

V-Day " Don't be lulled into thinking Game is any less necessary on V-Day. In fact, I can't think of a more direct illustration of how the feminine encourages the transaction of men's goods and services in exchange for a woman's sexuality than reserving a 'special day' just for it."

February 13, 2014 | 82 upvotes | by redpillschool

<http://therationalmale.com/2014/02/12/v-day-2/>

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

TRPsubmitter • 17 points • 13 February, 2014 08:45 PM

Oh that is today, isn't it? Meeting a plate tonight and was just going to do our regular thing. I guess I'll spring for some cheap wine + cheese.

I kinda view these holidays as "tides". There are slut cycles and hamster cycles. On valentine's, christmas, anniversaries, etc, the hamster cycle is at its peak. Shields up!

But for Halloween, St Patrick's Day, New years Eve, 4th of July, the slut cycles are peaking.

RedPillScare • 6 points • 13 February, 2014 09:16 PM

Today is Feb 13 where I live.

TRPsubmitter • 1 point • 14 February, 2014 02:25 AM

In Asia, we're one day ahead!

RedPillScare • 1 point • 14 February, 2014 02:57 PM

I thought it might be that.

[deleted] 13 February, 2014 08:21 PM

[permanently deleted]

Hormander • 5 points • 13 February, 2014 09:35 PM

every pussy has its price

rebuildingMyself • 1 point • 14 February, 2014 02:18 AM

There is but it's illegal

Gyaltso • 6 points • 14 February, 2014 03:32 AM

So then no, not free

[deleted] • 6 points • 13 February, 2014 07:20 PM

V-day on a Friday is like some kind of cosmic alignment of celestial bodies meant to deliver desperate snatch into an aloof, one armed embrace.

Hope to see some great FR's on Monday!

bama79rolltide • 6 points • 13 February, 2014 09:14 PM

"Nothing says "I love you" like saturated fat and slutty lingerie."

Classic.

[deleted] • 2 points • 14 February, 2014 02:14 AM

I've never done anything for Valentine's day, and I won't do anything this year. Why do people always try and overthink think this? Birthdays and Christmas are easy to handle too, just get something both of you can do together or a couple of slices of cake and go for a walk.

[deleted] • 2 points • 14 February, 2014 02:39 AM

It's still about frame. Are you going to be the only one in the relationship idolizing and pedestaling on V-day, or is she going to acknowledge that you are a catch as well? Do something thoughtful, not something expensive and generic.

Gyaltso • 0 points • 14 February, 2014 03:33 AM

Any examples?

[deleted] • 1 point • 14 February, 2014 03:37 AM

It has to be specific to the girl and your personality/frame in order for it to be thoughtful and have any meaning.

I don't go the asshole route, so my specific advice would be worthless for someone who has that kind of relationship.

Also, just because you know not to pedestalize a woman doesn't mean that you don't get to know her and figure out the kind of gestures she would appreciate.

DanG3 • 1 point • 13 February, 2014 10:24 PM

Skittle her: Nothing says, "I Love You" better than a hand-made card cut from a brown paper bag with the words "Nothing in the rack was worthy of your rack" scrawled in your OWN handwriting in red. (Just buy a card with a fancy envelope, but pitch the card.)

tangman • 0 points • 14 February, 2014 09:46 AM

It's fucking sad to see the grocery stores nearby full of guys buying last minute flowers & chocolates and shit.

I wonder if they look at each other and think - if everyone is doing the same thing, then none of what we're doing is special...?

The worst feeling is hearing some guy say, while buying flowers, "I'm gonna get lucky tonight [with the wife]!"

charlie_bodango • 0 points • 14 February, 2014 07:29 AM

I'll do something for valentines day, as long as she respects march 14. That's steak and blowjob day.