Let's get the weekend started with a meme that spoofs our recent brigaders...	16
How our bloopie brigaders think, part 2 (weekend meme)	17
Weekend humor x-post from alternative forum; I've never used Tinder myself, but this is also what OLD was like back in 2002-2004.	18
(New forum x-post): Mega-disaster pregnant single mom. Don't ask about her "baby father" b/c "he was killed". Wait, what? By her? By police? In a drug deal gone awry? What kind of nefarious person was he? Oh, wait, don't ask. At least w/ so many kids, she won't be saying "Everyone I Love Is Dead".	19
Let's start the weekend with another x-post from forums.red	20
A 37-year-old single mom wants more kids. Most relationships in this modern world are a "Prelude To Agony", but getting with single moms are especially so. (X-post from forums.red)	21
After her divorce, Carol climbs back upon the cock carousel in an attempt to capture commitment comparable to what she'd discarded. No, sweaty, of course you're not the problem! You go, gurrll! (forums.red crosspost)	22
42 year old career woman wants marriage and kids, "someday". Will you Man Up™? Or will you tell her it's #TooLate for that, and she's stuck with "Some Stupid Tomorrow" with all her pets? (forums.red crosspost)	23
Carol complains about Chad's behavior, but gets exposed for choosing Chad for sex and friendzoning the NiceGuy™. (forums.red x-post)	24
44-year-old "looking for something real" while wondering "do guys want real?" Also wants kids "someday", though she's now on "The Dark Side of The Womb". (forums.red crosspost) ...	25
Allegedly "Christian woman" wants to be spoiled by a sugar daddy, but without having to put out. Also claims a GRADUATE DEGREE, but I wrote better than this while in elementary school.	26

Blopie reddit in a nutshell (weekend content)	27
I doughnut think anything could be cruller than this metaphor (weekend meme)	28
Single 35f is so envious of her little sister and all her friends, she can't even be happy for them and their relationships. Her envy must feel like her "World Coming Down". (X-post from forums.red)	29
Mod announcement: please use the report feature when interlopers spout their garbage (forums.red x-post) Single mother realizes she's lonely, and that being a single mom is "so so so hard". Maybe she should have waited to conceive within marriage, instead of either choosing a guy who wouldn't stick around or driving a decent man away.	30
She thinks she DESERVES healthy relationships (among other things), while posting pics on Twitter of her in lingerie. Pro-tip: if you don't take action for the things you want, you DO NOT "DeSeRvE" those things. (forums.red x-post)	31
□ she feels defeated / □ and mistreated / □ when will she be loved? □ (forums.red x-post)	32
Being a single mom is "lonely AF", with no time to ride the CC. What can a woman POSSIBLY do to avoid such a lonesome fate?! (forums.red x-post)	33
(forums.red x-post) Older single mom gets date cancelled on her for a televised NBA game. Ouch.	34
(META) Celebrating 80k subscribers, and announcing an addition to rule 6	35
Dual-Mating Strategy modified: should she be with her alpha fucks or her beta bucks? Why not string them BOTH along?	36
Yes, "sparks" (aka tingles) are what you build a good relationship on. That's why you're still with the last guy with whom you had sparks, right? (Alternate forum x-post)	37
Single mom w/ 2 baby daddies seeks replacement father figure. OF COURSE they were "abusive". □ "if I don't get a guy interested in me through sex all the other stuff chases them away"; bad news: even WITH the sex, your baggage will chase away any man w/ options and/or self-respect. Alt forum x-post	38
Inspin single mom is eaten alive with loneliness and sadness	39
(Forums.red x-post) Leftover woman surprised to find that traits that increase men's attractiveness to women DO NOT also work in the other direction. But... but... but... muh blank slate equalism!	40
"Oh, you're everything I know I'm supposed to want in a man? Into the Friendzone you go!" (forums.red x-post)	41
(alt forum x-post) Her baby daddy "is not a good person" (doubt). Maybe she should have vetted him before having his kid, and ending up the way so many single moms do: "lonely and craving a certain type of intimacy that can't be achieved by casually hooking up", aka INVOLUNTARY SPINSTERHOOD!	42
A few quick thoughts on the banning of two large manosphere subreddits	43
It's Fuck It Friday, so let's begin the weekend with an incredibly accurate meme in support of the MGTOW who lost their subreddits (alternate forum x-post)	44
"Hookup culture is garbage" she says, WHILE participating in hookup culture. (Crosspost from alternate forum)	45
Starting weekend rules by bringing back a weekend classic (alternate forum x-post)	46
Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs	47
How should she go about getting her "4liferr" and be certain no one tries to play her? Oh, I	48

