Read the article. Note the anti-male hostility. And then focus your attention on this gem:

Fake an orgasm the first time you have sex, unless he happened to magically know how to get you off the first time you sleep together, which rarely happens.

That's right, sweetie thinks the female orgasm is difficult.

Anyone surprised? Of course it's difficult when you hate and fear men. Orgasms come from arousal, which comes from emotional state, which comes from attitude. Too much bad attitude, not enough fireworks.

I wonder how many RPWs complain about difficulty reaching orgasm?

It's fun watching dumb women try to concoct strategies. You can almost smell the burning potpourri.

Some women do take longer, etc, regardless of how feminist or comfortable they are with you. @(#*ing idiot lady though.

If you wanted to turn the article on its head and make comparable suggestions for men, the list might look something more like this:

Tell her that her heels make her look like a horse

Take a look through her phone

For the first date after sex, cancel last minute

Fake having feelings for her

See how she responds to spanking

Tell her you aren't fertile
