

This guy's relationship is going to turn out just fine.

June 22, 2013 | 21 upvotes | by HumanSockPuppet

---

Guy is dating a girl for a few months. She finally reveals that she's been a cam girl for a long time. He's uncomfortable, but can't quite put his finger on it.

But he's convinced that she's just in it for the money.

http://np.reddit.com/r/AskMen/comments/1gux6y/dating\_a\_camgirl/

---

Archived from theredarchive.com

---

Comments

---

[deleted] • 32 points • 22 June, 2013 07:13 PM

Buddy should just fuck her on cam and get some of the money.

Hell, he could get her to do some nasty shit under the premise of 'extra cash'.

VZPurp • 7 points • 23 June, 2013 01:09 AM

See, now we're going in a positive direction. That's the spirit!

If she's cam-whoring openly already, then it wouldn't be hard to push it.

[deleted] • 4 points • 22 June, 2013 08:04 PM

Best idea so far.

[deleted] • 24 points • 22 June, 2013 05:34 PM

It's like dating a stripper. Fun, but no LTR.

LastRevision • 10 points • 22 June, 2013 07:16 PM

I'd far sooner date a stripper. Being a cam girl is the lowest end of adult entertainment there is- something like $0.30 on the dollar to take shit from keyboard tough guys who wish they had the balls to say that kinda stuff to real women, strippers, or porn videos. Or a lot of gross submissive men who want someone to cry to about having a small dick. At least a stripper comes from a position of theoretical power- If you step to her too much, you get bounced.

[deleted] • 11 points • 22 June, 2013 09:15 PM

ok, you know way too much about that

LastRevision • 12 points • 22 June, 2013 10:36 PM

SO BE IT.

Neat_On_The_Rocks • 2 points • 22 June, 2013 11:48 PM

Its $3 a minute.

LastRevision • 7 points • 23 June, 2013 01:03 AM

The girl nets 30 cents on the dollar. I know a few girls who do it.

halfbloodprinceton • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 05:36 AM yeah, a lot of the American and Euro cam girls' business models are only feasible these days because of TANF and Euro-equivalents.

pleasebequietdonny • 0 points • 23 June, 2013 03:12 AM

Sorry but you're definitely overgeneralizing

[deleted] • 4 points • 23 June, 2013 03:26 AM ok.

pleasebequietdonny • 0 points • 23 June, 2013 03:29 AM

I'm not a girl but I am a cam model and I strongly disagree with the idea that I'm not LTR material.
Even the comparison with strippers is specious, IMO

[deleted] • 6 points • 23 June, 2013 04:15 AM

Tranny?

LastRevision • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 04:00 PM

"Cam boy." I'm sorry, it's a funny idea.

pleasebequietdonny • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 04:28 AM

Cute.

I'm a cis male

halfbloodprinceton • 5 points • 23 June, 2013 05:38 AM

cis

lol, cis.

rebuildingMyself • 6 points • 23 June, 2013 05:53 AM

I love how non-trans people have to identify themselves now.

[deleted] 23 June, 2013 03:07 PM*

[permanently deleted]

rebuildingMyself • 3 points • 23 June, 2013 03:19 PM*

anti-tranny hate

Is it wrong to hate people who are pro-tranny? Just joking with ya.

thinking a we're a bunch of bigoted, rude, transphobic dude-bros?

People will project all kinds of McNasties onto us because they hate the idea of men figuring women out and improving themselves without the aid of women.

Let them think whatever they want.

just because radfems have co-opted the transsexual cause doesn't mean transsexualism isn't a legitimate condition that we should respect.

It's well known that feminists don't really like transwomen muddying up their female imperative supporting mentality. The idea that an ex-man gets the perks they "fought hard for" (AKA whined excessively) disgusts them. But yes, they do pay lip service to any non-white male group to garner support for their upper-middle class white woman plights like men sitting on the bus improperly.

As for tranny-hate, I don't hate trannies. I, however, don't support a group of people that say it's perfectly fine to trick straight men into sex with them by "forgetting" that they are transwomen. I've been called a bigot and transphobic for being against that position. Am I leading riots against trans-rights? No. Am

I going to spend any energy supporting their cause? Nope.

ClemsonPoker • 5 points • 23 June, 2013 04:26 PM

Surefire sign that the poster is an SRS troll.

[deleted] • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 12:24 PM

Its different for men.

And you are not a cam whore, don't bs.

pleasebequietdonny • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 02:50 PM

yes I am

Why don't you believe me? Because I post on TRP? lol

halfbloodprinceton • 3 points • 23 June, 2013 05:36 AM

I'm not a girl but I am a cam model and I strongly disagree with the idea that I'm not LTR material.

men != women

djonmaya • 22 points • 22 June, 2013 04:49 PM and i am truly crazy about her hes gonna blow it so hard

[deleted] • 31 points • 22 June, 2013 05:04 PM

I KNOW that she is totally faithful to me and to her, the camgirl thing means NOTHING relationship wise.