know! Use a hookup app, and make her profile pic in her underwear with bare cleavage and a hand on her crotch! That just SCREAMS "wife material". (X-post from alt forum)	52 forums.red crosspost: "Alpha males only" but then proceeds to list beta traits such as "provider", "generous", and "kind". Oh yeah, and you'd better be child free but ready to help raise her spawn.	53
Single mom wants "a life w/ someone" after having already started a family with someone else... (x-post from alternate forum)	54
It seems "sparks" are more difficult to come by when you've burned yourself out. Leftovers still chasing Chad. (Crosspost from forums.red)	55
"I've passed up good men because there were no 'sparks'. When I chased the 'sparks', things didn't go too well. WHAT IS WRONG WITH MEEEEEEEE?! ☐" (forums.red x-post) ...	56
Woman laments men's not wanting commitment; fails to realize men have adapted to conditions women have set. (forums.red x-post)	57
Possibly one of the worst I've seen yet. Do keep rule 3 in mind. (forums.red crosspost)	58
Let's start weekend rules with a meme that suits many of the wahmyns featured here (forums.red crosspost)	59
A woman's guide on how to be a man... ..	60
Good man doesn't want to be a backup plan.	61
Yet another hobag who's pregnant on tinder. This one doesn't know how averages work. Or maybe she's right, and there's no average IQ, but hers is still low.	62
Fatty with height standards is terrible at guessing height; ties in nicely with my previous post of the pregnant strumpet wanting 9"	63
The concept of the alpha widow, personified.	64
The telltale sign of leftovers: mega-jealous of married and engaged friends.	65
Since this comment is STILL, after 20 days, triggering a lot of emotional sputtering from feminazis and sluts, I'm pinning it to the top of the sub for a few days.	66
Carol spent her 20s becoming the successful man she wanted to marry, and is now 34 and wondering why she can't find the male version of herself.	67
Let's kick off this long holiday weekend with a slightly off-theme meme reminiscent of many of our detractors and interlopers. Happy Thanksgiving, everyone!	68
OnlyFans porn-whore surprised that men won't take her seriously as relationship material	69
The reason men don't open up to most women.	70
Starting 2022 with a refresher by tearing apart a hitpiece on this sub	71
36-year-old single mom and self-labeled "MILF" seeks her "forever cock" and "a connection stronger than just fucking". Odd, that she was apparently ok with "just fucking" until she reached her mid-30s... ..	77
Woman who fits "leftovers" and "damaged goods" flairs asks the Big Question in a very brief post that reveals she wasted her best years with a bad boy she chose.	78
The town bicycle complains about being viewed only as the town bicycle, rather than as relationship-worthy. Yes, sweaty, your body, your choice, and also YOUR CONSEQUENCES.	79
"There are only two types of men, but of course I chose the one wahmyns complain about! Tee-hee!" (forums.red x-post)	80
"Changes that women insisted on have made dating suck; women most effected." Oh, how my heart bleeds for them.	81

Coping as an inspin, step 1: buy a dog. Step 2... ..	82
This weekend meme shows what anything beyond casual with a single mom is like, and is a great example of HOW GIRLS WORK.	83
Strong, independent woman thinks she's attractive, but wonders why no one but "creeps" take her seriously. Let's solve this groovy mystery, gang!	84
"Now that my twenties are almost over, I'm at that stage in life when I should be serious about relationships, but men only want me for casual sex!" Where can she have possibly gone wrong?!	85
Weekend humor: when you're an inspin whose only family is a "fur-baby", but that deal on family portraits was too good to pass up.	86
When her facial expressions reveal that she settled for you... ..	87
(weekend content) "I'm not here for a hookup, but I'll pose seductively in lingerie! LOOK AT MY ASS!" ...and so many women wonder why what they say isn't taken seriously.	88
Trollop who tried chasing Chads (men with many options) is surprised when she's treated as just another option.	89

's Courting Manifesto

There is some kind of problem with American men these days, in not honoring the feminine spirit. They are not sure what it even is, so they think they can just show up and mess about in My Space.

Do ya'll remember Myspace? You know how everyone loved Tom? Why were we so amused by him being our first friend? It didn't seem intrusive at all... We we like yeah Tom thanks for My Spaaace! HA HA!

What is there in time? There is a kind of transaction culture where value is assessed very quickly and people disregard the deeper character of others because it doesn't matter to them. It is difficult to conceive of people and who they are in the reality of life, rather than the performance driven spectacle we've all been subject to in this dastardly culture.

The being aspect of our humanity as been hijacked and abused and people are desensitized to what is an appropriate speed at attempting to establish further intimacy. We conceptualize ourselves as objects bouncing around, rather than souls that are here for eternity attempting to establish relationships based on the reality of who we are and who we can be, rather than momentum, noise, and chaos of the modern world we get swept up in.

When you court a woman, you have to establish what she means to you and take the time to get to know her as a person and what she is thinking and feeling, where she has been and where she is going. I am not here to throw myself about and hook up or collaborate for instagram likes. My question is – why are you in My Space, lol. When I started to learn how My Space correlates to authenticity, and how Face Book correlates to the illusion that we all share a world, I started to chill out a lot more, even laughing considerably more often. It was some kind of missing element for me. I realized like ah, everything is damn perfect in My Space.

Other people's realities and cognition? Mmmm, well I am curious and feel my fear melting away, but also feel very healthy boundaries getting more self aware and wise. I have been fortunate to experience real courting before that was positively enchanting. I have a lot to offer in this time. But don't drop to my knees as a slave. Don't pour your own vulnerability own in a total mess. And don't try to steal from me. Just relax and believe in us. Dare to believe and to not pick my flower, as Osho would say. Our souls are here whether we awaken to them or not. I will always be who I truly am, and so will you. Games are plentiful, but the real moments will grow like life itself does.

