

why do you girls feel the need of getting long nails(that show aggressiveness), long eyelashes and strong make up ( that show competitiveness ), when men aren't attracted to those masculine traits? ( Yeah, because you love attention )

Male here.

I think the nail thing is a status symbol to show to other females.

"Yeah bitch, I ain't gotta work and can still afford these long ass nails."

And make up in general is a competition for the male gaze. I personally don't like make up, but men are visual creatures so it goes without say, that make up does attract the male gaze.

shreyastalpade • 5 points • 30 August, 2022 03:35 AM men are visual creatures

Women are visual creatures as well.

[deleted] • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 11:35 AM

You're right.

shreyastalpade • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 12:49 PM

Yeah it's about time people stop staying that men are visual creatures, it's a gender neutral thing.

[deleted] • 2 points • 30 August, 2022 04:06 PM

Would you agree that male criteria for a partner is a shorter list than a female's criteria for a partner?

If yes, would you agree that we may weigh the importance of each criteria differently, but if the list of criteria is small to begin with, it generally adds more weight to each criteria?

So I agree both men and woman are visual creatures, and they both would prefer an ascetically pleasing partner. But because woman list is longer than men in terms of their wants/needs for a partner, the importance of looks is not as significant to them as it would be for a man.

An example of this is women who are looking for hook ups will have a list of criteria similar to a man who's looking for a hook up. It's a rather short list, and thus, we see woman being more picky about appearance. On a man's list, the difference would be, he requires a women to be "easy", which is an added layer of criteria, thus, you see men willing to hook up with women less attractive, if the tradeoff is that she's easier to get in bed with.

If we're looking at long-term relationships, a woman's list becomes exponentially larger, while the man's list get's bigger, but not much is added. As you can see in this example, a women can trade off her preference for looks if she can get adequate provisioning. While a man isn't looking for items such as provisioning or protection, so he will weigh the look criteria more heavily than a woman.

That's why men of great wealth and status will have a harem of beautiful woman. Because he doesn't require of them much other than their looks (because he can afford to outsource things like cleaning/childrearing).

shreyastalpade • 0 points • 30 August, 2022 04:37 PM

And i have huge faith that these women also cheat much more.

Yes I still believe that too. I think women do make up not only directly for men, but for the social competition that there is between females too.

that make up does attract the male gaze.

Yes but there is a limit. Research actually shows that if you take the average american woman and the strength of their make up, men actually are more interested in light make up on average. I'll link the research when I have time

[deleted] • 1 point • 29 August, 2022 07:27 PM

I believe you! You don't have to if it's takes too much time.

[deleted] • 1 point • 29 August, 2022 11:59 PM

Women and men often mean something different about makeup strength though.

Like, I don't think men mean "full coverage foundation" when they talk about heavy makeup, unless it's badly done, but a lot of women do.

Siukslinis_acc • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 05:13 PM

I think the nail thing is a status symbol to show to other females.

"Yeah bitch, I ain't gotta work and can still afford these long ass nails."

I think it's more "I can afford to have long nails because I don't have to work with my hands". I have seen women with long nails (around 3 cm long) try to do the most basic stuff. They have trouble even locking up a piece of paper.

[deleted] • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 05:16 PM

Yeah, I should have specified what type of work. Typically low collar jobs or manual labor. Women look down on these types of jobs so being associated with it would lower their reputation

Facts well said

RazhL • 4 points • 30 August, 2022 04:57 AM

What pill is this even?

Sounds more like whiny misogyny imho.

you-arent-reading-it1 points 30 August, 2022 05:33 AM [recovered]

How is that misogyny when I value typical feminine traits on women and promote them over the masculine ones? And if you start arguing that I hate men, as a man, well that's a flawed argument, because that's only a preference. Furthermore, that's a preference that I have for women I could potentially be in a relationship with, I'm not even demanding that from women in general. Also, I prefer masculine traits in men I'm friends with. Now go back to school

[deleted] • 3 points • 30 August, 2022 06:08 AM yeah the answer to your post title is we dont care about your preference

Peacesquad • 1 point • 1 September, 2022 02:24 PM

RazhL • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 06:05 AM

But what pill is it???

you-arent-reading-it1 points 30 August, 2022 06:14 AM [recovered]

It's a whitepill. Specifically pinkpill if you wish, cause most women don't know the limit there is on grooming ( which is important ). But since I am not a woman, I prefer to categorize that as whitepill.

Sounds more like whiny misogyny

Also, stop accusing people for your own sake.

RazhL • 0 points • 30 August, 2022 06:57 AM

No.

Peacesquad • 1 point • 1 September, 2022 02:24 PM

Bronze Pill

RealNiceLady • 2 points • 30 August, 2022 03:49 AM

I think you misinterpret women's grooming.

Elaborate.

