Being a warrior is not about winning but protecting the weak and serving the community.

I know it's a lame move to correct someone's spelling/grammar, but the fact that this writer consistently misspells "offense" and "defense", two important words in this article, really takes away from his credibility IMO.

Also, I don't know what kind of paintball he played, but all-out offense gets you shot pretty quickly. Speed = recklessness.

Edit: You're the author. I regret nothing, and will go down with my ship. You should fix those errors if you can.

It's an alternate spelling, like color/colour
