

[FR] Fuck her when you have the chance, or become her orbiter forever

176 upvotes | 14 October, 2016 | by corsega

I was folding my laundry today, when, out of nowhere, an embarrassing experience came flooding back from my younger days. Luckily, I have since learned from this moment, and I think other guys will as well, so I'm sharing it here.

If you want the whole story, read below, if you want to skip to the actionable lessons, go all the way to the bottom.

The Story

Years ago, in the pre-Red Pill days, I was living in a different city, far away from home for a few months, and was sharing a house with a friend.

I immediately became connected to this friend's social circle, which included a girl, Sarah. Sarah had a fair bit of slut tells. My friend had revealed in the past that she got around, and he had even hooked up with her. I thought she was cute, but didn't think any more of it.

We saw each other a couple times during the summer, and on one occasion, we went bar-hopping with Sarah as the only girl in a group of guys. A lot of the guys were younger than me, and I was showing them the ropes in approaching girls. I winged for one of them and got these two cute college students to bounce with our group to another bar.

I got to talking with Sarah. Although I didn't know it at the time, preselection was doing its work: she was keenly interested in me and the girls: "So, which one are you going for?" I laughed and explained I was merely winging for my friend and wasn't interested in either. We got to talking about approaching and how it's not normal for girls to approach guys.

"You know, if you didn't live with [our mutual friend] I would have been much more aggressive towards you," she said, poking my stomach. Even in my Blue Pill oblivious days, this was about as clear of an IOI as you could get. But I was too much of a pussy to make a move.

As she drove me and a couple of the other guys back home. I mentioned casually that I was home alone and my two roommates were out of town. Her eyes got as big as dinner plates. She dropped the other guys off and soon it was just us two in the car. 100 meters away from my house, she starts to say, "You know...never mind." I laughed.

- "You know what?"
- "Nothing."
- "Sarah, I'm not getting out of this car until you tell me what you were going to say."
- She sighs, meekly: "You know, you could just come home and sleep in my bed, if you wanted to."
- "Wait, you're attracted to me?" my oblivious self was confused.

She then went on to explain how she was trying to test me all summer by throwing tons of IOIs my way, all of which I was completely oblivious to (Example: once, while sitting down at a picnic bench, she laid her head down on my lap to see what I would do. Answer: nothing).

I ended up going home with her, but even then I was reticent to make a move. She basically forced me to kiss her, and we left it at that. We slept in the same bed, made out a little bit, talked a lot, but never had sex.

Soon after, I left that city and went back home. We continued to communicate occasionally via text and chat, but never anything flirty.

Six months later, I visited my friend again. This was to be my time, I decided. I contacted Sarah and pitched dinner at her place. I was giving pretty clear "We are going to make dinner, and then fuck" signals. She seemed receptive, but as we were coordinating logistics, she dropped the bomb.

- "Are you staying at [friend's house]?"
- "My stuff is there, I can do whatever."
- "Okay. Just trying to think. I am supposed to mayyyybe hang out with a friend later tonight."

Womanese translation: You are going to cook dinner for me, and I am going to fuck Chad later tonight, not you, because you are in the friend zone.

And that's exactly what happened. We cooked dinner, we laughed, we joked, I went home.

Do I regret this happening?

Not really. I learned my lesson, eventually found TRP, and went on to fuck fifteen other women that year.

Sarah and I are friends now, and I'm OK with that. The sporadic times we talk, I'm reminded of my the past before the Pill.

The Lessons

Recognize IOIs

I used to be terrible at this. It's always fun to talk to girls I've thought of as friends in the past and have them say: "Remember when we did [x]? I really wanted to fuck you that night." I remember went to the movies with a "friend" when I was 19 and she invited me back to her place at 3 AM to watch another movie, then asked about my sex life. I didn't make a move (in a related story, she confessed how badly she wanted me many years later, then I tried to fuck her and she turned me down).

If a girl wants to fuck you, she will LET IT BE KNOWN. Touching you, maintaining eye contact with you, putting her head in your lap are minor IOIs. If you don't pick up on these, aggressive girls will even make it as clear as possible, like inviting you over to their place. You want to bang them? Act on these and escalate.

Take the Lead

I had a number of chances to take the lead with Sarah. I could have initiated contact before, I could have escalated her IOIs, I could have invited her to my place that night, and even after I was at her place, I could have grabbed her roughly, started kissing her, and threw her down on the bed.

But I didn't. I blew it. I forced her to show her cards, to lead me, and it turned her off.

You are the man. It is your job to lead.

Leaving the Friend Zone is Nigh-Impossible

I failed the litany of opportunities Sarah presented me with to show I was a man, to show I was capable of taking the lead, and thus I was friend-zoned forever. Not even my newfound alpha behavior six months later could change that.

