

Man is jailed as a part of systemic sexism, and no one cares about his plight.

October 29, 2020 | 102 upvotes | by 2717192619192

https://np.reddit.com/r/MensRights/comments/jjnn0u/today_i_went_to_jail_and_nobody_gives_a_shit/

What are your thoughts on this post? I think it is highlighting many of the issues surrounding systemic misandry in the family legal system. My heart absolutely broke reading this man's story and hearing about how he had to go to jail.

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

Billy-Batdorf • 35 points • 29 October, 2020 05:12 AM

This is a critical, brutal form of female domestic violence and 'nobody gives a shit' is the correct assessment.

buddhone2 points 29 October, 2020 06:55 AM [recovered]

That was a painful read. His bottom line is correct, never get married, don't have kids.

Jakeybaby125 • 7 points • 29 October, 2020 12:21 PM

Tbh, I still want kids. Just have to find the least risky way of having them biologically buddhone1 points 29 October, 2020 01:48 PM [recovered]

As long as you understand the risks in the country you are in, power to you.

I have decided long time ago that a childfree life is the right choice for me.

SpiritedPenguin • 5 points • 29 October, 2020 03:39 PM*

Not sure how helpful this mgtow type stuff is. If we had a feminist in here saying 'never spend time alone with men, you could get raped', i'm sure we'd all be picking holes in that argument.

SchalaZeal01 • 5 points • 29 October, 2020 04:42 PM

If police was condoning rape, maybe. Like almost teaming up with the rapist, or turning the other way.

Langland88 • 2 points • 30 October, 2020 12:47 AM

I read this and what I really really would like to see is a Feminist give their take on this issue. I want to see if they would justify this or come up with an excuse or cop out answer.

thesmuser • 2 points • 30 October, 2020 07:34 PM

i cried while reading this. this stuff happens every day, men are treated like shit and nobody cares. men are second class citizen

Strikes001 • 4 points • 29 October, 2020 10:35 AM

Fyi, never take someones word over the internet.

Talik1978 • 10 points • 29 October, 2020 12:15 PM

The author does show bias, but that doesn't mean the hard facts aren't accurate. I would say that it is worthy of investigating and taking seriously, if not taken at face value and automatically assumed true.

Strikes001 • -1 points • 29 October, 2020 08:47 PM

It should be assumed fake until proven otherwise imo.

Talik1978 • 5 points • 29 October, 2020 09:13 PM

I disagree. Assuming those claiming to be victims are liars without evidence they are is in a category I consider Bad Things.

One can offer empathy, and investigate issues in good faith without assuming it is either true or false.

Strikes001 • 1 point • 31 October, 2020 03:57 PM

Because people spread false info all the time, I am not going to into a rape allegation until I get all the facts, this is no different to me imo.

Talik1978 • 1 point • 31 October, 2020 04:57 PM

Looking for the facts doesn't require you assume a dishonest claimant in the interim. The correct answer is not making any assumptions until the facts are in. Otherwise, you are at risk of harboring or spreading false info.

Strikes001 • 1 point • 3 November, 2020 03:52 PM

Fair, I guess. I just don't want to come off like the knobs who blindly support Amber Heard

Talik1978 • 3 points • 3 November, 2020 04:12 PM

The issue wasn't supporting Amber Heard. It was condemning Johnny Depp. Providing support to those that claim they are victims isn't wrong. Crucifying the alleged assailant without evidence is.

The correct procedure is taking the claim seriously, as if true, when dealing with the claimed victim... and providing the accused with the benefit of the doubt until established facts warrant otherwise.

18Apollo18 • 3 points • 29 October, 2020 02:10 PM

Even if this specific story is made up. This happens all the time and there's numerous confirmed cases of it.

Strikes001 • 1 point • 29 October, 2020 08:47 PM

Not to this degree no, but okay.

Deadly_Duplicator • 0 points • 29 October, 2020 11:38 AM yea... i mean if it's true it's awful but it reads like MRA bait