

Red Pill Network announcing new platform: www.TRP.red

March 4, 2016 | 38 upvotes | by redpillschool

---

Just posting the announcement over here as well, we're launching a new platform: <https://www.trp.red>

Read the announcement here:

https://www.reddit.com/r/TheRedPill/comments/48xr0f/mod\_announcing\_a\_new\_platform\_wwttrpred/

---

Archived from theredarchive.com

---

Comments

---

unknittedpiecrist • 5 points • 12 January, 2018 02:20 AM

Get a skirt you already love. Look at it closely inside out. Figure out where the pieces are and then use that skirt, without disassembling it, as your pattern. For real, you don't have to be exact. Just close.

1stOfficer • 4 points • 11 January, 2018 07:20 PM

I've been known to find a lot of free patterns on Google ;)

lunatic_in_the_hall • 3 points • 12 January, 2018 11:42 AM

Have you tried thrift stores?

[deleted] • 2 points • 12 January, 2018 02:17 PM

Thank you. I'll try that. I think it's becoming obvious my mom was never a sewer. I'm the only one in my family with a sewing machine :)

HailSeitan69 • 2 points • 13 January, 2018 03:24 PM

I find a lot of long skirts at thrift stores but making a hem is easier than starting from scratch. So make sure you like the fabric and fit along your waist, but I usually compromise on the length.

[deleted] • 1 point • 13 January, 2018 03:44 PM

Great idea! I bet I can find some great pieces

StepfordInTexas • 2 points • 11 January, 2018 08:41 PM

I don't sew... have you checked amazon?

blueraindrops • 2 points • 11 January, 2018 09:57 PM

Any local WalMart should have McCall's 'sew-easy' patterns in the fabric section, you can also order them online :)

[deleted] • 1 point • 11 January, 2018 09:58 PM

Thanks!!

teaandtalk • 1 point • 11 January, 2018 11:07 PM

I like circle skirts, easy to adapt to different lengths and so cute and swishy! I usually go longer (because that's what my husband prefers, and it's easier to stay modest) but this looks like a good tutorial:

<https://birdeemag.com/diy-make-your-own-circle-skirt/>

[deleted] • 1 point • 11 January, 2018 11:30 PM

Thank you. This is great and I will give it a go. :))

Oryxian • 1 points • 12 January, 2018 10:20 PM [recovered]

Hey, I do a lot of sewing! I usually go to JoAnns, they have huge sections of patterns. If you look in the pattern books, you can find the sections (the books usually have skirt sections) and then pick out what you want. Once you get the pattern number from the book, you go to the pattern filing cabinets and find it. JoAnns usually has fairly regular sales, so you should never have to spend more than a few dollars on anything.

[deleted] • 1 point • 12 January, 2018 10:36 PM

Thank you ☐☐

reamarie00 • 1 point • 15 January, 2018 06:00 PM

I believe Etsy may have what you're looking for. Besides having TONS of actual skirts, especially vintage ones that may suit your style, they have lots and lots of sewing patterns for sale!

[deleted] • 1 point • 15 January, 2018 07:00 PM

Thanks for letting me know!

MeowtainBabe • 1 point • 18 January, 2018 12:19 PM

You would be surprised at how many skirts you will find on Amazon! I just recently started shopping for clothes through them, and it can be a gamble, but I usually have good luck!

[deleted] • 1 point • 18 January, 2018 03:16 PM

Thank you!

omg_its_ica • 1 point • 20 January, 2018 04:10 AM

You can make a circle skirt without a pattern and it's really simple, just google a tutorial on it and you're good to go.