

Extreme hatred allowed untouched on Twitter

November 16, 2022 | 70 upvotes | by Disastrous_Offer152

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

Disastrous_Offer152[S] • 7 points • 16 November, 2022 01:00 PM

Archive,in order:

<https://ghostarchive.org/archive/9Ofwx>

<https://ghostarchive.org/archive/ygW1p>

<https://ghostarchive.org/archive/d9aBr>

Disastrous_Offer152[S] • 11 points • 16 November, 2022 10:59 AM

I know Twitter report system has always been bad and it will only get worse once Elon took over but if this kind of direct violence and hatred don't even get removed then I don't know what to say anymore.

huysocialzone • 4 points • 16 November, 2022 03:07 PM

Uh have you tried reporting it?

Disastrous_Offer152[S] • 2 points • 17 November, 2022 04:24 AM

Yes I did, many times in fact, there were much more hatred in her Twitter account but I only pick the worst.

huysocialzone • 1 point • 17 November, 2022 06:43 AM

Wow that is really bad, don't give up though, remember to stay calm.

REPORT HATE, DON'T PARTICIPATE.

YesAmAThrowaway • 10 points • 16 November, 2022 12:40 PM

According to owner Elon Musk, all hate speech and inciting genocidal violence is OK, because free speech. Unless you throw shit like that his way, of course. How dare we criticise a billionaire that runs every business into the ground and sells it off before it goes under?

gratis_eekhoorn • 13 points • 16 November, 2022 03:08 PM

Twitter allowed hate speech against men before Elon Musk bought it as well

YesAmAThrowaway • 3 points • 16 November, 2022 04:13 PM

Great. Suppose we can expect even worse then.

RainbowPope1899 • 5 points • 16 November, 2022 06:39 PM

If by worse you mean equal application of the rules to all people, then sure.

YesAmAThrowaway • 1 point • 16 November, 2022 06:40 PM

No policy is equally applied under Musk's boy

ZS_1171 • 5 points • 16 November, 2022 11:52 PM

That second one pisses me off most. Also, what's macing?

manicraccoon • 3 points • 17 November, 2022 02:21 AM

I think it is a brand of pepper spray that has become synonymous with the product and the act of pepper spraying someone.

ZS_1171 • 1 point • 17 November, 2022 03:42 PM

Jeez, ok!

huysocialzone • 1 point • 17 November, 2022 06:48 AM

I think she is using it as a verb.Mace is identified as a weapon on wikipedia)

Ogreblack • 3 points • 16 November, 2022 10:55 PM

Same kind of stupid twat that would scream Bloody Mary if she got 10% of what she puts out maniraccoon1 points 17 November, 2022 02:21 AM [recovered]

I don't say this often but, what a cunt.

huysocialzone • 3 points • 17 November, 2022 06:44 AM

Stay calm,dont let her get to you,they are literially waiting fot the moment that we broke and get angry to "prove" that we are the baddies.

Report hate,dont participate.

maniraccoon • 1 point • 17 November, 2022 09:38 AM

I disagree with this. I am obviously against violence, and threats or implications of harm. However if a person is being downright piece of garbage with impunity. People should be able to call it out.

DistrictAccurate • 1 point • 17 November, 2022 12:23 PM

Calling it out does not need insults - it is not like misandrists would not provide enough material to criticize them in a constructive manner.

It is understandable that exposure to misandry results in strong emotional reactions, but channeling that into advocacy is the preferable response to that. Anything else only provides an opportunity for those whom we consider to be anti-egalitarians to feel validated in their opposition.

Furthermore, it should be clear that it is the misandristic views, behaviors, statements, etc. we speak up against, not the individual making them. Not only will personal attacks discourage engagement and foster defensiveness by those who currently oppose us, giving them the feeling that our message would inherently brand them as a person as irredeemably evil will also make denial one of the only remaining options to protect their self. The desirable option should be to change.

huysocialzone • 1 point • 17 November, 2022 12:32 PM

Brigading can get us banned though

Moistfrogs1 points 16 November, 2022 05:57 PM [recovered]

i literally hate women

The_Dapper_Balrog • 3 points • 16 November, 2022 06:20 PM

Don't. Most women aren't like this. This is feminism in it's logical conclusion, not womanhood.

New-Ground9760 • 1 point • 25 November, 2022 01:38 AM

That is disgusting

DecimatingDarkDeceit • 1 point • 25 November, 2022 12:20 PM

" 'gee ! Thank you for controlling the twitter mr. Musk "