

Cowardice

October 27, 2014 | 298 upvotes | by redpillschool

<http://i.imgur.com/MGDS6jN.jpg>

Fucking annoying guy. Posting this because I support chaos.

Edit: To clarify a little more why I've posted this tidbit of drama is because as a moderator here on TRP, I wanted to make it clear that we will not be censoring our users to appease this idiot and his feminist agenda, and to shed light on the attempted censorship. I don't usually care for drama, but this guy needs to know his attempted censorship won't fly under the radar here.

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

BloodAwaits • 106 points • 27 October, 2014 03:28 PM

The gall of that guy is incredible. One thing that must be noted however is that even though in literally every one of your responses you recommend he posts some sort of rationale as to why he deleted the post, he just skips right over that point every time and gets right back to you "controlling the brigade".

The hamster in action. We're never responsible for our own actions.

[deleted] • 21 points • 27 October, 2014 09:02 PM

[permanently deleted]

TRPsubmitter • 7 points • 28 October, 2014 03:21 AM

You should read over some of his stuff in /r/undelete. It's absolutely hilarious the screenshots regular redditors are posting over there of exchanges he's had with people.

Kolperz • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 04:34 PM

He believes that his opinions merit their worth; while they do not. His delusions are all he has.

[deleted] • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 04:55 AM

Is that not precisely how you "maintain frame", as it is called? Allow me to quote a great man, "Never answer the question you are asked. Rather, answer the question you wish you had been asked." - Robert McNamara

BloodAwaits • 5 points • 28 October, 2014 05:10 AM*

Not at all. Maintaining frame in this situation would have been giving an explanation as to why he deleted the post and sticking by it. This dude obviously realizes he's in the wrong, so he doesn't even have the balls to admit why he did it, which is to protect the views of his SJW overlords.

[deleted] • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 07:07 PM

In any debate, war, or struggle for power you never, never admit to being wrong. If you admit to that, you've defeated yourself. Your reality is no longer being imposed on others; their reality is being imposed on you. If you're dominant enough, others will adopt your reality. But not if you relinquish that power.

Captain_Self_Promotr • 227 points • 27 October, 2014 03:34 PM

The biggest obstacle to preventing the destruction of society isn't women or feminism, it's blue pill men. Women will gladly give way to any strong, determined force (in fact they welcome it). It's the blue pill men that fuck things up and who must be destroyed. In this sense feminism is like a shit test that blue pill men fail.

TaylorWolf • 87 points • 27 October, 2014 04:21 PM

In this sense feminism is like a shit test that blue pill men fail.

Holy shit that is probably the most profound thing I have read here, mind blown

[deleted] • 57 points • 27 October, 2014 04:27 PM

[permanently deleted]

[deleted] • 6 points • 27 October, 2014 09:35 PM

I know it's in the sidebar somewhere too, because I remember reading it there somewhere.

Captain_Self_Promotr • 4 points • 27 October, 2014 09:20 PM

Everything I know in life I credit to chateau heartiste. That website changed my life. Read the archives.

[deleted] • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 10:35 PM

It's that way with everything. The biggest anti-white people are pro-negro whites, the biggest anti-christians are pro-atheist former christians and the biggest feminazis are pro-women men.

Garl_Vinland • 9 points • 27 October, 2014 04:26 PM

Yes. Society now is set up in a way that these blue pill men are able to get some sort of power over others, be it on the internet or in governemt/educational systems. It doesn't matter how trivial that power is (moderating a subreddit), these people can't help themselves but mimic Eric Cartman saying "Respect my authoritah!"

vengefully_yours • 2 points • 28 October, 2014 04:40 AM

It's their first time in power of something, and they have been nobody until this point, so it goes to their heads and they think everyone has to do as they say, agree with them, and bow to their illustrious awesomeness.

I've seen it with military people who aren't good leaders, but are put in leadership positions. They don't know how but younger as fuck better do it their way, even if it's wrong. Because they said so.

[deleted] • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 09:47 AM biggest.. as profound as it is stupid. its not a fucking hydra but a cult, you cut the head not destroy meaningless follower-appendages

TestosteroneFilled • 87 points • 27 October, 2014 03:25 PM*

That guy is an absolute piece of shit trash. Lmao

Edit: Well, this too.

