

Made some controversial comments on a date .

November 5, 2018 | 88 upvotes | by spiritletshereit

I went on a mostly successful date on Saturday. We got on great. Shared a bottle of wine. Walked around London. Laughing the whole time and spent a big portion of the day together. Kissed at the end. Lots in common.

After the date she text me saying 'I'm not sure what I want going forwards. You're smart and handsome and I had a great time, but I had a couple of issues.'

Here are the issues,

In the lead up to the date she asked if I could send her a selfie so she could identify me on the day.

I said to her - 'I don't have one from you yet, you could be a huge black girl for all I know.' She's a tiny white girl and the complete opposite so it was meant as a joke and I just said it without filter. She's now worried I'm a bit racist.. which I'm not.

On the date we somehow ended up talking about feminism. (I know...) It wasn't a serious conversation, we were teasing each other and laughing but at one stage I was trying to illustrate a point about how I think men and women are essentially different and so will always have to deal with issues related to their sex. I used a deliberately extreme example to illustrate my point. I said -

'I'd happily take a grope every so often if it meant I could pick and choose my sexual partners at will. Girls are just at the opposite end of the spectrum.'

My sense of humour is basically to just say outrageous shit which is clearly a joke or to provoke a reaction. It's never caused an issue before because it's clear I'm joking or exaggerating and has led to some very funny situations.

I KNOW that she had fun on the date. It was obvious. She was giving me lots of IOI's and the kiss at the end was great.

Presumably my course of action here is to just ignore all this and move forward? As I'm tempted to try and 'clear things up.'

I know that holding frame is the way to go - but also concerned that I've actually offended her or that she thinks I'm something that I'm not.

Should I clear things up?

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

person8445 • 236 points • 5 November, 2018 11:48 AM

Do not explain yourself. Tbh agree and amplify might be the best. Tell her you are a high wizard of the patriarchy and looking for a new Tuesday sandwich maker.

rothkochapel • 34 points • 5 November, 2018 06:11 PM

This, when in doubt A&A always.

lololasaurus • 9 points • 5 November, 2018 08:51 PM

This. A high wizard of the patriarchy ☐☐☐ I love it newflame97 • 5 points • 5 November, 2018 05:49 PM

This is a good word

DadOnDabs • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 07:07 PM

Lmao this guy

RaccoonJanitor • -5 points • 6 November, 2018 12:31 AM

Bad advice but funny. so it will be upvoted.

sonnydanger • 95 points • 5 November, 2018 01:41 PM

Stay in your frame, this is sidebar material 101. Shes trying to shift the power to herside (sub consciously) and is waiting to pounce at any weakness you show. Assume amused mastery, you are the prize. If you like to say outlandish jokes, do it. Don't chnage who you are because of someone else.

spiritletshereit[S] • 27 points • 5 November, 2018 02:01 PM

Got it. It's slow going. I'm having to reset a lot of long term learned behaviours. That I picked up on this and asked about it rather than giving a her a big apology and clearing the air and trying to 'fix' things is a huge step forward.

sonnydanger • 16 points • 5 November, 2018 02:06 PM

Good stuff. There is nothing to clear up, you made your statement and you stand by it, hold frame. If you genuinely fucked up, only then should you apologise and explain yourself. This is also why trp preaches to text only for logistics during the dating phase because it lowers your chance to fuck things up.

spiritletshereit[S] • 10 points • 5 November, 2018 02:14 PM

Speaking of only texting for logistics... Here is a conversation that happened via whatsapp prior to the date while waiting for the bus-

Me - I'm having a double espresso.

Her - Hardcore.

Me - Gateway espresso , I'll be on heroin by the end of the day.

Her - Cool! Always wanted to try! (sarcasm)

Me - Well now we have a plan for the day.

Her - I'm not leaving until we've robbed a bank.

Me - I'm not leaving until we have raped and killed a homeless man.

Her - Well that escalated quickly.

Me - Just don't kill the dog, you monster.

Her - I'm known for my dodgy humour.. but you are worse.

Me - Yep, see you in a bit.

As you can see, I thought I was safe.

Random_throwaway_000 1 points • 5 November, 2018 02:24 PM* [recovered]

Maybe it's best not to joke about being a serial killer/rapist when you still getting to know a chick. A better way would've been to joke about getting locked up in jail vs going down in a gun shoot out.

spiritletshereit[S] • 7 points • 5 November, 2018 02:31 PM

lol yeah I imagine you're right.

I've been finding recently that I've been able to get away with saying literally anything as long I say it in a certain way.

Had a girl (not attractive) following me around at pub recently because I kept referring to her as 'bitch' and telling her to 'go away,'

She kept popping up everywhere and shit testing me.

The problem is I eventually fall apart when I like them. Working on it.

kendallb183 • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 05:41 PM

I have the SAME effect. I can say anything. But, I learned the hard way in text it isnt the same. In person the girl can feel your energy and is wrapped up in it. Your excitement, spontaneity, plain old positivity. In text she can't feel anything at all.. just use her logic. Kind of puts a damper on thing. I think it's why witty banter works through text better, it plays to logic not emotion. Bold crazy fun energy is best for in person.

RaccoonJanitor • 7 points • 5 November, 2018 03:06 PM

Yeeeah... I'm gonna advise tone down the shock humor by like 300%. Just be more chill

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 03:11 PM

I am chill. It's not as autistic as it sounds, honestly.

