"I'm a strong woman, I don't need to be reliant on a man, or a man's money"

"Yet you're taking alimony"

Oh shit, I just watched it, Marc was dropping bombs. Tracy sucks.

KishCom • 6 points • 5 February, 2013 07:31 PM

Yeah but she talked louder... so... she wins...

Chris Rock:

Another thing fellas, DON'T ARGUE! You cannot win. You can never beat a woman in an argument, IT'S IMPOSSIBLE. Cuz man, we are handicapped when it comes to argument, cuz we have a need to MAKE SENSE~~ Women ain't got a lot of little thing like sense stuck up their argument. Cuz she ain't in it for sense, she's in it for distance and irritation.

"How long can I talk before this motherfucker snaps?"

Just leave the room.

logicalmisologist • 6 points • 6 February, 2013 01:23 AM

Women are in their sexual prime when they're 35? I beg to differ!

spaceman_spliff • 6 points • 6 February, 2013 02:01 AM

Just the hamster trying to rationalize!

logicalmisologist • 4 points • 6 February, 2013 02:19 AM

My loins beg to differ, too.

[deleted] • 1 point • 6 February, 2013 05:34 PM

Confession! I can hardly control myself for the ones in their late 30s to around fifty. Oops.

[deleted] • 1 point • 8 February, 2013 06:07 AM

Lol, a woman saying this would be like a man saying his sexual prime is post 60. ffswtfut ~

| We control household spending. Because we work now more than ever.

Yes, that's why.

Ive felt this way for years trying to argue with women. I allways tried to talk sense but could never get anywhere!!! Now i realise they just talk shit it allmost seems pointless to engage with them.

Is there no way to shoot them down in an argument?

redpillschool[S] • 17 points • 5 February, 2013 08:00 PM

Is there a way to win in a game of chess against a pigeon?

TremendousJohnson • 5 points • 5 February, 2013 08:04 PM

haha your right. I just recently got into this subreddit and its been a real eye opener.

The topics in this subreddit are something ive allways felt and it made me unhappy but i could never put my finger on what was up till now. know what i mean?

redpillschool[S] • 8 points • 5 February, 2013 08:09 PM

It's always been there, but you could never quite articulate what it was...

Welcome to the red pill my friend.

TremendousJohnson • 3 points • 5 February, 2013 08:32 PM

Yup exactly this. It all makes way more sense now.

sweisman • 5 points • 6 February, 2013 10:02 AM

Depends on the context. LTR? Office mate?

Regarding arguments, I was discussing this with a friend recently. Few women are really capable of having an intellectual discussion that challenges their assumptions, like this did on the segment.

Can't really help with non-LTR situation.

As for myself, when trying to "reason" with my wife, on whatever issue it was I wanted to "discuss," I used to be utterly mystified at this kind of hyper-reactive literally non-sensical arguing-for-the-sake-of-arguing behavior and get into big screaming matches with my wife (or girlfriend, in the distant past). Or be utterly cowed by her emotions. Now, in the case of disagreements that come up, I let this go on for maybe a minute or two before just doing what I want anyway, calmly.

She sometimes get unbelievably stewed when I do that. Let her. From personal experience, it really does turn women on (later, if not immediately). The angrier the better.

I've learned a similar technique with women that I'm seeing more than once. When they pull shit, instead of getting angry or frustrated, instead of engaging them, I look at them and say, "I'm disappointed."

Then I treat them as I would a child who took a cookie before dinner.

TremendousJohnson • 2 points • 6 February, 2013 05:49 PM

One question though how do you keep your cool? The way they go all over the place about nothing relative to the argument drives me insane!!!

They talk way too much nonsense for me to keep it together?

meftical • 2 points • 9 February, 2013 02:58 PM

I think it helps to realize that this is a tactic. They are trying to knock you off your game, get you out of your ideal masculine state. They can't argue with you using logic and reason, so they try to change the frame of the argument. See the tactic and be amused by it.

It's heavily prevalent in redpillschool's interactions on other subs.

TremendousJohnson • 2 points • 9 February, 2013 06:27 PM

Yeah it makes sense when you put it like that, thanks. Id really be interested in any other ways to keep my cool in arguments like this, or tactics to win out the debate with them or at least frustrate them instead of myself.
