How feminism erases men

"Although consideration of male victims is within the scope of the legal statutes, it is important to restrict the term rape to instances where male victims were penetrated by offenders. It is inappropriate to consider as a rape victim a man who engages in unwanted sexual intercourse with a woman."

- Mary P. Koss, Detecting the Scope of Rape: A Review of Prevalence Research Methods (1993)

Mary Koss is one of the most prominent feminist researchers in the field of sexual violence. Her "1 in 4 college women will be raped" paper is arguably the best known sexual violence study ever conducted in the United States. She is frequently cited by government agencies and has served as an expert adviser to the CDC regarding sexual violence.

Happy for them to change the definition of rape to not include a man who has unwanted sex with a women. As long as they also change it to not include a women having unwanted sex with a man.

There is no difference.

Feminism was never once about equality and was always the terrible movement you see today. Using the same underhanded, bullshit tactics and lies. Past feminism still shamed men like giving feathers to men that didn't go off to war and a multitude of other similar shaming tactics to ones used today. They also could have given less of a shit about poor woman, minority women and female slaves. Or poor men and male slaves for that matter, And a bit father in the future it could have given less of a crap about civil rights. Women got the vote before many men and slaves did; and they were more than content with it staying that way.; without lifting any finger to help during slavery, Jim Crow etc. Feminism was never about equality and always power when it suited a few privileged complaining women and anyone else with problems didn't matter. It always was a push for power under the guise of equality for a few people playing victim Olympics. Especially at a time where life was terrible for other people they ignored/everyone. It was always the terrible movement you see today