Oh and this aswell

Garl_Vinland • 30 points • 27 October, 2014 03:47 PM

The threads on /r/undelete really show how delusional this guy is. What's surprising (not really considering the subject matter) is that /r/subredditudrama has pretty much been staying away from this situation. Isn't this exactly what that sub is for?

redpillschool[S] • 54 points • 27 October, 2014 03:50 PM

subredditudrama has an obviously feminist bias as well. They only get involved when it's about us.

ubiety • 22 points • 27 October, 2014 07:28 PM [recovered]

I've used RES to label blue pill mods, and there's a huge cross section who also mod SRD and even one member of r/undelete in their grasp. It's really shocking how blatant these SJWs are in advancing their agenda - its like that network of mods all know each other and actively suppress criticism by being mods. It's not a conspiracy theory, they're all literally conspiring together in each of their respective subreddits. It's not too outrageous to assume voting manipulation always forces TRP at the top of each most hated subreddit. It backfired so bad they needed specific rules banning "that subreddit". It's really hilarious and troublesome that these people exist in real life, and may perform similar functions in private and government positions of power.

[deleted] • 8 points • 27 October, 2014 09:52 PM

[permanently deleted]

[deleted] • 9 points • 27 October, 2014 10:14 PM

[permanently deleted]

[deleted] • 6 points • 28 October, 2014 03:42 AM

[permanently deleted]

Homosubi • 3 points • 28 October, 2014 09:32 AM

The communists were the real winners of WW2 and the world has been slowly being destroyed ever since.

[deleted] • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 11:01 PM

[permanently deleted]

RojoEscarlata • 2 points • 28 October, 2014 01:14 AM

If they are as incompetent as mods I doubt they are able to find a job above minimum wage.

Unless the have a pussy.

52576078 • 1 point • 29 October, 2014 05:08 PM

Can you explain what RES is to those of us who don't know?

ubiety • 2 points • 29 October, 2014 06:00 PM [recovered]

Reddit Enhancement Suite is a free add-on for desktop web browsers. You can type that into Google to find it. It allows you higher customization of the reddit experience, as well that ability to tag (give flair) to specific users.

etherael • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 08:21 PM*

No

The SJW crew likes to make subreddits lampooning their idea of bad ideas and then pretending that these aspersions are some kind of dispersed objective indicator of wrongness, this is just another arrow in the quiver, the fact that people get confused by this dispersal of SJW sentiment into these multiple forums illustrates that the strategy is working I guess.

It's all just a pretty sad attempt to manufacture the appearance of global agreement.

Claude_Reborn • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 05:29 AM

SubredditDrama has been completely taken over by SRS these days and is just another place they use to circlejerk about how crap men are.

[deleted] • 15 points • 27 October, 2014 03:48 PM

All messages I see from this D-bag named Richard are astonishingly putrid bullshit. Like another says here... a male hamster at its finest.

bluedrygrass • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 06:40 PM

To the point i'm seriously thinking it's a female after all.

[deleted] • 14 points • 27 October, 2014 09:57 PM

[permanently deleted]

theozoph • 4 points • 28 October, 2014 10:14 AM

they hate wall street

Everybody hates Wall Street. All WS "achieves" is high-returns parasitism. There's a reason all great religions warn against usury.

What Jesus would do with Wall Street.

[deleted] • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 01:53 PM

Richard is exactly the type of name a female would choose in an attempt to be funny.

jolly--roger • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 06:01 PM

Edit: Well, this too.

on the other hand.. you could have used the non-np link. my reasoning is that the delusional folk like this poor excuse of a moderator will use anything possible to deflect. so why give it to them.

even though such a miniscule thing like a 'www' instead of 'np' means nothing for you or me, always remember that by talking to them you're entering their realm - the land of unfathomable stupidity, where your reason and logic bear no value.

saying that I'm pretty sure there'd be a ridiculous conversation about something else than 'np'.

[deleted] • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 12:38 PM

You don't understand, there is no reasoning with this individual, using a regular link would have achieved nothing. If he did he would have been accused of brigading for linking directly to the thread. This guy cannot be reasoned with. Talking to him is a waste of time.

jolly--roger • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 03:48 PM

I've contemplated that idea since I have seen more examples of his stunning detachment from reality. An utter waste indeed.

[deleted] • 66 points • 27 October, 2014 04:16 PM

[permanently deleted]

99639 • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 07:16 PM

It's good for users of the site to know how it operates.

[deleted] • 25 points • 27 October, 2014 04:21 PM

When did TRP stop being a self-contained place for sexual strategy and start getting involved in other subreddits' business?

