It's a two-hour video that I don't have time to vet. Could you expound a little on what it's about?

You start out with a cringy opening were she pretends to be "a manosphere youtuber" and miss represents tge entire community.

You think to your self "you know what let me atleast listen to her points first to be fair" and then you enter a points section and you realize that she is a complete idiot as well as a living sticking together multiple small portions of diffrent video making people say things they never actually said yet still failing to come to a logical counter argument to the strawman she herself created.
