challenge and being a single dad who only shares intimate details with those who earn it is a classic example of that.

3. Being too serious about the relationship upfront.

Some single dads put too much pressure on a woman when they begin dating her.

For example: A single dad might be on a first date with a woman and ask her, "So, how do you feel about raising another woman's children?" or "How do you feel about becoming a step-mother?"

Slow down brother.

Before you've had sex with a woman and she is excited about being your girlfriend, it's too much to ask.

Her raising another woman's children or being a stepmother should be something that she brings up and needs to get approval from you about.

You're not just going to let any woman be a stepmother to your children, right?

Of course not.

So, you need to relax and let that conversation come up if it ever does.

Some women might not even bring it up for weeks because these days, many women enjoy having casual sex relationships and aren't necessarily looking for a lifetime commitment.

However, for the women who are interested in that, they will usually need some time to assess how much respect, attraction and love they are feeling for you.

If she is getting what she wants from a relationship with you, she will then be open to accepting him and his children.

In fact, in most cases a woman will choose to love the single dad's children as her own when she is committed to him in a relationship.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

4 Simple Tips For Becoming a Better Man

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Becoming a better man might seem like a lot of hard work to some guys, but it all depends on how you approach it.

I like to be able to get things done properly and efficiently, so here are 4 simple tips that will make your journey to become a better man quicker and easier...

1. Don't Feel as Though You Need to Be Perfect at Everything Before You Are Worthy of Beautiful Women or Life Success

[image: Stop trying to be perfect at everything]

No matter how successful, happy, healthy, intelligent or well liked a man is, he will never reach a point in life where everything that he says and does is absolutely perfect 100% of the time.

No-one can be perfect at everything, but you can be awesome at things that are important to you.

If you want to become a better man, don't waste time worrying about everything all at once. It's too overwhelming and will make you want to waste time because it feels too difficult.

Simply focus on improving the specific areas that will allow you to achieve what YOU want in your life right now. Take it one step at a time like that and before you know it, your life will be 10x more amazing than it was last year.

For example: If you lack the confidence to approach women and don't know how to attract women, then sort that out now.

Days or weeks from now, you'll be talking to and then having sex with attractive women and you will have already moved on from the lonely life that you were living.

Sound impossible that you can go from where you are today to having sex with hot women or enjoying an amazing relationship with your ideal woman within weeks?

Maybe you are one of the guys who spends too much time focussing on your excuses, rather than taking steps to become more successful with women.

Watch this video to discover some of the worst excuses that guys use for their lack of success with women, as well as the real reason why they fail...

As you will discover from the video above, you don't have to be perfect in every way to be able to attract new women or enjoy a great relationship with a beautiful woman.

So, don't waste your life trying to become perfect at EVERYTHING before you think you are worthy of a beautiful woman, or worthy of being successful in life.

You are ready to experience success right now.

Today.

You don't need to wait 20-30 more years as you try to build up a career and build the perfect body before you feel like you are good enough to approach and attract women.

You are ready now.

Most women are much less picky with men that guys realize. Women may act like they will only accept a perfect male model with loads of money, but they then hook up with, get into relationships with and marry ordinary guys.

When you are the kind of man that women respect during a conversation, they pay attention to you and want to get to know you.

When you then make women feel attracted to you during a conversation, they have a desire to kiss you, date you, have sex with you and get into a relationship with you.

When you then deepen her feelings of respect and attraction for you, she falls in love with you and wants to stay with you.

You can do that kind of thing today, so don't waste any more time thinking that you have to become a perfect man in all areas of life before you will be worthy of women.

A big part of becoming a better man is believing that you are good enough to get what you want and then having the determination to keep pushing forward and following through until you achieve it.

Why?

You won't be able to maintain confidence in yourself around women if you don't feel that you're good enough for them. Likewise, you are simply going to give up (e.g. when women test your confidence by playing hard to get) if you don't have the determination to follow through and get what you want with women.

You've got to feel like you are good enough right now and then simply build on who you are as you go through life. Rather than thinking that you're not ready to succeed, simply begin to make the most of life with what you've got to offer right now and then build on that.

You don't have to be perfect at everything.

Becoming a better man is a lifelong process of setting small goals that gradually get you to the point where you achieve big goals.

As I mentioned earlier, if a guy has a fear of approaching and talking to women, he needs to set a goal to become confident at approaching and attracting women and then achieve that. If he can't get past that point, then he is simply going to waste more months or years of his life feeling like he can't do it.

He can.

Once he gets past his fear of approaching women and has the confidence to approach women he finds attractive, his next goal should be about him having the ability to attract those women with his personality and confidence.

[image: Being able to attract her is usually enough to begin having a sexual relationship]

When he achieves the goal of being able to attract women with his personality and confidence, he can then begin to have sex and get into relationships with women.

Yet, if he never takes those small steps to achieve the incremental goals that are necessary for him, he will remain disconnected from experiencing what he really wants with women.

He might spend years building up a career in the hope that women like how much money he makes, but if he still can't approach or attract women properly, he's going to have to accept a lower quality woman.

Personally, I hate seeing guys waste half their life trying to build themselves up at work or in a gym, to then accept a low quality woman, when they really want a beautiful, attractive woman that they are proud to have as a girlfriend or wife.

My personal belief is that pretty much all men out there have the ability to get themselves an attractive woman. How? By being able to attract women with their personality and confidence.

When a guy is able to attract women with his personality and confidence, he then doesn't have to worry so much about being perfect in so many other ways (e.g. fashion sense, career, body shape, etc) because he is ALREADY attractive to women.

He can then put his energy into achieving things that matter to him, rather than wasting time trying to achieve things in the hope that it will impress women.

2. Let Go of Your Past Mistakes

[image: Let go of your past mistakes]

You've done or said some stupid things in the past, right?

Every guy has.

It's not just you.

Every guy has messed up at one point (or many points) in his life.

As we go through life, we live and learn. We are not born with 100% perfect knowledge on how to be an amazing man that women love and people look up to and respect.

We have to reach that point in life by learning, growing and moving past any mistakes we make along the way.

So, if you are the kind of man who has been holding onto your mistakes, make today the day that you let go.

Give yourself permission to be okay with the fact that you said or did some things that you now regret.

Everyone has made mistakes.

If you are serious about becoming a better man, then let go of your past mistakes.

We're on a planet that is floating in seemingly infinite space. We seem to come from a place that is eternal and has always been.

[image: You are one man in the universe. You're here with the rest of us. We're all here together.]

The fact that you've made a few little human mistakes along the way really isn't a big deal to the rest of the universe.

It's not your fault that you are limited to the five senses we humans have and it's not your fault that you have a human brain that needs to learn as it goes along, rather than being perfect and knowing everything already.

It really doesn't matter that you've made some mistakes along the way. What does matter is that you use this life to become the best man you can be and achieve your true potential.

Have a look at this (old) video by Carl Sagan (1934-1996) to be reminded of how insignificant, yet significant we are...

Your life matters, but I don't think that you should ever waste time thinking that you're a failure because you've made a few mistakes in the past.

We're all here on this planet and we've a human body to navigate it. We're learning. We're not perfect at everything and that's okay.

When you look at that way, a man who hides from life because he thinks he is a failure after making some mistakes is just laughable from a universal perspective.

We're on a planet with billions of humans in a galaxy with billions of other stars (most of them are suns, like our sun) that have planets orbiting around them.

You're not the only human on this planet who has said or done some things in life that now regret because you're wiser.

You're learning, you're growing and you're becoming a better man each and every day. So, don't be so hard on yourself. It really isn't a big deal that you've made some mistakes along the way.

What matters is that you try to do better things be better as a man from now on.

You have so much more potential than you likely give yourself credit for. You can be a great, amazing man that others (even if it's just your family, friends and coworkers) look up to and respect.

So, if you want to make the most of your life as a human man, let go of your past mistakes and start building a better future for yourself day by day.

Every day that you make progress towards your goals is day that you haven't wasted in vain.

3. Don't Be Afraid to Love

Now that I've discovered what true love really is, I always see people (not just men) around me who are afraid to love.

As a man, one of the most important things that you can ever achieve in life is the ability to love others from a place of emotional strength.

Essentially, this means that you are not afraid to show love to others because you don't need anything in return.

As a result of running The Modern Man for more than 10 years now, I've come across thousands of men who want to be successful with women, but are afraid of being rejected or dumped.

You've got to be stronger than that.

The ultimate fantasy for most women (in terms of relationships) is to meet a good guy who turns her on, but is also emotionally available and mature enough to truly love her.

A woman doesn't want to get into a relationship with a guy who is afraid to fully love her in case she leaves him, or a guy who takes all the love that he can get from her because he is emotionally insecure and needy.

She wants a man who is emotionally secure to the point where he wants her in his life, but he doesn't need her. He's not afraid to fully love her because if she did make the mistake of leaving him, he would be absolutely fine with or without her.

When a woman finds a man like that, she doesn't leave unless she is a woman of bad character (i.e.

she's untrustworthy, disloyal, etc).

If you want to be successful at picking up women or keeping a relationship together, you've got to get to a point where you're not afraid to love because you're not afraid to lose a woman.

If you can't ever get to that place as a man, your life will always be full of insecurity and fear about women. Why? Women hate to be placed in a position where they are responsible for a man's emotional security.

A woman wants to be with a man who is emotionally secure with or without her.

4. Be Careful of Getting Dating or Relationship Advice From Women

[image: Dating advice by women]

Women can be just as or even more intelligent than men in many ways, but when it comes to dating or relationship advice â□□ you have to be careful of listening to what they say.

For example: Women will often say that men need to be more sensitive, caring and understanding.

Yet, if you take that advice literally and only focus on doing that around women, you will fail.

Why?

Being more sensitive, caring and understanding is only more attractive to women if a guy is already very confident and emotionally masculine.

For example: Women are sexually attracted to the emotional strength of men and turned off by the weakness.

So, if a man is very confident around her and other people and emotionally masculine (e.g. he is calm under pressure, emotionally strong, etc) then a woman will respect him and feel sexually attracted to him.

However, if a man is nervous, has low self-esteem and lacks emotional masculinity, a woman isn't going to say, "WOW! You're not only a wimp, but you're also really sensitive. I want you!"

Instead, she's just going to feel turned off by his emotional weakness and confusion about how to be an attractive man. When a woman is feeling turned off by a guy, she's not going to then be turned on by his sensitivity.

