

Mia Khalifa Wants Her Videos Removed

June 29, 2020 | 1507 upvotes | by imabadasstrustme

---

So Mia Khalifa has started a petition to get her pornhub videos removed and it has garnered 1.1 million signatures.

This is the same girl whose entire claim to fame was being a pornstar, the reason she has a following, a career ANYTHING is because of those videos.

Its such a parallel of how girls will go through a massive slut phase in college or in their 20s but the moment they want to settle down they want that phase ERASED. IT DOESN'T COUNT!!!

They want to enjoy having endless pleasurable sex with multiple guys and then preserve their image as an innocent pure virgin. They want to eat their cake and have it to.

[Mia Khalifa has previously cursed out interview hosts who have asked about her pornstar career.] (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5ef7pAZtBKo>) On the Lance Armstrong podcast she talks about how much she regrets doing porn and was "taken advantage of" for doing it and being paid so little. But she was paid market rate... And chose to do it... Along with additional videos after the fact... It literally the equivalent of a retroactively withdrawing consent.

Also its not like she has a new life and career. Her current brand is not that distant from her pornstar image, her patreon is softcore porn shoots and she constantly sells calendars and photoshoots in lingerie. And best of all there are 1.1 million white knights ready to assure that version of reality and support her. There is no personal responsibility if you are a women. There are enough horny blue pill guys that think that trying to erase a girls history will give them a chance with her. We're in the simp generation.

You really can't make this shit up ☐

[deleted] • 95 points • 29 June, 2020 05:07 PM

you'd be hard pressed to make up some ridiculous story that was any less ridiculous or extreme than what people do/think in real life anymore.

empatheticapathetic • 30 points • 29 June, 2020 05:28 PM

Every corner is so polarised. It's a bummer

[deleted] • 32 points • 29 June, 2020 05:40 PM

understatement of the fucking century.

I have up trolling over 10 years ago because basically people were so polarized and emotionally charged, one it wasn't a challenge, two people get so upset so easy its just not fun anymore. Oh and three people don't actually learn from the irony of a good troll, just enraged.

And in a more practical way its made civil conversations impossible in a majority of social contexts now. Which is just, yeah a bummer

Impalmator • 14 points • 30 June, 2020 03:25 AM

I made the mistake of suggesting TRP to a poster who got dumped and was seeking advice on reddit. I immediately got chased away by a horde of pitchfork bearing eunuchs and their dominas. I just put the link, nothing else.

ghosthumper_69 • 24 points • 30 June, 2020 06:04 AM

Well..now you know why we don't talk about fight club lol

arokosi • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 05:18 AM

Lol trolling has definitely been diminishing in returns these past few years, but I feel like in 2010 it was at least still doable.

[deleted] • 2 points • 30 June, 2020 04:55 PM

its never not doable, you just have to be creative. Lazy trolls were always a thing. Its certainly not very much fun anymore, because most everyone takes everything very seriously, very little range of expression is allowed. Still doable though, but it has to not look like a troll, and most people think trolling is synonymous with being an asshole.

The definition changed, like many other words.

vwowv • 13 points • 29 June, 2020 07:16 PM

Another reason I read almost exclusively non-fiction. At least by choice. Most of non-fiction has become fiction.

[deleted] • 4 points • 29 June, 2020 07:25 PM

stranger than fiction

vwowv • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 07:43 PM*

stranger than fiction = as strange as reality strange fiction is watered down, technically wrong reality.

[deleted] • 5 points • 29 June, 2020 08:34 PM

no the saying stranger than fiction comes from the concept that there are things in real life that are so extreme, so unusual, that its stranger than anything anyone has ever written down.

We're in a time right now where even peoples dystopian stories of how societies could have gone, would have never been able to predict the sheer absurdity of what people are saying. Idiocracy maybe came the closest, but minus all the logical political fallacies.

ebaymasochist • 3 points • 30 June, 2020 03:11 AM the saying stranger than fiction comes from the concept that there are things in real life that are so extreme, so unusual, that its stranger than anything anyone has ever written down.

Yes. There's a certain point in the plot where it's not believable anymore and detracts from the overall quality of the story. But real life doesn't care about the story, shit just happens lol

arokosi • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 05:19 AM

Yeah there's a saying -- in fiction, you can do the impossible but not the implausible. Opposite of reality.

cookiemountain18 • 826 points • 29 June, 2020 04:52 PM

If she actually cared, she'd stop using her porn name.

She just does this for free publicity.

BasilevsNihili • 222 points • 29 June, 2020 05:20 PM

She first made up a persona of her being a victim for the choices she freely made. Now she still uses the name that gave her fame but at same time wants to erase it's source. This 'lady' be milking all the possible ways feasible to get free attention and validation.

Anonymous2k18 • 69 points • 29 June, 2020 09:02 PM

She's most likely just covertly trying to get more sales and value in her current hustle because nobody wants to pay for a huge tease when they could just go watch her getting railed by 5 dudes.

Oh, maybe it is - I'm not sure.

That chick from iDeepThroat had a family and disappeared. I doubt she goes by 'Heather' even if that is her real name.

Theorymeltfool1 • 39 points • 29 June, 2020 06:05 PM

Here's an example of someone leaving their porn past behind. Doubt the husband gets anal though.

She was making $30,000 a month, owned a $10 million mansion in Malibu with a Ferrari, a nightclub, two Escalades and a house in Oswego, N.Y.

