She sounds quite butthurt for someone who doesn't care. I bet the guy didn't find the need to bitch about it online and look for support. It is also kind of pathetic to rely on people you will never know or meet for validation. How will a bunch of nobodies affect her life positively by affirming her views.

I don't think they ever cared. They just stopped caring about pretending to care. Hating men is now in fashion and has no negative consequences, so women like this are realizing they don't need to keep the facade up anymore.

Jeez let's judge people on political opinion.

She desperately needs a sanity check.

If it was this much of a burden for her to begin with, I don't think she ever actually cared about men's feeling.

This same sub also makes posts like once a week not understanding why men think that sub is anti male...

Have fun with your cats.

Can't blame her. The reason why she has one less constitutional right, is because conservatism has taken it way too far with religion.

And it's mostly people who don't even study/actually participate in it lol

They're okay with using the bible as a reference when it comes to decision making. And they even managed to ban abortion. A scary bunch if you ask me.

I'm starting to wonder... is it just me or do we have more empathy for women who hate men because of bad past experiences or childhood trauma as compared to the opposite?

Amazing-Bit6140 • 4 points • 5 October, 2022 03:02 PM

That's the empathy gap in practice, extends to all bad behavior.

Abusers are generally abuse victims themselves. Women will jump to find the abuse of a female abuser in every case to excuse her behavior, and then scream down how he was treated doesn't matter for a male abuser.

They're just sexist pieces of shit, don't give them any attention.

Hey that's what I say! I am so glad I am gay. I only deal with men. Every one says I look way younger than my age. Only difference I can think of is that they are dating women. Men, we make life easier for each other.
