Fixed it

Amen to that, as men we just don't give a shit. Infact most of the things that these feminists think are important we just don't give a shit about. It's not toxicity that's our problem it's apathy.

Slut means promiscuous liar. If she's a slut - she's going through a lot of men and if she's complaining like that, then her perspective is that all men are doing the same - aka she's projecting a portion of men onto everyone. Guys do care, because it's a sign of disloyalty, infantility, warped standards, health issues... especially if he wants something long-term. And if she lies about it, then she's more likely than not - a cheater.

Complaining about men denying women or male standards is the same incel logic in reverse.

Some would go for an "open relationship", but in reality they're just using the guy as an emotional/financial pillow.

Yeah because men get virgin-shamed / incel-shamed instead of slut-shamed. Men and women are not equal. There are a lot of differences.

Once someone called me gay because I didn't have a GF and I said “Well at least I get laid, and a hole is a hole” then they looked at me and said “You’re lying, right” and I gone into gay mode and said “Only one way to find out, baby boy” I have never seen someone run so fast

It’s never the men that slut-shame either. As a woman I can safely say that no man has ever insulted me on my sexual history, most of that shaming comes from other women.

It's the women that brag that they pick who they have sex with.

I've never understood why these feminists don't come up with their own standards for men instead of complaining that men have.

And yes some men would fall under the man-ho/slut category.

I think we do need to stop slut shaming women. The world needs more sluts to open thier legs.

"It's never the women who get their lives, families, and social reputation ruined because of a biased court system."
