

Can an autistic non-incel blackpiller that's nearly an adult get laid on Tinder and have casual hookups?

I've been thinking about it because this inceldom site says you can get laid if you're in the 20% of men and that sex is more important than relationships, and that most women would want to sleep with misogynistic men, I am buff and have autism and 17 and I'm in the 20% of men but unable to form long term relationships with women because of autism and I'm attractive, so I believe in the black pill now.
