

[Mod] Announcing a new platform: www.TRP.red

March 4, 2016 | 456 upvotes | by redpillschool

Over the past year or so, I've been dropping hints about a project we've been working on behind the scenes to serve as a backup for TheRedPill if it were to get shut down.

It started when we heard about major subreddits getting shut down for their politically incorrect content, rather than content that violated reddit's content policy. It was clear as day what the reddit administrators' intentions were when evidence needed to be fabricated to justify the closures. "Off-site brigading" was invented as an invisible boogey man to prove that these off-color subreddits needed to go. It wasn't the content itself but they banned the content and continued pretending to be a bastion of free speech.

It was more than a year ago that we started formulating plans to ensure that TRP had a contingency put into place, so that we would not be caught off guard. This was a motto that I've always lived by: "A prudent man never leaves himself with no options."

And so today we unveil our new platform, but with a twist. Some of you caught my announcement last month where I hinted that we were going to be launching something much bigger than a backup forum. Today I am going to announce exactly what the platform is.

TRP.RED

When the backup forums were being put together, and archive scrapes were running, the mod team and a small group of volunteers started the discussion of exactly what, how, and why the new site should operate. It was decided that since we started a subreddit, and our strength is in running a subreddit, that we would ensure that we did not leave reddit unless absolutely necessary. Because of this, we decided the backup forums would be read-only until the day this subreddit was closed. This remains our policy. We are not moving off of reddit unless it becomes necessary.

So what are we launching today?

During the development of our backup forums, a few crucial events took place that brought to our attention the state of social media today. There is absolutely no way around it, every major platform today is either run by social justice warriors, or kowtows to them when confronted.

Twitter began its crusade against conservatives, including men's rights champion Milo Yiannopoulos suggesting massive wide spread censorship and possibly reorganizing feeds so that certain people are not heard. Men face consequences when practicing their right to free speech, which would make any freely speaking man think twice before openly questioning the status quo.

Reddit has continued to demonstrate its questionable commitment to free speech, through two waves of subreddit banning based on content that disagrees with political correctness.

Facebook and the greater social media sphere remains a stronghold for liberal views, even a slight comment that disagrees with the liberal group-think can land you without a job.

There is no question that today's Overton window does not include Red Pill ideology, and the Social Justice Warriors, Feminists, and do-gooders with their fresh liberal arts degrees are working around the clock to exclude any masculine interests from their acceptable speech list. Anything as harmless as a joke about dongles to something with more teeth (like being critical of feminism) has now become hate speech.

And the best way the SJW army has found to stifle male interests is ensuring that any form of communication that serves masculine interests is attacked, demonized, and must be destroyed along with any man who dared to possess such wrong-think.

And so we found ourselves with another niche that we wanted to address that works in conjunction with our original focus of the red pill.

Enter, <https://www.trp.red>

TRP.RED is a new platform designed to foster growth within the manosphere via more instantaneous feedback and increased connection between men, contacts, content producers and consumers.

We provide the framework for our users to set up shop immediately and start connecting with each other, in a similar fashion to social media, but without the dark cloud of social justice censorship looming above us.

The goals we wanted to achieve include:

- We wanted a platform that allowed members to interact on a more casual level and connect in an environment that was more socially driven and less topic driven. We also wanted the ability to connect with individuals instead of the entire community.
- We wanted a way to elevate positive contributions based on merit rather than social standing. We brought in a board of curators who will be helping us highlight quality posts on TRP and our new platform. The Board of curators that includes Rollo Tomassi, Ian Ironwood, IllimitableMan, GayLubeOil, Private Man, and others.
- We wanted a way for people to contribute content to our community and be able to anonymously receive thanks from the community, rather than the current setup, which rewards reddit's bank account when we purchase reddit gold. *We wanted to ensure security, and have spent countless hours pouring over the code and framework to ensure that everyone's privacy will be preserved. Donations by members on our board and IRC have purchased SSL certificates, and security professionals have assisted in code audits.
- We wanted to ensure people could preserve their reddit account if they wanted. The registration system allows you to claim your reddit account as long as you have access to it on reddit.
- And finally, we wanted to make sure not to change the focus or topic of what got us here. This new platform allows us to expand and extend the conversation without detracting from the original purpose of /r/TheRedPill: Discussion of sexual strategy in a culture increasingly lacking a positive identity for men.