Yes, several men have told me they will be my slave. Several men have shared long periods of their inner pain with me they don't know how to resolve. Several men have told me they want to consume me very quickly. I have seen even intelligent and successful men self absorbed or over dominating. I am impressed by the degeneration of the masculine spirit in our nation. Not my vibe. I will stay alone before I associate with men who don't understand time, and My Space 😊

You have to understand though, that it's a dream of mine to connect. The greatest dream. Such a great dream that maybe I almost stopped believing in it. But I start to feel something special. Special moments here and there. A man playing music for me on stage, paying ME $2/min as he serenades me live streaming. Men telling me come to me I will support you. No thank you kind sir, but the one who wanted to buy an island and escape American society was interesting. An astrophysicist $8/min for 10 min just for conversation. Men writing me telling me they shed a tear or to keep up with my passion.

I want to cultivate the real in the virtual. I want to show what is possible with that. I am here to be with you. I am with you and endlessly in that capacity even, as long as it is in a framework that I consider to be spiritual. When I actually feel something, you will know... and we should be good for one another. If you are real and I can trust you... maybe, just maybe, one day we can meet in person...

Let's get the weekend started with a meme that spoofs our recent brigaders...

To our valued members (heh):

When bloopies, white knights, feminazis, and various other ignorant interlopers try spouting their Feminine-Imperative-serving-bullshit here, please use the report feature so we can boot their sorry asses out of here faster. It makes moderating much easier when the things we don't want here are flagged. And believe it or not, we all have lives outside of reddit, so any assistance is appreciated.

To the interlopers:

Save it. There's nothing you can say that we haven't read or heard before. We're here to expose women's Dual Mating Strategy so men know enough not to be taken advantage of, and there isn't a goddamn thing you can do about it. Go cry into your boxed wine, and seek comfort in your cats.

Welcome to new subscribers. Thanks to your joining us, we are now over the 80,000 point. Please do take the time to familiarize yourselves with the rules on the sidebar.

Rules 1, 2, 3, 5, and 9 are what make this sub's character unique among other subreddits (including among manosphere subreddits), and some have links to posts that go into greater detail. We strongly encourage you to read those.

Rules 4, 6, 7, and 10 are for the protection and preservation of this subreddit. These rules are what prevent our getting quarantined or banned, and so we enforce them quite strictly. With /r/TheRedPill and /r/MGTOW both quarantined, we might well be the best hope to unplug men still stuck in the gynocentric matrix who realize that something is wrong and are looking for answers.

For those of you who have been here awhile, I'd like to direct your attention to rule 6. We have added a requirement to censor the faces of any children that are included in any OLD profile photos.

Just because single mommy made yet another bad decision and took a lackadaisical approach to protecting her kids from sickos, doesn't mean we're going to compound her negligence of her kids' safety.

I don't know if I'm cut out for this. ([REDACTED])

submitted 6 days ago by [REDACTED]

These days I'm really not sure that I'm cut out for this. Strong enough for this, smart enough, all of it. Maybe that's why I'm having such a hard time. I love my son more than anything I've ever loved before. And I mean that from the bottom of my heart. That should be enough right? The love I feel for my son should be enough, the love I have for my son should be enough? The joy my son brings me should be enough to fill up my life. Things of been really hard lately... especially with my child's father.

I know that this sounds dramatic, but I'm starting to wonder if I'll

I know that this sounds dramatic, but I'm starting to wonder if I'll ever be truly happy, if I am even meant to be here. All I was meant for what is this loneliness and sadness that eats me alive every day. Thinking I don't think I'm meant to be his mom. I feel like I have no business having a baby. I take care of him the best way I can come home and I make sure he has everything he needs, even on the days where I don't shower and I don't move, I make sure that he does. What what if that's not enough? He deserves a happy mom and what if I can't get happy, what if I can't find the switch that everyone speaks about? When they say happiness is a choice because more than anything I want to make that choice. I'm consumed and I'm scared.

Stitch It!

A few quick thoughts on the banning of two large manosphere subreddits

356 upvotes | August 3, 2021 | /r/WhereAreAllTheGoodMen | Link | Reddit Link

As many of you already know, both the subreddits /r/MGTOW and /r/MGTOW2 got banned today.

For the members here who overlapped with one or both of those, my condolences on the loss of your forum or forums. As a married guy, I rarely looked at either one, but what little I saw looked like decent camaraderie. It's a shame that men now have fewer places to discuss what matters to them with each other.

For the miggies who are seeking new places and landed here:

1. First of all, welcome.
2. be sure to familiarize yourselves with the rules on the sidebar. We're unique among manosphere subreddits in many ways. We strictly enforce those rules, which is why our discussions remain both humorous and constructive, and also why we're not quarantined or banned. Depending on the severity of a violation (or multiple violations), rulebreakers might get warned, temp banned, or permanently banned. read the rules, and the links contained therein.
3. Check out the alternate site trp.red. There's already a MGTOW tribe there, and /u/RedPillSchool has said that he'll stay hands off. That might actually be more to your liking, since you can say whatever you want.

