Don't mean to sound condescending but how far do you go in terms of avoiding women? Is sex included in MGTOW? I'm not MGTOW or anything, just curious. What's your stance on sex, dating and relationships?

The whole point is that there's no leader. The single primary thing that many can agree on is the sharing of unfiltered truth.

Some men have learned of MGTOW after being married with a family. Others date and just refuse to marry. Some pump and dump. And some are celibate.

There's something liberating about making yourself and your growth/interests instead of women the focus of your life. Family and other things were supposed to be priorities, not more important than yourself. That's where men messed up.
