

Tune into BBC News Hour tonight.... special guest - Red Pill School!

March 26, 2013 | 58 upvotes | by redpillschool

In case you didn't notice, it appears we're making some waves across the femosphere (lol), and it's starting to get attention.

I've been asked to radio interview today on BBC News Hour tonight.

The interview will be prerecorded so I hope they don't edit me out of context, but anything's possible.

I certainly didn't see us here a few months ago, but here we are, and it's time to jam.

Edit: So just finished the recording, and eh.. we'll see how it sounds.

Edit: Follow up here:

http://www.reddit.com/r/TheRedPill/comments/1b2kgu/my_experience_on_bbc_news_today/

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

[deleted] • 42 points • 26 March, 2013 02:26 PM

[permanently deleted]

legendofpasta • 11 points • 26 March, 2013 08:27 PM*

Hi-jacking the top comment...

Is anyone listening to the Radio right now?? The show leading up to Redpillschool's interview is all about women's rights in muslim countries...

Are we being set up by BBC?? All they're talking about is how women need to be a part of everything.

I'm concerned about the purpose of these two programs being back to back.

Perhaps its just a compare and contrast.... But I don't know about BBC's political motivations

Now they're talking about all women's groups... We are really gonna ruffle some feathers now

[deleted] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 08:30 PM

"Hey Jack!"

legendofpasta • 1 point • 26 March, 2013 08:32 PM

I see what you did there ;)

[deleted] • 0 points • 26 March, 2013 08:36 PM

You did

HumanSockPuppet • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 04:57 PM

Absolutely. Great idea here.

Coyy • 13 points • 26 March, 2013 01:52 PM

an online link to some podcast etc would be appreciated.

rocraidah • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 09:28 PM

<http://www.bbc.co.uk/worldserviceradio/on-air>

Live right now.

30303030303030 • 11 points • 26 March, 2013 02:17 PM

Someone record please as I, and many others most likely, won't be able to listen to it live.

rooshv • 11 points • 26 March, 2013 05:55 PM

Looking forward to the link.

FigurativelyAdolf • 11 points • 26 March, 2013 02:57 PM [recovered]

This subreddit has 2700 subs.

Your account is 2 months old.

Dafuq is happening?

The FVF must've been very successful as a marketing stunt.

redpillschool[S] • 7 points • 26 March, 2013 02:58 PM [recovered]

;))

FigurativelyAdolf • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 03:03 PM [recovered]

The wonders of good marketing.

On a scale of 1 to 10, how in-depth is your plan about all of this?

You're sure as hell not thinking things up as you go along.

Compared to the rest of the manosphere you seem to be the only one with a concrete ambition, a set goal, and the skills to do it.

Scary.

[deleted] • 4 points • 26 March, 2013 04:10 PM [recovered]

This is the combination of good planning, and good timing. We haven't even scratched the surface yet.

theubercuber • 1 point • 27 March, 2013 12:40 AM

The FVF actually hasn't impacted membership. We've been growing steadily the past two months.

[deleted] • 6 points • 26 March, 2013 06:45 PM

[permanently deleted]

new_qgj • 4 points • 26 March, 2013 07:47 PM*

I can confirm access to the current live broadcast from the states. It also seems to be available internationally.

For those in North America, you should be able to tune in live from the link provided at 5:05/4:05 Central.

Edit: Live now

Edit2: Coverage of the Richards story and the FVF begins about 45 minutes into the broadcast. Our own "Morpheus Manfred" holds his own.

ycombinator • 7 points • 26 March, 2013 10:00 PM [recovered]

...a racist, sexist geek culture...

LOLOLOLOLOLOL!!!

Fucking pathetic

CokedUpArmenian • 6 points • 26 March, 2013 10:01 PM [recovered]

there was really no substance in the entire piece.

redpillschool[S] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 10:08 PM

They actually edited out my entire point.

CokedUpArmenian • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 10:14 PM

oh alright then. I was like, what, I waited an hour and a half for this?

ycombinator • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 10:24 PM [recovered]

They actually edited out my entire point.

Did you record the conversation?

When being interviewed, especially by a media outlet as goofy as The BBC, you should always record everything yourself. That way if they edit your words to either make you look incompetent, racist or simply off point - then you can always put the un-edited version online and call them out for not being objective or for having an agenda.

Even people who are very blue pill might be persuaded to see things differently if they feel what they were presented with the first time was big media propaganda.

redpillschool[S] • 4 points • 26 March, 2013 10:25 PM [recovered]

http://www.reddit.com/r/TheRedPill/comments/1b2kgu/my_experience_on_bbc_news_today/

[deleted] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 10:24 PM

Now hold on a minute, we can't even discuss race here! ;)

Fucking Beeb man.

[deleted] • 6 points • 26 March, 2013 08:27 PM

If I can make one humble suggestion, don't simply regurgitate a hate for feminism.

Make one or two strong points. For example, if feminism is about women being equal, then why is it that (for example), men are required to be more sensitive to women's feelings regarding certain jokes?

And be honest that the red pill is NOT about turning back feminism. It's about living with feminism (which is the coddling of women and the emasculation of men.)

GeorgeGordonByron • 4 points • 26 March, 2013 08:34 PM*

you need a debate camp. you need to prepare every possible question and have an answer ready for every one of them. then, have an answer for every follow up. you need to run mock interviews where a friend plays the interviewer and tries to bait you into an argument.