It's Fuck It Friday, so let's begin the weekend with an incredibly accurate meme in support of the MGTOW who lost their subreddits (alternate forum x-post)

Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs

132 upvotes | September 11, 2021 | /r/WhereAreAllTheGoodMen | Link | Reddit Link

Crosspost "Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs" from /r/WhereAllTheGoodMenAre:

History: Apologies for those who are reading this for the third time.

Over in r/WhereAreAllTheGoodMen, someone posted screen caps of a single mom's blatant daddy-baiting Tinder profile. I made a passing reply to u/Typo-MAGAshiv about single moms. It was mostly just for his entertainment and nothing else. That ultimately led to Typo asking for additional details about my ex so that younger guys might learn some helpful stuff. So, I wrote up what I called the Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs. I thought it was good enough to be informative even if it was sort of messy.

But since that was one comment made in passing and would be easy to lose, I thought it might deserve its own WAATGM post. So, I screen grabbed my Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs and posted it there as its own thread.

u/moorekom saw the screen shot, recommended a clean up and tweaking of the Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs comment and posting it here. He suggested the possibility of pinning it here so that everyone can use it for easier reference.

So, while I'm usually reluctant to post something three times, (A) his suggestions made a lot of sense and (B) he might be able to expand the good that my Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs can do. All in all, it all seemed fair enough to me.

So, I have taken this opportunity to patch up a few things, reorganize the Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs list and try to make a more sensible presentation. Hopefully, this will be the final time that the Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs will need to be posted. :)

Purpose: Men, esp young men, need to understand the pitfalls of dating single moms. And single moms reading this should understand that stories like mine are a big part of the reason why single moms have such a hard time finding "good men" to be with. Man or woman, married or single, parent or childfree, I ask each of you to take the time to consider and internalize everything I'm saying here. My relationship with this single mom is what inspired the Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs.

Disclaimer #1: Men who are dating a single mom who seems perfect, you need to know what you're up against. She's not "different" or "special" or a "unicorn". She's just as predatory as my ex. But she's probably doing a better job than my ex did at hiding her true agenda. You're a big boy, you make your own decisions. But my best, most heartfelt, sincerest advice is for you break up with your single mom girlfriend as soon as possible. If you think that my story can't happen to you, think again.

Disclaimer #2: For some reason, some guys are tempted to comment with something like "Herp a derp, tHiS CaN aPpLY tO ALl wimmez". No. It can't. Daddy-baiting is a tactic of single moms for a specific purpose. So, while childless women might employ a few similar tactics, the specific tactics will be different and they will be done to serve a different agenda. Daddy-baiting is something single moms do. If you generalize it to all women, congratulations, you've missed the entire point.

Preamble/Background: When I was younger and still BP'ed, I met a beautiful woman. She seemed super attracted to me and I thought she was sexy af. Jet black hair, super pale skin, plump lips, six feet tall, hot hour glass figure, the whole program. I'd say she was probably 7/10 or 8/10. Obviously tho, she was a single mom. She'd given birth to boy and girl twins about two years before we met. This relationship was highly instructive. By the time she was through with me, I was well on my way to TRP.

Is that enough CYA? Good, let's begin!

Daddy-Baiting Warning Signs

(1) Speed. The single mom falls for you way too fast. Srsly, what are the odds that she's already fallen in love with you a month after meeting you? Real and genuine love takes time to grow and mature. It's totally possible for a woman to experience the tingles instantly upon meeting someone. But lifelong love (if such a thing even exists anymore) is not instantaneous. The reason for this is women intuitively understand that it's harder for men to find love than it is for women to find it. The purpose of this phase is that by signaling that she loves you, the daddy-baiter is hoping that you'll reciprocate before you're actually ready because you're too giddy at finally feeling love (fake tho it is).

(2) "Cute" invasion of privacy. The single mom practically stalks you. She talks to your friends and family without you. She says that she's getting to know the people in your life and becoming closer to you. She cruises ancient stuff from your social media to "learn more about your story". That's what the daddy-baiter says. But that's a lie! What she's rly doing is gathering intel. She wants to learn who you are without directly asking you. Her objective is to make herself irresistible to you. If you love playing video games or watching the NFL or whatever, your friends/family will probably tell her so. And surprise! You'll quickly discover that she loves that stuff too! The purpose of this phase is for you to start thinking "She's my soulmate". But remember, she's not your "soulmate". She's manipulating you. She probably hates that stuff, actually. But she's humoring you. For now. But don't get comfortable, son.

(3) Compatibility. Related to the above, it seems like you have EVERYTHING in common with this woman. In fact, if you didn't know better, you'd think you have a statistically impossible number of things in common with her. And more and more commonalities seem to surface all the time! But remember, it's all an illusion. She's been gathering information about you. And now she's exploiting it. The purpose of this is for you to feel artificially closer to her. She's said she loves you, she gets along so well with everyone in your life, you have so much in common with each other. Doesn't ANY of this seem a little too good to be true? But remember, these lovey-dovey similarities won't last. She's lying to you. Once the rings are exchanged, be ready to find out real quick what she ACTUALLY thinks of the NBA or gaming or whatever your thing is. But for now, the purpose of this phase is to create an artificial emotional bond with you.