TheShearerComplex • 5 points • 5 November, 2018 07:55 PM

That's the issue, it does come across as autistic over text as people can't tell tone. I'm sure it would be funny in person.

smolzino 1 points • 5 November, 2018 09:34 PM [recovered]

I thought it was funny.

MotorAdhesive4 • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 11:22 PM

He's not trying to sleep with YOU.

RedHoodhandles • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 08:56 PM

Not my type of humour and I think it's pretty cringey. A&A. I get it but dude you don't always need to one up every basic shit that chick spews out of her mouth.

moonunit0103 • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 10:51 PM

If someone accuses me of bigotry or racism, my reply is, " No I am not, since I hate everyone equally.". If anyone doesn't laugh at that, they are too stuffy and uptight.

empatheticapathetic • 13 points • 5 November, 2018 02:30 PM

Testing your frame. How secure you are in yourself and your decisions. A high value man (which she wants you to be) with abundance would not give a fuck about what she said.

spiritletshereit[S] • 5 points • 5 November, 2018 02:32 PM

I've gone back over what was said and re-read the messages and I think I pretty much held frame through out.

I'm lucky she cant see me hamstering.

RaccoonJanitor • -5 points • 5 November, 2018 03:10 PM

no. I think just don't joke so harsh. Apologize. explain sometimes your humor can be a little strong. Dude, she is thinking about the future, because girls always are. she's thinking if i bring this guy around my friends or my parents will he say something embaessing? she's NOT shit testing. don't listen to that. i mean i don't know for sure because i'm not there, but my best guess is she's just evaluating if you come across too strong. Your gut is telling you this or you would not have explained it like so. just be chill with her.

friendandadvisor • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 06:38 PM

Apologize.

Are you on fucking heroin?

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 03:27 PM

This makes sense but is what old me would have done as a logical person. That hasn't been getting me far and is what led me here in the first place.

I just wrote out an apology as a test and I deleted because it just felt like I was trying to sell myself to her.

Surely the best approach is to spend more time with her and just show her that I have another side.

juggernaut8 • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 03:59 PM

Do not apologize. You didn't do anything wrong. Don't explain yourself ever unless it involves something serious. There's nothing here at all that's serious. You know you're not a racist so that's good enough, a slight joke shouldn't bother her. Do you want to be with an uptight person? Been there, you don't. No need to be over-invested with this girl. If she's cool you continue, if not there are others.

Surely the best approach is to spend more time with her and just show her that I have another side.

You don't have to show/ prove anything. You're a cool dude, right? Let it come through naturally.

Don't take her seriously, that's a good attitude to have.

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:02 PM

A first date is a kind of over the top version of myself. It's not deliberate. It's just concerning if she thinks that if I spend time with her black friends I'll say something dumb/potentially racist or generally be crass or overly edgy in front of her friends in general.

Being provocative is how I flirt. I'm like a big child playing kiss chase and punching the girls.

It's not how I'd be if I met someones friends or parents or whatever.

How else would I have a job?

juggernaut8 • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 04:11 PM

It's just concerning if she thinks that if I spend time with her black friends I'll say something dumb/potentially racist or generally be crass or overly edgy in front of her friends in general.

This is you hamstering. Are you going to do that? You know you're not going to, so no need to explain.

Or explain yourself and convince her to go out with you/ that you are a good safe boy. You've tried that before, where did that get you?

Being provocative is how I flirt. I'm like a big child playing kiss chase and punching the girls.

Good, so stick with that.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:12 PM

It got me fucking nowhere that's where.

I was in /datingadvice before here.

Train wreck.

juggernaut8 • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:14 PM

Right. So you know what not to do. All the best bro.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:14 PM

Thanks man.

_Icarus_Reborn_ • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 06:47 PM

+1

This is some solid advice and you definitely related to OP in a way he could digest.

Glad there is people like you about giving great advice.

RaccoonJanitor • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 03:43 PM

Yeah. I think in person is best. assuming you have another date. I agree if you can just show her that side is of you is best. But if she said "issues" it leads me to beleive she has specific points she wants to say. So, i guess it's just my advice, but i would just be honest with her. It's what I would do. I've been following TRP for a while and I'm cetainly no redpill sage. I just know my experiecne has been that following TRP too strongly can come across too aggressive sometimes to women. Just take the best parts but remember common sense is still a thing. and yeah, women are different from men, but sometimes TRP makes it seem like they are another species. they arent that crazy different. some are. but so are guys. IDK, i'm rambling again. just i'd advise to use general common sense and basic rules of socializing over most TRP. and some TRP is great.

spiritletshereit[S] • 0 points • 5 November, 2018 03:46 PM

You're not rambling, I've also had these thoughts.

RaccoonJanitor • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:03 PM

Thanks. Nice to hear i'm not alone with some of them, haha. How do you feel about the girl? Do you like her a lot or unsure yet? Hope things work out!

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:04 PM

It's only one date so impossible to say. It was way more fun than I thought it would be though and she was much cuter than i expected.

Also has a lovely slight French accent.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:12 PM

Oh nice. i love foreign accents. very sexy. Cool. Well, that's good. Sounds like you'll need to go on a few more to see what you really think. Also, sometimes really fun crazy dates can be a bit difficult to really get to know a person because everything's so high energy. Show her you can take her on a casual date, like just coffee and a walk in the park, and it still be a nice time (not crazy nightlife fun just chill fun) and she will really fall for you, because she will have someone she can just relax with and enjoy life, which is what most days should be about lol.

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:14 PM

I think she likes me and is attracted to me but is worried that Im a psychopath and will embarrass her in front of her friends. I think if I play it cool I'll get that second date and can go from there.

friendandadvisor • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 06:40 PM

I just wrote out an apology as a test and I deleted because it just felt like I was trying to sell myself to her.