So, you have to be careful about taking what women say too literally.

99% of women do not make statements like that and then follow up with explicit instructions on how to attract them using that approach.

Instead, they expect that men already understand how to attract women and then simply add in that they would like men to be more sensitive, caring and understanding.

When a woman meets a good guy who turns her on (i.e. he's confident, charismatic, funny, has a masculine vibe, etc) she doesn't need him to be sensitive, caring and understanding right away.

Women are only talking about AFTER they've had sex with a guy or DURING a relationship.

Yet, they aren't going to spell that out for guys who don't understand how to attract women.

By the way...

Men not knowing what actually makes women feel attracted and turned on, is one of the 3 things that a lot of attractive women hate about single men...

As you will discover from the video above, it's very easy for a woman to make a man attracted, because we men instantly feel attracted to a woman's looks.

Yet, we men need to be able to attract women by displaying that kind of personality traits and behaviors that women are naturally attracted to (e.g. confidence, charisma, charm, masculinity, humor, etc).

If a guy follows the advice of women (e.g. Be nice, be a gentleman, be sweet, etc), he's going to get rejected by most women. Why? None of those behaviors are what turn women on sexually.

Women only appreciate it when a guy does nice things AFTER she is attracted to him. Watch this video for more info...

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but it's not what turns a woman on sexually.

If you want to begin a sexual relationship with a woman, you must start with sexual attraction. Then, and only then, does advice from women (i.e. be nice, be a gentleman, be loving, etc) begin to make sense.

Don't Waste Another Day of Your Precious Lifetime

[image: Don't waste another day of your precious life]

"Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn't do than by the ones you did do." Mark Twain, American Writer, 1835-1910

"When one door closes, another opens. Yet, we often look so long and regretfully at the closed door that we do not see the new one, which has opened for us." Alexander Graham Bell, Scottish born inventor, 1847-1922

As you go through life, you're either going to feel increasingly proud of the man you have become, or you're going to look back in regret at a life that you've been wasting.

If you are serious about becoming a better man, then make today the day that you begin working on what you need to improve and achieve to get to where you want to be.

If you need to improve your life with women, then click around my site and I will share my secrets to success with women...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with

women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Should a Guy Get His Ears Pierced?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Most people don't really care whether a guy has his ears pierced or not.

It's really not that important.

Sure, certain types of guys tend to get their ears pierced to fit in with a certain crowd (e.g. skaters, goths, Jersey boys, hipsters, etc), but his earrings are not the thing that makes him a cool guy who is attractive to women and respected by other guys.

Being attractive to women has a lot more to do with how you think, behave and act around women than what you look like.

You don't have to have an earring to be attractive to women, but you can have one if you want. Most women are much more attracted to how your personality makes them feel, rather than whether or not you have a piece of metal in your ear.

[image: Ugly guy has a baby with a beautiful woman]

[image: Black guys with white women]

[image: How is this possible?]

[image: Everyday couples]

[image: Asian guy with white girlfriend]

[image: Ugly guy with hot cheerleader girlfriend]

[image: Guy with a weird nose with a beautiful girlfriend]

[image: Guy with big ears with beautiful girlfriend]

[image: White man marrying a black woman. Asian guy marrying a black woman]

[image: Fat Asian guy with pretty girlfriend]

[image: Asian guy marrying pretty white girl]

[image: Fat guy with a skinny girlfriend at the pool]

[image: Fat guys with pretty women]

[image: Fat men marrying beautiful women]

Some women will only go for perfect looking, male model guys, but the majority of women are much more attracted to how a guy's personality makes her feel.

If he happens to have earrings, then good for him, but an earring is not the thing that makes a woman say, "WOW! I want to have sex with you" or the thing that makes confident, cool guys look up to him respect him.

Many guys mistakenly assume that women are only attracted to men because of what they look like or what they wear.

For example: A guy might ask, â□□ If I get my ears pierced, will I be more attractive to women?â□□ or â□□ If I wear a certain color shirt, or a particular type of cologne, will women be *more attracted to me?*â€œ

Yet, what these guys don't realize is that they can attract women with their personality and confidence and that most women (not all) don't really care if a man has his ears pierced or not.

It's Not All About Your Looks

[image: Confused men thinking that it's all about looks]

Yes, some women are superficial and place a lot of importance on a guy's looks, but most women don't.

The majority of women are much more interested and attracted to how your personality makes them feel, rather than all the superficial things about how you look.

It's hard for a lot of guys to accept that because most guys waste their life believing that women feel attracted to men for exactly the same reasons that men feel attracted to women.

In other words, most men think that their attractiveness to women is mostly based on their looks because that's how we men feel attracted to women.

Initially, most men are attracted to a woman based purely on how she looks physically. It doesn't matter if the woman is smart, has a great personality, wears nice shoes or drives a nice car.

If she's physically attractive, most guys will want to have sex with her purely based on her looks.

This is why youâ€œll often hear guys saying, â€œThat blonde over there is definitely my typeâ€œ or â€œWomen with long hair / big boobs / who wear Goth make up are sexy.â€œ

A guy will feel attracted to a woman and want to have sex with her, (even if sheâ€œs not particularly intelligent or nice), simply because she has the â€œlookâ€œ that he finds attractive in a woman.

Women on the other hand, will mostly be attracted to things about men that are not visual and that are invisible to the naked eye.

As you will discover from the video above, you don't have to waste time trying to look a certain way to attract women.

Some women will only accept a male model with loads of money and diamond earrings, but the majority of women are much more attracted to how your personality makes them feel.

So, if youâ€œre asking, â€œShould a guy get his ears pierced?â€œ simply because you believe it will make you more attractive to women, chances are that even if you do get your ears pierced, youâ€œll still be getting the same results with women that you always have.

In fact, it might even make your results worse.

How?

If you think that getting earrings will make you more attractive to women, but they don't seem to be anymore interested in you, it might make you even more insecure about your ability to attract women.

The more insecure a guy is, the less attractive he is to women. So, if you want to be successful at attracting and picking up women, the main thing that you need to work on is your confidence.

When you have confidence in your sex appeal to women (with or without earrings), you will naturally be more attractive to women.

They will sense your confidence via your body language, vibe, attitude, behavior, conversation style and actions and it will turn them on.

Could Getting My Ears Pierced Make Me More Attractive to Some Women?

Yes.

Some women like guys who have earrings, while some women hate it.

For example: Some women who have tattoos and piercings will often prefer guys who have tattoos and piercings, because they think in the same kind of way.

However, if a guy goes out and gets tattoos and piercings just to hopefully be liked by women, then he's doing it wrong.

If you want to pierce your ears because it's something you want for yourself, then go ahead and do it.

On the other hand, if you're doing it because you hope that it will impress women, then don't waste your time.

Although a woman might initially like a guy's tattoos and piercings, her attraction to the superficial things about him will quickly fade if he isn't able to attract her with his inner qualities (e.g. confidence, emotional masculinity, etc).

A nervous, insecure guy with tattoos and piercings is just as unattractive to women as a nervous, insecure without any tattoos or piercings.

Even if you've heard women saying, "I love guys who have their ears pierced," or "Guys who wear earrings are so sexy," if you stick around long enough, you'll notice that these very same women will also date guys who don't have pierced ears. Why?

When a woman feels very attracted to a man's personality, she usually doesn't care whether he has earrings or not. A confident guy who knows how to trigger feelings of sexual attraction inside of a woman, can do whatever he wants and women will still feel attraction for him.

For example: A confident can wear shorts and a t-shirt and he will be more attractive to women than an insecure guy who is wearing expensive, highly fashionable clothes.

Your inner qualities as a man are much more attractive and important to most women than whether or not you have a little piece of metal in your ear.

If you don't really care if your ear is pierced or not, don't waste time on it.

If you want to be successful at attracting women, focus instead on making women feel attracted to your personality and confidence.

For example: Make her laugh, make her feel girly in your presence, let her experience your masculine vibe, etc.

When you attract women with your personality and confidence, they begin to look at your physical appearance in a more positive light.

Watch this video to understand how it works...

As you will discover from the video above, a man can be attractive to women with or without earrings.

If a man attracts women with his personality (e.g. by being charismatic, charming, confident, funny, masculine, etc), she will then begin to look at his physical appearance in a more positive light.

If he happens to have an earring, she might say, "I like your earring...it's sexy" but if he doesn't have an earring, she will still find him sexy and might say, "I like your shirt....it's sexy."

Most guys have no idea how a woman's attraction for a man really works and as a result, they get confused about all the random things that women say they like about guys.

Do Women Care About a Guy's Looks?

Yes and no.

If a woman notices a guy and hasn't yet had the chance to experience his personality up close, then she is naturally going to look at the superficial things about him (e.g. his looks, what he's wearing, his earrings, or whatever else she perceives about him as fitting in with her usual "type").

However, in most cases (not all), a woman will not get hung up on a "type," which is why a guy might encounter women throughout his life who say, "I love guys who have pierced ears; it's so sexy. I only date guys who are into piercings and tattoos."

Yet, he will often see these very same women dating, normal, plain guys who don't even have an earring.

The more attraction that a woman feels for a guy's personality (e.g. his charisma, charm, confidence, etc), the more she will begin to find that his look is attractive to her; even if he's the opposite of what she's been saying is her type all along.

So, based on what you've read so far, should a guy get his ears pierced?

Only if he really wants to.

When a guy can attract women with his personality, behavior and conversation style, he is not limited to making a woman feel attracted to him because of his pierced ears.

He can do whatever he wants (e.g. get his ear pierced, get a tattoo, shave his head or grow his hair long, etc) and most women will still like him and want to be with him.

Turning Women Off

Guys who lack confidence in their attractiveness to women often set their sights on a woman that seems to be out of their league.

For example: A shy, introverted, guy who is into gaming and computers may feel attraction for a woman who likes to hang out with a crowd that's into piercings, tattoos, etc.

If he attempts to approach her and she rejects him, he will usually assume that it's because she's only interested in guys who have pierced ears and tattoos, or because he's not good looking enough.

He doesn't realize that it's his unattractive behavior that is turning her off, not his lack of piercings.

Watch this video for more info!

As you will discover from the video above, if a guy doesn't know how to attract women with his personality, confidence and behavior, women aren't going to care if he has an earring or not.