(4) Ego. The single mom is way too complimentary to you, telling you how you're different from the other guys, she's fallen hard for you, blah blah blah. It's manipulation. Her likely success in this is nothing for you to be ashamed of. Everybody has some amount of vanity. Men receive so little validation from the outside world that they're prime targets for this. Remember, you may be good. But NOBODY is as amazing as your girlfriend describes when she talks about you to you. Keep it in perspective. The purpose of this phase is to appeal to your vanity.

(5) Bedroom. The sex is incredible, experimental and FREQUENT. The daddy-baiter is thirty-something but wants it twice a day if possible. It seems like there's no sex act she can't wait to try out with you. But it's a scam! The purpose of this phase is to create a physical bond with you through the greatest sex you've ever had. But consider. Do you honestly expect this to continue after the wedding day/honeymoon phase?

(6) Rushed commitment. The single mom is already talking about marriage. But how likely is it that she already knows she wants to marry you? Best case scenario, most people need at least a year to figure out if they even want to marry someone. Now, I'm MGTOW. So, you should all know what I think about marriage in the first place. But for the rest of you, wouldn't it seem weird if your best guy friend said he wanted to marry someone he'd only known for a month? But that's what the single mom is saying to you now. And the reason for that is because she's PUTTING ON AN ACT. But she knows she can't keep up the act forever. Hell, she knows she can't keep it going much longer. So, the purpose of this phase is all about getting you tied down NOW.

(7) Her true agenda. The single mom says that she already thinks of you as a stepfather to her kid(s). We come to it at last. This step is not incidental. Her timing in telling you this is cold and calculated. She thinks you're ready to begin thinking of yourself as a resource-provider for her child(ren). This was ALWAYS her REAL agenda. Everything else on this list is chaff. This is the wheat. The stepfather thing is emotional blackmail on her part. It's meant to manipulate a man's instinct to assume the role of provider and patriarch. Does this seem heartless? It shouldn't. A single mom's children are just one more weapon in her arsenal. Her children are her pawns. But they're also her prizes. Everything she's doing on this list is FOR THEM. Not for herself (which is what separates her from childless female predators) and certainly not for you. A daddy-baiter does everything else on this list for her children. She sees her children as legitimate weapons. AND SHE WILL USE THEM AGAINST YOU. Don't ever forget that. The purpose of this phase is manipulate your male instincts of leadership, fatherhood and patriarchy into serving her agenda.

(8) Family bonding. Literally everyone in the single mom's life instantly adores you. Isn't that strange? You mean to tell me not ONE friend or family member doesn't instantly like you? The daddy-baiter told you that her bestie is a chain-toting, man-hating feminist. But when you meet her bestie, the bestie is all sunshine and ice cream cones with you. That seems kind of strange, doesn't it? Well, it shouldn't because the daddy-baiter most probably warned all her friends and all her family way ahead of time to be on their best behavior around you. The purpose of this phase is to make you feel welcome and comfortable around her friends/family. But you must be realistic. The charade by the family and friends will end after the wedding day. Or after you break up with the daddy-baiter. Which is what you should do.

(9) No demands and no drama. The daddy-baiter seems like the most easygoing girl you've ever met. She's super low maintenance, easy to be around, never imposes on you. But isn't that strange? She's stuck at home all day. And yet, NOT EVEN ONCE does she need you to drop off milk or diapers or something. Odd, yes? Well, there's a reason for this. The daddy-baiter isn't making requests from you (yet) because she's priming you. Trust me, YOU WILL BECOME HER SLAVE after the wedding day. Everything that she never asked for during the dating phase will be demanded in triplicate after she has you locked up. Married or single, a mom's life is chaos with a side of anarchy. If you never experience that from her, it's because she's consciously shielding you from it to sweeten the deal. Trust me, once you slide that ring on her finger, you're going to find out real quick what her hell spawn kids are truly like after you finish off the 10,000th item on your Honey-Do extortion list. The purpose of this phase is to lull you into a false sense of security.

(10) Baby-trap. This the worst case scenario. This is the daddy-baiter's Break Glass In Case of Emergency nuclear option. The daddy-baiter can intuitively recognize that you enjoy all the above stuff. But you're still not completely sold. Some instinct you have is warning you that this is all WAY too good to be true. That's when the daddy-baiter transforms into the baby-trapper. That's when she has an "oops" pregnancy. The excuses are basically always the same too. "It was an accident! I forgot to take my pill! Pills aren't 100% anyway! But who cares, I love you, let's get married!" This is her last ditch, Hail Mary effort at tying you down. And that's what my ex tried with me. She realized that I subconsciously wasn't completely buying her act. So, she got desperate. When her attempt to baby-trap me backfired, the mask came off, the claws came out and she went full reeeeeeeeeeeeeeee.