You'd better knock that shit off.

I would, however, go a bit easier on the bizarre humour bit. Sometimes chicks say that they appreciate it, but, I think that they can only appreciate just so much.

spiritletshereit[S] • 0 points • 5 November, 2018 03:21 PM

She said something along those lines on the date and I just reassured her and then laughed it off.

onpuzzle • 31 points • 5 November, 2018 11:18 AM

Don't take what she said seriously. Ignore, deflect, laugh. Continue as normal. If she puts up a fight, screw her.

Plenty other hoes left.

spiritletshereit[S] • 22 points • 5 November, 2018 11:23 AM

That's what I thought. At the end of the day I would laugh in the face of anyone else who said I was racist because of this.

The only reason I'm worried is because of vaginas isn't it?

Xkirbyx • 6 points • 5 November, 2018 02:46 PM

To me it seems she comes off a bit uptight. Either she will fall under your style of comedy and negging or it'll turn into soft shit test at every turn from her.

spiritletshereit[S] • 8 points • 5 November, 2018 02:51 PM

She was getting into it. There was a lot of punching me and looking at me sideways and saying 'fuck off Shaun!' for no reason like she couldn't think of anything better.

At one point I was just stood there and she accused me of 'flexing my pecs' at her. I was literally just stood there. In a jumper and parka.

I was all like 'Thanks for noticing ;)' and she got all defensive. She is one of these girls who 'doesn't like muscles.'

Which as an aside - the advice to lift on here is a godsend. I've always been skinny until recently.

Xkirbyx • 7 points • 5 November, 2018 02:54 PM

She seems to be retaliating against herself lol fuck the muscles but wants a muscular guy to 'ravage' her. I'd say be careful bro I've played with girls like this the delusional kind and they're very unstable

spiritletshereit[S] • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 03:01 PM

Not even that muscular tbh. I just now have pecs when I didn't before and you can tell I have shoulders and arms underneath my clothes.

Xkirbyx • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 08:25 PM*

It's her own bullshit hypocritical mind that can't take the fact that she says one thing but biologically she wants another and that's where her bullshit is at. It's on you sir play with fire if you'd like but id next her already very gently lol

RaccoonJanitor • -10 points • 5 November, 2018 03:01 PM

Disagree. Ask her what the issues were. If they were about your jokes then appologize in and assure her that they were only jokes, your not racist or other, and you just have a strong sense of humor and your sorry for making her a little uncomfortable.

onpuzzle • 8 points • 5 November, 2018 04:14 PM you're*

And no. Don't do what this guy says. That's quite beta.

RaccoonJanitor • -4 points • 5 November, 2018 04:37 PM

First, when a guy asks for advice about a girl he is dating, don't refer to her as a hoe. just in general is pretty stupid. You have no idea if he really likes her or if he is looking for something more casual. let him say what she is. Second, it's not beta to apologize when it's needed. third, who cares grammar nazi.

_PM_ME_UR_LINGERIE_ • 5 points • 5 November, 2018 04:59 PM

The apology being needed is where some might take particular issue. He made a clear joke and she took offence. That's not on him.

RaccoonJanitor • -2 points • 5 November, 2018 05:11 PM

I don't think he should be trying to decide or argue with her if he is right or not. The point is she took offense, and frankly it was not really unreasonable to. it is some pretty strong jokes for a first date. it's not a snowflake complaint. He simply needs to now decide how to handle the situation. defending his statement is really not a good idea. He should either ignore it or appologize, and to me it seems obvious he should just appologize or atleast explain his sometiems over the top humor, because he clearly likes her and this was just a joke to him but to her it seems rather important.

_PM_ME_UR_LINGERIE_ • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 06:11 PM*

I agree he shouldnt argue with her about it. She knows its a joke and she has voiced that she disapproves of the joke. If she expects an apology its because she feels that he is at fault to a certain degree.

Again, she knows its a joke. She took offence. If she decides to not see him again, thats completely fine. But he has just as much right to not have to defend himself and apologise. He should ignore it or agree and amplify. It might be good for her to understand that just because she feels wronged, it doesnt mean that she is necessarily deserving if an apology.

If he said it not as a joke then she could have case for an apology. But in reality, it was a joke not a statement.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 12:20 AM

I dont' think she has a problem with just one joke though, it think it's more the general tone. Maybe being a little worried he will always joke like this even in more subtle situations. I'm gathering this becuase she didn't seem to get angry at a certain situation but rather had overall issues. And OP seems to have a gut feeling for what that issue is which is his over the top humour. His gut is probably telling him something, to tone it down a little and maybe appologize.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 12:43 AM

I dont' think she has a problem with just one joke though, rather i think it's more the general tone. Maybe she's a little worried he will always joke like this even in more subtle situations. I'm gathering this becuase she didn't seem to get angry at a certain situation but rather had overall issues. And OP seems to have a gut feeling for what that issue is which is his over the top humour. His gut is probably telling him something, to tone it down a little and maybe appologize. I think he should listen.

onpuzzle • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 12:20 PM

Aww stop being such a beta boi.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 12:28 PM

I'm not. If she acts like a hoe call her a hoe. But no need to just call her one right off. these sorts of assumptions are what is giving him bad advice. Rather than trying to actually understand her and the situation. Also, it is rude.

onpuzzle • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 12:30 PM

All girls are hoes, given the context. Gotta swallow that pill man.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 12:41 PM

Disagree

chazthundergut • 17 points • 5 November, 2018 02:33 PM

This is a shit test.