30k a month?! And to think that there is even more money in religion...

ebaymasochist • 14 points • 30 June, 2020 03:21 AM

With $30000 a month you don't own a 10 million mansion in Malibu and a Ferrari unless you can keep doing that for 100 years. Either she's a vampire or those numbers are bullshit

She might have been helping someone launder money and they put her name on some shit or this was when they were lending $350k mortgages to strawberry pickers.

Wouldn't be surprised if her night club was a big drug den for people to bang hookers either. Porn and organized crime go together quite often.

It's not. I've met her IRL but I'll respect her wishes of keeping her real name relatively unknown.

That said, if she really wants all this shit to go away, she needs to delete social media altogether and live like a normal person.

bsutansalt • 9 points • 30 June, 2020 03:42 PM

I did research so you guys don't have to. Her PH channel is in fact still up. If she were serious that'd be the first thing taken down.

rprookie • 36 points • 29 June, 2020 07:01 PM

I don't know who made Mia A top pornstar but she is fucking ugly bro.

chanandlerbong420 • 80 points • 29 June, 2020 07:03 PM

Don't be ridiculous, she's incredibly far from being ugly. That being said there are hundreds of hotter pornstars, idk how she got to number one.

[deleted] • 44 points • 29 June, 2020 07:06 PM

I think she was very unique, cute brown girl with big boobs/ass with high production value videos. Compare that to the massive number of white/spanish girls in porn. There are actually less than 10 brown pornstars and most of them aren't really attractive.

I feel like she catered to the massive global audience, which is mostly brown. I would love to see metrics for which countries made her the number 1 pornstar in the world.

ramaga • 9 points • 29 June, 2020 09:42 PM

That's a really interesting take. I'd just written a post asking why this average-at-best chick was so popular, and I think you explained it. As an American, it's sometimes easy to forget I live in a global market that has different standards and tastes than I.

[deleted] • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 04:57 PM

I don't think it's a matter of preference, just something different that takes advantage of the more repressed fantasies a big part of porn viewers have.

[deleted] • 14 points • 29 June, 2020 08:35 PM

well, she probably has a fatwa against her and the west digs that

She must know contractually she has zero recourse.

imabadasstrutme[S] • 118 points • 29 June, 2020 04:55 PM*

Exactly and how normalized it is. It honestly reveals how pathetic the men in those relationships are and how little control of their household they have. Almost no man LIKES the fact there women is whoring themselves out. So the real issue is they are so whipped they don't have the courage to stand up to her and not allow her to do it. They know if they dare challenge her, she will leave him and there's no way he'll find another women.

Jesse from Simple Pickup was a pickup artist and his girlfriend Kel used to post on gonewild Or the famous iDubbz girlfriend who sells nudes on her OnlyFans that he happily accepts. It shows that these alpha youtubers are just performing for the camera and are complete beta chodes in their real life.

Oh and fun fact about Simple Pickup, that super hot girl Kel dumped Jesse and started fucking his best friend and business partner Kong. Could make a whole post about that shit show.

Typical_Connection • 61 points • 29 June, 2020 05:55 PM

The thing is, it's less of a being pussy whipped issue (although that is still correct), and more of a not properly vetting women issue.

Let's get real, if you wife up a girl that wants to post nudes/do porn whatever, she's gonna do that shit. It doesn't matter how masculine or alpha you are, that's the type of woman she is.

Being a pussy whipped schlub leads more so to branch swinging, yeah you could prevent that. Her posting nudes however, especially for money? Hoes gonna hoe bro. Vet better.

throwwayhubu • 16 points • 29 June, 2020 06:17 PM

No, a woman does not have intrinsic goals or volition. Women do what they see other women do, thats why there are no fucking female pioneers. Testosterone codes for risk taking pioneering behaviour, estrogen codes for group think. It is defeatist to say that a womans behaviour is rail roaded a certain direction. The only constant in a woman is hypergamy.

Typical_Connection • 24 points • 29 June, 2020 06:44 PM

You're thinking too deep into it. This isn't about goals or anything like that. It's about women seeking validation and the lengths some women will go to vs others for said validation.

HillaryLostTheEC • 8 points • 29 June, 2020 09:42 PM

If Mia Khalifa wants her porn to be taken down then she should have to lead a campaign against porn and girls whoring themselves out.

[deleted] • 47 points • 29 June, 2020 05:08 PM

im totally fine with women whoring themselves out. Just not if im in a relationship with them. Otherwise its their business.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 31 points • 29 June, 2020 05:13 PM

Exactly A1.

I have the same thing with opinion about body positivity or whatever. Women are allowed to feel good about themselves at any size. They are allowed to "feel attractive" at any size. But that doesn't mean that I will be attracted to them.

[deleted] • 10 points • 29 June, 2020 05:33 PM

this, is one of the most obvious things that should have been sacred, that is now constantly decried as internal sexism or racism or some other bullshit trope.

Your aughts don't make an is. (aught vs is paradigm if your not aware of the analogy, or the is/aught problem)

BurningOrangeHeaven • 13 points • 29 June, 2020 05:19 PM

That mentality is what has led us to this point in the first place though lmao.

flacko_red • 25 points • 29 June, 2020 06:12 PM

Dafuq? A sloop has the right to sloop. Just like us, women like sex too. There isn't shit we can do about it. If you want to limit their rights head off to some Muslim country. Ridiculous to expect the government to keep your sloots in line for you.

BurningOrangeHeaven • 14 points • 29 June, 2020 06:26 PM

? I didn't say anything about government intervention at this point, you're acting like I'm advocating a slut tax or something.