I thought avoiding this shit was one of the core tenets of the subreddit.

redpillschool[S] • 48 points • 27 October, 2014 04:27 PM

I typically like avoiding the drama. But on the other hand, today I don't mind putting a little exposure on the censorship of men's issues.

As usual, this content is an exception and not the rule.

[deleted] • 1 points • 27 October, 2014 05:18 PM

[permanently deleted]

redpillschool[S] • 8 points • 27 October, 2014 05:20 PM

Today's action: exposure on attempted censorship of our forum.

Dev_on • -10 points • 27 October, 2014 06:06 PM

it isn't one. It's a mod of another forum (a shitty one at that) culling his list due to personal taste.

It's his right, same as it's our right to not read it, or give a shit what he does.

/.02

Ill_mumble_that • 13 points • 27 October, 2014 08:03 PM

Except TIL is a default with millions of subs. If it wasn't I wouldn't give two shits.

Dev_on • 0 points • 27 October, 2014 10:09 PM

default subs, by nature are the lowest common denominator. putting that post as an image meme would have probably worked fine

DakotaTRP • 1 point • 27 October, 2014 11:38 PM

I don't mind this post at all, but I'd honestly like to see less mens rights shit like the original thread in this sub. I've become really jaded towards it, seems like useless handwringing. So unless there's some particularly useful redpill slant and not just a general look at how shitty this is post I'd rather it stay over in mensrights.

workdavework • -1 points • 27 October, 2014 05:38 PM*

[deleted]

What is this?

redpillschool[S] • 45 points • 27 October, 2014 05:41 PM

I'm afraid that so long as we're on reddit, where other people have some level of control, there will be a risk of censorship and politics.

I am publishing this. You may not see the long term value in the things I do for our subreddit, but I haven't failed us yet, so I hope you'll trust me.

[deleted] • 9 points • 27 October, 2014 06:17 PM

Polar opposite of how that guy handled his business.

workdavework • 14 points • 27 October, 2014 05:51 PM*

[deleted]

What is this?

[deleted] • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 07:53 PM*

I totally agree with you here sir. There had to be a reaction - and exactly reactions (edit: as in actions) are the things that are not drama. You used the tools that you have to retaliate, quite successfully i would say. Nothing wrong with sticky-ing this as well, we're a community and our support is a payback for your work. A censorship example is furthermore proof of what we fight for here on TRP. Ironically by deleting that thread he is breaking the same rule - trying to influence someone's opinion....

There has to be someone to take a stand, and most of the times pacifism is an excuse for bowing down and backing away.

Kudos to you.

Cashews4U • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 08:45 PM

If anything, this is proving exactly how society treats male adversity. At the very least, its drama that applies to us. I sincerely thank you for this, redpillschool!

teeelo • 4 points • 27 October, 2014 06:08 PM

I want to learn how to be a man.

Well, this thread teaches you how not to act, so it's not too bad.

IllimitableMan • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 04:31 PM

Hear, hear! Hear, hear! Order. Order. We will have order in the house!

[deleted] • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 07:28 PM

I agree. We don't need mensrights bullshit here. We have a whole subreddit for that.

KylenolForKids • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 07:53 PM

I don't disagree with you, but I think, to redpillschool's point, identifying situations like this is important for understanding the purpose of this sub. Specifically, it's important for men looking to unplug to acknowledge "this shit" exists and is perpetuated by both women and men (boys).

IProbablyHaveEbola • -10 points • 27 October, 2014 05:26 PM

MRA drivel. Just down vote it and move on. Mods aren't interested in curbing it.

newmewuser • 0 points • 27 October, 2014 09:33 PM

This belongs to another place, maybe /mensrights.

Dev_on • -12 points • 27 October, 2014 06:05 PM

Agreed... Kids getting buthurt that other kids aren't reading their posts, and fighting on the internet seems like tabloids at the grocery store line.

I hope this dies, if I wanted water cooler gossip and drama, I'd go back to work today

bluedrygrass • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 06:37 PM

Maybe it's time you realise this censorship is happening in THIS subreddit, and that if all moderators were like that richard moron, this subreddit wouldn't exist. So shut up and thanks OP for fighting for you, too.

Dev_on • -7 points • 27 October, 2014 10:13 PM

you must be young... after a few years you'll see how little the internet matters to the important things.