Luckily, I didn't let it affect me. I "next"ed her as a potential partner and focused on other women.

Eventually, I found TRP and the entire machinations behind the story and her behavior were revealed to me.

I hope the small amount of cringe at my expense will benefit someone who reads this and ends up in a similar situation.

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

trippymofoAF • 48 points • 14 October, 2016 09:08 PM

Those moments are special, especially post-TRP when you randomly flash back to a memory and you have it figured out now what the girl was actually communicating but you were so blind to the obvious, it feels like a time-vacuum.

But on the other hand girls give out these so called "signs" that they think are obvious attraction signs to us but in reality it's stuff like "I sat next to you that one time in a previous life", to her it's a IOI but to you it could be a IOI or just a random gesture that people do.

Either way if you like a chick make your move and see the outcome.

[deleted] • 21 points • 14 October, 2016 10:29 PM

[permanently deleted]

electricqueer • 1 point • 18 October, 2016 07:20 AM

Why are you lowSMV if you don't act on it. I get IOI's from girls daily & I don't have time to fuck 'em all but it gives me a boost of confidence.

corsega[S] • 14 points • 14 October, 2016 09:26 PM

it feels like a time-vacuum.

Perfect description.

What's hilarious (and sad) to me is that this situation happened to me with three different girls in the pre-Red Pill days.

Besides Sarah, there was the movie girl that said "I really want to make out with you but I'm just getting over my boyfriend" even after inviting me to her house to (surprise, surprise) cook dinner, and even after her SMV has massively declined since then while mine has risen. All because I didn't make the move back when we were 19.

There was also, and I hadn't even connected the dots until sitting down to write this post, a Mexican girl I met while I was abroad that was crazy about me at the time, giving me tons of IOIs over chat on Facebook that I never picked up on, and finally had to be super direct with me and tell me she liked me. I then turned kind of beta and started expressing these emotions to her, and had her up to the US to visit me for a few days, and the very first day I actually hooked up with her, but ended up not being able to stay hard. Unsurprisingly, she turned cold towards me for the rest of the trip and wouldn't have sex with me again even when I tried to initiate. Friendzoned.

All three girls are like gravestones in the cemetery of my Blue Pill conditioning. But that's OK, because there are 3.5 billion women on this earth.

trippymofoAF • 4 points • 14 October, 2016 09:52 PM

They are simply lessons learned never to be repeated again. But I also think it's sort of a experience threshold and an age thing as much as it is RP. The more experience you have and are at ease with women the easier you make moves and make no big deal out of them even if they reject you, over time rejection doesn't even bother you it just happens and you move on.

But I also think that age is a huge factor, you mature, get experience, get more knowledge and make moves easier, I remember when I was around 19 and even younger that I had a really tough time making moves, heck even last year (20) I had a girl basically devote her whole attention to me and us talking and touch and shit in a night club, then we went alone on a park bench got to talking about sex and shit, and I didn't even bother to make a move, such a dumbass, whereas now I'd have a higher chance of dying in such a situation than not making a move.

It's a sort of system where you get a negative experience and a positive one, so you have two outcomes, you compare that with your knowledge and get it in line with your thoughts, and next time you come out much better, like everything in life.

TheThingsIThink • 29 points • 14 October, 2016 10:48 PM [recovered]

From a woman's POV you friendzone yourself and the rejection stings her. She tells you in perfectly fluent womanese that she wants to fuck and you shit on her self esteem.

MattyAnon • 26 points • 15 October, 2016 02:37 AM

tells you in perfectly fluent womanese

What annoys me about this, is that they believe that a coy smile means "fuck me now" to guy A, but they also believe that exactly the same coy smile means "just friends" to guy B.

Women do not communicate subtly.... they communicate ambiguously.

Auvergnat • 13 points • 15 October, 2016 06:31 AM

They must maintain plausible deniability. Men can be turned off by slut tells and her reputation in that matter must be safe

JTPish • 5 points • 15 October, 2016 08:12 AM

This is why you have to make the move and assert yourself. There is always a potential opportunity. Many times in the past I have backed off and lost the opportunity forever. But now with RP knowledge even if I don't know for sure if I am reading her right, I know I should continue to escalate until I am given a clear stopping point.

This yields quite a few turn downs, a few awkward friend situations...but it also has paid off significantly with positive responses and results.

[deleted] • 4 points • 15 October, 2016 03:39 PM

Their solipsism leads them to think that everyone else is thinking/feeling what they are. So, the doofus/stud should know what she means. Otherwise, they are just another one of the "dumb men" that women get in groups and have a laugh over.

