Blackpill type content is not explicitly banned off Reddit, at least not yet.

But we should be careful not to include anything that would constitute "hate speech", as that violates general TOS.

I know 2 guys who literally haven't had a single match after YEARS of being on that site and swiping right on everybody!

If you swipe right all the time you get shadow banned. You have to swipe left at least some of the time.

Exactly. You don't get shadow banned per se but your card gets shown a lot less often if you swipe right on every woman.

If you're not a virgin, on Tinder you should at the very least swipe left on the women whom are below the level of your best lays. I had an ex who was hot. But I don't only swipe right on hot girls because I had a one hit wonder with her. Dating and fucking her was like Jimmy Ray getting that "Are you Jimmy Ray?" song at the top of the charts in 1998.

But I still make sure to maintain some standards. If the woman is ugly, I swipe left. If the woman is obese, I swipe left. If I suspect the woman is obese but she's hiding her body or using angles, I sometimes give her the benefit of the doubt and swipe right if she has a nice face. If a woman is chubby but I like her face, I swipe right. If the woman has no sex appeal, I swipe left too. If a woman is not showing her face, I swipe left.

If you're a virgin, on Tinder swipe left on the Instathots at the very least because you will get nowhere with them anyways. Swipe left on the obese and ugly women if you think you can do better too.

You need to swipe left at least some of the time so that Tinder's algorithm doesn't penalize you too much. Tinder has a hidden proprietary ELO score under the hood. As does Bumble and Badoo. Maybe POF too. But you can message almost anyone on POF anyways. I haven't used Hinge to comment one way or another.

Our of the five apps that I have used regularly (Tinder, Bumble, Badoo, POF, OKCupid), POF is easily the best. Because you can message most women in your local area for free without a match on POF.

Tinder, Bumble, Badoo and OkCupid are all pay-to-win. On Badoo you can sometimes send crushes (super likes) for free if you watch video ads. And sometimes you can get free credits watching ads. And a 75% discount on sending messages without a match. So I personally would maintain a free account on Badoo. But I wouldn't bother doing any right swiping on Badoo until they start offering you free crushes (super likes). You can also send free hellos to local women from time to time on Badoo. Take advantage of that.

Personally I would advise that men don't pay for Tinder, Bumble, Badoo and OkCupid. Though sending a message for 50 credits on Badoo now and then when you have the 75% discount (it's usually 200 credits) may be worth it. If you're going to pay for online dating, get eHarmony. And eHarmony is for LTRs. Not casual sex.