It's better than it used to be. For even suggesting someone on here was talking out of their ass (when it was clearly so) people would get bans.

Also, censorship is more of a government thing, it's not that you are being silenced, it's that the private group doesn't give a shit what you're saying, and that's within their rights to do so. Realizing that is the first step in knowing how to act around people like a human being.

slcjosh • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 07:57 PM

This will die, like everything else. But the fact that it was a positively voted thread in its sub reddit regarding men being abused in domestic partnerships is a bit alarming. Im glad I learned of it, but this whole thread, being stickied at the top is interesting to me.

Dev_on • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 10:11 PM

yeah, I remember a few years back when the eternal september hit (not the digg one, the other one) and there was a stats thread on who votes on stuff.

basically ended up being 1% of people have an account and vote, of those, 1% comment. It's basically the minority of people who give a shit are doing anything on it. And out of them, something like 5:1 are people who will downvote vs upvote.

So basically, unless something is popular enough for over 80% of the population, expecting anything out of it isn't reasonable IMHO

KingoftheAssholes • 15 points • 27 October, 2014 07:38 PM

I would like to thank /u/-richard- and the other mods of that subreddit. Not only have you piss off alot people on reddit for basically punishing something the doesn't go against your rules but you have also draw attention to MRA and TRP. Which we here at TRP know when you badmouth something people get curious of what your badmouth and why you're doing it. I say by halloween we'll have over 80,000 subscribers. To bad you had to make your sub look bad to do it.

[deleted] • 26 points • 27 October, 2014 03:38 PM*

TL;DR: "Man up and fix my problem, or I'll tell on you!"

the99percent1 • 11 points • 27 October, 2014 06:04 PM

Anyone care to explain what is going on here? I'm confused..

Also, don't know if there will be blowback for posting a PM on this sub?

Garl_Vinland • 15 points • 27 October, 2014 06:26 PM

/r/todayilearned mod /u/-richard- deleted 2 posts related to men's rights issues that were highly upvoted on that subreddit. Other subs (like trp and mr) had posts about the censorship and now he's just going around making a fool out of himself.

[deleted] • -28 points • 27 October, 2014 06:29 PM

[permanently deleted]

JP_Whoregan • 24 points • 27 October, 2014 06:37 PM

Perhaps people would stop flooding the same question over and over again if you would simply and publicly answer the damn question, moron.

Why did you censor/delete a post that broke none of TIL's explicit rules? Why are you a misandrist douchebag? Answers, please.

WindowToAlaska • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 07:45 PM

He's a misandrist because he constantly loses any female prospect he has to alpha men.

JP_Whoregan • 19 points • 27 October, 2014 06:49 PM

"Omitting essential information" is a cowardly "catch all" for faggot moderators like yourself to hide behind whenever you feel like censoring content that hurts you in the "feelz". You're like the cop who tickets a driver for "careless driving" when you can't find a specific infraction. It means whatever the hell you feel like it means.

The fact that you're still receiving modmail bombs about it should be an obvious indicator to you that the given "explanation" is far from satisfactory and does not explain your blatant censorship.

You and your ilk are prime examples of what happens when we give a small amount of power to small-minded men.

truchisoft • 15 points • 27 October, 2014 07:01 PM

So every TIL that links to a study must provide sample size, and percentile differences in the title?

the99percent1 • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 06:37 PM

is there a way to verify that another person removed the post then?

[deleted] • -23 points • 27 October, 2014 06:41 PM

[permanently deleted]

Iupvoteforknowledge • 9 points • 27 October, 2014 09:34 PM*

Why do you feel that censorship on reddit is "nonsense"?

Edit: of course he never answered and deleted his comment.

52576078 • 1 point • 29 October, 2014 06:48 PM

His account is gone too. Must have gotten all a bit too much for the poor guy.

Iupvoteforknowledge • 0 points • 29 October, 2014 06:56 PM

Yeah just saw that. Either he deleted his account or the admins did. Interesting...

WindowToAlaska • 7 points • 27 October, 2014 07:42 PM

Why did you delete a substantial and TRUE post that was perfectly legal according to the rules?

LaidBackStrat • 4 points • 27 October, 2014 08:13 PM

The problem here is that your explanation is shows that you don't really understand the rules you're enforcing, and that you aren't up to snuff to be a mod of a sub the size of /r/TIL. Defending that answer blindly when you have been proven wrong on at least three subreddits on that matter already isn't helping your case either.

jolly--roger • 8 points • 27 October, 2014 07:30 PM

... and you were the fastest sperm.

