I'm sure you've already seen him around doing stuff, but I wanted to take a moment to officially introduce SoftHarem. If you see him (or any of our mods) around dealing with trolls, drop him a thank-you, they don't get paid, and there are a lot of crazy people who have access to the internet we deal with.

Welcome, SoftHarem.

Thank you everyone. I hope to assist our other moderators and the community by keeping the noise low, and the signal quality high. If you haven't noticed the huge influx of intellectually soft detractors as of late it is because we are doing our jobs. Feel free to use the "Report" function for any post that seems shady as we are alerted and respond quickly.

As far as myself I have a story similar to most of you. Thought I had found "The One" twice, and have the battle scars to prove it. In between my "true loves" I had dated a few dozen women and I learned quickly what works versus what we are told "works." Naturally RP but had enough BP conditioning that I would go beta once I was in a relationship. I got out of a relationship with a very attractive woman not too long ago and wanted answers. Found Reddit, went through the flowchart of the gender related subs and finally ended up here, where I belong. I also want to take a moment and give some respect to RPS for starting this community, and putting in the work necessary to keep our standards where they need to be. The "High Diplomat" as I like to call him puts in a metric shit ton of work around here and has quite a bit of patience as well. If you have any questions, comments or just want to bitch...message Zion.

Also, flair your posts.

already giving credit where credit is due...

And yes, I personally owe this sub everything cause in few months of being here I learned more truth about women and mating than I did during my whole life and it was all bullshit. I put it to test and it works. We can't really put a price tag on it but it's worth a lot. Thanks.

I would easily pay $10 a month for the content I read here but having it available for free is truly philanthropical.

Tempting.

Yeah, I noticed him on mods tab a day or two ago. Went through his comments briefly. Solid man.