OmegaMan2 • 4 points • 15 October, 2016 01:50 PM*

Sorry but young men don't speak womanese. A few nuclear rejections and with his self confidence in the dumps, the young man won't be approaching or making a move on anyone.

Expectations1 • 21 points • 15 October, 2016 02:13 AM

Once you fuck her you can always fuck her again, if you dont ...well..op's story sums it up a_nus • 13 points • 15 October, 2016 02:25 AM [recovered]

Leaving the Friend Zone is Nigh-Impossible

I've done it plenty of times. You always need to take some "time off" though. Like not seeing them for a couple of months or years, then having a re-encounter.

clear_lights • 4 points • 15 October, 2016 08:15 AM

You always need to take some "time off" though.

If by "time off", you mean going to monk mode and raising your SMV through the roof, then I agree. But it's extremely difficult to get friendzoned when you check all the right boxes unless you blatantly friendzone yourself (i.e. absolutely disqualify the girl and tell her to fuck off). Even then, you are still in control and you can get out when you wish just by playing it off as a joke then re-escalating. Girls simply can't deny a Chad in their life.

a_nus • 3 points • 15 October, 2016 11:24 AM [recovered]

Not sure what monk mode even means now, but what I'm referring to is just a simple break in contact.

For example: say she last saw you 2011 when you were a beta scrub. You then went to study abroad.

During that time you learned how to socialize, groom yourself, and have started lifting (doesn't even have to be impressive #s, just the sense that you have a fitness goal.) You barely had contact with her during this time. When you come back on 2012 or 2013, you'll inevitably meetup and she'll see the "new you."

That's when the tingles window reopens. But even after the re-encounter, if you wait too long, the window closes and you're stuck in the fzone again.

king_of_red_alphas • 1 point • 15 October, 2016 07:15 PM

This is absolutely true. The break in contact can act as a reset to the friend zone.

Why? Probably because they have held the image of your look and attitude of your beta friend zone self in the time you were out of touch. They essentially have painted a static picture of you.

When you see them, if you've improved physically or mentally enough it can create a "Holy Shit, he's different now! He's obviously a new man and is doing [insert high value thing] now. He's also shown that his trend is to get BETTER not worse like most guys"

In reality if you had done those exact same things while lingering around her she would have only seen the incremental changes and possibly the effort and sacrifice you made to get there. Not sexy.

Now, if you go no contact and come back as a sad sack - you are getting thrown right back in the box.

OneRedYear • 2 points • 15 October, 2016 05:35 PM

PUA, MRA, and MGTOW never understood this one simple trick for getting out the friendzone. The 6 month no contact, SMV improvement reset. Worked 3 times out of 3 for me. Each time I realized she wasn't worth the effort and I moved on to better things.

Nyghtshroude • 12 points • 14 October, 2016 10:22 PM

Yeah women have a very small window for men to sleep with them. Once it's gone, it's GONE

[deleted] • 17 points • 14 October, 2016 09:44 PM

im confused as to how you have the balls to approach randoms in the bar, let alone teach other guys about it, but can't recognize these IOI's. seriously, the head in lap one and the poking you in the stomach one were dead giveaways.

corsega[S] • 13 points • 14 October, 2016 10:01 PM

Two reasons:

I've always been bad at recognizing IOIs

and

I've always been more confident with strangers than with people in my social circle. The times I had hooked up with girls previously were all strangers. The second IOI was pretty clear to me, but I was still reticent to move in on her because of her proximity to my friend and his social circle. Learned my lesson on that one.

BENDERisGRREAT • 3 points • 15 October, 2016 05:33 AM

Im the opposite, so I need to know what the fuck you say to these random women at bars because its exhausting trying to converse with idiots. And thats not even accounting for the 178 decibel music in every fucking bar

corsega[S] • 1 point • 15 October, 2016 03:37 PM

Situational opener. I remember that approach clearly, one of the girls was wearing a Grateful Dead shirt (yeah, she was unusually hot for a deadhead) and I made a comment about it.

TheJunkieMonk • 5 points • 15 October, 2016 09:58 AM

This guy is me. I was the same case. Afraid as shit of making bold moves and moving on with IOI's but I'd go out and get countless numbers and wing my friends just for the "cool guy" factor. They were amazed but only I knew how fucking anxious I was of taking things further, lmao.

grandmazboy • 7 points • 15 October, 2016 05:02 AM

Just the other day my roommate's fwb and I were chatting in my kitchen and after I said something tasted like an orgasm is my mouth she lets out:

"I wanna orgasm in your mouth.."

