

Don't even know where to start with this. Wife casually accuses husband of raping her for 18 years, expects him to just accept it and walk it off.

My wife (F46) casually accused me (M45) of raping her for years and I'm devastated. Not sure what to do.

submitted 16 hours ago by [REDACTED]

This is kind of long so I will do a TLDR at the bottom.

Here's some background that I believe relevant to the situation: We met at a religious school in the midwest (very small town) when we were 20 and got married at 22. We've been married for 23 years now. It was common for folks to marry that young in that area in those days and a short courtship was also common. About 10 years ago we got fed up with church life, quit going, and don't really believe anymore. Got tired of the hypocrisy and politics. We pretty much have a big mismatch in our libido; she is good with once a month, I'd like it 3 times a week. She suffers from mild depression, and is sick often (both probably related to the low libido). In about the last year she has gotten really into social justice causes and I am pretty ambivalent to politics in general.

On to the story: about 6 months ago we were watching TV and a comedian came on joking about rape (not distastefully IMO, mostly about how horribly our society is for glossing over it). I chimed in with my own version of the joke and she got upset and said it wasn't funny. I tried to defend myself and out of the blue, and with a very casual tone, she said I was in that category too. I asked for clarity and she said that for the first 18 years of our marriage that I too raped her. I was floored and didn't know what or how that was even possible. I again asked for more clarity and she said that because of the church's teaching about how women have to submit to their husband that there was so many times she didn't want to have sex but went along with it because she was "required to". Then she said the last couple of years have been okay though. I'm literally devastated at this point and I went to bed several hours early and cried myself to sleep. For the next couple of days I slept on the couch assuming she wouldn't want to sleep next to a rapist. I honestly never thought I had forced her, like ever, but if she said it, then somehow there has to be a grain of truth to it, right? I played back so many scenarios and couldn't for the life of me tell when I had done such a thing, as I had always asked and was told "yes". If she ever said she didn't feel like it, then I respected it and backed off, and she's not the kind of person who would just say things without being sure of them. The times she did say yes, she seemed really into it and even orgasmed about half the time (that's actually a good percentage for her). I had to think that maybe somehow I had just missed some clues along the way and somehow maybe I did push it on her. After a couple of days she finally said I was being ridiculous, and that it was "in the past" basically acting like nothing was wrong. I told her I couldn't understand how she was being so casual about this, that if someone is serially raped that they should be really angry at their attacker. She said it was in the past and that she was over it. I told her that I wouldn't ever ask for sex again since I couldn't trust myself and she just said ok.

For the last 6 months I've been in a pretty bad depression, but she's her normal self. She's being lovey and not at all acting like I abused her for 3/4ths of our marriage. During the times I was able to think about it without getting too torn up I think my logical brain has been telling me that she was probably mad at the church and all of their rules that put women down, and maybe since she's been getting so into social justice topics of late she's over interpreting the word rape here. But guys, you have to understand that I hate that rape exists and wouldn't consciously force myself on someone like that. I've been second-guessing myself a lot and she keeps asking why I have been mopey lately. One time I told her it's because of what she said months ago and she just said, oh ok, and then walked off. I really don't think she understands just how much this has fucked me up inside. We got into a totally unrelated fight the other day and as we were making up at the end she said that she was really appreciative that I haven't been asking for sex, that it really takes the pressure off (which we have only had 3 times since the initial event and she initiated all 3).

I have been very close to suicide on several occasions because of this and came really close to intentionally taking off my seat belt and crashing my car on purpose a few weeks ago. I know I need to get counseling, and maybe try for couples counseling but she doesn't believe counseling works. If nothing else I need to go solo and get myself back together. My friends and family have all noticed something is off but I lie and just blame work (even though work has not been bad lately). What's worse is that I can't really afford the counseling so I keep making excuses not to go. Finances might change in a few months but until then I am suffering in silence until today. I'm sure I have missed some details, and feel like I am rambling now, so please ask and I will try to reply in the comments.

TLDR- My wife casually accused me of raping her for years, blames the church's influence of how women have to submit to their husbands. I always respected when she said no, and am guessing the times she said yes were due to those religious teachings, but I didn't get any clue that she felt forced. I've sunk into a pretty bad depression and have no idea what to do next (can't afford counseling).

