

Who's the "man and the women" in your relationship?

March 27, 2019 | 5 upvotes | by throwaway111116439

---

Using a throw away for obvious reasons.

What is everyones take on "hetero-normative" (for lack of a better term) gay relationships? Personally I find myself more attracted to feminine (though not queeny or diva personalities) men and the idea of having a "house wife" is appealing to me. I believe that this is a relationship style that is most likely to last longer and be healthier since there would not be two people with masculine energy trying to take control. Thoughts?

---

Archived from theredarchive.com

---

Comments

---

Bttomfggot • 1 point • 7 July, 2019 07:46 PM

I am only attracted to masculine top men that have the “take charge” type attitude. So I can agree in way with what you said. I would most certainly be happy in the “house wife” role no doubt

[deleted] • 1 point • 15 February, 2022 07:08 PM

no no no, you're both men and don't ever ever let your MALE partner take on feminine role in your relationship