The features of our new platform are many and growing.

- Daily Prescription - users can post short public messages or insights with a curated few highlighted to the masses by our board of curators that includes names such as Rollo Tomassi, Ian Ironwood, IllimitableMan, GayLubeOil, Private Man, and others.
- Blogs - users have a secure location to post ideas and thoughts on our new framework, and helps expose their ideas to the greater red pill audience through curation by our board of curators.
- Tips - an anonymous framework for rewarding contributions to the community, you can now send tips for content that you find insightful.
- Community - members can connect with other members directly in conversation-based interactions rather than the formal topic discussions we have on reddit. Much like a social network, this opens the doors for more community and comradery that reddit's form-based interface does not encourage. We intend to add many features during the next few months including a fitness tracker and personalized coaching tool for members to help other members.

We aim for this medium to connect current and future insightful creators with an audience of interested followers instead of putting them in a pool of anti-male censorship and public risk, which is an ever-growing problem facing members of the manosphere today.

Everywhere you turn on the internet today, the stench of Leftist morality poisons discussion. Leaders of nations are called out on the carpet to account for their proclivities. Other nations laugh at the west when they hear news of yet another prominent man losing his career for doing the things that men wish to do, as if our nation would magically be where it is without the work these men have done.

TRP.red is a spearhead against this. We aim to be a communication hub for men that encourages each of their unique contributions to better the understanding of Sexual Strategy, not just lists posts that will get clicks, the latest tinder opener, or shortcuts to becoming "Alpha".

We're not the first pro-male site to take a stand and hopefully we won't be the last. I'm happy to have been involved in the development of this platform and I hope that you find value in it as well.

redpillschool[S] • 14 points • 4 March, 2016 03:43 PM

Thanks for all your countless hours of help Anteros. It's been integral to the launch today.

sickofbeingaffraid • 12 points • 4 March, 2016 10:47 PM

The presidential elections will soon take place here (not the US) and one of the thing candidated debated was "I led more fights for women's rights than you" while wome dont have it bad at all.

I would become insane without the job the mods and people like you put in. So thank you.

[deleted] • 3 points • 4 March, 2016 04:18 PM

Yes. Thank you.

james-watson • 3 points • 7 March, 2016 05:23 PM

I am extremely elated with this development. TRP reddit unfortunately seems to cater mainly to newly unplugged with its emphasis on sexual strategy, but does little for the veteran redpill.

I will be spending more of my time on the new platform, as it seems precisely designed for my interests.

Well done gentlemen.

foldpak111 • 0 points • 6 March, 2016 11:02 PM

We are a laughing stock. We've become so pathetic. Just look at our military.

RedSugarPill • 16 points • 4 March, 2016 07:07 PM

After all that foreplay and teasing, /u/redpillschool and company have finally satisfied my darkest and most hedonistic desires. I am afraid I might blurt out your name next time I climax..

redpillbanana • 61 points • 4 March, 2016 05:07 PM

It's like Twitter, Reddit, and Pinterest decided to join forces to become TRP with some Rollo and GayLubeOil poured on top for an illimitable experience. This is going to give me morning wood that feels like iron.

It's time to go to Red Pill School.

abdada • 12 points • 4 March, 2016 03:43 PM

Damn that Reddit match login is sexy. Did you code that yourself or is it a plugin somewhere?

Also: max bench max squat in user profile is perfect. It asks for an age but a birthdate would be so much better so I don't have to update my age every year.

redpillschool[S] • 23 points • 4 March, 2016 03:45 PM

It asks for an age but a birthdate would be so much better so I don't have to update my age every year.

We wanted it open ended so people could put vague answers, such as "late twenties." We don't want you to sacrifice personally identifying information.

abdada • 4 points • 4 March, 2016 03:47 PM

ah crap that makes sense, thanks for clearing it up.

redpillschool[S] • 11 points • 4 March, 2016 03:44 PM

Coded it myself.

abdada • 6 points • 4 March, 2016 03:47 PM

Damn. I could use this for some of my sites, never realized it was possible. Time to learn the Reddit API now. I just started learning PHP and MySQL 5 weeks ago and already have 2 sites up with code I've hacked. What a rush to sculpt something monetizable.

I'll hit you up for running ads in the very near future.

