

Is it fine to get a number then not text/call it for a couple days until I hit her up to meet up?

I've seen this one around a bit, she knew my name before I started talking to her. End of the night and I was already going home, so I got her number. Didn't text her right then, so now I've got her number and she doesn't have mine. I was going to just hit her up in a couple days when I'm looking to meet up, is that weird at all to have her number without sending her my information?

Edit: couple not coyote in title