Jesus christ. She is a horrible person. Suddenly sex with your husband is fucking rape?

throwaway12394847 • 53 points • 4 December, 2018 03:28 PM

This is my exact story, except I'm only 7 years into the marriage. This literally sounds like an entry from my journal that I'm keeping. The problem is I'm sitting here with two children under 6. MGTOW has done a lot to help me through this situation and understand women's nature. Even Christian women... it was the ultimate red pill to me.

Original_Username7 • 28 points • 4 December, 2018 05:06 PM

Document everything. Stay strong brother.

Yeah, I have lots of photos and videos. Thanks for the support!

You should talk to a divorce lawyer to see exactly how you should document and what and how often.

irresponsible_tech • 8 points • 4 December, 2018 10:10 PM

Even Christian women... it was the ultimate red pill to me.

Sorry man, not "even", but "especially". Christianity is hyper feminized (especially because it has removed all sense of accountability for one's actions on Earth) so at this point, it's not a brake to their worst impulses but an enabling device. After all, Jesus loves you no matter what you do, so it doesn't matter right? :)

throwaway12394847 • 5 points • 4 December, 2018 10:17 PM

After all, Jesus loves you no matter what you do, so it doesn't matter right?

This was seriously the hardest part of listening to church sermons recently. Gods grace is sufficient, but that's not a get out of hell free card like a lot of thots treat it.

BoskOfPortKar • 52 points • 4 December, 2018 04:06 PM

I've said the same to my wife one year ago when she pushed me for sex... I am not kidding.

I told her that what she had been doing for years is considered rape from a feminist perspective... because she is a bit "feminist".

That was funny to see the hamster running.

Gracket_Material • 11 points • 4 December, 2018 07:19 PM

Thats going to be the standard that feminists push for next.

Consent can be revoked at any time past, present, or future.

If you had sex on your wedding night and 20 years later you piss her off, it was rape and you're going to jail

gprime • 4 points • 4 December, 2018 10:22 PM

Suddenly sex with your husband is fucking rape?

Well, marital rape wasn't traditionally a thing, but states began introducing it in the 1970s, around the same time that no-fault divorce was getting its start, and since 1993 marital rape has been a crime in all 50 states.

Fantoche_Dreemurr • 91 points • 4 December, 2018 02:15 PM

For men, this is pure undistilled evil.

To women, this is a normal and valid thing to do.

So much gaslighting it should be visible from space.

If women can't clearly convey what they want or feel then maybe they need constant supervision and parental guidance.

FlyingSexistPig • 42 points • 4 December, 2018 03:20 PM

If she really doesn't want sex, then no sex.

The reason that rape carries with it such horrible penalties is because it's talking about true forced sex against resistance. If she's more into looking at patterns on the ceiling than she is in the sex, that's not rape. Maybe she didn't initiate, maybe she would rather be doing dishes, but she didn't try to fight him off or even give a clear "no". It's not rape.

Let's say he's the one making all the money, and she asks to buy something and he says no, but she does it anyway. Is that theft? No.

yolodd • 36 points • 4 December, 2018 03:45 PM

Nice job getting her off religion. Family, religion, and society used to keep women in check now that these three institutions have been destroyed we have unbridled women everywhere.

Secondly if theres any doubt SJWism is a mental disorder here is your proof.

Lastly this story is a great example of women's nature. SHE WAS RAPED! A woman guides herself based on EMOTIONS. Her emotions are her reality. When she was in the church he didn't rape her. Now that she's into sjw bullshit she FEELS like all those times he had sex she was forced and thus she was raped.

Women are fucking insane.

Resident_Kiwi • 8 points • 4 December, 2018 04:08 PM

A woman can say she felt "pressured" into having sex or was afraid of what would happen if she refused and suddenly, you're a rapist. The propagation of female hypoagency persists and it seems it will not cease until they have no accountability.

[deleted] • 10 points • 4 December, 2018 02:16 PM

Insanity...

GenericBadGuyNumber3 • 19 points • 4 December, 2018 03:20 PM

Thanked him for not asking for sex.. fucked him 3 times in 6 months, when she wanted it. No regards for his needs. What a living hell.

jigaboorairstorm • 3 points • 4 December, 2018 04:03 PM

Sounds like my marriage how it was.