RealNiceLady • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 05:39 AM

The nails, eyelashes, and makeup are not about male character traits, but trying to look her best.

you-arent-reading-it1 points 30 August, 2022 05:54 AM [recovered]

I'm not talking about that. As you read the title it says "LONG nails", "STRONG make up". That's being competitive to the point of demanding yourself to look better than your friends. I didn't say women shouldn't take care of themselves. I'm saying that you can colour your nails without making them look like aggressive claws. You don't need them that long. It's not a dick. The strong make up thing is also demonstrated that it makes women look less attractive. It's competition for the sake of it. That's not interesting or appealing at all for men and if they say so they just plainly lie to you. Yes they want something from you.

RealNiceLady • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 11:31 AM

I understand you don't like the look, but you are also misinterpreting the look.

you-arent-reading-it1 points 30 August, 2022 01:22 PM [recovered]

But I mean exactly what has been researched. It's not even like a clown make up. But it is something only w clown would do anyways. I mean no less and no more than the research says. You can check out those pictures in the study.

RealNiceLady • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 06:33 PM

I'm not saying it looks good. I'm just saying that you see it as masculine, but it's just ugly feminine.

shreyastalpade • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 09:29 AM

It's not grooming, it's makeup used for clout hunting

shreyastalpade • 3 points • 29 August, 2022 07:08 PM

Men are attracted to these things and YES they do it to get attention as well as creating physical attraction to get their way.

you-arent-reading-it1 points 29 August, 2022 07:20 PM [recovered]

I agree. But the point of the video is: that makes you less long-term material. Especially if you exaggerate make up, extremely long nails eccetera.

we dont care. nobody is forcing you to marry them

shreyastalpade • 1 point • 29 August, 2022 08:42 PM

you-arent-reading-it1 points 29 August, 2022 08:53 PM [recovered]

They have more than enough options to not worry about this.

That's the delusion of women in modern times. Since they think:

"I can attract many guys = I can secure a long term relationship for life in seconds and I can wait 35/40 before making kids and I'm sure everything will go alright."

That's false though.

shreyastalpade • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 02:58 AM

shreyastalpade • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 09:13 AM

Women don't really hit the wall.

you-arent-reading-it1 points 30 August, 2022 09:40 AM* [recovered]

I kinda agree. Nowadays, women initiate 80% of divorces because they can't keep a relationship. About 40% to 50% of marriages will be broken. But they still have the privilege to live by their ex man's job for all life. They don't even need to have children to do that ( unless you specify that in the contract ).

The only hit in the wall is being single mother after 35. That's the least happy category as this is demonstrated by statistics. 1 out of 4 women in that specific situation take antidepressants.

shreyastalpade • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 11:19 AM

They never really hit the wall bcuz when they want a relationship some guy is probably lining up for it. Otherwise single and hoeing around is always happening.

BumblingBeta • 4 points • 30 August, 2022 01:31 AM

The woman in the video is a 27 year old married to a man twice her age, who tries to make a living by posting triggering videos to women who don't agree with her way of life. She's equivalent to a red pill grifter like Rich Cooper and Fresh and Fit who only want your money.

you-arent-reading-it1 points 30 August, 2022 05:41 AM [recovered]

Okay. What kind of redpill people do you follow?

BumblingBeta • 0 points • 30 August, 2022 03:08 PM

I don't follow any of them anymore. Rich Cooper used to be good a few years ago, until he became all about money-grabbing, recycling old content for clicks, creating BS supplements.

Rollo Tomassi was ok to listen to for a bit, but his youtube live streams are him rambling on and on for 3 hours or more and after a while, it was repetitive and boring to listen to.

I watched some of Fresh and Fit, but every episode is the same, inviting some really dumb, thick women on from Instagram so they can "debate" with them, parrot the same talking points, then some sad dudes in the chat sending in $200 superchats just to say "enjoy being old cat ladies women". And you just know that even though lots of dudes in the chat are insulting those women, those same dudes then go and follow those women's Instagrams and simp for them.

Then there's others like Alexander Grace, more repetitiveness about women's nature.

So I stopped because the content was repetitive and I felt like I had listened to everything I needed to, or I could see it became too much about money and clicks.

Wait she is married? I thought she give lectures on redpill theory after learning lessons from her previous relationship.

[deleted] • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 11:34 AM

As far as I know, she is married. I skim through her content, but her content isn't really thought provoking, but her audience demographic is mainly targeted to young women. Similar to justpearylthings, she knows a lot of talking points, but it's not thought provoking nor is it sophisticated or well thought out. I think she has a team of male writers giving her various comebacks or debate points, as it seems she uses the same ones over and over again without any real depth.

My criticism to justpearylthings is if you believe what you say, why aren't you married with kids?

Glad-Discount-4761 • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 11:40 AM

[deleted] • 1 point • 30 August, 2022 11:51 AM

Lol. I may be wrong or out dated info, but I do recall her saying in one of her podcast something like "hey, if there's any quality man out there that likes gingers, call me"

This was 2 months ago, so maybe she's not single now, but the amount of work she's been doing would make me assume she doesn't have time to date.

