The level of bitterness never ceases to amaze me.

Imagine if a guy said “there’s no need for women other then having sex and getting them to make you sandwiches” meanwhile this misandrist gets 10k likes

Well guys remember to keep getting your money up while girls like this keep getting their body count up

DistrictAccurate • 4 points • 23 November, 2022 01:48 PM

To be clear, there is nothing inherently wrong with having a high "body count".

Urch_b_Smirch • 2 points • 23 November, 2022 09:50 PM

If a woman has a high body count her odds are settling down with a man go from 80% of 20%, because she'll just compare him to the other one she's had

Removed due to the following statement:

It was not meant to be serious, I guess, but I struggle to see what's funny about that comment. Whilst the legal implications of such hate-promoting messages are up for debate, even if I might disagree, the addition of "a hundred incels" allows for (mis-?)interpretations that would be unacceptable. If by "incel" you mean a person who makes hateful statements toward women, then just say that. Misandristic virgin shaming is too prevalent and severe of an issue (and the term incel specifically is de-facto used that way on a daily basis, perhaps even primarily) to allow for that term to be used in such contexts (prison, etc.). Furthermore, law enforcement should be about change and rehabilitation. Forcing recovering misandrists and misogynists into close proximity would likely interfere with that. Lastly and most importantly, it would likely lead to increased rates of (easily preventable) violence inbetween the institutionalized. Perhaps meant to be a joke, your comment reads like that island you are talking about was some kind of inhumane amphitheater or something.

This is not the first time you posted this, so a good start would be to stop that. If you disagree with a decision, argue against it - otherwise do not spam this same statement. You appear to contribute in good faith at times, so I am unsure where you are coming from with these.