I don't believe we should have shifted to a social acceptance of sluts, as I believe it leads to negative effects in the long run.

flacko_red • 9 points • 29 June, 2020 06:46 PM

Ahh this makes more sense. Guess I misinterpreted you. Your point does make sense about the negative effects of the social acceptance. But I don't think any other option was ever going to be feasible. It seems like acceptance of sloots was going to be inevitable when you factor in the feminist movement and equal rights and all that shit.

Tbh this is difficult for me. On one hand every guy wants hookup culture but it conflicts with my religious views(catholic).

Also while many men probably don't openly have a big problem with sloots, I doubt anyone wants their daughter to be one. If we're being honest here, I don't think it's in women's best interest to be sloots either, or in the long term at least.

BurningOrangeHeaven • 8 points • 29 June, 2020 07:02 PM

Im not religious but your points make sense. And yeah i didnt bring up daughters etc in my replies to other people because not everyone wants kids but i do agree.

grad14uc • 9 points • 29 June, 2020 11:54 PM

I doubt there's a significant overlap of people who will tell you they are perfectly fine with slutty women and would be okay if their wife/daughter were also in that category.

'I won't shame you but I also don't want you' seems to be the unspoken side effect of this social acceptance, at least amongst guys that aren't desperate.

[deleted] • 21 points • 29 June, 2020 05:31 PM

to what point?

Women absolutely have every right to do whatever the fuck they want with their bodies. Same goes for guys.

People will always be able to take a good thing and push it to their extremes and turn it into a bad thing. It doesn't mean that every practice that leads to someone abusing it, is a bad practice. Imagine if people said that about drugs, or cops, or dogs. People making the choice to own pets is what led us to this point that people are bitten by domestic animals every day in this country. What an avoidable tragedy.

BurningOrangeHeaven • 9 points • 29 June, 2020 05:59 PM

You are basically saying in your previous comment, its fine if they are hoes as long as MY girl isn't a hoe. That's fine when you only look at it like that but it distorts whats acceptable in a larger scale and over time that acceptance is what has lead us to many of the current situations we see occurring - in my opinion.

[deleted] • 6 points • 29 June, 2020 06:08 PM

its fine if anyone is a hoe that isn't in a relationship. Cheating isn't almost ever ok.

Theres nothing wrong with promiscuity in and of itself. Especially now since the spread of disease is far less of a problem.

BurningOrangeHeaven • 12 points • 29 June, 2020 06:21 PM

Theres nothing wrong with promiscuity in and of itself.

I mean - isn't it directly related to increases in things like single moms, teen pregnancy etc?

Especially now since the spread of disease is far less of a problem.

I don't think this is true. The CDC says stds have been rising in the last 5 years at least. I've also seen people saying stuff like "its not a big deal bro its treatable now" - which isn't really a financial or health burden you want to take on but people ignore that part.

[deleted] • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 06:33 PM*

on the rise recently, doesn't mean that its anywhere remotely close to where STD infection rates were before contraceptives.

The rates of teen pregnancy has gone up with the rise of civil rights, that doesn't mean that its a direct cause. There are other factors that influence things like teen pregnancy (im assuming were not talking about kids being promiscuous) than a promiscuous culture. Adolencent pregnancy for example is WAY more tightly correlated with wealth. Poorer countries have way more kids at a younger age.

BurningOrangeHeaven • 3 points • 29 June, 2020 06:42 PM

I don't have much more to add on my thoughts.

Just wanted to say that I'm not the one who down voted your replies to me.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 12 points • 29 June, 2020 05:30 PM

Not attacking genuinely asking, so you think that we should limit people's rights to create an "ideal" society for all men?

I think as men we should just get to the top of the social hierarchy and then pick and choose the women we want. For us to pity ourselves and complain to change all of society for our needs we are just as bad as the radical feminists.

BurningOrangeHeaven • 0 points • 29 June, 2020 06:22 PM

so you think that we should limit people's rights to create an "ideal" society for all men?

In a more general sense and not just related to the issue of this thread, I do think limits on freedoms are needed. I think the way this virus is playing out here is showing us that many people don't know whats good for them let alone others.

For the second part of your comment I agree, but I think getting to the top and picking what you want is already enough to influence whats acceptable. I don't actively go to rally's or anything so its not like I'm saying we should be out in the streets.

I replied more to the other guy.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 3 points • 29 June, 2020 07:38 PM

Yeah I think we may have fundamental disagreement on the role of government which is fine. Like I agree that this crisis has shown there is a need for limits on freedom, I just don't trust other humans to create and enforce those limits on freedom. If there was some omnipotent flawless god that could impose limits I'm all for that, but that's not the case.

The same reason you think we need limits on freedom: dumb humans, is the reason I don't think we should have limits on freedom: because dumb humans would create/define those limits.

w0d3h0us3 • 6 points • 29 June, 2020 05:23 PM

Damn. I had no idea about the whole Kel and Kong hook up! I used to follow SP quite religiously and it was my gateway into PU when I was young.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 9 points • 29 June, 2020 05:32 PM

Yeah it was really sad when I found out. They were like my role models getting into PU, only to realize they were just great marketers and probably garbage with women. They made prank videos asking for numbers and pretended they were "pickup masters".

How else can you explain being so desperate for a women that you would steal your best friends 8 year LTR? If Kong was in abundance he would be able to easily meet someone else.

beginner_ • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 06:14 PM

So the real issue is they are so whipped they don't have the courage to stand up to her and not allow her to do it. They know if they dare challenge her, she will leave him and there's no way he'll find another women.