Followed by uncontrollable giggling and "oh my god I never said that, that never happened". I just smirk and give her the 'I would totally fuck you but it's never gonna happen' look.

ReddittFeist • -1 points • 15 October, 2016 12:40 PM

LOL She was pulling back the curtain just a crack to reveal the Secret Society to you.

With that look you showed yourself to be an outsider.

hivemond • 3 points • 15 October, 2016 01:10 PM [recovered]

With that look you showed yourself to be an outsider.

Are you saying he responded the wrong way with his 'I would totally fuck you but it's never gonna happen' look ?

grandmazboy • 1 point • 16 October, 2016 12:53 AM

Right? I think he missed something because I proved the opposite. I don't need her, she knows I fuck...

empatheticapathetic • -1 points • 15 October, 2016 03:24 PM

He would like the sex. She wants the drama. Not worth it.

favours_of_the_moon • 6 points • 15 October, 2016 03:30 AM

She was disappointed.

She got her hopes up, didn't get satisfaction.

But BTW, that's fine. SHE, is not The Prize.

[deleted] • 3 points • 15 October, 2016 04:04 PM

If a girl puts her head on my lap, how do I make that into a move? I'm trying to picture any real smooth motions to get things going but can't.

corsega[S] • 5 points • 15 October, 2016 04:42 PM

Touch her. Let your hands rest somewhere on her body. Start running your hands through her hair.

Don't acknowledge that you're doing any of this. Continue talking to whoever it is you're talking with, or doing whatever it is you're doing.

MattyAnon • 5 points • 15 October, 2016 02:34 AM

But I didn't. I blew it. I forced her to show her cards, to lead me, and it turned her off.

Yup... women are children. You have to spoon-feed them everything.

Imyourbuddy • 2 points • 15 October, 2016 07:26 AM

Had a similar situation happen to me. I was out doing Army shit and was texting/snapchatting this girl for awhile that I met before I left. She was down to go out for dinner but since I was out here doing bullshit, I told her wouldnt be back by the end of the month. (Im Reserves so I was only gone to do AT for 1 month). I went kinda radio silent after we made those plans so maybe that's why, but once I got back and hit her up she went radio silent on me. Like seriously silent. Not reply to anything whatsoever. So oh well. Life goes on. I got cucked by the Army.

Anyways, back to OP's post. Yes what he said is very true. I've figured there is a small timeframe window you need to decide. Double thinking and backtracking and "waiting it out" will not work as it will be too late.

mummersfarce_is_done • 2 points • 15 October, 2016 09:01 AM*

This is BP conditioning at it's highest. You think to yourself that you are a sex obsessed pig and the girl is a saint. But you two are also equal and the same in every aspect (lol). Thinking in solipsism, obviously you would escalate if you desired someone, so you expect the girl would do the same. Being the meek weak creature she is, she needs to do begin it first. It can be considered harassment if you, the big brute do it; because she would be too intimidated to refuse your advances. You, being the healthy human being, don't want to unintentionally harass another human being, especially a most innocent member of the fair sex. To do so would be to act like a psychopath or an asshole.

In the end you expect her to escalate, to lead. After all, isn't this what happens in most movies?

I think the reason why psychopaths and assholes get laid more often is not mostly due to merit, but because of immunity.

ColmM36 • 2 points • 15 October, 2016 05:42 PM

Oh man. These moments are gold.

When i was 17 I had the hots for this chick. She gave me hints and shit and I was oblivious, and too chicken to make a move.

So anyway, one time she actually asks me to go grab something to eat one day. So we do. Later we're walking around town, and she takes me to a secluded alleyway with a nice bench, where no one was going to disturb us. We sat, and I decided to tell her how I feel. Needless to say we stopped talking shortly after that.

My Lord, looking back is literally a hnnnnng moment.

skeptixon • 2 points • 15 October, 2016 11:08 PM

Unfortunately I can relate to this so much.

Question is, is there anyway back? Anyway to reopen that closed door? And no nexting is not an option

I'm thinking of straight out saying I feel attracted to said girl corsega[S] • 1 point • 16 October, 2016 12:15 AM

I'm thinking of straight out saying I feel attracted to said girl

Don't do that. You are pretty much fucked if "next"ing is not an option.

OmegaMan2 • 2 points • 16 October, 2016 10:59 AM

This post certainly hit home for me.

In my younger days I was making out with a chick but didn't know how to escalate to sex. In frustration she finally asks if I'm ready for bed. I responded by telling her that I wasn't tired.

Needless to say I didn't get laid that night.

[deleted] • 1 point • 15 October, 2016 09:30 PM

Good post.

I've left the friend zone three times, so it's far from impossible. But the lesson is that with each one I should have kept them friends.