

Date night stinks

I startled a skunk. Seeing the tail rise, I ran to the house, thinking it didn't get me.

"Whew! I almost got sprayed by a skunk!"

Seconds later, the foul stench caught up to me.

We ran to the laundry room, past the thongs and bras that were hanging to dry. I tossed my clothes into the washing machine, and instructed her to run it with OxiClean while I went to the shower.

"Could you fill a basin with white vinegar and dish soap? And bring the white face cloths."

Moments later, she appeared with a basin of 5% vinegar and dish soap. I covered myself in it. Standing naked behind the glass shower door, I discussed with her what needed to be done next.

After I had been soaking in vinegar for 25 minutes, she returned from the store with their entire stock of hydrogen peroxide and double strength Febreze. She provided consecutive basins of fresh peroxide, dish soap, and baking soda for me to clean my body as she cleaned and deodorized the house.

Each time she returned with a fresh bowl of peroxide, she had something to say.

| The first thing it says on the Internet is not to go in the house. The whole house is going to smell!

(laughs) "Stand naked in the back yard for a couple of hours? With a skunk and mosquitos back there? No way. Besides, the neighbors might not appreciate it!"

| All my delicates stink! What if we can't get the smell out?

"When my clothes are done, run the delicates with OxiClean - it will get rid of the smell. If it doesn't, then we'll go to the store together and buy you some new pretty underwear..."

| If you smell like skunk, you can't sleep in the bedroom.

"Haha, yeah, maybe I should sleep in a hotel!"

| Is that stuff okay for your skin?

"Meh, just a bit of a chemical burn. (laughs) Did you spray the kids' backpacks? I don't want them to stink when they go to school."

| How are you doing?

(steps out of the shower, stands naked in front of her)

"You tell me."

She laid her hands on me, sniffing, laughing, decompressing.

| It's late, come to bed.

"Sounds good. Can you grab me some clothes?"

"That was fun, in a twisted sort of way."

Each of her comments was calmer and happier than the last, as she overcame her anxiety and settled back into my frame. Anger, frustration, and helplessness would have had the opposite effect. Her behavior was a reflection of mine.

It was late, so we slept. The next day, she was all over me.

Every night is date night. She will remember the skunk episode more than any restaurant or show. She excitedly recounts the story to anyone who will listen.

Prerequisites:

- Look good naked.
- Laugh about and enjoy a situation that others would consider misfortune.
- Hold frame. Your purpose is her purpose. By your side is where she is meant to be.
- Always be closing.

Love how you snuck the first, and most Important lesson in there.

Fat fuck Bob doesn't get his wife to help. He gets hosed in the yard

In case anybody missed it, this is a field report on the value of holding frame. I am almost scared to imagine the chaos that would ensue if it happened to me. Almost.

Use a skunk to engage a hamster, fuck like rabbits.

Dr. fucking Dolittle right here.

Nice frame control, situational reframing, and involvement of wife in the "experience".

Added some pushmi-pullyu for the win.

Use a skunk to engage a hamster, fuck like rabbits.

...and, tear that pussy up!

Yes, I, too, have been known among friends as "the witty one".

Lesson learned: Don't pull the tail of the black and white cat.

Laugh about and enjoy a situation that others would consider misfortune.

This is so fucking important in so many ways.

There are skunks in my neighborhood. In the summer at night they run the area. Sometimes the spray will be so intense you can taste it....and the AC draws it in.

I don't know what's worse.

CS gas or skunk musk.

I've never been sprayed before. Thank god.

I like to think it would go down like this, although I guess it would be dependent on her mood. If the kids were bugging her or she had a bad day at work or some shit, she'd flip, I'd laugh and do it myself, she would call me a piece of shit, I'd admit to my shittery, the sun would come up the next day and she would forget about it.

Awesome FR though man. IMO you calm, cool and collected approach was the ticket here.

Excellent job. Calm decisive action in the face of a 'crisis' with clear instructions for the FO to assist effectively, and holding frame like a fucking champ throughout.

It's our job to play the 'rescuer' of fuckup situations as they come up, but to make a future 'funny memory' out of what would have been just another pain in the ass occurrence shows a leader whose skills have been honed to a high degree.

Nailed it with laughing about a situation most would consider misfortune. Those are the stories you will remember and laugh about in 10 years, not the nights where everything went perfectly according to plan.

Cheers!

Yet again, another case of the whites gone mild.

Must have been the most exciting moment in your spiceless life.

It's amazing, bloopers and MGTOW's are indistinguishable. I don't mean the real MGTOWs with high n- counts who got tired of the game, I mean the keyboard warriors. Your trolling keeps you miserable. That little dopamine high just drives more trolling, never leaving you satisfied. "The whites" and the women aren't your problem. Get some therapy, kid.

tacotime2019 • -1 points • 22 December, 2017 12:05 PM

Yeah, I was posting on r/MGTOW all day. Black pill > red pill.

And so you went through my comments. Did you see the ones I posted on r/exmuslim?

BTW how did you get skunked? Did you get too close? Skunks spray urine as a defense mechanism. And the next time you wanna spice up your life, try chicken masala. :D
