TL;DR - this is where we slow-clap edit: Reddit won't permit me to post links. The interface/script flat out rejects it. Until then, here's the link:

Was there supposed to be a link?

Maybe it's a haiku?

oldredder[S] • 1 point • 3 February, 2016 06:51 PM

Indeed. The script isn't working so every time a link is posted it just doesn't insert. I had 10 downloads going so until now I couldn't even click back on the window.

I don't have time to stop all my downloads to post a link only to see the reddit script fail entirely and re-edit. I post a thing, set 10 downloads and leave to do laundry, dinner & sleep.

Awesome? He practically stole from those people.

When you see your exit from the plantation you fucking run. That's just how it is. If the gates fall open or are left open and just one slave makes it out free, I still applaud that slave even if the others are left behind.

But that's not what he did. He gained the other slaves trust, got them to help him open the gates together with him, and then he shut the gates behind himself the second he was through.

how many other lottery tickets were bought? I don't care. They didn't "trust" him, they threw money at something random.

The only one with a reason to bitch is the wife because now he doesn't need her plantation and he's not returning.

Retard sandwiches must be delicious.

Greetings1 • 2 points • 3 February, 2016 02:24 PM

Especially with idiot sauce.

You can fuck right off, then.

Scripts will not let me post a link. The interface accepts one but then no link happens no matter what goes in that field.
