I think this post is a shit test. Ignore it in order to withhold validation from the woman who posted it.

...but wait. The post is telling us to ignore it, so by ignoring the post, we are giving this woman exactly the validation she wants. Damn. My head just exploded. What is the proper response to this shit test?

Well the bad news is, automoderator can't really differentiate between in-sub reddit urls and other subreddits' urls without blacklisting.

I think for now, we just leave all urls to reddit off.

I think this is not a post test, this is a test about how many would respond to being ignored, the affection that being ignored builds, just like a dog that wants your attention even more when you ignore him.
