

blood for blood

February 17, 2018 | 2 upvotes | by hb8only

[removed]

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

kaane • 2 points • 17 February, 2018 04:16 PM

What is this ? I don't understand. Yes it's immoral to pick on the weak but I think that you are projecting your insecurities onto this incident.

TermsOfColors • 2 points • 17 February, 2018 04:29 PM

there's 99% chance that your kid was a bully

What a load of shit. If some mentally deranged jackass shoots up a random crowd of people that's not "revenge".

BornShook • 2 points • 17 February, 2018 04:57 PM

Im not watching your fucked up movie

maplemaximus • 1 point • 17 February, 2018 04:15 PM

I've rarely ever heard of the victims being perpetrators of bullying, or the bullying of the shooter. Most of these are far from revenge killings. Just a nigga walking in and catching random bodies with choppa's.

RosstheMoss81 • 1 point • 17 February, 2018 04:38 PM

Where's Estonia?...New Jersey?

[deleted] • 1 point • 17 February, 2018 05:17 PM

Because of the protection of society weak people can get away with murder in terms of bullying and psychological abuse. Well guess what this kid couldn't take it and look what happened, the physical world said hello. If bullying is stamped out of schools so will school shootings that is my uneducated opinion.