I think it's more about actually knowing she is doing it. Once they now, not many will actually tolerate it, right, right?

imabadasstrustme[S] • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 06:27 PM

lol well the two examples I gave are two guys who accepted it and most of the girls on Only Fans have boyfriends so I think yes there are tons of guys who tolerate it.

Selfmade1219 • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 07:27 PM

LethalShade • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 09:22 PM

imabadasstrustme[S] • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 09:34 PM

Yeah I have a ton more information on the Simple Pickup thing. No Jesse got fired soon after Kel dumped him, apparently he was moping around the office for weeks before they let him go.

He's since started another dating company where he blatantly lies in his marketing about dating models while using stock images, fake tinder results and basically used his hot ex as proof of his results. She ended up suing him to get him to take it down.

TheGreatConst • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 06:14 AM

While I agree with most of what you said, but there are gigolos who marry pornstars or other famous rich women, just using them for sex and money. It also gives them an additional excuse to fuck other women. Honestly, if you aren't someone who can earn millions by yourself and don't care that much about building a healthy family, then it isn't such a bad choice. It is one thing to sponsor a slut and the other to be sponsored by one. While you can say that "a man should be able to earn on his own", but some guys can be very good with getting women while being very bad with getting money.

WhiteGhosts • 7 points • 29 June, 2020 08:49 PM

It's pathetic but what's even more pathetic is that when you call them out you're sexist.

Theorymeltfool1 • 7 points • 29 June, 2020 05:34 PM

That's cucked behavior, I'm not interested in it (well, at least not in someone I marry).

ramaga • 6 points • 29 June, 2020 09:51 PM

I'm glad there are so many women who want to expose themselves for my free viewing pleasure.

With that said, I'd never date much less marry someone who posed naked for any reason. Even when a woman I'm interested in sends nudes to just me, I immediately downgrade her to plate status.

As much as I appreciate a good body, a woman exposing herself indicates attention-whoring, insecurity, bad judgment, poor impulse control, and/or moral depravity, traits I don't want in a LTR and the potential mother of my children.

MyronD420 • 3 points • 29 June, 2020 11:21 PM

Women don't think that women can make adult decisions and be held accountable for those decisions. It's funny watching so many women make the excuse that someone else was somehow responsible for their actions and choices.

Giving evidence of the feminist lie.

the ironic thing was he was doing nothing but giving her praise.

Chekawante • 18 points • 29 June, 2020 06:43 PM

It's not that they can't make adult decisions (as they say) it's that they are making those decisions under the influence of the patriarchy so those bad decisions that they made in the past, weren't really made by them

I find this to be a lame excuse. One could blame every bad aspect of one's life on society but where does that get you?

IterMercator • 5 points • 29 June, 2020 11:38 PM

One could blame every bad aspect of one's life on society but where does that get you?

For men? nowhere. For women? The social safety net means that you can still probably find a decent/rich beta-bucks husband and/or a mountain of simps to sit on.

The problem is that this mindset doesn't just come from anywhere, it's from a lifetime of always given a pass instead of having consequences for their actions. The problem also is that it isn't going anywhere as well so as a man the only you can do is work beyond it, and pull up your bootstraps, since life isn't going to give you the same safety net

For the most part women pretty much get a pass for doing any wrong, not exactly rocket science how the mindset that they aren't accountable and will do anything that remove their accountability. Besides it's pretty much a survival instinct since a clean history makes them look more pristine for mates, it's only recently that feminism has allowed them to gaslight society into believing they can act and be complete sluts (as per their freedom to do so, aka their cake), then shake of any responsibility and accountability for doing so (since pointing it out makes you a misogynist, aka eating it as well)

eeehshure • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 08:42 PM

I saw the petition and it stated that she got paid 12k in total for all her videos, i mean holy shit. What a fucking skank. How the fuck are you going to throw your whole life in the trash for 12k fucking dollars. She got fucked hard arakouzo • 61 points • 29 June, 2020 04:54 PM

The bigger story here is about women and their tactics.

Petitions don't mean anything. What legally controls this situation is what she signed and agreed to. Porn sites can tell her no and wave the contract in her face, and maybe she can sue but she'll probably lose.

But women, especially famous women, consider themselves above their word, binding legal agreements, and stuff like that. If something pesky like a legally binding contract is annoying them, they will simply stir up the shit and destroy you in the court of public opinion. They will become a big enough pain your butt and encourage others to be a big enough pain in your butt that just giving them their way is easier than dealing with the pain in the butt.

vicious_armbar • 16 points • 29 June, 2020 07:00 PM

But women... consider themselves above their word, binding legal agreements, and stuff like that. If something pesky like a legally binding contract is annoying them, they will simply stir up the shit

Any man who has a parenting agreement with a woman he is no longer with knows how true this is. Of course I blame the woman. But more importantly I blame the dysfunctional legal and law enforcement system that enables them.

Warren_Bateman • 6 points • 30 June, 2020 05:29 AM

This is the Taylor swift “controversy” in a different flavor. Not an important piece of information to know, but the gist is: a record label bought her contract and she started a social media campaign to pressure the label into releasing her.

The court of public opinion is toxic and it’s being weaponized into a WMD.

glitterydick • 18 points • 29 June, 2020 05:56 PM

Lets take a moment to re-contextualize things. Imagine there is an artist who gets paid to paint self-portraits of herself. some of those self-portraits are in museums, some are plastered across billboards, and some are in people's private collections. For her work, she is fairly compensated. After a change in artistic style, our now-famous artist decides that she wants all of her previously created works to be returned to her, removed, or otherwise destroyed.

Under what circumstances would this ever be considered a reasonable request?