Gloval1 • 9 points • 4 December, 2018 04:20 PM

If I were this guy I'd bolt. He's clearly traumatized by this horrible woman, so much so that he's having thoughts of self-harm. She'll never be anything but a reminder of this event at this point. Honestly from some things he's said their marriage sounds miserable. She's clearly traumatized him to the point he doesn't even want to make love anymore and her response is "okay"? What a bitch.

Joroda • 9 points • 4 December, 2018 04:51 PM

She wants to be mercilessly hatefucked but he's too civilized to see it.

Of course she wants to be mercilessly hate fucked,... just not by him.

MydnightRose • 6 points • 4 December, 2018 02:45 PM

Divorce here crazy a$$ Would also post this everywhere so the world could see how crazy this crap has become.

[deleted] • 5 points • 4 December, 2018 03:14 PM

Sorry guys, this poster is taking his wife's bullshit way too seriously. You understand that she is just as likely to change her mind a month from now and say she enjoyed every minute of it, don't you?

The past gets re-written in women's mind all the time depending on their moods.

I guarantee this woman has forgotten all about the rape assertion and thinks her husband is just weak minded.

MuleFool42 • 7 points • 4 December, 2018 04:11 PM

He needs to divorce her, which is probably what she wants anyway. There's no way you drop that bomb on someone and expect things to be just fine after that.

He needs to find someone who likes sex as much as he does.

fasterfind • 6 points • 4 December, 2018 05:48 PM

His wife got exposed to toxic feminism, and she now has a totally fucked up notion of rape. Then she accused him.

You can't take shit women say very seriously.

[deleted] • 1 point • 4 December, 2018 07:04 PM

social media in our modern era has amplified this to an extreme. Happened to me with a woman I was living with. She was a FakeBook addict and the echo chamber it created with her circle of on-line friends and family was incredible. I went from Hero to Zero when she flipped the switch in her empty head. Luckily I managed to escape with minimal damage. Narrowly avoided a trumped up DV charge (scariest thing that ever happened to me!!).

the bitch is now remarried and I feel sorry for the poor bastard she trapped. He has no idea what is in store for him.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=apwjgE0n9fc>

... it's pretty fucked up that what was satire years ago is being actually parroted nowadays by real people. The common sense or logic gene in people is disappearing .

jasonmiles2014 • 2 points • 4 December, 2018 02:48 PM

This is one of the most disgusting stories I have ever read. What a twisted bitch.

[deleted] • 1 point • 4 December, 2018 06:58 PM

Toshiba1point0 • 2 points • 4 December, 2018 07:41 PM

I'm sure some feminist will come along and explain everything satisfactorily- that all men are rapists. Doesn't matter if you married the guy and laid there like a dead fish for 20 years. Someone accused me of something that heinous, they're going to wish they had been when I'm done.

Im_Talking • 2 points • 4 December, 2018 07:52 PM

"She suffers from mild depression".

This pisses me off so much. Who the fuck doesn't, at times, feel depressed? Everyone. But these women make it into a real deal. They think themselves into believing that it's real, so they tell their friends (and the friends will support them because the friends are fucked-up too), and go see a therapist, and turn a molehill into a fucking mountain.

If I was a therapist, I would tell 99% of the women coming to me to suck it fucking up, deal with it and get on with life, and shut up. (I wouldn't last long).

feraxil • 2 points • 4 December, 2018 08:22 PM

Voluntarily having sex with your significant other when they want to and you don't isn't rape. It's making your partner happy, and it goes both ways.

This guy needs to get divorced asap.

the_donald666 • 2 points • 4 December, 2018 08:39 PM

Manipulating you to keep you from asking her for sex , yet imitating it whenever she wants it . And he keeps going along with it when she wants it .

She doesnt care how it makes him feel that she said he raped her . She just wants you to back off from initiating sex and to only have sex when she wants it .

This is so obvious and he's about to kill him self over it without even realizing it . It's sad

Guys the reason why women are the way they are its because of guys that are to submissive and enablers. I wonder if this guy would not be the first one to jump in the defense of women and hurt men in every case including against himself.
