

What do you speak about with your plates?

May 2, 2019 | 88 upvotes | by BorosPauper

What do you and your plates chat about when you're hanging out and not fucking?

I feel like I talk so much shit, boring and cringey topics when I'm with some girls and they don't like it but just tolerate. Normally with the ones who I fuck well and feel comfortable with I feel okay speaking my mind yet I get the impression I'm boring them or they don't care.

[Eg. We were talking about movies cos she brought up she saw that Avenger's Movie recently and I told my plate how I showed Pan's Labyrinth to my little sister to traumatize her a little bit as an intro to "deeper" movies as it has a taste of everything good in psychological horrors but wrapped up in a fairytale plot. I also mentioned how I liked the pacing and the casting of the characters and that film pacing is very good and I went on to give examples of badly paced films and films where the narrative was well timed.]

I get passionate about mildly-complex topics like this and start talking about them at length obliviously but then I saw her eyes glaze over like "wtf is he talking about" and realized I needed to stop. This has happened other times with other girls, even if I have a lot in common with them, I feel the need to carry the conversation but I'm into nerdy/"lame" stuff in their eyes so idk.

Sometimes we talk about relationships and stuff but I've learnt from Tomassi not to give away too much information and to keep it all a bit mysterious on that end. Besides this idk what the hell other people discuss.

I don't want to bore my plates to death. I know I fuck them well cos they orgasm a lot and they're eager for sex, and I do tease and play with them like kids often, but during these gaps idk what the fuck we're supposed to discuss without scaring her away. I like deep topics and even the smartest girls get bored after 10 minutes of discussing these.

But I also don't know what to do if I'm not saying anything, we can't just sit in silence can we? What do "normies" talk about with each other all day, and what should I keep the topics of conversation with?

As Vandaleen said. Let them do 85% of the talking. Check out How to Win Friends and Influence People by Dale Carnegie, a good and timeless book. If you want to talk about topics like you mentioned - intraparameters of movies like pacing etc - I think you need to show true enthusiasm doing this.

So to summarize, either : a) Let them talk vastly more than you b) Be passionate about you're talking about
Challenge for you: talk to somebody about cooking pasta and make it the most fucking entertaining monologue ever

They come packaged so hard and stiff but brittle at once.

Then you are left with a soggy limp noodle.

But got dam does it slide down your throat like a.. well like a wet noodle should.

Kind of reminds me of this one time when I was doing this tour in Afghanistan. One of my mates, Jim, great guy, young kid, maybe in his 20s, he wasn't paying attention to his surroundings and set off an IED.

This springs the insurgent's trap and we've got hostilities in our 12 and 6. I rush into the M1127 APC. Bullets are whizzing past me. One almost grazes my right ear.

I've got Mike providing me covering fire with his M21A 50 cal. His screams are being muffled by his gun sending a torrent of fire and I'm on the com trying to reach our CO.

Our CO is this grizzled vet from Texas and he gets on the line and is relaying our position for our armored support. It's serious when I hear his calm collected voice tremble with concern.

I hear Mike take a hit and fall down. I bolt to him and start pulling him back. There's dust and dirt going everywhere. He's hit bad. I mean he's already lost a quart.

I try to get him to stay with us and grab a box of Barilla pasta and get him to read it.

"Bring 4 - 6 quarts of water to a rolling boil, add salt to taste."

I can hear the bastard yell to advance.

"Add contents of package to boiling water. Stir gently."

Mike's struggling to stay awake. My clothes are stained red now and I'm covered in mud.

I'm screaming for a sit Rep while taking pot shot and fanatic insurgents with my M007. My first shot goes wide but I manage to clip him with my second but I'm not sure as I can hear the sound of Thunder and death approaching.

"Return to a boil. For authentic "al dente" pasta, boil uncovered, stirring occasionally for 9 minutes."

I eject my clip and grab my last mag. Mike's barely awake now but I can't focus on him as I gun two more hostile down before I await for the inevitable.

" Remove from heat... "

I take out my KA-BAR and bury it so deep into the first enemy combatant that he doesn't even realize that he's punched a one way ticket to meet his God.

The sound is so loud it sounds like the earth itself is shaking in fury and I close my eyes to wait for the moment where it all ends.

I think about my grandpa and my mom back home. They'll be looked after. I can rest.

When the end comes, it leaves me waiting as I see the beautiful sight of twin armored Leopard 2 in the horizon. Two Canucks firing streams of 7.62 mm MG3A1 rounds.

I cry tears of joy and look down to see that Mike's not moving. I check his pulse and sigh deeply.