Thelminator • 9 points • 29 June, 2020 09:38 PM

HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAhahahahahaha. Man people are so delusional and self centered.

Even if this went through and they deleted every single one of her videos off the site, people are just going to upload more. Not even mentioning the fact that you put yourself out there with it being no secret that other people were going to be watching.

DirtyLickins • 10 points • 29 June, 2020 06:42 PM

At first, they're so sex-positive and feel no shame in being a porn-star, but rather boast about it, and then suddenly they feel ashamed of their pasts. How can these two mindsets even exist together? It means you're either very fickle, or you were completely lying.

StarchRunner • 5 points • 1 July, 2020 04:18 PM

When she finds out the sex positive crowd isn't going to be so keen on taking care of her once her looks and youth are spent.

CrustyCumBollocks • 4 points • 29 June, 2020 08:07 PM

They don't exist together... They come in steps.

Step 1. Sexual liberation

Then a few years later when they want to settle down and start a family etc...

Step 2. Disgust and shame anonlmouse • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 07:31 PM

Feminism has brainwashed a lot of people. A lot of incels are incels because they fell for the feminist line. And sluts are sluts for the same reason, but it manifests differently.

[deleted] • 29 points • 29 June, 2020 04:55 PM

She regrets that she isn't as hot as she used to be and gets far less attention so lets pay her even less now redditthrowaway1478 • 26 points • 29 June, 2020 11:27 PM*

Nah, she doesn't "regret" anything.

She knows exactly what she's doing. She's branch swinging from her porn daddy to the next provider - social media. She used her body to elevate her own station in life, and now that she doesn't need porn to be relevant, she views it as a liability and wants to strike it from her record so that she can expand her brand into markets that are more "advertiser friendly" (whatever that means nowadays). She's engineered publicity stunts to increase her clout before, and she will do it again.

This is nothing more than just another power grab for her.

Dyalibya • 11 points • 29 June, 2020 07:07 PM

She can buy the rights to them if she really wanted to remove them, but she won't do that, she already got paid to shoot those videos and she has no right to remove them

NK305 • 10 points • 30 June, 2020 01:05 AM

Honestly I've never liked her. Her porn was boring/ impossible to jerk to.

Sucks for her that pornhub is not the only place that has her videos lmao. Also bangbros still owns them and still profit from them. That hoe is delusional and it's all because of the fucking simps

hir0k1 • 9 points • 29 June, 2020 05:10 PM

WeddingCrasher91 • 10 points • 29 June, 2020 09:44 PM

cglehosit • 4 points • 29 June, 2020 10:08 PM

Exactly, he's trying to take her off the market completely

kkikuyu • 20 points • 29 June, 2020 07:07 PM

She's a typical woman. She takes ZERO responsibility or agency for her indiscretions and bad choices, yet takes credit for all her successes. She used to be all proud years ago. Now, since she's infamous, her dumb (yet really physically attractive) Nordic husband probably feels a lot of heat for being with her so she's lashing out to make him feel better about her past. It's extremely likely she's make money off other forms of sex work such as escorting.

Women who do porn have an average of only 1-2 videos for their entire career. That's the shocking part. But they all typically do escort work since it's like a brochure or pamphlet on the internet. America has 12M millionaires and innumerable rich men who pay pornstars for sex.

Being a pornstar changes a cheap $100 or so per hour escort job to potentially $1,000s.

To reiterate, she most likely made a huge sum of money off fucking men who inquired for her based on her infamy and work in porn. Don't let her fool you with her "B-b-but I only made $12K over 3 months and I was only 21" sob story.

Disclaimer: I'm not saying she deserves to be sexually harassed or assaulted.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 7 points • 29 June, 2020 07:28 PM

Wow that's really interesting, can I ask where you found this out or if you have any more information on it?

I can totally believe it because it sounds weird that she "only did it for 3 months for $12k" but also has lived a multi-million dollar lifestyle every day since her videos blew up.

kkikuyu • 3 points • 29 June, 2020 07:51 PM

She got other gigs in the entertainment industry later on, I'll definitely admit that. She was a presenter believe it or not. She was also hitting up a black football athlete which she was exposed for but it wasn't for cash. But you'd have to look at her career. If you see her spending all that cash without being a sports presenter and before she did anything else publicly, then yeah. She was tricking.

Ur_X • 6 points • 29 June, 2020 06:34 PM

This is some bullllshit. Her own decisions, her own path. Now she wants it deleted like it didn't happen and people are actually behind it? I'm sure 50% of those sign ups are people that jerked off to her at some point.

The hypocrisy and double standard in this world is just... Wow.

TXJohn83 • 13 points • 29 June, 2020 04:52 PM

She use to post her stuff to reddit if anyone wants to dig those up.

fall0ut • 27 points • 29 June, 2020 05:10 PM

Seems more like a business move to me. Why would anyone purchase her new softcore stuff when they can watch the hardcore stuff for free?

Just the other day in an ama, a porn director said the biggest problem in porn right now is piracy.

Also what is your point about girls wanting to slut up their 20's? Dudes what to slut up their 20's as well. Dudes in their thirties don't want to be reminded of the stupid slut decisions they made in their 20's either.

MoDuReddit • 24 points • 29 June, 2020 05:37 PM

Dudes don't try convince others that they're pure after doing porn for easy money.

fall0ut • 14 points • 29 June, 2020 07:28 PM

That's because dudes don't have the opportunity to make easy money by doing porn. If we did, we would certainly do it as well. I know of at least 1 guy friend of mine that looked into making an onlyfans account when he was laid off due to covid.