If he behaves in one or more of the following ways, a woman won't be able to feel a deep and lasting attraction for him, and therefore won't be interested having sex or being in a relationship with him.

1. Is shy and insecure.

Women are instinctively attracted to emotionally strong men and repelled by weak, insecure men.

So, even if a guy fits a woman's description of her perfect man physically (e.g. he is tall, has an earring and wears good clothes), if he behaves in a shy, nervous and insecure way around her, she will label him as unattractive.

2. Tries too hard to be liked by women.

A guy who has low self-esteem will usually assume that most beautiful women are out of his league.

Feeling unworthy, he will then try to suck up to women by being a really nice guy or by trying to convince them that he is a good guy with good intentions.

Yet, what he doesn't realize is that women can be instantly attracted and that he doesn't have to waste time and energy trying to convince women to like him as a guy.

A guy who tries to convince women to like him will often point out how nice he is compared to other guys.

He hopes that if he can just get that point across to women, they will like him and give him a chance.

Yet, when a woman notices that a guy has a low self-esteem and doesn't feel good enough for her, she finds it almost impossible to feel attraction for him because she doesn't respect him as a man.

It won't matter if he goes out and gets his ear pierced with a diamond; he's still going to be unattractive to her because he lacks the fundamental traits of confidence that women look for in a guy.

Earrings Aren't For Everyone

[image: Should guys get their ears pierced?]

Some guys do look cool with earrings, but just because they look cool, it doesn't mean that you have to copy them.

You don't have to become someone that you're not just to be able to attract the type of women you really want.

Getting women to like you is becoming a stronger, more well-rounded version of who you are, not a confused, pierced guy who is hoping that a piece of metal in his ear will solve all of his problems with women.

If you have to ask, Should a guy get his ears pierced? it's obvious that getting your ears pierced not something you really want to do.

If you really did want to get your ears pierced because you think that it's a really cool thing to have, then you would just go ahead and do it and as a result, it would look cool on you because you would be being your true self.

However, if you're doing it because you hope it might make other people like you, then you're doing it wrong.

What you probably haven't yet realized so far in life is that you are ALREADY good enough for most women.

You don't have to stick a piece of metal in your ear to be attractive to women or to be liked by the cool crowd.

You've just got to know that you're already good enough as you are right now. If you want to add to who you are by getting your ear pierced, then go ahead and do it, but only if you think it's cool.

Whatever you think is cool is cool. That's the golden rule.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Become Popular

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

If someone has it, they usually worry about losing it. If someone doesn't have it, they usually want to know how to get it.

What am I talking about? I'm talking about being popular.

According to the dictionary, popular is defined as:

Popular (adjective): Liked, admired or enjoyed by many people, a particular person or a group. Being regarded with favor, approval or affection by people.

Essentially, it's about being someone who people like and if you're not currently that person, you can be.

A Simple Popularity Technique That Always Works

[image: How to become popular as a guy]

Whether you are starting out at a new job, have moved to a new city and are making friends or you're about to attend your first day of university, the secret is to know that you're good enough to be liked by others.

One of the biggest mistakes that guys make (it's different for women), is to act shy, vulnerable, unassuming or really nice and hope that people like them because of it.

If a woman acts like that, guys will usually love it because she is more approachable and girls will try to take her under their wing and include her in things.

However, as a man, you are always going to be much more respected, liked and admired by people if you are confident.

You have to believe and know that you are good enough to be liked by the cool crowd or cool people, in whatever environment you're in.

Insecurity (noun): Lack of confidence or assurance; self-doubt.

Confidence (noun): Belief in oneself and one's powers or abilities; self-confidence; self-reliance; assurance.

As you can see from the dictionary definitions above, having belief in yourself is what confidence is all about.

If you truly stick to a confident way of thinking all the time (in an easy-going way, not in an arrogant way), it will come through in your body language (e.g. your smile, eye contact, relaxed movements), vibe, conversation style and actions.

People will respect you because you're a cool guy who believes in himself, rather than another insecure actor who is hoping that people be gentle with him because he doesn't yet know if he fits in or not.

You've got to make yourself fit in by deciding that you're already good enough.

When you do that, you will naturally come across as a much cooler, likeable guy and you will automatically become more popular.

However, if you go around feeling like you're not good enough for the cool crowd or acting like you are way better than everyone else, the majority of people won't like you and therefore, you won't be popular.

Why Do You Really Want to Become Popular?

Are you looking into how to become popular because you want to become popular with people in general, or because you hope that it will get you laid or get you a girlfriend.

Being popular definitely does make it a lot easier for a guy to get laid or get a girlfriend, because women are naturally attracted to guys who are liked by others.

However, being popular is not the only way a guy can attract women.

For example: If a guy is introverted and doesn't want to be the most popular guy at work, university or wherever else, he can attract women in other ways.

When interacting with women, he can attract women with his confidence, masculine vibe, humor and charm.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can be successful with women whether you are popular or not.

As you will discover from the video above, a guy can be popular with women without having to be popular with loads of other people first.

Likewise, a guy who is attractive to women will find it much easier to become popular with people, than a guy who isn't attractive to women (e.g. a nervous, shy, insecure guy).

How to Become Popular: Where Guys Go Wrong

[image: Why am I not popular like other guys?]

Becoming more popular with people and women essentially comes back to your belief in yourself as being good enough.

When you know that you're good enough, you think, feel, behave and act in ways that people respect, like and admire much more than the thoughts, feelings, behaviors and actions of an insecure guy.

For example: An insecure guy who is trying to become more popular, might make some of the following mistakes:

1. Doing everything that other people want him to do.

Some guys become social conformists and people pleasers in the hope that if they just do whatever people want them to do, they will be liked because they are so agreeable.

Guys like that will do anything that popular people ask them to do, so that they can hopefully fit in with the cool crowd. Unfortunately, no matter how much they try to fit in and no matter how much they do to suck up to the popular people, it never seems to be enough and they always find themselves on the outside looking in.

2. Being reluctant to disagree with people or stand up for themselves.

In an attempt to be liked, insecure guys often allow themselves to be teased, harassed or ridiculed by popular people. They avoid disagreeing or standing up for themselves when they are being put down. The insecure guy hopes that by taking the hits, the popular people will let him hang around as a conversational punching bag.

Yet, because he isn't respected and admired by people, he never gets to become popular like they are. He's always the guy on the outside, the extra, the third wheel or the butt of people's jokes.

3. Investing his money in clothes, technology and other material objects to hopefully look like a popular person.

Sometimes, an insecure guy will buy all the kinds of things that he believes will make him look like a popular person.

He will get the latest cologne, drive the most expensive car he can afford, wear fashions that popular people wear and present himself as someone who looks the part.

However, material things are not what make a guy popular; as he soon finds out.

The real secret of how to become popular starts from within you. That being, your belief in yourself that you are already good enough.

If you don't think that you're good enough for the popular people, they aren't going to say, "Awwww! Come here insecure guy. Join us! We'll take care of you."

No.

That's not how it works.

You've got to believe that you are good enough and then let that come through in your body language, behavior, vibe, actions and conversation style.

4. Hanging out in all the "coolest" places in town.

In an attempt to become more popular, an insecure guy will often go to all the coolest places in his town, city or surrounding area.

He will then try to bring that up when talking to popular people, (e.g. "Hey, have you ever been to Silk Bar on William Street?") and then tell the popular people that he went and what he did there.

Yet, no matter how often he talks about the cool places he's gone to, he never quite comes across as being a cool guy because the popular people can sense that he's trying to be liked for things other than himself.

In other words, he doesn't believe that he is good enough and is trying to make people tell him that he's good enough because of all the places he's been going.

That's not how it works though.

Cool, popular people usually don't want to be adding lots of insecure people into their group of friends. The insecure guy might get to hang around the popular people at times, but they're not going to get close with him.

They will sense his insecurity and either ignore him, pick on him or give him as little attention as possible to keep him happy.

5. Acting as the "go to guy" for anything that the popular people need.

Since an insecure guy never feels like he's good enough, he will often take on the role as being the “go to guy” for anything that popular people need.

Whether it’s getting cheap tires for your car, the best study guides for a science exam or tickets for a concert – the go to guy will try to sort it out.

He will try to include himself in as many things as possible, so people are forced to talk to him or interact with him to get it done.

Yet, because he never has the confidence of a truly cool guy, he never becomes any more popular than simply being a part of something that everyone else is doing.

6. Pretending to be very confident.

An insecure guy will sometimes pretend to be surer of himself than he really is.

He hopes that if he can just act like a really confident guy, people will be impressed and want to be his friend.

Yet, acting confident is not the same as actually being confident.

The type of confidence that will make the most popular with people is relaxed, easy-going confidence – and that’s not something that can be faked forever.

7. Acting like a really nice, innocent friend to women, even though he wants to have sex with them.

In a desperate attempt to become popular with the ladies, some insecure guys act like a super nice friend to women and hope that they will eventually be liked enough as a person to get laid or get a girlfriend.

Acting as a nice friend is the worst strategy that guys can use when trying to be successful with women.

Here’s why...

As you will discover from the video above, there’s nothing wrong with being nice to a woman, but it’s not the thing that turns women on sexually.

If you want to be successful with women, you’ve got to be able to make them feel sexually attracted to you.

When a woman feels sexually attracted to you, she will then really appreciate the fact that you’re also a good guy.

However, if a guy is simply good to a woman and then hopes to be liked enough because of that to be rewarded with sex, love and devotion, then he’s simply doing it wrong.

First and foremost, a woman wants to be with a guy who makes her feel sexually attracted. If he is also a nice guy, that is seen as a bonus to her.

Yet, as you may have noticed, women will often go without the niceness and simply be with a guy who makes her feel sexually attracted, even if he doesn’t treat her very well.

Sexual attraction has to come first. Once you’ve established a woman’s attraction for you, everything else flows on naturally and easily after that.

Traits That Decrease a Guy’s Popularity With People

[image: Why am I not popular?]

If a guy wants to be popular, he really needs to sort out his inner issues first, otherwise the majority of people will want to steer clear of him.

For example:

1. Low self esteem.

Self esteem (noun): Confidence in one's own worth. Self-respect. A favorable impression of oneself.

Suffering from low self-esteem will often make a guy want to become more popular because he wants people to help make him feel better about himself.

Yet, people can sense his emotional neediness and it turns them off on a deep level.

