

Marital satisfaction is linked to women's sexual desire, suggests a new study, which found that women's levels of sexual desire were not only lower than men's at the beginning of their marriages, but much more variable than men's. Men's levels of sexual desire stayed higher and more constant.

140 upvotes | 15 September, 2019 | by empatheticapathetic

<https://www.psychologytoday.com/au/blog/dating-and-mating/201909/marital-satisfaction-is-linked-women-s-sexual-desire>

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

HopefulRelaxation • 44 points • 15 September, 2019 07:18 PM

They really wasted money to study this drsherbert • 32 points • 15 September, 2019 06:54 PM

Hypergamey doesn't care

pajeebajeerajee • 21 points • 17 September, 2019 03:59 PM

And women's sexual desire (as measured by ability to orgasm during intercourse) is determined entirely by looks, primarily by height and face. Thus your ability as a man to have a stable loving marriage in your life is determined at conception by the genes you got for the length of your leg bones and the shape of your face bones.

empatheticapathetic[S] • 11 points • 17 September, 2019 04:12 PM

So stop giving a fuck about her shit and get what you can and then die

pajeebajeerajee • 6 points • 17 September, 2019 04:17 PM

Who is her and what is someone supposed to be getting?

Collecting things is not a life. Life is only found in other people. Sexually reproducing organisms have one purpose, to sexually reproduce.

empatheticapathetic[S] • 6 points • 17 September, 2019 04:32 PM

You have misunderstood my reply somewhat entirely. Have another read.

pajeebajeerajee • 2 points • 27 September, 2019 09:11 PM*

No I understood it. There is literally nothing to "get" outside of sexual reproduction and the things that surround it as a sexually reproducing animal. If you can't get a lifelong stable marriage genetically, you can't get anything of any real value, to yourself or anyone else. This is objective fact.

magnificent18 • 1 point • 1 November, 2019 02:02 AM

He is essentially saying do whatever you want with your life. Whether you have the face/height to attract a woman or not, simply live your life to the fullest whether it be being poor, rich, in between, do what your heart desires because each passing moment is only closer to death. The fact that time in itself is only getting shorter should override your biological desire to procreate. It's hard because you are going against what we were made to do.