The point you missed is regardless of their past, no one wants to be reminded about the dumb things they did when they were younger. You might not have done porn, but there is certainly something you did. If there was a constant reminder off it out there, what would you do to have it removed?

anonymouse • 3 points • 30 June, 2020 07:27 PM

Under normal circumstances I'd agree. But Mia Khalifa's brand is that she was a porn star. If she hadn't done porn, nobody would know - or care - who she is.

It would be kind of like if Bill Gates wanted to get every copy of MS-DOS that's on abandonware sites taken down, now that he's a philanthropist.

MoDuReddit • 4 points • 29 June, 2020 08:20 PM

Fair points regarding sexism. Then what do you want removed? The internet is read/write only, there is no delete. Is she being barred access to work/services because of her bad choices? No, she's still capitalizing on it.

I'm sure the real story is more nuanced and may involve license violations and legitimate claims, but from a blunt perspective, it's just a whore who's regretting being a whore after cashing in.

Adult bullying is not the cause as peers already would have made these snarky remarks throughout adolescence.

This behavior is why people grow up toxic and resentful.

WTF people. Is this what we encourage here? Ripping an individual apart instead of building an independent standalone confident individual.

Jesus. A how to guide to create a blue pill

I was thinking about this when I looked at her snapchat, and the conclusion I came up with is shes trying to make her content scarce so that she can join the revolution of chicks who are now selling their content , onylfans and other sites. I believe hers is ntwk.com or something ..

Either way, it's her content n I dont see a reason for her or anyone to want to take their own stuff off the internet

DeakinFrost • 3 points • 30 June, 2020 03:11 AM

It's because she is watching all these thots on onlyfans make more than her without getting naked and maintaining their cuckold relationships

she wants to erase her past porn videos so people don't bypass her paywall and go to the endless amounts of free X Rated Hardcore Porn scenes available for free that she did voluntarily and got paid for, even screamed empowerment, ridiculed the Muslims that found it repulsive, used her Muslim image to gain traction

She'll accuse people of "using her" and "taking advantage" - ruining other peoples lives and businesses so she can secure another income source for doing the same thing, being sexually objectified

She hasn't changed

Women don't change

She's trying to get onto the new wave bandwagon of selling porn and keeping ALL the money

I promise, its female jealousy and envy of this new wave of onlyfans amateur sluts

I'd even go as far as adding the massive hoards of these ridiculous faceless / headless porn videos where sluts with SMV's of 8 9 and 10 make porn, get paid, and keep their faces and heads and ID's out of it, so they get the best of both worlds, use their body, make porn, and not have it affect their personal lives and orbiters and simps providing for them. (and for the record, I despise that new trend, I can't believe dudes can get off to not even seeing facial expressions or hearing talk, chatter, watching orgasms, I'm blown away thats profitable, they just let em have everything - not even doing porn changes their reputations anymore - fucked up)

They get away with everything, pussy pass united jawnzoo • 7 points • 29 June, 2020 05:06 PM

I recommend avoiding women who want to be considered adults, and to be able to make adult choices, but also want to avoid responsibility for the consequences of those choices.

A good litmus test for these women (assuming you are considering her as something other than a fucktoy, in which case you don't care) is to see what she says about cases like this.

In reality, all of everyone's visible behaviour is judged, unceasingly, by everyone else. You cannot prevent them from doing so without mind control powers.

manofbadadvice • 2 points • 2 July, 2020 03:32 PM

I never watched her videos. I kinda don't care.

TheGweatandTewwible • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 07:54 PM

It isn't all black and white. On one hand, Mia definitely made the choice for herself and is reaping the rewards of recording her slut phase. On the other hand, there's no doubt in my mind some sleazy directors could have sweet talked her into porn. It doesn't help that young girls are pretty dumb and naïve so you get a pretty sad story overall.

But as always, it's a perfect story of women not realizing feminism means they'll be held accountable for their stupid decisions.

Mr_Mandingo93 • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 03:47 AM

But their not actually held accountable.

TheGweatandTewwible • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 06:46 AM

I was being tongue in cheek. The idea of true equality would be that they are held accountable but obviously they're not

Cientocincuenta • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 09:58 PM

That whole industry is a dumpster fire. I'm not saying people aren't responsible for their decisions, but they specifically prey on mentally unstable young people. They give access to the hardest porn to any 7 yo kid with a smart phone. Damn, it's easier to get porn than to read the new york times page. They've found verified profiles on pornhub of sex trafficked underage girls. And even here, reddit bans fringe political subs, but lets literally hundreds of "gone wild" profiles and subs. You just upload that content, there isn't a system to validate the age of the girls involved.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 10:31 PM

Do you have any articles that show that verified profiles on pornhub were sex trafficked underage girls? I thought that would've been a massive news story.

Cientocincuenta • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 11:09 PM

<https://humanevents.com/2020/03/01/pornhub-verified-child-sex-trafficking/>

I've looked videos there before, and in the vintage videos there were actual Traci Lords videos (at least thumbs) in the searches (she famously was between 15 and 17 when she recorded her porn videos in the 80's) (I'm in no fap since 2018, so can't say they're on now, but it wouldn't surprise me, and I ain't gonna look for them)

imabadasstrustme[S] • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 02:49 AM

Wow thank you for posting this. Yeah I've recently decided to give up pornography for personal reasons but hearing this really reaffirms what I think all of us knew. How disgustingly exploitive the sex industry is. Like Rashida Jones made a Netflix documentary about the porn industry and how much it takes advantage of women and it was rated horribly and panned by users. People don't want to be attacked for what they're addicted to using, no matter how "immoral" it is.