If you get all defensive or apologetic or ask her what did I do wrong sweetie!?? Then you fail. The only way to pass this one (at this stage) is to demonstrate how little her objections concern you and how unphased you are with the outcome of this.

She isn't sure she wants to go forward?

Lol.

She shouldn't be sure if you want to go forward.

I would wait a couple days without texting then say:

"Yea I think we have a pretty different sense of humor" ... and that's it. Let her hamster do the rest, and be ready for her to walk.

Remember: you are vetting her. You are the prize. You aren't gonna compromise your humor or your personality for a bitch. Especially one you barely went on one date with.

Also in general stop validating her I bet you've been texting her way too much. After your date who reached out first?

spiritletshereit[S] • 5 points • 5 November, 2018 02:36 PM

Yes it's when I know that I'm into someone that I fall apart.

I text her the next day and said that I enjoyed the date and we should do it again - yes that's a mistake.

I've backed off since her rejection though and I've not tried to apologise or whatever.

Btw she actually brought up these 'concerns' on the date and I just rolled my eyes at her and teased her about it.

Believe it or not all of this is progress.

chazthundergut • 7 points • 5 November, 2018 04:09 PM

Keep it up. You're getting dates, doing well on dates, and closing with a kiss. You are absolutely on the right track.

Just dial in your game. Stop texting. Stop validating. Try a little less hard. Talk less and let her do the qualifying.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 02:40 PM

Also I'll put your suggestion into practice.

SirKolbath • 15 points • 5 November, 2018 02:21 PM

Come on, man, this is basic shit test 101.

Ignore what she says. Pay attention only to what she does. You said multiple times that you know she enjoyed herself. She did. So much that she is trying to claw back power from you because she knows she's been in your frame and wants you in hers.

Stay in your own frame. Ignore what she says and take her out again. This time, make damn sure you drill for uranium through her pelvis.

mrpthrowa • 7 points • 5 November, 2018 02:45 PM

Maintain frame. Do not change your story, or try and explain. Getting you to explain is a giant test.

I would even send this gem...

"yeah i agree, I'm not sure whether we have enough in common..."

And watch her try to qualify.

Also have a filter on what you say you autistic twat.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 03:36 PM

hahaha ok

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 03:36 PM

Although Patrice O'Neil says don't filter.

seedster5 • 5 points • 5 November, 2018 02:37 PM

Don't apologize for speaking your belief as long as it's not way out there like being a pedo should be legal or some other insanity. Hold frame. Continue to show the girl a good time.

muddynips • 9 points • 5 November, 2018 04:03 PM

Don't mix jokes with beliefs. You want to keep it light and fun, and you don't want to be the "I was only joking" guy.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:07 PM

It was light and fun. It's hard to get across to you guys. I wasn't being a dick and it was all fun banter.

I just think she has read between the lines of the actual content a bit.

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:08 PM

Also she was bringing the stuff up. I stand by that my approach is way more effective (and fun) than being boring and having a nice conversation.

I know because I've done both.

There's obviously a middle ground...

muddynips • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 05:01 PM

It may or may not have worked during the date, I wasn't there. But generally you want jokes to be jokes (and hopefully funny) and beliefs to be beliefs. Shrouding beliefs as jokes is a bitch move, and I see a lot of guys doing it. It should also be harder to get some of this stuff out of you. Fish don't want to hear about fishing, women don't want to hear about the sexual marketplace. Her bringing it up is a shit test that you failed to deflect.

It's just not a good policy to be talking about all that shit on a first date. You are not holding frame by allowing the conversation to go any which way. You shouldn't be saying things like "well it came up somehow". If your sense of humor is to walk this line on the edge of socially acceptable behavior, you should be able to exercise more refined control of the conversation. Or alternatively give fewer fucks about her concerns. But you can't do both.

All in all sounds like a fun date though. Hopefully she gets over her hesitation and reaches out.

inspiredshane • 6 points • 5 November, 2018 02:35 PM

Would you concern yourself about the feelings of a guy who thought you were racist or sexist because of these jokes? Probably not. Likely, you'd think that guy was lame and couldn't take a joke. That's what this woman is. And tbh, how much fun can you really have with a lame woman that can't take a joke? I'd be having mixed feelings about her too.

spiritletshereit[S] • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 02:38 PM

Exactly this. This exactly right. I only care because of vaginas.

leftajar • 8 points • 5 November, 2018 03:39 PM

Yeah, take it easy on the controversial stuff -- bitches get triggered. That's why they're always trying to ban free speech.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 03:39 PM

They do. But what happened to NGAF?

leftajar • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 04:16 PM

NGAF isn't the be-all end-all. Like, a lot of bums DGAF.

I think the point is to be results-oriented. Clearly, OP being unfiltered, in the way that he did, backfired.

RaccoonJanitor • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:44 PM

Only good advice i've seen on here. well said.

F_Dingo • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 03:22 PM

Own what you say or don't say it at all.

RaccoonJanitor • 0 points • 5 November, 2018 03:49 PM

Or, consider what you have said and be man enough to admit when you are wrong.

rp2626 • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 07:05 PM

Theres a difference between being confident in your beliefs and actually coming across racist or sexist. I get that you arent but she probably thinks wtf is up with this guy. She doesn't need to be told about the double standards. She just wants to know if you're worth dating.

[deleted] • 8 points • 5 November, 2018 03:53 PM

Just ask yourself, What Would Trump Do?