What people need to understand is these red pill youtubers almost never practice what they preach. These red pill beliefs are what I like to call "luxury beliefs". This explains what luxury beliefs are: <https://medium.com/@austinjcerny/what-are-luxury-beliefs-6088f8a16197> What these red pill youtubers are doing is screwing over their audience by telling them to live a certain way, while they live an opposite way in their own lives and rake in the profits.

Glad-Discount-4761 • 1 point • 31 August, 2022 06:17 AM

What these red pill youtubers are doing is screwing over their audience by telling them to live a certain way,

Is there anything they said that you actually agreed?

BumblingBeta • 1 point • 31 August, 2022 03:22 PM

Red Pill youtubers? Yeah sort of. I agree with their general assessment of women, even though they take it to extremes a lot, by analysing TikTok videos of highly emotional, mentally unstable women and then painting the entirety of the female population with that same brush.

They tell men to spin plates and never marry and have sex with hot young women all the time, but these red pill youtubers are either miserable MGTOWs who find it hard to find meaning in life and have mid-life crises, or they have a wife and kids which goes against what they're telling men to do.

This nonsense about "frame and game" too, when looks are the most important thing these days.

So there are grains of truth in the red pill, but also a lot of bullshit, frauds and scammers. You can't say it's all right or all wrong.

Well most men can fool women like that. Also, they are not evil. It's just their nature. It's not even that hard to do though. As a man, you just need to believe what you say. It's convenient? Yes. True? No. His love for you is real? Yes. But that's not the point at all. If he never lies to you to surprise you then he doesn't care about you. It doesn't seem the case. That's exactly what I'm talking about.

SwimmingTheme3736 • 1 point • 29 August, 2022 09:00 PM

Im not saying he doesn't lie to surprise me or he hasn't told me I good good because he want to hurry me up etc. but I know his kinks and what turns him on, there are somethings you can't lie about, his body makes it very clear. We like to hyperbolize characteristics of each gender. So men like big boobs and butts with a small waist. Men actually do like women who take care of their nails, makeup (shown women with makeup gets more matches), and longer lashes (probably not the type that looks like 5 extensions all glued together).

I don't think those are masculine traits nowadays at all.

This is a hilarious take. My female friends are blunt with one another. We get along because we are honest and understanding. If my makeup or outfit looks bad, they tell me. If the guy im seeing is a jerk. They tell me. This shows me that you don't really have any real women in your life. Let alone get a thousand to have sex with you. i have a big nose

Well, that's quite a turn off. But most guys will always be there. Also about having only a few friends, that's not a problem for a girl in the dating/attention market: even the less social adapted girl gets more attention than a unadapted guy that's just a fact. You are not the only one privileged. And that's totally fine.

i dont need makeup

That's false.

and i dont care what men like because im okay with being alone.

Yes. Only if you already chose that you won't ever have kids.

why would i want someone who doesn't like my natural appearance? for me to like someone they have to like me first and that's a perfectly valid prerequisite

That's not what I mean by the fact that you need make up. It's just demonstrated that wearing make up long term makes you be more successful on jobs and other things in general compared to girls who don't wear it. It might be a combination between two things: one is that make up gives you substantial advantages, and the other is that people with make up are naturally more competitive and that brings success.

and ur right i do not wants kids.

Ok. I'm childfree too and sterilized.

im not talking about compliments to my face im saying that my sisters/brothers/bfs friends both male and female compliment me without my knowledge which does not happen to average people. average people either get complimented straight up or not at all nobody tells their friends woah ur sister is pretty can i have her tiktok/ig and my nose is not abnormally big i am literally just asian and don't have a tiny European nose. it does not throw off my facial harmony. my nose looks like the one of yuri from izeone and she's clearly pretty. one failo does not automatically make someone ugly especially if it blends in with the rest of the features. my female friends barely tell me im pretty, the person that compliments me the most is my boyfriend

maybe when im older i will wear makeup im very young and i don't want to ruin my skin

Well yeah I got it. But I hope you and many other girls understand what really is an anomaly and what is completely normal as an average female. The problem is when you feel special about things that other girls experience. Many girls can't understand the difference.

i am literally just asian

Ah ok. My current girlfriend also is asian.

maybe when im older i will wear makeup im very young and i don't want to ruin my skin

Ok.

I mean you started to seem smart but you still sound dumb. Good luck with your relationships.

Dude you're making zero sense. You criticise make up than go and make wild projections about a girl that said she doesn't need it. It's up to each individual to chose for themselves and they don't have to fit your volatile standards.

I don't know about other.

But for me,I just feel cute and enjoy annoying my brother to look how cute is it lol.

I once got similar nail design like <https://www.instagram.com/p/CeUQGHDufNu/?igshid=YmMyMTA2M2Y=>. It just got me in cheerful mode

I felt excited like you would get if you got new tv.