If you're not ready you will get sandbagged.

[deleted] • 6 points • 26 March, 2013 10:06 PM

That was good, but there were some inherent biases that came across. The newscaster gave much more time to the feminist to speak her argument to defend Adria Richards. Also, right from the getgo, the newscaster also (while trying to be as neutral and objective as possible), did not even attempt to see RPS' perspective. I'm paraphrasing here, but I think as soon as RPS came on, he asked "but isn't making inappropriate jokes inappropriate as it is?" thereby implying that it was the man who was responsible.

The feminist also made unsubstantiated claims such as "geek culture/the tech world is inherently sexist and biased against women." I think her only citation in favour of that claim was saying that only 20% of attendees at PyCon were women.

I wish RPS could have gotten as much time as the feminist to speak his point to have a more balanced perspective.

At the same time, I believe RPS could have had different talking points to have made our perspective be more substantial (such as pointing out the errors in her claims).

I do not think this will radio show will do anything substantial for the MRA or Redpill movement (sadly).

For those wanting to listen to the show, tune to the last 5-7 mins. This was a closing story.

redpillschool[S] • 9 points • 26 March, 2013 10:09 PM

I had a lot of awesome points. They actually cut them out. They glued my sentences together.

[deleted] • 4 points • 26 March, 2013 10:15 PM

Ah that sucks! My apologies to you for implying otherwise good sir!

Any way we can hear the true unedited version?

redpillschool[S] • 5 points • 26 March, 2013 10:17 PM

I'm sorting through- I had recorded it on my laptop (using skype). It appears sound recorder was not getting the full mix. I may post a transcript of my side in a bit.

[deleted] • 1 point • 27 March, 2013 04:04 AM

I thought that when I was listening to it.

I honestly wonder who was responsible for it, who gave the work to the sound-editor?

"So, if you could edit out this, this, this and glue this, this, and this together... that'd be great".

I'd call them a cunt, but they lack the depth and the warmth.

[deleted] • 1 point • 28 March, 2013 08:15 AM

This is why live debates don't work nearly as well as an online format. It becomes more of a "who can throw their weight around" competition, and this is why fact checking is a must for any debate as well.

freewanderer • 4 points • 26 March, 2013 02:12 PM

Congrats mate, this is excellent stuff!

Is this where we can listen to it online?

[deleted] • 5 points • 26 March, 2013 05:51 PM

Is anyone willing to record it for us less fortunate ones who live in other time zones?

redpillschool[S] • 6 points • 26 March, 2013 06:37 PM

I think there will be a copy online afterwards

Rollo-Tomassi • 6 points • 26 March, 2013 08:02 PM

I am monitoring this thread

redpillschool[S] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 09:25 PM

Thanks Rollo- it's on right now.

[deleted] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 04:17 PM

Can't wait to listen to this!

zionController • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 04:49 PM*

Did they say if it was bbc radio 5, or bbc radio 1, or specify a station?

Edit: Never mind, news hour, found it.

AlwaysLateToThreads • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 07:50 PM

You're my hero.

[deleted] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 10:00 PM

Just finished listening. That seemed much, much shorter than I wanted. God damn BBC.

I'm also unbelievably pissed that they used the example of a guy, that was offended by his own sex, and no one got pissed at him. Not to mention there was no context about what was offensive about whatever it was he reported. If it was about a sexist joke, guy's probably a white-knight.

Good job. Big respect for doing that, just wish you had a chance to give more examples.

So, was it as you recorded it, how much was it edited?

redpillschool[S] • 7 points • 26 March, 2013 10:14 PM

Incredibly edited. Missed most of my point.

[deleted] • 1 point • 27 March, 2013 03:56 AM

Gah! The Goddamned Media, eh? Forging public opinion like a boss.

I am torn up inside with rage, my friend. How do you feel about it?

redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 27 March, 2013 01:04 PM

I'm not happy about it, but I'm not surprised.

The content of the show wasn't that important. Getting on BBC News Hour is a meter stick that shows us just how big the waves we're making are.

We march on-wards.

[deleted] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 10:01 PM

Sorry to say that, but she out-demagogued you here. You shouldn't have repeated yourself without escalating.

redpillschool[S] • 5 points • 26 March, 2013 10:10 PM

I'm afraid they gave my answers out of context.

[deleted] • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 10:16 PM

[permanently deleted]

redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 10:18 PM

I don't. I thought I did.

[deleted] • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 10:18 PM

It sounded like it, you seemed to have too much initial momentum not to say anything really specific.

Well, what can one do, at least they got your alias right.

GaiusScaevolus • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 10:02 PM

Sounds like they edited it pretty heavily. Nice job RPS

[deleted] • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 02:12 PM

Must hear this!

[deleted] • 2 points • 26 March, 2013 04:02 PM

I'm British, and have the opportunity to listen to this; what time is it?

redpillschool[S] • 3 points • 26 March, 2013 06:37 PM

21:05 GMT

shute • 2 points • 27 March, 2013 01:56 AM

Damn man, i'm offline for what three weeks and you've damn near taken Red pill global?
very impressed, will have to make time to hear the link, anyone got the audio?

hollahkat • 0 points • 27 March, 2013 09:07 PM

i guess this is what happens to men who can't get laid.

redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 27 March, 2013 10:16 PM

Ahahahahahaha so clever look guise