WWTD?

spiritletshereit[S] • 5 points • 5 November, 2018 03:58 PM

/endthread

alphabachelor • 6 points • 5 November, 2018 03:30 PM

This is why having an abundance mentality is key.

She folds and falls into your way. Or she remains a stubborn, silly girl and it's her loss, you dodged a bullet.

You win either way.

spiritletshereit[S] • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 03:32 PM

I have options but not options on girls I actually like. This is why Im fine until I realise i like them.

Fully agree that abundance is everything.

Before this date I actually couldn't be bothered to go on the date. I had abundance.

Now I don't.

Jelagil • 4 points • 5 November, 2018 04:47 PM

You asked what are the issues instead of saying "we all have issues.. so you're free on Monday?"

Listen, you sound overly invested in this humorless, overstressed girl.

The sex is going to be terrible. I promise you that.

Move on.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:51 PM

No she brought up the issues on the date but we were sort of joking around it.

It was only after when she mentioned them in the text that I realised it was an actual issue.

Honestly I read that 'dismiss... are you free on?' thing discussed a lot it just doesnt work.

For me, by far the best way to get a date is do something fun then invite them to it. If they don't go it doesn't matter because you're going anyway.

This date was planned... formally?... on match.

Jelagil • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:54 PM

Look, you sound pretty young. And that's good, because you have a lot of time to learn.

Ask yourself:

Are you spinning plates? Are you dating more girls? Are you texting her too much? Are you giving her too much attention? Are you in her frame?

I will say this again. The pussy won't be good.

Okool74 • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 02:58 PM

" My sense of humour is basically to just say outrageous shit which is clearly a joke or to provoke a reaction. "

I'm the very same way. People who know me well are used to it and sometimes get a kick out of how sarcastic of an asshole I am. Those who don't, and aren't sanguine enough to stick around and find out that i'm just incredibly sarcastic and not (insert character degradation here) well that's their loss. I've gotten a LOT more respect out of just being me than being what snowflakes want me to be.

[deleted] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 06:06 PM

Tell her you are worried about her being worried about some light talk on sensitive issues.

Tell her you aren't getting married tomorrow and it should be obvious that until she sees you more she won't actually know when you are joking and when you are serious.

Tell her your perspective is obviously biased and you can admit that, ask her if she can do the same. Tell her the important things you will probably agree upon and compromise is a big part of getting along.

All of it shouldn't be a serious concern of hers right now. Tell her to relax and get to know you better, you were just teasing her and pushing some buttons looking to see how she reacted.

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 06:07 PM

Good comment.

waynebradysworld • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 06:36 PM

Just respond with this

□ □

VasiliyZaitzev • 2 points • 6 November, 2018 02:06 AM

Don't listen to what she says; watch what she does.

Her delicate feminine brain is afraid that someone will shriek at her that she's "RAYYYYYCISSSSS!!" etc., but she likely has a white nationalist vag.

Verdict: You should totes sing Everyone's a Little Bit Racist! to her.

Youngyoda89 • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 06:18 PM

Unc- told you this before but wanna reiterate. I don't have a strong father figure growing up. So I look to a few men for advice for women. You're one of them. I work in construction so i ask the older men, in real life, about advice about construction and life.

I wonder how do I get to that level of idgaf x 1000 at age 27? I wonder things like this- if you see a sexy girl- do you cat call her on the spot? Or spit game at her on the spot?

I work in a building with several office suites. There is a girl who works in an office suite next to mine. She has an ok face but a bangin body. She smiles at me and says hi when we cross paths. I don't consider it shitting where I eat bc she's doesn't work at my company. So trying to fuck her isn't completely out of the question- is what I mean.

Today she wore a dress and I have the urge to tell her - you look sexy today. But I wonder- is it needy behavior to say something like this? Or do you, uncle v, just say exactly what's on your mind that moment!?

Also say a girl in Starbucks drive thru, very sexy, my type. She doesn't show many any apparent lols but she has beautiful hair. I wanted to say - wow your hair is beautiful. But I wonder if things like that are pointless.

Bc I'm just validating her without any return. And I wonder if you would tell her in that case?

Also, I'm not pressed to have sex. I just had very good sex last night with my ltr. I've said this before but I don't think I told you. My ltr used to have 150 thousand followers on Instagram before I jealously convinced her to delete (blue pills days: I've been with her for 6 years) so it's safe to say she is a solid 8 by most men's scales.

My point in telling you that is that I am not scarce on good pussy. I'm a quality man. Don't care about numbers. But I would like to add a few quality, heavily screened sides.

VasilyZaitzev • 1 point • 7 November, 2018 04:40 AM

I wouldn't lead with a compliment. I'd ask a question to start her on the road to qualifying herself to me. So rather than "nice hair" or whatever, ask her about what her story is, etc.

Youngyoda89 • 1 point • 7 November, 2018 01:31 PM

A better way to rephrase my question is- what do you do in a situation where you have (let's say) under 1 minute to pull a girl?

VasilyZaitzev • 1 point • 7 November, 2018 05:55 PM

That's a tall order. Start going into the coffee shop and not trying to pull from the window.

Youngyoda89 • 1 point • 7 November, 2018 05:59 PM

You have the same style of game as me. Well I'm like a younger you. Except I don't have a lot of money yet. However I am about to land a new job. I have my second interview for a leveled up job next week. This place has good potential for growth. And I read your corporate land post.

VasilyZaitzev • 1 point • 7 November, 2018 07:05 PM

And I read your corporate land post.

