

The only thing men care about their partners is that they wear make up and have sex. Every single man on the planet is disinterested in their partners wellbeing, growing together, having a family or building a relationship. EVER. SINGLE. MAN. EVER.

I hate that teenage girls are indoctrinated into a feminism which teaches them to do everything the patriarchy would teach them anyways, with a slightly adjusted attitude. You should wear lipstick and eyeliner... Bc it's a weapon!! You can ride that dick and still be a feminist!! You should have violent sex and have men control you sexually - bc kink is so hot and liberating. And we end up with an entire generation of young women fully indoctrinated into coercive femininity, & thinking they are somehow liberating themselves or serving the revolution. Here's a hint: if your brand of feminism is telling you to do all the shit misogynistic society tells you to do, and the only difference is how you're supposed to feel about it, nothing has changed. The patriarchy doesn't care how you feel. Men don't care how you feel as long as you're wearing makeup and fucking them.

Obviously she goes to far when she says men don't care about your feelings and her conception of femininity is tainted by the feminist view that its inherently exploitative. But she seems more self aware than most feminists at least in that she takes her views to the logical endpoint, however hideous that endpoint is at least its honest. I'm sick of seeing these feminists that complain about WAP and slut shaming but yet walk around naked to protest it.

Ironically, I think she kind of has a point though when you apply it solely to hookup culture. When refuting MGTOWs that say things like "all women just want to ride the cock carousel" I've seen them say things like "Well I'm actually proud to ride the cock carousel, so there!". And I'm thinking: Yeah right honey, I'm sure there is no vested interest in getting you to think that being promiscuous is somehow enlightened and empowering.

Yet it is empowering for men to be promiscuous?

Also there isn't a need to 'respond' to a literal hate group about their opinions of women. Women can fuck as much as they want, or not.

It's about choices, and you and the feminist in OP miss the mark.

No, I don't see how it would be.

I think you're confused about what I said. That's not my response, I'm describing how I've seen some women respond to it.

Women can fuck as much as they want, or not.

Of course, that is self evident. What I'm talking about is how there is pressure to do that these days, like you have to to be able to be considered enlightened and feminist. But who really benefits from that arrangement? I'll ask again: do you really think there is no ulterior motive?

Feminism is about people being able to make choices. There's not a sex partner quota. And no one is pushing that. Many women who "sleep around" don't even claim to be feminists, and many trad stay-at-home moms are self-proclaim feminism. It is complex, and not feminism = women sleeping around.

Some women "responding" that way is just anecdotal and does not speak for a huge, unorganized group of people.

They also are responding like that because MGTOW men openly hate women and want control. The responses are intended to bother them, because the MGTOWs want women in their place, where they are controlling them. Why would they seriously respond to a sexist concept like the 'cock carousel'?

Why do you think that term exists? And slut, whore etc? These terms exist only for women.. to shame them out of their choices. And that is wrong.

Yes, feminists ARE enlightened, even if you are being mocking. Any group attempting to lessen the suffering of others is doing good things. They greatly help men and women. Some loud weirdos who act up in public means nothing.

I didn't say its that simple and the totality of feminism is preaching promiscuity, that is an absurd straw man. What I am saying isn't that all feminists preach that, but that those who do are usually feminists. And usually not your classical equal rights/true egalitarian feminists, which I fully support, but the radical 3rd wave ones that do paradoxical things like protest slut shaming by walking around naked.

Some women "responding" that way is just anecdotal and does not speak for a huge, unorganized group of people.

All I said was that I've seen some women say it, not that all of them do. Of course its anecdotal. I'm purposefully addressing a specific group.

Why would they seriously respond to a sexist concept like the 'cock carousel'?

Perhaps they would want to respond by saying "No, not all women do that" in order to disprove them. I'm simply pointing out how paradoxical it is to try to disprove someone by actually fanning their flames instead.

These terms exist only for women.. to shame them out of their choices.

And I believe they should be equally applied to men as well.

Yes, feminists ARE enlightened, even if you are being mocking. Any group attempting to lessen the suffering of others is doing good things. They greatly help men and women.

I am not so convinced of that. I'll repeat myself: who do you think benefits most from encouraging reckless promiscuity? Someone who loves women and wants them to be safe, or a careless fuckboi? I've had several frank, private conversations with women who admitted to me that they felt pressured into hookup culture and objectified by it, and later regretted what they had done.

mgtow is about men going their own way.

mgtow doesnt care what women do as long as they leave them alone.

stop trying to change the narrative

sg183 • 1 point • 12 September, 2021 10:31 PM

Why are all the threads talking about women like they are animals? Lol why is every other thread talking about the cock carousel and how mad you are that women fuck?

Your narrative is false to begin with, changing it is an improvement, knuckledragger

lil6ost • 1 point • 12 September, 2021 10:41 PM

Coercive femininity??

As a woman i have no clue what that even means.. I don't really care whetter or not something is considered masculine or feminine.. I just like what I like and I do what I like, whetter that's masculine or feminine, and I find having the freedom to do whatever I like as liberating. I do enjoy kink and rough sex cause it turns me on and i think it's hot. I don't see why that preference is a bad thing or why it's wrong. I'm not a feminist so I'm not trying to start s revolution, I just believe everyone should have the freedom to pursue their preferences and interests, so long as it actively doesn't harm anyone else without their consent. Imo there's nothing misogynistic about me simply enjoying my own interests, be they feminine, masculine or kinky interests. I'll wear makeup when I feel like it and I'll have sex if I feel like it, cause I'm not fighting a patriarchy and I'm not oppressed. I'm just trying to be a happy woman..like damn.. why does feminists have to be such killjoys smh.. also feminists don't care how I feel or how men feel lol so why should we care how feminists feel...

The thing that is scary about this, is that is what somebody, wandering around honestly believes. That is the view of the world that they have.

well i mean, theyre not wrong.

the only thing theyre wrong about is that theyre blaming men for this. cause women can do anything but take accountability.

they dont even realize how they infantilize themselves doing so. theyd really prefer painting themselves as dumb easily manipulated little kids than admit they do this out of their own volition

lil6ost • 1 point • 12 September, 2021 03:37 PM

she is right about everything except she blames men for it. she doesnt realize shes infantilizing women by removing the responsibility they have for their own change