"Serve immediately with your favorite Barilla sauce, " I whisper into ear. "You're making pasta with Christ, my friend."

I am not from US but if you served in military I deeply respect and admire you. If that is real I hope for you to find the peace you might be longing for. Good luck bro

Go read books and talk about what you read. Ideally encourage your lovers to do the same.

bluefingerblue • 15 points • 2 May, 2019 02:14 PM

Dude talking about the pacing of movies is totally fine as long as you seem passionate about it. If Quentin Tarantino was talking to some chick about the pacing of movies, she'd be eating it up.

My guess is you think it's boring them, so it comes off as boring to them. I'm guessing you have to adjust your mentality. Who gives a fuck if it interests them. If it interests you, go for it and be passionate about it.

Also, you don't have to carry conversations. Next time you're with a girl just try to sit in silence and let her carry the conversation. It might get awkward, but let her fill the void instead of feeling like you need to. Then just sit there and listen and play off what she's saying.

vandaalen • 89 points • 2 May, 2019 10:36 AM

Plates: schedule, meet, fuck, leave within twenty minutes, repeat next week

How much can you talk in 20 minutes?

Other than that, just let them do the talk. They enjoy their voice much more than yours.

GIFtoGasm • 23 points • 2 May, 2019 12:42 PM

I'm a big fan of letting them talk and I just act accordingly pretending I'm paying attention. Hit that with the 'oh that's crazy' after every break. I never expose too much about myself. Keep the mystery or the calm very noticeable.

boolDozer • 8 points • 2 May, 2019 08:14 PM

Get good at asking follow-up questions and they will talk forever.

However: you also have to get good at changing the topic (with more questions, usually). A girl will talk forever, but she will also get bored with what she's saying and start thinking that you're boring for listening to it. I like to change the topic abruptly if they've been talking for a few minutes.

I'm usually out within 10...

I enjoy time with my plates and I don't like to kick them out immediately after. Like we can fuck and lay in bed for a while then cook or watch a show then fuck again then sleep. It's GFE really.

But what conversation do we use to fill in the gaps?

c4toyourdoornobeeF • 13 points • 2 May, 2019 02:32 PM

that's not a plate then.

-Frank • 12 points • 2 May, 2019 02:59 PM

[deleted] • 24 points • 2 May, 2019 04:22 PM

Man ignore half the bullshit you're hearing here

If you've already fucked her, talk away about whatever interests you as if you're talking to yourself

Obviously don't start yammering about your childhood issues or current problems, but if you start yapping away about your opinions about movies and current issues and whatever who gives a fuck if it causes "the plate to break"

RP is supposed to be about being uncompromising and yet here we see people saying you should just be quiet and shut up to keep the girl, implying the value of keeping the girl around is greater than expressing yourself and doing what you want to do

What a joke this place has become fender1878 • 13 points • 2 May, 2019 06:50 PM

Agree 100% and glad someone called it out. I've got a couple plates spinning, all pretty cool girls. I think you reach the pinnacle of abundance when you're not sure which plate to hang onto with on a given night because they're all pretty cool.

Last night I got drinks with a plate, spent a few hours at the bar having really good conversation, shared some appetizers and then went back to smash. Honestly, it's way more fun that way for me at least because it just becomes a really enjoyable night.

This sub tends to avoid any kind of meaningful human interaction.

[deleted] • 9 points • 2 May, 2019 02:04 PM

A lot of the girls I have around I watch Netflix and chill with, I don't mind them sticking around..., if the relationship is NSA there's a fairly clear cut understanding that the chat is gonna be easy going... the younger ladies I tend to prefer to just quieten them down with my cock in their mouth. The girls in their early 20's tend to want to talk about relationships, sex or show off their Instagram pics and ask me if I think her or her friends pics are 'hawt'...

I had a 23 yo Vietnamese/Australian girl come over tonight just to play PlayStation, I said you're welcome to, but I have a no pants or top allowed policy... I massaged her while she played cod black ops in her gstring and bra... we pretty much chatted about our sex lives for an hour... comparing who had the best sexcapade stories before I lifted her to the bedroom and pulled that gstring to the side... soon as we were done she Ubered home. Low stress, high pleasure

2) Teasing. Her.

[deleted] • 14 points • 2 May, 2019 01:04 PM

There's only 2 reasons for you to be doing what you are doing. One is that you know they most likely don't understand what you are saying so it makes you feel smarter than them which shows your lack of self esteem, second you are trying to turn them into conversation buddies when they just want sex because... I dunno. Why don't you have that kind of conversations with male friends?