They don't want to be responsible for making him have enough self-esteem to feel worthy.

A low self-esteem guy will often hope that if he can just become popular enough, people's admiration will then make him believe in himself.

Yet, if a guy doesn't believe in himself first, how can he expect others to believe in him?

Your rise in popularity begins when you start to believe in yourself. You can't expect others to believe in you and convince you that you're good enough, because they have their own life to worry about and focus on.

2. A lack of genuine confidence.

Confidence is something that comes through via your body language, vibe, actions, attitude, conversation style and behavior.

It naturally makes you more attractive to others.

However, pretending to be confident and putting on an act is easily seen through and recognized as being fake.

The most popular guys are those who have genuine confidence in themselves.

3. Insecurity.

Insecurity is a certain way to repel women and people in general. Beautiful women aren't attracted to guys who are unsure of themselves and always tries to please and conform with others.

The most popular, well-liked people in the cool crowd are usually those who believe in themselves and don't feel the need to impress others.

There will always be insecure people who hang around popular people or the cool crowd and while it may seem like the insecure person is popular, they aren't always well-liked.

For example: An insecure person might hang around popular people and essentially suck up to them or be a go to person for everything so they remain involved, but they aren't going to be well-liked.

As a guy, if you want to be popular in an effortless way, you've got to get rid of your social insecurities.

The more secure in yourself that you become, the more effortless your popularity and likeability will be.

4. Nervousness.

Worrying about what people think of him can make a guy feel nervous and this nervousness then translates itself into everything that he says and does.

The more he tries to act cool and in control, the more nervous he becomes because he's thinking way too much, rather than just being there in the moment.

Generally speaking, most people don't want to feel responsible for making another person feel nervous. So, rather than continuing to contribute to making a nervous person guy feel uncomfortable, most people will simply try to ignore him.

Obviously, being ignored by people is pretty much the opposite of being popular.

If you suffer from social nervousness, make sure that you take steps to fix that. You've got to fix your inner issues first and when you do that, your popularity with people will automatically improve.

5. Unable to stand up for what he thinks or wants to do.

Insecure guys will often try to go along with what everyone else is thinking or doing, just to fit in. He would rather get to be around the popular people, than be rejected by them, so he just accepts whatever they want to do and hopes that people like him.

If he tries to make a stand and suggest that everyone does something else, people don't follow along because he hasn't established his popularity within the group.

6. Afraid to be himself.

An insecure guy will feel as though his real self isn't cool enough for the popular people.

So, rather than be rejected for being his true self, he pretends to be someone that he's not just to fit in.

Unfortunately for him, he doesn't realize that being cool is about being comfortable in his own skin and embracing who you really are.

If you are your true self and you believe that it's good enough (in an easy-going way, not in an arrogant way), most people will respect and admire than and think you are cool for being yourself.

They will want to be around you more, because you're not afraid to be yourself, which makes you much more charismatic, appealing and interesting than all the fakers.

Becoming Popular With Women

As a guy, one of the best feelings in life is to be popular with women and have your choice of women, rather than having to take whatever you can get.

If you want to become popular with women and have lots of women interested in you at once, it all starts with you being able to attract women with who you are on the inside.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of direct control over how much or little attraction that women feel for you.

When you are the guy who is popular with women, you will automatically become popular with guys as well because they'll want to be your friend to hopefully get some of the women that you don't have time for.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Pick Up Women at a Swimming Pool

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

When it comes to picking up women at a swimming pool, many guys assume that the secret must be to have an athletic physique.

Yes, having a great body will get a guy some attention from women, but it's not always necessary to attract women...

[image: How to pick up girls at a pool]

Just like anywhere else that you can meet women, the majority of women (not all â€” don't get me wrong here) are more interested in how a guy's personality and confidence makes her feel than if he's got a six pack or not.

If a guy can approach a woman at a swimming pool and make them feel attracted to his confidence, charisma, charm and humor, most women (not all) aren't going to care if he has an athletic physique or not because they're already going to be feeling attracted to him.

When picking up women in any environment, you've got to work with what you've got (i.e. accept who you are right now and believe that it's good enough), rather than thinking that you need to wait another 10 years before you've built the perfect body and career.

You're ready to pick up the majority of women now. Yes, some women are more picky and will only accept a male model with loads of money and a perfect body, but most girls can be attracted by simply being confident, using some humor and showing them that you're comfortable being yourself.

What to Say When You Approach

[image: What to say when you approach a woman at a swimming pool]

What you say will depend on whether you're alone or with friends.

If you and her are there on your own:

You: Hey, how you doin' â€” enjoying the pool today?

Her: [Gives answer]

You: I'm enjoying it. I've already done 500 laps. How about you?

Her: [Most-likely laughing and asking, "Really? 500 laps"]

The conversation starts off in a confident, easy-going way and then you include some humor to make her feel attracted.

Here's another example...

If you and her are there on your own:

Smile and jokingly ask her, "Were you just checking me out?" and then hold the smile as you maintain eye contact with her.

She will then smile and laugh and most-likely say, "No" and you can then smile and jokingly add in, "I know that I'm great to look at and all, but I have a personality too."

By starting the conversation off in that way, you've created a fun, flirtatious vibe upfront and you're also making her feel attracted to your confidence.

After all, how many guys have the balls to walk up to a woman and joke around like that?

The type of humor being used there is what I call Playfully Arrogant Humor, which essentially means that you're pretending to be arrogant, which is what women find so funny and appealing.

You're not actually being arrogant and saying, "Hey, you want me because I look good." Instead, you're simply joking in a playful way, which women love.

Here's another example you can use...

If you are there with friends:

Approach her and her friends and say in a positive, confident way...

You: Hey guys...my friends and I are going to play ball in the pool. Do any of you want to join us?

If they say no, just smile and say in a confident and encouraging way, "Come on...we're at the pool. Let's have a bit of fun."

Asking if any of them want to join in is better than asking if they all want to join in, because if one girl says no, the others might follow if she's the leader of the group.

However, if one says yes, then most or all of her friends will go along because they'll be feeling the peer pressure.

What to Do Once You're Interacting With the Women

[image: Interacting with women at a pool]

The most important thing that a guy needs to do when he interacts with women (that he wants to pick up) is to make them feel sexually attracted to him.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can use it to pick up women at a swimming pool! ▶

As you will discover from the video above, you have a lot of control over how much attract a woman feels for you.

If you are able to display naturally attractive personality traits like confidence and a masculine vibe, you don't really need to worry about what to say to start a conversation with a woman at a pool.

You can simply walk up and say, "Hey, what's up?" and the girl will automatically feel attracted to your confidence and masculine vibe.

If you can add in some humor and attract her by being charismatic, most girls will feel more than enough attraction to be interested in kissing you, giving you their contact details or hooking up with you later for sex.

Common Mistakes That Guys Make

Here's the thing...

If you're a confident guy who can attract women with your personality, then you don't really need to worry about following approaching and dating rules because women are going to like enough to forgive or overlook any mistakes you make.

However, if you're new to approaching and attracting women, then you should try to stick to the basic guidelines to ensure that you're not making unnecessary mistakes that will turn women off even more.

For example, some guys can also make a mess of their approach by making a series of (avoidable) mistakes.

1. Not caring about who she is there with.

It is important for a guy to establish who is at the swimming pool with the woman he wants to pick up before he approaches her, so that when he makes his move he will know what he's dealing with and will be able to adjust his vibe and his approach accordingly.

For example: If she is there with her family, the guy will usually have to limit his flirting and innuendos so that he doesn't embarrass her in front of her parents and siblings.

Alternatively, if she is with a group of girl friends, he may have to establish a good vibe with her friends before they allow him to get alone with the girl he wants.

Of course, she might also be there with her boyfriend and his friends, which is why it's always best to approach women at a swimming pool in an easy-going way, casual way whenever possible, rather than going right into a pick up.

By the way...

If you want to make sure that the women you are approaching are definitely single, then I recommend that you attend a speed dating event.

If you want high odds that the women are single, bars and nightclubs are the next best thing.

Okay, onto the next mistake!

2. Showing off to get her attention.

Getting a woman's attention is not the same as interacting with her and making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by you.

A woman can look at a guy and give him her full attention without feeling any attraction for him at all, so if you want to ensure that a woman is attracted to you, it's important that you get in front of her in a 1-on-1 interaction.

When you do that, she will be able to experience your confident, charismatic and charming personality, which will make her feel attracted to you.

Need some help building up your confidence to approach women?

Watch this video...

As you will discover from the video above, most guys don't have the confidence to approach women that they find attractive.

When you are the rare guy who can walk up and make women feel attracted to you by displaying the kind of personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculine vibe, etc), then you will instantly get access to the women that most guys are afraid to talk to.

Many guys mistakenly think that to pick up women at a swimming pool, they should behave in the same kind way that they did when they were teenagers, because that's all they really know how to do in a pool environment.

Guys like that mistakenly believe that the best way to get a woman attracted is to impress her by diving off the highest diving board, walking past her while tensing up their abs, or generally making the loudest noise and splashing the most water.

Unfortunately for him, almost every woman on the planet is not impressed by childish behavior.

Some women (usually unattractive women) will like it when they see a guy acting like a child, because they instinctively realized that other women won't be interested in him, so they might have a chance with him.

If you want hot girls, make sure that you don't waste time trying to get their attention. Just get in front of them and attract them with your confident, charismatic personality.

3. Hoping that his muscles will get her feel enough attraction that she will approach or be excited if he approaches.

Yes, it is true that women do notice guys with muscles. It stands out.

However, if the guy with muscles simply sits around posing and hoping to get a "WOW!" reaction from women, he's usually going to be waiting his entire life.

While a woman can feel attracted to a guy's physique, the most important and powerful type of attraction happens when a man and a woman interact with each other.

Watch this video to find out why...

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with a guy working on his body and looking good, but it's not actually necessary to pick up the majority of women.

Some women will only accept a guy with a perfect body, but most women don't actually need that from a guy.

4. Being serious about wanting to help a woman apply sun tan lotion

There's nothing wrong with being a playful, funny guy who has the balls to walk up to women who are applying sun tan lotion, point to a part of a woman's back or body and say with a smile, "Hey! you missed a spot. You want some help applying that lotion?"

If you approach the offer to apply lotion as a joke in that kind of way, it means that you don't care whether she says yes or not. You're just messing around because you're a confident guy and don't care whether everything goes 100% perfectly all the time.

