Every time I have mistakenly followed a link over to /r/TwoXChromosomes I am always surprised by the amount of hate over there.

On any Men's subreddit I see post condemning specific actions, or behaviors of certain Women but never the gender-wide blanket statements of hate. What is with all of the group-think? What a toxic echo chamber. I read an actually reasonable comment over there that said;

"We shouldn't be distancing ourselves from men. All men and women should be brought up to respect each other."

I see nothing wrong with that statement, I guess that is why it is currently sitting at -15 karma. One reasonable voice in the crowd and it is just shit on. I do not think I should vote or comment over there but, that person deserves more respect.

The sole person who didn't support the misandry of TwoX of painting all men as rapists of course got downvoted because TwoX is a feminist (and therefore misandrist) sub.

True words.

They're hamstering on about it being a "paradise" and "women's only hotels".

I would love to see the construction crew that builds one of these hotels on Paradise Island.

But hey... Electricity, plumbing, potable water, and HVAC aren't requirements on paradise island, right?

Men's only hotels? Where??

I mean, yes. Monasteries do exist. But those are for monks, not travellers.

Women's only hotels won't protect them from rapists, considering that women can also be rapists. Oh wait, they don't give a shit because in their views, only men are rapists! Of course, feminists such as TwoX have painted all men as rapists and disregard countless cases of women being rapists themselves, simply because they want to paint all men and exclusively men as rapists.

Men's only anything = sexist, backwards and evil, ban it!

Women's only everything = enlightened, progressive and good, should be mandatory!

Imagine being stuck on an island with all the #killallmen #bossbabe #slayqueens that would flock to these for a couple days. The naivety of it all. And apparently women can't be lesbians and/or judgy either.

That sub-reddit claims to be a "welcoming" site. But will ban anyone who comments/votes. I'm confused.

There's something to be said for the view of sexual harassment/rape being an omnipresent, inescapable force encouraging these sorts of views. That is basically how the Taliban justifies all of their sexist rules, after all. "You need to wear that burka or men will get too excited and rape you". In a way, feminist subs like Two X are actually encouraging rape culture by acting like its a common, everyday occurrence for most women. The more people begin to think that they more they will give up hope and just come up with ideas like this that seek to mitigate the supposed problem rather than actually try to deal with it.

we don't live in a world where women can reasonably expect safety from harassment and catcalling and oogling

In what world does this person live? While these happen, problems are considered problems in part because it is reasonable to expect safety from them.