I was going to say.....

alleyteris • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 03:07 PM

Why would ever feel the need to clarify whta you told her on the date? She is clearly interested and if she was offended she would have ghosted you. Nothing to worry about here , just hold frame and agree and amplify , tell her that you too are worried about the issue of her eating your food too or some other over the top joke or something . Keep her in your frame c4toyourdoornobeef • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:48 PM

Don't say sorry. Own your words and actions, apologise and you're in her frame

yeetngreet 1 points 5 November, 2018 04:50 PM* [recovered]

Remember Law 37 and move the fuck on.

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:52 PM

What's Law 37?

yeetngreet 1 points 5 November, 2018 04:56 PM [recovered]

Law 38: Think as you like but behave like others. If you make a show of going against the times, flaunting your unconventional ideas and unorthodox ways, people will think that you only want attention and that you look down upon them. They will find a way to punish you for making them feel inferior. It is far safer to blend in and nurture the common touch. Share your originality only with tolerant friends and those who are sure to appreciate your uniqueness.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:57 PM

That makes logical sense but i did that for nearly a 10 year period and it led to depression and weekly (sometimes more) cocaine use.

Toeing the line also never led to women.

I'm far, far, far happier being myself and although it's clearly far from perfect I'm doing better with women too.

EntitledChadJThunder • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 05:38 PM

Never justify yourself. She has the draw the right conclusion about you. This is what you should ask her: Do you really think that I am racist?

peaceful_strong_man • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 05:40 PM

Beta male fornicator

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 05:43 PM

You sound well adjusted.

[deleted] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 05:57 PM

Possible move not suggested here: pressure flip. "You're smart and cute and I had a great time, but I need a girl with a sense of humor :\"

ImLitC0lN • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 06:05 PM

'Td happily take a grope every so often if it meant I could pick and choose my sexual partners at will. Girls are just at the opposite end of the spectrum.'

Sounds more like preaching than a joke. Imo I would never have that type of convo but I'd make a better joke than that man lmao

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 06:06 PM

Lol this sort of thing is not constructive. Sometimes in life everything you say isn't perfect.

magx01 • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 06:51 PM

If you change yourself to avoid "losing" her (someone you barely know) then who are you?

SeasonedRP • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 07:29 PM

If her text consisted of the exact quote you listed and nothing else, my read is that she is telling you she isn't interested. She's not going to come out and say she's not attracted to you or doesn't want to see you again, so she's using "issues" as an excuse. She didn't even say what those "issues" were in her text. You are just reading into it. The worst thing you could do is try to "clear things up."

Two options: 1) do nothing and see if she contacts you again, or 2) call (don't text) and ask her for a date on a specific day and time. If she says no, or says she's busy and doesn't offer an alternative date, then you have your answer. The last thing you should do is try to apologize or explain yourself in texts.

[deleted] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 08:06 PM

No, definitely don't adress this ever again. If she brings it up, steer the conversation elsewhere. I have the same fucked up humour as you do, so take it from me when I say that a big mouth can get you in a whoooole lot of trouble when you decide to be outrageous with politics and ideology or, God forbid, take a stance opposing anyone. Its a massive anti-poon move by the way, talking about vag-drying subjects like feminism or politics, so save that part of you for when you're mainlining cocaine and pounding jäger with your bro's.

Zanford • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 08:29 PM

Shit tests.

No, don't clear things up. She's making you jump through hoops. If you agree to her frame 'okay we can discuss your Issues before I am allowed to see you again' you have showed her that she controls the terms of engagement and can make you grovel to get another chance with her. If she's actually attracted to you, she'll be willing to meet up without such conditions.

You failed a shit test by getting into a serious gender politics discussion on the date. (Not failed as bad as if you agreed with her, but by trying to seriously explain your points rather than brush off her ranting, you soft-failed the test.)

Ignore the test and proceed with logistics, or respond with something like 'k we can discuss at bar X on day Y'. If she refuses to meet without getting into an 'Issues Conversation', she just isn't that into you, so ghost.

Buchloe • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 11:34 PM*

Man I met up with a super feminist chick about a week ago. Halfway through the night, after yapping on and on about how she hates trump (assuming I would obviously be in agreement) , I broke it to her that I voted trump and abhor feminism. From that point on it was nothing but snarky, playfully argumentative wisecracks back and forth over tequila. Every jab she took at me I shut down. Amused mastery. "Wow- what a surprise that you have that opinion. It's the most stereotypical thing possible. That's why chicks shouldn't even be allowed to vote. Now where's that sandwich? ". She would act shocked and offended, but then move in closer because that shit was making her wet. And I told her as much. I took it in humor and had fun and didn't apologize. She was all over me and we fucked twice.

If you hold frame, it doesn't matter. She will rationalize almost anything she normally "wouldn't tolerate" if she's into you. Now, a week later, if you don't text her, she might rewrite history in her mind and write you off in retrospect. You never know. They have that ability to mentally justify anything in any direction that suits them.

themindiseverything0 • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 12:20 AM Change her mood not her mind and as Todd says number one rule of game is not to talk about game

https://youtu.be/t-1spl_fuU8

Sexandswishers • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 01:08 AM

One time I was at a party, and a few girls showed up. One of them sat down next to me. Wanting to be a gentleman (aka fag) I scooted over so I could give her some room. More people sat down so she scooted closer to me. I again, scooted over so she could have some more room. She then scooted closer to me and said “you don’t have to move every time I get close. I don’t bite” you know what my stupid ass replied? “I just like my space” don’t feel bad bro. We’ve all fucked up before. Learn from it, and move on.

red_matrix • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 02:05 AM Always agree and amplify. Women will always go with the stronger frame. Always.

chrisname • 1 point • 6 November, 2018 10:51 AM

Your jokes sound edgy and immature. Ease it off a bit. I like making these jokes as well but you can’t do it with people you don’t know well. And the big black girl thing does sound racist - it implies a black girl would obviously be unacceptable.

