

I don't even know where to start with this one

April 30, 2014 | 6 upvotes | by InscrutablePUA

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

JP_Whoregan • 8 points • 30 April, 2014 07:55 PM*

You know the feminists are desperate when they're pointing to the uber-rich and famous to prove their misguided points. This woman does not prove Princeton Mom wrong on ANY level. She has reaffirmed TRP theory that women do not fuck/marry down or equal, they fuck/marry UP. And when your an international starlet lawyer and advisor to the fucking chairman of the United Nations, you have to marry a 50-something alpha movie star 16 years older than you to satisfy your hypergamy.

[deleted] • 4 points • 30 April, 2014 09:20 PM

[permanently deleted]

Prometheus720 • 1 point • 30 April, 2014 10:12 PM

The fact that this woman wrote an entire article about some high-powered international lawyer/UN advisor and spent 99% of it talking about the man she's marrying shows just how little she is aware of the doublespeak.

"Careers are more important for women! We need to be strong and independent!" "OMG SHE MARRIED CLOONEY I LOVE HER WOW HOW COOL IS THAT SHE'S MY HERO!"

What utter nonsense.

InscrutablePUA[S] • 2 points • 1 May, 2014 02:42 AM

She almost sounded mad that she wasn't the one marrying GC

Prometheus720 • 1 point • 1 May, 2014 03:40 AM

She was. That woman was totally jealous. Happily married women rarely proactively point out that they're happily married. It's a bullshit line they feed themselves till they can throw it up on command.

Happily married women also don't write tabloid articles, because people who like tabloids are never happy with their own lives.

mikelovesvegas • 0 points • 30 April, 2014 10:16 PM

I give the marriage three years maximum. The saggy, old-lady bits will be an increasingly hard sell for George.