[deleted] • 15 points • 27 October, 2014 03:35 PM

"It's ok, another user stepped in and did the right thing..."

What a total douche. If this were the other way around, feminists would doxx him and get him fired from life, only content when he was homeless and crawling around with nubs for legs (dismembered by righteous feminists).

Dev_on • -2 points • 27 October, 2014 06:08 PM

I thought the whole idea is that we were supposed to be better than that crap though?

Or are you not mad that no one here is acting like a fememist?

[deleted] • 8 points • 27 October, 2014 07:44 PM

I thought the whole idea is that we were supposed to be better than that crap though?

That's the point. I was highlighting the differences.

newmewuser • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 09:27 PM

Looks like you didn't got it...

[deleted] • 20 points • 27 October, 2014 03:27 PM

This fucking guy. He's got a male hamster telling him he's the victim of brigading, when it's he who fucked up! If you do something that pisses people off, and can't even give ONE reason for it, well, prepare your inbox!

Ill_mumble_that • 19 points • 27 October, 2014 03:34 PM

Yep. Except to this guy his reddit moderatorship is all he has going for him in life. And what's worse, he uses it as a power play. He isn't trying to help anyone improve themselves, he isn't trying to spread news and knowledge. Nope, he's just an faggot that uses it to feel important. about his pathetic self. Here's to his inbox: <http://i.imgur.com/6nYAAmU.jpg> his reddit moderatorship is all he has going for him in life.

[deleted] • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 03:49 PM

this is how I see it as well... he's a SJW on reddit.. that is what he lives for.

teeelo • 1 point • 27 October, 2014 06:09 PM

How much does that pay? Lower 6 digit income?

Ill_mumble_that • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 08:04 PM

on reddit? probably only 5 digits annually that he gets from promoters for allowing them to spam his popular subreddit.

RojoEscarlata • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 04:16 PM

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qdC_Cu9X4wc

-genma- • 15 points • 27 October, 2014 05:30 PM [recovered]

-Richard- is a good example of a BP bottom feeder afforded any small level of responsibility. There is little principle in his actions as a mod, so of course there is no way to justify it when he fucks up and gets called out on it.

The repercussions for being cast out of a group are more severe for women and BP men like Richard, so their propensity to rationalize bad decisions to themselves and others is far greater. Its quite something watching him hamster the fallout as somehow being the fault of others.

[deleted] • 6 points • 27 October, 2014 05:58 PM

The repercussions for being cast out of a group are more severe for women and BP men like Richard, so their propensity to rationalize bad decisions to themselves and others is far greater.

This is great insight. Flesh it out and post it.

chaosbox • 10 points • 27 October, 2014 04:24 PM

I don't think it's cool to get involved in bullshit drama like we're teenage girls. Don't spam the guys inbox. He's made his mistakes, let's not sink down to his level. Let's ignore the petty shit and spend our time improving ourselves, in keeping with redpill values.

[deleted] • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 04:46 PM

Unfortunately inboxing him is the only way anyone really can combat an injustice here at reddit.com.

WindowToAlaska • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 07:40 PM

Except reddit has millions of views per day and stuff on here influences people.

[deleted] • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 10:25 PM

[permanently deleted]

WindowToAlaska • 1 point • 27 October, 2014 10:47 PM

Exactly

confuseacatlmt • 4 points • 27 October, 2014 08:21 PM [recovered]

You handled that very well. I would cool it down even more with the negative language. You are making him look immature and illogical, because he is. He WANTS you to get angry and overreact, so he can point to it and say Look at the crazy redpill mod! Great job maintaining frame, this could be a redpill example.

mordanus • 11 points • 27 October, 2014 03:46 PM

The guy fucks up and refuses to take accountability for his actions and instead blames everyone else for it. This is proof that it isn't only women who do it :)

The whole thing read like you were talking to a little kid who had no idea what he's doing and just wants threaten you with "I'll tell my mommy!" instead of fighting his own fight. Cowardice indeed

[deleted] • 4 points • 27 October, 2014 04:18 PM

Sometimes you gotta treat these "men" like children too. "Men" in this country are just as big of a joke as women are.

Dev_on • 1 point • 27 October, 2014 06:08 PM

welcome to the real world, it happens all the time. best to practice what we preach, and not break frame over a TIL thread

ultrasuperthrowaway • 6 points • 27 October, 2014 04:51 PM

How do I fight for Men's Rights?