Pro-tip #1: My daddy-baiter said that she was on the pill when we first met. I even watched her take her pill on a few occasions, always at the same approximate time each day. So, I have no reason to doubt that she was on the pill at that time. She was probably telling the truth at the time. But talk is cheap and BS runs the marathon. If your woman says she's on the pill, ask to see it. Watch her take her pill. If a woman who claims to be on the pill refuses to comply with any of that, that's a red flag. For most women, there's only about a 48 hour window each month during which she can get pregnant. Women tend to know exactly when those fucking 48 hours are too. There are very few genuine "accidental" pregnancies.

Because to assume that so many accidental pregnancies can happen, you pretty much have to believe that most women are too fucking stupid to understand and manage their own bodies and pill schedules. Sort of puts a different spin on the "It's my body" argument, eh? But let's be realistic, the great majority of women are shrewd enough to understand that openly baby-trapping a man isn't a good look. Hence, all of her "It was an accident, tee hee hee" excuses. Don't fall for it. There are no accidents. The daddy-baiter-turned-baby-trapper knew that she didn't have you locked down before. But she also knows that one way or the other, her "accidental" pregnancy will fix that.

My daddy-baiter attempted this with me. We finished up one day and almost instantly she pulled her knees up to her shoulders.

Pro-tip #2: The knees-to-the-shoulders thing is a fertility technique meant to increase a woman's chances of conceiving. If you boff a woman and see her immediately do that, that's a red flag and you're in deep trouble. Somewhere in our second or third or however many months, after we finished up one afternoon, she pulled her knees up to her shoulders.

I knew all that. But I guess she assumed I wouldn't understand or recognize what she was doing. But this proved to be her final mistake. Because it was then that I realized that I hadn't watched her take her little pill in a quite a while. Further, I realized that she was trying to get pregnant.

So, naturally I called her out on that. And her reaction was like Palpatine in Episode 3. Instantly, the daddy-baiter's mask slipped and I saw the creature that had always been lurking underneath.

But any RP/MGTOW/whatever men reading this should feel welcome to use this comment for whatever purpose they see fit. Mods, feel free to add to/repost/share/pin/delete this post if you want. Do whatever you want.

tl;dr- Fuck that, read it. The life you save could be your own.

Crosspost "Starting 2022 with a refresher by tearing apart a hitpiece on this sub" from /r/WhereAllTheGoodMenAre:

Happy New Years fellow closed-minded extremists and vitriolic toxic basement dwellers alike! Today we kick off what will likely be yet another cancerous year (not trying to be pessimistic, just following the pattern here) by having a nice refresher of the basics (well, some of them). This semi-refresher comes to us courtesy of some incredible galaxy-brained blogger who has pulled out some agitprop, fresh from the oven (less than a week old), on the subject of WAATGM itself.

For reference: <https://archive.is/8GCCg>

Now I'd like to preface this by saying two things. One, someone mentioned they'd enjoy if I analyzed this, which is why this is here, but to be frank: I don't think this requires it. The whole insufferable vomit pile linked above is rife with all the clichés and deflections and strawmen you've seen a thousand times and have been highlighted and explained a thousand times more. However, I'll do this anyhow for the sake of edutainment, as it were. Never know how many new bright and twinkly-eyed lads are finding their way out of the Matrix, so it always is nice to plant some signposts. Two, I'd like to grant perspective by saying that the author of this article, a male, has also written another article explaining how important it is to take a stand against "No Simp September." Bounce around the site looking at nothing but headlines and you immediately know exactly the sort of "man" this person is. I don't say that as an ad hominem (arguments are forthcoming), I just want you to brace yourself for maximum shaming-language limp-wristed spineless white knighting that is about to occur. He's an 11/10 on the ally-meter.

I would like to simply pick out the juicy bits here and there and save myself time but the truth is I really should respond to all that requires a response in here. This may take some time (more of mine than yours, for sure) so grab a sandwich if you're interested in continuing. Or demand that your woman make and bring you one, you evil woman-hater, you.

| Inside the Forum Obsessed With Proving That Women's Standards Are Too High

Shaming language. I'm not going to expound on examples like the above, someone else can explain what and why shaming language is so often used by females (and effeminate, feminist-friendly or feminine-thinking males) for manipulation and deflection. My point is that when these pop up I will only point them out as shaming language and then move on. This should communicate to you that the author is attempting to vilify something by using implications and pejoratives rather than explain objections on relatively objective grounds. As per above, "obsessed" is shaming language (and also a pretty stupid charge; you could easily say all subs are "obsessed" with their subject matter, that's the point of a sub; the author is a moron).

| But some straight men, frustrated by their options, decide that only women do this.

Misrepresentation. No, not only women do this. Women do, however, absolutely do this at a far greater frequency than men. This is for several reasons. One: a woman is constantly seeking to obtain a mate who is at or above her "level." As a general rule, women do not "date down." If she perceives a man as beneath her, she doesn't consider him. Two: social propagation of the idea in modernity that females are amazing princesses that deserve to have their cakes and eat them too. One oft-quoted example, so as not to lend credence to the idea that aforementioned claim is some spurious misogynist myth, is Sheryl Sandberg, who advocated in her book that women do just that. Three: social media has absolutely warped women's innate sense of importance. Online, your average male gets virtually no attention. Your average female can get orders of magnitude more by posting alluring images of herself. This artificially inflates her ego in a system comprised of near limitless feedback, and it does nothing to his (correction: makes him more depressed, most likely). This isn't inherently the "fault" of anyone but the cogs in the instinct machine; however, evolution never developed our psychology to deal with the social dynamism of the internet.