Funny, because in my mind I see it as her cheating on him with hundreds of guys every night for money.

HumanSockPuppet[S] • 12 points • 22 June, 2013 05:07 PM

I agree. OP's engaging in some serious doublethink. Check this out, and contrast it with what you cited:

And for me personally, it really bugs me. I dont know, its just hard to get over the fact that my girlfriend is online exposing herself while hundreds of guys are jerking it to her. She is special to me and that is something that should be special to me...

[deleted] • 2 points • 22 June, 2013 09:27 PM

it's reverse hamstering, where he's rationalizing away logic and trying to type capitals to convince himself he's right. He'll come round soon, or suffer the consequences down the line.

pleasebequietdonny • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 03:07 AM

You sound like the super jealous, overprotective type.

I'm a camboy and have dated a camgirl in the past with whom I did shows. Both of us have an exhibitionist side to us so it was a win-win-win.

Now I'm not saying your feelings are wrong per se, but I think you might benefit from hearing alternate views on the subject.

halfbloodprinceton • 8 points • 23 June, 2013 05:38 AM

The Red Pill is basically about giving honest, good advice to the average American guy about the average American girl. You may be telling the truth, but your situation is so far from the norm that it's not helpful.

You sound like the super jealous, overprotective type.

Also, feminist-shaming will get you banned.

pleasebequietdonny • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 03:02 PM*

Feminist shaming? lolwut

Not trying to "shame" anyone, just calling it like I see it. Plenty of girls like jealous, overprotective guys. Many other girls don't. But regardless. I don't think his comment was very helpful and I think the intent was to shame the guy into dumping the camgirl.

in my mind I see it as her cheating on him with hundreds of guys every night for money.

This is his perspective but that's it. HIS perspective. It's not like there aren't other valid perspectives. The guy dating the camgirl should know that he doesn't have to view her as "cheating on him." That he's not necessarily a pathetic excuse for a man if he doesn't see her job as cheating. Lots of guys are into swinging/cuckoldry/etc. That doesn't make them any less of men than anyone else.

rebuildingMyself • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 02:26 PM

I'm a camboy and have dated a camgirl in the past

How is that the same as someone who ISN'T doing the same thing as she is?

pleasebequietdonny • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 02:49 PM

I suppose it's not but I'm just trying to say "hey... don't reject her based on this alone"

rebuildingMyself • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 03:28 PM

I would definitely reject her based on this alone. I wouldn't hate her, insult her, belittle her. I would just move on. Though the job intrigues me and I'd take her out just to probe how it all works, etc.

Relationship-wise? Forget it.

pleasebequietdonny • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 03:33 PM

Well I'm not going to invest a significant amount of time trying to convince YOU that camgirls can be LTR material, given that you're not currently dating or talking to one.

But the guy who submitted the post is in a relationship with one and he feels conflicted. My view is that her being a camgirl alone is not enough to disqualify her from an LTR. Whether he chooses to agree with my perspective in the long run is his choice. I just don't want him thinking that he's necessarily getting cheated on or screwed over.

rebuildingMyself • 14 points • 22 June, 2013 05:06 PM

Why date a girl who gives away her assets for free (or at a significantly lower cost of time and resources than you put in) every night?

MockingDead • 14 points • 22 June, 2013 07:56 PM

Dating her isn't the problem,. It's the one-itis. he needs to be like "Ok, while your on the cam tonight, my friend Rachel is coming over"

rebuildingMyself • 4 points • 23 June, 2013 05:55 AM

Absolutely. She's not proper LTR material.

[deleted] 23 June, 2013 12:29 AM

[permanently deleted]

halfbloodprinceton • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 05:39 AM yeah, but she's pulling way less than that when you throw in dead-time, "personal" investment, streaming, web-dev and marketing.

rebuildingMyself • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 08:37 AM

According to other comments, she'll get something like $0.30 on the dollar for her "services."

pleasebequietdonny • -1 points • 23 June, 2013 03:10 AM

Would you refuse to date a masseuse? A talk therapist? A nurse? All of these professions involve intimate interactions of some sort. That doesn't mean their professional lives would detract from their relationship with you.

Camming is no different.

halfbloodprinceton • 3 points • 23 June, 2013 05:41 AM

Camming is no different.

yeah it is. It's not worth going into the neuro of "hot" states and "cold states" but being aroused and working with naked people is very different from being un-aroused and working with naked people and not even close to working with non-naked people and not being aroused. The "intimacy" stuff is just feminist dust-in-the-air designed to obfuscate the issue.

