

'Feminists can't tell us what to do with our bodies': Sex workers learn the hard way that misandry hurts women

December 20, 2022 | 48 upvotes | by RatDontPanic

<https://news.sky.com/story/feminists-cant-tell-us-what-to-do-with-our-bodies-sex-workers-fight-council-s-trip-club-ban-in-edinburgh-12760191>

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

Kuato2012 • 26 points • 20 December, 2022 10:30 PM

Former Labour councillor and writer Susan Dalgety believes the council's decision is right for women.

"As a feminist, I think that men paying us for sexual favours is the worst kind of exploitation of our bodies," she said.

Funny use of collective pronouns there, Susan. It's the strippers who are being paid to strip, not you.

RatDontPanic[S] • 7 points • 20 December, 2022 11:29 PM

LOL that's the least of their problems, honestly.

lordhankster • 7 points • 20 December, 2022 08:46 PM

Banning those sexual entertainment places will definitely backfire. I don't know if sex work generally should be fully legalised but there should definitely be more to help those who need it. Saying that though, not everyone has awful experiences in sex work. After all: what you do with your own body is your choice.

RatDontPanic[S] • 14 points • 20 December, 2022 10:11 PM

Legalize it, tax it, regulate it. That's how I see it.

soncaa • 1 point • 30 December, 2022 09:31 PM

You guys are nuts lol

Subversive • 7 points • 21 December, 2022 04:46 AM

Nothing new here. Feminism has been at war with itself over sex work forever.

RatDontPanic[S] • 2 points • 21 December, 2022 06:00 AM

And women get caught in the crossfire. Sad.

gaut80 • 2 points • 29 March, 2023 06:25 PM

Funny, I always thought feminism was about telling women they could do everything. Except when, you know, they can't "because we say so". It's not empowerment, I don't know what it is, but I don't like it.

My opinion: sex work is work and I agree with the "Legalize and tax" pov.