This has made me want to really start pushing full force!

redpillschool[S] • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 05:03 PM

Join up over at /r/mensrights.

ultrasuperthrowaway • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 05:06 PM

Thanks! And a message to the down voters I will give more effort because each down vote proves men are being silenced from having their voices heard bsutansalt • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 08:14 PM

WTF did I miss? I'm busy for a few days and everyone loses their minds! Seriously though, could someone give me a tl;dr of what just happened?

vandaalen • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 10:23 PM*

Two threads loosely related to men's rights are posted on TIL and hit the frontpage.

TIL Male Victims of Domestic Violence who call law enforcement for help are statistically more likely to be arrested themselves than their female partner

TIL: The majority of child abuse perpetrators are women.

They get deleted with fishy reasoning(Violation of posting rule #2: Editorialized title).

Shitstrom in /r/mensrights unleashes. Red Pill user posts here and points out the idiocy of the reasons.

TIL just deleted a post about male victims of domestic abuse

Mailbox of faggot whiteknight mod over at TIL explodes. After furiously crying into his keyboard, he decides that it's our fault, and not 100% his own for being a faggot, and tries to threaten /u/redpillschool to remove the post/comments or he will inform the admins because it's doxxing to call for messaging mods and calling them out on their faggotry.

/u/redpillschool decides to post the conversation so far. And here we are.

topspeedj • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 09:56 PM

Huzzah, you're doing the community proud.

[deleted] • 7 points • 27 October, 2014 04:19 PM

[permanently deleted]

redpillschool[S] • 16 points • 27 October, 2014 04:28 PM

I typically like avoiding the drama. But on the other hand, today I don't mind putting a little exposure on the censorship of men's issues.

As usual, this content is an exception and not the rule.

JP_Whoregan • 10 points • 27 October, 2014 06:59 PM

BP and feminist society has been telling us to shut up and eat our porridge for the last 40 years. No more.

See, what you did is the kind of shit that makes hive-minders like /u/-Richard- get all hot and bothered.

By virtue of being a part of the collective, they like the ability to censor/shame/ridicule from the comfort of sweet anonymity. But turn the floodlight around and call them out? Hits them square in the feelz.

slcJosh • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 07:55 PM

censorship as a whole should be brought to attention. No matter what the content.

[deleted] • 1 points • 27 October, 2014 10:32 PM

[permanently deleted]

slcJosh • 1 point • 27 October, 2014 10:46 PM

No one. That's not what I'm trying to say. I'm saying censorship in General is dog shit and shouldn't be tolerated.

niczar • 4 points • 27 October, 2014 03:40 PM

He's completely insane.

Transmigratory • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 04:03 PM

Peopel should just report this shitty mod to the admins, with evidence.

[deleted] • 12 points • 27 October, 2014 04:42 PM

The admins share the same viewpoint, that's why 2XC is literally a default sub.

The only reason TRP is still open is because it generates revenue. They don't want to close a sub with 80k users, and generates a mass of discussion and controversy (see also: the EMSK post)

Dev_on • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 06:10 PM

cmon, the only threads I've seen them close were pretty damned bad. /r/spacedicks is only one CNN report away from it too, but this stuff isn't even close

[deleted] • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 06:27 PM

This discussion here is about them closing threads on domestic violence against men though. Reddit's administrators and certain moderators have a major history of closing threads and articles they personally don't like. Reddit has been embroiled in controversies before. The technology forum had one very recently for example. Its moderator was closing everything and anything to do with Tesla for example, until major news outlets started to put an uncomfortable spotlight on the whole thing.

The core issue is that we have a rogue moderator on TIL who thinks feminism means removing male-oriented news, and not actual sexual equality he claims to be a champion of. It's literally misandrist and sexist.

Dev_on • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 10:15 PM

he's also a child, on a sub that people are using to kill time at work when they should be working, why would you expect anything less?

the default subs by nature, are there for soccer moms, guys who don't want to be at work, and kids who aren't in school and have nothing to do. They are there for small micro distractions, and it's not surprising that a substantive post doesn't make the cut. It's the wrong audience, the wrong place, and the wrong expectation.

LaidBackStrat • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 08:15 PM

I honestly don't understand the logic behind 2XC being a default sub.