Being self aware, if I hadn't already started the process of giving up porn I might have been a lot more defensive of that article and either denied it, ignored it or tried to rationalize it.

blackdowney • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 04:54 PM

I'm gonna play devils advocate and say its her right to be able to remove her image wherever possible (not that its going to be at all feasible). Nobody is going to realistically forget her because she flew so close to the sun.
She might be doing this because her old career is siphoning money out of her current one who knows who cares

imabadasstrustme[S] • 11 points • 29 June, 2020 05:02 PM*

I appreciate you going against the grain and having a different opinion. I think my disagreement is that her new career is the same as her old career, she is an extremely sexual model/influencer who profits off her body.

Her reasoning for getting that removed is because those videos don't reflect who she is... When that's exactly who she is and the entire reason for her career. I think she wants to be seen as these new age respectable influencers that will show skin and constantly post their body pictures, but aren't labeled as "sluts" for doing porn.

mrxf5 • 1 point • 1 July, 2020 02:58 PM

I think if you want to change as a person, you should be allowed to. To me she grew up and is embarrassed of her past choices and wants to restart. That doesn't mean she can have that, but she can try to move past that and get rid of it. It seems like she wants to settle down for sure, and maybe she worries about children googling her or something.

blackdowney • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 05:24 PM

Eh, nobody is the same person forever. She should be owning it, so of course this move is seen as a typical hypergamous girl aGodofmyownmaking • 3 points • 29 June, 2020 05:00 PM

I do like the "right to be forgotten" concept, if you want to pull your internet data. But maybe not after you chose to be a public figure, which she did. Anyway, its completely unfeasible, everyone will just save all the videos of her that they can and just keep reposting everywhere lol.

n0oo7 • 3 points • 29 June, 2020 05:15 PM

She has 100% of the right to remove her image from public sources such as facebook, instagram, etc.

But to take down a media production after it's been produced, No. Those are two different things, This is like James Spader suddenly not wanting to be remembered for his role in the Black List, or in Boston legal, and thus petitioning to have the entire series taken down. Those porn videos are the work of producers, talent, video editing and audio and light engineers and thus are way more than this single lady. She can play victim all she wanted but at the end of the day she signed a contract and thus that footage of her doesn't belong to her anymore.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 05:18 PM

Exactly. Also its an asset that someone owns. It would be like the contractor who built your house coming to you and telling you he needs you to destroy your house because he made it and it no longer represents him. It's like yeah well I own it now... and you were happy when you sold it to me... You don't have the rights to something after you sell them. That's basic property rights.

mr4kino • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 05:08 PM

Her rights... in the case, the contract(s) she signed stipulates she has the right to remove her image after "x years" of ending her career. I don't believe it's the case.

IvanDrago2k • 2 points • 29 June, 2020 05:08 PM

I do think you're right about " her old career is siphoning money out of her current one" from the standpoint of people being able to see her gang banged by a bunch of dudes absolutely free and not having to go through her patreon to pay for lingerie pics.

Losingsteamfast • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 05:16 PM

Does an actor get to retroactively pull their shows and movies? Does an engineer get to recall products that they've already sold? Does an athlete get to demand the NFL clips of him playing poorly?

She consented and was paid for the videos. It sucks and I feel for her, but she sold her rights to her likeness.

BlvckIntellect7 • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 05:04 PM

custoscustodis • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 07:42 PM*

I can see where she is coming from, but those videos have been downloaded to thousands if not millions of hard drives across the world. They'll get removed from Pornhub but appear on XVideos or even some random tube site the next day. Full videos will be shared P2P.

As they say, don't upload anything to the Internet that you don't want the whole world to see, or to be seen forever.

hakeem15 • 1 point • 29 June, 2020 09:30 PM

They should make a deal for her to buy back the videos (for millions of dollars). I don't believe they should be forced to take them down, but I would like to believe that in the future we'd live in a world where someone could buy back their virtual content from the production company. Of course people will have pirated versions of it but that's a different conversation. I get the analogy of an actor wanting their movies taken down from streaming platforms, but if we're being honest this isn't the same thing. I'll take my downvotes now lol

How fucking entitled do you have to be to think that just because you regret a decision that YOU made yourself, you have the right to have it erased from existence? Nope, not gonna happen. I might just rub one out to one of her videos just for the hell of it. Dumb bitch.

ebaymasochist • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 02:28 AM

Her situation is completely different, of course, can't be said enough.. but pornhub knew they had videos of a 14 year old girl being raped by multiple men on their website for at least several months and did nothing about it. She had to get legal help or pose as a lawyer to have them removed. It wasn't the only time when minors were trafficked or kidnapped and end up on the site. Because pornhub does almost nothing to verify the millions of videos on their platforms. So guess what guys, there is a chance * you have watched child porn without knowing it if you go on these sites. There is almost no chance that little Asian chick in some dirty hotel room with the 50 year old man has any identity.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 02:45 AM

That's honestly so disgusting. Another reason to give up the addiction of pornography.

I have recently decided to stop watching porn, mostly for personal reasons because as I've gotten older I realized I was enjoying sex less and was getting desensitized by porn. It got to a point that had to make it kinkier or even imagine things in my head just to enjoy sex the same.

But In less than a week of stopping to watch porn sex is SOOO much better and I feel like I'm actually connecting with her. It's so much hotter actually being into the girl's body and getting turned on just my girl's breasts.

While the moral argument is strong and most decent guys should be disgusted, half the guys on here frequent prostitutes that very often are sex slaves or trafficked women. Obviously depends on where you are and how much you pay, but I doubt the average guy is shelling out for proper escorts and is more likely getting the cheapest service he can.

