

When it comes to casual flings, women are attracted to men who take risks. (Another reason why casual sex is VERY bad for men.)

*attracted to chads who take risks

RatDontPanic[S] • 4 points • 18 January, 2023 05:17 AM

Regardless, risks get men unnecessarily killed, thrown in jail, etc.

All that for some sex?

If a woman doesn't like a man who lives his life avoiding unnecessary risks then she's too toxic to be around.
Pussy ain't worth all that.

Then she has that kind of man's kid from casual sex.

Thus continues the cycle of poverty. Unemployable men get to reproduce, leading to more uncivil men and an over stuffed prison system. Yay modern society!

No lies detected!

Being risky doesn't mean anything when you get zero matches, the primary way of casual flings now

RatDontPanic[S] • 3 points • 18 January, 2023 06:28 AM

Risk-taking men usually get women in real life, assuming they aren't culled from the herd by their stupidity first.

IHateFemales • 4 points • 18 January, 2023 06:40 AM

Ugly risk taking men end up in prison

Tabloid referencing another tabloid. I can't say I'm convinced. Like the other commenter said: women are attracted to chads who take risks. But I'll add they are also attracted to chads who are responsible/avoid risks. Women have varying tastes, you see, they like all kinds of chads.

RatDontPanic[S] • 2 points • 18 January, 2023 05:24 AM

You made a really bad argument. Said "tabloid" studies are founded by non-tabloid sources for certain types of risks (but not others).

whereas hunter-gatherer risks were rated as especially attractive when performed by males. Discussion | focuses on cultural and evolutionary explanations for the link between risk and attractiveness.

But in the end whether it's unattractive risks like driving without seat belts or hunter-gatherer style risks, it's all a VERY bad deal for men. Pussy is still not worth engaging in that stuff.

hutavan • 1 point • 18 January, 2023 02:08 PM

Then why didn't you just link the study instead? The tabloid article and the study aren't even talking about the same thing, it's only vaguely related. Is smoking and drinking supposed to be one of the so called "hunter-gatherer risks"? Shouldn't it fall under the other category of "modern" risks (e.g. driving with no seat belt)? Same thing for jumping out of a plane. Is that something hunter-gatherers did? It's not, but the tabloid still argues it's the attractive type of risk.

I didn't actually buy the study lol so maybe you can shed some light on this. Did they actually define drinking, smoking and jumping out of a plane, etc. as hunter-gatherer-type risks? Because that makes no sense to me.

| Then why didn't you just link the study instead?

Because I didn't need to. You just launched your criticism without realizing the study was legit.

Probably not. But it does point to the fact that women like men who are protectors and will risk their lives to be so. It would explain the fetish for cops, first responders, etc., and why cubicle dwelling workers are among the least sexiest class of men for the average woman.

Life is so easy when you replace the word men with chad when women talk about dating.

I want a kind and caring man = i want a kind and caring Chad. Not a sub5 who is kind and caring hutavan • 2 points • 18 January, 2023 02:20 PM*

Good observation.

I was thinking of calling this phenomenon "Chad of the gaps" (like "god of the gaps" for christcucks)

Whenever there's a gap in women's reasoning, just insert Chad instead of "man" and the statement will start to make sense 99% of the time.

Example:

| "I like shy and dorky men"

-doesn't make sense. Let's apply "COG" and see if it makes sense

| "I like shy and dorky Chads"

-suddenly this statement makes a lot of sense carpetfoodie • 1 point • 18 January, 2023 02:22 PM

Yup, it made so much stuff clear no_bling_just_ding • 1 point • 18 January, 2023 08:45 PM

this explains my convos with some of the women i find online

Muh soggy kneez! You will be burned at the stake for this heresy! :P

puririnpa • 1 point • 18 January, 2023 07:14 AM

it feels like america's problem is they reward animalistic, primitive men for fucking middle to high class women instead of having some sense of classism.

RatDontPanic[S] • 1 point • 19 January, 2023 01:20 AM

Classism is real, the problem is men like Donald Trump can have 3 wives in a row while working class men struggle to find even one.

Latterfootstone1 points 18 January, 2023 09:30 AM [recovered]

It's morally and spiritually bad for both. Only the most ruthless, manipulative, and sexually volatile win the casual dating game.

Also, what's with the preview icon being a BMWF relationship?

RatDontPanic[S] • 1 point • 19 January, 2023 01:15 AM

You know, I didn't see that BMWF icon. I'm not sure where that fits into the story.

puririnpa • 1 point • 18 January, 2023 10:03 AM i tell everyone that black men are privileged in the west here, but i'm the only high iq user here, non-black ethnics here will rather suck off bbc than to realize the reason they are cucked is because of high amount of bmwf.