[deleted] • 3 points • 27 October, 2014 08:31 PM

If it makes you feel better, they constantly complain that the quality of the sub has gone down. They asked for mainstream acceptance and they got it.

LaidBackStrat • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 08:51 PM

To be honest, it doesn't make me feel better. I'm fine with them having their corner on reddit to talk about what they want, and it being watered down to me doesn't matter much since I'm not a part of it. The only positive it might have is that it might go the way of /r/atheism and stop being a default for how bad the quality of the posts gets. (I actually feel bad for how shit /r/atheism got, as the atheist community needs a space on reddit without memes, shitposts, quotes or "Atheism +" bullshit, and that's not the case with 2XC, but I digress)

I just don't understand why a sub based around one gender should be made a default. /r/OneY or /r/askmen , no matter how BP they are, aren't defaults. Why should 2XC be?

Transmigratory • 0 points • 27 October, 2014 06:00 PM

Try anyway and gather evidence of each convo: it will make the Manosphere's message very powerful. Either they'll be exposed for being a fem-centric lot, or they have to adapt because they know we're playing by their rules (reporting to the relevant people and what not). If they choose to ditch the rules for any agenda they have, they look bad and Manosphere looks good.

Aerobus • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 05:15 PM

The best part is that I didn't even "recommend" that people contact the modetators in my post. I simply mentioned that TIL moderators were censoring the post, and mentioned in a comment which mods were doing the censoring.

You have to be quite the dumbass to call that vote brigading.

gmflag • 2 points • 27 October, 2014 03:38 PM

What a poor misguided soul. I sincerely wish him the best before it is too late. I pity him.

Bottled_Void • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 12:21 AM

Makes me wonder why it was ok last time.

Anyway, I take issue with the numbers in the report:

Police: Table 4 displays the experiences that helpseekers had with the police (n=129)... In 54.9% of cases, the partner was determined to be the primary aggressor. [54.9% of 129 is ~70.8]

Among those 62 men [wait where did 62 come from?], 41.5% [this isn't even a whole number of people, do they mean 41.9%?] said the police asked the helpseeker if he wanted his partner arrested; 21% reported the police refused to arrest the partner, and 38.7% indicated the police said there was nothing they could do and left. [This gives a total of 101.2% assuming these are mutually exclusive]

The coding of the qualitative accounts found that 25.4% of the men told stories of the police doing nothing and ignoring or dismissing them. [Are these distinct to the above? Didn't we already decide that in 38.7% of cases the police said there was nothing they could do?]

Really the numbers don't really show a huge distinction in who was arrested victim (43) or aggressor (35). Other reports have shown that men are just about as likely to be arrested than women. So 'statistically' it really doesn't support the TIL statement (unless you're willing to accept small numbers with small variations).

But, and this is a big but. Men are more likely to be arrested for assault (and later charged), whereas women are more likely to be arrested for disturbing the peace (and then later have the charges dropped). Personally I'd be more interested in the number of women that claim they were attacked but it was just a case of men defending themselves.

Aside from the fact men are less likely to see help, more likely to be ignored when asking for help and more likely to be attacked with a weapon, we'll just dismiss all that because we don't really care about it.

(Also, fuck that guy) simple_human • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 02:05 AM what exactly happened, ive been gone a couple days...

ShekelBanker • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 07:55 AM Reminds me of one of the rules of the internet stating: "There are no rules about moderation either, enjoy your ban". Never thought I'd live to see satire turn into reality.

[deleted] • 1 point • 29 October, 2014 12:46 AM

To be honest I think that censorship is bad and the way you mods seem to handle things are on the level. If anything I love this subreddit because the rules are clear, concise, and fair.

bluedrygrass • 1 point • 27 October, 2014 06:44 PM

Thank you OP for pointing this out and fighting for us all. Don't listen to those who are too high on their horses to bother with things that aren't related to fucking every walking hole.

The collapse of our society have been caused in great part by those kind of people too, the ones that dismissed the early signs as insignificant and unworthy of their attention.

workdavework • -5 points • 27 October, 2014 05:36 PM*

[deleted]

What is this?

redpillschool[S] • 5 points • 27 October, 2014 05:37 PM

Downvote and move on, then.

workdavework • -3 points • 27 October, 2014 05:39 PM*

[deleted]

What is this?

Bottled_Void • 1 point • 28 October, 2014 12:15 AM*

The best part about it was that it was a repost. (old post is still there)