I posted on here a few years ago how bad prostitutes can be and got massive backlash from defensive guys who frequented them. Made me realize how little integrity that average guy is / how ruled their morals are by the wills of their dick.

ebaymasochist • 1 point • 1 July, 2020 05:56 AM

But In less than a week of stopping to watch porn sex is SOOO much better and I feel like I'm actually connecting with her. It's so much hotter actually being into the girl's body and getting turned on just my girl's breasts.

I went a week without porn or jerking off and the first night after that I had sex four times. It definitely makes a difference.

[deleted] • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 02:40 AM

Or actually writing about this shit? There are 1.1 mil white knights wasting their time on this, and 1.1k so called 'Alpha Red Pill' men wasting as much time CONSUMING this story, talking about her on the internet and how bad it all is.

Replying to this shit in support of OP might make you feel, for a brief second, you're better than those whiteknights, but may as well fire up pornhub and search her out and fap, cuz all the guys here ain't much better.

imabadasstrustme[S] • 2 points • 30 June, 2020 03:35 AM

What's worse? 1.1 Mil white knights wasting their time on this, 1.1k so called RP men wasting time on this, or 1.1 /u/INNASKILLZ2K18 wasting his energy writing a comment on this?

Replying to these other comments in support of your own opinion (on how bad comments are) might make you feel, for a brief second, like you're better than all those other commenters but you may as well be going through /u/GayLubeOil's comment history and paying for his coaching cuz the guy here ain't much better.

GayLubeOil • 4 points • 30 June, 2020 05:39 AM

The most useful thing I got from Red Pill is a place to develop my writing. Regardless of what happens to this place my writing talent isn't going anywhere and it's a useful marketable skill.

In fact arguing with dudes back and forth here is useful. It's more Intellectually stimulating than most of what goes on in university.

Sometimes after a particularly long and drawn out argument I just Skype the guy and the conversations usually end up pretty interesting.

yourgirlfriendsdad • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 04:36 AM

Honestly, I like sluts more. Much cooler girls, good sex often. What's the issue with sluts again?

imabadasstrustme[S] • 2 points • 30 June, 2020 04:59 AM

Used to think that, like girls who have previous partners are better in bed and more open than a virgin.

but then I dated a few virgins and some of them were a lot BETTER in bed than girls with a history. Like they were just as hot and good at positions than "sluts".

At at this point, I think it's a crapshoot and completely random in terms of how good a girl is in bed. So I would obviously prefer less partners but it's not a big deal if it's a normal amount. I have never been with a girl with TONS of partners or a pornstar so I can't really speak to how I'd feel about that.

yourgirlfriendsdad • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 01:21 PM

For sure, they offer different things sexually and often less experience is better, I just meant slut are good in comparison. I've been dating a stripper and I realized the disgust for a high body count, besides health, is really just an ego thing. It seems sort of blue pill to me to be anti slut because as redpillers were suppose to be unplugged and deal with women as they are. Early on we're all shocked at how promiscuous we didn't know they are. The disgust for sluts comes from the same place as a lot of blue pill frustrations we're trying to unplug from imo.

lol you couldn't be more right!! I fell in a youtube rabbit hole from the comments here and stumbled on this video , where she straight-up admits she started doing porn for the "validation and male attention."

Turns out homegirl used to be a fatty and after losing 50 lbs and getting a boob job, suddenly men wanted something to do with her! Shocking.

She actually basked in the attention, rode the CC in the most literal way possible, and now flips out over mention of her ~~career~~ three-month fling.

TheGrandTrinket • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 04:50 PM

Badly written post but I get what you mean. She gave consent to the relevant parties to have her porn videos up.

Ash_thearcher • 1 point • 30 June, 2020 07:53 PM*

Her trying to get her videos deleted and erase the past and have people treat her like she never did porn is what's ridiculous.

Imagine how much people would like her and respect her if she simply just owned her shit. "Yeah, I did porn in the past. But that's not my life, I have a real career now and I have moved on, and everyone else should move on too. Honestly girls, never do porn. It was terrible and they exploit you and it hurts your reputation. I did porn in the past, but guess what? get over it. It's done and I've moved on to bigger and better things."

People would respect her more if she owned her situation with a little humility and humor instead of acting like an entitled brat yelling at anyone who mentions her past. She was #1 in the world at one point for God sakes! Some people would think that's fucking awesome! Take it with some humor and own your shit.

I'm not sure just how old you are but the slut phase these days doesn't end when they reach their 30's or even 40's.

Haven't you heard them validate their slut behavior with "the 40's are the new 20's"?

The slut behavior continues, sometimes for life. The key here is that in their younger years is more revealing. Careless. A woman entering her 30's or 40's tends to start getting a bit more discrete and experienced in terms of covering that side. But it's there and will be there. This time in their lives is prime. Which is when any slut who went wild in her younger years happens to catch a good men with a career and high morals. At the same time, everyone wonders....."How did she do it?"

In other words, the political left wants to censor stuff on the internet, and found an attention-hungry "celebrity" to push her agenda. What's in it for Mia? Free publicity. Don't get distracted by the details, agreeing to delete her videos would mean forcing companies to destroy their property or face huge fines.

Women lie an obfuscate the truth - is this really news or postworthy?

Also why do you care so much? Is this post actually achieving anything? Don't think so.

They should ban porn and arrest pornographers, so I have mixed feelings on this one.

but yeah, cringey as fuck she has 1 million guys going "now she's gonna sleep with me"
