They're all assuming all men want is sex and it's fucked up.

Is this toxic femininity?

Wow some of those women are gross. I would not have sex with some of them even if they begged me.

I feel bad for men who have said no to women but instead of being respectful to the men these feminists either lie and say the men raped them or ridicule them as gay I've only met women who understand that men can say no and are respectful to men and they get the respect handed right back so these women who have those idiotic views piss me off even more because I understand they don't represent women as a whole

I'm starting to believe that men too needs to have a « feminist » movement.

We always talk about inequality in regards to women but there's also some fucked up shit happening to men. This video is the perfect example. Or like that it's funny if a woman touches your ass however it's sexual harassment when reversed.
