We're too busy playing Battleships, thanks.

Or perhaps they're down a mine somewhere, working hard to put food on table, or maybe on a battlefield getting shot at to defend their wives and daughter's freedoms and way of life.

Selfish, lazy men.

Seems a little OT. Most men aren't doing anything heroic most of the time. In my experience little boys are quite keen on cooking so long as they're not ridiculed for it.

My response is in the spirit of the post's content - a very one dimensional counter example to a very one-dimensional implied criticism of men.

Though otherwise I entirely agree, many men enjoy cooking and I can't see anyone ridiculing a man for doing so.

Sometimes the girls would take the presence of a male in the home ec class to assert their gender superiority.

My wife likes cooking and likes that I don't bother her either.

Pfft I'd prefer if she isn't in my kitchen at all.

Just told my 5 year old daughter to go out to the shed and chop a cord of firewood so we don't freeze. She seems to be taking her time the lazy bitch.

They helped by having employment and paying for everything you use on a daily basis, you stupid leech.

I have actually seen parents do this and yeah it is kind of crappy that they allow some of their kids to be lazy when the others have to do work. It teaches responsibility. But yeah, instead of complaining about it, tell them to get their butt over there.

Funny that were out doing the real work.

Just because the men are not in the kitchen doesn't mean they're not doing anything useful you moron.

Ok here's a better one since you asked so nicely: do you suck your mom's dick with that mouth?