Whatever, we're not going down that road, it's been what, two sentences? And I'm already writing a dissertation. Someone stop me.

To agents of the manosphere, however, this kind of thing is deadly serious, and there's a whole wing of the subculture built around the idea that it's not a limited phenomenon but the devastating norm.

Whether it's a "norm" is debatable. I suppose that would depend on your definition of norm. It most certainly is, beyond a doubt, very widespread on anything social media related, and for the last reason mentioned above, far worse now than it has ever been in history. Now if "norm" means >51% of women genuinely think like this, there isn't any easy way to prove that one way or another. I will, however, point out the classic OKCupid graph of all women believing that 80% of men are average or below. Do all or most women have absolutely insane standards? Probably not, maybe, who knows. Do all or most women have standards greater than their actual value relative to the same standards by men of the same value? Yes.

where guys mock women for using the apps to seek out partners of decent pedigree

He's contradicting himself. Not that you needed another nail in the coffin of someone who's clearly intellectually dishonest with his own axe to grind, but nonetheless: he literally says in the preceding sentence that WAATGM thinks women with insane standards are "the norm," and then claims in the next one that WAATGM is mocking women who only seek reasonable partners. Pick a lane, Miles. You're an embarrassment.

calling them gold diggers, entitled princesses and trashy, used-up sluts

We'll skip the obvious subtext that you think we say this about all women everywhere for all occasions and get to a better question: are you going to say that such women as described above don't exist? Because if I were using your style of argumentation and rhetoric, that's what I would say about you. Miles thinks all women everywhere are perfect angels who never seek to exploit men. Die by the sword, as they say.

WAATGM blends a few strands of manosphere lore to construct a mythical narrative.

Yes, our narrative is mythical, but yours isn't. And you know this, how, exactly? The strength of your belief? You view WAATGM as a cultish indoctrination center, and you think your little ideological bubble hasn't molded you like soft clay in exactly the same fashion? Of course, you're educated and enlightened, Miles, and we're the close minded rubes whose viewpoints you need to misrepresent in order to strengthen your claims.

This, according to the subreddit, is when those women will turn to apps like Tinder and ask, "Where are all the good men?" The forum is obsessed with this turn in the narrative — a promised comeuppance and humiliation for anyone who rejected them in the past.

Shaming language. Moving past that, no, there is no "promised" comeuppance. The sub exists for the merriment of those who enjoy seeing said comeuppance happen to those it does. He's putting the cart before the horse here. There are consequences for all actions; some will escape those consequences and many will not. WAATGM exists to post the results of those who have been in denial of the consequences of their actions a long time coming. If you repeatedly reject everyone "beneath" you and keep choosing very poor relationship material, things generally are not going to work out for you in the long run, and WAATGM documents that. Never mind that plenty of our own members have personally experienced women in their lives, who previously rejected them, circling back around after a decade or two.

Outside this spiteful community, most of us understand that men without washboard abs and six-figure salaries get along fine in the dating pool

Shaming language and also another strawman. For an average man, "getting along fine" means a fraction of the number of relationships/encounters that an average woman will have. It is likely that this has been the case for most of human history, but it's especially true now with a very wide gap in disparity. How would you know whether men are "getting along fine," Miles?

That's your metric? Guess what, Miles? There ARE fewer couples! Where have you been? Were you not around a year ago when the spree of articles got confetti'd by media outlets about the "lack of marriageable men"? Marriage rates declining, fertility dropping, men withdrawing from relationships (or in some cases, society) altogether when they're unable to find someone? Or are you going to doubt your fellow leftists? Here:

<https://pairedlife.com/dating/Why-Women-are-Frustrated-and-Confused-about-Men-and-Dating>

Undoubtedly there's some dungheap in Salon or Vox somewhere on the same subject but I'm not scraping through those to find more of the same, you get the idea. And hey, remember when Henry Cavill, a solid 10/10 gentlemanly Chad, said he was leery of even flirting with anyone and that bothered a whole lot of women?

<https://bestlifeonline.com/henry-cavill-dating-controversy/>

Guess why that triggered so many ladies. It's because he's a prime example of the man they want, and even such a man was "nope"ing his way out of things. Yes, Miles, there are fewer couples, and fewer kids being born, and fewer risks being taken to flirt with new prospects, and a whole list of other things that indicate dating as a whole is circling the drain compared to the good ol' days. And to really drive the point home, this guy has a hilarious video with further sources:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QKH-YLAvXBc>

Please do note that said video, with over 400k views, is chock full of all the sort of "dangerous" evil nonsense you purport WAATGM to be full of, some of them with 1-2 thousand likes. This isn't some "mythical narrative," Miles, and it's not very allyship-ish of you to doubt your fellow progressives' articles.

What makes WAATGM so damaging is that it takes a handful of profiles as evidence of intrinsic female greed, promiscuity, narcissism and haughtiness.

