"You know, I'm not going to try debate this. It's obvious you know what you're doing and know what you're talking about. To be honest my suspicions have been placed wrong, since your reply has cleared up the misconceptions I may have had about the fundamentals that this sub has tried to put across. I know when I've been proven wrong and am not afraid to admit to it. So i thank you for this reply, I still browse plenty of this sub but atleast now I have a better understanding of the mindset here."

he made the comment an hour after you posted this. this guy's awesome and is going to do great here.

I applaud you for taking a stand like you did, and after reading the comments that generated of TRP discussion I am astonished by the number of lemmings on the thread. Quite saddening.

Haha, well I guess we can say it's a red pill example now!

[deleted] • 1 point • 19 April, 2013 08:46 PM

Justice served.

I think that this has a place on the sidebar. It, in a very concise way, gives a newbie an outline of what The Red Pill is about, and also answers some common misconceptions/questions.

You've got a good point. I'm going to clean it up and do just that.