You're simply having some fun at the pool because you're a cool guy.

However, a mistake that some guys make is trying to sneak their way into an interaction with a woman by acting like they are genuinely concerned about her skin and want to make sure she applies the lotion correctly.

Women get a weird vibe from guys like that and refer to them as "creepy" because something about him is just off.

Think about it...

All of a sudden, a concerned stranger comes up and wants apply lotion to her skin because he's worried that she might get burnt.

Weird.

So, if you're going to walk up and offer assistance to a woman to help her apply lotion, just be playful and casual about it.

Don't act like you are seriously concerned about her skin because you're such a nice, caring guy who goes around helping pretty young ladies.

5. Being tense or uptight, rather than being laid back and enjoying himself.

When interacting with a woman anywhere (not just at a swimming pool), it's important that you allow her to relax around you by letting her see that you're relaxed and comfortable as you talk to her.

If a guy is nervous and anxious around a woman, it puts pressure on him to help him through it. Unless she is a mean girl, she won't want to feel responsible for him being so nervous and tense around her, so she will try to end the interaction as quickly as possible.

6. Waiting for the woman to make the first move.

Some guys think that the best approach to pick up women at a swimming pool is to wait around for a woman to make the first move, rather than being too forward.

Approaching and talking to a woman isn't "too forward" or rude or whatever. It's just you being a cool, confident and socially open guy.

She's lucky that a cool, good guy like you has come over to add more smiles and laughter to her day. You're not doing anything wrong by making her laugh, smile and enjoy herself even more, so don't sit around waiting and hoping that women approach you or give you extremely obvious signals to approach (e.g. waving and saying, "Come here handsome!").

Just get over there and make the woman feel attracted to you. Once a woman feels attracted to you, everything pretty much flows on smoothly after that unless she tries to play hard to get, to which you just laugh and keep going along with the pick up.

If she's a really tough nut to crack, give her a bit of her own medicine by being a bit of a challenge yourself.

Watch this video for more info...

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Do Women Like to Be Snubbed?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

To snub someone is to essentially ignore them and yes, it can sometimes work to get a woman's attention.

Snub (verb): Rebuff, ignore, or spurn disdainfully.

Essentially, if a woman is already very attracted to you and you then snub her (e.g. by ignoring her attempts to spend time with you), she will usually want to get your attention and try to make you like her too.

You will be a challenge for her to win over and it will be exciting for her, if she is already attracted to you.

However, if she's not attracted to you, she's not going to care if you snub her, ignore her or act like you're not interested in her.

When it comes to her love interests, a woman only cares about guys that she is attracted to. If she's not attracted to a guy, her attempts to ignore her mean nothing because she's not even interested.

Why Do You Want to Snub Women Anyway?

[image: Why do you want to snub women?]

Here's the thing...

You don't have to snub a woman in a mean way to get her interested enough to go on a date with you, get into bed with you and begin a relationship.

It's actually a lot easier than that.

All you need to do to get most women interested in simply make her feel attracted to you, then be honest with her and say, "You're sexy...I like you" and then take her out on a date.

On the date, simply make her feel more attracted to you, connect with her and then move the interaction forward to kissing, sex and then begin a relationship.

[image: Success with women is simple]

It doesn't have to be any more complicated than that.

You don't need to waste time snubbing and ignoring women. Just make the woman feel attracted to your personality and then move things forward with her.

Here is how a woman's attraction for a man works...

As you will discover from the video above, you don't need to meanly snub or reject a woman to get her to want you.

Attracting her to your personality and confidence is much easier. Get her attracted and then simply move it forward to a kiss, date, sex and relationship.

A Little Boy's Mind

When boys and girls are in kindergarten at 3-5 years old, one of the most common ways for a boy to show a girl that he liked her and to get her to notice him, was to push her or punch her.

He might also snub her and rudely tease her in front of others, even though he liked her.

When he gets into school and is between 8 and 15 years old, he might continue on with the same old tricks (e.g. ignoring women, teasing them in a rude way, pinching or punching, etc) and hope that it will work to make a girl try to get him to like her.

Of course, that won't work unless the girl is unattractive or a bit of an oddball.

If the girl is hot, she's simply going to tease him back and then chase after more charming boys.

Fast forward to adulthood and if a guy still hasn't been able to work out how simple it is to naturally attract a woman, express his interest and then begin dating her, he might be asking the question, "Do women like to be snubbed?"

For example: He might have tried using the nice guy approach on women, but after getting rejected again and again, he may start to think that women want to be treated badly.

It's confusing for a guy who doesn't know how simple success with women really is.

It's not his fault either.

With so much "dating advice" being included in TV sitcoms, movies and the millions of random "online magazines," modern men get all sorts of weird ideas such as:

- Treat her mean to keep her keen.
- Be the perfect gentleman and then she'll like you.
- Ignore her and she'll then notice you and maybe even approach you.
- Be romantic by getting her flowers and gifts and taking her to candlelit dinners and you will eventually win her over.
- If you want a woman to notice you, you should snub her and act like you don't care. She'll then be compelled to get you to like her.

If that's the type of advice that a guy relies on to get a woman's attention, he is likely to remain single for a long time.

If he does manage get into a relationship, he will most-likely become insecure, clingy and jealous if his girlfriend begins to lose interest after the initial spark wears off, because he secretly knows how much of a nightmare it was for him to get a girlfriend in the first place.

Women are a huge mystery to him. He has simply gone through life hoping to "get lucky" because like a lot of men, he mistakenly thinks that women are too difficult to understand.

They're not.

It's actually a lot more simple than most guys realize.

Watch this video to understand some of the seemingly strange and weird things about women, which make total sense once you understand why women really do them.

As you will discover from the video above, the strange behavior of women makes a lot more sense when you understand where they are coming from.

Would You Like it if a Woman Snubbed You?

[image: How would you feel if a woman snubbed you?]

How would you react if a woman treated you mean or ignored you?

Would you think she was a stuck up bitch and didn't know a good man when she saw one?

Here's the thing...

If you're at a point where you're still playing games with women, then you're not ready for an adult relationship.

If you want to attract a woman and get her into an authentic, loving, truly committed, adult relationship, don't start out by playing games with her.

Be real.

Make her feel attracted to your personality (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, charming, etc), express your interest after she is attracted to you, (e.g. "You're sexy...I like you") and then get her out on date with you or kiss and have sex with her on the first night you meet her.

It doesn't have to be any more complicated than that.

While snubbing a woman might get her attention and make her consider whether or not the guy's coldness towards her means that he could do better than her and is not interested, she won't be impressed if she is not attracted to him first.

If a woman is attractive, she's not going to care what random guys think about her. She's only going to be focused on the very few guys that she meets who can make her feel an intense attraction to their personality and confidence.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

As you will discover from the video above, you don't need to waste time snubbing women, ignoring them or trying to impress them by being a super nice guy.

Just make them feel attracted to you. It's pretty damn simple once you get it.

Here's the thing...

Getting a woman's attention by snubbing her doesn't mean that you're going to get laid or get her to be your girlfriend.

Attention is not the same as attraction and a guy can have a woman's attention without her feeling any sexual attraction for him at all.

Creating attraction (e.g. by confidently interacting with her, letting her experience your charismatic personality, etc) works better and faster and yields much better results than any cheap trick (e.g. like snubbing) ever could.

You don't have to treat women badly to get them to like you; you just have to be attractive to them.

If you're wondering whether or not you should be snubbing women, it's possible that you're also making a bunch of classic mistakes that are turning women off, making you feel insecure and getting you rejected...

Are You Making Any of the Following Mistakes Around Women?

Your success with women is based on how you think, feel, behave and act around women.

If you think like an insecure guy around women, you're going to get rejected because they will be turned off by your lack of confidence.

If you behave as though you're not good enough for the women you like, they will be turned off by your confidence.

It all comes down to how you think, feel, behave and act.

With that said, here are some classic mistakes that insecure guys make around women, which turn women off and result in more frequent rejectionsâ€¦

1. Trying to hide his lack of confidence behind aloof behavior

Aloof (adjective): Distant, uninvolved, uninterested, reserved, closed off to others.

When a guy is insecure, he will often try to cover it up by acting like he doesn't care to be involved in social situations.

He will keep to himself and hope that a woman likes him for being so introspective and distant.

What he doesn't realize is that being aloof only works for really good looking guys (they sometimes get approached by drunk, desperate or unattractive women) or for guys who've already had an interaction with a woman and made her feel attracted (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, funny, etc) prior.

2. Being cold or mean to women to show that he doesn't care about them

A guy who lacks self-esteem, will secretly believe that he's not good enough for the kind of women he really wants.

To cover up his low self-esteem, he will often act cold towards women in the hope that she won't realize how unsure of himself he really is.

He's hoping that she will think he's a confident, bad boy and that she should feel lucky to be interacting with him.

Yet, if she interacts with him for 1-2 minutes, she will pick up on his insecurity by instinctively analyzing the subtleties of his body language.

Here's the thing...

Who you really are inside always comes through on the outside via your body language, vibe, attitude, conversation style and behavior.

Some guys are good at acting and putting on a fake social persona, but they always give away subtle clues in their body language, vibe, attitude, conversation style and behavior.

The secret to success with women is not to "fake it until you make it." You've got to do it right, otherwise you will attract the wrong type of women and get dumped out of relationships when women realize that you aren't who you claimed to be in the beginning.

3. Feeling afraid to be his true self when talking to attractive women

If a guy is insecure, he will find it difficult to have fun, enjoyable conversations with attractive women.

He might be able to talk like a pro when chatting with unattractive women or with women who are already taken, but if he's talking to a hot woman who is available, his insecurities immediately start to kick in.

"What can I say to impress her?" or "I'm running out of things to say! She's going to lose interest!" or "What if I say something that she doesn't like and then she stops talking to me! Quick! What can I say that's cool?"

When his insecurities kick in, he then begins trying to say the "right thing" all the time to avoid messing up. His conversation style becomes boring, the woman picks up on the weird vibe and begins to put her guard up.

The next thing he knows, she says something like, "Ummâ□! I have to go to the bathroom. Bye" or "I have to go talk to my friends. Nice to meet you. Bye!" and never comes back.

4. Waiting for the woman to make the first move

A guy who thinks that women like to be snubbed is often the kind of guy who also waits around hoping that a woman will make the first move and choose him.

