

The Little Things

11 upvotes | 2 August, 2016 | by corsega

I've seen a healthy debate lately arising about the purpose of TRP. Is it about finding yourself as a man? Is it about chasing women? Maybe both?

I'd like to propose an alternate reason to be happy to have swallowed the pill and to continue chasing Red Pill knowledge.

It's the little things.

One of my good friends is ten years my senior. Approaching 40, unmarried, doesn't want kids. We were talking recently about what makes life worth living. He said "What do I have to live for?" I proposed women. His response: "I've slept with over 100 women in my life. It was fun... I guess. But did it have any real meaning?"

My response: "Maybe. Maybe not. But the reason I keep living is for the perfect moments. The little things."

What little things, corsega?

- The way she looks at me when I press her against the wall.
- Returning to my bedroom from the shower and taking in my abs from my full-length mirror.
- The smirk when a plate flakes and I text my backup.
- Ripping my shirt off in bed with a new girl and watching the look at her face as she takes my body in.
- When a girl grabs onto my biceps as I'm fucking her in missionary.
- Saying outrageous bullshit on Tinder and getting the number anyway.
- Her face as she convulses from orgasm with my fingers in her.
- Seducing a woman in a foreign language.
- People at the gym gawking at my chalk-covered hands as I stumble back from a heavy set of deadlifts.
- Quieting the weasel and approaching a beautiful woman on the street for the first time, with no knowledge of how the conversation is going to turn out.
- Doing whatever I want, whenever I want, as my married friends complain about having to go to baby showers with their wives.
- Reading another success story here about a man who has turned his life around.
- Post-coital cuddling and quizzing a new girl about why she decided to fuck me.
- Insisting that I Tinder for her and scrolling through the messages from betas who have talked to her on and off for a week without working up the courage to ask for her number.
- Going out with friends and developing outcome independence to a point where I'm actually happier if I don't go home with a club slut.
- Leaning into a plate's ear as I'm inside her and hearing her moan as I whisper: "I'm going to fuck your asshole next."

It's the little things that make me feel alive.

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

trpthroway123 • 5 points • 2 August, 2016 07:36 PM

Don't forget "playing the 'which girl's hair is this?' game".

When a girl grabs onto my biceps as I'm fucking her in missionary.

I noticed a big bruise on the inside of my bicep this morning. Took me a minute to remember last night's girl squeezed the shit out of my arm when she came. I got a big smile on my face as I thought about how I earned it.

I totally agree, the little things in life are what makes it all worthwhile.

[deleted] • 2 points • 2 August, 2016 07:31 PM

Actually it's quite the opposite. It's the rarest of the rarest things. Imagine working your ass off for 9 years then reaching your goal. Tremendous.

SetConsumes • 2 points • 2 August, 2016 10:09 PM

The little things are nice, but how are they meaningful?

corsega[S] • 3 points • 2 August, 2016 10:34 PM

You're free to assign meaning to anything, no matter how significant or insignificant.

All I know is when reflecting on past experiences, often times it's a look, a scent, a quote, or a sound that sticks out in my memory.

SetConsumes • 2 points • 2 August, 2016 10:36 PM

Sure, but how does it matter outside yourself? How does it tangibly add to your life aside from feeling good?

I mean I appreciate such things too, but I can't see them as meaningful for me anymore than fine dining or going to a show. Fun and cool and sexy is not meaningful.

corsega[S] • 1 point • 2 August, 2016 10:59 PM

How does it tangibly add to your life aside from feeling good?

I live life to feel good.

How do you define meaning, SetConsumes?

SetConsumes • 1 point • 2 August, 2016 11:10 PM

How does it tangibly add to your life aside from feeling good?

I live life to feel good.

Mmm hedonism. If you could be plugged into a machine that always made you feel good and experience whatever you wanted directly in your mind, would you want to be plugged in?

How do you define meaning, SetConsumes?

Things that are meaningful to me add to humanity's knowledge. I don't want to be forgotten, at least not too quickly, and by contributing to humanity I will leave at least some mark from my existence.

corsega[S] • 1 point • 2 August, 2016 11:40 PM

If you could be plugged into a machine that always made you feel good and experience whatever you wanted directly in your mind, would you want to be plugged in?

Yes. Existence is meaningless. I am just another em in the wind.

Things that are meaningful to me add to humanity's knowledge. I don't want to be forgotten, at least not too quickly, and by contributing to humanity I will leave at least some mark from my existence.

Sure, I'd be OK with that. But why not both?

SetConsumes • 1 point • 3 August, 2016 12:43 AM

Yes. Existence is meaningless. Objectively use, but subjective to a species or life itself, not necessarily.

I am just another em in the wind.

haha, awesome. Do you happen to have an ebook of this?

Sure, I'd be OK with that. But why not both?

I'm not against both, but how does pleasure or enjoyment give you meaning? That's what I can't figure out. I've tried to prove it myself before, I couldn't. It doesn't seem to go past 'I like it'. But then is liking something enough for it to be meaningful?

corsega[S] • 1 point • 3 August, 2016 01:36 AM

I recommend buying the book, Hanson has some interesting ideas and deserves your support.

I don't necessarily think pleasure creates meaning, but that's OK. I actually don't really believe anything has meaning.

SetConsumes • 1 point • 3 August, 2016 02:17 AM

ah, good old nihilism.

Why should I buy the book instead of pirate it if nothing has meaning?

corsega[S] • 1 point • 3 August, 2016 02:21 AM

Because I want to believe that things have meaning, and people writing great futurist books may lead to me changing my opinion.

p00pey • -1 points • 3 August, 2016 10:12 AM so you're basically saying your whole life revolves around fucking women? That's literally what you're saying here. Save the 'little things' bullshit, you are basically saying your entire purpose to exist is to fuck women...

sad