الحياة ثلاث مراحل: إعتقدك أنك سوف تُغيّر الدنيا إيمانك بأنك لن تُغيّر الدنيا وتأكدك من أن الدنيا قد غيّرتك.

This is one of my favourite Arabic quotes. I thought I would share with you all and maybe you could relate.

The last part IMO - You have adapted to the world. Extremely few humans actually get to have a noticeable impact on the world. But even then, the amount the world changes them is always greater than their impact on the world. By the end, a different version of them got to change the world.

I think it's about keeping a balance in life. Sure, it is good to desire to help the world but it is more important to have good values yourself and to maintain them, always and everywhere. After all, one of the most effective ways of dawah is for people to copy your example as a person rather than to talk and exchange ideas.

Well those values are often heavily influenced by the world though.

They should only be influenced by the Qur'an and Sunnah.