Unfortunately for him, 99% of women donâ□□t like to do the chasing and simply wait to be approached and seduced by a more confident guy who isn't afraid to go after what he wants.

Attraction is the Only Thing You Need to Focus on

When I first began trying to improve my success with women, I wished that there was some quick trick that I could use to get everything that I want (e.g. snubbing women, treating them mean, etc).

I tried all sorts of tricks and gimmicks until I realized that it had to be a lot more simple than that.

I noticed that other guys (who weren't even good looking) were hooking up with, getting into relationships with and even marrying hot women.

...and they weren't using tricks.

It took me a while, but I eventually realized that it is possible to instantly make a woman feel attracted to you by simply displaying SOME of the personality traits and behaviors that naturally attract women.

For example: Most women will feel a lot of attraction for you during an interaction if you're confident, charismatic, charming and can get her laughing.

If you're also a good guy, then you're seen as a "catch" or a "keeper" and women latch on with both hands and don't want to let go.

So, rather than thinking that all of your problems with women will be solved if you start snubbing or ignoring them, simply focus your attention on attracting women with your personality.

It's much easier, it works right away and once you know how to do it, you've got that skill for life.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

How to Be a Cool Man and Live an Amazing Life

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

To be considered as a cool man, you should aim to:

1. Be a man of purpose

[image: Be a man of purpose]

If a guy isn't on a mission in life and is simply wandering through life, wasting time and not really know what he should be doing with his life, he will come across as being uncool.

A cool man is a man who has important things to do. He has big dreams and ambitions and is following through on them to make it happen.

As a result, a cool man isn't going to waste time calling friends over and over again, to hopefully get to hang out with them.

If a cool man wants to arrange a dinner or drinks for some of his friends to catch up, he will call or text them to let them know, but he's not going to waste time chasing people who don't reply.

His sense of identity and happiness isn't based on one particular friend attending drinks or dinner with him. He has much more important things to focus on.

If that friend doesn't call back or come along, it is their loss, not his. They missed out on hanging out with a cool man who is living life with purpose.

However, if he were to hound that friend with calls and essentially beg for them to come (so he didn't feel lonely, or like his life wasn't worth anything because that person didn't like him), then he's not going to be seen as a cool man.

[image: Why don't people want to hang out with me?]

He's going to be seen as a yet another lost guy who is basing his sense of identity and feelings of happiness on random friends that may not even be a part of his life forever.

The thing that lasts forever (or at least for a very long time), is your humungous sense of purpose.

Think about where you are heading with your life. Are you on a path that is leading you to fulfill your ultimate dreams? If not, get on it.

Are you reaching for your true potential as a man, or just hiding away behind pointless hobbies, TV shows and a job that you hate? Get on purpose.

Do what you know that you should be doing with your life. What is that? It's the thing that you really want to do, but you think you might not be able to achieve.

It's the thing that you can see yourself happily doing for the rest of your life if you have to.

When you are the type of man who has important things to do, you're naturally not going to be as available and emotionally needy or insecure as a guy who has nothing important to work on.

If you want to be a cool man, the number one thing you need to do is get on purpose. Work out what your purpose is and begin to fearlessly walk the path all the way to success.

Yes, there will be obstacles along the way (there always are when you are trying to achieve something big), but if you are sure that it's your purpose and you are determined to make it reality, you won't give up.

You will keep pushing forward when things get challenging, which will be yet another thing about you that people see as being cool and admirable.

2. Be wise

Wise men are usually seen as being a lot cooler than clueless men.

When you know things about life, women, spirituality and success that other people don't know, it makes them feel drawn to you.

This life is confusing, weird and mind-boggling at times, so people tend to gravitate towards those who have a better handle on reality than they do.

People want to be able to get the guidance and wisdom of a friend who can steer them onto a better path that will lead to happiness, fulfillment, enlightenment and success.

Be wiser and you will be cooler.

3. Have a hot girlfriend or wife

[image: How to be a cool man. Have a hot girlfriend or wife]

Okay, so some people might think this one is shallow, but it's true.

Guys with hot girlfriends are usually seen as cooler than guys with ugly girlfriends.

Can't get a hot girlfriend? Watch this video!

4. Make people see the funny side of life

Using humor is not only a great way to make others see you as a cool man, but it's also good medicine for you too.

Laughing makes you feel good and there's nothing wrong with that.

A lot of intelligent guys want to showcase their intelligence when talking to people, so they avoid using humor and tend to stick to topics of conversation that reveal how smart they are.

Yet, being book smart is not the only type of intelligence that people value. What about social intelligence, emotional intelligence and spiritual intelligence?

These are different areas of intelligence that allow a man to be more wholesome, well-rounded and cooler as a result.

It takes a certain amount of social intelligence to be able to use humor in a way that most people like.

Watch this video for some examples!

As you will discover from the video above, the type of humor that I teach here at The Modern Man is the humor that talk show hosts use.

Talk show hosts need to be liked (and seen as cool) by the majority of people, so it's not a coincidence that they use that type of humor.

Of course, you might hate some of the talk show hosts that I mention in the video, but the fact is that the majority of the population likes them and sees them as being cool.

You don't have to act like a talk show host to be seen as a cool. The point is that there is a certain type of humor that most people see as being cool and if you want to be considered to be a cool man by most people you meet, you should consider trying it out and seeing how it feels.

5. Don't force people to focus on your weaknesses

As a man, there's nothing wrong with having a weakness in a certain area (e.g. you are afraid of approaching women), as long as you are fixing it.

If you want to be seen as a cool man, don't go around telling everyone about your weaknesses and expecting them to like you because you're so vulnerable.

It's fine for women to do that (because we men don't select women on how emotionally strong and tough they are), but it's not fine for men to do it.

As a man, you need to be strong. If you have a weakness or a problem, get on it and get it fixed.

While you are getting it fixed, make sure that you present the positive, strong parts of your personality because that is what will attract women to you and make others see you as being cool.

You're not going to get any cool points for saying, "I'm scared of approaching women" to attractive women or confident guys. They will usually just make you the butt of their jokes and use your weakness as something to pick on.

If you're afraid of approaching women (for example), just work on getting it fixed and then, when you are the type of guy who can confidently approach women, it will be yet another thing about you that people think is cool.

By the way...

If you need to build up your confidence to approach women, watch this video |

As you will discover from the video above, the guys who are afraid to approach women aren't seen as cool men.

When you see a guy who has the confidence to approach and attract women, you most-likely wish you could be his friend or be like him. In other words, you think he is cool.

As a man, if you want people to see you as being cool, it's important that you sort out your issues with approaching and attracting women. Guys who are good with women are usually (not always, e.g. if they are an asshole or jerk) seen as being cool.

How to Be a Cool Man: Where Guys Go Wrong

To understand how to be a cool man, you first have to understand what makes a guy seem cool or uncool.

For example: If you met a guy who displayed the following characteristics, what would you think of him?

1. He lacks social confidence

He is nervous, insecure and he thinks that everyone he talks to (especially women) is better than him.

Would you think he is cool, or would you feel sorry for him and see him as a bit of a social loser?

If he became more confident around people, would you think he is cooler? If you immediately answered, "Yes" then you know that social confidence is an important part of being cool.

Some guys might think about it for a bit and want to answer, "No" but just think about the guys that you admire and look up to.

They are most-likely more socially confident than you are.

No matter how a guy tries to reason with this issue, the fact is that the majority of people instinctively label socially confident guys as being cooler than insecure guys.

2. He is a defeatist

Defeatist (noun): A person who expects or is excessively ready to accept failure.

Everything that he does seems to end badly; usually because he gives up too quickly as a result of his defeatist attitude.

He has low self-esteem and doesn't believe in himself or his abilities. He's always got an excuse to tell his friends or others, "Other people can do it, but not me."

4. He is a complainer or a whiner

This guy will find fault with everything.

Nothing ever seems to make him happy and he will blame others for his failures and for his inability to be cool or to be successful in life.

It's those damn politicians, it's the voting committee, it's the corporations, it's the legal system, it's genetics, or whatever else he can think of to blame for his shortcomings.

I used to have a friend who would say things like, "Our society is screwed up man. There's no room on this planet for a genius guy like me...they don't get me...the idiots...I hate this world...bunch of idiots who have no clue what life is really about."

Unfortunately, he is still negative like that to this day. It should be no surprise to tell you that he is still horribly unsuccessful in life.

He complains about the government being hopeless and ruining everything for him. I said to him, "Man, if you're so pissed off with the government and you think you're smarter than everyone else....go and become a politician, or shut up."

He refused to shut up, so I refused to hang out with him any longer. I definitely don't label him as being a cool man. I simply feel sorry for him.

5. He lacks social intelligence

When a guy like this finds himself socializing with others, especially women and the "cool crowd," he seems out of sync with everyone.

He tries hard to fit in, but something is off. He might be an incredibly intelligent guy academically, but he has neglected the need to improve his social intelligence and is suffering a lonely, awkward life as a result.

6. He is hiding from his true potential in life

He knows that hiding behind TV shows, food, porn and other things doesn't make him a cool man and that he's being a chicken about it, but he just can't get over his fears.

He avoids being a forward thinker or follow through on big, ambitious goals because he knows that if he does he will actually have to do something about it and he's either too lazy or afraid to follow through.

Think about the men that you see as being cool in this world. They are almost certainly rising through the levels of their true potential as a man. They are not going to be hiding away behind TV, porn, food, alcohol and useless hobbies so they can waste more precious years of their life.

Of course, there is nothing wrong with watching TV, porn, eating comfort food, having a drink or trying things out in life, but if you aren't moving forward, full steam ahead towards your biggest goals and ambitions in life, then you're probably not going to be seen as a cool man by others.

7. He is a slave to the latest fashion trends, but no matter what he wears, he never feels good enough around the “cool crowd”

[image: If I wear this, will people think I am a cool man?]

He will go out and buy whatever is deemed to be the latest trend in clothing, accessories and gadgets. Yet, he will stand out in a negative way because everything about him says that he is trying too hard to be liked for things that have nothing to do with him.

It's who you are as a man on the inside that counts the most. In other words, are you socially confident, are you a man of purpose, are you socially intelligent, are you enlightened and are you wise?

8. He tries way too hard to impress others.

He will tell the wildest stories (and exaggerate them to hopefully get people to like him), agree to do things that he doesn't want to do and even support something he secretly feels opposed to; all in an attempt to impress others and to be liked and accepted.