Soarinc • 2 points • 15 March, 2016 05:11 PM

Is SQL still a goldmine for someone in their late 20's to up and learn?

abdada • 1 point • 15 March, 2016 05:43 PM

No idea but holy shit I understand MySQL now and it's really making my life easy being able to make custom databases for various purposes.

Wish I had learned it 10 years ago.

Soarinc • 1 point • 15 March, 2016 06:53 PM

Ok well I'm trying to get into medical school, and am a really bright, hard-working guy. Is there still a good solid future in that for the next decade or was this decade the honeypot years and will normalize out once everyone jumps on that lucrative bandwagon?

[deleted] • 1 point • 16 March, 2016 11:52 PM

You'll need it for any decent development job and especially if you plan to move beyond that.

desbest • 1 point • 5 March, 2016 03:02 AM

What framework did you use?

GayLubeOil • 25 points • 4 March, 2016 10:47 PM

It's Happening! The more Twitter and Reddit fist themselves out of market share the more we will grow. Have you considered making a phone app? That way we can use geolocation data to set up Red Pill meetups anonymouslyish.

Iv been meeting Red Pillers irl recently and I have to say it an awesome experience.

[deleted] • 25 points • 5 March, 2016 08:23 AM

Swipe me right bro (͡° ͜ʖ ͡°)

redpillschool[S] • 14 points • 4 March, 2016 10:47 PM

Yes, we want a phone app, but it's a future feature.

dr_warlock • 4 points • 6 March, 2016 12:07 PM

and /u/gaylubeoil

We will call it the misogyny convention or thought criminal connect.

but itunes and android will probably take it down. Needs to be more subtle. In addition, purposely give it low ratings so that the mainstream doesnt bother downloading it. Give it a required password, tell only vetted users what it is.

GayLubeOil • 3 points • 4 March, 2016 11:13 PM

You can't get into that sort of competition with GLO. lel

bslizzle • 8 points • 4 March, 2016 04:09 PM

It looks fantastic. Very navigable and I love the links to the different forums at the top right. The connection to reddit accounts makes it much easier, and the social media aspect is cool. Great job to all who worked on the project, and I look forward to further updates.

redpillschool[S] • 3 points • 4 March, 2016 04:10 PM

Thanks bslizzle, we've put a lot of hours into this.

desbest • 3 points • 5 March, 2016 03:12 AM

I found a bug. When browsing the sections from the top bar on the screen, "the red pill network" does not link to trp.red redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 5 March, 2016 03:20 AM

Good find, will fix asap

If you reserved your username on our puerarchy.com reservation system over the past year, your username and password works on this new system. If you are having trouble accessing your reddit name or forgot your password, you can use the forgot password form to reset, or- if you didn't set an email, sent a msg to /u/trpbob from your reddit username you are trying to log into and we'll reset your previous password.

[deleted] • 1 point • 5 March, 2016 01:08 AM

I hit a snag. I forgot my password and went to reset, but it say I do not have an email associated with my account name. When I go to register though it says my account name is already registered. What am I doing wrong?

Nice work, men!

I'm glad you're not trying to run two parallel platforms (Reddit and the new site); that would divide and dilute the content severely.

Is Puerarchy.com going to be set aside now?

redpillschool[S] • 7 points • 4 March, 2016 04:40 PM*

I'm glad you're not trying to run two parallel platforms (Reddit and the new site); that would divide and dilute the content severely.

Agreed, that would be a problem.

Is Puerarchy.com going to be set aside now?

We're going to keep it, as a blog. But yes, trp.red will be our new official off-reddit site.

RedEyesBlueShades • 8 points • 5 March, 2016 02:23 PM

This is awesome news! Thanks for creating this.

You should also add a BTC address for community donations. Server time and all the rest does not come for free... A contribution is the least we can do to thank you.

redpillschool[S] • 3 points • 6 March, 2016 03:58 PM

Agreed. Here it is if anybody wants to make donations. I'll add it to the page too.

redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 4 March, 2016 05:15 PM

Thanks for the recommendation.

Currently you can search the forum archives, and user's comments/posts on <https://www.forums.red/i/>

However status search feature will be in a future update.

How is this site hosted and when someone inevitably reports it as "hosting cp" to the hoster, what is the plan then?

What about DDOS attacks?

