Like its bad all around , and I'm a feminist . Like I wouldn't want my fiancé to wear that near any of my young male cousins or my brother. The future should be for everyone , not just women .

Feminism is in a mess right now, it went from the girl power feminism which I could get on board with to this oppression olympics/ grievance/ victimhood feminism... but with this weird mix of women are wonderful effect and female supremacy.

Anyway, lol if your a feminist then this isn't the most constructive place to be cos its going to be all inflammatory posts... check out femrasdebate - its a good place people actually have civil debates. You cant see likes counter and I think thats helps make it less tribal, people are trying to discuss stuff. Plus it needs more feminists there. I'll be honest with you, feminists on reddit are not used to actually debating issues, as the Reddits are an echo chamber with mods deleting stuff left, right and centre.

I actually like this subreddit , because I can discuss in a civil manner and be heard without the loud feminazis bugging me . And I want to try to restore faith in the good ones like me and show guys that we support them as well Edit . And besides the ones like me want to actually want to raise awareness to men's problems as well. Just because I may have dyed hair and say I'm feminist doesn't mean I hate men , or want them dead . And tbh I really can't stand those subreddits because if I disagree with them I'm automatically labeled as a sexist p.o.s and probably get banned .