9. He is not successful with women

He doesn't have a clue how to approach a woman and make her feel attracted and simply looks on at women and hopes that, one day, a woman might be so kind enough to give him a chance. He has no idea on how to get a woman feeling turned on by triggering her attraction in an authentic, masculine way.

When talks to beautiful women, he acts like a much nicer than he actually is (in the hope that it will make women “like” him and give him a chance) and pretends to just want to be friends and talk to her.

When in a relationship, he becomes insecure, clingy or jealous and ruins his girlfriend's respect and attraction for him. He might also be a bit too neutral around his girlfriend (fiancée or wife) and end up turning the relationship into a sexless friendship, rather than being a couple who are attracted to each other and excited about being in love.

Your Verdict?

After reading through all the negative qualities listed above, would you consider a guy like that to be cool or uncool?

You might feel sorry for him (I certainly do), but you're probably not going to look at him as being a cool man like a guy who has the opposite qualities.

For example: If a man displays the following characteristics, would you consider him to be a cool man?

- He is comfortable and at ease.
- He is confident and self-assured.
- He is mentally and emotionally strong.
- He is socially intelligent.
- He is not trying hard to be cool or fit in because he knows that he's already good enough.
- He is masculine in his behavior, actions and thinking rather than being neutral (i.e. like a dull, boring guy who suppresses his personality) or feminine (i.e. like a guy who acts girly to hopefully fit in with women).

- He is easy going and relaxed.
- He stands up for himself, for others and for what he believes in, while also being respectful to those he is standing up to.
- He is a forward thinker who has goals and ambitions that he is working towards.
- He is successful with women because he knows how to make them feel attracted to his personality and confidence.
- He is charismatic.

See the difference?

Which guy would you rather be?

The guy who lacks confidence, social intelligence and isn't good with women, or the confident, socially intelligent guy who is not only good with women, but is also pushing forward to reach his true potential as a man in life?

When it comes to the topic of how to be a cool man, it really all comes down to how you think, behave and take action in life.

It's very easy to complain, feel negative and feel like you're just never going to be good enough, but a cool man doesn't waste with that.

Instead, a cool man knows what he wants and then goes after it with unrelenting confidence and determination.

No matter how challenging life gets, the coolest of men are those who can remain standing and push on to victory.

What are your current goals in life right now? Are you pushing forward to achieve them with unrelenting confidence and determination, or are you hiding behind porn, TV and other things to distract yourself and waste more of your precious lifetime?

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

Should I Tell My Best Friend That I Love Her?

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

Your best friend will only be excited to hear that you love her, if she is already in love with you.

How can you get her to fall in love with you?

Simple.

1. Make her feel a lot of sexual attraction to you.
2. Make her feel like she has to impress you a lot more than she has already, before you will let her have a chance to be with you (i.e. be a challenge for her to win over).

Why do number 2 on the list above?

Watch this video to find out...

As you will discover from the video above, if your best friend is a beautiful woman, she will be bored of how easily other guys like her and fall in love with her. It's just so easy for her to get guys to have feelings for her.

She will also hate it when guys pretend to just want to be her friend and then eventually confess that they love her.

What she wants to experience is intense sexual attraction for you, have a unique connection between you and her and then feel the excitement of having to impress you to hopefully get a chance with you.

Of course, there are always exceptions.

Sometimes, you should tell a woman how you feel because she is really shy and unless you make it clear to her, she will probably just keep acting like a friend, even though she wants to begin a sexual relationship with you.

Watch this video for more info!

As you will discover from the video above, telling a woman that you are in love with her will not always be the best approach to take.

How Do You Think She Will React When You Tell Her?

Before you rush off and tell your best friend that you love her, you first have to really know why you're doing it.

For example, some guys waste a lot of time daydreaming and imagining what will happen when they finally a girl that they love her.

Magically, she says something, *â" Oh wow, really? I love you too and Iâ"ve been going crazy because I've wanted to tell you for so long! I really want to be your girlfriend. Letâ"s kick things off by having sex ASAP!*â"

If you want your best friend to respond in way that even closely resembles that, then you're going to have to make sure that first make her see you as more than just her â"best friend.â"

This requires you making her feel attracted to you first, not just being a friend to her.

Watch this video to understand how a woman's attraction for a man works and how you can ensure that your best friend has sexual feelings for you before you reveal your feelings for her!

Being friends with a woman is not the same as attracting her into a sexual relationship with you.

A guy can be friends with a woman for months or even years and she will instantly leave him behind if another guy who comes along and makes her feel sexually attracted, rather than pretending to just want to be her friend.

Have You Been Triggering Her Feelings of Sexual Attraction?

If you've been wondering to yourself, "Should I tell my best friend that I love her," the answer is that it really depends on the type of dynamic you've created with her so far.

It also depends on how much you care about her response. If you just want to tell her that you love her and don't care what she says or what the outcome is, then just go ahead and say it.

Women have a lot of respect for guys who are fearless with love, but unless you've made her feel attracted to you in other ways, it usually won't be enough for her to fall in love with you.

Here's the number one thing that you need to understand about women!

To get a woman to want to be in a sexual relationship with you rather than just a friendship, you must focus on actively triggering her feelings of sexual attraction for you.

The more attraction she feels, the more desire she will have to be in a relationship with you and the easier she will fall in love with you.

If you tell your best friend that you love her without first triggering her feelings of attraction, she will most-likely just give you one of these classic excuses:

- "I really like you, but I think we are better off as friends."
- "I don't want to ruin our friendship."
- "Lol! don't be silly. You're my best friend! I don't look at you in that way."
- "Your friendship is more important to me than having you as a boyfriend."
- "You're like a brother to me."

So, if you're wondering, "Should I tell my best friend that I love her," first make sure that you haven't been making the classic "best friend" mistakes that other guys make.

For example:

1. Have you been her shoulder to cry on, especially when other guys are treating her badly?

Women love to talk about their feelings all the time, and who better to do that with than a best friend.

Some guys make the mistake of hoping that if they can just be the special guy that a woman turns to (e.g. when she's having a bad day and wants to talk), then she will eventually realize that they should be together as a couple.

He hopes that, over time, she will see that they get along so well, which will then make her think, "Huh? Why am I wasting time with all the assholes I've been dating? I should be with my best friend!"

Sure, that sometimes works out when a woman is getting old and can no longer attract a lot of men, or when a woman is unattractive and doesn't care what type of man she gets.

However, if a woman is hot and she can easily attract other men, she isn't going to get into a relationship with a guy who feels more like a friend than a boyfriend.

Why?

For ongoing sexual attraction to exist between a man and a woman, they cannot behave like friends. Behaving like friends creates a neutral sexual dynamic, which cancels out the desire for sex.

For sexual attraction to be strong initially and remain strong throughout a relationship, the woman has to feel feminine and girly around the guy because he is so masculine in how he thinks, feels, behaves and takes action in life and around her.

While a man and woman who are friends can initially hook up and enjoy exciting sex a few times, the desire will quickly fade away if there isn't a strong difference between the two in terms of masculinity and femininity.

For example: If the guy acts more like one of her girlfriends than a confident, masculine man, she might enjoy sex the first couple of times they do it because it will be exciting to hook up with a friend, but after that novelty goes away, her desire will fade away because they feel neutral around each other.

Some guys reading along now would be happy to just get to have sex with their friend a few times, but before you get ahead of yourself, you have to understand that it's pretty rare for a woman to be willing to have sex with a neutral friend.

Here's the thing:

A man being a woman's special friend doesn't mean that she will want to have sex with him at all.

Just like when a woman calls her girlfriends to talk about her feelings with them, but doesn't want to have a sexual relationship with them, when a guy has been placed in the "friend zone," she's not going to see him as being different to all her other friends; because he's serving the same function as they are (i.e. he's her shoulder to cry on).

Just because he's there for her as a friend, she's not going to suddenly wake up one day and think, "Wow! The love of my life has been here all along; how could I have missed it?" and then they walk off into the sunset like actors do in the movies or characters do in women's romance novels.

In the real world, most women (about 95% based on all the stories I've heard over the years) will simply continue to enjoy having the "good friend" around at her beck and call, while she goes out and enjoys dates and sex with other guys who are making her feel sexually attracted and turned on.

2. Have you been too nice to her?

At this point a lot of guys are going to say, "What's wrong with being nice to a woman? I like being a nice guy and I refuse to be a bastard or an asshole just to get a woman to like me."

Hold up a second.

There's nothing wrong with being a nice guy. In fact, being a good guy is attractive to women.

What most guys don't realize is that being "nice" to a woman is not about being a push over around women and essentially kissing their ass with polite, generous behavior and gestures.

You can be nice, but you also have to get her to be nice to you too. Being nice to a woman might make a woman be nice back to you (not all women), but if you want her to be interested in a sexual, romantic relationship with you, it's not enough just to be nice.

You also have to make her feel attracted.

Watch this video to understand whyâ

As you will discover from the video above, there's nothing wrong with being nice, but you've also got to make sure that the woman is feeling sexually attracted and turned on by you.

Some nice guys look at other guys who spark a woman's feelings of sexual attraction and they assume that the guy is being rude, too forward, sleazy or a jerk.

Sure, in some cases that is true, but not always.

Good guys who are successful with women don't achieve that by kissing a woman's ass with overly polite and nice behavior. They simply continue being the good guy that they are, but they also make sure that they say and do the kinds of things that turn a woman on.

When a typical "nice guy" sees a confident guy interacting with a woman, he will often assume that the confident guy is a jerk or arrogant prick because he assumes that the woman likes him.

Yet, the truth is that women actually prefer men who are confident, masculine and who believe in themselves. You don't have to be a jerk to believe in yourself â you just have to be confident.

Being a nice guy isn't the special, amazing thing that makes a woman want to have sex with a guy, because pretty much all of the guys that a woman meets are â niceâ guys or at least act like a nice guy around her.

It's easy for her to find a nice guy any time she wants. However, finding a good guy who also makes her feel sexually attracted is not easy.

If you want to tell your best friend that you love her, then just make sure you're not simply another â niceâ guy to her.

3. Does she look up to you and respect you as a man?

Having a woman as a best friend can be great.

In many ways women are better listeners than men, and if there are things in a guy's life that are getting him down, discussing his problems with a woman will often help him feel a lot better.

