↓ So, what you are saying is to report anything that doesn't fit your narrative? No open discussion allowed; no alternative viewpoints? I'm a woman and all I see here is hatred toward all men. I think of my husband, my father, grandfather, brother in law, male friends, etc...all men who would do anything for me and totally respect women. What about men like this? Are they monsters too? I'm out here trying to understand your viewpoint but all I see is hatred. This is not how you fight for something. This is how you lose respect. It's counterproductive.

This is a perfect example of the type of comment that can and should be reported.

Do these people really not see the irony in what they are saying?

Is it a deliberate attempt to quash all information that does not fit their confirmation bias? Or are they really that stupid that they think someone asking questions should be banned?

So much for feminism being for women.

Hahahahaha No wonder the term “feminism” is becoming a source of discomfort for everyone.