[deleted] • 2 points • 2 May, 2019 01:20 PM

this is solid. agreed

VasiliyZaitzev • 5 points • 2 May, 2019 06:14 PM

How she might pleasure me better.

Upon occasion I give advice, but I make clear that if they just want to bitch abt things, that's what their girlfriends are for and thenin I pack their mouths with cock.

Actually I prefer dating introverts, so there isn't a lot of talking.

Psychological_Radish • 9 points • 2 May, 2019 04:13 PM

The idea that you should get a girl who wants to have deep, meaningful conversations is a Blue Pill delusion. The only deepness that should concern you is how deep your cock is going into her pussy. Save the philosophical shit for your friends. Smart girls want to get plowed by the hot dumb trainer from the gym, not the skinny guy with the dorky glasses in her calculus class.

Whisper • 5 points • 2 May, 2019 04:04 PM

If you're spending significant social time with them outside the seduction process, they are FWBs, not plates.

ghosts_of_me • 6 points • 2 May, 2019 02:08 PM

Dont talk, do. Create activities, be a leader. Put on a movie you want to watch, draw an alien city together, invent a new cocktail, make a sculpture out of tree bark, go for a walk to the river and spot a duck, play a card game, you can do anything.

ghosts_of_me • 3 points • 2 May, 2019 02:09 PM

Inb4 someone says whats the point of doing stuff like that if shes not your gf.

beachbbqlover • 2 points • 2 May, 2019 03:29 PM

I mostly talk with people from the internet. The locals are all coal miners, and have the intellectual capacity of coal miners. I mean some run the mine, some run a business, some clean shovels, but nobody here is about to change the world, and while I'm not either I do find people who are to be more engaging.

So the people immediately around me get conversations about work, cars, making a house, weather, fitness, and perspective choices.

Aesthetik_1 • 1 point • 2 May, 2019 02:56 PM

I found that, provided they're into you, you can talk about pretty much anything and they will try to assert themselves / impress you with what they know about something you talk about / keep the conversation alive and try to mirror your interests which is hardy ever genuine, but fun nonetheless

[deleted] • 1 point • 2 May, 2019 06:42 PM

I was bored reading your post, so I can only imagine how your plates feel. Stop fucking talking. They don't care about your movie theories. I'm a filmmaker and I don't even talk about that shite. The only thing coming out of your mouth should be penetrating questions.

mikayla_rivera • 1 point • 2 May, 2019 07:21 PM

If they are just fuck buddies then they are not going to be your best friends. That's what a non sexual friend is for or a girlfriend, I would recommend either leaving shortly after hooking up or asking them more questions to get them involved in the conversation if you really want to talk to them. People like to talk about themselves and very few will actually give a shit about what you have to say besides close friends, family, and your gf which are all still maybes.

teflifestyle • 1 point • 2 May, 2019 08:35 PM

Everybody loves to talk about themselves, just let them do the talking...its funny its the lazy approach, but they will like you more in the end jollycompanion • 1 point • 3 May, 2019 04:08 AM

Tomassi not to give away too much information and to keep it all a bit mysterious on that end. Besides this idk what the hell other people discuss.

Ah I see you're a man of culture as well.

Elihad15 • 1 point • 2 May, 2019 05:24 PM

Find male friends to talk to about these things. I also have a hard time not getting too deep (mentally) and it ends the same way. You can't talk about things with women the way you do with males. And Avengers is for twelve years is my go to response when people mention those movies.

BumblinBeta • 1 point • 2 May, 2019 07:32 PM*

Most people here have probably never had "plates". You've got to remember that 1 in 3 men below 30 aren't having sex at all, according to statistics published this year. No sex in the last year. That statistic is probably under-stated, because it was self-reported and men always over-state the amount of sex they're getting. That number is probably closer to 1 in 2. This isn't even counting the men who pay for sex. So already you're asking a bunch of people who have probably never been in the situation of having plates in the first place (although they constantly fantasise about it no doubt).

As for advice on your particular issue, talk about whatever you want. If she loses attraction, so be it. Abundance mentality, you've got plenty of other options.

To be honest, it sounds like you want to turn plates into meaningful girlfriends. I suggest if you want deep and meaningful conversations, find some male friends instead. Nothing stopping you talking with plates, but why bother? Talking is a very "female" trait. Real men either fall asleep or get up and leave after sex. Sounds like you're very feminised in your thinking.

ChadTheWaiter100 • 0 points • 2 May, 2019 01:11 PM

You should be able to calibrate, generally speaking, whether someone is understanding and or interested in your conversation or not. I'm 28 years old and I've NEVER heard someone talk about the pacing of films. I can fully understand talking about the acting or the writing or the casting but pacing?