However, when a guy resorts to constantly whining and complaining to a woman about his problems without finding a solution and fixing the problem, she will never consider him to be â boyfriendâ material because she can't fully respect him as a man.

For a woman to feel sexually attracted to a man, she needs to first feel respect for him and be able to look up to him.

If you want your best friend to feel respect and attraction for you as a man, you need to show her that you are mentally and emotionally strong enough to face whatever life throws at you.

When she feels as though you are stronger than her, mentally and emotionally, she will respect you and as a result, she will also feel attracted to you.

×

[image]

Almost there! Please complete this quick form to gain instant access.

[image: Dan Bacon]

You are about to discover my personal secret for success with women. This FREE video will BLOW YOUR MIND (I promise!)

WATCH VIDEO (FREE)

Yes, I want free tips via email from Dan Bacon. I can unsubscribe at anytime with a click. Privacy policy.

She is Not Ready For a Relationship. How to Change Her Mind Today

September 17, 2020 | by Dan Bacon | Link | Original Link

What does it mean when a woman says she is not ready for a relationship?

There's usually just one main reason why (she doesn't feel enough sexual attraction for you, which you can easily change and I'll explain how in a minute), but there can also be a few other reasons why a woman will say that she's not ready for a relationship with a guy.

For example...

It could mean that she's the type of woman who has trust issues because of a difficult childhood (e.g. her father abandoned her), or because she's had a lot of problems in relationships with other guys in the past.

It could also mean that she is the type of woman who is only interested in casual sex and dating at this point in her life.

As surprising as that may sound to some guys, a lot of women now enjoy the freedom of having sex with different guys, without ever getting into a serious relationship with any of them.

According to a study in the USA, 55% of couples admitted to having had sex on their first date and a European study found that 70% of women had experienced a one-night stand.

In other words, sex now happens all the time and usually very quickly (or immediately) after a man and woman meet and feel attracted to each other.

So, this particular woman that you like may be trying to tell you that she only wants casual sex and doesn't want you falling madly in love with her and then asking her to marry you.

Another reason why a woman will say she is not ready for a relationship is because she is young and wants to focus on school or her university studies, rather than being swept away into a lifelong relationship with a guy.

All that being said, in most cases, the main reason a woman will tell a guy she is not ready for a relationship, is because she is trying to reject him without hurting his feelings.

She knows that he really likes her, but because he hasn't done anything to make her feel attracted to him (i.e. he's just been a nice friend to her), when he brings up the subject of them possibly being a couple, or if he suddenly tries to kiss her or initiate sex, she has to think of a reason to reject him; without being too mean about it.

So, rather than saying, "Hey, look you're a nice guy, but I don't have any feelings for you because you haven't said or done anything to turn me on. All you do is treat me nicely, which is great if you want to be my friend, but it's not going to make me want to have sex with you," she will just say something vague like, "I'm not ready for a relationship right now."

In most cases, the guy will then think that he might have a chance with her if he can just wait a bit longer, continue to treat her nicely and be an even better friend to her.

Yet, if he doesn't do anything to make her feel sexually attracted to him, he will most-likely see her getting in a serious relationship with another guy within days or weeks of saying to him, "I'm not ready for a relationship. I need time."

Why would she say that and then get into a relationship with another guy?

Simple.

The other guy will bypass her logical reasoning of not wanting to be in a relationship by making her feel sexually attracted and turned on by him during their interactions.

He will then have sex with her and after they have that intimate connection in bed, if he also has the ability to make her feel like she'd be lucky to be in a relationship with her (i.e. he is a challenge), she will then begin to try to convince her to have a relationship with her.

Huh?

She didn't want a relationship and now she's trying to convince another guy to get into a relationship with her. How is that possible?

Watch this video to understand why women react in that way to guys who are a challenge to win over!|

As you will discover from the video above, most women are bored at how easily impressed and interested 95% of guys are in having sex and beginning a relationship with them.

It's so damn easy for an attractive woman to get laid or get a guy interested in a relationship.

So, after she gets bored of experiencing the instant, "Yes! I like you" reaction from 95% of guys, a woman will naturally begin to feel more attracted and excited to meet a guy who is more of a challenge to win over.

Yet, most guys aren't aware of the reality that women live in.

So, when she hooks up with the new guy, it's only natural for her male friend to feel confused, hurt, betrayed and even angry at what has just happened.

After all, he's been so nice to her and they got along so well. So, what is her problem? Why would she do that to him? The bitch!

No, she's not a bitch. She's simply reacting to her feelings of attraction. A woman will naturally be interested in having a sexual relationship with a guy who makes her feel sexually attracted, rather than a guy who just makes her feel friendly emotions.

Watch this video to understand why!|

Feeling confused about why a woman would behave in that way, a guy who has been rejected might call her a bitch behind her back, or feel as he's just not good enough for women.

He might think, "It's because I'm not good looking enough. If only I looked like a model, then women would like me" or "A woman like her wouldn't date a guy like me. What was I thinking?"

[image: If only I was better looking]

Yet chances are, if he looks at the guy she ended up dating, he will most-likely see that he's not any more better looking than himself.

Instead, the other guy simply has a more attractive personality than he does (i.e. he is more confident, has a more masculine vibe, can make her laugh by using the type of humor that women secretly love, etc).

If he doesn't understand how a woman's attraction for a man really works, he might think, "What does she see in him? He's so ugly! I just don't understand. What has that guy got that I

donâ€™t?â€

What he doesnâ€™t realize is that he could just as easily have been that guy to her. He could be the one dating her right now; if only he had done the right things to trigger her feelings of attraction for him.

Watch this video to understand how a womanâ€™s attraction for a man really works and how you can use it to make sure that this woman wants to be with you and not some other guyâ€

First and Foremost, a Woman Wants to Feel Sexually Attracted to You

In most cases, for a woman to want to kiss, have sex and be in a relationship with a guy, she first needs to feel enough sexual attraction for him to justify taking the relationship to that level.

Sometimes, a woman who lacks experience with guys or who is desperate for some attention, will go ahead with kissing and sex just for the fun of it.

However, if a woman is attractive and has had experience with guys before, she will usually reject a guy until he has made her feel a sufficient amount of sexual attraction.

So, when a woman tells a guy that she is not ready for a relationship, what sheâ€™s really saying is, sheâ€™s not ready for a relationship with him at the moment, but she could be if he changes her approach.

His approach is off because heâ€™s usually making one or more of the following mistakes:

1. He wants to be in a relationship with her, but heâ€™s pretending to be her friend.

Some guys feel shy, nervous and insecure around women they like because they donâ€™t know how to get her to feel as they do.

Without having much of an idea of how to make his crush feel sexually attracted to him and turned on by him during interactions, a guy will usually try to â€growâ€ on a woman by pretending to just be a friend and hoping that, over time, she will come to like him because heâ€™s such a good guy to her.

Rather than make his intentions clear right from the start (i.e. make her feel attracted and then say something like, “You’re sexy...I like you”), he assumes that by being a great friend to her, she will eventually wake up one morning and sheâ€™ll realize that sheâ€™s madly in love with him.

Of course, thatâ€™s how it works in Hollywood movies.

It’s so sweet, isn’t it?

Awww, the nice guy friend gets the girl in the end. Awwwâ€how sweet.

Yayy!! Let’s go skipping and dancing! Oh, look at the rainbows! Oh, everything is so sweet and nice in fantasy land.

In real life, a woman will simply wait for a guy to trigger her feelings of sexual attraction. If he isn’t able to make that happen, she will remain â€switched offâ€ and place him in the same category as a brother or a favorite cousin â€nice, but definitely not relationship material.

2. Heâ€™s being way too nice to her.

Just because a woman likes a guy as a person, it doesnâ€™t mean that she will then feel sexually attracted to him.

Of course, there's nothing wrong with being nice to a woman. In fact, when a guy has made a woman feel sexually attracted to him first (e.g. by being confident, charismatic, having a masculine vibe, etc) and he is then nice to her, she will see him as being a charming guy.

As you may have noticed, women love charming guys and hook up with them for sex and relationships, but nice guys just get to be a friend.

A mistake that some nice guys make is to assume that if he is extra polite to a woman, does whatever she wants and pays for everything, she'll then be impressed by him and give the go ahead for a sexual relationship to begin.

That's just not how it works.

Women don't decide which guy to have a sexual relationship with based on who is the nicest and most well behaved around her.

If that was how human attraction worked, men would have to lay down on the ground and be walked all over by women in high heels to be considered worthy enough.

It would turn into a competition between men of who can be the nicest, sweetest, most polite guy in the world. Guys would go to all sorts of crazy extremes to show women how nice they were.

Can you imagine it?

Women rewarding men for how nice they are? Some nice guys who read this will want that world to exist, but it doesn't.

In the world that you and live in (whether you and I like it or not), women want to have sex with guys who have the personality traits and behaviors that turn them on (e.g. confidence, charisma, masculinity, etc).

You can literally attract women in more than 100 different ways by displaying certain personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women.

Watch this video to understand how it works!

As you will discover from the video above, a woman's attraction to a man works in a completely different way than most guys realize.

When you attract women in other ways (e.g. by being charismatic, charming, confident, funny, etc), she will then look at your physical appearance in a more positive light.

Even though a guy might not have male model features, she will look at him as being handsome, appealing and attractive because she is feeling a lot of attraction for him in other ways.

It's weird, but that's how attraction works.

If you don't accept that now, you will eventually realize it and regret wasting more of your life thinking that you're not good enough.

You are good enough for the majority of women on this planet. All you've got to do is be able to trigger their feelings of attraction by displaying the personality traits and behaviors that are naturally attractive to women.

3. He's nervous and insecure around her.

Most women are attracted to emotionally strong men and are repelled by men who are emotionally weak.

An emotionally strong man will have a lot of confidence, self-esteem and belief in himself, whereas an emotionally weak man will be insecure and won't be able to maintain his confidence when challenged (e.g. when a woman plays hard to get).

When a guy is confident in himself and his value to women and the world, he is not going to feel nervous or insecure around women; even if they are really beautiful.

He never thinks, "Wow! She's so beautiful; she would never date a guy like me."

Why? A confident guy will know that women are attracted to men for reasons other than looks or money. He will have seen that women are naturally attracted to his confidence, compared to how turned off they are by insecure guys.