Shaming language again. Also, a handful? When's the last time you booted up one of the apps, Miles? Credibility is already flaky here, but yes, such things are indeed evidence of "intrinsic" female qualities. They're certainly not extrinsic, and if the semantics of your words aren't matching your syntax, then perhaps attempting to write professionally isn't a worthy aspiration for you.

Meanwhile, these guys attack real women for much less, like the temerity to use Bumble while raising a family or having the wrong sort of body.

Strawman again. That alone is not enough; she must be as described and have unreasonable expectations/desires relative to what she brings to the relationship. One does not wind up on WAATGM through a single criterion, but let's not pretend this guy cares about honesty.

but her mere existence and desire for affection isn't a sign that all women are consistently aiming out of their league

No, it isn't. It's strange that this dude will get fairly close to an accurate description of things in a few spots, and in other spots he's got nothing but one misrepresentation after another. Guess it's hard to sell lies without nuggets of truth.

presents a clear pipeline from general dissatisfaction with dating apps to misogynist extremism.

Shaming language. Someone start keeping a tally, I'm getting tired.

Also, no, it's not dissatisfaction from dating apps, you imbecile, it's dissatisfaction that society lies to men constantly about what women want and what men should do in order to court them and be great, desirable partners. Men follow this terrible advice, get terrible or no results, and then get frustrated. Dissatisfaction stems from the enormous gulf between what women say they want and what they actually respond to.

but soon you're exposed to vicious commentary that lays all the blame for this on women, as if men have no unreasonable standards or flaws of their own.

This is so flat-out moronic I don't even need to explain why. Actually, I think the sub's own sidebar does it for me somewhere, but hey, he's a blogger, not a journalist. Haha, just kidding, New Year's joke! Those are the same thing.

The page even smuggles in a racist trope here and there

It has nothing to do with "racism." If you date a woman who has a child, and that child's skin color isn't remotely close to yours, everyone will know it isn't your child. For many men, that's further baggage and silent judgment they simply won't wish to deal with, and it does nothing but further highlight how such a man is coming in "second place." A man will be even more unwilling to enter a relationship with a woman when he can't even pass off the kid as his own to strangers, which makes demands or requests for bailouts by such mothers even more anathema. Everyone will know the child isn't his. Miles is correct about one thing: the pressure to provide for a child that isn't his absolutely does exist for any single mother looking for commitment. That should be obvious.

None of this contempt and ridicule can mask the misery of the 87,000 men who subscribe to WAATGM.

Shaming language. Put it on the board, Johnny. (yawn)

They tell themselves they're reveling in the joy of seeing women brought low, but they are the ones desperately scouring the web for anyone whose circumstances will make them feel superior — and that's about as low as you can get.

Hahaha, what a quote. No sir, I certainly couldn't use this little gem in any sort of applicable use against the exact kind of people like Miles, could I? Nope, I've whipped out my metal detector and it has picked up absolutely no trace of irony whatsoever. You're in the clear, buddy! No hypocrisy or projection here, I assure you. (as an aside, you really don't need to "scour" -- as we established, dating apps are rife with these examples)

What can you hope to gain by sharing yet another tweet from a "thot" who says she prefers guys over six feet tall?

You gain understanding. When you begin to stack up so many examples of the same thing that separate what women say and what women do, it explains why so many men have failed in getting what they want out of relationships, and hopefully, allows men to fix that by making a choice: becoming attractive to women, or opting out altogether. The conventional wisdom of how to approach relationships was misguided in decades prior, but now with mainstream information and the Overton window dictated by the feminine imperative and its zombies like Miles, it's woefully, atrociously inaccurate. You begin to search for real answers about what women actually want and respond to, and begin to understand what needs to happen in order to actually become desirable and get what they desire, themselves. For some men, this is achievable, and they set about doing it. For others, it's achievable and simply not worth the effort relative to the benefits. For some, it isn't achievable, and after some time coming to terms with the anger of society having lied to them their entire lives, they accept it and decide to simply not date or marry, going with either prostitutes, sex dolls, or nothing at all.

Here's the bottom line: there is reality, and then there is your perception of it. The farther away your perception of reality gets from what reality actually IS, the worse things are going to be for you, unless someone or something insulates you from the consequences of your incorrect perception. WAATGM does two things simultaneously: takes the piss out of women whose perceptions have been out of whack for so long that reality catching up is wildly amusing, and exposing reality to men whose perceptions have been distorted by society so that they can make corrections.

This applies in all areas of life: dealing with wildlife, social policy, international relations, physics, etc. People go to places like WAATGM and MGTOW because their perceptions of reality aren't matching reality and they get frustrated with being unable to understand why that is. People like Miles take another tack and desperately wish more and more severely as time goes on that reality is the way they believe it to be, withdrawing and retreating into sympathetic echo chambers that assure them that things are indeed this way. Miles has his own "mythical narrative" in his head about what people like us are like, what we think and believe, why we are this way, stuck in our bubble; he doesn't have the self awareness or wherewithal to understand that he is exactly the same as what he thinks we all are. Perhaps one day, his reality will catch up to his perception.