Quaternionz • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 01:43 PM

Next her. Never accept anything other than enthusiastic interest.

The race thing was maybe just a fuck up, but bashing feminism on a date is fine. I do it on purpose sometimes just to weed out the bitchy feminist chicks.

At least in the US, there are plenty of traditional girls floating around who are just as disgusted with feminism as you are.

Occasionally if a girl is a feminist or a batshit crazy religious nut job I'll go along with her views and just deflect if the subjects come up. I'll get a few bangs before I get sick of her and then I'll bail.

I don't really stress it when I drop or get dropped due to incompatibilities on feminism or religion. I have enough plates for sex as it is, it's easy enough to find new dates, and the girl wasn't a long term prospect anyway.

It's insulting for her to say that she has issues with you. If you continue it'll be in her frame, one in which you're trying to prove yourself in this uphill battle against her judgement. Don't do it. Next her. Only ever hang out with girls who look up to you and respect you.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 01:56 PM

The same is true here (about non-feminist girls) however I felt that all other aspects of the date went well. Tbh at the time It even felt that the feminist stuff was going well - I held frame and kept on joking. She's even stated that me rolling my eyes at her objections was one of the sticking points - although the IOI's didn't stop after the fact and she definitely enjoyed the kiss, she came back in for more after we broke apart.

Is there not a sort of ASD equivalent at play here?

You know 'I need to convince myself I don't like a guy that isn't feminist and super PC...'

Either way I agree that the right course is to next her for the time being. I'm in London at the end of the month and will see if she is around.

Quaternionz • 0 points • 5 November, 2018 02:19 PM

A lot of guys are confused about what ASD is.

When a girl has real ASD she looks like a kid who you put a marshmallow in front of, and then told that he'd get a big surprise if he could go 60 minutes without eating it. The kid will be salivating at the marshmallow, but also considering the mystery prize he'd get for waiting. You'll be able to see the kid's inner struggle, it'll be palpable.

When a girl has real ASD pushing her over the edge is trivial. They make it easy for you by blatantly showing you their "I want it" side along with their "No, I can't" side, on and off in rapid succession. All have you to do is say "Yeah girl, you should definitely give in," and then go for it.

A lot of guys will get a strait up rejection or a "not tonight," but without the girl showing them any counterbalancing interest. They'll think it's ASD, but it's really just a rejection. If they keep pushing they can get the lay or the date just by brute force, but then you run the risk of getting #metoo'd, or of dating girls who are seeing you just because you're the path of least resistance.

Based on the way this girl talks, she's just not into you. If she's not proactively making it easy for you to blow past her rejection then next her. Move on unless she texts you first and shows LOTS of genuine interest despite her comments.

spiritletshereit[S] • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 02:21 PM

Ok, good advice. That's the plan. I can't say I've genuinely taken this as rejection but what I can tell you is that I plan on acting as if I have.

Quaternionz • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 02:21 PM

Sounds right

[deleted] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 02:50 PM

no disrespect to this other guys opinion but i think he is reading far too much into her words, if you want my advice id simply ignore what she said: she is a girl, she doesnt know what she wants sometimes, and she will shit test you like this. no worries, just curve it and, if you are having fun, just keep it like that.

i think that "acting like it was a rejection" when you think(know) it wasnt is just adding drama to the situation and thats what women do, not you.

good luck and have fun bro

RaccoonJanitor • 0 points • 5 November, 2018 03:56 PM

Why is it insulting for her to have issues if they are legitimate issues? I don't understand why no one even considers that just maybe you should tone down the joking a bit. atleast by its content. Honestly, such bad advice. Everyone just circle jerking to "dump that crazy B" cus it feels powerful rather than actually considering the options. If you just want to be patted on the shoulder for no matter what you do then this is the right place, but i really don't think there's actually good advice happening.

[deleted] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 02:41 PM

Ghost

FieldLine • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 03:04 PM

She's now worried I'm a bit racist.. which I'm not.

I have a massive confederate flag hanging on my wall. I believe in what the flag represents (states' rights), in contrast with what the media paints it to be a symbol for (slavery).

It's funny watching SJW types short circuit when a guy they are attracted to should be a huge racist according to how their programming tells them to respond to particular cues.

Presumably my course of action here is to just ignore all this and move forward? As I'm tempted to try and 'clear things up.'

If you're getting the reaction you want, why would you change anything?

A big part of swallowing The Red Pill is discovering that women respond positively to what may not seem immediately intuitive, which is why practicing different approaches in the field is so critical.

Find something that shouldn't work but does? Roll with it.

EntitledChadJThunder • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 05:41 PM

I have a massive confederate flag hanging on my wall. I believe in what the flag represents (states' rights), in contrast with what the media paints it to be a symbol for (slavery).

It's funny watching SJW types short circuit when a guy they are attracted to should be a huge racist according to how their programming tells them to respond to particular cues.

What do they say when they see that?

RaccoonJanitor • -2 points • 5 November, 2018 03:59 PM

He is not getting the reaction, that's why she said she has some issues. He should clear things up.

