

My post about International Men's Day has been removed from r/wholesomememes. Love the double standards.

Can u leave the link please here so i see whats their "reason"

There is no reason, if I go to the subreddit on my app, my post is still there but the post is dead as it's not getting any views or upvotes. So, I checked from a browser and that's when I saw that the post had been removed.

Post that in mildly infuriating subreddit if you want to share it

Nah, it might even get removed from there.

I haven't been on that sub in a while and this post reminded me why that's a good thing (p.s. check out r/unwholesomememes it's way better)

Might have been a reddit bot that removed it that's happened to me before no idea why either

Anyone have that sheet of admins that run most of the popular subreddits?