Definitely worth waiting for BTW. Grats on all the hard work coming together for everyone.

Feminism is similar to a relationship with a woman. After she gets familiar to you, she starts her agenda to have all the power. The seeds were planted early and, by this time of X year, you are emasculated.

Now, all she will do is see how far she can push until the breaking point. Obviously, she hasn't thought of the consequences. Similar to the criminal who thinks he can rob banks and escape, when there are cameras everywhere (a few can succeed but if they're smart enough, they wouldn't rob the Elites money).

Women aside, I saved all the knowledge I thought useful and put it in word documents. If this isn't what everyone has been doing, then you all could have wasted all your time here in TRP.

Only negative thing to say is about the title. It should read [HNIC] instead.

Scroph • 4 points • 4 March, 2016 06:58 PM

[deleted] • 3 points • 4 March, 2016 11:18 PM

Curious about the websites security, specifically the database. How much is saved, what's the os, basics.

redpillschool[S] • 1 point • 4 March, 2016 11:41 PM*

Linux, passwords individually salted and encrypted. We save latest IP address for abuse purposes only.

TheRedThrowAwayPill • 2 points • 5 March, 2016 04:42 PM

Do not encrypt passwords.

1-way hash them only

redpillschool[S] • 1 point • 5 March, 2016 09:13 PM

Yes it's one way.

TheRedThrowAwayPill • 2 points • 6 March, 2016 05:31 AM

Ok good.

But "encrypt" implies you can "decrypt". That's not one way.

One way hash is like MD5 or SHA256: Garbled and you can't undo it. (You have to hash their login and compare the result.)

redpillschool[S] • 3 points • 6 March, 2016 03:05 PM

Yes sorry, I'm used to using the word encrypt with clients because it's easier to understand, but rest assured it's a one way hash that could never be decrypted.

Reading this convinced me to make an account and start contributing in any way that I can. I was a long term lurker that found TRP after an eventful breakup, and like many of our current members, TRP helped me filter out the bullshit PC that people throw your way these days. TRP IS the breath of fresh air otherwise surrounded by smog, and I wouldn't be where I am today without the help of all of you

alpha_n3rd • 2 points • 4 March, 2016 05:14 PM

No MRP, no thanks

-Anteros- • 5 points • 4 March, 2016 05:31 PM

I assumed it would go without saying, but MRP users (and RPW) are welcome to participate along with users from the sub.

redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 4 March, 2016 05:16 PM

IF MRP wants me to archive their sub, I'll do it.

alpha_n3rd • 6 points • 4 March, 2016 05:31 PM

I can't imagine why they wouldn't. I'm still wondering why, a year and half after unplugging, MRP still isn't linked in the side-bar. I know it's not an "official" TRP sub but OTOH it's been hugely helpful to thousands of married men including myself. The main subs are great for general RP stuff and single guys but MRP is really invaluable for married men.

redpillschool[S] • 16 points • 4 March, 2016 05:47 PM

The reason is simple. I endorse content that I know will stay pure for red pill, information that I know won't lead people astray.

When MRP was young, I participated in a few discussions and weighed in on some threads that were chock full of really, really bad advice. I wasn't trying to be disparaging, only give some quality advice to guys who needed it.

A rogue mod decided they didn't like my advice and banned me from the sub.

While that mod has since stepped down, and I have been unbanned, I can't speak to the quality or future vision that the mods there have for their content, so I'm not comfortable endorsing it at the moment. (I may revisit this and see how things are going.)

We do, however, have a LTR flair, and discussion of married game is entirely on topic.

GuitarMatt99 • 1 point • 10 March, 2016 07:10 PM

It's not a surprise to see that TRP would need a backup plan. Reddit killed off subs like FatPeopleHate and had that feminist CEO. I looked at the link and it looks good. I've tried NMMNG (despite not being a Nice Guy, that was one of the only games in town circa 2004), I tried MGTOW. Too many TFLers talking about lame crap like blow up sex dolls.

So the Red Pill is the only game in town. I still like watching some MGTOW video content. But as far as their forums? It's just give-up-itus to me.

At least this place about about self-improvement. As was said in The Shawshank Redemption "get busy living or get busy dying." (Which is a total rip off of a line from Bob Dylan's "It's All Right Mom I'm Only Bleeding").

In short, RP is about living more than MGTOW. Which is about dying.