All of this is even before discussing the power-dynamics that make this a bad situation for the OP.

pleasebequietdonny • 0 points • 23 June, 2013 02:54 PM

The "intimacy" stuff is just feminist dust-in-the-air designed to obfuscate the issue.

If it's just "feminist dust in the air" then why would it bother you if your gf was a camgirl?

the power-dynamics that make this a bad situation for the OP.

I'm waiting

halfbloodprinceton • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 08:21 PM

If it's just "feminist dust in the air" then why would it bother you if your gf was a camgirl?

It wouldn't bother me because it wouldn't happen, as soon as I discovered she was a camgirl - she would cease to be my girlfriend. I would end the relationship because I wouldn't want to date a sex-worker for reasons I've explicated elsewhere, to you, in this thread.

rebuildingMyself • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 05:14 AM

False comparison.

pleasebequietdonny • 0 points • 23 June, 2013 05:17 AM how

rebuildingMyself • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 05:52 AM

Sorry didn't have time to write a proper response.

So you're trying to compare a nurse to a camwhore? A masseuse (assuming the non happy-ending type) to a camwhore? I mean, I don't care what she does with her life I just don't want to exclusively date someone that sells themselves off like that.

pleasebequietdonny • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 02:53 PM

My point is those professions involve dealing with clients/patients on a very intimate level.

Sex is only one level of intimacy. And a girl dildoeing herself on camera can't really even be called sex rebuildingMyself • 1 point • 23 June, 2013 03:25 PM

I would never date a woman that does that to other men despite the fact we are in a relationship. I'm dating her. I'm spending time/money/effort on the relationship to keep her happy enough to give me sex/companionship in return. I like to think that only I am receiving these benefits.

Camwhoring is lowing the value of what she brings to the table. Why should I expend so much effort to get what she gives away for $0.30 on the dollar to random dudes online? Like I said earlier, I don't object to her doing it. A job's a job. She has assets and if she chooses to liquidate her assets for a paycheck, so be it. I, however, wouldn't consider her LTR-material.

pleasebequietdonny • 0 points • 23 June, 2013 03:29 PM

I'm spending time/money/effort on the relationship to keep her happy enough to give me sex/companionship in return.

lol

I love how you imply that it's a simple trade. "I, the man, spend time, money and effort on the relationship. In return, she, the woman, gives me sex and companionship."

Here's a radical idea: in a relationship BOTH parties can spend time, money and effort and BOTH can receive sex and companionship in return.

Neat_On_The_Rocks • 6 points • 22 June, 2013 11:42 PM*

Greetings, OP of that thread here. It is such an honor to be submitted to the subreddit. Lmao. But seriously, greetings to you all.

I understand the negativity, I really do. For what its worth, she has said that she stopped camgirling when we started dating, and her friends have confirmed to me that is the case (note: these are friends who would love to catch her in a lie if they could, you know how some chick friendships are). She was afraid my knowledge of it would be an instant dealbreaker, which it would have been if I knew right away.

When she told me about it, she said that it wouldn't be fair if I didn't know, but she also told me about it in a way that kinda felt like she was asking permission to start doing it again...

Feel free to berate me here if you'd like, but know I'm just a guy vocalizing his concerns, I'm not trying to offend anyone or anything. embraces for downvotes

HumanSockPuppet[S] • 9 points • 23 June, 2013 12:13 AM

I understand the negativity, I really do.

We're not making fun of you, and we're not berating you.

We are, however, using your situation as a case study of male/female social dynamics.

Don't feel honoured - we do that to every /r/relationships, /r/relationship_advice, /r/AskMen, and /r/AskWomen thread we find.

Regardless of how you feel about our analysis, my advice to you in that thread was well-meaning and with your interests in mind. I don't think your relationship will go in direction you are expect it to. I would urge you to seriously rethink your relationship with this girl and what your individual expectations are.

Also, stick around and read a few of the sidebar articles. You may find it educational.

halfbloodprinceton • 3 points • 23 June, 2013 05:43 AM

No one is interested in berating you, offending you, or making you feel bad EXCEPT to the extent that doing these things saves you and other men in your position money, time, energy, and sanity.

[deleted] 22 June, 2013 06:57 PM

[permanently deleted]

rebuildingMyself • 2 points • 23 June, 2013 05:56 AM

Absolutely. When a girl brings exclusive sex to the table, then she has something to offer. When it's not exclusive, why should a man bring 100% of his assets to the table (committment)?

[deleted] • 3 points • 23 June, 2013 12:11 AM

A male hamster, in the wild.

Ragnar09 • 2 points • 22 June, 2013 08:29 PM

He should make her do a threesomes with him.