FieldLine • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 04:42 PM

Your mistake is listening to the shit women say. More enlightening are her actions:

I KNOW that she had fun on the date. It was obvious. She was giving me lots of IOI's and the kiss at the end was great.

RaccoonJanitor • -1 points • 5 November, 2018 05:02 PM

Yeah. I see she had fun. but she also clearly had some issues based on what OP tells us of her reactions to his comments. So, seems like there is promise but i do think the issues need to be addressed.

astrogatorjones • 0 points • 5 November, 2018 03:49 PM

I don't think you should try to clear things up. It's up to her to decide whether she wants to see you again anyway.

With that said, I think you could also allow yourself to reevaluate if you really want to keep saying shit like that. I agree that your first comment sounded a bit racist and the second one came off a little weird.

Of course it's up to you to decide, be your own judge. But I feel that if you stood behind your words a 100% you wouldn't be here. So I just want to say that taking social cues, improving your behaviour and maintaining frame can happen at the same time.

RaccoonJanitor • -2 points • 5 November, 2018 02:56 PM

Yeah, I'd clear things up. Just do it casual. Maybe when you meet her again in person. not through a text. Be like, "hey, you know i have a strong sense of humor. just hope i didn't come across wrong with my jokes last night. With the black joke and groping joke. sometimes i go a little too far..." something like that. Nothing unmanly about being able to apologize for offending someone with a bit off color remark. especially one about groping a girl when on a first date. she's bound to feel a little extra vulnerable then so definitely might have taken it a little the wrong way.

About this: Being confident and good with women doesn't mean to never admit when you're wrong. I've found women (and just people in general!) appreciate a guy who shows humility and some understanding of their faults. I'm not saying apologize for everything but a comment that makes her uncomfortable seems reasonable to. especially if it's got you this worried it probably did come across a little off. Anyways, just my two cents. good luck bro!

spiritletshereit[S] • 3 points • 5 November, 2018 02:58 PM

just to be clear - i didn't say anything about groping a girl. I said that I would happily take the odd groping in return for millions of tinder matches etc etc.'

But I do agree with you. Problem is that everything I thought I believed has been wrong!

RaccoonJanitor • 0 points • 5 November, 2018 03:21 PM

I know you weren't. and i totally get your point and humor. it's cool! but only to guys probably. Not everything you knew is wrong. The Red Pill is an amazing set of strategies you can use to improve your life. But it's not the only good advice you have ever learned about how to be with people. Some simple things like appologizing when you hurt someones feelings or make them feel uncomfortable is good advice still. It's boring and obvious so no one will write a cool catchy post about it but it is mostly good. Especially if you are also confident most of the time. Of course your right that some things you thought to be true (and that i did too) were wrong, like being a "nice guy" probably won't get you a girl. but that doesn't mean never being nice is good. just being too nice or nice as your primary characteristic is bad. Hope i'm not rambling too much. i just feel there are many good things to do that are not very "redpill" but are still good strategies for human behaviour in general. I might advice watching a few "Charisma on command" videos on youtube. or other social psychology videos to taper or balance out some of the red pill advice (which some of it of course is awesome too).

juggernaut8 • 2 points • 5 November, 2018 04:05 PM

Some simple things like appologizing when you hurt someones feelings or make them feel uncomfortable is good advice still.

This is poor advice. He didn't hurt her feelings. If her feelings were hurt from that she isn't worth going out with. You know who never makes girls uncomfortable ever? Nice guys who fail with girls.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:24 PM

Wrong. he may not have hurt her feelings but she was probably a little uncomfortable with the remark as most girls would understandably be, especially on a first date. If you think all girls who take offense to offensive jokes are "not worth it" then you will not get any good girls and probably mostly undesirables. Her saying she has issues with some things shows she is wondering if he can be chill also or if he would embarrass her in front of friends. None of this is unreasonable. I will add that if he had hurt her feelings it is COMPLETELY reasonable to appologize and this would show nothing about how "worth going out with" she is. nor would it make him a derogatory "nice guy". "nice guys" will simply appologize all the time about too many things. and is usually unconfident about most things. and "derogatory nice guys" think that simply being nice is enough reason to have girls like him rather than through merrit, character, and success. This does not mean that being nice is bad. in fact it is usually good.

juggernaut8 • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:46 PM

"nice guys" will simply appologize all the time about too many things.

That's exactly what you're telling him to do over a trivial/non issue.

I'm not even going to bother with rest except for this:

This does not mean that being nice is bad. in fact it is usually good.

No, it's not good. He shouldn't be 'nice'. He should be himself and be a decent human being, that's enough. There's no need to be nice.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 04:58 PM

It is by very definition an issue, she litterally said she has some "issues"...

And it is not trivial. She wants to know if he has "chill". It's a legitimate question for her in regarding their relationship. trivial would be her having issues with the clothing brand he wore, or the dessert he chose for them. Those he should ignore. Her issue is not trivial.

There is nothing wrong with being nice. not all the time, and don't be a pushover, but when you can consider other's views, while still holding your own, that is a good thing.

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 03:27 PM

This makes sense but is what old me would have done as a logical person. That hasn't been getting me far and is what led me here in the first place.

I just wrote out an apology as a test and I deleted because it just felt like I was trying to sell myself to her.

Surely the best approach is to spend more time with her and just show her that I have another side.

spiritletshereit[S] • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 03:30 PM

My humour works more on girls than it does guys. It's because it's playful rather than clever.

RaccoonJanitor • 1 point • 5 November, 2018 03:34 PM

Yeah I gotcha. you sound cool to me. but i'm also a guy haha.